A

PARAPHRASE

Upon the

EPISTLES

TO THE

Right Reverend Father in GOD,

GILBERT,

Lord Biſhop of SALISBURY,

Chancellor of the moſt Noble Order of the GARTER,

AND

Præceptor to his Highneſs the Duke of Gloceſter.

MY LORD,

THough ſince I had the Happineſs to be admitted to an Acquaintance with a Perſon of your Character and Merit, and have had a large ſhare of your Favour, I have had Obligations to make ſome publick Acknowledgment of it; yet had I never ſo fair an Opportunity to do it as this Work, which now craves your Lordſhip's Acceptance, doth afford.

For, ſuch a particular Veneration and profound Affection for the ſacred Records as your Lordſhip, upon all occaſions, ſhews, may not only render this Attempt, to add ſome Light unto them, acceptable, but even cover the Imperfections that you muſt needs diſcover in it.

Since therefore it is cuſtomary to dedicate Works of this nature to Perſons of great Eminence in Station and more raiſed Worth, I thought my ſelf obliged to ſet forth theſe Labours under your Lordſhip's Patronage, not only to expreſs my Gratitude, but alſo out of Juſtice to that Goodneſs which mov'd your Lordship not only to peruse, but to approve this Work, and to suggest many things, which otherwise would have been wanting to it.

I am here carried to say somewhat of the Pattern you set us in an unwearied Diligence in the Discharge of your high Function; but I know you cannot bear it, and that you had much rather see your Clergy imitate you in this, than hear them commend you for it. I will therefore rather study from your Example, how to do my own Duty, than publish to the World how you do yours.

That God would still continue your good Lordship as great a Blessing as you are an Honour to our Church, and give you a sure but late enjoyment of those celestial Blessings to which your Soul, by its devout Affections, and indefatigable Labours still aspires, is the continual Prayer of,

My LORD,

Your Lordship's most obliged,
most humble, and obedient Servant,

DANIEL WHITBY.

THE PREFACE TO THE READER.

BY way of Preface to this Work, ſome things there be of which I think fit to advertiſe the Reader, and ſome things in which I ſhall beg his favour. And,

Firſt, Becauſe it may be uſeful to read the Epiſtles of St. Paul not in the order in which they are placed in our Bibles, but rather in that order of time in which they were written, I here think fit to place them according to that order, following the Chronology of Biſhop Pearſon.

A. D. 52. The firſt Epiſtle to the Theſſalonians.

A. D. 53. The ſecond Epiſtle to the Theſſalonians.

A. D. 57.
- The firſt Epiſtle to the Corinthians.
- The Epiſtle to the Galatians.
- The ſecond Epiſtle to the Corinthians.
- The Epiſtle to the Romans.

A. D. 62.
- The Epiſtle to the Epheſians.
- The Epiſtle to the Philippians.
- The Epiſtle to the Coloſſians.
- The Epiſtle to Philemon.

A. D. 63. The Epiſtle to the Hebrews.

A. D. 65.
- The firſt Epiſtle to Timothy.
- The Epiſtle to Titus.

A. D. 67. The ſecond Epiſtle to Timothy.

I have in the Prefaces to theſe Epiſtles given the Reaſons why I place the writing of them about the time aſſigned, only of the time of writing the Epiſtle to the Galatians I have there ſaid nothing: I therefore here ſubjoin the Reaſon why it is placed in the ſame Year with the firſt Epiſtle to the Corinthians, viz. becauſe St. Paul, in his firſt coming to Galatia, converts them to the Chriſtian Faith, Act. 16. 6. at his ſecond Advent, he ſtrengthens the Brethren there, Act. 18. 23. and in his Epiſtle to them, he marvels that they were ſo ſoon removed from him that called them to another Goſpel, Goſpel, Chap. 1. 6. it therefore could not be written long after he had been with them to ſtrengthen them, which yet was before he had begun his three Years abode at Epheſus, Act. 19. 1. 31. at the very cloſe of which the firſt Epiſtle to the Corinthians is ſuppoſed to have been written.

I deſire the Reader to take an eſtimate of the true date of theſe Epiſtles, not from what may have ſlipt from me by the by in a Note, and hath been overlook'd in the review of my Papers, but from what is here ſet down, and is confirmed in the Prefaces to theſe Epiſtles.

The Uſe that may be made of obſerving this order I ſhall exemplifie in two Inſtances; of which the 1ſt, Is that of Demas, concerning whom Dr. Lightfoot, Harm. p. 137. Beza, Eſthius, and others, ſay, that though he left St. Paul for a ſeaſon, yet after he returned to him: Becauſe, ſay they, in two Epiſtles written after that to Timothy, in which he is ſaid to have forſaken him, having loved this preſent world, 2 Tim. 4. 10. he is reckoned among the Co-workers with St. Paul, viz. Col. 4. 14. Philem. 24. but I have deſtroyed the foundation of this Argument, by eſtabliſhing the opinion of the Ancients, that the 2*d* Epiſtle to Timothy was the laſt that St. Paul writ; and therefore the opinion of Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, OEcumenius and Theophylact, that he did μὴ ταῦτα ῥαθυμῆσαι afterwards become ſlothful, and, ſaith OEcumenius, returned again πρὸς ἑλληνισμὸν to Heatheniſm, is the more probable.

The 2*d* relates to that Opinion of Grotius, that St. Paul ſpake, for a time, as if he had believed that the day of Judgment might happen in his time, and that this is proved from, 1 Cor. 15. 53. 2 Cor. 5. 1, 2, 3. Whereas in his ſecond Epiſtle to the Theſſalonians, writ four Years before thoſe to the Corinthians, he ſaith what is ſufficient to ſhew he could not be of that opinion, or have declared any thing of that nature, and therefore could not afterwards ſay any thing to that purpoſe. See the Note on 1 Theſſ. 4. 17.

Secondly, I did intend to have examined all the various Readings which have ſo been induſtriouſly collected by Dr. Mills, as far as they concerned theſe Epiſtles, reducing them under theſe two Heads.

1ſt, Such as, though they ſhould be granted to be various Readings, are yet of no concern as to any matter of our Faith or Practice, under which Head I think the greateſt part of them may be ſafely ranked.

2*dly*, Such as though ſome manuſcript Copies may have varied in tranſcribing the ſacred Records, yet have we ſufficient Reaſon to believe the reading we retain is genuine, and ſutable to the original Copies. Now this ſufficient Reaſon will ariſe from theſe Conſiderations;

1. When all the Ancient Scholiaſts or Commentators, St. Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, St. Jerom, OEcumenius, Theophylact, agree in the common Reading with us, no various Reading being obſerved either by them, or any of the Ancients who have writ before them; I think we have ſufficient reaſon to retain the common Reading, whatever Manuſcripts may have varied from it. See an Inſtance of this Rule, 1 Tim. 3. 16.

2. When all the ancient Verſions, the Syriack, Arabick, and Vulgar, do accord with us in the common Reading, and no Ancients obſerve that there was any other Reading; I think we have ſufficient Reaſon to retain that Reading, whatever Manuſcripts do vary from it. Of this ſee an Inſtance, Romans 9. 5. And,

3. Where the various Reading ſpoils the ſenſe of the Words, or is not well conſiſtent with the Context, there, I preſume, we have ſufficient Ground to reject it as the Errour of the Scribe, and not to look upon it as a Variation in the Original, or received Copies of the ſacred Text. See an Inſtance, Note on 1 Cor. 15. 51. Theſe Rules, I verily believe, will be ſufficient to reduce various Readings into a little compaſs.

And

And these Rules I would have exemplified at large, could I have procured a Copy of that learned Work, but being unable to obtain that favour, I must be content to leave that work undone till the time come, if ever it will come in my Days, that his Book may see the Light.

Thirdly, I advertise the Reader that this work hath been retarded by the Animadversions of Mr. le Clerk upon the Reverend and Learned Dr. Hammond; which having perused, I found so many things said in favour of the Arians, and so many unworthy Reflexions upon the Writings of St. Paul, that I chose rather to review and transcribe a considerable part of this Work, than suffer those things to pass without an Antidote. I acknowledge him to be a learned Person, and honour his Parts, and I hope he will not be offended with me for being concerned for what I Judge to be the Truth, and for the honour of St. Paul, who has been somewhat rudely handled by him.

Fourthly, That I have been so often forced to differ for the same Reverend Person he attacks sometimes so indecently, is to me matter of regret; but it hath truly been observed by others, that this great Man had two darling Opinions, viz. that the Heresie of the Gnosticks, and the destruction of Jerusalem, were the great things to which no little part of these Epistles had Relation; in which I have offer'd my Reasons why I dissent from him, retaining still a just Veneration for his Parts and Piety: And if God enable me to perfect my Notes upon the Gospels, I shall in them accord more with him.

Lastly, I advertise him that I have, as exactly as I could, made Indexes (1st) of all the Greek Words and Particles, (2dly) of all the Scripture Phrases explained, and (3dly,) of all the material Doctrines handled in these Annotations.

The things in which I beg the Readers favour are:

1st, That where he finds, or thinks, that I have erred either in point of Doctrine, or in the interpretation of the Scriptures, as doubtless in the latter I have sometimes done, he would be so kind as to let me know my Errours, which, upon conviction, I will not only own, but do it with all due Acknowledgements and Thankfulness to him who shall do that kind office to me.

2dly, That if in any thing I seem to him to differ from the received Doctrine of the Church of England, as some may haply conceive I do in the Annotations on the 5th Chapter to the Romans, he would do me the justice to believe, that as he thinks I do, so I conceive I do not, contradict her Doctrine; and also would consider that even the Church of Rome allows her Commentators to vary from the sense of any particular Scripture on which they build their Doctrines, provided they say nothing which doth expresly contradict them.

3dly, That if he should receive any advantage from this Work, especially if it should be so happy as to suggest to him any thing which may render him the better Man, he would give God the Glory of it, and pray for,

His Friend, and Servant,

Daniel Whitby.

THE

THE General PREFACE, CONCERNING The Divine Authority of these EPISTLES, and the Truth of Christian Faith.

CONTENTS.

The General Proposition, That the Apostles indited these Epistles by the Assistance of the Holy Ghost. This Proposition is explained by a Comparison of this Assistance with the Gift of Prophecy vouchsafed to the Pen-men of the Old Testament. §. I. How far this divine Assistance is asserted as to an Inspiration of Suggestion, and as to an Intendance of Direction. §. II. No slips of Memory, no determination of matters of Practice from Rules of Humane Prudence only without this direction, or intendance of the Holy Spirit, no Arguments that are unconclusive, must be admitted in these Writings. §. III. This divine Assistance is proved (1.) From what they do assert concerning their own Doctrines and Directions. §. IV. (2.) Of the Holy Ghost enabling them to indite them. And (3.) From our Saviour's Promise to send the Comforter to them, to teach them all things. §. V. (4.) From the End for which they were indited, viz. to be a standing Rule of Faith and Manners to Christians of all future Ages. §. VI. (5.) From the Testimony of the Christians of the first Ages, who still owned, and therefore received them as such. §. VII. Corollary, That what is delivered in these Epistles as necessary to be believed or done, must be as necessary to be believed and done, as what is contained in the Gospels: That there are some things necessary to be believed and done contained in these Epistles, which are not clearly delivered in the Holy Gospels. §. VIII. The Truth of Christian Religion proved, (1.) From what our Saviour promised, and undertook, and what the Apostles declared concerning the Gifts and Operations of the Holy Ghost. §. IX. (2.) From plain matter of Fact concerning this Effusion of the Holy Ghost, and his miraculous Gifts related in the Acts of the Apostles. §. X. (3.) From the like Assertions concerning them in the Epistles. §. XI. (4.) From the confident Appeals of the Apostles, and primitive Professors, to these Gifts, in their Contests and Debates with Friends and Adversaries, Believers and Rejecters of the Christian Faith. §. XII. (5.) From the Prayers and Thanksgivings made for them, the Exhortations and Directions given in these Epistles concerning these miraculous Gifts. §. XIII. (6.) From what is required to be done, and suffered by all Christians upon no other Enducements or Encouragements than what depended on the Truth and Certainty of those Gifts. §. XIV. That these Epistles were indited whilst the Apostles lived, and are proved genuine by more authentick Arguments than can be produced for any Book, Writing, Charter, Law, or Statute. The external Arguments to prove them genuine. §. XV. The internal Arguments. §. XVI. The Truth of Chriſtianity proved (7.) From a particular Conſideration of theſe Gifts: As (1.) The Gift of healing. §. XVII. (2.) Of ejecting Devils out of Men, their Temples, and their Oracles. §. XVIII. (3.) From the Gift of Tongues. §. XIX. (4.) Of Prophecy. §. XX. (5.) Of diſcerning Spirits. §. XXI. That theſe extraordinary Gifts were conferr'd upon all other Churches not mentioned in theſe Epiſtles. §. XXII. That they continued in the two firſt Ages of the Church. §. XXIII. What Engagements the Truth of Chriſtianity lays upon us to live ſutably to the Rules delivered in theſe Sacred Records. §. XXIV.

THAT the Things contain'd in theſe Epiſtles may have their due effect and influence upon us, I ſhall, as well as I am able, endeavour,

1. To eſtabliſh their Divine Authority. Whence it will follow,

2. That the Doctrines and Inſtructions deliver'd in them are to be own'd as the Rules and Doctrines of our Lord, as truly as are any Doctrines delivered in the Goſpels, and are as neceſſary to be believ'd and practis'd by all that bear the Name of Chriſtians. My firſt Aſſertion therefore is,

§. I. That the Apoſtles indited theſe Epiſtles by the Aſſiſtance of the Holy Ghoſt: and that as the immediate ſucceeding Ages did, ſo we at preſent ſecurely may rely upon them as a Rule of Faith. And here I ſhall conſider,

1. How this Aſſiſtance may fitly be explained.

2. How far it is neceſſary, or reaſonable to aſſert it.

3. What Evidence may be offer'd to confirm it. For Explication of this Divine Aſſiſtance, let it be conſidered,

1. That Prophecy is ſometimes repreſented as the Word of the Lord, and he is ſaid to ſpeak to the Prophet; and ſutably to this Metaphor, ſome Illuſtration of the Aſſiſtance of the Holy Spirit may be made from the Analogy it bears to humane Converſation, thus: That as we convey our Thoughts one to another by ſuch Words as by the Organs of Hearing make ſuch a Motion on their Brain to whom we ſpeak, as gives them an Idea of the Words we utter, and by them of the things which by thoſe Words are ſignified; and ſo 'tis the Impreſſion made upon their Brain which doth communicate our Thoughts unto them: ſo when it pleaſeth God to reveal his Will to any Perſon, it ſeemeth only neceſſary that he talk inwardly with them, that is, that he make ſuch a Motion on their Brains as giveth them a deep and clear Idea of that which he intendeth to make known unto them, only the Impreſſion muſt be then made in ſuch a manner and degree, and with ſuch Circumſtances, as may make it certain to the inſpired Perſon, that it derives from God. Now ſeeing when we hear the Voice of any one, or receive a Letter from him, we may be certain from the Knowledge we have of his Voice or his Hand-writing, that it is he indeed who ſpeaks or writeth to us; we may very well conceive that God can eaſily give ſuch diſtinctive Marks of what he inwardly ſpeaks to us, or writes upon the Tables of our Hearts, as ſhall enable us to diſcern what he imprints upon them, from any Impreſſion that ſhall otherwiſe be made upon them.

2. Sometimes the Prophet is in Scripture ſtyled a Seer, and his Word a Viſion; and then the Parallel, or the Analogy, runs thus. As we ſee by virtue of a Light reflecting the Species of Things upon the Retina of the Eye, and thence deriving a peculiar Motion to, and making a diſtinct Impreſſion on the Brain; ſo may the Prophet be ſuppoſed to ſee what God reveals unto him by a like Motion of the Holy Spirit made upon his Brain concerning it. And as it is as eaſie to propoſe a material Object to the View, as to deſcribe it by our Words, ſo muſt it be as eaſie for God to dart ſuch an Impreſſion or inward Light upon the Brain of the Prophet, or ſpiritual Man, as ſhall give him a more bright and ſenſible Idea of things, than if he did perceive them by the Ear, or even view them by the Eye. And as we more exactly diſcern a ſenſible Object by the View, than we know it by a deſcription of it without that View; ſo the Jews ſay that Prophecy במראה in Viſion, is more excellent than that which comes only בחלום by Dream, or in a Dream, in which we ſeem to hear one talking with us.

Now though this Impreſſion may be ſufficient to convince the Prophet, and inſpired Perſon, that his Revelation did indeed derive from God, yet ſince this Revelation was intended not for himſelf, but for the uſe of others; he, with the Revelation, muſt be enabled by ſome convincing Proof to evidence to thoſe who were concerned to embrace it, that he was ſent indeed by God with ſuch a Meſſage to them. Now of this they only could be ſatisfied by ſome outward Marks and Notes, of which they, by their Senſes, were enabled to judge; viz. the Miracles wrought for Confirmation of his Teſtimony, or ſome Prophetical Prediction of something future and contingent, exactly verified in the Event. And thus saith the Apostle, was their Preaching confirmed to the World; God bearing witness to them, both with Signs and Wonders, and with divers Miracles, and Gifts of the Holy Ghost according to his Will, Heb. 2. 4.

The ways of Prophecy under the Old Testament, seem to be comprehended under these four Heads, viz. either the Prophets received their Revelations in a Dream, or Trance, or in a Vision, or by a Voice from Heaven, or by the secret Suggestion of the Holy Ghost.

Now some of the Apostles had their Visions, either by day, as Peter, for an extasie fell upon him, and he saw the Heavens opened, and he heard a Voice saying to him, Arise Peter, kill and eat, Act. 10. 11. and this is called ὅραμα, a Vision, ver. 17. And by this, saith He, God taught me to call no Man common or unclean, ver. 28. Or by Night, thus a Vision of the Night was seen by Paul, and a Man speaking to him in the Vision of the Night, Act. 16. 9. They had also the Spirit speaking to them; for the Spirit said to Peter, Behold, three Men seek thee; Arise therefore, and go with them, nothing doubting, for I have sent them, Act. 10. 20, 21. And sometimes they had Visions and Revelations of the Lord, either by way of Rapture to him, 2 Cor. 12. 2. or of Converse with him, as when Christ said to St. Paul, My Grace is sufficient for thee, ver. 9. Here then are the three Kinds of Revelation granted to the Apostles; but then these things were mostly occasional and accidental to them, in respect of their Apostolical Function.

Only the case of the Apostle Paul must here admit of an Exception; for it being necessary for an Apostle, that is, a Witness of Christ's Resurrection, to have seen the Lord risen from the Dead, according to those Words, Am I not an Apostle? have I not seen the Lord? 1 Cor. 9. 1. and for an Apostle, not of Man, neither by Man, but by Jesus Christ, Gal. 1. 1. to receive his Message immediately from the Lord Jesus, Christ speaks thus to him, I have appeared unto thee for this purpose, to make thee a Minister and a Witness, both of those things which thou hast seen, and of those things in the which I will appear unto thee, Acts 26. 16. Which Words contain a Promise of an immediate Instruction from Christ in his Apostolical Function: Whence this Apostle declares, confirming that his Declaration with an Oath, The Gospel which was preached by me was not after Man; for I neither received it of Man, neither was I taught it (by Man,) but (only) by the Revelation of Jesus Christ, Gal. 1. 11, 12. He therefore had his Message from Christ, as Moses had from God, Christ speaking to him mouth to mouth, &c. Num. 12. 7.

But yet that which enabled them for the Inditing all their Epistles to th. Churches, or Persons to whom they were sent, was the internal and powerful Assistance of the Holy Spirit.

§. II. To proceed then to the Second Enquiry, How far 'tis necessary or reasonable to assert the Divine Assistance of the Holy Spirit, or his inspiration of these Sacred Writers. To this I shall Answer, by premising a distinction of the Jews, between those Sacred Writers who were Prophets properly so called, and the Chetubim or holy Writers, who penn'd their Compositions by the Assistance of the Holy Ghost.

To the Prophets properly so called, they ascribe an immediate Suggestion and Representation in their fancy, and imaginations, of the things which they delivered as from the Mouth, and in the Name of God, he keeping still alive upon them the Images and the Resemblances of the Visions which they saw, till they were penn'd, and imprinting on their Memories the Messages which they delivered by his Command to the People. Hence, when the Roll of Jeremy was burnt, he was enabled to dictate again to Baruch the same words, Chap. 36. 32. And this I believe to be true concerning all the Visions they declare they saw, and all the Messages they deliver with this Preface, Thus saith the Lord, or The Word of the Lord came to N. N. saying; but I do not think it necessary, with reference to the Historical Things related in the Writings of Joshua, Judges, Samuel, Kings, which the Jews stile the former Prophets, or with respect to the Historical Relations contained in the Prophecies of Isaiah, Jeremiah, &c.

To the Chetubim, or Holy Writers who penn'd their Writings by the assistance of the Holy Spirit, they ascribe:

First, An impulse from God to write, or to compose them, but such as left them to the use of their own Words, and to the exercise of their Reasons.

2*dly*, A superintendency of the Holy Spirit over them, and a Divine Assistance still cleaving to them in those Compositions, so that they should not be obnoxious to any Error or Mistake in what they did indite; that Assistance which they ascribe to their Prophets by later Writers, is called an Inspiration of Suggestion, the Second, or the Assistance of the Chetubim, an inspiration of Direction only.

And this Assistance was thought inferior to that of Prophecy, not as to the certainty of the Revelation, or the subject Matter, but only as to the degree and measure of it; for because there was in these Compositions no visum Propheticum, i. e. no Vision exhibited, nor did they ſpeak in this high ſtrain, Thus ſaith the Lord, therefore they thought they were not to be ſtiled Prophets in the proper acceptation of the Word. And I conjecture that it is for this latter Reaſon only, that they put the Prophet Daniel not among the Prophets, but the Hagiographi or Sacred Writers, becauſe he never uſeth theſe Expreſſions, Thus ſaith the Lord, or ſaith, The Word of the Lord came unto me; ſince otherwiſe in Viſions he was ſcarce inferior to any of the other Prophets. Nor is it eaſie to conjecture in what this way, whether of Revelation, or Divine Aſſiſtance, and Inſpiration by the Holy Ghoſt, ſhould be inferior to the former. For,

Firſt, Sure it is no diſparagement to this way, that Perſons acted by it do not expreſs themſelves in (a) Parables, Similitudes, and Riddles, but uſe a more familiar Language, and appear in a more ſimple undiſguiſing Dreſs, and ſo more advantageouſly condeſcend to the capacity of the Reader. Nor,

2*dly*, That it doth not act ſo much on the Imagination and the Fancy, (b) but is principally ſeated in the higher and purer Faculties of the Soul, which is the ſecond Difference aſſign'd between them. Nor,

3*dly*, That it chiefly moveth the Inſpired Perſon (c) to dictate Matters of true Piety and Goodneſs, of Vertue, Wiſdom, and of Prudence; theſe Differences, if aſſigned truly, ſeem to me to be advantages of this Aſſiſtance, above that which uſually was afforded to the ancient Prophets, rather than Tokens that it was really inferiour to the Inſpiration they enjoy'd.

And this will be more evident, if we compare this Aſſiſtance of the Holy Spirit with that Gradus Moſaicus, which the Jews generally account the higheſt, or ſupreme Degree of Prophecy, and is recorded in theſe Words, If there be a Prophet among you, I the Lord will make my ſelf known to him in a Viſion, and will ſpeak to him in a Dream. My ſervant Moſes is not ſo, who is faithful in all my Houſe; with him will I ſpeak mouth to mouth, even apparently, and not in dark Speeches, and the Similitude of the Lord ſhall he behold, Matth. 12. 6, 7. Whence the Jews gather theſe ſeveral Excellencies of the Prophetick Gift of Moſes above what was vouchſafed to the other Prophets, viz.

Firſt, That all other Prophets propheſied by Dream, or by Viſion, (d) but Moſes propheſied when he was waking, and ſtanding. Now this alſo did the Spiritual Perſon, moved by the Holy Ghoſt.

2*dly*, That other Prophets propheſied by the Hand of an Angel, (e) and therefore ſaw what they ſaw in Parables, and dark Speeches; but Moſes ſpake immediately from the Mouth of God, and without Parables, or dark Speeches; and ſo alſo did the Spiritual Perſon ſpeak under the Goſpel Diſpenſation, not by an Angel, but by that Spirit which ſearcheth the deep things of God, not in Parables and dark Riddles, but with great plainneſs of Speech.

3*dly*, That all the Prophets were afraid, and troubled, and fainted, but Moſes was not ſo: Nor was it ſo with our Apoſtles. Moreover, There was Strength, ſay they, in Moſes to underſtand the Words of the Prophecy, and ſo was there alſo in the Prophets to underſtand the Revelations of the Spirit. So that you ſee, this way of Aſſiſtance gave to the Pen-men of the New Teſtament all theſe Prerogatives of Moſes above the other Prophets; and ſo I know not why it ſhould be reckoned inferiour to their way of Prophecy upon thoſe very accounts for which the way of Prophecy vouchſafed to Moſes is preferred above them, eſpecially if we conſider that St. Peter lays this as the true Foundation of their Credibility, that they ſpake as they were moved by the Holy Ghoſt, 2 Pet. 1. 21.

But 'tis of no great moment to inſiſt on this Compariſon, ſince the Sacred Writers of the Second Order ſtiled Hagiographi, are ſaid to be ſo far attended with the Divine Aſſiſtance in their Compoſitions, as that they could not be obnoxious in them to Errour or Miſtake in what they writ, which is abundantly ſufficient to render all their Compoſitions a certain and unerring Rule of Faith in what they have delivered as the Object of it.

To proceed then to the conſideration of the Diſtinction hinted before, viz. of Inſpiration by Suggeſtion, and Inſpiration of Direction only. I ſay then,

Firſt, That where there is no antecedent Idea, or Knowledge of the things written for the good of others, to be obtained from Reaſon or a former Revelation, an Inſpiration of Suggeſtion muſt be vouchſafed to the Apoſtles, to enable them to make them known unto the World. But where there is an antecedent Knowledge of the things to be Endited, it can be only neceſſary, that God ſhould either immediately, or by ſome ſpecial Occaſions, excite them to indite thoſe things, and ſhould ſo carefully preſide over, and direct their Minds whilſt Writing, as to Suggeſt, or bring into their Memories ſuch things as his Wiſdom thought fit to be written, and ſhould not ſuffer them to err in the Delivery of what is thus

indited in his Name, or as Apoſtles of God the Father, and our Lord Jeſus Chriſt. And therefore,

2*dly*, In all their Revelations of Myſteries, or things which could not otherwiſe be made known to them, either by natural Reaſon or antecedent Revelation, they muſt be acknowledged to have had them by an immediate Suggeſtion of the Holy Spirit. Hence of theſe things the Apoſtle ſaith negatively, that the natural Man (who only judges of things by his natural Reaſon) cannot know them, becauſe they are ſpiritually diſcerned, 1 Cor. 2. 14. i. e. they being Myſteries, can only be diſcerned by the Revelation of the Spirit, and poſitively that they ſpake the Wiſdom of God in a Myſtery, even the Wiſdom hid from former Ages, which Eye had not ſeen, nor Ear heard, nor had it entred into the Heart of Man to conceive, 1 Cor. 2. 7. and that becauſe God had revealed theſe things to them by his Spirit, ver. 9. they having received the Spirit of God, that they might know the things which are freely given to us of God, ver. 10. Thus was the Myſtery of the Calling of the Gentiles into an equality of Priviledges with the believing Jews, made known unto them; for God by Revelation, ſaith St. Paul, made known to me the Myſtery of Chriſt, which in other Ages was not made known as it is now revealed to his holy Apoſtles and Prophets by the Spirit, that the Gentiles ſhould be fellow Heirs, and of the ſame Body, and partakers of his Promiſe in Chriſt by the Goſpel, Eph. 3. 3, 4, 5, 6. Chap. 1. 9. — 6. 19. Col. 1. 26, 27. — 2. 2. — 4. 3, 4. So they knew the Myſtery of the recalling the Jews, Rom. 11. 25, 26. The Myſtery of the Reſurrection, i. e. the Quality of the Bodies to be raiſed, and the Order of it, with all the other ſpecial Circumſtances mentioned 1 Cor. 15. 1 Theſſal. 4. and the Apoſtacy of the latter Times; for the Spirit ſpeaketh expreſly, ſaith the Apoſtle, That in the latter days Men ſhall depart from the Faith, 1 Tim. 4. 1. This Inſpiration of Suggeſtion muſt alſo be allowed St. John the Author of the Revelations, for he ſpeaking only what was repreſented to him in Viſions, or by Angelical Diſcourſes or Apparitions, muſt have that Aſſiſtance which ſuggeſted theſe Ideas to him. But,

3*dly*, As for thoſe things which they did know already, either by natural Reaſon, Education, or antecedent Revelation, they needed only ſuch an Aſſiſtance, or Direction as would ſecure them from Errour in their Reaſonings, or in their Confirmation of their Doctrines by Paſſages contained in the Old Teſtament; and therefore a continual Suggeſtion muſt be here unneceſſary. And indeed, one great Work they had upon their hands, both in preaching the Goſpel, and writing theſe Epiſtles, being to convince the unbelieving Jew, or to confirm the wavering Jew, or rectifie the Errours of the Judaizing Chriſtian, the Gift of Knowledge of the Scriptures of the Old Teſtament, was very neceſſary to them, and therefore is deſervedly reckoned among the primary Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt; and being ſo, we have reaſon to believe, that either the Holy Ghoſt ſuggeſted to their Memory thoſe Scriptures which they uſed in theſe Epiſtles to convince them, or elſe preſided ſo over them, as not to ſuffer them to make any Inferences from them which were not agreeable to the true intent and meaning of them; tho', at this diſtance of time, we may not always be able to diſcern the ſtrength and clearneſs of the Conſequence. And,

4*thly*, In writing the Hiſtorical Parts of the New Teſtament, or Matters of Fact relating to themſelves, or others, 'tis only neceſſary, That what is there delivered as Matter of Fact, ſhould truly be performed as it is ſaid to have been done; but 'tis not neceſſary that theſe things ſhould be related in that order of time in which they were performed, unleſs that alſo be affirmed of them; for this muſt be ſufficient to aſſure us of the truth of what they thus delivered.

Moreover, In writing the Diſcourſes contained in theſe Books, it is not neceſſary that the very Words ſhould be ſuggeſted or recorded in which they were firſt ſpoken, but only that the true intent and meaning of them ſhould be related, tho' in diverſity of Words. Tho' the Promiſe made to the Apoſtles by our Lord, That the Holy Spirit ſhould bring to their remembrance πάντα, all things which he had ſaid unto them, Joh. 14. 26. doth fairly plead for this exactneſs in what they have delivered of our Saviour's Sermons; it being ſcarce imaginable their Memory, without Divine Aſſiſtance, ſhould exactly give us all that was ſpoken in ſuch long Diſcourſes.

And hence we may account for the Objections againſt this Divine Aſſiſtance, ariſing from the 7th. of the Acts; for tho' I verily believe there is is no real Miſtake in the Words of the Proto-Martyr, yet were it granted, That there is an Errour in his account of the Sepulchres of the Patriarchs, yet that affects not the Authority of St. Luke at all, provided he exactly hath related what was then ſaid by St. Stephen, who was not choſen to be a Pen-man of the holy Scriptures.

Laſtly, From what is thus diſcourſed, it may appear, That I contend only for ſuch an Inſpiration or Divine Aſſiſtance of the Sacred Writers of the New Teſtament as will aſſure us of the truth of what they writ, whether by Inſpiration of Suggeſtion, or Direction only; but not for ſuch an Inſpiration as implies, That even their Words were dictated, or their Phraſes ſuggeſted to them by the Holy Ghoſt. This in ſome Matters of great moment might be ſo; St. Paul declaring, That they ſpake the things which were given them of God in the Words which the Holy Ghoſt teacheth, 1 Cor. 2. 13. If that relate not to what the Holy Ghoſt had taught them out of the Old Teſtament. But that it was not always ſo, is evident both from the conſideration that they were Hagiographers, who are ſuppoſed to be left to the uſe of their own Words, and from the variety of the Stile in which they write, and from the Soleciſms which are ſometimes viſible in their Compoſitions; and more eſpecially from their own Words, which manifeſtly ſhew, That in ſome Caſes they had no ſuch Suggeſtions from the Holy Ghoſt, as doth imply, that he had dictated thoſe Words unto them. For inſtance, When St. Paul declares his Will or Purpoſe to do, what he was hindred by the Providence of God from doing, as when he ſaith to the Romans, When I go into Spain, I will come to you, chap. 15. 24. I will come by you into Spain, ver. 28. For tho' he might, after his Enlargement, go into the Weſt, where St. Clemens ſaith, (f) He preached; and even into Spain, as (g) Cyril, (h) Epiphanius and (i) Theodoret ſay, He did; yet it is certain, he did not deſignedly go to Rome, in order to an intended Journey into Spain. And when he ſaith to the Corinthians, I will come to you when I paſs thro' Macedonia, 1 Cor. 16. 5. and yet confeſſeth in his Second Epiſtle, 2 Cor. 1. 15, 16, 17. that he did not perform that Journey; for 'tis not to be thought the Holy Ghoſt ſhould incite him to promiſe, or even purpoſe what he knew he would not perform. This alſo we learn from all thoſe places in which they do expreſs their Ignorance, or Doubtfulneſs of that which they are ſpeaking of: As when St. Paul ſaith, I know not whether I Baptized any other, 1 Cor. 1. 16. And again, Τύχον παραμενῶ, Perhaps I will abide, yea, and winter with you, 1 Cor. 16. 6. And when St. Peter ſaith, By Sylvanus, a faithful Brother, as I ſuppoſe, have I written to you, 1 Pet. 5. 12. For theſe Words plainly ſhew, That in all theſe things they had no Inſpiration, or Divine Aſſiſtance. This laſtly, may be gathered from all thoſe places in which they only do expreſs their Hope, and that conditionally, of doing this, or that, as in theſe Words, I hope to ſee you in my Journey, Rom. 15. 24. I will come unto you quickly, if the Lord will, 1 Cor. 4. 19. I hope to ſtay ſome time with you, if the Lord permit, 1 Cor. 16. 7. I hope in the Lord Jeſus to ſend Timothy quickly to you, Phil. 2. 19, 23. And, I truſt that I my ſelf alſo ſhall come quickly, ver. 24. Theſe things I write, hoping to come to thee quickly, but if I ſhould tarry that thou mayſt know how to behave thy ſelf in the Church of God, 1 Tim. 3. 14, 15. I hope by your Prayers to be given to you, Philem. 22. This will we do if the Lord permit, Heb. 6. 3. I hope to come to thee, St. John, Ep. 2. 12. Ep. 3d. v. 14. For, 1. Spes eſt incertæ rei nomen, The Word Hope, implyeth an uncertainty, whereas the Holy Spirit cannot be uncertain of any thing; nor can we think he would inſpire Men to ſpeak ſo uncertainly. And, 2*dly*, There can be no neceſſity, or even uſe of a Divine Aſſiſtance to enable a Man to expreſs his Hopes, ſeeing all Men do by natural Reflection know them.

§. III. And having thus declared what I do allow, I now proceed to ſhew what in this Matter I cannot admit of.

Firſt then, I can by no means grant any ſlips of Memory in the Compilers of theſe Sacred Books of the New Teſtament; for, tho' theſe are allow'd by ſome (k) in Matters of ſmall Conſequence, as they are pleas'd to ſtile them, yet is it of great Conſequence that we do not own them: For, if you grant they have thus ſlipt at all, by what Rules can we be aſſured they have not ſlipt above an hundred times, or even in moſt of their Hiſtorical Relations? For inſtance, If St. Matthew could ſlip in citing the Words of the Prophet Jeremiah by a Miſtake, for the Words of Zechariah, Matth. 27. 9. why not alſo in citing the Words of the Prophet Iſaiah, or of any other Prophet? If one of thoſe Sacred Writers might be ſubject to theſe Slips, why not all? if once, why not often? And can we think it no prejudice to the Divine Authority of theſe Sacred Writings, that they ſhould oft be ſubject to falſe Citations, and produce falſe Stories, contradicting the truth of the Old Teſtament? Would not this yield a great Advantage againſt our Rule of Faith, both to the unbelieving Jews, and to the Scepticks, and Antiſcripturiſts, which too much abound among us? Nor,

2*dly*, Can I grant that the Apoſtles determined any Matters of Practice meerly from Rules of humane Prudence, without the guidance and direction of the Holy Spirit; it is pretended, this is done by St. Paul in theſe Words, To the reſt ſpeak I, not the Lord, 1 Cor. 7. 12. And again in theſe, concerning Virgins, I have no commandment of the Lord, but I give my judgment, or advice, as one that hath obtained mercy of the Lord to be found faithful: I judge therefore this to be good for the preſent neceſſity, ver. 25, 26. And a third time, She is hap- pier if she so remain, after my Judgment, and I think also that I have the Spirit of God, ver. 40. This is not, saith (1) one, spoken with the Authority of a Teacher sent from God, or an Apostle, but in such a style as implies only an ordinary Assistance, such as any pious skilful Pastor may expect.

Answ. To this I answer, 1. That what the Apostle speaks of here, from ver. 12. to the 24th, seemeth to be no slight matter, but of great importance to the Good of Societies, and to the honour of Christianity: for sure it would have been a signal blemish to the Christian Faith, should it have tended to dissolve the Bonds of Matrimony, or given Men or Women license to quit that sacred Tye purely because they were turn'd Christians. And hence we find that the Apostle had taken especial care to prevent this Imputation every where, by ordaining the very same thing in all other Churches which he here prescribes to the Corinthians, though then he who had said before To the married person speak not I, but the Lord, 1 Cor. 7. 17. because that Case had been particularly decided by Christ, Matt. 19. 9. says afterwards, To the rest say I, not the Lord. He says not this to intimate that this Direction was only given by him as a Man using his natural Reason, only to direct them to what he thought best, but not as delivering the Mind of Christ, for he had before declared the contrary, by saying, We have the mind of Christ, 1 Cor. 2. 16. and after doth it in these words, If any man think himself a Prophet, or spiritual, let him acknowledge that the things I write unto you are the Commandments of the Lord, Chap. 14. 37. but only to declare our Lord, in his Discourse of Divorce, had not decided the case de imparibus conjugiis, of the Marriage of a Believer with an Infidel, but had left this to the Decision of those Apostles to whom he had promised the Assistance of the Holy Ghost to lead them into all Truth, Joh. 16. 13.

Answ. 2. In the Words cited with relation to the case of Virgins, though the Apostle owns he had no particular Commandment of the Lord, as he had in the case of married Persons, yet doth he say sufficient to convince us, that he advised in the matter not only as a Man assisted by his natural Reason, but rather as one assisted by the Spirit of God; for,

1. Though, saith he, as to this I have no particular Command, I give my Advice in it as one who hath obtained mercy of the Lord to be found faithful (in the Discharge of my Apostolical Office.) Now this, saith he, is all that is required of a Minister of Christ, and Steward of his Mysteries, that he be found faithful in administring the Grace of his Apostleship, 1 Cor. 4. 12. And this Fidelity was still attended with the Power of Christ assisting them, as appears from these words, I thank Jesus Christ our Lord, who hath enabled me, for that he counted me faithful, putting me into the Ministry, 1 Tim. 1. 12. So that this Phrase doth not imply that the Apostle had only an ordinary Assistance in this Advice, such as any pious skilful Pastor may still expect. And this is still more evident in those words, She is happier if she do so abide, after my Judgment; and I think I have the Spirit of God (enabling me to form that Judgment:) for they who say this is not spoken with the Authority of an Apostle, or a Teacher sent from God, seem not to have consider'd that the Apostle was writing to them who were apt to question his Apostleship, and required a proof of Christ speaking in him, 2 Cor. 13. 3. and to them it was proper to say, Whatsoever you may conceive of me, I suppose I have the Spirit of God; i. e. the Spirit of Wisdom and Knowledge, to enable me to make this Advice. Moreover, the words δοκῶ ἔχειν may be render'd, I have the Spirit of God; so in this Epistle ὁ δοκῶν ἢ φιλόνικος is he that is contentious, Chap. 11. 16. and εἴ τις δοκῶ προφήτης if any man be a Prophet. See the Note there. Nor,

3*dly*, Do I grant that St. Paul any where implies that he doth not always use the best Arguments, but sometimes such as are best fitted to the Capacities and Notions of those he writes to; for if so, by what Rules shall we be able to distinguish betwixt his Arguments on which we safely may rely, as being absolutely true, and those which only are accommodated to the Notions of those with whom he had to do. St. Paul doth indeed say ἀνθρώπινον λέγω, I speak after the manner of Men, or what is common to Men, because of the infirmity of your flesh, Rom. 6. 19. but he speaks not this by way of excuse for not using the best Argument he could in this Affair, but he speaks this by way of Illustration of his Argument, or Exhortation. The sense which the Antients put upon these words is this, τῇ φύσει μετρῶ τὴν παραίτησιν, I frame my Exhortation with a due Consideration of the infirmity of your flesh, requiring only that you should do that Service now to God which you have formerly done to Sin. I rather think the Apostle discourseth to this effect. In this Discourse of their being Servants formerly to Sin, and their Obligation now to be Servants to Righteousness, I speak that which all natural Men must have had experience of by reason of the infirmity of the Flesh, and of which they may thence take a just Idea, requiring only that as they have formerly yielded their Members instruments to Sin, so they would now yield them instruments to Righteousness.

As for the Arguments they use ad hominem, as they are very few, so is it only requisite

(1) Mr. Lowth's Vindic. p. 52.

that they ſhould truly be convincing upon the Principles which ſuch Men owned and received, there being nothing more intended by them than to convince them, that ſuch an Inference doth naturally follow from their Principle, and that they muſt either quit the Senſe or admit the Inference. For inſtance, When the Apoſtle ſaith; Elſe what ſhall they do who are baptized for the dead, 1 Cor. 15. 29. he is there diſputing againſt ſome of the Corinthians, who ſaid there is no Reſurrection of the dead. Now here he all along diſputeth ad hominem, and on ſuppoſition; as v. g. Then is Chriſt not riſen from the dead, ver. 13. Then are we falſe witneſſes of God, ver. 15. Then is their Faith vain, ver. 17. Then they that ſleep in Chriſt are periſhed, ver. 18. Then are Chriſtians, of all Men, the moſt miſerable, ver. 19, &c. All which Suppoſitions are really falſe, but then they follow from the aforeſaid Tenet of thoſe Corinthians; ſo that all this Diſcourſe is only an Argument ab abſurdo. But, that the Apoſtles any where uſe ſuch Arguments ad hominem as proceed only on ſuch Principles as were generally admitted in their Age, without conſidering whether they were true or falſe, I utterly deny.

§. IV. Having thus premiſed theſe things for the right ſtating and Explication of the Controverſie, I proceed to lay down the Arguments which prove that in theſe Writings the Apoſtles were aſſiſted and preſerved from Errour by the Spirit of God, and therefore were enabled to deliver to us an unerring Rule of Faith.

And 1ſt. I argue for the Divine Aſſiſtance of the Inditers of theſe Epiſtles, from what they do aſſert touching the Declarations made, the Doctrines delivered, and the Directions given in theſe Writings. For the Word ſpoken, and indited by them, is ſtyled the Word of God. Men, ſaith the Apoſtle, could not believe the Goſpel unleſs they heard it preach'd to them; nor could they hear it preach'd unleſs ſome were commiſſionated to preach the Goſpel; for, Faith comes by hearing, and hearing by the Word of God, Rom. 10. 14, 15, 16, 17. And, For this cauſe, ſaith he, thank we God without ceaſing, becauſe when ye received the word of God which ye heard of us, ye received it not as the Word of Men, but as it is in truth, the Word of God, 1 Theſſ. 2. 13. I am made a Miniſter of Chriſt, ſaith he, according to the diſpenſation of God which is given to me to fulfill (i. e. fully to preach) the Word of God, Coloſſ. 1. 25. 2. It is called the Commandment of God. For my Goſpel, ſaith St. Paul, and the Preaching of Jeſus Chriſt, is made manifeſt, and according to the Commandment of the everlaſting God, made known unto you for the obedience of Faith, Rom. 16. 25, 26. which Faith, is always built on a divine Teſtimony. And again, If any man be a Prophet, or ſpiritual, let him acknowledge that the things I write unto you are the Commandments of the Lord, 1 Cor. 14. 37. 3. It is declared to be the Wiſdom of God, 1 Cor. 1. 24. For, We preach Chriſt to you that are called, both Jews and Greeks, the power of God, and the wiſdom of God; we ſpeak the wiſdom of God in a Myſtery, even that wiſdom which God hath revealed to us by his ſpirit, 1 Cor. 2. 7, 10. 4. It is the Teſtimony of God. For, I came not to you, ſaith he, in excellency of ſpeech, declaring to you the Teſtimony of God, 1 Cor. 2. 1. 5. It is the Goſpel of God. For St. Paul ſtyles himſelf the Miniſter of Jeſus Chriſt to the Gentiles, miniſtring the Goſpel of God to them, Rom. 15. 16. We preach, ſaith he, the Goſpel of God freely, 2 Cor. 11. 7. We were bold to preach to you the Goſpel of God, we were willing to have imparted to you not the Goſpel of God only, but alſo our own Lives, 1 Theſſ. 2. 2, 8, 9. even the glorious Goſpel of the bleſſed God committed to my truſt, 1 Tim. 1. 10. 6. It is the Goſpel of Chriſt; for I came, ſaith he, to Troas to preach Chriſt's Goſpel, 2 Cor. 2. 12. We ſent Timotheus our fellow-labourer in the Goſpel of Chriſt, 1 Theſſ. 3. 2. 7. It is the Myſtery of his will, Eph. 1. 9. The Myſtery of God the Father and of Chriſt, Col. 2. 2. The Mind of Chriſt made known to the Apoſtles, 1 Cor. 2. 16. And the Word of Chriſt which muſt dwell richly in Believers, Col. 3. 16.

Now ſure it cannot rationally be conceived that the Apoſtles ſhould be ignorant of that Aſſiſtance by which they were enabled to indite theſe Epiſtles. If then they were aſſured of the Aſſiſtance of the Holy Spirit which they challeng'd, then muſt the Goſpel which they both preached and indited, be received as the Word of God and Chriſt, the Mind of Chriſt, the Goſpel of God and Chriſt, the Myſtery of God the Father, and of Chriſt, the Commandment and the Teſtimony of God; which is the thing I am concerned to make good. If they had no ſuch Aſſurance of the Aſſiſtance of the Holy Spirit, they groſly did impoſe upon the World in thus pretending that they preached the Goſpel by the Aſſiſtance of the Holy Spirit ſent down from Heaven. If they were not aſſured that in thoſe Writings they delivered only thoſe Doctrines which God required all Men to believe, thoſe Precepts he required them to do, they muſt be very confident, in daring to make this the Preface to ſome of their Epiſtles, Paul an Apoſtle according to the will and the commandment of God, 1 Cor. 1. 1. 2. 1, 1. Eph. 1. 1. Col. 1. 1. 1 Tim. 1. 1. 2. 1. and ſaying with ſo much Aſſurance, If any man be a Prophet, let him acknowledge that the things I write unto you are the Commandments of God, 1 Cor. 14. 37. and much more in declaring to all Chriſtians thus; We are of God, he that knoweth God heareth us, he that is not of God heareth not us; by this we know the ſpirit of Truth, and the ſpirit of Errour, 1 Joh. 4. 6. For this ſeems equal to what their Maſter himſelf ſaid in the like words,

Why

Why do you not believe me? He that is of God heareth the words of God; you therefore hear them not, becauſe you are not of God, Joh. 8. 46, 47. Yea they muſt be falſe Witneſſes of God, by ſtyling humane Writings the Word, the Goſpel, the Command, the Teſtimony, the Mind, the Myſtery of God and Chriſt, and in requiring others to receive it not as the Word of Man, but as the Word of God, even that Word by which they muſt be judged at the laſt day, Rom. 2. 16. which again runs as high as thoſe Words of Chriſt, The Word that I have ſpoken ſhall judge him that believes it not at the laſt day, Joh. 12. 48.

If here it be replied, that theſe things are rather ſaid of the Goſpel which they preach'd, than of the Epiſtles which they writ. I anſwer,

1*ſt*. That St. Peter ſaith of all St. Paul's Epiſtles, that they were written according to the Wiſdom given to him, 2 Pet. 3.15,16. even that Wiſdom which he ſtyles the Wiſdom of God, and aſcribes to the Apoſtles in the General, ſaying, We ſpeak the Wiſdom of God, &c. 1 Cor. 2. 6, 7. that St. Paul himſelf requires all ſpiritual Perſons to acknowledge the things he writ unto them were the Commandments of the Lord.

2*dly*, I ask whether the Doctrines of Faith, and Rules of Life, delivered in theſe Epiſtles, be not as much a part of the Goſpel, or the Law of Chriſt, as any thing they preach'd? If they be a part of it, all theſe Aſſertions muſt equally be true of their Epiſtles written, and their Sermons preach'd: If they be not, where ſhall we find, and how ſhall we be aſſured that we have the Goſpel of our Lord, ſince we know nothing of it but from what is left on Record in that New Teſtament of which theſe Writings are a part, yea ſuch a part as contains all we have left of their preaching after the Spirit promis'd to lead them into all truth was fall'n upon them? Or why did all Chriſtians of that and the ſucceeding Ages depend upon them as their Rule of Faith? Moreover, That the Apoſtles were aſſiſted as fully by the Holy Ghoſt in what they writ, as what they preach'd, will be apparent from the Conſideration of their Office, they having this Aſſiſtance as being Chriſt's Apoſtles, his Embaſſadors, the Miniſters of Chriſt, and Stewards of the Myſteries of God. Now in the Preface to their Epiſtles they take care to let the Reader know they who ſent theſe Epiſtles were Apoſtles, and Miniſters of Chriſt, according to the Will and the Commandment of God, 2 Tim. 1. 1. for (declaration of) the promiſe of life which is in Chriſt Jeſus, for the faith of God's elect, and the acknowledging the truth which is after godlineſs, Tit. 1. 1. If therefore they had this Aſſiſtance becauſe they were the Meſſengers of Chriſt, the Teachers of the Jew and Gentile in Faith and Verity; Men who received Grace and Apoſtleſhip from Chriſt to the obedience of Faith, and had the Word of God committed to them according to the Commandment of our God and Saviour; and they were truly diſcharging their Office as well when they indited as when they preach'd the Goſpel; they muſt be equally aſſiſted in both.

This, laſtly, will be evident from the Conſideration of the common End and Deſign both of their Writing and their Preaching; for, the reaſon why this Aſſiſtance attended them in Preaching, was, the Benefit and the Edification of the Church, the building her up in her moſt holy Faith, the perfecting the Saints, the edifying of the Body of Chriſt till we all come in the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God unto a perfect man; for to this end Chriſt gave ſome Apoſtles, ſome Prophets, and Evangeliſts, Eph. 4. 11, 12, 13. Now do not all theſe Reaſons equally belong to their Writings? Were not they alſo intended and uſed for theſe very Ends in all ſucceeding Ages of the Church? Did they not in them write the ſame things which they had preach'd, becauſe this was for their Safety? Philip. 3. 1. that after their deceaſe they might have theſe things always in remembrance, 2 Pet. 1. 15. and that they might be mindful of the Commandment of the Apoſtles of the Lord? Chap. 3. 1, 2. Had they not the Promiſe of the Spirit to aſſiſt them in their Preaching, that they might guide their Hearers into all Truth? And doth not the ſame Reaſon hold more ſtrongly for their Writings, partly becauſe they were to remain when the Apoſtles were dead, and could not be conſulted as they might be whilſt living, when any Scruple did ariſe touching their Doctrine, and ſerv'd for the inſtruction not of one Age only, as their Preaching did, but of all Ages of the Chriſtian World? And indeed, their Preaching, without Writing, could not have anſwer'd the deſign of propagating the Chriſtian Faith to future Ages, Experience having taught us, that what is handed only by Tradition to us, is ſubject to the greateſt Change and Innovations, it being the pretended Traditions of the Jewiſh Church which corrupted, and made void the commandments of God, Matth. 15. 6. and the pretended Traditions of the Romiſh Church which have turned their Chriſtianity into a Syſtem of Superſtition and Idolatry; for, as it truly is obſerved by (1) Origen, That which only is delivered by word of mouth quickly vaniſheth, as being of no certainty. So that if our Bleſſed Lord deſigned the Continuance of his Goſpel to the End of the World, he alſo muſt deſign the Aſſiſtance of his Apoſtles in the writing of it.

(1) Τὸ γὰρ ἀγράφως λεγόμενον παύεται μετ' ὀλίγον ἔχειν τὴν ἀπόδειξιν. Dial. contra Marcion. p. 59.

Now from this Argument we may return an Anſwer to that Cavil which ſome have made againſt the Inſpiration of the Writings of the New Teſtament, that we meet not in them as we do frequently in the Old, Thus ſaith the Lord, or the Word of the Lord, by ſuch or ſuch a Prophet. For,

1. We meet not with theſe Words in all the Chetubim or the Hagiographa, which yet all the Jews acknowledge to be written by the Aſſiſtance of the Holy Ghoſt.

2. When we meet with it in the Prophets of the Old Teſtament, 'tis chiefly, if not only, when theſe Prophets have a Meſſage from the Lord to the People: and when Chriſt ſends his Meſſage to the Seven Churches, we find Words of like import ſtill repeated, viz. He that hath an ear let him hear what the Spirit ſaith unto the Churches, Apoc. 1. 3. 22. 19. which whole Phraſe occurs not elſewhere in the Revelations, or the words of the Prophecy of St. John.

3. 'Tis ſurely of like import to ſay, This I write to you by the Word of the Lord, 1 Theſſ. 4. 15. The Word you received from us is not the Word of Man, but God, Chap. 2. 13. And I who preach it am his Miniſter to fulfil the Word of God, Col. 1. 25. The Word made known unto you for the obedience of Faith, is the Commandment of the everlaſting God, Rom. 16. 25, 26. The things I write unto you are the Commandments of the Lord, 1 Cor. 14. 37. For the Phraſe ἐν λόγῳ Κυρίου is the Phraſe uſed by the Prophets of the Old Teſtament, viz. The Prophet ſaid unto him, ἐν λόγῳ Κυρίου by the Word of the Lord, Smite me, 1 Kings 20. 35. See Chap. 13. 1, 2, 5, 32. And equivalent to it are theſe Sayings.

§. V. Arg. 2. They who inditing of theſe Writings were aſſiſted by the Holy Ghoſt, the Spirit of Truth, indited theſe Epiſtles by divine Aſſiſtance; but the Apoſtles were thus aſſiſted: this they in terms, or by juſt conſequence, aſſert. For St. Peter ſaith of them all in general, that they preach'd the Goſpel by the Holy Ghoſt ſent down from Heaven, 1 Pet. 1. 12. And is not this as much as he ſaid of the Prophets of the Old Teſtament, when he declares they ſpake as they were moved by the Holy Ghoſt, 2 Pet. 1. 21. St. Paul aſſerts in the ſame general Expreſſions, that thoſe great things belonging to the Goſpel, which neither Eye had ſeen, nor Ear had heard, nor Heart was able to conceive, God had revealed to them by the ſpirit, 1 Cor. 2. 10. That they had received not the Spirit of the World, but the Spirit which is of God, that they might know the things which were freely given to Chriſtians of God; and that theſe things they taught not in the words which man's wiſdom teacheth, but which the Holy Ghoſt teacheth, comparing ſpiritual things with ſpiritual, ver. 12, 13. In which place, the very Deſign of the Apoſtle is to prove againſt the Greek Philoſophers, how unreaſonable it was to reject the Goſpel becauſe it came not in the way of Demonſtration to Humane Reaſon, but by way of Revelation from God, and ſo required Faith; as of neceſſity it muſt do, ſince it contained ſuch things concerning the Deſign of Chriſt's ſalutary Paſſion, his Reſurrection, Aſcenſion, and a future Judgment at the general Reſurrection, which no natural Man could know by the outmoſt Improvement of his humane Reaſon; and ſuch Diſcoveries of the Council of God concerning Man's Juſtification, which depended upon his good Pleaſure, which were known only to that Holy Spirit which ſearcheth all things, even the deep things of God. It is this Spirit, ſaith he, that we have received, and by this Spirit hath God revealed theſe things unto us, and we accordingly do teach them to the World, not in the words which humane Wiſdom teacheth, but which the Holy Ghoſt teacheth, comparing the Revelations made to us by this Spirit with the Revelations made to the Prophets in the Old Teſtament by the ſame Spirit, and finding that the Revelations made to us do far exceed what was diſcovered to them; for what the Eye of thoſe Prophets had not ſeen in Viſion, or their Ear heard in Dreams, nor can the heart of Man conceive without a Revelation; even theſe things God hath revealed to us by his Spirit. Thus did they ſpeak the Word of God in demonſtration of the Spirit: whence he declares, that if any Man deſpiſed their Teſtimony or Inſtructions, he deſpiſed not Man only but God alſo, who had given them his Spirit, 1 Theſſ. 4. 8. they being not ſufficient for this Work of themſelves, but their Sufficiency was of God, who, by this Miniſtration of the Spirit, had made them able Miniſters of the New Teſtament, 2 Cor. 3. 5, 6. And thus, ſaith he, that God who commanded the light to ſhine out of darkneſs (and who illuminated the Prophets, by ſhining upon their Imaginations and their Underſtandings) hath ſhined in our hearts to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jeſus Chriſt, 2 Cor. 4. 6. In his Epiſtle to the Epheſians he declares that the Myſtery of Chriſt was made known to him by immediate Revelation, and not to him only, but to the reſt of the Apoſtles and Prophets of the New Teſtament; for God, ſaith he, hath made known this Revelation to us the Apoſtles and Prophets by the Spirit, Eph. 3. 3, 5. And hence he ſpeaks to the Corinthians in this Language, If any man be a Prophet, or ſpiritual, let him acknowledge that the things I write unto you are the Commandments of God, 1 Cor. 14. 37. Here then the Argument runs thus:

They

They who had a like Aſſiſtance to that of the Prophets under the Old Teſtament, muſt write by the Direction of the Holy Ghoſt; for, Holy men of old ſpake as they were moved by the Holy Ghoſt, and the Scripture they indicted was of Divine Inſpiration, and their Words are cited in the New Teſtament as ſpoken by the Holy Ghoſt.

But the Apoſtles had a like Aſſiſtance; for in the Words now cited, they ſtile themſelves Apoſtles and Prophets, they challenge a like Illumination, or ſhining of God upon their Hearts, a like Revelation of their Goſpel by the Holy Spirit; and they pretend to teach it to others in words taught them by the Holy Ghoſt: In all which Sayings, they muſt be guilty of a falſe Teſtimony concerning God, and muſt impoſe upon the Church of Chriſt, if no ſuch Aſſiſtance of the Holy Spirit was imparted to them.

A Third Argument, for the infallible Aſſiſtance of the Apoſtles in delivering the Truth of the Goſpel to Poſterity, is taken from our Saviour's Promiſe to them: He having engaged, Firſt, To ſend the Comforter to be for ever with them. I will ask the Father, and he ſhall give you another Comforter to be for ever with you, Joh. 14. 16. And to be always with them when they were executing his Commiſſion to make Diſciples in all Nations, teaching them to obſerve whatever he had commanded them, Matth. 28. 19, 20. You, ſaith he, ſhall be my Witneſſes of theſe things; and that you may be qualified to be ſo, Behold, I ſend the promiſe of my Father upon you, Luke 24. 48, 49. Hence I infer, That they had always the Aſſiſtance of the Holy Spirit with them in the Diſcharge of their Apoſtleſhip.

2dly, He adds, That this Spirit that ſhould thus abide with them, was the Spirit of truth, which the World could not receive, John 14. 16, 17. Now why doth he chuſe to characterize him by this Epithet, but to inform them, That they might expect from him the certain Knowledge of that whole Doctrine, they were as his Apoſtles to declare unto the World, and leave to future Generations as the Rule of Faith? That this is indeed the reaſon we learn from theſe following Words, ver. 26. But the Comforter, the Holy Ghoſt, whom the Father ſhall ſend in my Name, he ſhall teach you all things, and bring to your Remembrance all things which I have ſaid unto you, i.e. the things I have commanded you to teach, he ſhall faithfully bring to your remembrance; and as for thoſe many things I have to ſay unto you, which now you cannot bear, He ſhall teach them all. That this is the true import of this Promiſe, we learn from the enſuing Words, Chap. 16. 12, 13. I have yet many things to ſay unto you, but ye cannot bear them now; but when He, the Spirit of Truth is come, he ſhall guide you into all Truth, and He ſhall ſhew you things to come. He ſhall guide you into, and therefore ſhall ſecure you from erring from, or going out of the way of Truth. He ſhall thus guide you into all Truth which it concerns you, as his Apoſtles, to deliver to the Chriſtian Church, or any of her Members to know, in order to the performance of their Duty, or the obtaining the end of their Faith, the Salvation of their Souls. Hence then, Firſt, We may be ſure, that all the Sermons, or Diſcourſes of our Lord to his Diſciples recorded in the Evangeliſts, are faithfully delivered by his Apoſtles as to the ſenſe and genuine import of them; for otherwiſe the Holy Spirit did not bring to their remembrance all things which he had ſaid unto them, but ſuffer'd them to record ſome of his Sayings otherwiſe than He delivered them; nor were they faithful in execution of the Charge committed to them, which was to teach all Nations all things which he had commanded them. 2dly, Hence alſo, we may reſt aſſured, That what the Apoſtles taught in any of the Epiſtles directed to the Chriſtian Churches, they taught by the direction and guidance of the Holy Spirit: for ſince they were indicted by them as the Apoſtles of the Lord, for the inſtruction of the Church, of that and the ſucceeding Ages, if the Spirit of Truth did not guide them into all Truth, but ſuffer'd them to err in the compoſing of them; then was not this Promiſe of our Lord fulfilled unto them? No, not then, when they undertook to be the Teachers of the Church in Faith and Verity; and ſo were more eſpecially concern'd to have this Guidance of the Holy Spirit.

Arg. 4. §. VI. Theſe Epiſtles which were indicted, to be a ſtanding Rule of Faith to Chriſtians throughout all Ages of the World, the Goſpel contained in theſe as well as other Scriptures, being made known to all Nations for the Obedience of Faith, Rom. 6. 26. they muſt in all things propounded in them to our Faith, contain a Divine Teſtimony, or a Revelation of the Will of God. For as humane Faith depends upon the Teſtimony of Man, ſo divine Faith is that which depends upon the Teſtimony of God. And as Obedience to Men conſiſts in doing the Will of Men, ſo our Obedience to God conſiſts in our conformity to the Will of God. Again, if we muſt all be judged by this Law of Liberty, James 2. 12. if Chriſt at the laſt day will judge the Secrets of Mens Hearts, according to the Goſpel of St. Paul, Rom. 2. 16. if he will come in flaming Fire, taking Vengeance of all that obey not his Goſpel, then muſt this Goſpel, and this Law of Liberty, be a Rule of Faith until Chriſt's ſecond coming. For upon that account alone, can Men be bound under this dreadful Penalty, to yield Obedience to it, and be judged by it.

Arg. 5. §. VII. Lastly, That the Apostles, and Writers of the Books of the New Testament, were assisted both in their Preaching and Writing, by the Spirit of God, the Christians of all Ages from the beginning, do attest. (a) St. Clemens in his Epistle to the Corinthians saith, That the Apostles delivered the Gospel to us from our Lord Jesus Christ, and Christ from God; and that being filled with the Spirit, and having the Word of God committed to them, they went out preaching the Kingdom of God: He adds, That the Scriptures are the true Words of the Holy Spirit: And that St. Paul writ to them by the Spirit touching himself, and Cephas and Apollo. (b) Polycarp tells his Philippians, That none could attain to the Wisdom of St. Paul, who had writ Epistles to them; by looking into which, they might be built up in the Faith delivered to them.

(c) Irenæus informs us, That the Lord of all things gave to the Apostles Authority to preach the Gospel, and that by them we have known the Truth, that is, the Doctrine of the Son of God; to whom he said, He that heareth you heareth me: That this Gospel they preached, and after by the Will of God committed to Writing, to be the Foundation and Pillar of our Faith. Adds, That (d) all the Apostles knew the truth by Revelation as well as Paul; for as St. Paul was an Apostle not of Men, neither by Men, but by Jesus Christ and God the Father, so were they.

(e) Theophilus declares the consent there is betwixt the things spoken by the Prophets and in the Gospels, because they both spake by the same Spirit.

Clemens of Alexandria speaking of the Woman who anointed our Saviour's Feet with Ointment, saith, This may be a Symbol of the Doctrine of our Lord; for the (f) Feet anointed with sweet smelling Ointment, signifie the Divine Doctrine; for the Apostles partaking of the Holy Spirit, betokened by the Ointment of sweet Odor, are the Feet of our Lord anointed. The Apostles are with him, The Disciples of the Spirit: And (g) we may well call them Prophets, saith he, the Prophets and Apostles, being both acted by one and the same Spirit. And we who have the Scriptures are taught of God, being instructed by that Son of God.

(h) Origen is most express, That the Sacred Books are not the Writings of Men, but proceed from the afflatus of the Holy Ghost, and came to us by the Will of the Father thro' Jesus Christ, to them, saith he, that believe this, and adhere to the Canon of the Heavenly Church of Jesus Christ by Succession from the Apostles, we shall shew the appearing ways, viz. of distinguishing betwixt the Spirit and the Letter. (i) It becomes us, saith he, to believe, that in the Holy Scriptures there is not one title void of the Wisdom of God; for the Prophets speak, receiving from his Fulness; and there is nothing in Prophecy, or the Law, or the Gospel, or the Apostles, which is not from the Fulness. He adds, That (k) there is nothing unequal or distorted in the Oracles of God, but a sweet Harmony of the Old Scriptures with the New, of the legal Scriptures with the Prophetical, the Evangelical with the Apostolical. He adds, That (l) we must either say as the Infidels do, that because they are not useful, they are not Divinely Inspired; or as the Faithful do, that because they are profitable, they also are Divinely Inspired. But it is needless to cite more Passages from the Fathers of the first three Centuries, since by them they are constantly stiled, (m) The Divine Scriptures, the Oracles of God, the Wisdom of God, the Voice of God, the Divine Oracles; that all the Scriptures are the perfect and well-tuned Organ of God, giving from different Sounds one saving Voice to those who are willing to learn.

2*dly*, They add, (n) That both the Prophets of the Old, and the Writers of the New Testament, spake by one and the same Spirit; the Holy Spirit by the Providence of God, thro' the Divine Word, enlightning these Ministers of the Truth, the Prophets and the Apostles.

3*dly*, They not only (o) read those Writings from the Beginning, on the Lord's Day, for the Instruction of the People, but made their Inferences and Exhortations from them to all Christian Duties, and very early made their Comments on them.

4*thly*, They proved all their Doctrines from these Scriptures, and thence inferr'd, That they retained the true Rule of Faith, because (p) they delivered only what was consonant to the Doctrine contain'd in the Evangelists, and the Epistles of the Apostles; as is evident from all their Writings.

5*thly*, From these Scriptures of the New Testament they remonstrated against, and confuted all the (q) Hereticks which arose in those times, declaring, That they were later than those Apostles who delivered to them the Rule of Faith, and that they taught things contrary to, or alien from the Doctrine delivered by the Apostles of our Lord.

Lastly, That the Scriptures of the New Testament were Divinely Inspired, was a Truth so received by all Christians, that even some of the Hereticks durst not deny it; and they who did, were look'd upon as Infidels, say Origen and others. Thus speaking of the Disciples of Theodotus Coriarius, who corrupted the Scriptures, (r) What Wickedness, saith an ancient Author, is this, For either they believe not the Holy Scriptures to be distinctly Inspired, and then they are Infidels; or they pretend to be wiser than the Holy Ghost, and then they are mad or possessed.

Now if persons so near to the Times of the Apostles, that some of them conversed with them, some of them were themselves inspired with spiritual Gifts, some of them were acquainted with the immediate Successors of the Apostles; if the Churches, which received these Writings from the very Hands of the Apostles, and kept still the Original, or the Authentick Copies of them, did so unquestionably receive them as Inspired Writings, and own them as the Rule, Pillar, and the Ground of their whole Faith, if they read them together with those Writings of the Prophets, which were on all hands owned as the Word of God, prov'd from them all the Doctrines of the Christian Faith, receiv'd them as the perfect Rule of Christian Duty, confuted all Heresies and erroneous Doctrines from them, and represented those as Infidels, who question'd or deny'd their Inspiration by the Holy Ghost: They doubtless, must be well assured, they were delivered to them as such by the Apostles, or the Sacred Pen-men of them; and then, What reason can these latter Ages have to question what was so universally acknowledged by those who lived in that very Age in which those Books were writ, and ſent to the Churches of Chriſt, or who received them under that Character, from Men who in that very Age, had own'd them as written by the Conduct and Aſſiſtance of the Spirit of God?

Books

Corollary. §. VIII. Now hence it follows, That what the Apoſtles have delivered in theſe Epiſtles, as neceſſary to be believ'd or done by Chriſtians, muſt be as neceſſary to be believ'd and practis'd in order to Salvation, as what was perſonally taught by Chriſt himſelf, and is contained in the Goſpels; they being in the writing theſe Epiſtles, the Servants, Apoſtles, Ambaſſadors, and Miniſters of Chriſt, and Stewards of the Myſteries of God; and the Doctrines and Precepts they deliver'd in them, being the Will, the Mind, the Truth, and the Commandments of God.

Now evident it will be to any who judiciouſly read theſe Epiſtles, That they contain ſomethings neceſſary to be believ'd, and done, which were not clearly taught by Chriſt whilſt he was on Earth, nor are delivered clearly in the Goſpels; as we may learn both from our Saviour's Words to his Diſciples, and from theſe Epiſtles.

Firſt, From our Saviour's Words; for thus he ſpeaks to his Diſciples:

Theſe things I have ſpoken to you, being with you, Joh. 14. 25.

But the Comforter the Holy Ghoſt, whom the Father ſhall ſend in my Name, he ſhall teach you all things, ver. 26. And again,

I have yet many things to ſay to you, but ye cannot bear them now, Joh. 16. 12.

But when He, the Spirit of Truth, ſhall come, He ſhall guide you into all Truth, ver. 13.

Theſe things have I ſpoken to you in Parables, but the Hour cometh when I will not ſpeak to you ſtill in Parables, but I will ſhew you plainly of the Father, ver. 25.

2dly, From the things contained in theſe Epiſtles: As, v. gr. That by the Deeds of the Law ſhall no Fleſh be juſtified, Rom. 3. 20. That both Jew and Gentile being under condemnation, were only to be juſtified freely by God's grace, thro' the Redemption that is in Chriſt Jeſus, whom God had ſet forth to be a propitiation thro' Faith in his Blood, ver. 25. That if Righteouſneſs came by the Law, then Chriſt was dead in vain, Gal. 2. 21. That as many as are of the Law are under the Curſe, Ch. 3. 16. That if we be circumciſed, Chriſt ſhall profit us nothing, Chriſt is become of none effect to them that are under the Law, they are fallen from Grace, Ch. 5. 2, 5. That the Law was to continue only to the time of Reformation, Heb. 9. 10. and was then to be diſannulled for the weakneſs and unprofitableneſs of it, Ch. 7. 18. That Chriſt is a Prieſt for ever after the order of Melchiſedeck, Ch. 5. 5, 6. That he hath an unchangeable Prieſthood; that he in Heaven is continually making interceſſion for us, and therefore is able to ſave us to the uttermoſt, Ch. 7. 24, 25.

Again, In theſe Epiſtles only have we Inſtructions about many great and neceſſary Duties, as v. g. That all our Thankſgivings are to be offer'd up to God in the Name of Chriſt, Eph. 5. 8, 20. Theſſ. 5. 18. Hebr. 13. 14, 15. The Duties which we owe to our Civil Governours, are only hinted in thoſe Words of Chriſt, Render to Cæſar the things that are Cæſar's; but are enlarged upon in the Epiſtle to the Romans, Chap. 13. to Titus, Tit. 3. 1. and in the Firſt Epiſtle of St. Peter, 1 Pet. 2. 10. — 17. So alſo are the Duties which we owe to our Spiritual Superiours, taught more expreſly in theſe Epiſtles, Gal. 6. 6. 1 Theſſ. 5. 12, 13. Heb. 13. 7. — 18. In fine, All the particular Duties belonging to the Relations of Huſband and Wife, Parents and Children, Maſters and Servants, are particularly handled in theſe Epiſtles, Eph. 5. 28, 33. — 6. 1. — 9. Col. 3. 18. — 25. but are ſcarce ever mentioned in the Goſpels. But it may be objected, Object. 1. That theſe Epiſtles were writ to thoſe who were in the Faith already, and ſo could not be deſign'd to teach them the Fundamental Articles, and Points neceſſary to Salvation, or to inſtruct them in what was neceſſary to make them Chriſtians.

Anſw. It follows not from their being Chriſtians already; That the Apoſtles deſign'd not to write to them in theſe Epiſtles of any Fundamental Articles, or Points neceſſary to Salvation, for it is very plain, they do ſo, St. Paul in his Epiſtle to the Corinthians, 1 Cor. 15. 3. writes of the Reſurrection of the Dead, and of Chriſt's Death and Reſurrection, as of Doctrines neceſſary to be believ'd; and in his Epiſtle to the Galatians, of ſeeking Juſtification by the Works of the Law, as a thing oppoſite to, and deſtructive of the Grace of Chriſt. And ſince there were among them falſe Apoſtles, and deceitful Workers, who corrupted the Word, and handled the Word of God deceitfully, 2 Cor. 2. 17. — 4. 2. corrupted their Minds from the ſimplicity of Chriſt, Ch. 11. 3. turn'd them from him that called them to another Goſpel, Gal. 1. 6. ſought to deprive them of their Reward, Col. 2. 18, 19. and ſeparate them from their Head Chriſt Jeſus, who put away a good Conſcience, and ſo made Shipwrack of the Faith, 1 Tim. 2. 19. whoſe Doctrine did ſpread as a Gangreen, and overthrew the Faith of ſome, 2 Tim. 2. 16. many Diſputers of corrupt Minds turning from the Truth, 1 Tim. 6. 5. many unruly and vain Talkers, and Deceivers, who ſubverted whole Houſes, teaching things that they ought not, for filthy Lucres ſake, Tit. 1. 10, 11. Muſt not theſe things adminiſter niſter occaſion to theſe ſacred Pen-men to endeavour to ſtabliſh and confirm them in the Faith, by letting them they wrote to know the moment of thoſe Articles, the neceſſity of that Faith they had been taught, and the pernicious Conſequences of thoſe Practices to which they were ſeduc'd by theſe Deceivers?

Again, Seeing theſe Writings were intended as a Rule not to them only to whom they were ſent, but to all future Ages of the Church, and the Spirit expreſly told them, that in the latter days ſome ſhould depart from the Faith, giving heed to ſeducing Spirits and Doctrines of Devils, 1 Tim. 4. 1, 2. that the time would come when they would not endure ſound Doctrine, but would turn their ears from the Truth, 2 Tim. 4. 3, 4. when falſe Prophets ſhould ariſe among them bringing in damnable Doctrines, whoſe pernicious ways many ſhould follow, 2 Pet. 2. 1. 2. Seeing they knew that after their Departure grievous Wolves would enter in, not ſparing the flock, Acts 20. 29, 30. Muſt not all theſe Conſiderations give juſt occaſion to them to write of the great Articles of Chriſtian Faith, and of the neceſſary points of Chriſtian Converſation, to preſerve them, and thoſe that came after them, from thoſe damnable Doctrines and pernicious Ways?

Moreover, this Objection is therefore inſignificant, becauſe the Apoſtles do inform us, that they found it fate to write the ſame things to them they had heard, Philip. 3. 1. though they knew the Truth, and were confirmed in it, 1 John 2. 21. that they might have theſe things always in remembrance, 2 Pet. 1. 12, 15. and that ſome who for the time of their Converſion might have been great Proficients in the Faith, had yet need to be taught again the firſt Principles of the Oracles of God, Hebr. 5. 12.

Obj. 2. It alſo may be ſaid, That theſe Epiſtles were writ upon particular Occaſions, and without thoſe Occaſions had not been writ, and ſo cannot be thought neceſſary to Salvation.

Anſw. This Objection is neither exactly true of all the Epiſtles, nor of all that is contained in them; not of all the Epiſtles, for it appears not that five of the General Epiſtles, the Epiſtle to the Romans, to the Epheſians, and to the Hebrews, were writ upon particular Occaſions, unleſs the inſtructing Men in the Faith, and preſerving them from Hereſie, or Apoſtacy, be called particular Occaſions; and where this doth appear, it is very evident, that when the Apoſtles had writ what they thought proper upon thoſe Occaſions, they add many excellent Rules of Piety and Vertue.

Anſw. 2. 2*dly*, Were it exactly true, that all the Epiſtles were writ upon particular Occaſions, it will not follow hence, that they were not directed, in writing them, by the Holy Spirit; or, that they contain nothing neceſſary to be believ'd or done in order to Salvation. For the Book of Pſalms was not only writ upon particular Occaſions, but was alſo adapted to, and fitted for them. The Prophets were all ſent by God, to teſtifie againſt, and call the Jews to Repentance for Sins committed in their time, to reform their Manners, or comfort them in their Diſtreſſes; that is, upon particular Occaſions: but will it therefore follow, that they did not write by the Aſſiſtance of the Spirit of God, or that there is nothing in the Pſalms, or in the Prophets, which was neceſſary to be believ'd or practis'd by the Jews? Moreover, The Goſpel of St. Luke was writ on a particular Occaſion, viz. to inſtruct Theophilus in the Certainty of the things he had been taught: and yet (a) Epiphanius informs us, that the Holy Ghoſt compell'd and ſtimulated him to the Work. The Goſpel of St. Mark was writ, ſay the Ancients, at the Requeſt of the Converts at Rome; and yet he writ it, ſaith (b) Epiphanius, πνεύματι ἁγίῳ ἐμπεφορημένος, by the impulſe of the Holy Ghoſt. They alſo ſay, That St. John was importuned by all the Aſiaticks, to write his Goſpel: and yet, ſaith (c) Epiphanius, The Holy Spirit did inwardly impel him to the writing of it. The Goſpel of St. Matthew, (d) ſay they, was indited at the Requeſt of the Hebrews, that he might ſupply, by writing, the want of his Preſence with them: ſo that we ſee the Writings of the Apoſtles and Evangeliſts may be occaſionally penn'd, and yet be the Products of the Holy Ghoſt, and contain things neceſſary to be believ'd and done.

Anſw. 3. 3*dly*, The particular Occaſions of ſome of theſe Writings being the Errours or the Waverings of Chriſtians in fundamental Points, as appears from the Epiſtles to the Corinthians, Galatians, &c. and in others the buſie induſtry of falſe Apoſtles and deceitful Workers, to pervert them from the Faith; that theſe Epiſtles were writ on ſuch Occaſions, is rather a Preſumption that they were writ upon ſome fundamental Points, than that they could not be indited upon theſe Occaſions.

Moreover, Great Advantages ariſe from the occaſional writing theſe Epiſtles, and ſuch as might induce the Holy Spirit to excite them to the Work. For,

1. All the Occaſions which they took to write, from the Diſorders, Errours, Hereſies,

Miſtakes,

Miſtakes, which at firſt crept into the Church, render theſe Writings ſtanding Rules for the Deciſion of like Caſes through all future Ages.

2. The Deportment of the Apoſtles towards theſe erroneous Perſons and diſorderly Walkers, the Care they uſed to recover or inform them better, the Zeal and Tenderneſs they ſhew'd, and the Rules they laid down in thoſe Caſes, are excellent Precedents and Directions for all Church-Governours in Caſes of like nature.

3*dly*, All the occaſions which they had to write for the Direction of Church-Governours how to behave themſelves in the Church of God, to give Rules for the Qualifications of thoſe who were to be admitted to thoſe Offices, and touching their Behaviour in them, for the Settlement of the Affairs of the Church, and the decent and regular Performance of Divine Service, afford us ſtanding Rules of Government, and of admitting and ordaining a Succeſſion of thoſe divers Orders in the Church.

Laſtly, Theſe various occaſions give us full Aſſurance that theſe Epiſtles muſt be written in thoſe very times when theſe Diſorders hapned, and theſe Errours crept into the Church, and ſo take off all Jealouſie, or Suſpicion that they were Writings contrived in the following Ages of the Church; whereas had their Writings been only Syſtems of Theological Doctrines, and Rules of Life, which equally concerned all Ages of the Church, it might have been more plauſibly objected, that they were framed by ſome Chriſtian Biſhops aſſembled for that end.

Obj. 3. But if all, or moſt of the Truths declared in the Epiſtles were to be received, and believed as fundamental Articles, what then became of thoſe Chriſtians who were fallen aſleep before thoſe things in the Epiſtles were revealed to them?

Anſw. 1. This Queſtion equally concerns the Evangeliſts, and more eſpecially the Goſpel of (a) St. John, which, ſay the Antients, was either the laſt Portion of Scripture which was written, or the laſt ſave his Epiſtles, it being written after his Return from his Exile in Patmos to Epheſus; and ſo if it contain fundamental Articles, or neceſſary Rules of Life, what became of thoſe Chriſtians who died before they were revealed in it.

Anſw. 2. We ſay not that all, or moſt of the Truths, declared either in the Epiſtles or Goſpels, are to be accounted fundamental or neceſſary Articles; but only that ſome of them ought to be ſo accounted, eſpecially thoſe which have this Character of a neceſſary Article or Rule of Life, that the Denial or Non-practice of them is repreſented as that which will endanger our Salvation, or cut us off from the Communion of the Church.

Anſw. 3. 'Tis alſo a precarious Suppoſition, that they who died before theſe Epiſtles were writ by them, muſt die before the neceſſary things contained in them were revealed to them, ſeeing we know that the Apoſtles writ the ſame things which they had preach'd before, and St. Luke writ his Goſpel that Theophilus might know the Certainty of the things he had been taught: and in thoſe times of the Effuſion of the Spirit of Wiſdom and of Knowledge, they had an Unction which could teach them all things, 1 John 2. 27. and ſo ſupply the unavoidable Defects of outward Teachers.

Obj. 4. The Goſpel was to be preached to the Poor: now they are not capable of ſublime Notions, nor can they comprehend myſterious Reaſonings.

Anſw. 1. Whether this Objection be intended againſt the Neceſſity of believing the Epiſtles of St. Paul only, or alſo of the Goſpel of St. John, is uncertain, the ſublime Notions and myſterious Reaſonings being common to both.

Anſw. 2. There ſeemeth no neceſſity of troubling the poor Common People with ſublime Notions, or myſterious Reaſonings, ſince both the Ancient Church and our own Catechiſm declare that all the Articles of Chriſtian Faith common to all that bear that Name, are compriſed in the Apoſtle's Creed. For when the Child ſaith, My Godfathers and Godmothers promiſed I ſhould believe All the Articles of the Chriſtian Faith, ſince it is evident they only ſtipulated for the Belief of the Apoſtles Creed in Baptiſm, and when he doth rehearſe thoſe Articles, he only doth rehearſe the Apoſtles Creed, 'tis certain that, by our Catechiſm, muſt be ſuppoſed to contain All the Articles of Chriſtian Faith.

Moreover, it is very difficult, if not impoſſible, to make ſuch perſons have a right Conception of the Spiritual Nature, and the Attributes of God, or to enable them, by Reaſon, to prove the Providence of God, or the Immortality of the Soul; but yet theſe things muſt be propoſed to them as Articles, or Foundations of their Faith. And as it is not very difficult for them to learn from Scripture the Truth of theſe things; ſo neither is it difficult from the ſame Scripture to learn the Truth of all the Articles of the Apoſtles Creed, even in that ſenſe in which all Chriſtian Ages did receive them.

In a word, Were theſe Mechanicks as much concern'd for Spirituals as they are for Temporals, as many of them have attain'd to great Proficiency in their reſpective Arts, ſo might they alſo, by a Chriſtian diligence, attain to a competent proficiency in all the neceſſary Articles of Chriſtian Faith, and in the Rules of Chriſtian Piety, or of their Duty to God and

Man-

Man. Now Chriſtianity being that Doctrine which is after Godlineſs, Tit. 1. 1. I believe nothing is propoſed in it as neceſſary to be believ'd to Salvation, which hath not ſome tendency to the Promotion of true Piety.

§. IX. Having thus ſtabliſh'd the Divine Authority of theſe Epiſtles, I ſhall endeavour to confirm the Truth of Chriſtian Faith from what is copiouſly delivered in them, and in thoſe Acts of the Apoſtles which contain the Hiſtory of the Authors of them.

This is of abſolute neceſſity in this degenerate Age, in which all manner of Impiety exceedingly abounds, and Men are by their Lives diſpoſed, and even concern'd to queſtion the Truth of that Religion, and of thoſe Writings which threaten the ſevereſt Puniſhments to their Enormities; and do induſtriouſly, and even impudently, perſue this black Deſign both in their Diſcourſes and their Writings.

Now, to prove againſt theſe Enemies of reveal'd Religion the Truth and Certainty of Chriſtian Faith, from what is copiouſly delivered in theſe Epiſtles, and in the Acts of the Apoſtles, it will be only requiſite to ſhew that they contain a Declaration of ſuch things as could not poſſibly be true, but they muſt alſo be a full and a convincing Demonſtration of the Truth of Chriſtian Faith, and that we have great reaſon to believe the Truth of what is thus related by them. And,

1*ſt*. That they contain a Declaration of ſuch things as could not poſſibly be true, but they muſt alſo be a full and a convincing Demonſtration of the Truth of Chriſtian Faith, the Declaration will be ſufficient to evince; for it was this:

That the miraculous Gifts and powerful Operations of the Holy Ghoſt were plentifully afforded to them who preach'd the Goſpel to the World, and alſo to thoſe Chriſtian Churches which receiv'd that Goſpel, and embrac'd the Faith they taught.

By way of Preface to what I ſhall collect, from theſe Acts and Epiſtles concerning theſe miraculous Gifts and Operations of the Holy Ghoſt, it may deſerve to be conſidered, that as the Bleſſed Jeſus ſpake as never Man ſpake, that is, delivered ſuch juſt, holy, beneficial Commands as never were before made known to the World; and did, for Confirmation of his Doctrine, the Works that no other Man did; ſo was he pleaſed to lay the Truth of his Prophetick Office upon ſuch future and miraculous Events, as no Impoſtor, that had any Wit, would undertake, or could be able to perform.

For the Prophecies which he had undertaken to fulfil, and his own frequent Declarations, made it neceſſary, 1. That he ſhould die a peculiar Death, i. e. by being lifted up upon the Croſs: 2. That in three days he ſhould riſe again: 3. That after his Reſurrection his Goſpel ſhould in the ſpace of forty years, or before the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, be propagated throughout the World or the whole Roman Empire: 4. That in order to the propagating of it, the Holy Ghoſt ſhould plentifully be vouchſafed to his Apoſtles, and ſhould endue them with power from on high, and even enable them to do greater works than he himſelf hath done, John 14. 12.

At the great day of the Feaſt of Tabernacles, when all the Jews aſſembled at Jeruſalem, were joyful in their Beth Haſchoavah or Houſe of drawing Water, and were, ſay their Traditions, in expectation that the Holy Ghoſt would fall upon them, Jeſus ſtood and cried, ſaying, If any man thirſt, let him come unto me, and drink; he that believeth in me, out of his belly ſhall flow Rivers of living waters: this ſpake he of the Spirit which they that believed on him ſhould receive, John 7. 37, 38. And at the cloſe of his Life on Earth, he comforts his Diſciples with the Promiſe of this Holy Ghoſt, who ſhould continue with them not only to teach them all things, and bring all things to their remembrance, but alſo to convince the World of Sin, becauſe they believed not in him, and of his Righteouſneſs, who was ſo glorioufly exalted to the right-hand of God his Father, and of a future Judgment, becauſe the Prince of this World being caſt out from thoſe he had poſſeſt, was judged, John 16. 7, 11. And after his Reſurrection, he ſpeaks thus to them; Behold, I ſend the promiſe of my Father upon you, for ye ſhall be baptized with the Holy Ghoſt not many days hence, Luke 24. 49. And ye ſhall receive power after the Holy Ghoſt is come upon you, and ye ſhall be witneſſes to me both in Jeruſalem, and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and to the uttermoſt parts of the earth, Acts 1. 8. And laſtly, to encourage others to believe the Doctrine which they taught, he ſaith, Theſe Signs ſhall follow them that believe; in my name ſhall they caſt out Devils, they ſhall ſpeak with new Tongues, they ſhall take up Serpents, and if they drink any deadly thing it ſhall not hurt them, they ſhall lay hands on the ſick, and they ſhall recover.

Now I deſire to know whether any thing of this nature was ever undertaken, or laid as the foundation of their Credit by any other Author of any Doctrine, Religion, Sect, or Hereſie? Whether they ever made their own violent Death and Reſurrection the foundation of their Veracity? or promiſed the like Powers and Aſſiſtances when they were riſen to thoſe who ſhould promote, or ſhould embrace their Doctrine? or, whether that which no Man elſe durſt undertake, was not performed by the Holy Jeſus ſo effectually, as that his Doctrine presently prevail'd, and was receiv'd throughout the World in spight of all the Opposition Men and Devils made against it, and wrought in Christians such a lasting Faith, as Time and Vice, though most concern'd to do it, was never able to deface.

But though we have no Instances of any other Persons that made the like Attempts, yet do our Lord's Disciples tread exactly in their Master's Steps: For the first thing which they declared to the World was this, that the Forerunner of their Lord, John the Baptist, when Jerusalem, and all Judea, and all the Regions about Jordan, and in particular the Pharisees and Sadducees, the Publicans and Soldiers, repaired to his Baptism, declared in the Audience of them all, There was one shortly to come after him, one that stood then among them, who would baptize them with the Holy Ghost and Fire, Matth. 3. 11. They also add, That their Lord, both before and after his Resurrection, made a like Promise to them, That he would suddenly send down upon them the Spirit promised by the Father, that they should receive power from on high, and be baptized with the Holy Ghost, and so should be enabled to be the Witnesses of his Resurrection and of his Doctrine.

When these Apostles had themselves receiv'd the Holy Ghost, they declare, they only had received what God had promised by his Prophet Joel, saying, Chap. 2. 28. It shall come to pass in the last days, I will pour my Spirit upon all flesh, and your Sons and your Daughters shall prophesie, and your Young-men shall see Visions, and your Old-men shall dream Dreams, Acts 2. 16. Where note, That 'tis a receiv'd Rule among the Jews, that the last days, when used by the Prophets, do signifie the times of the Messiah. See the Note on 1 Tim. 4. 1. Note also, That God of old revealed his Will to his People by Visions, Dreams, and by Prophetick Revelations; so that this is a Promise, that in the days of the Messiah God would miraculously pour his Spirit upon Men, and by that Spirit would enable them to prophesie, and to reveal his Will to others. Yea they say boldly to all that stood amazed at it, Repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost; for the Promise is to you, and to your Children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call. Here then we see how fully they both claim a Promise of the Holy Ghost made by their Master to them, and also promise the like Gift to them who should believe, and be baptized in his Name.

Now either these Promises were actually performed, and made good before they were indited, and put into the Records of the Christian Faith, the Writings of the Apostles and Evangelists, or they were not; if all these Promises were fulfill'd before the Records which contain them were indited, then had Christ sent the Holy Ghost upon the Apostles, and given them the Promise of the Father; then the believing Jews and Gentiles were actually baptized with the Holy Ghost, and were enabled to speak with Tongues, and Prophecy; and so Christ must have given certain demonstration of the Truth both of his Resurrection and his Promises. But if these Promises were not made good before these Records were indited, then the whole Story of St. John, and of the Acts of the Apostles, might easily have been convinc'd of Falshood by many thousand living Witnesses both in Jerusalem, and in all other places where they lay the Scene of this great Dispensation, because they had heard nothing of these things but from their Histories. Then by the Suffrage of our own Evangelists, our Lord's Forerunner must be a Deceiver when he declared the Messiah should baptize them with the Holy Ghost and Fire, whom he had then baptiz'd with Water. Yea, in those very Histories designed to convince others that Jesus was the Christ, they must leave on Record a Promise made not to them only, but to all Believers, which never was fulfill'd; the Apostles also must be falsly introduced, saying, This was that which was spoken by the Prophet Joel, and with the greatest Impudence, promising that Holy Ghost to others which they themselves had not received; and surely then those Jews which after all Christ's Miracles required a Sign, would have enquired of the Apostles, where is that great Effusion of the Spirit promised by the Prophet Joel, which may assure us that the times of the Messiah are now come? Where is that fiery Baptism? Where are those Rivers of spiritual Water which their pretended Christ, and his Forerunner, promised? Let us see them, that we may believe him. With what face could St. Peter promise that Holy Ghost to others upon Faith in Christ, which they themselves had not received? Or with what face could Luke declare he did this before such an Audience of which the greatest part must then be living, and so as with that Promise to convert three thousand Souls? Had neither these Converts, nor this Audience, any experience of that Affair? In fine, If these Apostles were not assisted with these miraculous Powers of the Holy Ghost, they must be well assured, that he who had so oft engaged whilst he lived, to send this Comforter to them, and at his Resurrection promised that in few days they should be all baptized with the Holy Ghost, was a Deceiver, and false Prophet, and then what Motive could they have, or how could they conceive it a thing possible to be his Witnesses successfully to the uttermost parts of the earth? If by the coming of the Holy Ghost upon them they were indeed enabled to speak all Languages, this Gift was a sufficient Confirmation of the Resurrection and Ascension of that Jesus who thus made good his Promise to them.

them. If they had no ſuch Gift, how was it poſſible that ſuch unlearned Perſons, who only underſtood their Mother-Tongue, ſhould diſcourſe in their ſeveral Languages to the Romans, Grecians, Egyptians, Perſians, Armenians, Scythians, Indians, and all the barbarous Nations of the World? And to what purpoſe was it for them to travel to thoſe Nations, to ſtand mute among them, or elſe to tell a ſtory to them of which they could not underſtand one word? If, as the ſacred Story doth inform us, they preach'd the Word with demonſtration of the Spirit, and Power; if they went forth preaching every where, the Lord working with them, and confirming the Word with Signs following, God alſo bearing witneſs to them by Signs and Miracles, and by divers Powers and Diſtributions of the Holy Ghoſt; then might they boldly ſay, We are his witneſſes of theſe things, and ſo is the Holy Ghoſt, which God hath given to thoſe that obey him, Acts 5. 32. But if no ſuch Aſſiſtance was vouchſafed to them, what evidence could they give to the World that he had ſent them on this Errand? Or how could they expect to reverſe all the ancient Laws and Religions of the World, and to perſuade all Nations to own and worſhip, as the great Saviour of the World, one who was lately hanged on a Tree. Their Compliance therefore with this Miſſion, and their Continuance in this Teſtimony under thoſe dreadful Miſeries they ſuffer'd for it, as well as their incredible ſucceſs in Propagation of the Chriſtian Faith to every Nation, will not ſuffer us to doubt that they were well aſſured of the Completion of this Promiſe to them, and ſo of Chriſt's miraculous Aſſiſtance of them.

§. X. Moreover, one ſignal Evidence of the miraculous Powers and Diſtributions of the Holy Ghoſt, confer'd upon the firſt Promoters and Profeſſors of the Chriſtian Faith, ariſeth from the plain Matters of Fact related in the Acts of the Apoſtle, and the Epiſtles of S. Paul, concerning the miraculous Effuſion of theſe extraordinary Gifts, on them who owned this Faith, and were baptized in the Name of Chriſt.

1*ſt*, That on the day of Pentecoſt the Apoſtles and Diſciples of Chriſt Jeſus being met together, cloven Tongues, like to fire, ſell upon them, and they were all filled with the Holy Ghoſt, and began to ſpeak with other Tongues, as the Spirit gave them Utterance: adding, that when this Miracle was wrought upon them, there were devout men of every Nation who heard them ſpeak in their own Tongues the wondrous works of God; and upon this account did, with Amazement, ask, Are not all theſe which ſpeak Galileans? and how hear we every man in our own Tongue wherein we were born! And that St. Peter, one of Chriſt's Diſciples, did then and there declare that the ſame Jeſus whom the Jews had crucified, was by God raiſed up, and exalted to his own right-hand, and having receiv'd of the Father the Promiſe of the Holy Ghoſt, had ſhed forth this which they now ſaw and heard; and that he with theſe Sayings inſtantly converted three thouſand Souls, and that God daily added to the Church ſuch as ſhould be ſaved, Acts 2.

2*dly*, That when St. Philip had converted many People of Samaria to the Chriſtian Faith, and had baptized them, St. Peter and St. John laid their hands on them, and they received the Holy Ghoſt: and that Simon Magus ſeeing this, offer'd them Money to have this Power imparted to him, that on whomſoever he ſhould lay his hands, they might receive the Holy Ghoſt, Acts 8.

3*dly*, That whilſt St. Paul, a zealous Phariſee, and a more zealous Perſecutor, breathed out Threatnings and Slaughter againſt the Diſciples of the Lord, and had received Commiſſion from the High Prieſt and Elders, to bring them bound unto Jeruſalem to be puniſhed, as he came nigh to Damaſcus, a light from Heaven above the brightneſs of the Sun, ſhone round about him, and ſtruck him blind; and the Lord Jeſus, by a Voice from Heaven, ſaid unto him, Saul, Saul, why perſecuteſt thou me? And that one Ananias being ſent by the ſame Jeſus to lay his hands upon him, he preſently receives his Sight, is filled with the Holy Ghoſt, and preacheth Chriſt, in the Jewiſh Synagogues erected in that famous City, Acts 9.

4*thly*, That whilſt St. Peter was preaching to Cornelius, his Kinſmen, and near Friends, the Holy Ghoſt fell on all thoſe that heard the word, and they ſpake with Tongues, and magnified God in the Preſence of the Jews, Acts 10. 44, 45.

5*thly*, That St. Paul finding twelve Diſciples of the Baptiſt who had not yet received the Holy Ghoſt, he baptizes them in the Name of the Lord Jeſus; and when he had laid his hands upon them, they received the Holy Ghoſt, and propheſied, Acts 19. 6.

Now all theſe things were done, ſaith this Record, in populous and famous Cities.

The firſt in Jeruſalem, at the great Feaſt of Pentecoſt, immediately enſuing Chriſt's Aſcenſion, and therefore at a time when all Jeruſalem was met to celebrate that Feaſt, and when the fame of the Meſſiah, expected ſuddenly to appear, Luke 19. 11. had brought great multitudes of Jews and Proſelites out of all Nations, to attend the iſſue of that Expectation; and ſo the Matter of Fact, if true, muſt be well known by all Judea ſo to be: nor could it possibly be false, but all then present, and alive, when first the fact was publish'd to the World, must be so many living Witnesses of the falshood of it.

The second populous City whose Converts received this effusion of the Holy Ghost, was the Metropolis of Samaria, according to our Lord's Prediction, You shall be my Witnesses in Samaria, Acts 1. 8. The Time when this was done, is noted by three Characters; viz. That it was done soon after the Death of Stephen, Acts 8. 2. and before the Conversion of S. Paul, ver. 1. and when Simon the celebrated Magician was there, and had so gain'd upon the People of that City, that they all gave heed to him, and owned him as the great Power of God, ver. 9, 10.

The third was done in Damascus, the Metropolis and noble Mart of Syria, where flourish-ed many thousand Jews, upon a Person known by the whole Nation of the Jews to be a strict and celebrated Pharisee, and once a zealous Persecutor of the Christian Faith; one after his Conversion, which hapned the next year after our Lord's Ascension, was hated, and persecuted by his own Nation for preaching up that Faith he formerly endeavour'd to destroy; and so not only they of Damascus, and they who journeyed with him, and saw and felt that glorious Appearance, which was the means of this Conversion, but even the whole Jewish Nation must be acquainted with, and even alarm'd at this miraculous and sudden Change.

The fourth happen'd in the City of Cæsarea, the Seat of the R. Governour of Judea, inhabited by Jews, Samaritans, and Gentiles, and well stock'd with Roman Souldiers, upon the Person and Kindred of Cornelius, a Centurion of the Roman Band, one well reported of by the whole Nation of the Jews, and so not only Cæsarea, but all Judea and Rome also must be acquainted with the Conversion of a Man so eminent for his Post, so well approv'd by the whole Jewish Nation for his Piety. The Character of the time when this was done, we learn from these Circumstances, that before the Word was preached to the Jews only, and that this was the first Instance of their preaching to convert a Gentile to the Faith of Christ.

The fifth was done in Ephesus, the Metropolis of the Proconsular Asia, about twelve years after the former, in a City where dwelt many Jews, who were Teachers of the Law in opposition to the Gospel; and who had there a Synagogue: and after this, all Asia, both Jews and Greeks, heard the word of Christ, Acts 19. 10, 17.

Now when Times and Places, Circumstances and Events, are so particularly set down, and are of such a nature as seem to carry in them a conspicuous evidence of the notorious Falshood, or the clear Truth of the Narration, as it is a sign that the Historian intended no Deceit, so neither seems it easie to conceive, how such great Cities and Regions should be ignorant of the Truth, or Falshood of them, or be capable of being imposed upon by such Relations.

All that can possibly be offer'd to impair the Credit of these Evidences of the miraculous Operations of the Holy Ghost, exercised by the Apostles, and conferr'd on such as did embrace the Christian Faith, must be comprised in these two Particulars; viz. Either that these things were not written and publish'd by St. Luke, or in his time; or, that they were not truly written, but contain false Stories invented for the Credit of Christianity.

Now that this History was originally and universally received by the Tradition of the Church amongst her true undoubted Scriptures, (a) Eusebius sufficiently informs us. Clemens of Alexandria and Origen confirm the same Tradition. And as all agree that this History was written by St. Luke, and own'd as an unquestionable Record of Christianity; so do we find it cited by (b) St. Clemens, St. Paul's Companion; by (c) Papias, who conversed with Men of the Apostles time; and by (d) Polycarp, who was St. John's Disciple: And (e) Irenæus who flourished in the second Century, hath in a large Chapter almost epitomiz'd it. Nor do I read of any Jew or Gentile who did except against the Truth or the Sincerity of the Relator of these things. Now if a Record so early, and so generally received and cited by the Christians, may be, without all proof, rejected, as not written by that Author whose Name it hath still born, if a Writing thus unanimously own'd among the Records of the Christian Faith, may be, without all reason, rejected, as a spurious or doubtful piece, the Truth and Credit of all History must be entirely subverted: and so there will be nothing certain left concerning any Records of Antiquity.

But if, according to this General Tradition, this History was indeed writ and published by St. Luke, there must be many Myriads still living in Judea, Samaria, Damascus, Ephesus, Cæsarea, and many other places mention'd in these Acts, who could be able to disprove these things, had they been false; which yet was either not at all, or unsuccessfully attempted, as the Issue, which concluded in its general Reception, testifies. We therefore may conclude, that neither Jew or Gentile, Orthodox Chriſtian or Apoſtate, though they were all concern'd to do it, found any cauſe to doubt the Certainty of what was thus recorded.

But, to give Scepticiſm its utmoſt Scope, be it this Hiſtory was not publiſh'd till an hundred years after our Lord's Aſcenſion, beyond which Infidelity cannot go, if we conſider the Citations of it before that time, and the Abridgment of it made by Irenæus not long after; either the Facts related in it were true, and then they are a ſignal Evidence of the miraculous Operations of the Holy Ghoſt vouchſafed to Chriſtians; or they were falſe, and then how is it poſſible they ſhould obtain ſo eaſie and ſo general Belief? Could they not know in Judea, Samaria, and Epheſus, by what means they were firſt converted to the Chriſtian Faith? Muſt it not be ſufficient prejudice to them againſt theſe Tales, that they had lived ſo long in the Profeſſion of that Faith, and had heard nothing of theſe things, too wonderful, too much conducing to the Honour and Confirmation of that Faith to be ſo long conceal'd, had they been truly done by two ſuch eminent Apoſtles as were St. Peter and St. Paul?

§. XI. Having made this brief Collection of Inſtances reſpecting theſe ſpiritual Gifts from the Acts of the Apoſtles, I now proceed to theſe Epiſtles which almoſt ſeverally contain ſufficient Proofs of the Effuſion of the Holy Ghoſt upon Believers, and of his miraculous Aſſiſtance of the Preachers of the Chriſtian Faith, and jointly do concur to make this Evidence triumphant over Infidelity. For,

1*ſt*, St. Paul writes to the Romans thus; I long to ſee you, that I may impart to you ſome ſpiritual Gift, to the end you may be eſtabliſhed, Rom. 1. 11. See the Note there. For I know, ſaith he, that when I come to ſee you, I ſhall come in the fulneſs τῆς εὐλογίας of the bleſſing of the Goſpel of Chriſt, Chap. 15. 29. i. e. that fulneſs of ſpiritual Gifts with which all Chriſtians were bleſſed in Chriſt Jeſus, according to that Promiſe of the Prophet Iſaiah, Chap. 44. 2, 3. Fear not, Jacob my ſervant, and Iſrael whom I have choſen, for I will put my Spirit on thy Seed, καὶ τὴν εὐλογίαν μου, and my Bleſſings on thy Children. Now that the Apoſtle came to Rome, both Scripture, and the whole Current of Antiquity atteſts; either then he came to them with the fulneſs of the bleſſing of the Goſpel of Chriſt, and did impart unto them thoſe ſpiritual Gifts which tended to confirm them in the Chriſtian Faith, or he did not: if he did impart them, he gave them an aſſured Demonſtration of the Certainty of Chriſtian Faith; if he did not, he himſelf miniſtered to them a full Objection againſt his own Apoſtleſhip: for, this muſt render him a vain Boaſter of things he was not able to perform, and a Deceiver of the Church of Rome. And why then doth he ſpeak thus to them? I have whereof I may glory through Jeſus Chriſt in thoſe things which pertain to God; for I will not dare to ſpeak of any thing which Chriſt hath not wrought by me, to make the Gentiles obedient in word and deed, in the power of ſigns and wonders, and in the power of the ſpirit of God, Rom. 15. 18, 19. Theſe Powers, ſaith he, have accompanied my Preaching from Jeruſalem, round about unto Illyricum; and this Grace, ſaith he, was given to me of God, that I ſhould be the Miniſter of Jeſus Chriſt to the Gentiles, miniſtering the Goſpel of God to them, that the offering up of the Gentiles might be acceptable, being ſanctified by the Holy Ghoſt. Where he compares himſelf, preaching the Goſpel, to the Prieſt, converſant about his Sacrifice, to prepare and fit it to be offer'd; the Gentiles dedicated by him to the Service of God, are his Sacrifice or Oblation; the Holy Spirit confer'd upon them is the Libamen by which they are ſanctified, and render'd acceptable to God. Moreover, the Epiſtle to the Romans muſt be falſe, or elſe it muſt be ſent by the Apoſtle before he had ſeen Rome, for it containeth an intimation that he had not then ſeen them, a Deſire to ſee them, and a Promiſe to come to them; for, ſaith he, I make it my Requeſt to God, if by any means, now at length, I might have a proſperous Journey by the will of God, to come to you, for I long to ſee you, Rom. 1. 10, 11, 13. And, I often purpoſed to come to you, but was let hitherto. And again, I have been much hinder'd from coming to you, having therefore a great deſire theſe many years to come to you, whenſoever I take my journey into Spain, I will come to you, Chap. 15. 22, 23, 24. 'Tis alſo certain that he afterwards did ſee them; for after his Appeal to Cæſar, he was ſent to Rome, and lived there at leaſt two years: he therefore muſt have ſent this Epiſtle to them, and they muſt have receiv'd it, before that time. In a word, from thoſe words in the Cloſe of this Epiſtle, Chap. 15. 25, 26. But now I go to Jeruſalem to miniſter to the Saints; for it hath pleaſed them of Macedonia and Achaia to make a certain Contribution for the poor Saints that are at Jeruſalem, it is evident he writ this Epiſtle before that Collection was carried by him to Jeruſalem in the third year of Nero, and ſent it from Corinth, as the Poſtſcript ſaith. Note alſo, that this Epiſtle is often cited by St. Clement and Polycarp.

In his Epiſtle to the Church of Corinth, he declares, They were enriched in all Utterance, and Knowledge, or in Tongues and Prophecy, 1 Cor. 1. 5. (See the Note there) That they abounded in every thing, in Faith, in Utterance, and Knowledge, 2 Cor. 8. 7. ſo that they came behind the other Churches in no Gift. His Twelfth Chapter begins thus: Now concerning Spiritual Gifts, I would not have you ignorant, that no Man ſpeaking by the Spirit of God, calleth Jesus accursed; and that no Man can say, that Jesus is the Lord, but by the Holy Ghost. Now there are diversities of Gifts, but the same Spirit; and there are differences of Administrations, (or Offices in the Church, to which these Gifts belong,) but (all proceeding from) the same Lord; and there are diversities of Operations, performed by these Gifted Men, but it is the same God who worketh all these Operations in them all, ver. 4, 5, 6. Then he proceeds to the Enumeration of the Gifts confer'd upon the Officers and Members of the Church, viz. The Gifts of Knowledge, Wisdom, Prophecy, and the discerning of Spirits; the Gift of Miracles, of Faith, of Healing, of divers Kinds of Tongues, and the Interpretation of them, saying, That God had placed in the Church, First, Apostles: Secondly, Prophets: Thirdly, Teachers: After that, Miracles, then Gifts of Healing; Helps, Governments, diversities of Tongues; concluding with this Question, Are all Apostles? are all Prophets? are all Teachers? are all Workers of Miracles? have all the Gifts of Healing? do all speak with Tongues? do all Interpret? but covet earnestly the best Gifts, and yet shew I to you a more excellent Way, even that of Charity. For, tho' I have the Gift of Prophesie, and understand all Mysteries, and all Knowledge; and tho' I have all Faith, so that I could remove Mountains, and have no Charity, I am nothing, Chap. 13. 1, 2. For Prophecys shall fail, and Tongues shall cease, and Knowledge shall be done away, but Charity never faileth, ver. 8.

Now this Epistle must be endited and sent to them whilst their Schisms, Contentions and Disorders remained, because it was designed to correct them, and whilst St. Paul was in a capacity to come to them, and so before his Bonds, because he saith, The rest will I set in order when I come, Chap. 11. 34. Hence, after notice given of their Schisms, Contentions and Divisions, he adds, These things have I in a Figure transfer'd to my self and Apollo for your sakes, that you might learn in us, not to think of Men above that which is written, That no one of you be puffed up, for one against another, Chap. 4. 6. saying, I have also sent Timotheus to you, and I my self will come unto you shortly; and then he puts the Question to them thus, What will you that I come unto you with a Rod, or in Love, and in the Spirit of Meekness, ver. 16, 17, 18, 19. Chap. 5. He commands them to put away from them, and to deliver up to Satan, the incestuous Person; and that accordingly they did so, his Second Epistle shews, in which he writes to them to forgive, and comfort him, 2 Cor. 2. 7.

Moreover, He writes part of this Epistle in Answer to some Questions they had sent to him, which required a speedy Answer, as being Cases of Conscience which concern'd their Conversation, their Freedom from Idolatry, and the Preservation of weak Christians. The rest of his Epistle is spent in endeavouring to correct their great Disorders about the Sacrament, their Church Assemblies, and the use of their Spiritual Gifts, Chap. 11. and 14. and their great Errour touching the Resurrection, Chap. 15. and to give Directions touching their Charity, Chap. 16. All which things required speedy Instructions; and that this Epistle was sent accordingly, these Words do manifest, When I come, whomsoever you shall approve by your Letters, them will I send to bring your Liberality to Jerusalem, and if it be meet that I go also, they shall go with me, Chap. 16. 3, 4. Now I will come to you when I pass thro' Macedonia, and it may be that I will abide, yea, and winter with you, ver. 5, 6. I say, hence it is evident, That they soon received this Epistle; for they accordingly made their Collections, with which he went up to Jerusalem; and in his Second Epistle, he Apologises for not coming to them, according to those Words, Chap. 1. 16, 17. Moreover, the Second Epistle is a strong Confirmation of the First, in which he had pointed out unto them, those Disorders which he would have remedied, those things he would have done before his coming; for in this he tells them their Obedience to his former Letter, had filled him with Joy and Comfort, that his Instructions concerning the incestuous Person, had found so good effect, that they approved themselves to be clear in this Matter, and caused him to rejoice, That he could have such confidence in them in all things, Chap. 7. Whence it is evident, They had not only then received, but in some measure had complyed with the Instructions given them in that Epistle.

Add to this, That Clemens Romanus with the whole Church of Rome, in an Epistle sent to the Corinthians, not many Years after this of St. Paul's was written, declare, [§. 2.] That there was πλήρης πνεύματος ἁγίου ἔγχυσις ἐπὶ πάντας, a full effusion of the Holy Ghost upon them all; and that St. Paul had written to them an Epistle touching their Divisions about himself, [§. 47.] and Cephas, and Apollo; which is a great Confirmation, both of the early Knowledge, and Use of this Epistle in the Church, as also of the truth of what St. Paul relateth in it, touching the Gifts of the Holy Ghost confer'd upon them.

In his Epistle to the Galathians, he compares himself with the Chief of the Apostles, and the Pillars of the Church, declaring, That he that wrought effectually in Peter to the Apostleship of the Circumcision, was as efficacious in him towards the Gentiles; that these Pillars saw, and perceived by the Grace given to him, That the Gospel of the Uncircumcision was committed to him, as the Gospel of the Circumcision was to Peter, and therefore gave to him the right hand of Fellowship, that he with Barnabas should go to the Gentiles, and they to the Circumcision, cision, Chap. 2. 7, 8, 9. adding for Consolation to the Gentiles, That Christ had redeem'd them from the Curse of the Law, that the Blessing of Abraham might come upon the Gentiles, that they might receive the Promise of the Spirit, thro' Faith, Ch. 3. 13. adding, That thro' the Spirit they did wait for the Hope of Righteousness by Faith, Ch. 5. 5.

Now in this Epistle, he mentions the Life that he now lived in the Flesh, Ch. 2. 20. his fear of them, his desire to see them, and the desire of the false Brethren to exclude him from any Share in their Affections, and the Persecutions he yet suffer'd in the Flesh, Ch. 3. 2. Ch. 4. 11, 15, 17, 20. Ch. 5. 11. And he concludes it thus; You see how large a Letter I have written to you with my own Hand; and from henceforth let no Man trouble me, for I bear in my Body the Marks of the Lord Jesus, Ch. 6. 11, 17. Which Words demonstate, That this Epistle must be written, and sent to them whilst he lived, and after he had suffered greatly for the Name of Christ. Moreover, the occasion of it shews, it must be written by St. Paul himself; for it was writ upon occasion of some Judaizers, who preach'd up the necessity of circumcising the Gentiles, and requiring them to observe the Law of Moses, and who endeavoured to disparage this Apostle who had taught the contrary, as inferiour to other Apostles, and his Doctrine as contrary to what they taught: Now these Distempers requiring a speedy Remedy, we cannot doubt, but the Apostle sent this Epistle to them, as soon as he had heard, how they had been perverted from the Sincerity of the Faith. 'Tis also cited by Polycarp ad Philip. §. 5.

In his Epistle to the Ephesians, he tells them, He was made a Minister of the Gospel according to the Gift of the Grace of God given to him, by the effectual working of his Power, Ch. 3. 7. And, that to every one of us is given Grace according to the measure of the Gift of Christ. For, He ascending up on High, gave Gifts unto Men. And, He gave some Apostles, some Prophets, some Evangelists, some Pastors and Teachers; and that all these had their Spiritual Gifts. See the Note on Chap. 4. 7, 8, 11. and adds, That after they believ'd, they were seated with the Spirit of Promise, which is the Earnest of our Inheritance, till the Redemption of the purchased Possession, Ch. 1. 13, 14.

Now in this Epistle, he makes mention of his Bonds, and of his being then an Ambassador in Bonds, Ch. 6. 20. saying, I Paul the Prisoner of Jesus Christ, for you Gentiles; I Paul the Prisoner of the Lord, beseech you, Ch. 3. 1. Ch. 4. 1. This Epistle therefore, must be sent unto them, whilst he was in Bonds at Rome; and so it must be sent unto them Anno Christi 62. since Paul was set at liberty the next Year. He also adds, That it was sent by Tychicus, whom he sent to them on purpose to make known his Affairs whilst he abode at Rome, and begs their Prayers for Courage in making known the Mystery of the Gospel, whilst he was thus in Bonds, Chap. 6. 19, 20, 21, 22.

Moreover, This Epistle is cited by St. Clemens [Ep. ad Cor. §. 46.] about six Years after the writing of it. It is twice cited by Polycarp [§. 1. 12.] in his Epistle to the Philippians. Ignatius [§. 12.] in his Epistle to the Ephesians, saith, That St. Paul in his whole Epistle, made mention of them in Christ Jesus. So early was this Epistle known to, and read by the Christians.

In his Epistle to the Colossians, he declares, That he had laboured in Preaching the Gospel to them, according to the Energy of him that wrought with him, ἐν δυνάμει, by a mighty Power, Ch. 1. 29. and saith, Let the Word of God dwell in you richly in all Wisdom, teaching and admonishing one another, in Psalms, and Hymns, and Spiritual Songs, Ch. 3. 16. Now in this Epistle, he saith, That he then rejoiced in the Afflictions which he suffered for them, Ch. 1. 24. He also speaks of his Sollicitude for them, and those of Laodicea, and for as many as had not seen his Face in Christ, of his Salutation with his own hand, Ch. 4. 18. and of his Bonds, and of his sending Tychicus and Onesimus, to give them an Account of his Affairs, and of the Salutations of many Brethren. He therefore, and they also, must be all alive when this Epistle was sent to them.

In his Epistle to the Thessalonians, he testifies, His Gospel came unto them not in Word only, but in Power, and in the Holy Ghost, and in much Assurance, and that they received the Word with much Affliction, but yet with Joy of the Holy Ghost, 1 Thess. 1. 5, 6. and for this he appeals to their own Experience, adding these Words, Ye know what manner of Persons we were amongst you for your sakes; whence he infers, That he that despised his Admonitions, despised not Man, but God who also had given them his Holy Spirit, Ch. 4. 8.

Now in this Epistle, he speaks of his Absence from them, of his great desire to see them, 1 Thess. 2. 17. of his Sollicitude for their stedfastness under their Sufferings, Ch. 3. 5, 6. his sending Timothy to give him an account of it, his Comfort when he heard that they stood firm; and maketh Sylvanus and Timotheus his Associates in sending it. This Epistle therefore must be written whilst both they and he were living, and it is cited by Polycarp in his Epistle to the Philippians, §. 11.

In his Epistle to Titus, he speaks thus, Chap. 3. 5, 6. According to his Mercy, he saved us by the washing of Regeneration, and the renewing of the Holy Ghost which he shed on us abundantly, bundantly, thro' Jesus Christ our Lord. Now, of Epistles thus written to particular Persons, I think it needless to prove, That they were written whilst both St. Paul and they were living, and were not sent unto them from, or in another World. Tho' that is here sufficiently proved from these Words, Chap. 3. 12. When I shall send Artemas to thee, or Tychicus, be diligent to come to me to Nicopolis.

Arg. 2. §. XII. 2*dly*, That God vouchsafed to the Professors and first Propagators of the Christian Faith, these admirable Powers, and various Distributions of the Holy Ghost, is farther evident from this Consideration, That the Apostles in all their Contests and Debates with Friends and Adversaries, Believers and Rejecters of the Christian Faith, false Apostles, Antichrists, Corrupters of it, and Apostates from it, appeal with greatest Confidence to these miraculous Operations and Distributions of the Holy Ghost.

In their first Controversie, touching the Resurrection of our Lord, gain-said by the Rulers of the Jews, St. Peter speaks thus to them: The God of our Fathers hath raised up Jesus whom ye slew, and hanged on a Tree. Him hath God exalted to his right hand, to be a Prince, and a Saviour, to give Repentance to Israel, and Remission of Sins; And we are his Witnesses of these things, and so is also that Holy Ghost whom God hath given to them that obey him, Act. 5. 30, 31, 32. And again, This Jesus hath God raised up, whereof we all are Witnesses; Therefore being by the right hand of God exalted, and having received of the Father the Promise of the Holy Ghost, he hath shed forth this which ye now see and hear, Act. 2. 32, 33. Now evident it is, this Plea could not be offer'd to convince these Rulers, by an Appeal to their own Senses, without the highest Impudence, and plain Confusion of their Cause, had there been no effusion of the Holy Ghost imparted to the Apostles who attested, and the Believers which imbrac'd this Faith; nor could it have been publish'd in that Generation, and recorded by St. Luke, as made by the Apostles before so great an Auditory, if it had been false, so many Witnesses being then living to confute his Story.

2*dly*, The next Dispute arose betwixt St. Peter and the Converts of the Circumcision, accusing him as a Transgressor, for Eating and Conversing with Cornelius, and other uncircumcised Persons; in which case his Apology runs thus: As I began to speak, the Holy Ghost fell on them, as upon us at the beginning. Then remembred I the Word of the Lord, how that he said, John indeed baptized with Water, but ye shall be baptized with the Holy Ghost: Forasmuch then as God gave them the like Gift as he did to us, who believed on the Lord Jesus Christ, what was I that I could withstand God, Act. 11. 15, 16, 17. And thus he puts to Silence the Zealots for the Circumcision, Men too tenacious of their Rites, too zealous for the Law to be satisfied with any thing that did not carry with it a convincing Evidence.

3*dly*, A third Contest arose at Antioch, where some believing Jews contended, That it was necessary to Circumcise the Gentile Converts, and to command them to observe the Law of Moses: This vain Pretension St. Peter baffles by this Argument, That God who knows the Hearts bare them witness, that whilst Uncircumcised, they were accepted with him, by giving them the Holy Ghost even as he did to us, and putting no Difference betwixt them and us, purifying their Hearts by Faith; and thence concluding, That by endeavouring to put this Yoke on the believing Gentiles, they would tempt, that is, would disbelieve, and even oppose themselves, to that God who had vouchsafed so clear a Demonstration of his Acceptance of them, not being Circumcised, Acts 15. 8, 9. Hence also, the whole College of the Apostles write unto them thus: It seemed good to the Holy Ghost, to lay upon you no such Burthen, ver. 28.

4*thly*, When the same Zealots had infected the Church of the Galatians with the pernitious Doctrine of the necessity of Circumcision, and of the observation of the Law of Moses, St. Paul writes thus to them: Oh foolish Galatians! who hath bewitched you, that ye should not obey the Truth? This only would I learn of you, Received ye the Spirit (in his miraculous Gifts and Operations) by (Obedience to) the Works of the Law, or by the Hearing of Faith, Gal. 3. 1, 2. If by the latter, as ye know ye did, this is a demonstration that their Justification and Acceptance with God, is the Fruit of Faith in Christ, not of Obedience to the Law of Moses; this the Apostle reassumes, saying, He that ministreth the Spirit to you, and worketh Miracles among you, doth he it by (virtue of your Obedience to) the Works of the Law, or by the Hearing of Faith. We see then, this was the chief Argument which carryed the Cause in the Council at Jerusalem, and which is urged by St. Paul to confirm the Galatians in the Truth, and Silence those who laboured to prevail upon them to admit of Circumcision, and the Observance of the Law of Moses: This confirmation therefore of the truth of Christian Faith, was such, as none concern'd to do it then, were able to gainsay, much less can any now find reason to doubt of it.

In the Epistle to the Church of Corinth, he is even forc'd to prove the Truth of his Apostleship, against those false Apostles and deceitful Workers who had set up against him, and for the satisfaction of those Corinthians who sought a Proof of Jesus Christ speaking in him, 2 Cor. 13. 3. He therefore juſtifies and confirms it by declaring, that the ſigns of an Apoſtle had been wrought among them by him, in all patience, in ſigns and wonders, and in mighty deeds, 2 Cor. 12. 12. that he was not a whit behind the very chief of the Apoſtles in theſe Gifts, Chap. 11. 5, 6. that both he, and his fellow Labourers among them, approved themſelves as the Miniſters of Chriſt by the Holy Ghoſt, by the word of Truth, and by the power of God, Chap. 6. 6, 7. that they to whom he writ were manifeſtly declared to be his Letters commendatory, as being the Epiſtle of Chriſt miniſtred by him, written not with ink, but by the Spirit of the living God, Chap. 3. and that they came behind the other Churches in no gift, Chap. 12. 13. To the Galatians infected with the like Diſtemper, he declares that he who wrought effectually in Peter to the Apoſtleſhip of the Circumciſion, was as efficacious in him towards the Gentiles; and that this was ſo manifeſt even to the chief of the Apoſtles, that they were by the Grace vouchſafed to him convinc'd that the Goſpel of the Uncircumciſion was by Chriſt committed to his charge.

Some there ſeem to have been among the Members of the Church of Corinth who had not the knowledge of the truth, and who even queſtion'd whether Chriſt were among them or not: To them he teſtifieth, that the Church of Corinth came behind the other Churches in no gift, and that by this the teſtimony of Chriſt was confirmed among them, 1 Cor. 1. 5, 6, 7. See the Note there; that the Word he preached was not delivered in the enticing words of humane Wiſdom, but in demonſtration of the Spirit, and of Power, that their Faith might not ſeem to conſiſt in the wiſdom of Man, but in the power of the Holy Ghoſt, Chap. 2. 4, 5. that God had eſtabliſhed them in Chriſt by giving the earneſt of his Spirit in their hearts, 2 Cor. 1. 21, 22. Now for the truth of what he thus delivers, he makes a ſolemn and religious Appeal to their own Hearts and Conſciences, ſaying, We are made manifeſt to God, and we truſt alſo we are made manifeſt in your own Conſciences, 2 Cor. 5. 11. for we are not as many who corrupt the Word, but as of Sincerity, as of God, in the ſight of God ſpeak we in Chriſt, Chap. 2. 17. We do by manifeſtation of the truth commend our ſelves to every man's conſcience in the ſight of God, Chap. 4. 2. Yea he appeals to all the Prophets and ſpiritual Men among them, not only for the Truth, but alſo for the divine Authority of his Epiſtles, ſaying, If any man be a Prophet, or ſpiritual, let him acknowledge that the things I write unto you are the commandments of God, 1 Cor. 7. 3, 7. Now evident it is, that Arguments of this nature neither could be urged by this Apoſtle without confuſion to his Cauſe, and the impairing of his Credit; nor, being offer'd, could prevail upon the Churches of Achaia, and other Churches, to own him as a true Apoſtle, and his Epiſtles as the Commandments of the Lord, had not the matter of fact, on which they did entirely depend, been inconteſtible. For, had theſe things been falſe, or queſtionable, they whom he ſtyleth falſe Apoſtles and deceitful Workers muſt have been able to reply, That he himſelf, in his Appeal to the miraculous Operations of the Holy Ghoſt for Confirmation of his Doctrine and Apoſtleſhip, muſt have been guilty of that very crime he laid to their charge; and all the Churches to which he had directed theſe Epiſtles muſt rather be confirm'd in the Suſpicions they had entertain'd againſt him, than wrought off from them by theſe vain Pretences, and falſe Surmiſes of thoſe Diſtributions of the Holy Spirit of which they had found no Experience, and had received no convincing Evidence.

The Believing Jews lay under two dangerous Diſtempers: The firſt was that which S. James takes notice of in his Epiſtle, viz. That Faith alone would be ſufficient to ſave them without Works; and upon this the Hereticks mention'd by (a) Irenæus and others grounded their licentious Doctrines, that they might live as they liſted, they being not to be ſaved by good Works, but by Faith only. The ſecond was a Proneneſs to Apoſtacy, or falling back from the Faith to Judaiſm to avoid Perſecution: And this the Hereticks alſo ſo far improved, as to declare it lawful, in times of Perſecution, (b) to commit Idolatry, and to deny Chriſt with the mouth. Now in oppoſition to the firſt Aſſertion, St. Paul, in his ſecond Chapter of the Epiſtle to the Hebrews, ſhews the neceſſity of taking more abundant heed unto the Precepts of Chriſtianity, as being all confirm'd by Signs, and Miracles, and Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt; and therefore puts the Queſtion to them thus, If the word ſpoken by Angels were firm, and every Tranſgreſſion and Diſobedience received a juſt Recompence of Reward; how ſhall we eſcape if we neglect ſo great Salvation, which at the firſt began to be ſpoken by the Lord, and was confirm'd to us by them that heard it: God alſo bearing them witneſs both with ſigns and wonders, and divers miracles, and gifts of the Holy Ghoſt, according to his own will. In oppoſition to their proneneſs to Apoſtacy, he declares it a moſt dreadful thing to fall from the profeſſion of the Chriſtian Faith after they had received ſuch ſtrong Convictions of it by thoſe Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt they had received with it: for, ſaith he, it is impoſſible for them who were once enlightned, and have taſted of the heavenly gift, and have been made par- takers of the Holy Ghoſt, and yet fall away, to be renewed to Repentance, ſeeing they crucifie again the Son of God, and put him to an open ſhame, Chap. 6. 4, 5, 6. See the Note there. Again, to ſuch there remains no more ſacrifice for ſin, but a fearful looking for of judgment and fiery indignation, ſeeing they trample under foot the Son of God, and count the blood of the covenant, by which they were ſanctified an unholy thing, and reproached the ſpirit of grace, Chap. 10. 26, 29, See the Note there. Now viſible it is, that the foundation of both theſe Arguments depends upon the certainty of this matter, that God confirmed the Truth of the Doctrine delivered by Chriſt and his Apoſtles, by divers Miracles and Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt, and that Chriſtians then were made Partakers of thoſe Gifts.

Laſtly, Againſt the Seductions of the Antichriſts and the Deceivers which were then crept into the Church, St. John fortifies the Believers with theſe words; Theſe things have I written concerning them that deceive you. But the anointing which ye have received of him abideth in you, and ye need not that any one teach you, but as the ſame anointing teacheth you of all things, and is truth, and is no lye; and even as it hath taught you, ye ſhall abide in him, 1 Joh. 2. 26, 27. And again, Beloved, believe not every ſpirit, but try the ſpirits whether they are of God, for many falſe Prophets are gone out into the World. By this ſhall ye know the ſpirit of God; every ſpirit that confeſſeth Jeſus Chriſt coming in the fleſh, is of God; and every ſpirit that confeſſeth not that Jeſus Chriſt is come in the fleſh, is not of God, Chap. 4. 1, 2, 3. See the ſtrength of the Argument in the Note there. And it is the Spirit that witneſſes that Jeſus is the Son of God, becauſe the ſpirit is truth, Chap. 5. 6. He that believeth in the Son of God hath the witneſs in himſelf, ver. 10. Now when Men thus lay claim in their Epiſtles to their Converts, to the Power of God co-operating with them in the promotion of the Faith, declaring that he teſtified to the Truth of what they preach'd by divers Miracles and Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt; when they confidently ſpeak of an Unction of the Spirit of Truth abiding in them, of which they to whom they write were made Partakers, and by this very Argument endeavour to convince them what a dreadful thing it would be for them to deſpiſe the Admonitions they had given, or to neglect the great Salvation they had tendred to them; there can remain no cauſe of doubting of the Truth of theſe Aſſertions, eſpecially when they to whom they write not only do continue ſtedfaſt in the Faith, but alſo do admit thoſe Writings which aſſert theſe things, as divine Records, and the Word of God.

And this Argument will be much ſtrengthned from this Conſideration, that the Primitive Profeſſors, in all their Conflicts with Jews, Gentiles, Magicians, Falſe Prophets, Hereticks, and falſe Pretenders to be the Succeſſors of the Apoſtles, uſed ſtill this Argument from the miraculous Operations the Chriſtians then performed, and the Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt they ſtill receiv'd and exerciſed, as an effectual confirmation of the Chriſtian Faith, and a ſufficient confutation of the Pretences of their Adverſaries: v. g.

1*ſt*, From this they prove to the Jews, That God had deſerted them, and was now graciouſly preſent with the Chriſtian Aſſemblies; that the Shechinah and (c) prophetick Gifts which were long ſince departed from them, were ſtill extant among Chriſtians, and exerciſed both by Men and Women.

2*dly*, Hence they triumph over the (d) Heathen Deities, that by the Name of Jeſus ſuch Cures were wrought on the diſeaſed, as none of their ſuppoſed Deities could perform; and that they by this Name expell'd thoſe Devils which their Conjurers could not expel, and forc'd them to confeſs they were evil Spirits.

3*dly*, They triumph over the (e) Simonians and Gnoſticks, the Magicians and Hereticks of their times, by the ſame Argument, that they could neither cure all Diſeaſes, nor expel all kinds of Devils, as the Chriſtians did.

4*thly*, By this they, after the example of St. Paul, 1 Cor. 12. 3. and of St. John, 1 Joh. 4. 1, 2, 3. taught Chriſtians to diſtinguiſh (f) betwixt true and falſe Prophets; and by this they confuted the Montaniſts, becauſe they left no Succeſſion of Prophets, which yet continued in the true Church of Chriſt. Some Hereticks finding themſelves unable even to pretend to ſuch a Gift of Prophecy as the Goſpel of St. John had promiſed, and the Epiſtles of St. Paul mentioned, rejected both that Goſpel, and thoſe Epiſtles. Now theſe, ſaith (g) Irenæus, are unhappy Men, qui gratiam prophetiæ repellunt ab Eccleſia, who go about to exclude the Grace of Prophecy from the Church, and thereby make themſelves falſe Prophets, i. e. Aſſertors of things in God's Name which they have not received from him.

Laſtly, As for the true Succeſſors of the Apoſtles, (h) Irenæus informs us, that Cum ſucceſſione Apoſtolatus chariſma veritatis certum ſecundum beneplacitum patris acceperunt, with their Succeſſion they receiv'd the gift of Truth; and hence infers, that (i) Ubi igitur chariſmata Domini poſita ſunt, ibi diſcere oportet veritatem, where therefore theſe gifts of the Lord are placed, there the Truth is to be learned.

Arg. 3. §. 13. The Prayers and the Thankſgivings made for theſe divine Aſſiſtances, the Charges the Apoſtles give concerning them, the Exhortations and Directions which they ſend to Chriſtian Governours, and Churches, touching theſe Gifts and Operations of the Holy Ghoſt; are a convincing Demonſtration that they were frequent, and notoriouſly exerciſed in the Church of God. For inſtance; I thank my God, ſaith the Apoſtle to the Church of Corinth, for the grace of God which is given you by Jeſus Chriſt, that in every thing ye are enriched by him in all utterance and all knowledge, (or in Tongues and Prophecy) ſo that we come behind the other Churches in no gift, 1 Cor. 1. 5, 6, 7. See the Note there. He begins his Epiſtle to the Church of Epheſus thus; Bleſſed be the God and Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, who hath bleſſed us with all ſpiritual bleſſings in heavenly things in Chriſt, Eph. 1. 3. See the Note there. Praying that the ſame God would give to them the Spirit of Wiſdom, and revelation in the knowledge of him, ver. 17. He prays for the Romans, that they may abound in hope through the power of the Holy Ghoſt, Chap. 15. 13. And for his Coloſſians, that they may be filled with the knowledge of his will in all wiſdom and ſpiritual Underſtanding, Chap. 1. 9.

Having convened the Aſiatick Biſhops, he requires them to take heed to the Flock over which the Holy Ghoſt had made them Overſeers, Acts 20. 28. To the Church of Rome he ſpeaks thus; Having therefore χαρίσματα διάφορα different gifts, whether Prophecy, let us do it according to the proportion of faith; or miniſtering, let us wait on our miniſtering; or he that teacheth, on teaching, Rom. 12. 6, 7, 8. See the Note there. He exhorts the Epheſians and Coloſſians to be filled with the Spirit, ſpeaking to themſelves in Pſalms, and Hymns, and ſpiritual Songs, Eph. 5. 18, 19. Coloſſ. 3. 16. Two of his Admonitions to his Theſſalonians are conceived in theſe words, Quench not the holy Spirit, deſpiſe not Prophecy, 1 Theſſ. 5. 19, 20. To his Son Timothy he ſpeaks thus; Neglect not the Gift that is in thee, which was given thee by Prophecy, 1 Tim. 4. 14. And in his ſecond Epiſtle, Stir up the gift that is in thee by the putting on of my hands, Chap. 1. 6. for, ſaith he, God hath not given us the Spirit of Fear, but of Power, Love, and Wiſdom, ver. 7. He exhorts him alſo to Keep the good thing committed to him by the Holy Ghoſt that dwelleth in him, ver. 14. Now in theſe Epiſtles he ſpeaks of himſelf as a Priſoner, and a Sufferer for the Cauſe of Chriſt, ſaying, Be not thou aſhamed of the teſtimony of the Lord, nor of me his Priſoner; he tells him he was ready to be offered, and the time of his departure was at hand; informs him that Demas had forſaken him, and deſires him when he came to him, to bring Mark with him, 2 Tim. 1. 8. 2. 8, 10. 4. 6, 10, 11, 12. He ſpeaks of Hymenæus and Alexander, whom he had delivered up to Satan, and ſaith, Theſe things I write unto thee, hoping to come to thee ſhortly, 1 Tim. 1. 20. 3. 14. All which are evident Proofs that theſe Epiſtles muſt be ſent to Timothy whilſt St. Paul was living, and was a Priſoner at Rome. St. Peter advertiſeth the converted Jews, that the Goſpel was preached to them by the Holy Ghoſt ſent down from heaven; and he gives theſe Inſtructions to them for the uſe of their extraordinary gifts: As every man hath received the gift, ſo let him miniſter, as good ſtewards of the manifold Grace of God; if any man ſpeak, let him ſpeak as the Oracles of God; if any man miniſter, let him do it as of the ability which God giveth, that God in all things may be glorified through Jeſus Chriſt, 1 Pet. 4. 10, 11. Now the Meſſenger by which he ſent this Epiſtle, and the Salutations in the Cloſe of it, ſhew that it was written whilſt Mark and Sylvanus were living.

But the great Scene of theſe Directions and Admonitions lies in the firſt Epiſtle to the Corinthians, where he exhorts them to covet earneſtly ſpiritual gifts, but chiefly that of Prophecy, 1 Cor. 14. 1. to covet to prophecy, and forbid not to ſpeak with tongues, ver. 39. Moreover, he directs them in the due exerciſe of theſe ſpiritual Gifts, after this manner: Foraſmuch as ye are zealous of ſpiritual gifts, ſeek that ye may excel to the edifying of the Church, ver. 12. Wherefore let him that ſpeaketh in an unknown Tongue, pray that he may interpret, ver. 13. And again, If any man ſpeak in an unknown Tongue, let it be by two, or at the moſt by three, and let one interpret; but if there be no Interpreter, let him keep ſilence in the Church, ver. 27, 28. Let the Prophets ſpeak two or three, and let the others judge, ver. 29.

(h) Lib. 4. cap. 43. (i) Cap. 45.

If any thing be reveal'd to another that ſitteth by, let the firſt hold his peace, for ye may all propheſie one by one, that all may learn, and all may be comforted, ver. 30, 31. In the ſame Chapter he chides them for uſing theſe ſpiritual gifts without profit to the Hearer, and ſo as to breed confuſion in the Church. How is it, ſaith he, Brethren, that when you come together, every one of you hath a Pſalm, hath a Doctrine, hath a Tongue, hath a Revelation, hath an Interpretation? let all things be done to edifying, ver. 26. declaring that by uſing Tongues not underſtood in the Aſſembly, they would give to the Infidel and Unbeliever occaſion to ſay they were mad, ver. 23. But if all propheſie, ſaith he, and there come in one that believeth not, or one unlearned, he is convinced of all, he is judged of all, and thus are the ſecrets of his heart made manifeſt, and ſo falling down on his face, he will worſhip God, and report that God is in you of a truth, ver. 24, 25. So notorious are theſe Gifts ſuppoſed to be, not only to the Saint, but to the Infidel, and ſo powerful for his Converſion. Now had theſe great Apoſtles given thanks for Gifts confer'd upon theſe Churches which they never had enjoy'd; had they exhorted them to deſire, and earneſtly to covet, to ſtir up, and excel in Gifts they never had, and which were not imparted to any Members of the Church; had they given theſe grave Directions, and ſolemn Charges touching thoſe Gifts of Prophecy and Revelation, of Tongues and the Interpretation of them, which never had been exerciſed in that of Corinth, or any other Chriſtian Church; had they ſeverely chid them for abuſing thoſe Gifts they never had, and ſhewed themſelves ſo much concerned to correct an Abuſe of which they were incapable, as having not the uſe of what they are ſuppoſed to abuſe; had they condemned the Murmurings of them who had them in a leſs, the Boaſtings of them who had them in a higher meaſure, by ſuch Enquiries as theſe, What haſt thou which thou haſt not received? And if thou haſt receiv'd (them,) wherefore doſt thou boaſt, as if thou hadſt not received (them?) 1 Cor. 4. 7. See the Note there; and ſhewing the neceſſity that there ſhould be ſuch a diverſity of Gifts, and Operations in the Body, 1 Cor. 12. 14---27. and done, and ſaid, all this without a juſt foundation; this muſt have render'd thoſe Epiſtles in which theſe Paſſages are contain'd, the matter of their Deriſion and Diſdain, rather than worthy to be owned as the Oracles of God: And thoſe Apoſtles which indited them muſt rather have been eſteemed by them brain-ſick Enthuſiaſts, than Men inſpired by the Spirit of God.

Since then theſe Writings generally were received as divine Records by all Chriſtians, and by thoſe very Churches to which they were indited, it muſt be certain, that in all theſe Aſſertions they contained matter of unqueſtionable Truth, and only ſpake of thoſe ſpiritual Gifts of which theſe Churches had a full experience; there being, ſaith Clemens Romanus in his Epiſtle writ ſoon after to them, a full effuſion of the Holy Ghoſt upon them all.

Arg. 4. §. 14. This will be ſtill more evident, if we conſider what Chriſtianity, the Author, and the Propogators of it, required of all that would embrace the Chriſtian Faith, and what were the Encouragements they tendered as the chief Inducements ſo to hope, believe, and act, or ſuffer, as Chriſtianity required. And,

1*ſt*, They call upon all Chriſtians to take up the Croſs of Chriſt daily, and for his ſake to forſake Father and Mother, Wife and Children, Goods and Relations, and even Life it ſelf, declaring that without this they cannot be Chriſt's Diſciples, Luke 14. 26, 27. informing them that all that will live godly muſt ſuffer perſecution, 2 Tim. 3. 12. that through many tribulations they muſt enter into the kingdom of God, Acts 4. 22. that they were called to ſuffer, and were appointed to this very thing, 1 Theſ. 3. 3, 4. 1 Pet. 2. 21. Accordingly we find that the Corinthians were Partakers with them of their ſufferings, 2 Cor. 1. 7. that the Galatians had ſuffered many things, Gal. 3. 4. that to the Philippians it was given, not only to believe in Chriſt, but alſo to ſuffer for his ſake, Philip. 1. 29. that St. Paul commends the Coloſſians for their ſtedfaſtneſs in the faith under all their perſections, Chap. 1. 11. and prays they may be ſtrengthened with all might, according to his glorious Goſpel to all patience, and long ſuffering, with joyfulneſs Chap. 2. 5. He ſaith the Theſſalonians ſuffered the ſame, from their Countrymen, as did the believing Jews from theirs, 1 Theſſ. 2. 14. that he ſent Timothy to ſtabliſh and to comfort them concerning their faith, and to exhort them not to be moved at thoſe afflictions to which they were appointed, Chap. 3. 34. adding, that he gloried in them in the Churches of God for their patience and faith in all their perſecutions, 2 Theſſ. 1. 4. In his Epiſtle to the Hebrews he ſaith, They ſuffered a great fight of afflictions, partly while they were made a gazing ſtock both by reproches and afflictions, and partly whilſt they became companions of them who were ſo uſed, and that they took joyfully the ſpoiling of their Goods; and he exhorts them not to caſt away their confidence, becauſe they had need of Patience, Hebr. 10. 32. 36. and after the example of that cloud of witneſſes which he had ſet before them, to run their Chriſtian race with patience, Chap. 12. 1. St. Peter tells the ſame believing Jews they were in heavineſs for a ſeaſon through manifold Temptations, 1 Pet. 1. 6. deſiring them not to think it ſtrange concerning the fiery trial which was come to try them, Chap. 4. 12. Theſe Tribulations they exhort them to endure with Faith and Courage, Patience and Perſeverance, Joy and Triumph;

Triumph; and yet the only thing they offer them to raiſe this Joy and Comfort, engage them to this Perſeverance, and to ſupport them under theſe fiery Trials, is the Promiſe or the actual Vouchſafement of the Holy Ghoſt helping their Infirmities, that as they were Partakers of the Sufferings of the Apoſtles, ſo ſhould they be alſo of their conſolations, 2 Cor. 1. 7. that if they ſuffered for the name of Chriſt, happy were they, for the Spirit of Glory and of God ſhould reſt upon them, 1 Pet. 4. 14. This, ſay they, ye have found, for you became Followers of the Lord, and of us, having received the word with much affliction, and with joy of the Holy Ghoſt, 1 Theſ. 1. 6. and may well ſuffer hardſhip as good Soldiers of Jeſus Chriſt, for God hath not Given us the Spirit of fear, but † δυνάμεως of Courage to endure, of that Love which caſts out Fear, and of that Prudence which will inſtruct us how to bear, or to eſcape them, 2 Tim. 1. 7. Now if this promiſe was ſenſibly made good to them under theſe afflictions, they by it did receive an earneſt of the truth of Chriſtian Faith, and an aſſurance of God's concern to comfort and reward their Chriſtian Patience in his cauſe. But if under theſe fiery Trials they found no ſenſible Experience of the Holy Ghoſt thus helping their Infirmities, no inward Joys, Supports, and Conſolations of the promiſed comforter, what reaſon had they to continue to take joyfully the ſpoiling of their Goods, the loſs of Credit, Life, and all their worldly comforts, for the profeſſion of that Faith which had ſo palpably deceived them, in the chief Motive which it offer'd to engage them to ſuffer for the name of Chriſt, or for the Truth and the Divine Authority of thoſe Epiſtles which contained theſe apparent falſhoods.

This Argument may be enforced from the conſideration of the Multitude of Chriſtian Martyrs in the three firſt ages of the Church, all which could have no other Motive thus to ſuffer, but this promiſed aſſiſtance of the Holy Ghoſt at preſent, and the aſſurance which this earneſt of the Spirit gave them of an eternal ſtate of Happineſs hereafter; and ſo if they had no experience of this aſſiſtance under Sufferings and no aſſurance of ſuch an earneſt of the Spirit in their hearts, muſt ſuffer all theſe dreadful things without juſt Ground, or Motive: which even an Heathen (k) Cicero doth repreſent as a thing impoſſible to be performed, the hardneſs of ſome Jewiſh Zealots, and ſome deluded Chriſtian Sects, in ſuffering, being no inſtance to the contrary. For though they miſtake in application of this future Happineſs in proſpect of which they thus endure; to themſelves, the Principle upon which they ſuffer is indiſputably true, and owned even by Epicurus himſelf, Ut voluptates omittantur majorum voluptatum adipiſcendarum causâ, aut dolores ſuſcipiantur majorum dolorum effugiendorum gratia, that we ſhould part with our temporal enjoyments for a ſeaſon here, for a better and more enduring ſubſtance, and ſuffer theſe light afflictions which are for a moment, that we may eſcape more laſting and intolerable torments, this being only, ſaith (l) Torquatus, the choice which the Wiſe-man of Epicurus ought to make. In a word, the manner of their ſufferings doth give us full aſſurance that the aſſiſtance of the Holy Ghoſt, which Chriſt and his Apoſtles promiſed to the true Believers, was accordingly vouchſafed to the Chriſtian Martyrs, and Confeſſors, they being enabled to bear the greateſt Sufferings not only with undaunted Courage, putting off the Body, ſaith (m) Origen, more cheerfully than a Philoſopher would put off his Coat, deſpiſing Death, ſaith (n) Lucian, and willingly ſubmitting to it; but with great Joy and Exultation, being ſtrengthned to all long ſuffering with joyfulneſs, Coloſ. 2. 5. (o) rejoycing in tribulations, counting it all joy when they fell into divers temptations, and happy when they did endure them, James 1, 3, 12. and rejoycing when they were in heavineſs through manifold afflictions; 1 Peter 1. 6. yea ſometimes with (p) miraculous experience of Conſolations under all their Sufferings, cauſing this Joy and Gladneſs in them; yea ſometimes with a perfect freedom from all ſenſe of Pain under the moſt afflicting Torments; as in the caſe of the (q) Evangeliſt St. John, and of (r) Blandina, theſe Sufferings not being able to extort from them one Complaint or (ſ) Groan.

Now

Now this being done as well by (t) Children and the weakeſt Sex, by the Ideot as well as by the Wiſeſt Sages, gives a full demonſtration of the Truth of that Aſſertion of (u) Euſebius, That the Love of Chriſt, the hopes of Immortality, and the Spirit of the Father, inſpired them with this Courage; for what elſe could create ſuch Joys and Exultations, or ſuggeſt ſuch Comforts, and Supports under the ſharpeſt Trials. What could procure to them a freedom from the ſenſe of Pain under the greateſt Torments, and moſt intolerable Burthens to Fleſh and Blood.

2*dly*, Again, they engage all Chriſtians in the moſt difficult Acts of Self-denial, and Mortification of all carnal Lulls, in the cutting off their right-hands, and the plucking out their eyes, in patience under, and the forgiveneſs of the greateſt injuries, in Love and Charity to the worſt of Enemies, in Temperance as to the Pleaſures and Honours of this preſent Life, in a deadneſs to the World, and the enjoyments of it, in Piety and Purity and heavenly mindedneſs, becauſe they cannot otherwiſe be Chriſt's Diſciples, cannot be worthy of him, Matth. 10. 37, 38. They cannot enter into his kingdom, Matth. 19. 23, 24. but ſhall hereafter be denied, and rejected by him, Matth. 10. 32, 33. Now what could ſuch Threats ſignifie to them who were not by his Miracles, and by experience of the Holy Ghoſt ſent down from heaven, convinced that he was indeed the Chriſt, the Saviour of the World. The Encouragement they gave them to be thus ſtedfaſt, immoveable, always abounding in the fear of the Lord, was only the Promiſe of a future and unſeen Reward, chiefly to be enjoy'd after the Reſurrection of the Body, which to the Sadducees among the Jews, and the whole Race of Heathen Sages, ſeem'd a thing incredible. 'Tis therefore not to be imagined that ſo many Myriads of Chriſtian Converts ſhould renounce all the Pleaſures of the Fleſh, all the Gratifications of this preſent World, all their old Rites, Religions, Cuſtoms, evil Habits, ſubmit to all this Self-denial and Mortification, only to be Partakers of theſe unſeen Bleſſings after the Reſurrection, without a full Aſſurance that they hereafter ſhould enjoy them. Now the only Aſſurance which the Apoſtles and Holy Scriptures did afford them of this bleſſed Reſurrection, and eternal Happineſs, was the Miracles by which their Doctrine was confirmed, the Powers, Gifts, and Diſtributions of the Holy Ghoſt vouchſafed to them. After the Diſſolution of this Body we expect, ſay they, an houſe not made with hands, eternal in the Heavens: we groan, deſiring to be clothed with this houſe from Heaven, that Mortality may be ſwallowed up of Life. Now he that hath wrought this Hope within us, is that God who hath given us the earneſt of the Spirit, 2 Cor. 5. 1---5. And again, The Promiſes of God are all yea and Amen, or ſure and certain in Jeſus Chriſt, and He who hath eſtabliſhed us with you, in expectation of them, is that God who hath anointed us, and ſealed us, and given the earneſt of his ſpirit in our hearts, 2 Cor. 1. 20, 21. enabling us by the ſpirit to wait for the adoption, even the redemption of the body, Rom. 8. 23. adding, that by the ſpirit of Adoption they were enabled to cry Abba, Father, ver. 15, 16. that he bore witneſs with their ſpirits that they were the ſons of God, the Love of God being ſhed abroad in their hearts by the Holy Ghoſt, which God had given them, Gal. 4. 6. Hence they continually declare, that after they believed, they were ſealed with the ſpirit of Promiſe, which was the earneſt of their Inheritance till the redemption of the purchaſed poſſeſſion, Eph. 1. 13, 14. that by him they were ſealed up to the day of redemption, Chap. 4. 30. that he was the earneſt of their future inheritance, that they were not aſhamed of their hope, they through the ſpirit waiting for the hope of righteouſneſs, Gal. 5. 5. and abounding in hope through the power of the Holy Ghoſt, Rom. 15. 13. Hence is he ſtiled by St. John, the witneſs of God within them, 1 John 5. 10. and by this, ſaith he, do we Chriſtians know, that God abideth in us, and we in him, even by the ſpirit that he hath given us, Chap. 4. 13. By all which Sayings it appears, that if theſe things were true, they to whom this Aſſiſtance of the Holy Spirit was vouchſafed muſt be very ſenſible of his dwelling, and his acting in them, that they could plainly know they had this Unction from the holy one, and could be hence aſſured of the divine Affection to them, and of their future Hopes and Expectations, ſince otherwiſe he could be no ſuch Seal, Pledge, and Earneſt to them, and no ſuch Witneſs of God within them, and no ſuch Confirmation of their Faith, or Token of the Love of God: and if theſe things were falſe, and they had no ſuch ſenſible experience of the good Spirit acting and abiding in them, if they found no ſuch confirmation of their Hopes from any inward Teſtimony or outward Operations of the Holy Ghoſt, they muſt not only have no certain ground or motive to aſſure them of that future Recompence, which was the only reaſon which could induce them to embrace, and to continue ſtedfaſt in the Chriſtian Faith, but muſt have a convincing demonſtration that the whole Doctrine of Chriſtianity depended on a falſe Suggeſtion of ſuch a ſenſible and certain Teſtimony of theſe future hopes, of which they neither had, nor could have any knowledge or Experience, and that the Apoſtles and firſt Aſſerters of this Faith had laid the whole foundation of their hopes upon a falſe and a precarious Appeal to their own Conſciences concerning that of which they had no knowledge or experience. And being once aſſured of this, that the great Fundamentals of the Chriſtian Faith were bottom'd on a confident Appeal to their Perception of thoſe things of which they who embrac'd this Faith had not yet found the leaſt experience, it is incredible to believe they ſhould continue ſtedfaſt in, and endure ſuch continual Perſecutions for that Faith, and ſhould receive thoſe very Records as the Word of God which made theſe falſe Appeals unto their Conſcience and Experience.

§. 15. I think I have ſufficiently made it appear, that theſe Epiſtles, which contain theſe things muſt be endited whilſt the Apoſtles lived, and ſo they muſt be ſent to thoſe Churches and Perſons to whom they are directed, at a time when all the Members of thoſe Churches muſt be able to diſcern the Truth or Falſhood of what is thus aſſerted in them: Yet becauſe the pretence that it might be otherwiſe containeth the whole ſtrength of Scepticiſm, let it be farther noted;

1*ſt*, That theſe Epiſtles from which theſe things are cited, one alone excepted, bear the Names of the Apoſtles by whom they are ſuppoſed to be written: Now had they not been really indited by them, this could not have been done by any, but he muſt put a cheat upon all Chriſtians, and ſubſtitute his own inventions for the Word of God.

2*dly*, That all of them, excepting one, which yet is proved to be genuine in the Preface to the Epiſtle to the Hebrews, have been delivered down unto us by the perpetual and uncontrol'd Tradition of the whole Church of Chriſt, as the undoubted works of theſe Apoſtles, and as the Word of God. Moreover it is apparent from the Writings of St. Clement R. Ignatius, Polycarp, Juſtin M. Irenæus, that even from the Apoſtles Days they have been cited, read, and generally received as ſuch. Now this is a Tradition more general, and of a firmer credit than any other Book, Writing, Charter, Law, or Statute whatſoever, can pretend to. Conſider,

3*dly*. That the Tradition which concerns theſe Books was a Tradition concerning things of the higheſt moment, and which it was the Intereſt of all Chriſtians to be well aſſured of, theſe Writings being at preſent the chief ground of their Support under their ſharpeſt Trials, and of their future hopes; they therefore muſt be Writings which they were concerned to get and keep, to hear and read, they were Books written to whole Churches and Nations, yea to all that called on the name of Chriſt Jeſus in every place; who could not eaſily have receiv'd, and yielded ſuch a firm Aſſent unto them, as we know they did, had the Apoſtles, by whom they were converted, given no Intimations of them. They were alſo Books of the greateſt oppoſition to the vain Tradition of the Jews, and to the Superſtition of the Heathens, to the falſe Apoſtles and deceitful Workers, and which denounc'd upon them the greateſt Plagues, and Judgments, which muſt oblige them narrowly to ſearch into the flaws that could be ſpy'd in them, and as much as poſſible, to labor to diſcover the falſhood or impoſture of them; and yet theſe works were not denied by them to be the Books of thoſe Apoſtles whoſe names they bear, though the Apoſtles themſelves, eſpecially St. Paul, was perſecuted by them with a reſtleſt Malice, as an Apoſtate from the Law; and upon this account all his Epiſtles were rejected by thoſe Jewiſh Chriſtians who maintained the neceſſity of the obſervance of the Law of Moſes; moſt of them alſo are writ about that very Controverſie, and againſt thoſe very Men who pleaded the neceſſity of Circumciſion, and of obſerving the whole Law of Moſes; which yet could be no Controverſie after the ruin of Jeruſalem, and the Deſtruction of the Temple, ſeeing that rendered the Obſervation of the Precepts of that Law, for the moſt part, impoſſible. They were Books which could not be ſpread abroad in the Apoſtles days, and in their Names, unleſs the Apoſtles had endited, and ſent them to theſe Churches, or be eſteemed as the great Charters of the Chriſtians Faith, if the Apoſtles were ſo forgetful of them as not to let thoſe Perſons for whoſe ſake they were written, know it. They were Books which pretended to a Commiſſion from the Holy Jeſus to leave a Rule of Life and Doctrine to Mankind, which was intruſted only in the Hands of the Apoſtles, all others ſtill pretending to deliver only what they received from them. They alſo were indited partly to confirm the Chriſtian Faith, and to engage Men to believe it; partly to put an end to the Contentions and rectifie the Errours which had crept into the Church in the Apoſtles Days, and needed ſpeedy Reformation; partly to juſtifie themſelves againſt falſe Brethren, and to aſſert the truth of their Apoſtleſhip; and partly to preſerve their Proſelytes from ſuch as did pervert the Faith, and to inſtruct them how to bear up in fiery Trials, and to ſupport the Souls of Chriſtians under the miſeries they ſuffer'd from a perſecuting World: And therefore they were Written on ſuch Grounds as did require a quick diſpatch upon theſe Errands to the Churches for which they were intended; and ſo the Apoſtles muſt be ſuppoſed to give early notice of them, and to divulge them to the Chriſtian World whilſt they to whom they were committed, were able to diſprove them, if they had been falſe.

Let us conſider all the Writings which paſs for true Authentick Records in the World, and we ſhall find there is not any reaſon to conceive them ſuch, which is not with advantage applicable to theſe Books.

The Arguments which can be offered to prove a Book or Writing genuine, are only of two kinds, external from the Teſtimony of Perſons who lived near to the times of the Author; and internal from the things contained in, and aſſerted by thoſe Writings; and the firm Faith they obtained among them to whom they were directed and committed.

The external Teſtimonies have their force partly from the number and the eminence of the Teſtators, their nearneſs to the times when ſuch a Book is ſaid to be written, or ſuch a Writing publiſhed by the original Copies, preſerved by thoſe to whom they were at firſt committed, and from the general Reception and Citation of them as ſuch Writings and Records.

Now as for theſe external Evidences, no Writings can compare with thoſe Epiſtles I have mentioned, they having all the Circumſtances by which any Writing can be proved genuine, and many others of great weight which are peculiar to them, and which no other Writing can pretend to. I ſay, they have all the Circumſtances to prove them genuine which any other Writing can pretend to. For,

1*ſt*, Their Originals were preſerved in their reſpective Churches till Tertullian's time; who ſpeaks thus to the Hereticks of his Age, or of the third Century: (a) Go to the Apoſtolical Churches, where their Authentick Epiſtles are ſtill recited, repreſenting the Voice and Face of each of them.

2*dly*, They were not doubted of, but as (b) St. Clement and Origen ſay, all that I have cited, excepting only the Epiſtle to the Hebrews mention'd by S. Peter, were generally receiv'd by all Orthodox Chriſtians throughout the World.

3*dly*, The Writers by whom they were cited lived either in thoſe times when they were written, as St. Clemens Rom. or in the very next Age, as Ignatius, Polycarp, Juſtin Mart. Irenæus, and were therefore ſtiled Apoſtolical Men.

4*thly*, They were very eminent both for their Learning, and for their Sufferings for the Faith contained in them, or for their oppoſition to it, as Celſus was: Now ſure we have unqueſtionable Certainty of ſuch Books as have been handed down to us by the Tradition of all Ages of the Church, inſerted into all her Catalogues, cited by all her Writers as Books of a Divine Authority, and by her very Adverſaries, preſerved ſo long in their Originals, and of which never any doubt was made by any genuine Member of the Church of Chriſt. I add,

2*dly*, That there are many Circumſtances of great weight to confirm theſe Teſtimonies, which are peculiar to theſe Writings: as,

1*ſt*, A general Diſperſion of them through thoſe places which were converted to that Faith which the Apoſtles preach'd: for the Apoſtles, ſaith Irenæus, firſt preached the Goſpel, and after, by the will of God, in Scripturis nobis tradiderunt; delivered it to us in the Scriptures, to be hereafter the Pillar and Foundation of our Faith, lib. 3. cap. 1. Euſebius ſaith, that the firſt Succeſſors of the Apoſtles, leaving their Countries, preach'd to them who had not yet heard of the Chriſtian Faith, and then delivered to them, as the foundation of their Faith, τὸ θεῖον εὐαγγέλιον γεγραφὼς, the Writings of the Holy Evangeliſts. Hiſt. Eccl. l. 3. c. 37.

2*dly*, The Tranſlation of them into other Languages, that of the Syriack being ſo Ancient that it leaves out the ſecond Epiſtle of St. Peter and the ſecond and third Epiſtle of St. John, and the Revelations, as being for a time controverted in ſome of the Eaſtern Churches. That of the Latin, ſtiled in Jerom's time the old Tranſlation, and very probably made from the beginning of a ſettled Church among them. For the Latin Church could not be well without a Latin Verſion, it being the Cuſtom of all Churches to read theſe Scriptures on the Lord's day; which ſure they would not do in a Language not underſtood by thoſe that heard it.

3*dly*, The conſtant reading of them in publick, and in private, in their Aſſemblies, and in their Cloſets and Families. On Sunday, (c) ſaith Juſtin M. all the Chriſtians in the City or Country meet together, and then we have read unto us the Writings of the Prophets and τὰ ἀπομνημονεύματα τῶν Ἀποστόλων the Monuments of the Apoſtles; and having read them, they did publickly (d) τὰς θείας ἐρμηνέων γεγραφὰς expound them to the People. That they were alſo read by the moſt eminent and pious Chriſtians every day, that (e) diſcat unuſquiſque ex Scripturis ſanctis officium ſuum, every one might learn his duty from the holy Scriptures, we learn from the Queſtion in the (f) Conſtitutions of S. Clement, Whether a man ought the day after he had done the duties of Wedlock, or been ſubject to any unvoluntary defilement, βιβλίου ἅψασθαι touch the Book; and the Declaration of (g) S. Clement, that the Matrimonial Duties ſhould not be done ἐπὶ τῆς ἱερᾶς καὶ ἀναγνώσεως καιρὸς when was the time of Prayer, or reading of the Scriptures; and that (h) the Sacrifices of the true Gnoſtick were διὰ τε εὐχῶν, καὶ αἰνέσεως, καὶ ἐκ τῆς ἱερᾶς ἐντεύξεως τῶν γεγραμμένων Prayers and Praiſes, and the reading of the holy Scriptures before Meals. And ſeeing (i) Irenæus ſaith, that He who had a care of his Salvation might read the form of his Faith in the Epiſtle of Polycarp to the Philippians; ſince that (k) Epiſtle and the (l) Epiſtle of St. Clement to the Church of Corinth, which were their genuine Works; yea, the Epiſtle (m) of St. Barnabas, and the Book of (n) Hermas, which two were reckon'd as Apocryphal, were read publickly in many Churches, doubtleſs they muſt be more concern'd to read the undoubted Writings of the Apoſtles, which they eſteem'd the Rule of Faith, which they ſtyled (o) Libri deifici, Books which tranſform'd them into a divine nature, which they look'd upon as the Records of their eternal Intereſts, as Books by which they muſt be judged at the laſt day, and according to which they ſhould be puniſh'd, or rewarded everlaſtingly.

4*thly*, The early Peruſal of them both by Jews and Heathens, who writ againſt them, and did endeavour to deſtroy them, that ſo they might cauſe the Chriſtian Faith to periſh, but never did deny them to be indeed the Works of the Apoſtles whoſe Names they bore: by Jews, for (p) Trypho ſpeaks thus at leaſt of the Goſpels; The Precepts contained in your Goſpels are ſo great, that I ſuſpect no man can keep them, ἐμοὶ γὰρ ἐμέλησεν ἐπιτυχεῖν αὐτῶν, for I took care to read them. The (q) Ebionites, who alſo were Jews, rejected all the Epiſtles of S. Paul, as gathering from them, that he was an Apoſtate from the Law of Moſes. The Heathens, for (r) Celſus not only boaſts that he knew all things belonging to the Chriſtians, but often carps at the Writings of the Evangeliſts, and of St. Paul. And indeed the Chriſtians freely offer'd them to be peruſed by them: For that we may not ſeem to impoſe upon you, ſaith Juſt. Mart. to the Roman Emperours, we offer to you ſome of the Doctrines of Chriſt; and you, being (f) Emperours, may ἐξετάσαι ſearch whether we truly have been taught, and teach theſe Doctrines. And again, The Prince of evil Spirits is by us called a Serpent, Satan, and the Devil, (t) ὡς ἐξ ἐκείνων τῶν συγγεγραμμένων ἐξευρίσκοντες μαθεῖν δύνασθε, as you may learn by ſearching into our Writings. Thou who thinkeſt we are not concerned for the ſafety of Cæſar, ſaith (u) Tertullian, look into the words of God, Quas neque ipſi ſupprimimus, & pleriq; caſus ad extraneos transferunt, which we do not ſuppreſs, and which many Accidents bring into the hands of Heathens. From their Endeavours to deſtroy the Chriſtian Faith by burning theſe Books, came the Edicts of (x) Diocleſian, τὰς γεγραμμένας ἁγίας πυρὶ φωτὶ παραδίδοσθαι, commanding that the Scriptures ſhould be committed to the flames, and the (y) actual burning of them where they could be found, and the tormenting of the Chriſtians to deliver up the Scriptures.

5*thly*. The direful Torments which the Chriſtians choſe to ſuffer rather than they would deſert the Faith contained in theſe Books, or deliver them up to their Tormentors, and the infamy of thoſe that did ſo, they being branded with the odious name of Traditors. Now what Writings in the World have been ſo generally diſperſed, and ſo much peruſed by all ſorts of Perſons, Friends, Foes, Aſſertors of, and Enemies to the Faith of Chriſtians? What Laws, or Writings whatſoever have been ſo early tranſlated into other Languages? Who were ſo much concerned to peruſe them as were all Chriſtians to peruſe the Laws of Chriſt? Who ſuffered ſo much for them as the Chriſtians did? ſince then this early reading of them in publick and in private by the Chriſtian, this general diſperſion of them through all Chriſtian Churches, this quick tranſlation of them into other Languages, this conſtant ſuffering for them, are all corroborating Circumſtances of the unqueſtionable evidence all Chriſtians had obtained that they were genuine works, and truly what they did pretend to be: 'tis alſo clear theſe Writings are more worthy to be received as genuine, and Writings of unqueſtionable truth, than any profane Writings in the World.

§. 16. The internal Arguments which uſually are, or can be offered to prove other Writings genuine, are only taken from the things contained in them, that they were proper to the times in which the Author was ſuppos'd to write, and from the freedom of them from any thing which is not well conſiſtent with thoſe times, which are all mean, and trifling things compar'd to thoſe internal Arguments which theſe Epiſtles do afford, that they are the Authentick records of thoſe Apoſtles whoſe names they bear, and that thoſe things which they aſſert touching the Gifts and powerful Operations of the Holy Ghoſt, both exerciſed by them, and confer'd on other Churches, were unqueſtionably true. For,

1*ſt*. It is not once nor twice, it is not by the by, but it is frequently, profeſſedly, and upon all occaſions they refer to theſe miraculous Powers, and ſpiritual Gifts, as yielding a full Proof and Confirmation of the Teſtimony they gave of Chriſt, and that Chriſt was among them, and as a Demonſtration of the truth of their Apoſtleſhip againſt all oppoſers, and of the preference of that Faith which was attended with them, above the Law which ſome deſired to obſerve, ſpending whole Chapters in diſcourſing of theſe ſpiritual Gifts, diſtinguiſhing them ſomewhat nicely into Gifts, Adminiſtrations, and Operations, ranking them under nine ſeveral Heads, and ſpecifying the very names of thoſe who did by Office exerciſe them, and ſhewing the neceſſity there was of this variety of Gifts and Operations in the Body, appealing to the Senſes, the Conſciences, and the Experience of thoſe to whom they wrote, touching the Truth and Certainty of what they had aſſerted touching thoſe ſpiritual Gifts, by ſuch enquiries as theſe; what? know ye not that Chriſt is among you? 2 Cor. 13. 5. am I not an Apoſtle? ſurely I am ſo to you, for the ſeal of my Apoſtleſhip are ye in the Lord, 1 Cor. 9. 1, 2. 'Tis manifeſt you are the Epiſtle of Chriſt miniſtred by us, written not with ink, but with the ſpirit of the living God, 2 Cor. 3. 3. Surely the ſigns of an Apoſtle have been wrought among you in all patience, in ſigns, and wonders, and mighty deeds, 2 Cor. 12. 12. Have you received from the falſe Apoſtles another ſpirit which ye have not received from us? Chap. 11. 4. This only would I learn of you, he that miniſtred to you the ſpirit, and wrought miracles among you, did he it by the works of the law, or by the hearing of faith? Are ye ſo fooliſh? having begun in the ſpirit, are ye (deſirous to be) made perfect in the fleſh? Gal. 3. 3, 4, 5. our Goſpel came not to you in word only, but in power, and in the Holy Ghoſt, and in much aſſurance, as ye know what manner of Perſons we were among you, 1 Theſſ. 1. 5. Which words are either plain Enquiries upbraiding the Doubtfulneſs, and Heſitation in ſo plain a caſe, or elſe Appeals unto their certain Knowledge of theſe things; nor is it to be wondred that they ſhould make theſe confident Enquiries, and Appeals ſeeing the external Miracles, and the internal Gifts, and Diſtributions of the Holy Ghoſt mentioned in thoſe Epiſtles, were either ſuch of which even Infidels might from the nature of them be convinced, or ſuch as from ſome outward and ſenſible Appearances and effects, or by their inward Operations, made themſelves known to them who heard and ſaw them. For inſtance, the working of miracles, the caſting out of Devils by the name of Jeſus, and the healing the ſick through faith in his name, the Gift of prophecy, or foretelling things future, the diſcerning of Spirits, the gift of Tongues, and the interpretation of them, if truly done, were things ſelf evident, and could not well be exerciſed without a ſenſible Demonſtration to all that ſaw, perceived, heard, or felt them, that they were performed; and therefore God by aſſiſting the Apoſtles, and by enabling others to perform them, muſt give full teſtimony to the word of his Grace: And the Apoſtles by this conſtant appeal to them as to things which their own Eyes had ſeen, and their conſciences bore witneſs to, and they in Perſon had performed, muſt appeal to the Senſes, and Experience of thoſe to whom they writ in matters ſubject daily to their Experience, and to the Senſes of the Members of thoſe reſpective Churches, touching the truth of their Apoſtleſhip, and of the Confirmation they pretended to have given of it. Now as it ſeemeth highly incredible that Perſons able to write the deepeſt Myſteries, and the exacteſt precepts of Morality, ſhould be ſo fooliſh as to confirm them only by an appeal to the Senſes, and experience of thoſe very Men of whom they were aſſured that they had never ſeen or done, or found the leaſt experience of any of the things they mentioned; ſo is it ſtill far more incredible that an Appeal of ſuch apparent falſhood, made to the conſciences of Men who never ſaw theſe Miracles, or found theſe comforts of the Holy Ghoſt, and never had theſe gifts of Tongues, Interpretation, Healing, Prophecy, which the Epiſtles tells us were their daily exerciſe, ſhould embrace theſe very Epiſtles as Divine, theſe Records as the word of God. And yet we know both they, and other Churches, did thus actually eſteem them, and receive them as ſuch, and therefore muſt be well aſſured that what they thus aſſerted of the gifts of the Holy Ghoſt were things confirmed to them by their own Senſes and Experience.

2*dly*, Add to this, that theſe Men, in theſe very Writings, confidently ſay, that this was their rejoycing, even the teſtimony of their conſcience, that in ſimplicity, and godly ſincerity, they had their converſation in the World, and more abundantly towards them, 2 Cor. 1. 13. and that they writ no other things than what they did acknowledge, and they truſted would acknowledge to the end, Chap. 5. 11. We are, ſay they, made manifeſt to God, and we truſt alſo

we are made manifeſt in your Conſciences, Chap. 5. 11. They repreſent it as a great Abſurdity, that they ſhould be found falſe witneſſes of God, 1 Cor. 15. 15. They diſtinguiſh themſelves from others they call falſe Apoſtles, and deceitful Workers, by this very Character of their ſincerity. For we, ſay they, are not as many who corrupt the word of God, but as of ſincerity, as of God, in the ſight of God ſpeak we in Chriſt, 2 Cor. 2. 17. we have renounced the hidden things of diſhoneſty, not walking in craftineſs, not handling the word of God deceitfully, but by manifeſtation of the truth commending our ſelves to every man's conſcience in the ſight of God, Chap. 4. 2. Yea for this they appeal to the Searcher of all hearts, and to the Conſciences of thoſe to whom they write, ſaying, Our exhortation was not of deceit or guile, for neither at any time uſed we flattering words, as ye know; nor of men ſought we glory, neither of you, nor yet of others; ye are witneſſes, and God alſo, how holily, and juſtly, and unblameably, we behav'd our ſelves among you that believe, 1 Theſſ. 2. 3, 5, 6, 10. Now with what face could theſe things be aſſerted by Men who knew that they, in theſe Epiſtles, had told ſuch things as even the Senſes and Experience of thoſe to whom they writ muſt know to be the greateſt Falſhoods? Or how could they to whom they writ give credit to ſuch impudent Untruths as theſe muſt be, if the Relations which they made of theſe miraculous Operations of the Holy Ghoſt had been fictitious things? This therefore is a farther Evidence of their ſincerity and truth in theſe Relations.

3*dly*, Let us conſider how the Apoſtle treats thoſe Churches of Corinth and Galatia, in which he ſpeaks moſt copiouſly of theſe Operations of the Holy Ghoſt, and how they ſtood affected to the Apoſtle Paul. The Corinthians, in his 1ſt Chapter, are repreſented as Schiſmatical; in his 3d, as Carnal; in the 5th, as glorying in an Inceſtuous Perſon; in the 6th, as Contentious, to their own ſhame, and to the Scandal of Chriſtianity; in the 8th, as Murtherers of them for whom Chriſt died; in the 10th, as Murmurers, Tempters of Chriſt, Fornicators, Idolaters, Partakers of the Table of Devils; in the 11th, as coming to the Lord's Supper not for the better, but the worſe, offending in it both againſt the Rules of Charity, and Temperance, and Faith, in not diſcerning the Lord's body; in the 12th and 14th, as guilty of Emulations, Schiſms, and Contentions, touching ſpiritual perſons, and of Vain-glory, Scandal, and Confuſion, in the exerciſe of their ſpiritual Gifts; and in the 15th, as Denyers of that Reſurrection which was the great Foundation of all the future Hopes of Chriſtians. In his 2d Epiſtle he declares his fears that he might find among them Debates, Envyings, Wrath, Strifes, Backbitings, Whiſperings, Swellings, Tumults; and that he ſhould find among them many who had not yet repented of the Uncleanneſs, Fornication, and Laſciviouſneſs which they had committed, 2 Cor. 12. 20, 21. And for theſe things, if not reform'd, he threatens he would uſe ſharpneſs, and come to them with a rod, 2 Cor. 10. 6. 13. 2. He charges the Galatians with Apoſtacy, admiring that they were ſo ſoon removed from him that called them to another Goſpel, Chap. 1. 6. and repreſents them as fooliſh and bewitch'd for falling from that Goſpel by which they had receiv'd theſe ſpiritual Gifts, to the beggarly Elements of the Law, Chap. 3. 1—5. Now how could the Corinthians be guilty of ſuch Emulations about ſpiritual Perſons, or ſuch Diſorders in the exerciſe of their ſpiritual Gifts, provided there were among them no ſuch Perſons, and they had no ſuch Gifts? How could they fear the Laſhes of his Rod on the account of Crimes of which they neither were nor could be guilty? Why ſhould they not be rather for Cephas or Apollo than for Paul, if Paul impoſed upon them with falſe Stories and ſenſible Untruths? Or why ſhould not the Galatians even quit that Goſpel in which he endeavour'd to confirm them only by an Appeal to that which they muſt know to be a Lye?

Moreover, the affections of the Members of theſe Churches were not ſo firm to him, their Eſteem of him was not ſo great as that he might ſecurely leſſen it by venturing on theſe arts of Falſhood, for he found ſome of his Corinthians puffed up againſt him, and preferring others much before him, 1 Cor. 4. 18. charging him with Lightneſs and Inconſtancy, 2 Cor. 1. 17. and walking acording to the Fleſh, Chap. 10. 2. looking upon him as a man too much tranſported, and almoſt beſides himſelf, 2 Cor. 5. 13. as baſe in Perſon, and in Speech contemptible, Chap. 10. 10. He complains that they were ſtreightned in their bowels of affection towards him, and that the more he loved them, the leſs he was beloved by them, 2 Cor. 12. 15. that they queſtion'd his Apoſtleſhip, and even ſought a proof of Chriſt ſpeaking in him, Chap. 13. 3. He repreſents the Galatians as Men who queſtioned his Apoſtleſhip and Doctrine, or at leaſt thought him much inferior in both to others, Chap. 1. and the 2d, ſuppoſing he diſſembled with them, and elſewhere preached himſelf that Circumciſion he condemn'd in them, Chap. 5. 11. yea, who looked upon him as their Enemy, and were even ready to exclude him, Ch. 4. 16, 17. Now under theſe Circumſtances could he hope to repair his Credit with them, and to eſtabliſh the Apoſtleſhip they queſtion'd by an appeal to, and a relation of ſuch things as both their Senſes, and experience knew to be manifeſt Untruths? But,

4*thly*, Could it be ſuppoſed that theſe Churches were ſo ſtupid, and inſenſible, that they did not, or ſo partially affected to the Apoſtles that they would not take notice of theſe things? these Epistles inform us of other Subtile and Industrious Adversaries, Men zealous to oppose, and to adulterate the Gospel which he Preached, and desirous to find occasions to depress and lesson the promoters of it, and to advance themselves above them, 2 Cor. 10. 12 – 15. 11. 12. St. Paul complains that the Corinthians had among them false Apostles, and deceitful Workers, who transform'd themselves into the Apostles of Christ, when in truth they were Ministers of Satan, 2 Cor. 11. 13, 15. Men who corrupted the word of God, Chap. 2. 17. and sought to corrupt them from the simplicity that is in Christ, Chap. 11. 3. That among the Galatians there were evil Agents who troubled them, and would pervert the Gospel of Christ, Chap. 1. 7. False Brethren who came in privily to spy out their liberty, Chap. 2. 4. Men that desired to exclude the Apostles that they might be affected by them, Chap. 4. 17. Men who constrained them to be circumcised, and observe the Law, and yet kept it not themselves, but only did this least they should suffer persecution for the cross of Christ, Chap 6. 12, 13. wishing they were cut off who did thus trouble them, Chap. 5. 12. The like he saith, Philip. 1. 15, 16. Chap. 3. 18. Col. 2. 4, 8, 19, 20. 1 Tim. 1. 5, 6. Chap. 6. 3, 4, 5. 2 Tim. 2. 17, 18, 19. Chap. 3. 5, 8. Tit. 1. 10, 11. Now if he himself were a vain Talker, and deceitful Worker, one who endeavour'd to impose upon them with false Tales, with what face could He object those things to others of which he was himself so guilty. Or how could they whom he so confidently doth accuse as guilty of these things, neglect this obvious Reply to such an Accusation that he himself, in his appeal to the miraculous operations of the Holy Ghost for Confirmation of his Doctrine and Apostleship, had done the very thing he laid to their charge. We have no reason to suspect that all, or any of these Adversaries neglected any Pains or Diligence to search into the Truth of what St. Paul thus offer'd to confirm his Doctrine, and magnifie his Office, and to vindicate himself from the Aspersions which they cast upon him. Since then we never find the Truth of these Relations question'd by any of those Jews who so insatiably thirsted for his Blood, or by those Judaizing Christians, those of the Circumcision, who so vehemently inveigh'd against his Doctrine, his Person, and his Office; and since we are assur'd by the event, that if they ever made any such attempts, they all proved ineffectual, and insufficient to impair the Credit of those Writings in the Christian World; it may be certainly concluded, that these Epistles could not be convinced of falshood but contain'd matter of unquestionable Truth in these assertions touching the powerful operations of the Holy Ghost.

Lastly, Let us consider what the Apostles suffer'd for this Testimony, and what it cost them to propogate this Faith throughout the Christian World, and in what tragical Expressions they are set forth in Scripture; God saith St. Paul, hath set forth us the Apostles last, as it were appointed to death, for we are made a spectacle to the world, to Angels, and to Men. Even to this present hour we both hunger, and thirst, are naked, and buffeted, and have no certain dwelling place. And labour working with our hands. Being reviled, we bless; being persecuted, we suffer it. Being defamed, we entreat; we are made as the filth of the world, and the offscouring of all things to this very Day, 1 Cor. 4. 9 – 13. that they died daily, or stood in Jeopardy of it every hour, 1 Cor. 15. 31. that they approved themselves as Ministers of Christ in much patience, in afflictions, in necessities, in distresses, in stripes, in imprisonments, in tumults, in labours, in watchings, in fastings, 2 Cor. 6. 4, 5. We were, saith he, pressed above measure, beyond strength, insomuch that we despair'd of life, 2 Cor. 1. 8. And in the eleventh Chapter he gives such a dreadful Account of his own afflictions as can scarcely be read without trembling. Now by what motive could they be acted in the publication of that Faith, for which they suffered all that Wit and Malice could inflict upon them, but the conviction of the Truth of what they published; seeing they actually lost all in this, and could expect no Blessings in another World for calling God to witness to a Lye? The Moralists assure us that 'tis impossible for Men to act without appearance of some good to be persued by that Action; that love of Life, and a desire of self Preservation, is common to us with the Brutes, and 'tis as natural both for them, and us, to avoid Misery and Torments: If then the Apostles did actually abandon all the Enjoyments and Expectations both of this and of a better Life, and wilfully subject themselves unto the worst of Misery and Torments, in propogation of a Testimony from which they could expect no profit, or advantage, they must be even bereft of common Sense, renounce the natural instincts of Mankind, and be in love with Misery and Ruin. I confess tis possible for Men to lay down their lives for false opinions, provided they believe them true, but if the Apostles were guilty of any cheat at all in this matter, they must be guilty of a known imposture, and so must sacrifice their Lives for falshood, i. e. for that from which they could expect no Good at all, which seems so inconsistent with the common Principles of Reason and Self-love, that nothing can be more incredible.

And this, I hope, may be sufficient to convince any reasonable Person that these Epistles must be written whilst the Apostles lived, and be their genuine Writings, and then the truth of what they do so copiously assert concerning the miraculous Gifts and Operations of the Holy Ghost, vouchsafed to the Believers of those times, cannot be reasonably contested.

§. 17. But yet I ſhall proceed to farther Confirmation of this Argument from theſe two Heads.

1*ſt*, From a particular Conſideration of the Gifts they mention.

2*dly*, From the Reaſon we have to believe that theſe extraordinary Gifts were equally confer'd upon all other Chriſtian Churches, as upon thoſe which the Apoſtles mention in their Epiſtles, and alſo were of a laſting Continuance among them.

1*ſt*, From a particular Conſideration of the miraculous operations, and the Gifts they mention. Now they were of two ſorts:

The healing of the ſick, and the curing of the lame, blind, and maimed, the raiſing of the dead, the ejecting devils out of Men, and from their oracles, and Temples; which being performed by the Apoſtles and Primitive Profeſſors of Chriſtianity upon others, I ſtile outward Operations.

Or elſe thoſe inward gifts by which the underſtanding was enlightned, and was enabled to diſcern that which their natural Powers could not reach, as the gift of ſpeaking with unknown tongues, of prophecy, of diſcerning Spirits. I begin with

The gift of healing the ſick, and the diſeaſed. Of which let it be noted,

1*ſt*, That this Gift was not confin'd to the Apoſtles, but was confer'd on the Inferior Clergy, and other membets of the Church indifferently: For amongſt the Gifts confer'd upon the Church, the Apoſtle mentions χαρίσματα ἰαμάτων thoſe of healing, 1 Cor. 12. 19. and verſe 29. they who exerciſed thoſe gifts are reckoned after Apoſtles, Prophets, Teachers, as being both diſtinct from them, and inferior to them; and verſe 30. the Queſtion is thus put have, all the gifts of healing? St. James directs the ſick, and the diſeaſed to the Rulers of the Church, with promiſe that the Prayer of Faith, joyned with the holy Oyl, ſhould heal the ſick, Jam. 5. 14, 15. And this is by our Saviour promiſed as one of the ſigns that ſhould follow them that believed in his Name. They ſhall lay hands on the ſick, and they ſhall recover, Mark 16. 18. This being therefore made as well the matter of a promiſe, as of their frequent Prayers; had not theſe Prayers been anſwered, and this promiſe verifyed, Chriſtianity would have, in probability, been blaſted by it.

2*dly*, This Gift continued frequent and notorious in the three firſt Ages of the Church, and the ſalutary Influences of it were diſperſed throughout the World. Soon after the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, the Chriſtians, ſaith (a) Epiphanius, return'd from Pella, σημεῖα μεγάλα ἐργαζόμενοι ἰάσεων, working great miracles of healing. Amongſt the Operations of the Holy Ghoſt confer'd at Baptiſm upon the Converts of his time, (b) Juſtin M. enumerates τὸ τῆς ἰάσεως the gift of healing. (c) Irenæus proves the Certainty of our Lord's Reſurrection from thoſe Miracles which his Diſciples perform'd ſtill in his Name; For ſome of them, ſaith he, caſt out Devils, others heal thoſe that are diſeaſed, and even now the dead have been raiſed, and continued with us many years. The Spirit of many dead Men hath return'd again, and the Man hath oft been given to the Prayers of the Saints, the whole Church of that place requeſting it with Prayer and Faſting. Even to this day, ſaith (d) Origen, there remain Footſteps of that holy Spirit who appeared in the ſhape of a Dove among the Chriſtians, for ἐξελαύνουσι δαίμονας, καὶ πολλοὺς ἰάσεις ὠφελοῦσι, they caſt out Devils, and perform many Cures. And again, (e) Even now the name of Chriſt exempts Men from Ecſtaſies, ſcares away δαίμονας ἤδη τῆ τοῦ Devils and Diſeaſes. Some footſteps and remainders of the Miracles which Chriſt performed (f) ἐν ταῖς ἐκκλησίαις ἕως νῦν γίνεται are to this day done in the Churches by the Name of Jeſus. And laſtly, to that Enquiry of Celſus, What magnificent Work hath your Jeſus done? he anſwers, (g) This is one magnificent Work, that μέχρι σήμερον even to this day his Name doth heal Diſeaſes. Now of the Truth of what they thus deliver, they pretend,

1*ſt*, To be themſelves Eye-witneſſes. We can produce, ſaith (h) Origen, a vaſt number of Greeks and Barbarians who believe in Chriſt; ſome of whom, as a token of the power of that Faith they have embraced, heal Diſeaſes by invocation of the Name of God and Chriſt: καὶ ἡμεῖς ἑωράκαμεν and we our ſelves have ſeen many delivered by theſe things from dangerous Symptoms, Ecſtaſies, and Madneſs, and ten thouſand other Evils which neither Men nor Devils could exempt them from.

2*dly*, They call the God of Heaven to witneſs to the Truth of what they ſay: We have ſeen many ſuch things, ſaith (i) Origen, being preſent, and beholding them with our eyes, which ſhould we write, the Heathens would laugh at them as things feigned, Θεὸς γὰρ ἴσθι μάρτυς τῆ ἐμῆ συνειδήσει, but God is witneſs to my Conſcience, that I do not endeavour by falſe Teſtimonies to commend the Doctrine of Chriſt.

3*dly*, They appeal to the Teſtimonies of their very Enemies. For thus (k) Tertullian ſpeaks to Scapula, a Judge in Carthage: All theſe things may be ſuggeſted to thee from thy Office, and the Advocates of it, who have received theſe Advantages from Chriſtians; for the Notary of one, the Child and Kinſman of another, have been freed by us from Devils. Et quanti honeſti viri (de vulgaribus enim non dicimus) aut à Dæmoniis, aut valetudinibus remediati ſunt. And how many honourable Men (for we ſpeak not of the vulgar) have been delivered from Devils or Diſeaſes by the Chriſtians. 'Twas Proculus, ſaith he, the Chriſtian, that heal'd with oyl Evodus, which ſo ingratiated him to Severus, that he kept him in his Palace to his death. And,

Laſtly, By this very Argument they triumph over the like Attempts of Hereticks and Heathens, who pretended to do theſe things by Magick, or that their Gods performed the ſame, 1. Over thoſe Hereticks, who knowing theſe miraculous Cures were frequently performed by the Orthodox, were forced to pretend the like. Thus Irenæus comparing the Miracles of Chriſtians with the Magical Operations of Simon M, Carpocrates, and others of that Gang. (l) This, ſaith he, is ſufficient to confute them that they can neither give ſight to the blind, nor hearing to the deaf, nor cure the weak, the lame, the paralytick, nor thoſe that are diſeaſed in any other part of the Body; which yet, ſaith he, was often done by Chriſtians, to the benefit of the Heathens. 2. Over the like Pretences of the Heathens, who boaſted that (m) πολλοὶ σωμάτων πηρώσεις ἰάσασθαι, that their Gods did many Cures, that they gave (n) morbis medelam, ſpem afflictis, opem miſeris, Medicine to the diſeaſed, Hope to the afflicted, Help to the miſerable; and that their Gods had often cured (o) multorum hominum morbos valetudineſq; the Diſeaſes of many. For to this they do not only anſwer, by ſaying they had no Aſſurance that their Dæmons, however courted by them, could heal the Infirmities of humane Bodies, as (p) Origen replies to Celſus; and that if they did any thing of this kind, 'twas only by applying Medicines, and directing them to ſuch Meats, ſuch Potions, and ſuch juices of Herbs, that is, ſaith Arnobius, by ſhewing the ſkill of a Phyſitian rather than the power of a God. But that they could do nothing of this nature worthy to be named with that which Chriſt and his Apoſtles did, he, ſay they, with a word commanded the Blind to ſee, the Lame to walk, and cured all diſeaſes with a touch of his hand. Now can you ſhew us any among all your Magicians, (q) conſimile aliquid Chriſto milleſima ex parte qui fecerit, who have done any thing in the leaſt reſembling Chriſt? yea (r) quid ſimile dii omnes quibus opem dicitis ægris, & periclitantibus latam? what like to this have any of your Gods to whom you do aſcribe the cure of the ſick performed? That whereas their Gods could not tranſmit their ſuppoſed power to others, our Jeſus derived this power to the meaneſt, to Ruſticks, Fiſhermen, Day-Labourers, (ſ) and did himſelf nothing which he gave not them alſo power to do. And that the Name of Jeſus reſtored them to perfect health who were incurable by all the powers of humane Art, the aſſiſtance of the Demons, or of Heathen Deities. Seeing you have the confidence, ſay they, to bring the cures of Heathen Deities into conteſt with thoſe of Chriſt, how many thouſands ſhall we inſtance in who have in vain repaired with ſupplications to all the Temples of the Gods; in vain have tried the ears of your admired Æſculapius? (t) quid ergo prodeſt oſtendere unum aut alterum fortaſſe curatos, cum tot millibus ſubvenerit nemo? and what availeth it, to tell us of the good ſucceſs of two or three, when the complaints of thouſands receiving no help from them ſhew their want of power to aſſiſt the needy?

Let it be then conſidered, that the Chriſtians, for three whole Centuries together, heal'd many Miriads throughout the World, who laboured under thoſe Diſeaſes, which were incurable by all the Arts of Men and Devils, that they made frequently the Lame to walk, the Deaf to hear, the Blind to ſee, and ſometimes rais'd the Dead by Invocation of the Name of Jeſus; and we ſhall find juſt reaſon to conclude this was the Lord's doings, and it is marvellous in our eyes.

§. 18. 2*dly*, Our Lord promiſed that they who believed in him ſhould caſt out Devils, which promiſe he perform'd with ſuch a conſtant ſcene of glorious Inſtances, and ſuch amazing Circumſtances, if in this matter we may credit the Primitive Profeſſors of, and Mar- tyrs for Christianity, that 'tis not possible for any Man to doubt the truth and certainty of Christian Faith, who does not look upon them as impudent Untruths, and Lying Legends. For,

1*st*. Let us consider to whom this power was committed over this strong man armed, over these Principalities, and Rulers of the darkness of this World. Our blessed Saviour having said, behold I give you Authority over all the power of the Enemy, great Multitudes of Christians gave a continual Demonstration of the Truth of this Prediction. For, that our Lord was sent for the destruction of these evil Spirits, ἐξ ὧν ἐν πᾶσι τοῖς ὑφ' ἡμῶν γινομένοις μαθεῖν δύνασθε, you may now learn, saith (u) Justin M. from what is done before your Eyes, for many Christians, throughout all the world, and in the very City of your empire, have healed many that were possessed of the Devil, and still do they eject them by invocation of the name of Jesus, whom none of your Inchanters, Conjurers, or Sorcerers were able to expel. Those Christians are not few, saith (x) Origen, who eject Devils from them that are possessed with them, and this they do without all curious Arts, or any Sorcery or Magick only by Prayers, and simple adjuration of them, ὁτὲ δὲ καὶ ἁπλῶς τὸ τοιοῦτον ποιοῦσι, for mostly this is done even by the meanest Christians, the grace assistant to the word of Christ demonstrating by this the Devil's weakness, that to expel them from the Soul or Body of a Man there is no need of Men of wisdom, or powerful in demonstration of the Faith? (y) Now, saith he, were not Christ of a divine composition the Devils would not thus quit the bodies they possess at the bare invocation of his name, Fidelis quisque Dæmonibus imperat, every Christian hath command over the Devils, saith (z) Clemens, yea such is the efficacy, of the name of Jesus, saith (a) Origen, ὡς καὶ ὁπόταν ἐν τῷ τοῦ φαύλου στόματι ὀνομάζωνται ὄνινσι, that it sometimes profits when it is used by wicked Men, according to our Lord's prediction, that at the dreadful Audit, many should be rejected who could make this Plea, in thy name we have cast out Devils, Matth. 7. 22. It was sometimes efficacious even when used by them who were no Followers of the Holy Jesus; as in the instance mention'd by St. John, Master, we saw one casting out Devils in thy name, and we forbad him, because he followed not us, Mark 9. 38. And this gave Courage to the Jewish Exorcists, the Sons of Sceva, to adjure evil Spirits by the name of Jesus, Act. 19. 14. And not the (b) Jews only, but other Inchanters also, saith (c) St. Austin, mixed the name of Jesus with their Incantations.

2*dly*. This name was efficacious against all evil Spirits whatsoever, none of them being able to resist the Power of it. Even now, saith (d) Justin M. we who believe in Jesus, τὰ δαιμόνια πάντα, καὶ πνεύματα πονηρὰ ἐξορκίζοντες, ὑποτασσόμενα ἡμῖν ἔχομεν, adjuring the whole herd of Devils and Malignant Spirits, have them all Subject to our power. And again, By the name of the Son of God, πᾶν δαιμόνιον ὁρκιζόμενον νικᾶται, καὶ χαυνοῦται all kind of Devils, being adjured, are overcome, and brought into subjection. Tis evidently seen, saith (e) Origen, that by the name of Jesus ten thousand Devils have been expell'd from the Souls and Bodies, of those who were possessed by them. On this account they triumphed over the Heathen Exorcists, that by the name of Jesus they expell'd those Devils which none of their Inchanters, Sorcerers, Magicians saith (f) Justin M. could expel; And over all the Heathen Deities: bring one possessed mad and raging, saith (g) Lactantius, to your Jupiter, or because he is not skilful in those matters, bring him to Æsculapius, or Apollo, let both their priests adjure him, in the name of their supposed Deities, to quit his station, they in vain attempt it; but let the same Devils be adjured in the name of the true God, and instantly they fly. Quæ ratio est ut timeant Christum, Jovem non timeant, were this Jove any better than themselves, why do they fear our Christ, and not their Jupiter? And on the same account they triumphed over those Hereticks which then appeared to corrupt the truth: for we by this, saith (h) Irenæus confound the Heresies of Simon M, Carpocrates, and the whole tribe of those deceitful Workers, that they cannot, omnes dæmonas effugare, expel all kinds of Devils, but only such as are confederate with them, if they indeed do that. Consider,

3*dly*, That they expell'd them not only out of Men, but also from their Temples, Oracles, and Altars. We are so far, saith (i) Origen, from worshipping of Dæmons, that we expel them ἀπὸ τόπων ἐν οἷς κεῖνοι ἱδρύκασιν from the places where they are seated. Go no more, saith (k) Clemens of Alexandria in his Exhortation to the Greeks, to your Castalian, or other Fountains, all these prophetick Streams are now dried up, and they are pass'd away with their own Fables. Divination and Oracles, saith (l) Strabo, were by the Ancients much regarded, but now they are as generally neglected and contemned, the Oracle at Delphos and at Hammon being wholly ſilent. Not above one or two remains, ſaith (m) Plutarch, the reſt are wholly ſilent, or entirely deſolate. The Spirit of the Gods, ſaith the (n) Apoſtate Julian, comes now οὐκέτι ἐκ πολλοῦ καὶ ἐν ὀλίγοις but rarely, and to very few. Thus are the very Heathens forced, with (o) Porphyry, to confeſs the Triumphs of our Jeſus over their ſuppoſed Deities. Nor did they only ſilence their Oracles, and ſtop the mouths both of their Prieſts and of thoſe Dæmons that inſpired them, but they did open them, at the ſame time, to force them to confeſs, even before their Prieſts and Votaries, that they were evil Spirits. This moſt Men, ſaith (p) Minutius, know, and ſome of you, that all your Dæmons, when they are forced out of Bodies by our Words and Prayers, do with grief confeſs what they are, not belying their own filthineſs, even in your preſence, ipſis teſtibus eſſe eos Dæmonas de ſe verum confitentibus credite, believe their teſtimony when truly they confeſs themſelves to be but Devils. All the Dominion we have over them, ſaith (q) Tertullian, proceedeth from the Name of Chriſt, and the Commemoration of thoſe things they are to ſuffer from him as their Judge; this cauſeth them, at our Command, to come forth of the Bodies they poſſeſs with great reluctance, and grief and ſhame, when you are preſent, you who have credited their Lyes, believe them when they ſpeak the truth of themſelves, for none will lye to their diſgrace, but for their honour; they are more to be believ'd who confeſs againſt themſelves, than who deny for themſelves. Theſe Devils, ſaith (r) St. Cyprian, being adjured by the true God, do inſtantly confeſs, and are compell'd to come out of the Bodies they poſſeſs, you may ſee them by our voice, and by the power of the inviſible Majeſty, as it were whip'd and ſcorch'd, and as their torment doth encreaſe, you may hear them howling, groaning, deprecating, confeſſing even in the audience of their Votaries, whence they came, and when they will depart. In his Epiſtle to (ſ) Donatus this is made one property of a Chriſtian, to force impure Spirits to confeſs what they are, and to urge them by their powerful ſtrokes to depart. Conſider,

4*thly,* That this was done not in Rome and Carthage only, and other Cities of the chiefeſt note, but, as it is obſerved by (t) Juſtin Martyr, καὶ πάντα τὰ κόσμου throughout all the world, not only for ſome Weeks or Months together, but, as theſe Records teſtifie, from the firſt riſe of Chriſtians to the days of Conſtantine; for even about that time (u) Lactantius ſpeaks thus: As Chriſt himſelf, whilſt he convers'd with Men, did with a word expel all kind of Devils, ita nunc ſectatores ejus, ſo now his Followers expel theſe filthy Spirits by their Maſter's name, and by the ſign of his Paſſion. (x) Euſebius adds, that οὗτος καὶ νῦν, even now he ſhews the vertue of his divine Power, by expelling wicked and hurtful Devils from the Bodies and the Souls of Men, only by mention of his name, ὡς αὐτῇ πείρᾳ κατειλήφαμεν, as from experience we have found. This they did

Laſtly, ſay theſe Authors, without the uſe of Medicines, or Magical Incantations, only by invocation of the Name of Jeſus, or by reciting the ſacred Books, ſaith (a) Origen, without deceit, or without gain, ſaith (b) Irenæus, ſine premio, ſine mercede, without advantage, or reward, ſaith (c) Tertullian, it being then conceived criminal to gain by ſuch ſpiritual Gifts, and contrary to that injunction of their Lord, Matth. 10. 8. freely ye have received, freely give. And truly to conceive theſe things were done by any Medicines, or Magical Inchantments, is the greateſt folly; for how ſhould Multitudes of mean and ſimple Chriſtians arrive at ſuch a skill in any of thoſe Arts, which neither Jew or Gentile, who had long exerciſed them, could attain unto, and which none of thoſe numerous Apoſtates or Hereticks which fell off from them in the times of perſecution, could diſcover, or inſtruct others to perform, or themſelves exerciſe? And much leſs is it to be thought that Satan ſhould aſſiſt them to build Chriſtianity upon the Ruins of his own Kingdom, and to promote an intereſt as contrary both to his Nature and Deſigns, as is light to darkneſs. Moreover, that none might doubt the truth of theſe Particulars,

1*ſt,* They frequently appeal even to the ſenſes of the very Infidels. If you are willing ſaith (d) Juſtin M. εἰ θέλετε καὶ ὑμεῖς ἵνα ὄψιν λαμβάνητε ῥᾴδιον ὑμῖν παιδεῦσαι, it is eaſie for you even now to be assured of these things with their own eyes. Dictis non stetis si oculi vestri & aures permiserint vobis, disbelieve these things, saith (e) Tertullian, if your eyes and ears will suffer you to do so. Admirable are those words of Cyprian to Demetrianus a Persecutor of the Christians, veni & cognosce vera esse quæ dicimus, Come and experiment the truth of what we say, and since thou sayest thou worshippest the Gods, believe the Gods thou worshippest; (f) or if thou wilt, believe thy self; for he that now dwels in thy Breast, and holds thy Soul in ignorance, shall in thy audience speak of thee, thou shalt see them entreating us whom thou entreatest, them whom thou feareſt fearing us, thou shalt see them bound, and trembling under our hand, whom thou adoreſt as Gods; sure this must be sufficient to confound thee in thy errors, when thou seest and beareſt thy Gods, at our command, instantly confessing what they are, and not daring to conceal their cheats in thy presence.

to

2*dly*, They appeal also to their Consciences; we expel Devils out of Men, saith (g) Tertullian, sicut plurimis notum est, as very many know. Most Men are very well acquainted with these things, saith (h) Minucius, pars vestrûm, and so some of you Heathens are. They appeal,

3*dly*, To the confessions of the very Devils, as hath been proved already from the Testimonies of Tertullian, Minucius, Cyprian; and by this very Argument (i) Theophilus proves them to be evil Spirits, that μέχρι νῦν δῶσι, even at this day, being exorcised by the name of the true God, they confess themselves to be deceitful Spirits. And,

4*thly*, They appeal to the effects produced upon the Persons thus dispossess'd, even their conversion by this means to the Christian Faith. Some Christians, saith (k) Irenæus, have the gift of casting out Devils so firmly, and so certainly, ὅτι πολλάκις καὶ πιστῶν αὐτοὺς ὄντως ἀπαλλαγέντας καὶ διὰ τὴν ἐκείνων πολιτείαν, that many times they who are heal'd, and delivered from these evil Spirits, believe, and do continue in the Church. Hæc denique testimonia Deorum vestrorum Christianos facere consueverunt, these testimonies of your Gods do oft make Christians, saith (l) Tertullian; believing them, we believe in Christ; they advance the credit of our writings, and build up our hope; for you worship them even with the blood of Christians, they therefore would not lose such profitable votaries, lest turning Christians you should, with us, expel them, si illis, sub Christiano volente vobis veritatem probare, mentiri liceret, if they durst lye to a Christian attempting to confirm you in the truth. (m) Lactantius accounting for the Multitude of Christians, saith this is no small reason of it, that the Devils being cast out by Christians, omnes qui resanati fuerint, adhæreant Religioni cujus potentiam senserunt, they who are healed, embrace that faith whose benefit and power they have felt.

5*thly*, They encourage others to embrace the Christian Faith, by promising to them this power of ejecting Devils, when they should cordially embrace it. Be you baptized, saith (n) Clemens, in the name of the most holy Trinity, and then, if you believe with an entire faith, and with true purity of Mind, etiam ex aliis vos malignos spiritus effugetis, & dæmones, you shall expel impure Spirits and Devils out of others, and free men from diseases; for the Devils know and own those who have given up themselves to God, and sometimes at their very presence are cast out; we exhort you therefore to be of our Religion, and we assure you that when you do advance to the same faith and innocence of life with us, erit par vobis atque eadem etiam contra dæmonas potestas, you shall obtain like power over the evil Spirits.

Lastly, They offer upon pain of Death, and all that could be dear to them, to make this Experiment before the Eyes of Heathens, i. e. not only to eject those very Demons they invoked, but even to force them to confess they were cheats, and own themselves to be but Devils. I come now, saith (o) Tertullian, to the Demonstration of the point, edatur hîc aliquis coram tribunalibus vestris, let any one be placed before your tribunals who manifestly is possessed by the Devil, being commanded by any Christian to speak what he is, he shall as certainly truly confess himself to be a Devil, as elsewhere he doth falsly profess to be a God; produce any other of them who profess to be inspired by any of your Gods, nisi se Dæmones confessi fuerint, Christiano mentiri non audentes, ibidem illius Christiani procacissimi sanguinem fundite, if they do not confess themselves to be Devils, not daring to lye to a Christian, let the blood of that Malepert Christian be shed before you in that very place. What is more manifest than this experiment, more faithful than this proof? Here is plain evidence laid before you, whose virtue will assist it self, here can be no suspicion; even say that Magick, or some such fallacy is imposed upon you, if your Eyes and Ears will permit you.

All this we have delivered upon certain Knowledge, and confirm'd to us with the highest Attestations, by Men of greatest Wisdom, to distinguish betwixt Truth and Falshood, and to discern matters of real Fact, from vain impostures; by Men of that sincerity, and undisguis'd piety, as renders their veracity, in matters subject to their senses, and their experience, incontestable; by Men who suffer'd all that is terrible to humane Nature for the profession of a Faith whose Truth depended on the certainty of these events, and which in this World, call'd for continual Acts of Self-denial, and Austerity, and the renouncing all that tends to gratifie the sensual Appetite, only for the Enjoyment of inward and Spiritual Pleasures here, and of Celestial Joys hereafter. Again, all this is said in their Discourses directed to Heathen Emperors, and Judges, or to the Heathen World, partly to mitigate their hatred of them, and their severities against them, and partly to engage them to embrace the Christian Faith, which sure no Person of sincerity would, no Men of wisdom could attempt by such untruths as might be easily detected by them. For could they boast of their continual Triumphs over Satan's Kingdom throughout all the World, and send the Heathens to Rome and Carthage, and other Famous Cities, to be convinced of the Truth of what they said? Would they talk of the multitude of Converts they had made to the Christian Faith by dispossessing Men of Devils, or forcing evil Spirits in their presence to confess they were but Devils? Would they encourage others to embrace the Christian Faith by promise of like power when they did cordially believe, and practise suitably to it? Would they appeal to the Senses, to the Ears and Eyes, to the Conscience and Experience of their most subtile Adversaries? Would they provoke them to make the experiment of the Truth of what they said with the hazard of their Lives, and even encourage them to shed their Blood, if, upon Trial, they should fail of the Performance? Or could they by such means as these, prevail upon the World, and daily gain new Proselytes, had not the Evidence of Truth confirmed their sayings? And if in these Assertions they spake the words of Truth and Soberness, they gave the clearest evidence of the power of that Jesus whose name so mightily prevailed over the host of these infernal Legions. For is it reasonable to conceive these Devils, without constraint from a Superior power, should not only quit the power they so long had exercised over the Bodies and the Souls of them who worshipped them as Gods, but also should confess so oft even in the presence of their Votaries, at the Command of them who sought the ruin of their Kingdom, and used their confessions to that purpose, that they were evil Spirits? Or could the name of Jesus, without the power to which he pretended, have been so great a Terror and a Torment to them, or be thus efficacious even in the Mouths of wicked Men, and those who followed not him, had not this also tended to the Confirmation of his Power? Did ever any of the Heathen Jugglers, with all their arts of Magick, extort such plain confessions from them? Did they thus force them to desert the Bodies and the Temples they possess'd, and to exert their Power to the ruin of themselves, and the amendment of those Souls they had ensnared? This therefore being only done by our Jesus, or others in his name, demonstrates his divine Commission.

Obj. Against this signal Demonstration of the truth of Christian Faith, the only Cavil which the Infidels and Scepticks raise, is this, That we find no mention of Persons thus possessed with the Devil among Jews or Gentiles, before our Saviour's Advent; nor have we now Experience of any such thing, either among Christians or in the Heathen World, and therefore cannot easily believe it was so then, but rather, that the Persons represented as Demoniacks were only Persons afflicted with some strange Diseases, Fits of the Mother, Convulsions, Falling Sickness, Madness, and the like.

Answ. 1. To this I answer, That were this granted, yet must this be a Demonstration of the Power of Christ, and of the Truth of Christian Faith, that it enabled its Professors every where, by Virtue of the Name and Invocation of the Holy Jesus, thus to heal all manner of Distempers, which no Physicians could cure by their Art, much less by speaking of a Word.

2dly, Moreover, I have sufficiently confuted this Cavil, by shewing, That the Christians of those Times ejected Devils, not only out of Men, but also from their Temples, Oracles and Altars, and that so signally, that even the best Historians of those Ages, tho' by Religion Heathens, and some of them professed Enemies of Christianity, are forced to confess their Oracles were silent, and that Christianity had thus triumphed over their supposed Deities, and also by shewing, that they forc'd these Evil Spirits to confess they were but Devils. Besides, we find both in the Sacred Records and in the Writings of those Fathers, a constant and a plain Distinction betwixt these two things, the curing Diseases and the casting out of Devils; so Mark 1. 34. He healed many that were sick of divers Diseases, and cast out many Devils, and suffered not the Devils to speak, because they knew him. Matth. 10. 1. He gave to the Apostles Power against unclean Spirits, to cast them out, and to heal

all

all manner of Sickneſs and Diſeaſes. The Chriſtians, ſaith (a) Irenæus, truly caſt out Devils, and heal the Sick by Impoſition of Hands. Ἐξορκίζουσι δαίμονας, καὶ σωτηρίας ἰάσεις ποιοῦνται; they caſt out Devils, and heal many Diſeaſes, ſaith (b) Origen. How many honeſt Men have by us been healed, or freed from Devils? is the Enquiry of (c) Tertullian.

3*dly*, The falſhood of the Suggeſtion, that Men poſſeſs'd with Evil Spirits were not known among the Jews in former Ages, appears from the plain Teſtimonies of (d) Joſephus, who ſaith, That God taught Solomon this Wiſdom, for the benefit of Men; and that he left behind him thoſe ways of exorciſing Demons, which ſo effectually expel'd them, that they never entred into them more; and from that time to this, hath that way of curing thoſe who were poſſeſs'd, been very powerful. He alſo talks of a ſtrange Herb or Shrub, which being artificially pull'd up, (e) τὰ καλούμενα δαιμόνια τάχιον ἐξελαύνει, preſently expels Devils. We alſo read in the Acts of Seven Sons of one Sceva a Jew, who were Exorciſts, Acts 19. 13. and of their Children caſting out of Devils, Matth. 12. 25. And both (f) Juſtin Martyr and (g) Irenæus inform us, That they did this before the time of our Saviour, by Invocation of the God of Abraham, Iſaac and Jacob.

That among the Heathens, there were Perſons thus poſſeſs'd, appears ſufficiently by this, that otherwiſe the Chriſtians could not have pretended to caſt them out; and from the Exorciſts and Magicians in every Nation, of whom (h) Plutarch ſaith, That they adviſed thoſe who were poſſeſs'd, to repeat the Epheſian Letters: And (i) Lucian mentions it as thing known to all, That they had thoſe who did diſpoſſeſs Demons. (k) Juſtin Martyr ſaith, The Jews exorciſed them, τῇ τέχνῃ ἅπερ καὶ τὰ ἔθνη χρώμενοι, uſing that Art as the Heathens did. The Names of Abraham, Iſaac and Jacob, are us'd, ſaith (l) Origen, not only by the Jewiſh Exorciſts, Ἀλλὰ καὶ ὑπὸ πάντων τῶν τὰ περὶ ἐπῳδὰς καὶ μαγικὰς πραγματευομένων, but almoſt by all that practiſe the Art of Magick or Enchantment. So that 'tis certain, that the Hiſtory of Chriſt and his Apoſtles, caſting out Devils in Judea, and of Chriſtians caſting them out throughout the World, was therefore never queſtion'd by Jew or Gentile, becauſe they had among themſelves in every place, pretenders to it.

And if after the Triumphs of the Goſpel, there now continue among Chriſtians no footſteps of this Power of Satan, this is a Teſtimony of the Truth of what our Lord foretold, Now is the Prince of the World caſt out, Joh. 12. 31.

§. XIX. Of thoſe internal Gifts, which ſhew the Power of the Holy Ghoſt engaged to promote the Chriſtian Faith.

Firſt, That of Tongues is moſt illuſtrious. This was a Gift exceeding requiſite, to the ſpeedy propagation of the Goſpel, which in the ſpace of Fourty Years was by our Lord's Prediction, Matth. 24. 14. to ſpread it ſelf throughout the World. And therefore, it was daily exerciſed among the Heathens to convert them, and by themſelves, when they embraced the Chriſtian Faith; for the Family, the Friends, and Kindred of Cornelius, receiv'd the Holy Ghoſt; and, to the Amazement of the Jewiſh Converts, ſpake with Tongues, and magnified God, Acts 10. 46. Upon the twelve Diſciples of the Baptiſt, the Apoſtle lays his hands, and they receive the Holy Ghoſt, and ſpeak with Tongues, Acts 19. 6. St. Paul in his Epiſtle to the Church of Corinth, ſaith, They were enriched with, and they abounded ἐν παντὶ λόγῳ, in all Tongues, Cor. 1. 5. See the Note there. Among the Gifts imparted to them, he reckons divers Kinds of Tongues, and the Interpretation of them, 1 Cor. 12. 9. and puts the Queſtion to them thus, ver. 30. Do all ſpeak with Tongues? This he objecteth as their Crime, That when they came together, every one had his Tongue, 1 Cor. 14. 26. and adds, That if they thus continued to uſe this Gift, 'twould breed Confuſion in their Churches, and cauſe their Auditors to ſay, That they were mad, ver. 23. Whence he adviſeth them who uſed theſe Tongues, to pray they might Interpret, ver. 13. permitting only two or three to ſpeak with Tongues in one Aſſembly, and that by courſe, and with Interpretation, ver. 26, 27, 28. impoſing Silence on them, when no Interpreter was preſent; and Order, ſaith he, being thus obſerved, Let no Man forbid to ſpeak with Tongues, ver. 39. And if this Gift was ſo abundantly conferr'd upon that Church, in which the Apoſtle found ſo great Miſcarriages, and of which he only ſaith, They came behind the other Churches in no Gift ✝ we reasonably may suppose others, and better Churches, had an equal Share in this Gift. Accordingly we have heard, saith Irenæus, (l. 5. c. 6.) many Brethren who have received the Spirit of God, τὰ πάντα ἀνθρώπων γλώσσας διὰ τοῦ πνεύματος λαλούντων κατὰ μέρος ἐκφέρουσι, and by that Spirit spake all Languages.

And now, what can the Unbeliever offer to invalidate the Strength of this convincing Demonstration? Will he ascribe this Gift to the Assistance of the Devil? Let him produce one Instance of like nature from any Heathen Writer, to shew, that ever this was done by any besides Christians: Or tell us, why that subtile Spirit should thus concern himself to propagate, and to confirm that Faith, which bears the clearest Opposition both to his Nature and Designs. Will they ascribe it to some Fit of Melancholy, or some Distemper of the Brain? What can be more absurd, than to assert, That at the Preaching of a Sermon, the rushing of a mighty Wind, the laying on of an Apostle's Hands, or the Baptizing of a Person in the Name of Jesus, such unaccountable Diseases should cease on many Thousands, and should enable them to speak a Language they had never learn'd? Or, is it reasonable to think, this Distemper should be so peculiar to Christian Constitutions, as that no other Persons should pretend to it? And that it should wholly cease from them, when once the Christian Faith had spread it self over all Nations, Christians themselves never pretending, that it lasted beyond the Second Century.

§. XX. The second internal Gift of which the Scripture maketh frequent mention, is that of Prophesie; of which let it be noted,

That seeing the Jews from the Foundation of their Church to the completion of the Canon of the Old Testament, had a continual Succession of Prophets to instruct them in the Mind of God, it seemeth highly requisite, that the like Gift should for some season be conferr'd upon the Church of Christ, which was not only to succeed, but highly to excel the Jewish Oeconomy. Especially, if we consider, that their own Prophet Joel had foretold, touching the Times of the Messiah promised to the Jews, God would then pour his Spirit upon all Flesh, and their Sons and Daughters should Prophesie, Joel 2. 18. and also that our Lord had promised to send the Spirit of Truth to his Disciples, to lead them into all Truth, and to declare unto them things to come, Joh. 16. 13. and to send to the Jewish Nation Prophets and Wise Men, Matth. 23. 34. and of these must he be supposed to speak, when he engageth, That he that receiveth a Prophet in the Name of a Prophet, shall receive a Prophet's Reward, Matth. 10. 41. So that you see, the Christians had just reason to expect the Spirit of Prophesie should be again revived in their days, and plentifully conferr'd upon them; and that both Jew and Gentile must have had sufficient cause to question the whole Truth of Christian Faith, had not this Spirit of Prophesie been found among them: And therefore of the completion of this Promise, we are assured,

First, From the Catalogue of Christian Prophets, mention'd in the New Testament and Antient Writers of the Church. For Acts 11. 27, 28. mention is made of Christian Prophets coming from Jerusalem; and of Agabus, who foretold the Famine that hapned in the days of Claudius Cæsar, as (m) Josephus, (n) Suetonius and (o) Dion testifie. In the 13th. Chapter, we are told of five Prophets in the Church of Antioch, who whilst they were employ'd in the Publick Ministry, received a Divine Afflatus, commanding them to seperate Barnabas and Saul, to some especial Work to which the Holy Spirit had designed them, ver. 3. And Chap. 15. 32. we read of Judas and Silas, who being Prophets, exhorted the Brethren with many Words. And Chap. 19. 6. of Twelve Disciples, who when St. Paul had laid his Hands upon them, spake with Tongues, and Prophesied. In the Revelations of St. John, mention is made of Christ's Servants the Prophets, Chap. 16. 6. and of the Blood of the Prophets slain by the Beast, Chap. 18. 20, 24. and of the Prophets his Brethren, Chap. 19. 10. (p) Eusebius cites an Antient Author, who speaks of Quadratus and others, as ἐναρμονίοις Προφήταις, Inspired Prophets, and who declared, That the Prophetick Gift continued still in the Church. Moreover, as Joel had foretold, that in those days their Daughters and their Hand-maids should Prophesie; so do we read in the History of the Acts, of four Daughters of Philip the Evangelist, who did Prophesie, Acts 21. 9. In the Epistle to the Corinthians, of Women Prophesying, 1 Cor. 11. 5. and in the Ecclesiastical History, of (q) Ammia of Philadelphia, a Prophetess.

In a Word, there was not any Church in which this Gift of Prophesie was not frequent. We read of Prophets at Jerusalem, the Mother of all Churches, Acts 11. 27. in the Church of Antioch, Acts 13. 1. of the Gift of Prophesie in the Church of Rome, Rom. 12. 6. in that of Corinth and of Theſſalonica, 1 Theſſ. 5. 20. and of Spiritual Perſons in the Church of Galatia, Chap. 6. 1. They are ſaid to be placed in the Church in General; for God, ſaith the Apoſtle, hath ſet ſome in the Church, Firſt, Apoſtles; 2dly, Prophets; 3dly, Teachers; as therefore the Apoſtles and the Teachers, ſo did the Prophets exerciſe their Functions in all Churches. They were given to the Church for Ends which equally concern'd all their Aſſemblies, Chriſt having given ſome Apoſtles, ſome Prophets, ſome Evangeliſts, ſome Paſtors and Teachers, for the perfecting of the Saints, for the Work of the Miniſtry, for the edifying the Body of Chriſt, Eph. 4. 11, 12. Now theſe are Ends in which all Churches muſt be equally concerned, and therefore we have reaſon to believe, that as Apoſtles, Evangeliſts and Paſtors, ſo Prophets alſo were vouchſafed to them all.

Corinth,

Moreover, it ſeems evident, That at the firſt Foundation of a Chriſtian Church among the Gentiles, there were no ſettled Paſtors to perform the Publick Offices in their Aſſemblies, but they were generally performed by Prophets, or by Spiritual Men, who had the Gift of Propheſie, or were in the Aſſembly excited to that Work by an Afflatus of the Holy Spirit. To clear up this, let it be noted:

Firſt, That as ſoon as any Perſons then embraced the Chriſtian Faith, they received with it the Gift of Propheſie, or of the Holy Ghoſt; ſo when Peter and John laid Hands on the Samaritan Converts, they received the Holy Ghoſt, Acts 8. 15. When Peter preached to Cornelius and his Friends, the Holy Ghoſt fell on all them that heard the Word, and they ſpake with Tongues, and magnified God, Acts 10. 44, 46. So alſo the Twelve Diſciples of the Baptiſt, when St. Paul laid his Hands upon them, ſpake with Tongues and Propheſied, Acts 19. 6. ſo that this Gift of Propheſie was ſtill contemporary with a Chriſtian Church or Family of Chriſtian Converts.

Note, Secondly, That the Apoſtles did not preſently upon the Converſion of any number of Perſons to the Chriſtian Faith, ordain them Elders in every Church, but left them for a Seaſon to the Conduct of thoſe Prophets and Spiritual Men, the Holy Ghoſt had fitted for that Work. The Church of Antioch was converted, ſaith Dr. Lightfoot in the Fortieth Year of our Lord, and a great number of them turned to the Lord, Act. 11. 21. and yet no Elders were ordained among them, till the Fiftieth Year, Acts 14. 23. But in this interval, there were Prophets among them who miniſtred in their Aſſemblies to the Lord, Chap. 13. 2. The Inhabitants of the Iſle of Crete were converted for ſome conſiderable time before St. Paul ſent Titus to them, to ſet in order the things which were lacking, and ordain Elders in every City, Chap. 1. 5. How were they then in the mean time, ſupplyed with Teachers, and Men that miniſtred in their Aſſemblies, unleſs by Men aſſiſted by that Spirit which was ſhed on them abundantly at their Converſion? Chap. 3. 5, 6. And if we may take an Eſtimate of other Churches, by what was certainly performed in the Aſſemblies of the Church of Corinth, we cannot reaſonably doubt the Truth of this Aſſertion. For, whereas all the Publick Offices performed then in the Church were Prayer and Pſalmody, expounding or preaching of the Word, and Euchariſtical Oblations; all theſe are in the Fourteenth Chapter of the Firſt Epiſtle aſcribed to the Prophets in that Church, or to the Men endowed with Spiritual Gifts among them: For when they came together, ſome of them prayed, others compoſed Sacred Hymns by their Spiritual Gift, ver. 15. their Prophets did then teach for Edification, Exhortation and Comfort, ver. 3. and 31. they alſo did then εὐλογεῖν, Bleſs, which is the Word uſed for Conſecration of the Euchariſt, Chap. 10. 16. and εὐχαριστεῖν, Give Thanks, which is the Word uſed in our Lord's Inſtitution of this Sacrament, 1 Cor. 11. 21. and at this Thankſgiving the People Anſwered, Amen, (1) as they were wont to do at the Celebration of the Sacrament, ver. 16, 17. That all, or any of theſe things were done by ſtated Paſtors, we never read in the Epiſtles to that Church. And this ſeems yet more probable, touching the Church of Corinth, becauſe there ſeems no Order obſerved among them in their Propheſying, and no Subjection of the Prophets in their Aſſemblies, to any Ruler in that Church. When the inceſtuous Perſon was to be delivered up to Satan, this was done by the Authority of St. Paul, with the concurrence of the whole Aſſembly; When you are met together, ſaith he, deliver ſuch a one to Satan, 1 Cor. 5. 4. put away from your ſelves that wicked Perſon, ver. 13. And when he ſpeaketh of this Act of Diſcipline, he calls it ἐπιτιμία ὑπὸ τῶν πλειόνων, the Puniſhment inflicted by many, 2 Cor. 2. 6. See the Note there. And when the ſame Perſon was to be abſolved, there is no Direction ſent to any Rulers of the Church to give him Abſolution, but all ſeems immediately to be done by the Authority of St. Paul, and by the whole Aſſembly. And Laſtly, In the Epiſtle ſent from Corinth to the Church of Rome, we find not any Salutation ſent to Rome, from any Biſhop or Elder of the Church of Corinth, but only from the Kindred of St. Paul, from Gaius the Hoſt of that Church, Eroſtus the Chamberlain of the City, and Quartus a Brother. Chap. 16. 21, 22, 23. All which things put together, render it more than probable, that there were then no ſettled Paſtors in the Church of Corinth, which makes it neceſſary that the Affairs of their Church Aſſemblies ſhould be wholly managed by their Prophets, and Spiritual Perſons.

It ſeemeth alſo highly probable, this was the caſe of other Churches, ſince the Apoſtle directing his Epiſtles to many of them, maketh no mention of any Church Governours amongſt them, either in the beginning of them, as he doth in his Epiſtle to the Philippians, or in the Salutations at the cloſe of them, as he doth in the Hebrews, ſaying, Salute all them who have the Rule over you, Chap. 13. 24. For inſtance, there is no Direction of the Epiſtle writ to the Galatians to any Church Governours among them, no Salutation of them in the cloſe of it, no charge againſt them for ſuffering thoſe Great Diſorders which had obtained in that Church, no Exhortation to them to take heed to their Miniſtry, or to oppoſe themſelves to the Deceivers then crept in among them; but there are plain Directions given to the Spiritual Men, or to the Prophets then among them, in theſe Words, Brethren, if any Man be overtaken with a Fault, ye that are Spiritual, i. e. who are endow'd with thoſe Spiritual Gifts which enable you for Publick Miniſtrations in the Church, reſtore ſuch a one in the Spirit of Meekneſs, Chap. 6. 1. (See the Note there.) which makes it highly probable, that Church was managed not by ſtated Paſtors, but by Prophets, and Spiritual Teachers of the Word.

Thus alſo ſeems it, to have been in the Church of Theſſalonica. For, (Firſt,) we find no notice taken of them in the front of the Epiſtles to them, no Salutation of them in the cloſe; the Words of Salutation being only theſe, Salute all the Brethren, with an holy Kiſs. (2dly,) We find no Directions given to them in particular, but only to the Brethren in general, touching ſuch Matters as muſt have related to their Office only, or chiefly, had they been ſettled Rulers in that Church. The Charge, 1 Theſſ. 5. 14. runs thus: We exhort you Brethren, warn them that are unruly, comfort the Feeble-minded, ſupport the Weak. And, 2 Theſſ. 2 6. thus, We command you Brethren, in the Name of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, that ye withdraw your ſelves from every Brother that walks diſorderly, and not according to the Tradition which ye have received from us. And. ver. 13, 14. And ye Brethren, ---- if any Man obey not our Word by this Epiſtle, note that Man, and have no Company with him, that he may be aſhamed; yet count him not as an Enemy, but admoniſh him as a Brother. And laſtly, to theſe Brethren the Adjuration mention'd, Chap. 5. 27, is directed, charging them by the Lord, that this Epiſtle be read to all the holy Brethren.

The ſame may be obſerved of the Epiſtle directed by the ſame Apoſtle to the Church of Rome; for 'tis directed in the General, To all that are in Rome, beloved of God, and Saints called; and among the numerous Salutations in the Cloſe, we find not one directed to any ſtated Paſtors of that Church; but this we find, that having finiſhed his great Diſpute concerning Juſtification, and the Rejection of the Jews, he exhorts them to be wiſe to Sobriety, as God had diſtributed to every one the meaſure of Faith, Chap. 12. 3. and adds, Having therefore Gifts differing according to the Grace given to us, whether it be Propheſie, let us Propheſie according to the Proportion of Faith, ver. 6. or Miniſtry, let us wait on our Miniſtry, or he that teacheth on Teaching. Now evident it is, that both the Prophets and Teachers in thoſe Times, are reckoned as Men who exerciſed thoſe Offices by a Spiritual Afflatus, and were enabled to perform them by the miraculous Gifts of the Holy Spirit then vouchſafed to them; whence they are ſtyled in the Words now cited χαρίσματα, Spiritual Gifts. Hence therefore it is highly probable, theſe were the Men who then preſided in their Aſſemblies, and exerciſed Sacred Offices in the Church of Rome. Now if theſe things were ſo, all Chriſtian Churches at their firſt Converſion to Chriſtianity, muſt have a ſenſibe and conſtant Demonſtration of the Exerciſe of theſe Spiritual Gifts in their Aſſemblies, and ſo a certain Evidence of the Divine Preſence with them, and of the Truth of the Profeſſion they embraced.

This will be farther evident, if we conſider what is aſcribed to theſe Prophets, what Demonſtrations they afforded, that they were truly acted by a Divine Afflatus.

In proſecution of this Head, I do acknowledge that Propheſie doth 1 Cor. 14. ſignifie, Expounding the Scriptures, for Exhortation, Edification and Comfort, but then it ſignifies the doing this by a Divine Afflatus; and when this Gift was exerciſed by Singing, or by Praiſing God, this was ſtill done, as Holy Scripture doth inform us, ἁγίαις πνευματικαῖς, in Pſalms, and Hymns, and Odes, compoſed by the immediate Impulſe and Aſſiſtance of the Holy Ghoſt; for upon that account alone, could this be ſtyled Praying, and Singing in the Holy Ghoſt, and mentioned as an inſtance of their Spiritual Gifts; and ſuch a Manifeſtation of the Spirit did attend them in this Exerciſe, as made it eaſie for others to diſcern that they were Prophets; for either with the Gift of Propheſie they had the Gift of Tongues, as in the firſt Effuſion of the Holy Ghoſt, when they ſpake with other Tongues the wonderful things of God, Acts 2. 11. and thereby ſhew'd the Spirit of Propheſie which

God

God had promiſed by his Servant Joel, was fulfilled upon them, and on Cornelius and his Kinſmen, the firſt Gentile Converts, for by this were the Jews convinced, that God had ſhed on them alſo the Gift of the Holy Ghoſt, that they heard them ſpeak with Tongues, and magnifie God, Act. 10. 44, 45. Or, 2*dly*, They foretold things future and contingent, according to our Saviour's Promiſe, That the Spirit he would ſend, ſhould ſhew them things to come, Joh. 16. 13. Thus we find mention in the Sacred Story, of the Prophet Agabus, who foretold the Year before, that Dearth which happned in the Reign of Claudius, Acts 11. 27. that other Chriſtians might be moved by this Prediction, to ſend their Charity to their Brethren where the Famine pinched them moſt, as it did in Judea, ſaith Joſephus; and of Timothy, choſen to be an Evangeliſt, according to the foregoing Propheſies concerning him; whence by the Antients this Gift was ſtyled, ἡ προγνωστικὴ, the Gift of Foreknowledge.

Moreover, in the Epiſtles of St. Paul, we find not only mention of Prophets ſettled in the Church, and of Propheſie reckoned among the Gifts of the good Spirit, but we find him comparing it with other Gifts; particularly, (Firſt,) with that of Tongues, and preferring it before that Gift, as being ſuch a Gift as tended more to the Edification of the Church; For greater is he that Propheſieth, than he that ſpeaketh with Tongues, ſaith the Apoſtle; for he that ſpeaketh with Tongues edifieth himſelf only, but he that Propheſieth edifies the Church, 1 Cor. 14. 2, 5. Hence he declareth his deſire, that they ſhould rather Propheſie, than ſpeak with Tongues. (2*dly*,) He compares it with that of Charity, declaring in that caſe, that Charity excels it, becauſe, tho' we have the Gift of Propheſie, and underſtand all Myſteries, and all Knowledge, yet if we have not Charity we are nothing, 1 Cor. 13. 2. and becauſe Propheſies ſhall ceaſe, but Charity never ceaſeth, ver. 8. Moreover, he gives Directions to Prophets, to Propheſie, according to the proportion of Faith, Rom. 12. 6. to Propheſie ſucceſſively, or one by one, and let the other Prophets judge, 1 Cor. 14. 29. and to hold their Peace when any thing is revealed to another Prophet, ver. 30. He alſo blames them for Propheſying all together, in a confuſed manner, and without Obſervation of due Order, and for ſuffering their Women to Propheſie in the Church, ver. 39. And yet after all theſe Directions, he exhorts them to covet Propheſie, and ſaith, quench not the Holy Spirit, deſpiſe not Propheſies, 1 Theſſ. 5. 19, 20. Now theſe things give us an unqueſtionable Evidence, that this Gift was then plentifully conferr'd upon the Church of Chriſt; for could the Apoſtle talk with ſo great confidence in his Epiſtles directed to Chriſtian Churches, of Prophets and a Gift of Propheſie vouchſafed to them, and ſettled in the Church by God? Could he ſpeak ſo much of the Edification, which the Church received by thoſe who had the Gift of Propheſie, and of the Revelations which they made by Virtue of it, and of the effect it had on Unbelievers, to force them to acknowledge, that God was preſent with the Church? Could he compare it with other Gifts then extant in the Church, and give it the Preeminence above them, and with the grace of Charity, exalting that even above Tongues and Propheſie? Could he give Directions to the Prophets then among them, how to exerciſe this Gift, and chide them for abuſing it? Could he ſay to them, covet and deſpiſe not Propheſies, and could he cloſe thoſe Sayings with theſe Words, If any Man be a Prophet, or Spiritual, let him acknowledge, that the things I write to you are the Commandments of God? 1 Cor. 14. 37. I ſay, could he have written all theſe things in ſuch Epiſtles as were embraced, as the Word of God, had it not been beyond Exception, that there was ſuch a Gift of Propheſie vouchſafed to, and exerciſed in the Church of God.

Laſtly, Of the continuance of this Gift of Propheſie, not only in the Age of the Apoſtles, but alſo in the Age ſucceeding, we have ſufficient Evidence from the beſt Writers of the Chriſtian Church. For,

Firſt, Hermas, contemporary with St. Paul, ſpeaks of this Gift as ſtill remaining, and uſually practiſed in the Church of Chriſt: For he profeſſedly gives Rules, by which all Chriſtians might diſtinguiſh betwixt true and falſe Prophets, thoſe who were acted by an evil Spirit, and thoſe who were acted by the Holy Ghoſt, ſaying, That he who had the earthly Spirit, came not into the Congregation of juſt Men; or if he came thither, (l. 2. c. 11.) obmuteſcit, nec quidquam poteſt loqui, He was preſently ſtruck dumb, and had no power to ſpeak before them. But (s) when a Man comes, ſaith he, who hath the Spirit of God, into the Congregation of the Juſt, and prays to God, he is then filled with a Divine Afflatus, and ſpeaketh as God will. Whence two things are evident:

(Firſt,)

(First,) That he ſuppoſeth there were then Men in the Church inſpired with the Spirit of Propheſie. (2*dly*,) That this prophetical Afflatus came upon them, and was exerted by them in the Aſſemblies of the Church.

Of the continuance of this Gift in the ſecond Century, we have a ſignal Teſtimony of the Church of Smyrna, declaring, That Polycarp their Biſhop, was διδάσκαλος ἀποστολικὸς καὶ προφητικὸς, an Apoſtolical and Prophetical Teacher; for, ſay they, (t) every Word he ſpake, hath been already fulfilled, and will be fulfilled.

Euſebius makes mention of (u) Quadratus, as an Apoſtolical Man, and one of the firſt Order of their Succeſſors, who was, ſaith he, προφητῶν χαρίσματι διαπρέπων, celebrated for his Prophetical Gift.

Juſtin Martyr ſpeaks of himſelf, as a Diſciple of the Apoſtles; and Methodius ſaith, He was not far from the Apoſtles; now he expreſly ſaith to (w) Trypho, παρ' ἡμῖν καὶ μέχρι νῦν προφητικὰ χαρίσματα ἔστιν, we have ſtill Prophetical Gifts among us.

Irenæus was alſo near to the Apoſtles times, ſaith Baſil and St. Auſtin; and he not only declares, That ſome Chriſtians had then (x) παρήγγειλεν τοῦ μέλλοντος, ἡ ὀπτασίας, ἢ ῥήσεις προφητικὰς, the Knowledge of things future, and Viſions, and Prophetical Predictions, but confirms this from what he and others had then heard; for, ſaith he, St. Paul calls them perfect, who had received the Spirit, and by him ſpake with all Tongues; καθὼς καὶ ἀκούομεν πολλῶν ἀδελφῶν ἐν τῇ ἐκκλησίᾳ προφητικὰ χαρίσματα ἐχόντων, (y) as alſo we have heard many Brethren in the Church, who had Prophetical Gifts, and by the Spirit ſpake with all Tongues, and diſcovered the Secrets of Men, and expounded the Myſteries of God. Moreover, three things are in this Matter very remarkable.

Firſt, That by this very Argument, the Chriſtians of the ſecond and third Century, endeavoured to convince the Jews, that their Religion was to give place to Chriſtianity, that God had left their Synagogues, and was now efficaciouſly preſent with thoſe Churches who had embraced the Chriſtian Faith, becauſe that Gift of Propheſie which formerly had been peculiar to the Jewiſh Church, had now entirely left them, and was tranſlated to the Aſſemblies of Chriſtians, among whom they remained μέχρι νῦν, to that preſent time, as hath been proved already by the Teſtimonies of Juſtin Martyr, in his Dialogue with (z) Trypho. Thus to Celſus, pleading in the Perſon of a Jew for that Religion againſt Chriſtianity, Origen declares, That the Divinity of Chriſt had tranſferr'd his Providence from the Jews, to the Converted Gentiles; for, ſaith he, we may ſee them after the coming of our Lord, entirely deſerted, and having nothing venerable that remains among them, they having now no Prophets, and no Miracles, (a) οὐκ ἂν ἴχνη δή τινα ἔτι πόσον περὶ Χειστιανοῖς ἐνείσκετο, ἢ τινὰ μείζονα, of which ſome conſiderable Footſteps have ſo long remained among Chriſtians.

2*dly*, The Caſe of Montanus and his Followers, pretending to this Gift of Propheſie, hath in it many Circumſtances, which plainly ſhew, this Gift did ſtill continue in ſome meaſure in the Church. For, (Firſt,) Euſebius informs us, That when Montanus, Alcibiades, and Theodotus in Phrygia, pretended to the Gift of Propheſie, (b) many believed they might be Prophets, becauſe many extraordinary Operations of the Divine Gift, were ſtill performed in divers Churches.

(2*dly*,) They confute the Montaniſts pretence to this Gift, by the Falſhoods which they utter'd; Maximilla, one of his Propheteſſes, having declared, That after her, there ſhould be no Prophets, but the conſummation of all things; and becauſe they left no Prophets to ſucceed them, whereas, ſay they, (c) the Prophetick Gift is to continue in all Churches; which ſhews, it did continue then; for otherwiſe, this Objection muſt have been as ſtrong againſt the Church of Chriſt, as againſt the Sect of the Montaniſts. And, Laſtly, they confute them from their way of Propheſying, they ſpeaking ſtill in Ecſtaſies and ſtrange Emotions of their Minds; Whereas, ſay they, (d) the Prophets under the Old Teſtament, and ours under the New, Agabus, Judas, Silas, Quadratus, and many others, were never ſubject to ſuch Ecſtaſies; whence they concluded, μὴ δεῖν προφήτην ἐν ἐκστάσει λαλεῖν, that Prophets muſt not ſpeak in Ecſtaſies.

Laſtly,

Laſtly, It farther is obſervable that ſome Hereticks denied the Goſpel of St. John becauſe he had ſo fully ſpoken of the promiſe which our Lord had made to his Diſciples, that he would ſend the comforter to teach them all things, and ſhew them things to come. They rejected alſo the Epiſtles of St. Paul, becauſe in his Epiſtle to the Corinthians, he had ſo fully ſpoken de propheticis chariſmatibus of the prophetical Gifts. Now theſe, ſaith (y) Irenæus, are unhappy Men who chuſe themſelves to be falſe Prophets, i. e. to ſpeak in God's name, when they confeſs they are not taught of God, and who endeavour to repel the grace of Prophecy from the Church; which words ſuppoſe it was extant in the Church of God.

§. XXI. There is one other divine Gift which beareth ſome affinity to that of Prophecy, which therefore I ſhall briefly handle, viz. that of diſcerning Spirits. Now this imports not only the skill of diſcerning betwixt true and falſe Prophets which he that had ſeems by (z) St. Clemens to be ſtiled ὁ σοφὸς ἐν διακρίσει πνευμάτων λόγων, a wiſe Man in diſcerning words, or in diſtinguiſhing betwixt the lying Wonders, and Magical Operations of evil Spirits, and the Powers of the Holy Ghoſt, which muſt be in ſome meaſure common to all Chriſtians, they being all enjoyned to try the Spirits whether they be of God, 1 Theſſ. 5. 20. 1 Joh. 4. 1. But chiefly it ſignifies the Power of diſcerning the inward Operations of the Soul, and of diſcovering the ſecrets of Mens hearts. Thus of the Prophets of the Church of Corinth; every one, ſaith St. Paul, hath his Revelation: and again, if ye all propheſie, and there come into your aſſembly, one who is an unbeliever, or unlearned, he is convinced of all, ἀνακρίνεται ὑπὸ πάντων his Actions are diſcerned by all the Prophets, and thus are the ſecrets of his heart laid open, and ſo falling down upon his face, he will worſhip God, and declare that God is in you of a truth, 1 Cor. 14. 26, 30. So Peter diſcerned the Heart of Ananias and Saphira, ſaying to Ananias, why hath Satan filled thy heart to lye to the Holy Ghoſt? and to Saphira, why have you agreed to tempt the Holy Ghoſt, Act. 5. 3, 9. i. e. having joyn'd your ſelves to the Aſſembly of Chriſtians, where you have had ſo great experience of the aſſiſtance of the Holy Spirit, to declare the ſecrets of Men, why, after ſuch experience, have you dared to lye in the Aſſemblies of thoſe Men in which the Holy Spirit thus reſides, and thereby ſhew you doubt his power to reveal what you have fraudulently conceal'd. He alſo knew the Heart of Simon Magus, for to him he ſpeaks thus, Act. 8. 22, 23. I perceive thy heart is not right before God, but thou art in the gall of bitterneſs, and in the bond of iniquity. 'Twas by this Gift that St. Paul at Lyſtra looking upon a blind Man, ſaw that he had faith to be heal'd, Act. 14. 9. (a) Ignatius alſo ſpeaks of the Spirit in him that did τὰ κρύπτα ἐλέγχειν reprove things ſecret, and (b) Irenæus, that the Brethren which had the ſpiritual Gift, did τὰ κρύφια τῆς ἀνθρώπων εἰς φανερὸν ἄγειν, diſcover the hidden things of Men.

It was diſcovered in diſcerning Mens fitneſs, or qualifications for any Office in the Church; and accordingly in ſetting them apart for that Office. Thus the Holy Ghoſt, in the Prophets, ſaid, ſeperate me Barnabas and Saul for the work to which I have called them. Thus is the Holy Ghoſt ſaid to have made the Biſhops and Presbyters in Aſia the overſeers of the Churches there, Act. 20. 28. Becauſe, as (c) Clemens Romanus ſaith, the Apoſtles conſtituted Biſhops, and Deacons δοκιμάζοντες τῷ πνεύματι approving of them by the Spirit. And (d) Clemens of Alexandria, that St. John ordained to be of the Clergy, τοὺς ὑπὸ τοῦ πνεύματος ἁγίου σημαινομένους, them who were ſignified to him by the Spirit. And (e) Ignatius ſaith of the Biſhops of his time, that they were conſtituted not by Men, but Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ γνώμῃ, by the council of Chriſt Jeſus.

§. XXII. I proceed, laſtly, to ſhew the reaſon we have to believe that theſe extraordinary Gifts were equally confer'd upon other Churches, as upon thoſe which the Apoſtles mention in their Epiſtles. This we may gather,

1*ſt*, From theſe expreſſions of St. Paul to the Church of Corinth in which they were ſo plentifully exerciſed; for his Enquiry to them runs thus: What is it wherein you were inferior to other Churches? 2 Cor. 12. 13. and his Aſſertion thus, In every thing you are enriched by him in all utterance, and in all knowledge, ſo that ye came behind the other Churches in no Gift, 1 Cor. 1. 5, 7. which words plainly inſinuate, that all other Churches were plentifully endowed with theſe Gifts.

2*dly*, This alſo may be gathered from the Reaſon of the thing: For the operations of the Holy Ghoſt are ſaid to be deſigned for theſe ends; 1. The confirmation of the teſtimony, and the faith of Chriſt, 1 Cor. 1. 6. and their eſtabliſhment in Chriſt, 2 Cor. 1. 21, 22. 2. The edification of the Body of Chriſt, 1 Cor. 12. 7. Eph. 4. 11, 12. 3. To be a pledge and earneſt of their adoption, and their future happineſs, Rom. 8. 23. 2 Cor. 1. 22. Gal. 4. 6, 7. Eph.

(y) Simul Evangelium & Propheticum expellunt ſpiritum infelices verè qui pſeudoprophetæ quidem eſſe volunt, prophetiæ autem gratiam repellunt ab Eccleſia L. 3. c. 11. p. 259.
(z) Ep. ad Cor. §. 42. (a) Ep. ad Philad. §. 7. (b) Lib. 5. cap. 6. (c) Ep. ad Cor. §. 42.
(d) Apud Euſeb. Hiſt. Eccl. l. 3. c. 23. (e) Proem. Ep. ad Philad. & §. 1. ad Eph. §. 1. 2, 6.

1. 13. 4. To be their comfort under Perſecutions, Rom. 5. 3, 5. 2 Cor. 1. 7. 1 Pet. 4. 14. Now theſe are ends as neceſſary for all, as for any Chriſtian Churches, who muſt all equally need the confirmation of their Faith, the work of the miniſtry, the perfecting the Saints, and the edification of the Body of Chriſt, the Support and Comfort of the Spirit under Perſecutions, the pledge and earneſt of their future Hopes.

3*dly*, This alſo may be gathered from that account which the Apoſtle giveth of ſpiritual Gifts, and ſpiritual Perſons in the Church. The Gifts given for the edification of the Church in general are theſe, the word of Wiſdom, and of Knowledge, the Gifts of healing, the working of Miracles, Prophecy, diſerning of Spirits, kinds of tongues, and the interpretation of them, 1 Cor. 12, 8, 9, 10. The Perſons exerciſing them are mentioned thus; God hath ſet ſome in the Church, firſt Apoſtles, ſecondarily Prophets, thirdly Teachers, after that Miracles, then the Gifts of healing, &c. v. 28. And in the Epiſtle to the Epheſians thus, He gave ſome Apoſtles, ſome Prophets, ſome Evangeliſts, ſome Paſtors and Teachers, for the perfecting of the Saints, for the work of the miniſtry, for the edifying the Body of Chriſt, Eph. 4. 11, 12. Which places evidently ſhew that theſe were Gifts deſigned for the benefit of all the Churches of Chriſt in general, and exerciſed by theſe Perſons as they went about to plant, or to confirm the Churches, the Power of Miracles, and the Gift of healing, being alſo exerciſed by them in Confirmation of that Faith they preached according to out Saviour's promiſe. So that ſome Gifts ſeem for ſome time conſtantly exerciſed by the Members of each Church in their Aſſemblies, and others by thoſe Perſons who preached the Goſpel firſt among them, or travel'd to confirm the Churches, and ſo all had experience more, or leſs, of theſe ſpiritual Operations done among them.

Laſtly, From the conſideration of that Baptiſm which they all generally received; for as the promiſe ran to the Jews in general, that they ſhould be baptized with the Holy Ghoſt. Matth. 3. 11. to every one that would believe, and be baptized, that they ſhould recieve the Holy Ghoſt, Act. 2. 38. and that becauſe the promiſe was to them, and to their Children καὶ πᾶσι τοῖς εἰς μακρὰν, and to all that were afar off, even as many as the Lord ſhould call; ſo was this promiſe ſignally fulfilled to the Belivers of the Jewiſh Nation, who being enlightned, φωτισθέντες, that is, baptized they alſo taſted of the ſpiritual Gift, and were made Partakers of the Holy Ghoſt, and of the powers of the World to come, Hebr. 6. 4, 5. See the Note there: and great Grace was upon them all, Act. 4. 33. To the Believers in Samaria, for when the Apoſtles, Peter and John, laid their hands upon them, they received the holy Ghoſt, Acts 8. 17. To the Converts of the Gentiles; for by one Spirit they were all baptized into one Body, 1 Cor. 12, 13. and after they believed, they were all ſealed with the ſpirit of promiſe, Eph. 1. 13. they being ſaved, by the waſhing of Regeneration, and the renewing of the Holy Ghoſt, which was ſhed on them abundantly through Jeſus Chriſt, Tit. 3. 5, 6. All Chriſtians therefore being made Members of Chriſt's Body by Baptiſm, all Chriſtian Churches, and Bodies muſt have theſe powerful Gifts confer'd upon, and exerciſed by ſome of the Members of thoſe Churches to the edification of the reſt.

Accordingly it is declared by Juſtin M. of them who were converted to the Chriſtian Faith, that being (a) baptized in the name of Chriſt they received, ſome the Spirit of Knowledge, ſome of Counſel, ſome of Fortitude, ſome of Healing, ſome of Fore-knowledge, ſome of Doctrine.

§. XXIII. To conclude, the Primitive Profeſſors, and Martyrs for the Chriſtian Faith, afford us a full Teſtimony of the continuance of theſe Gifts and Operations of the Holy Ghoſt in the next Ages of the Church. (b) Clemens Romanus, in his Epiſtle to the Church of Corinth, ſaith, There was πλήρης πνεύματος ἁγίου ἔγχυσις ἐπὶ πάντας a full effuſion of the Holy Spirit upon them all. (c) Ignatius ſaith of the Church of Smyrna, that ſhe was ἐλεημένη ἐν παντὶ χαρίσματι, favoured with all Gifts, and was deficient in none. (d) Juſtin ſaith, that even their Men and Women had the Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt. Euſebius, having mention'd the firſt Order of the Succeſſors of the Apoſtles, he ſaith, that (e) even then they performed many wondrous works by the Holy Ghoſt. 'Tis needleſs, ſaith (f) Irenæus, to inſiſt upon Particulars, for the miraculous Gifts which the Church throughout the World enjoys, and the beneficial Miracles ſhe worketh for the good of Heathens, are innumerable. This he ſaith after he had enumerated among the Gifts then given to Believers the caſting out of Devils, Prophecy,

the knowledge of things future, the healing the ſick, and the raiſing the dead. And when Montanus appeared there was not only in the Church the Gift of Prophecy, but in divers Churches (g) many other ſtrange Works perform'd by the divine Gift.

Here then we find, by all theſe early Teſtimonies, That in the two firſt Centuries many Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt were ſtill continued in all Churches, that every one at their Baptiſm received ſome or other of them. Theſe alſo are Relations not of things paſt, or of things done in a corner, but of things commonly performed in the face of the Aſſemblies, and ſo confirmed by the joint Teſtimonies of all Chriſtian Churches; they were Miracles which their own Eyes had ſeen, Tongues and Prophetick Gifts which their own Ears had heard; Gifts which they uſed againſt the Jews and Hereticks for their Conviction; and beneficial Miracles ſo truly wrought upon the Heathen, that they were efficacious to engage them to eſpouſe, and perſevere to the end, in the Profeſſion of the Chriſtian Faith. This therefore is, ſaith (h) Origen, οἰκεῖα ἀπόδειξις τοῦ λόγου, the proper demonſtration of our Jeſus, no other Pretender to the Power of doing Signs or Wonders, having ever derived that Power from himſelf to others, or engaged that Believers ſhould ſo generally receive it, none ever pretending to enable their Followers to ſpeak with Tongues, diſcover the Secrets of Mens Hearts, or confer all, or any of theſe Gifts upon their Proſelites. It alſo muſt be owned as a moſt convincing Demonſtration of the Truth, and the divine Original of that Faith which miniſtred theſe Gifts ſo plentifully to its Profeſſors.

§. XXIV. And oh that all who by this Demonſtration of the Spirit are convinced of the Truth of Chriſtian Faith, would ſeriouſly conſider how much it doth concern them, in point of Intereſt and Wiſdom, to yield Obedience to all the Precepts of that Faith! For, if the Gentiles were given up to vile affections, and a reprobate mind, Rom. 1. 24, 26. only for Sins committed againſt the dim and the imperfect Light of Nature; if the Jews received a juſt recompence for every Tranſgreſſion of the Law delivered by Moſes to them; how ſhall we eſcape if we neglect this great Salvation, which at the firſt was ſpoken by the Lord, and was confirmed by them that heard him, God bearing witneſs to it by divers ſigns and wonders, and diſtributions of the Holy Ghoſt? Hebr. 2. 3, 4. And to this end, conſider,

1*ſt*, That by our Diſobedience to the Chriſtian Precepts we contradict the great Deſign of all theſe Demonſtrations of the Holy Spirit, they being all intended, ſaith St. Paul, to make the Gentiles obedient in word and deed, Rom. 15. 18.

2*dly*, That all our Certainty of Chriſtian Faith doth highly aggravate the Guilt of our Tranſgreſſion of the Chriſtian Precepts: for the ſtronger is the Motive to believe, the greater is the Guilt of Diſobedience, becauſe ſuch Motives may be eaſily diſcerned, and ſo our Ignorance of them muſt be leſs excuſable; and we cannot reſiſt their Evidence, but we muſt offer violence to the Convictions of our Conſciences, and ſo we have no cloak for our Sin.

3*dly*, That though we own the Chriſtian Faith, and our Lord Jeſus; yet whilſt we live in Diſobedience to his Precepts, God looks upon us as meer Infidels, ſuch as in words profeſs to know him, but in works deny him, being diſobedient, Titus 1. 16. Our faith at leaſt muſt be irrational and abſurd, for why call ye me Lord, Lord, ſaith Chriſt, and do not the things that I ſay? Luke 6. 46. And 'twill be as unprofitable, as it is irrational; for though we know theſe things, we only can be happy if we do them, John 13. 17.

To conclude all, Our Convictions of the Truth of Chriſtian Faith, add ſtrength to thoſe engagements and encouragements which that Religion offers towards a Virtuous and Holy Life; for if all that is delivered in theſe ſacred Records be the revealed Will of God, then all the promiſes and comfortable Paſſages contained in them, will be aſſuredly made good to all obedient Chriſtians, and the aſſurance of ſuch ineſtimable bleſſings as the Goſpel promiſeth, muſt lay upon us ſtrong engagements to be ſtedfaſt and unmoveable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, as knowing that our labour ſhall not be in vain in the Lord.

(g) Πλεῖσαι γὰρ ἐν ἑκάστῃ ἄλλαι προφητεῖαι τῇ θείᾳ χαρίσματι ὑπηρέτησαν τότε κατ' διαφόρους ἐκκλησίας ἐπιτελούμεναι, &c. Hiſt. Eccl. l. 5. c. 3. (h) Contra Celſum, lib. 1. p. 5.

THE PREFACE TO THE Epiſtle to the ROMANS.

IT is the general Note of the Ancient Commentators, that though this Epiſtle be in place the firſt of all St. Paul's Epiſtles, yet was it not firſt written by him, but was * the laſt of all he wrote from Aſia, Macedonia, and Achaia, before he went to Rome: The Epiſtles to the Theſſalonians, to the Corinthians, and the Epiſtle to the Galatians, being writ before it. They therefore think that it was placed firſt, either as being written † to the Imperial City, as ſome thought, or for the Excellency of the Doctrine contained in it, as others do conjecture. So ſaith Theodoret in his Preface.

It was written from Corinth, as the ſame Ancients note, for he calleth Eraſtus the Chamberlain of the City from whence he writ it, Chap. 16. 23. and he had his abode at Corinth, 2 Tim. 2. 4. He calleth Gaius his Hoſt, i. e. the Man with whom he lodged, Chap. 16. 23. now he was a Corinthian, 1 Cor. 1. 14. He commendeth to them Phœbe, a Servant of the Church at Chencræa, Chap. 16. 1. now Chencræa was a Port of Corinth. Moreover it was written thence not when St. Paul travelled through Greece, Acts 20. 2. for that then he came to Corinth is not ſaid; nay, it is gainſaid by St. Paul himſelf, who in his Second Epiſtle to the Corinthians, writ the ſame Year with this, excuſes himſelf for not coming to them, Chap. 1. and declares, that the third time he was ready to come to them, Chap. 13. 1. Add to this, that when he writ this Epiſtle to the Romans, he knew the Contributions of the Church of Corinth were actually made, and even depoſited in his hands, he being then going up with them to Jeruſalem, Rom. 15. 25--28. Whereas when he travelled Greece, and came to Macedonia, Acts 20. 1, 3. they either indeed were not ſo, or at the leaſt he knew not that they were ſo, and therefore ſent firſt Titus, and then his Second Epiſtle to them, that they might be ſo. Chapters 8, 9.

It was written to the Romans when he had not ſeen them, Chap. 1. 11. and before he was gone up to Jeruſalem, for he was but then going thither, Rom. 15. 15. and purpoſed from thence to go by Rome to Spain, v. 28. And ſo it muſt be written, A. D. 57. for we find him at Jeruſalem, Acts 21. 6. and a Priſoner under Felix in the Fourth Year of Nero. See Dr. Pearſon, Annal. Paulin. p. 15, 16.

That the Church of Rome conſiſted partly of the Jews then dwelling there, we learn both from the 14th. Chapter, where the Gentiles are exhorted to bear with their Weakneſs. And from the 15th. Chapter, where he ſpeaks thus, I have written unto you more boldly, ἀπὸ μέρες, as to the Gentile part. See the Note there, v. 15, 16. And from the Salutations ſent to them at Rome, they being chiefly ſent to them of the Jewiſh Nation.

The two Great Doctrines laid down in this Epiſtle, are (1.) That of Juſtification by Faith alone, without the Works of the Law. Of which ſee the Preface to the Epiſtle to the Galatians. And (2.) The Myſtery of the Calling of the Gentiles, the Rejection at preſent of the Jews, and the recalling of them when the fulneſs of the Gentiles was to come in.

Laſtly, It is obſervable, that among all his Salutations to thoſe of Rome, he hath not one directed to St. Peter, nor doth he give us any hint that St. Peter then had ever been at Rome, or planted any Church there, which, as it makes it highly probable he had not then been there at all, ſo doth it make it certain that St. Paul knew not of his being there when this Epiſtle was endited.

Epiſtle to the ROMANS.

CHAP. I.

Verſe 1. Paul, a Servant of Jeſus Chriſt, called to be an Apoſtle, ſeparated to the Goſpel of God.

Ἀφωρισμένος, ſeparated.] He in this word ſeems to allude to his former ſeparation when he liv'd a Phariſee, i. e. one ſeparated from all Ceremonial defilement, and from the People of the Earth, i. e. the Common People, who obſerv'd not the exact Rules of Legal Purity, ſaying, that he was ſeparated now not to a nicer Obſervation of the Jewiſh Rites and Cuſtoms, but to the Preaching the Goſpel of God; and the affinity betwixt this and the Epiſtle to the Galatians, both as to Matter and to Style, inclines me to interpret the Apoſtle not of the Separation mentioned, Acts 13. 2. where the Holy Ghoſt ſaith, Separate me Barnabas and Saul for the work of the Miniſtry, to which I have appointed them, but of God's ſeparating him from his Mothers womb to that Work, Gal. 1. 15.

[Ver. 2. Which [Goſpel] he had promiſed afore by his Prophets in the Holy Scriptures [ſpeaking in them.]

Ver. 3. Concerning his Son Jeſus Chriſt our Lord, who was made of the ſeed of David, according to the fleſh, [Acts 2. 30. 2 Tim. 2. 8. and]

Ver. 4. Declared to be the Son of God with power, according to the ſpirit of Holineſs by the Reſurrection from the dead.

Ὁρισθέντος, declared to be the Son of God.] Chriſt while he was on Earth declared that he was the Son of God, whom the Father had ſanctified, and ſet apart to his Prophetick Office: Accordingly the Spirit of God deſcended on him at his Baptiſm, and a voice from Heaven ſaid, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleaſed; this he proved from the powerful Works wrought by him, that he was the Son of God, ſanctified and conſecrated to his Office by the Spirit of God abiding in him, and ſo was in the Father, and the Father in him, declaring that he did his Miracles by the power of the Holy Ghoſt, and by the Spirit of God did caſt out Devils, Mat. 12. 28. And thus St. Peter repreſents this Prophet to Cornelius, ſaying, God anointed Jeſus of Nazareth with the Holy Ghoſt, and with power, who [therefore] went about doing good, and healing all that were oppreſſed of the Devil, for God was with him, Acts 10. 38. And thus it ſeemeth neceſſary he ſhould act in his Prophetick Office. A Prophet being a Perſon ſent from God, and ſpeaking in his Name, and acted by his Spirit in the delivery and confirmation of his Meſſage, that our Great Prophet Jeſus was, as in a more ſublime, ſo in this ſenſe the Son of God, endowed with power of working Miracles by the Holy Ghoſt for confirmation of his Doctrine, God hath demonſtrated, ſaith the Apoſtle here, by raiſing him from the Dead.

Ver. 5. By whom [thus raiſed, and inveſted with all power, and acting now not as a Prophet, but as Lord of all, by the whole fulneſs of the Godhead] we have received Grace and Apoſtleſhip, [i. e. the Office of an Apoſtle, and the Grace belonging to it] for obedience to the Faith among [Gr. in] all Nations.

Χάριν καὶ Ἀποστολήν, Grace and Apoſtleſhip.] That is, ſaith Oecumenius, χάριν εἰς ἀποστολήν, Grace for the Office of Apoſtles; the favour to be Apoſtles, ſay ſome, becauſe the Apoſtle calls this Office Grace, Rom. 15. 15. Gal. 2. 9. Eph. 3. 2--7. but where he doth ſo, there is always ſomething added of the Gifts and Powers by which they were enabled to exerciſe it. v. g. To me is this Grace given, that I may be the Miniſter of Chriſt to the Gentiles, Rom. 15. 15, 16. In the power of Signs, and Miracles, and Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt, v. 19. James, Cephas, and John knew the Grace given to me, Gal. 2. 9. becauſe God had wrought mightily with me towards the Gentiles, v. 8. And Eph. 3. 2. there is mention of the Grace of God given to St. Paul, but then 'tis added, that he is made a Miniſter, according to the gift of the Grace of God, given to him by the effectual working of his Power, v. 7. I therefore think fit to joyn both together, and give the ſenſe of the words thus: By whom we have received the Office of Apoſtles, and Grace through his Name to call all Nations to the obedience of Faith in him; or to yield Obedience to the Faith preached through his Name.

Ver. 6. Among whom are ye alſo the called of Jeſus Chriſt.]

Ver. 7. [I Paul write] to all that be in Rome beloved of God, called to be Saints [Gr. Saints called. See Note on 1 Cor. 1. 1. wiſhing] Grace [may] be [given] to you from God our Father, and [from] the Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

Ver. 8. [And] firſt I thank my God through Jeſus Chriſt [the Fountain of all our Bleſſings, Eph. 1. 3.] for [the Converſion wrought in] you all [ſo viſibly] that your Faith is ſpoken of throughout the World.

Ver. 9. [This happy ſucceſs of the Goſpel being very grateful to me] for God is my witneſs, whom I ſerve with my ſpirit in the Goſpel of his Son, that without ceaſing [Gr. how unceſſantly] I make mention of you.

Ver. 10. Making requeſt [Gr. requeſting] always in my Prayers to come to you, if by any means, now at length, I might have a proſperous Journey by the will of God.

Ver. 11. For I long to ſee you, that I may impart to you ſome ſpiritual Gift, to the end that you may be eſtabliſhed.

Ἵνα τι μεταδῶ χάρισμα ὑμῖν πνευματικὸν, that I might impart to you ſome ſpiritual Gift.] This is by moſt interpreted of the Spirit of Wiſdom and Knowledge, by which St. Paul would Inſtruct them; I rather chuſe to refer it to ſome Spiritual Gift he at his coming would beſtow upon them by the Impoſition of his Hands upon ſome of them, as the Apoſtles uſed to do, Acts 8. 17. & 19. 6. 2 Tim. 1. 6. For, (Firſt) that is moſt agreeable to the Phraſe μεταδῶναι χάρισμα πνευματικὸν, to give the Spirit, or a Spiritual Gift. And (2*ly.*) to his words in the cloſe of this Epiſtle, that he ſhall come to them in the fulneſs τῆς εὐλογίας of the bleſſing of the Goſpel of Chriſt, that Phraſe being applyed to the giving of the Spirit, and his Gifts, Gal. 3. 14. Eph. 1. 3. And (3*ly.*) to the end here aſſigned of the imparting this Gift, viz. the eſtabliſhment of the Romans in the Faith: For the vouchſafement of the Spirit and his Gifts unto the Churches, is ſtill called βεβαίωσις the confirmation of them in the Faith, 1 Cor. 1. 5, 6. 2 Cor. 1. 21, 22. & 5. 5. Gal. 5. 5. 1 Theſ. 1. 5.

Ver. 12. That is, that I may be comforted together with you, by the mutual Faith both of you and me.

Συμπαρακληθῆναι, to be comforted together with you.] It being both a comfort, and eſtabliſhment of Faith in them to receive theſe Gifts of the Spirit, and in him to be able to impart them to them, and to find God ſo effectually working by him.

Ver. 13. Now I would not have you ignorant, Brethren, that oftentimes I purpoſed to come to you, that I might have ſome fruit among you, alſo even as among other Gentiles, (though through many hindrances I have not yet been able to accompliſh my purpoſe, Chap. 15. 22.)

Ver. 14. For (as) I am a Debtor both to the Greeks and the Barbarians; both to the wiſe, and to the unwiſe (as having by God the diſpenſation of the Goſpel committed to me for their ſakes, 1 Cor. 9. 6.)

To the Greeks, and the Barbarians.] See Note on 1 Cor. 14. 11.

Ver. 15. So, as much as is in me, I am ready to preach the Goſpel to you that are at Rome alſo.

Ὑμῖν τοῖς ἐν Ῥώμῃ εὐαγγελίσασθαι, to Preach the Goſpel to you at Rome.] St. Paul here plainly ſeems to challenge Rome as part of his Province, as being the Apoſtle of the Gentiles. So again, Chap. 11. 13. I ſpeak to you, Gentiles, in as much as I am the Apoſtle of the Gentiles, I magnifie my Office. And Chap. 15. 15. I have written the more boldly to you in part, i. e. as to the Gentile part among you, as putting you in remembrance of the Grace given to me of God, v. 16. that I ſhould be the Miniſter of Jeſus Chriſt to the Gentiles; and ſo on to v. 30. And here I purpoſed to come to you Gentiles, for I am a Debtor, &c. When therefore the Ancients tell us, that St. Peter was Biſhop of Rome as well as St. Paul, this can be only true of Peter, as to the Jewiſh Converts there, whilſt St. Paul was the Apoſtle and Biſhop of the Gentiles at Rome, according to the Agreement made between them, that Paul and Barnabas ſhould go unto the Gentiles, St. Peter and John to the Circumciſion, Gal. 2. 9. And ſo the Biſhop of Rome, if he will be St. Peter's Succeſſor, muſt only Preach unto the Jews, or be the Biſhop of the Circumciſion. Moreover it ſeems highly probable that St. Peter was not yet come to Rome, much leſs had ſettled his See there; for if ſo, why ſhould St. Paul be ſo deſirous, ſo often purpoſing to come to them, that he might impart ſome ſpiritual Gift to them, to the end they might be eſtabliſhed, unleſs St. Peter were either inſufficient for, or very negligent in that Work. See the Preface to this Epiſtle.

Ver. 16. For I am not aſhamed of the Goſpel of Chriſt, for it is (attended with) the power of God to Salvation, to every one that believeth, to the Jew firſt (to whom it was by God's appointment to be firſt preached, Acts 3. 26. & 13. 46.) and alſo to the Gentile.

Ver. 17. For therein is the Righteouſneſs of God revealed from Faith to Faith (Gr. the Righteouſneſs of God by Faith is revealed to beget in Men Faith) as it is written, but the juſt ſhall live by Faith.

Δικαιοσύνη θεοῦ, the Righteouſneſs of God.] This Phraſe, in St. Paul's ſtyle, doth always ſignifie the Righteouſneſs of Faith in Jeſus Chriſt dying, or ſhedding his Blood for us. So Chap. 3. 20, 21. The Righteouſneſs of God without the Law is manifeſt, to wit, the Righteouſneſs of God through Faith of Jeſus Chriſt; the ſame Apoſtle having declared, that the Gentiles, who followed not after Righteouſneſs, had obtained unto Righteouſneſs, even the Righteouſneſs of Faith; but Iſrael not believing, had not attained to the Law of Righteouſneſs, Rom. 9. 30, 31. He proves the ſecond Aſſertion thus: For they being ignorant of the Righteouſneſs of God, and ſeeking to eſtabliſh their own Righteouſneſs (which is of the Law) have not ſubmitted τῇ δικαιοσύνῃ τοῦ θεοῦ, to the Righteouſneſs of God, i. e. to the Righteouſneſs of Faith in Chriſt, to which the Gentiles had ſubmitted, Chap. 10. 3. For Chriſt is the end of the Law for Righteouſneſs to every one that believeth, v. 4. εἰς δικαιοσύνην, for Righteouſneſs, i. e. for Juſtification through Faith in Chriſt, v. 10. See the Note on 2 Cor. 5. 21. The Righteouſneſs of God is therefore manifeſtly taken for Goſpel-Righteouſneſs, as Mr. Cl. notes on Rom. 3. p. 263. But when he adds, That is for ſanctity of Life conſequent upon Repentance, he is miſerably out; for this Righteouſneſs conſiſts not in our Sanctification, but in our Juſtification or Abſolution from our paſt Sins through Faith in the Blood of Chriſt, ſhed for the Remiſſion of Sins.

Ἐκ πίστεως εἰς πίστιν from, i. e. by Faith to Faith.] Ἐκ being here put for διὰ, as in this very Verſe, the juſt ſhall live ἐκ πίστεως by his Faith. So Chap. 3. 30. It is one God who will juſtifie the Circumciſion ἐκ πίστεως through Faith, and the uncircumciſion διὰ πίστεως by the ſame Faith. So ἡ ἐκ πίστεως δικαιοσύνη is the Righteouſneſs that is by Faith. Chap. 9. 30. & 10. 6. δικαιοσύνη ἐκ τῆς πίστεως, and διὰ πίστεως τοῦ χριστοῦ, the Righteouſneſs by Faith in Chriſt. Vain therefore is the deſcant of Mr. Le Clerk upon theſe words, That from the Faith whereby the Jews believed the Prophets, and the Gentiles their Anceſtors, they might proceed to another Faith: For if he means they ſhould proceed from the one Faith to the other, this is true of the Jews, who were to add to their Faith in God, and in his Prophets, Faith in our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, John 14. 1. But it is falſe as to the Gentiles, who were to renounce and turn from the Faith of their Anceſtors, that they might believe in Chriſt. If he means by proceeding from Faith to Faith, renouncing the one, to embrace the other, this is true of the Gentiles, but falſe when applyed to the Jews, who were not to renounce their Faith in the Prophets, but by vertue of it to embrace this Righteouſneſs of God, teſtified by the Law, and the Prophets. The ſenſe of theſe words ſeems plainly to be this: The Righteouſneſs of God, which is by Faith, is revealed in the Goſpel to beget Faith in Men.

Ὁ δίκαιος ἐκ πίστεως ζήσεται, the juſt ſhall live by his Faith.] In God's Promiſes, whence it appears that Faith doth not include Obedience, but only a firm belief of God's Promiſes obliging to Obedience; hence the Apoſtle argues from this very place, Gal. 3. 10, 11. that the Law is not of Faith, becauſe it ſaith, The man that doth theſe things, ſhall live in them, making Obedience the Condition of Juſtification by the Law.

Ver. 18. (And this way of Juſtification, or obtaining Remiſſion of Sins, is neceſſary to exempt all Men, whether Jew or Gentile, from the wrath of God) for (to begin firſt with the Gentile) the wrath of God is revealed from Heaven againſt all ungodlineſs and unrighteouſneſs of (thoſe) men who hold the Truth (they know by the Light of Nature) in unrighteouſneſs.

Ὀργὴ θεοῦ, the wrath of God.] This was before more expreſly revealed againſt the unrighteouſneſs of the Jew, God in the mean time ſo far winking at the unrighteouſneſs of the Gentiles, as to make no expreſs denuntiation of his Wrath againſt them; but now he calls all men every where to repent of their unrighteouſneſs, becauſe he hath appointed a day in which he will judge the World in righteouſneſs, Acts 17. 30, 31.

Ἐπὶ πᾶσαν ἀσέβειαν καὶ ἀδικίαν ἀνθρώπων, againſt all ungodlineſs and unrighteouſneſs of Men.] The ungodlineſs of Men ſignifies their Impiety in robbing God of his Honour, and giving it to graven Images, or to them which by Nature were no Gods, and ſo being ungrateful to him, who was the Author of all their Bleſſings, v. 21, to 26. Their unrighteouſneſs is their injuſtice to one another, from v. 26, to the 30th. And they are ſaid to retain the Truth in unrighteouſneſs, by acting contrary to the Notions of it they had, or might have learned from the Law of Nature, and by ſuppreſſing, or corrupting the Dictates of their Natural Conſcience. So of the Builders of the Tower of Babel, * Philo ſaith, That it ſufficed them not τὰ πρὸς τοὺς ὁμοφύλους συγχεῖν δίκαια, to confound the Laws of Juſtice among Men, but alſo they invaded Heaven, ἀδικίαν μὲν σπείροντες, ἀσέβειαν δὲ θερίζοντες, ſowing unrighteouſneſs, and reaping ungodlineſs.

Ver. 19. Becauſe that which may be known of God (by the Light of Nature) is manifeſt in (or to) them, for God hath ſhewed it to them.

Ver. 20. For the inviſible things of him from the Creation of the World are clearly ſeen, (or

* De Confuſ. ling. p. 267. F.

are

are clearly ſeen (even) from the Creation of the World) being underſtood by the things that are made (i. e. by his works) even his eternal Power and Godhead; ſo that they are without excuſe, (viz. who do not worſhip him alone as God, who is the Creator of all things, but rather give the Worſhip due unto him, to the works of his hands.)

Απο της κτισεως κοσμε, from the Creation of the World.] This Phraſe ſeems not to ſignifie the means by which they came to the knowledge of God, for that is afterwards expreſſed in theſe words, ποιήμασι νοούμενα, being made known by his works, but rather to import that from the beginning of the World the Heathens had this means of knowing the true God from the Works of the Creation, ſo απ' αρχῆς κόσμε, is from the beginning of the World, Mat. 24. 21. απο καταβολῆς κόσμε, from the Foundation of the World, Mat. 13. 35. Luke 11. 50. Heb. 4. 3. & 9. 26. Strange is the Conceit of a learned Perſon, who interprets theſe, and all the following words of this Chapter of the Gnoſticks, for who ever heard that the Gnoſticks changed the Glory of the incorruptible God into an Image made like to Birds and four-footed Beaſts, and creeping things? Who of the Ancients ever ſaid, Their Women changed the Natural uſe of the Body for that which is againſt Nature? How is it poſſible that the Apoſtle ſhould here accuſe them of all this Idolatry, and Image-Worſhip, and yet in the next Chapter ſay of the ſame Gnoſticks, according to the Interpretation of the ſame Perſon, Thou that abhorreſt Idols, doſt thou commit Sacrilege? v. 22. Doubtleſs the Apoſtle ſpeaks here of that knowledge of God which by the Light of Nature was in the heart of the Gentiles, and ſo was manifeſt in, and to them, even from the time of the Creation of the World, by his Works, becauſe the Heavens declare the Glory of God, and the Firmament ſheweth his handy-work, Pſal. 19. 1. And therefore doth not here ſay, that his Mercy, and Grace, and Love to Mankind, but that his Eternal Power and Godhead, was ſhewed by theſe Works, which yet in reaſon he ſhould have mentioned here, as he doth elſewhere, had he ſpoken of the Diſcoveries God made of himſelf by the Goſpel-Revelation.

Ver. 21. Becauſe when they knew God, they glorified him not as God (by giving him the Honour due to the Deity) neither were thankful (to him who giveth to all Men life, breath, and all things, Acts 17. 28. & 14. 17.) but became vain in their imaginations (of him) and their fooliſh heart was darkned.

Ver. 22. Profeſſing themſelves to be wiſe, (and uſurping that name, v. 14. 1 Cor. 1. 20, 21.) they became (in their actions) fools.

Ver. 23. And changed the Glory of the incorruptible God into an Image made like to corruptible Man, and to Birds, and four-footed Beaſts, and creeping things.

Την δόξαν της ἀφθάρτε θεε, the Glory of the incorruptible God.] The deſcription of God in the New Teſtament is this, That he dwelleth in Light inacceſſible, 1 Tim. 1. 16. That he is Light, 1 John 1. 5, 6. And thus he always exhibited himſelf to Men in a mighty ſplendor of Flame and Light, as a viſible Token of his ſpecial, and Majeſtick Preſence. Thus he appeared to the Antediluvians, to Adam, ſaith the Learned Biſhop Ely, on Gen. 2. 15. & 3. 8. And to Cain and Abel, when they brought their Offerings to the Lord, i. e. to the Place where his Shechinah, or Glorious Preſence uſed to appear; for God had reſpect to Abel and his Offering, i. e. ſaith Theodotion's Tranſlation, ἐνεπύρισεν, He ſet it on fire by a ſtream of Light, or Flame from the Shechinah, which then uſually appeared at the Place of Worſhip: Why elſe doth Cain complain thus, From thy face ſhall I be hid? Or why is he ſaid to go out from the preſence of the Lord? Gen. 4. 4, 14. So after the Flood, we may preſume he appeared to Noah offering Burnt-offerings to him; for God accepting his Oblation, as he did that of Abel's, 'tis reaſonable to conceive that he gave the like Token of that Acceptance. So he appeared to Abraham, when he ſaid unto him, Get thee out of thine own Country, in a lamp of Fire, conſuming his Sacrifices, Gen. 15. 17. Whence St. Stephen ſaith, ὁ θεὸς δόξης, the God of Glory appeared to our Father Abraham, Acts 7. 2. In this viſible Majeſty God appeared to him again, Chap. 17. 1. For in the concluſion of that Chapter it is ſaid, God went up from Abraham, i. e. the Glory of the Lord aſcended, ſaith the Chaldee Paraphraſe, and B. Uziel. So he appeared to Moſes in the Buſh, Exod. 3. 2. So to the People on Mount Sinai, Exod, 24. 16, 17. where το εἶδος της δόξης τε Κυρίε ὡσεὶ πῦρ, the ſight of the Glory of the Lord was like fire. This viſible appearance of God in Light is above Thirty times in the Old Teſtament ſtyled the Glory of the Lord; ſee Note on Phil. 2. 8. and on Heb. 1. 3. And this Shechinah was not only given to the Jews after the Law, but to the Gentiles before the Law, as a Preſervative from Idolatry, or to inſtruct them to make no other Reſemblance of him, or Symbol of his Preſence beſides that he from the beginning had choſen to appear in; but this, ſaith the Apoſtle, they changed into the ſimilitude of Men and Birds, &c. And of the Jews making the Golden Calf, God ſays, they changed δόξαν αὐτῶν their Glory into the ſimilitude of a Calf, Pſal. 106. 20.

Ver. 24. Wherefore God alſo gave them up to uncleanneſs through the luſts of their own hearts to diſhonour their bodies among themſelves (as did the Sodomites and Canaanites of old, ἀπελθοῦσαι ὀπίσω σαρκὸς ἑτέρας, Jude 7.)

Ver. 25. (As being alſo Men) who changed the truth of God into a lie (worſhipping as Gods them who by Nature were no Gods, Gal. 4. 8. or only Demons, 1 Cor. 10. 20.) and (ſo) ſerved the Creature more than the Creator, who is bleſſed for ever. Amen.

Ἐλάτρευσαν τῇ κτίσει, they ſerved the Creature.] In the 23*d.* Verſe they are charged only with falſe Repreſentations of God, in this alſo with a falſe Object of their Worſhip, by giving the Divine Honour to a Creature.

Ver. 26. For this cauſe God gave them (farther) up to vile affections, for even their Women did change the natural uſe (of their Bodies) into that which is againſt nature. See Lucian, διαλ. ἑταιρ. κλωνάριον καὶ Λέαινα.)

Ver. 27. And alſo the Men, leaving the natural uſe of the Women, burned in their luſts one towards another, men with men, working that which was unſeemly (Gr. filthineſs) and receiving in themſelves that recompence of their error which was meet (i. e. being given up thus to diſhonour their own Bodies. See Lucian's ἔρωτες, for the diſhonour they did to God by their Idolatry.)

Ver. 28. And as they liked not to retain God in their knowledge, (ſo) God gave them up to a reprobate mind, to do thoſe things which were not convenient.

Εἰς ἀδόκιμον νοῦν, to a reprobate mind.] To a mind that could not be approved of by God or Men, to do τὰ μὴ καθήκοντα, things not agreeable to Nature, or to Reaſon.

Ver. 29. Being filled with all unrighteouſneſs, fornication, wickedneſs, coveteouſneſs, maliciouſneſs, full of envy, murther, debate, deceit, malignity, whiſperers.

Ver. 30. Back-biters, haters of God, deſpiteful, proud, boaſters, inventers of evil things, diſobedient to Parents.

Ver. 31. Without underſtanding, Covenant-breakers, without natural affection, implacable, unmerciful.

Παρέδωκεν αὐτὸς ὁ Θεός, God gave them up to a reprobate mind.] ver. 24. God gave them up in the luſtings of their hearts to uncleanneſs. ver. 26. God gave them up to diſhonourable affections.] Here the Fathers carefully inform us that theſe Phraſes cannot be ſo underſtood, as to lay upon them a neceſſity of being thus unclean, and unnatural in their Affections, or thus perverſe in their Minds; (a) for then, ſay they, this would not be their fault, nor would it be blame-worthy in them to do all theſe things.

Secondly, They poſitively tell us, that the Apoſtle here puts the Phraſe, (b) He gave them up, for he permitted them to be given up.

Thirdly, That this was done, firſt, by leaving them naked and (c) deſtitute of his former Providence and care towards them, not giving them any warning of his diſpleaſure againſt them for theſe things by his Prophets, as he did to the old World, and Nineveh, or by his Judgments, in order to their Reformation.

2. By giving them up to (d) Satan, that unclean Spirit, who will not fail, when he hath permiſſion, to provoke them to ſuch uncleanneſs, and who is that God of the World who blinds mens Eyes, that they ſhould not ſee the Truth, 2 Cor. 4. 4. So the Lord moved David to ſay, Go number Iſrael and Judah, 2 Sam. 24. 1. i. e. Satan provoked him to do it, 1 Chron. 21. 1. And thus, ſay they, a Phyſician gives up his Patient to do what he will, when he finds he will not follow his Prefcriptions. And,

Laſtly, They obſerve, that they were thus deſerted, and given up by God, as the juſt Puniſhment of their Iniquities committed againſt the Light of Nature, which they had received, becauſe (e) they held the Truth revealed in unrighteouſneſs, v. 18. Becauſe when they knew God, they did not glorifie him as God, nor were they thankful, v. 21. and becauſe knowing that they who did theſe things were worthy of Death, they not only did the ſame, but had pleaſure in them that did them, and ſo indeed they were delivered up to do theſe things by their own wickedneſs. Thus on the contrary, we ſay, Such a Man's Money deſtroyed him, when it was not the Money, but his intemperate, and evil uſe of it that did ſo. And ſuch a Man's Flatterers corrupted him, when it was his hearkning to them, and being perſwaded by them which did it; whereas he had it in his power not to hearken to them. And in this permiſſive ſenſe the word παρέδωκεν, he gave them up, is uſed almoſt an hundred times in the Old Teſtament: When God is ſaid to give men up into the hands of their Enemies, to give them up to the Sword. Thus the three Children, παρέδωκαν, gave up their Bodies to be burned, Dan. 3. 20. Thus David prays he may not be given up into the hands of his Oppreſſors, i. e. that God would not leave him to their power, Pſal. 119. 121. And the Son of Syrach, That God would not give him up to a proud look, Ecclus. 23. 4. And ſo God gave his People up to their own hearts luſts, i. e. He let them follow their own inventions, Pſal. 81. 12. And this is farther evident from v. 32. where they are ſaid, to have done all theſe things againſt their knowledge of the Judgment of God upon ſuch evil doers.

Bodies

He that would ſee a larger Comment upon ver. 29, 30, 31. let him conſult the learned Grotius; I only ſhall obſerve from the Greek Commentators, 1. That from theſe words, being filled with all unrighteouſneſs, it ſeemeth reaſonable to interpret almoſt all that follows as ſome Species of Unrighteouſneſs, or Injuſtice. 2. That πονηρία ſignifies that Wickedneſs which cauſes Men to do Miſchief againſt their Neighbour by Treachery, κακία, to do it out of Malice; κακοήθεια, to accuſtom themſelves to do ſo. 3. That ψιθυρισταὶ, are they that whiſper things to the damage of others when they are preſent; καταλάλοι, they that openly defame them being abſent. 4. Ὑπερηφανία, is that Pride which puffs us up on the account of the things we do enjoy; ἀλαζονεία, that boaſting which we make of things which we have not.

Ver. 32. Who knowing the judgment of God, (viz.) that they who do ſuch things are worthy of Death, not only do the ſame, but have pleaſure in them that do them.

Ἄξιοι θανάτου, worthy of Death.] That Murther, Adultery, and unnatural Luſts deſerved Death, they knew not only by the Light of Nature, and of Conſcience, but by their own Laws condemning them who did them, to Death. That all of them being Species of Injuſtice, condemned by the Law of Nature, rendred them obnoxious to the diſpleaſure of that God who is the Governour of the World, and the Avenger of all unrighteouſneſs; and ſo obnoxious to Death for violating the Laws he had given them to govern themſelves by, they might know by the Light of Nature.

Συνευδοκοῦσι τοῖς πράσσουσι, have pleaſure in them that do them.] This, ſay the Greek Commentators, is much worſe than the bare doing of them; for a Man may do them through the power of Temptation, and by conſideration may after become ſenſible of his folly, and repent of it; but when he is arrived at that height of Wickedneſs, that he not only approves, but delights in ſeeing the like things done by others, he demonſtrates ſuch a ſtrong Affection to them as is incurable.

CHAP. II.

THE Apoſtle had in the former Chapter laid down this as the Foundation of his Diſcourſe, That the Goſpel of Chriſt was the power of God to the Salvation both of Jew and Gentile, v. 16. and that there only was revealed that Righteouſneſs of God through Faith, by which alone Life and Salvation was to be obtained. He alſo ſhewed the neceſſity of this Faith, becauſe the Wrath of God was revealed from Heaven againſt all unrighteouſneſs of men who held the truth in unrighteouſneſs; and that this the Gentiles had done by acting againſt the Light of Nature; and that God had been angry with, and puniſhed them for it, he had ſhewed from v. 19. to the end of that Chapter.

Theſe Gentiles were by the Jews reputed as unclean, great Sinners, and ſo uncapable of Salvation; and their great Quarrel againſt the Goſpel was this, that it admitted ſuch Men to the favour of God without Circumciſion, and Obedience to the Law of Moſes. To theſe Jews the Apoſtle in this Chapter directeth his Diſcourſe, proving here that they who lived under the Law wanted this Juſtification as much as others, being alſo great Sinners; and in the following Chapters, that neither they, nor the Gentiles could obtain this Juſtification by the Law. See v. 13. & 17.

Verſe 1. Therefore (ſince God hath ſhewed his diſpleaſure thus againſt the Gentiles for ſinning againſt the Law of Nature) thou art inexcuſable, O Man, whoever thou art, that judgeſt (ſo ſeverely of them) for wherein thou judgeſt another thou condemneſt thy ſelf, for thou that judgeſt doeſt the ſame things (offending as much againſt the Law of Moſes, as they have done againſt the Law of Nature.)

Τὰ γὰρ αὐτὰ πράσσεις, for thou doeſt the ſame things.] If to any one it ſeem ſtrange that the Apoſtle ſhould pronounce the Jews Guilty of the ſame Sins of which he had accuſed the Gentiles, Chap. 1. let him conſider what their own Joſephus hath recorded of them, and he will ceaſe to wonder. For (1.) He aſſures us there (a) was not a Nation under

Heaven

Heaven more Wicked than they were. What, ſaith he, have you done of all the good things required by our Law-giver? What have ye not done of all thoſe things which he pronounced accurſed? (b) So that had the Romans delayed to come againſt theſe execrable Perſons, I believe, ſaith he, either the Earth would have ſwallowed up, or a Deluge would have ſwept away their City; or Fire from Heaven would have conſumed it, as it did Sodom; for it brought forth a Generation of Men far more wicked than they who ſuffered ſuch things. There is not a Sin mentioned Chap. 1. of which he doth not in that Hiſtory accuſe them, not excepting that of unnatural Luſts; for of their Zealots he ſaith, (c) It was Sport to them to force Women; they freely gave up themſelves to the Paſſions of Women, exerciſing, and requiring unnatural Luſts, and filling the whole City with Impurities. And again, they committed all kinds of Wickedneſs, omitting none which ever came to the memory of Man; eſteeming the worſt of evils to be good, and finding that reward of their Iniquity which was meet, and a Judgment worthy of God.

Ver. 2. But we are ſure that the judgment of God is according to truth againſt them which commit ſuch things (it being equitable that he ſhould, and certain that he will deal with Men according to his Word.)

Ver. 3. And (then) thinkeſt thou this, O Man, who judgeſt them who do ſuch things (againſt the Law of Nature,) and doeſt the ſame (againſt the Law of Moſes,) that thou ſhalt eſcape the judgment of God (which they have ſo ſeverely felt?)

Ver. 4. Or deſpiſeſt thou the riches of his Goodneſs (to thee above them, in giving the Law, Covenant, and Promiſes to thee, Chap. 9. 4.) and forbearance and long-ſuffering (exerciſed hitherto to thee, who haſt long deſerved his wrath, Chap. 9. 22.) not knowing (or diſcerning) that the goodneſs of God (naturally) leadeth thee to repentance, (and is a powerful motive to engage thee to it, 2 Pet. 3. 9, 15.)

Ver. 5. But after the hardneſs and impenitency of thy heart (which will not ſuffer thee to repent, and believe the Goſpel) treaſureſt (yet) up (more) wrath againſt the day of wrath, and revelation of the righteous judgment of God, (Rom. 9. 22. 1 Theſſ. 2. 16. & 5. 9.)

Ver. 6. Who will render to every man (Jew and Gentile) according to his deeds.

Ver. 7. To them, who by patient continuance in well-doing, ſeek for glory, and honour, and immortality; eternal life.

Καθ' ὑπομονὴν ἔργου ἀγαθοῦ, by patient continuance in well-doing.] This Good Work being put in the Singular Number, ſeems to intimate ſome Work eminently ſo. Now when the Jews asked our Saviour, What ſhall we do that we may work the Works of God? His Anſwer was, This is the work of God, that ye believe in him whom he hath ſent, John 6. 28, 29. The Preaching of this Faith is ſtyled emphatically the Work, Acts 5. 38. & 13. 2. & 14. 26. & 15. 38. and ſometimes the Work of Chriſt, Philip. 2. 30. the Work of the Lord, 1 Cor. 16. 10. The Faith wrought by it is ἔργον πίστεως, the Work of Faith, 2 Theſſ. 1. 2. And he that begets it in us, is ſaid to begin in us ἔργον ἀγαθὸν, the Good Work, Philip. 1. 6. And in this ſenſe it accords well with the ſcope of the Apoſtle, whether it be joyned with the word Patience, or with the following words; for the Apoſtle had ſaid in the former Chapter, That the Goſpel of Chriſt was the power of God through Faith to Salvation to every one that believeth, to the Jew firſt, and alſo to the Gentile, Rom. 1. 16. This he here proſecutes, ſaying, That to them who by patience in the Faith of Chriſt, ſeek the Glory, Honour, and Immortality promiſed by the Goſpel, God will give Eternal Life.

Ver. 8. But to them who are contentious (againſt) and obey not the Truth (of the Goſpel, as generally you Jews do not,) but obey unrighteouſneſs (or falſhood,) Indignation, and Wrath.

I ſay, this being ſo, οἱ ἐξ ἐριθείας, they that are contentious here, and obey not the Truth, may be, firſt, the unbelieving Jews, or falſe Apoſtles coming from them who preached Chriſt, ἐξ ἐριθείας, out of contention againſt Paul, Philip. 1. 16. And, 2*dly*, the Gentiles, which ſpake againſt the Truth, and rejected it; and both theſe obeyed, or gave up themſelves to falſhood; the Gentiles, by changing the truth of God into a lye, Chap. 1. 25. The Jews, by adhering to their vain Traditions, which made void the Commands of God, and owning them as derived from Moſes, when they were only the Doctrines of Men.

Ver. 9. Tribulation and anguiſh (I ſay) ſhall be upon every ſoul that worketh evil, upon the Jew firſt (as being under greater Light, as having the Goſpel firſt preached to them, Acts 13. 46. and to whom Chriſt was firſt and in Perſon ſent, Acts 3. 26. And alſo upon the Gentile, (for though God winked at the times of their former Ignorance, Acts 17. 30. yet now he hath revealed his wrath from Heaven againſt all unrighteouſneſs, Chap. 1. 17. they muſt expect his juſt diſpleaſure who turn not from it to the way of Truth, as the Goſpel is called, 2 Pet. 2. 2.)

Ver. 10. But glory, honour, and peace ſhall be to every man that worketh good, to the Jew firſt, (as being the Church of God, and to whom the Promiſes of the Meſſiah chiefly did belong, Rom. 9. 4.) And alſo to the (believing) Gentile, (they being by Faith Abraham's Seed, and Heirs according to the Promiſe, Gal. 3. 29.)

Ver. 11. (I ſay, to the Gentiles alſo,) for there is no reſpect of Perſons with God.

ὁ προσωποληψία, no reſpect of Perſons.] i. e. He is not one who will connive at Men doing wickedly, becauſe they are Jews, whilſt he puniſheth the like Wickedneſs in the Gentiles, or afford Juſtification and Salvation to the Jew believing, and working that which is Good, and not to the believing and obedient Gentile, Rom. 3. 29, 30.

Ver. 12. Tribulation and anguiſh (I ſay, ſhall be) on every ſoul that worketh evil, (whether Jew or Gentile,) for as many as have ſinned without the (written) Law, (which is the caſe of the Gentiles,) ſhall alſo periſh without (that) Law, (being condemned by the Law written in their hearts;) and as many as have ſinned in (or under) the Law, (which is the caſe of the Jews,) ſhall be judged (and condemned for their evil deeds) by the Law.

Ver. 13. For (know this, oh thou Jew, that) not the hearers (only) of the Law, are (upon that account) juſt before God, but the doers of it (only) ſhall be juſtified, (i. e. accepted of God, as acting ſuitably to their Profeſſion.)

Οὐ οἱ ἀκροαταὶ τῷ νόμῳ, not the hearers of the Law.] The Jewiſh Religion was very much corrupted at our Saviour's coming, ſo that they thought it ſufficient to obtain God's Favour, and to ſecure them from his Judgments; 1. That they were of the Seed of Abraham: And hence the Baptiſt ſpeaks thus to them, Bring forth fruits meet for Repentance, and (think it not ſufficient to) ſay within your ſelves, we have Abraham for our Father, Mat. 3. 8, 9. The Chaldee Paraphraſts do often mention their expectation of being preſerved for the Merits, or Good Works of their forefathers, Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob; and their Writers add, that (d) Hell-fire hath no power over the Sinners of Iſrael, becauſe Abraham and Iſaac deſcend thither to fetch them thence. 2. They held that Circumciſion was of ſufficient Vertue to render them accepted of God, and to preſerve them from Eternal Ruin; for they Teach, That (e) no circumciſed Perſon goes to Hell, God having promiſed to deliver them בזכות המילה for the Merit of Circumciſion, and having told Abraham, that when his Children fell into Tranſgreſſion, and did wicked Works, he would remember the odour of their fore-skins, and would be ſatisfied with their Piety. And, 3. They taught, that all (f) Iſraelites had a Portion in the World to come, and that notwithſtanding their Sins, yea, though they were condemned here for their Wickedneſs; this is the firſt Sentence in the Capitula Patrum. Whereas of all the Gentiles, without exception, they pronounce (g) that they are fuel for Hell-fire. 4. They teach, that to be employed in hearing, and ſtudying the Law, was a thing ſufficient to make them acceptable with God. To this St. James ſeems to refer in theſe words, And be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving your own ſouls, James 1. 22. Now moſt of theſe vain Opinions the Apoſtle in this Chapter, and throughout the Epiſtle, labours to confute. The firſt Chap. v. 9. the ſecond here, v. 25. the third, from v. 2. to the 9th. and the fourth, in this verſe.

Ver. 14. (And ſay not, that the Gentiles therefore cannot be juſtified, or accepted with God, becauſe they having not the Law, cannot be doers of it,) for when the Gentiles, who have not the Law (of Moſes) do by nature the things contained in the (Moral) Law, they having not the (written) Law, are a Law (a Rule of living) to themſelves.

Ver. 15. (Doing thoſe things) which ſhew the work of the Law written in their hearts, their Conſcience alſo bearing Witneſs (to it,) and their thoughts mean-while, (or their Reaſonings with themſelves) accuſing, or elſe excuſing one another, (and ſo the uncircumciſion keeping the Righteouſneſs of the Law, and fulfilling the Law, ſhall be by God accounted for Circumciſion, and be as acceptable to him as the circumciſed, v. 26, 27.)

Ὅταν γὰρ ἔθνη, for when the Gentiles.] Moſt Interpreters underſtand this of the believing Gentile, the Righteouſneſs of the Law being fulfilled in them only, who walk not after the Fleſh, but after the Spirit, Rom. 8. 4. And he being only the inward Jew, who hath the Circumciſion of the Heart in the Sprit, v. 29. But all the Ancient Commentators interpret theſe laſt ſix Verſes not indeed of the Idolatrous Gentiles, but of ſuch Gentiles as lived before the Law, as Melchiſedeck and Job; or were worſhippers of the True God, as Cornelius; or repented, as the Ninevites. Theſe Examples, ſaith Chryſoſtom, he ſets before the Jews, as being ſuch as they could not contradict: And in his Comment on the 15th. Verſe he makes this Inference from the words: (h) By theſe things he ſhews that God made Man ſufficient of himſelf to chuſe Vertue, and avoid Vice; adding, that this was neceſſary to be ſaid to ſtop the Mouths of them who enquired πῦ τὸν ἔμπροσθεν χρόνον τὰ τῆς τοσαύτης προνοίας ἦν, where were the foot-ſteps of ſuch a Providence in former times? This the Apoſtle ſeems plainly to inſinuate by arguing that God did, and will accept the Gentile, living according to the Law written in his Heart, and therefore owning him as the True God, and honouring or glorifying him as God, who made the Heaven and the Earth, becauſe he is no reſpecter of Perſons. This ſeems the obvious meaning of thoſe words of St. Peter, in the caſe of Cornelius and all his Friends, Of a truth I perceive that God is no reſpecter of Perſons, (i. e. He affects them not barely becauſe they are circumciſed, or of ſuch a Nation,) but in every Nation he that feareth him, and worketh Righteouſneſs, is acceptable to him, Acts 10. 34, 35. ſuppoſing that there might be ſuch in every Nation. And the Argument of Origen ſeems here conſiderable: That (i) if God condemned the Gentiles becauſe they held the Truth in unrighteouſneſs, and when they knew God, did not glorifie him as God, neither were thankful; it ſeems reaſonable to conceive, that had they done what they culpably neglected, and might have done; i. e. had they glorified him as God, and been thankful, they would have done what had been acceptable to God, and fit to be rewarded by his Goodneſs; had they held the Truth in Righteouſneſs, and abſtain'd from thoſe Actions for which their Conſcience did accuſe them, and for which they knew they were worthy of Death, as they who were inexcuſable for doing of them, might have done, they would have eſcaped the Wrath of God revealed from Heaven againſt all unrighteouſneſs. But then theſe things may here be offered to Conſideration.

1. That this Acceptance may not reach ſo far, as to render them under the ſame Privileges and Favours with his Church and People, but if they live in ſuch Times and Places where an exacter Knowledge of his Will might be obtained, it may induce his Providence to find out means of imparting that alſo to them, as in the caſe of Cornelius, and his Friends, who was told things by which he and his Houſe ſhould be ſaved, Acts 11. 14.

2. That though God may, and will reward ſuch honeſt Heathens, becauſe otherwiſe they could have no encouragement to own, or ſerve him as their God, ſince He that cometh to God, ſaith the Apoſtle, muſt believe that he is a rewarder of them that diligently ſeek him, Heb. 11. 6. Yet is he not obliged to give them the Glorious Reward which he hath promiſed to the Chriſtian; for this being not due to their Works, they could not from the Light of Nature be aſſured of it; and it being ſo peculiarly aſſigned to Faith in Chriſt, both affirmatively and negatively, when the Apoſtle ſaith, God hath given us eternal life, and that life is in his Son. He that hath the Son, hath life, and he that hath not the Son, hath not life. This is life eternal, that they know thee the only true God, and Jeſus Chriſt whom thou haſt ſent. This is the true God, and eternal life. It cannot well be ſaid to belong to any other, and therefore (k) Origen freely grants this, and yet thinks ſuch Perſons may not be utterly deprived of a Reward; eſpecially it ſeems not equitable that they ſhould be deprived of all Reward, purely for want of an impoſſible Condition; i. e. becauſe they believed not in him, of whom they had not, and very often could not have heard. It may be added,

3. That if any of them did arrive to ſuch a ſtate, as made them indeed to fear God, and work Righteouſneſs, they did this not meerly by the ſtrength of Natural Light, for though ſome of them ſeem to ſay, that Nature, or (l) Philoſophy was a ſufficient Guide to Vertue, yet that they meant not this excluſively of the Divine Aſſiſtance, which they ſaw neceſſary to preſerve them againſt the Infirmities of Humane Nature, their own (m) words do fully teſtifie. And if God owned any of them as truly Righteous, it was by vertue of their Faith in God, i. e. that Faith by which they believed he was a rewarder of them that diligently ſeek him; which being as to kind the ſame with that which the Apoſtle ſo highly commends, Heb. 11. even the expectation of things hoped for, the evidence of things not ſeen, when it produced in them a ſincere endeavour to ſerve and pleaſe him according to the Light of Nature, and cleave to their Duty, though they might ſuffer for it in this World, might be imputed unto them for Righteouſneſs. I conclude theſe Conjectures with Origen on the ſame Place, Sed tamen in arbitrio legentis eſt probare quæ dicta ſunt, vel non.

Ver. 16. (And theſe Rewards and Puniſhments will be diſtributed to Jew and Gentile) in the day when God ſhall judge the ſecrets of men(s hearts) by Jeſus Chriſt, according to my Goſpel, (or as my Goſpel teſtifies he will, for the Heathens are not to be judged according to the tenor of the Goſpel, but according to the Light of Nature, v. 12.)

Ver. 17. Behold (thou who glorieſt in this, that) thou art called a Jew (one of that Nation which God hath known above all the Families of the Earth, Amos 3. 2. to whom pertaineth the Adoption, and the Covenants, Chap. 9. 4.) and reſteſt in (the outward performances of) the Law, and makeſt thy boaſt of God (as the Author and Patron of thy Religion, and thy God in Covenant.)

Σὺ Ἰουδαῖος ἐπονομάζῃ, thou art called a Jew.] The Apoſtle doth not here begin to ſpeak to the Jew, but to prove farther, and illuſtrate what he had ſaid before, as is evident from the words ἴδε σὺ, behold thou (to whom I ſpeak) art called a Jew; he therefore may be ſuppoſed to ſpeak this farther to convince him that he, doing the ſame things, ſhall not eſcape the Judgment of God; and that the hearing of the Law he doth not practice, will be ſo far from juſtifying him before God, that 'twill add to his Condemnation.

Ver. 18. And (that thou) knoweſt his will, and approveſt the things that are moſt excellent, being inſtructed out of the Law concerning them.

Ver. 20. An inſtructor of the fooliſh, a teacher of Babes, which haſt the form of Knowledge, and of the Truth in the Law (i. e. a Scheme or Draught of the affirmative Precepts of the Law, which inſtruct thee what to do, and of the negative Precepts, which teach thee what to leave undone.)

Ἀφρόνων, of the fooliſh.] The Fooliſh, and the Babes, ſeem to be here the Proſelytes to the Jewiſh Law, whom they accounted as Infants new born.

Ver. 21. Thou therefore which teacheſt another, (i. e. who undertakeſt to be a Guide unto, and Teacher of the Gentiles,) teacheſt thou not thy ſelf? (to practice thine own Leſſons.) Thou that preacheſt (or proclaimeſt) a man ſhould not ſteal, doeſt thou ſteal? (and ſo condemneſt thy ſelf out of thine own mouth.)

Ὁ οὖν διδάσκων ἕτερον, thou that teacheſt another.] This Verſe may be illuſtrated out of the Jewiſh Writings: For they ſay, That (*) He who teacheth others what he doth not himſelf, is like a blind Man who hath a Candle in his hand to give light to others, whilſt he himſelf doth walk in darkneſs. So appoſite is the firſt Queſtion to convince thoſe Jews who pretended to be Guides and Lights to the blind Gentiles, that they themſelves were blind. And again, How can a Wiſe Man ſay in the Congregation, thou ſhalt not ſteal, when he ſteals? Whence it appears that in their own account this was ſufficient to cut off their pretence to Wiſdom.

Ver. 22. Thou that ſayeſt a man ſhould not commit Adultery, doeſt thou commit Adultery? Thou that abhorreſt Idols, doeſt thou commit Sacrilege?

Ὁ λέγων μὴ μοιχεύειν, thou that ſayeſt a man ſhould not commit Adultery, &c.] Of all theſe things the Jewiſh Doctors were notoriouſly Guilty, and of moſt of them they were accuſed by our Lord. As v. g. firſt, that they ſaid, and did not; that they laid heavy burthens upon others, which they would not touch with their own fingers, Mat. 23. 3, 4. That they made his Father's houſe a den of Thieves, Mat. 21. 13. John 2. 16. That they were guilty of Adultery by their unjuſt Divorces, Mat. 19. 9. And their Poligamy ſo ſhameful, that they would Proclaim in any Place where they came, (n) Quæ nam erit mihi uxor in diem, Who will be my Wife for this day, or while I ſtay in this Place? And ſurely ſuch a Wife was little better than a Whore. Hence (o) Juſtin Martyr tells the Jews, That whereever they travelled, or came, they did, with the permiſſion of their Rabbins, ὑπὸμεν γάμε γυναῖκας ἄγεσθαι, take Women, and uſe them as their Wives, under pretence of Marriage. And the Theft, and Merchandiſe of which they are accuſed, Mat. 21. and John 2. being about Holy things, may be well alſo ſtyled Sacrilege; though of this they being accuſed in the times of the Prophet Malachy, doubtleſs they were more guilty of it in theſe worſt of times. Accordingly (p) Joſephus doth pronounce them Guilty, not only of Theft, Treachery, Adultery, Sacrilege, but of Rapins, and Murthers, and new ways of Wickedneſs invented by them, of all which the Temple was made the receptacle.

Note alſo, from thoſe words, thou that abhorreſt Idols, the miſtake of thoſe who think the Gnoſticks are here referr'd to, they being ſo far from abhorring Idols, that (q) Irenæus informs us, they had their Images, they worſhipped Idols without fear, and went firſt to the Feaſts celebrated in the Idol Temples. (r) Origen alſo aſſures us, that he taught his Diſciples to count Idolatry as a thing indifferent.

Ver. 23. Thou that makeſt thy boaſt of (thy skill in) the Law, through breaking the Law (in thoſe inſtances which the Conſcience of the very Heathen doth condemn) diſhonoureſt thou (the Name of) God (among the Gentiles?)

Ver. 24. For the name of God is blaſphemed among the Gentiles through you (Jews pretending to be ſo dear to God, and ſo great Favourites of Heaven, and yet living ſo licentiouſly as you do, and ſo it hath happened to you according) as it is written (of you, Iſa. 52. 5. Ezek. 36. 23.)

Βλασφημεῖται ἐν τοῖς ἔθνεσιν, is blaſphemed among the Gentiles.] Of this (ſ) Joſephus doth frequently accuſe them, ſaying, What Wickedneſs do you conceal or hide, which is not known to your Enemies? You Triumph in your Wickedneſs, ſtrive daily who ſhall be moſt vile, making a ſhew of your Wickedneſs, as if if it were Vertue. And thinkeſt thou this, O Man, that thou ſhalt eſcape the Judgment of God, who puniſheth the Gentiles, when thou art as guilty as they of acting againſt thy Conſcience, and doing that for which thine own Mouth condemns thee; or which is as bad as that which thou condemneſt in them, and which doth alſo cauſe them to blaſpheme that Holy Name by which thou art called? Surely after theſe things ſo ſcandalouſly done, 'twill be of no Advantage to thee that thou art called a Jew, or haſt received the Sign of Circumciſion.

Ver. 25. For Circumciſion verily profiteth if thou keep the Law (as Circumciſion obligeth thee to do, Gal. 5. 2.) but if thou art (ſtill) a breaker of the Law, thy Circumciſion is made (of no more advantage to free thee from God's condemnation than) uncircumciſion.

Having thus proved that the Sins of the Jews muſt render them obnoxious to the Divine Wrath, as well as thoſe of the Gentiles, he proceeds to prove what he had ſaid, v. 7. and 10*th.* That the Righteouſneſs of the circumciſed Gentile muſt alſo render him acceptable to God, and rewardable by him, as well as the Righteouſneſs of the Jew.

Ver. 26. Therefore (on the other ſide) if the uncircumciſion (i. e. the Gentile, though uncircumciſed) keep the Righteouſneſs of the Law, ſhall not his uncircumciſion be accounted for Circumciſion? (i. e. ſhall he not be as acceptable to God, as if he had been circumciſed?)

Τὰ δικαιώματα τῦ νόμε, the Righteouſneſſes, or Ordinances of the Law.] The word δικαίωμα is uſed ſometimes for the Divine Judgments, which being always done in Equity, and according to the deſerts of Men, are fitly called δικαιώματα, or righteous judgments, Rom. 1. 32. Rev. 15. 4. And ſometimes it relates to the Ceremonial Inſtitutions, which God thought for a ſeaſon fit to preſcribe to the Jews, and then it ſeems to be beſt rendred Ordinances, as Heb. 9. 1, 10. And ſometimes to the Moral

Precepts

Precepts of the Law, as when the Apoſtle ſaith, τὸ δικαίωμα τῦ νόμυ, the Righteouſneſs of the Law is fulfilled in us, who walk not after the Fleſh, but after the Spirit, which ſeems to be the ſenſe of the Phraſe here.

Ver. 27. And ſhall not (the) uncircumciſion which is by nature, (i. e. the Gentile, who continues uncircumciſed as he was by Nature,) if it fulfil the Law, judge (and condemn) thee, who by the letter (i. e. having the letter of the Law) and Circumciſion, doeſt tranſgreſs the Law.

Ἡ ἐκ φύσεως ἀκροβυστία, the uncircumciſion which is by Nature.] Moſt Interpreters think that the Apoſtle ſpeaks in theſe two Verſes of the believing Gentile, and only doth deſign to prove againſt the Jew, that his want of Circumciſion, if he be a doer of Righteouſneſs, will not hinder his acceptance with God, 1 Cor. 7. 19. Gal. 5. 6. & 6. 15. and that becauſe this Righteouſneſs of the Law is ſaid to be fulfilled by them who walk according to the Spirit, Chap. 8. 4. i. e. by them who are in Chriſt Jeſus, v. 1. But Grotius and Oecumenius ſeem to Interpret this of the Heathens, ſuch as the Centurions in the Goſpel were, becauſe the Condemnation of the Jew ſeems to ariſe from this, that he who had the Letter of the Law, did not that which they who were without it, did.

Ver. 28. For he is not (in God's account) a Jew (i. e. one beloved of him) who is one (only) outwardly (by profeſſion,) neither is that (valued by him as true) Circumciſion which is outward in the fleſh (only.)

Ver. 28. But he is a Jew (in God's eſteem) who is one inwardly (by the purification of his heart from inward filth, and evil diſpoſitions and affections,) and (the) Circumciſion (valued by him) is that of the heart in the ſpirit (wrought in us by the Spirit) and not in (or by) the letter, whoſe praiſe is not of men, (who are not able to diſcern it,) but of God, (who is the ſearcher of the heart.)

CHAP. III.

Verſe 1. (BUT you will ſay, if the uncircumciſed Perſon, keeping the Righteouſneſs of the Law, is to be reckon'd as circumciſed, Chap. 2. 26. And if the inward Circumciſion be that alone which is acceptable to God, v. 28, 29.) what advantage then hath the Jew (above the Gentile) or what profit is there of (the) Circumciſion (above uncircumciſion?)

Ver. 2. (I anſwer,) much every way, (Chap. 9. 4. but) chiefly becauſe that unto them were committed the Oracles of God, (in which the Covenants and Promiſes made to them, and chiefly that of the Meſſiah, and of Juſtification by Faith in him, were contain'd.)

Ver. 3. (Which Oracles muſt be made good, notwithſtanding their infidelity,) for what if ſome of them (to whom theſe Oracles, and the Promiſe of a Meſſiah, or a Seed in whom the Nations of the Earth ſhould be bleſſed were committed,) did not believe (in the promiſed Seed,) ſhall their unbelief make the Faith (or Fidelity) of God (in making this Promiſe to Abraham) of none effect?

Ver. 4. God forbid (that ſuch a thought ſhould enter into our hearts,) yea, (Gr. but, on the contrary) let God be (acknowledged) true (and faithful to his word) but every man a lyar, (i. e. though all Men ſhould prove Lyars) as it is written, (Pſal. 51. 4.) That thou mayeſt be juſtified in thy ſayings, (or mayſt appear juſt and faithful in performing them) and clear when thou art judged (i. e. when thou judgeſt and contendeſt with Man.)

Ὅπως ἂν δικαιωθῇς, that thou mayeſt be juſtified.] Theſe words are a confeſſion of King David, that how ſeverely ſoever God ſhould deal with him for his Sin, he could not accuſe him of too much rigor, but muſt juſtifie him in his proceedings, and clear him from all imputations of Injuſtice; and ſo they cannot be here brought to prove, as Eſthius imagines, that notwithſtanding our Sins, God will be faithful to his Promiſes, but thus, though God ſhould reject the Jews for their Infidelity, they would have no reaſon to complain of his Severity, or charge him with Injuſtice, or unfaithfulneſs on that account, they having forfeited their Right to be the Seed of Abraham, the Father of the Faithful, by their Infidelity, and the Gentiles, by imitating his Faith, being now become his Children.

Ἐν τῷ κρίνεσθαί σε, Hebr. בשפטך when thou judgeſt.] Or contendeſt with any Man, or entereſt into Judgment with him, or indicteſt, or accuſeſt him of Sin; ſo the word is very often uſed in the Old and New Teſtament. So Job 13. 19. τίς ὅστις ὁ κριθησόμενός μοι, who is he that will contend with me? Eſa. 43. 26. Put me in remembrance, καὶ κριθῶμεν, and let us plead together. Eſa. 66. 16. ἐν πυρὶ κριθήσεται ὁ κύριος, by fire will the Lord plead with all fleſh. Mat. 5. 40. θέλοντι σοι κριθῆναι, to him that will contend with thee. 1 Cor. 6. 1. τολμᾷ τις κρίνεσθαι, dares any one contend before the unjuſt? See Note on 1 Pet. 4. 6.

Ver. 5. But if our unrighteouſneſs commends (illuſtrates and eſtabliſhes) the righteouſneſs of God, (that way of Juſtification by Faith which he alone approves of) what ſhall we ſay? is God unrighteous, who taketh vengeance? (on Jew and Gentile for theſe Sins which thus commend his Righteouſneſs, and ſhew the Wiſdom and Grace of God in admitting this way of our Juſtification.) I ſpeak as a man (i. e. as an Heathen, or an Unbeliever would be apt to conclude from our Doctrine of Juſtification by Faith.)

Δικαιοσύνη θεοῦ, the Righteouſneſs of God.] That this Phraſe in the Epiſtles doth always ſignifie the Righteouſneſs of Faith, or our Juſtification through Faith in Chriſt, hath been ſhewed Note on Rom. 1.17. and on 2 Cor. 5. 21. and this ſeems to eſtabliſh the Expoſition given in the Paraphraſe.

Τί ἐροῦμεν; μὴ ἄδικος ὁ θεὸς ὁ ἐπιφέρων τὴν ὀργήν, what ſhall we ſay, is God unrighteous, who taketh vengeance?] The Apoſtle had laid down the Propoſition, which is the Foundation of this Diſcourſe, and of the whole Epiſtle, in theſe words: The Goſpel is the power of God to the Salvation of every one that believeth, Jew or Gentile, for therein is revealed the Righteouſneſs of God by Faith, to beget Faith in both. The neceſſity of this Faith he ſhews, 1. With reſpect to the Gentile, becauſe they being unrighteous, could not otherwiſe be juſtified before God, or eſcape his Wrath revealed againſt all unrighteouſneſs, by any other way than that of Faith; and this Proof he concludes Chapter the firſt. In the ſecond Chapter he ſhews the ſame touching the Jews, by reaſon of their unrighteouſneſs, and therefore ſaith here, v. 9. We have before proved both Jews and Gentiles to be under ſin. Now this moſt plainly ſerves to commend and eſtabliſh this way of Righteouſneſs by Faith in Chriſt, from the neceſſity of it, to the Juſtification both of Jew and Gentile. This then muſt be the import of the Objection, if the unrighteouſneſs both of Jew and Gentile tends ſo viſibly to illuſtrate and recommend the Wiſdom, and the Grace or Favour of God in appointing this way of Juſtification by Faith in Chriſt, is it righteous in God to puniſh both Jew and Gentile, as you ſay he did, Chap. 1. 24, 26, 32. and will do, Chap. 1. 18. Chap. 2. 2, 4, 5, 6, 8, 9. for that unrighteouſneſs that tends ſo highly to the glory of the Goſpel-Grace?

Κατ' ἄνθρωπον λέγω, I ſpeak as a man.] i. e. As a meer Natural Man, not acquainted with the revealed Will of God, or not acted by his Spirit, ſo Chryſoſtom and Oecumenius, I ſpeak κατ' ἀνθρώπινον λογισμὸν, according to Humane Reaſon, οὐ γὰρ ἐγὼ ταῦτα λέγω, ἀλλὰ τῶν ἄλλων τέθεικα λογισμούς: For it is not I that ſay theſe things, but I propoſe the Reaſonings of others. That this is the conſtant import of the Phraſe. See Note on 1 Cor. 9. 8. 15. 32.

Ver. 6. (For) God forbid (that I ſhould have a thought that God can be unrighteous) for how then ſhall God judge the World (for their unrighteouſneſs?)

Ver. 7. (I ſpeak, I ſay, their ſenſe) for (ſay they) if the Truth of God hath more abounded to his glory through my lye, (if the Truth of his Promiſe to juſtifie the Gentile through Faith in Chriſt hath appeared more illuſtriouſly to the Glory of his Grace through my Idolatry, and changing his Truth into a Lye) why am I alſo judged as a ſinner (as well as the Jew?)

Ἐν τῷ ἐμῷ ψεύσματι, by my Lye.] The Idols of the Heathen are called lying vanities, Pſal. 31. 7. Jonah 2. 8. numina falſa, the makers of them are ſaid to frame שֶׁקֶר a lye, Jer. 10. 14. and to have, and frame a lye with their Right Hand, Eſa. 44. 20. They who worſhip them, are ſaid to turn aſide to lyes, Pſal. 40. 5. and to hearken to a Teacher of lyes, Hab. 2. 18. and to turn the Truth of God into a lye, Rom. 1. 25. Hence are the Heathen introduc'd making this Confeſſion, Surely our Fathers did inherit Lyes, ὡς ψευδῆ ἐκτήσαντο οἱ πατέρες ἡμῶν εἴδωλα, Jer. 16. 19. Now this being the very Argument by which the Apoſtle in the firſt Chapter proves the Gentiles to be Sinners, worthy of Condemnation, and ſo uncapable of Juſtification by any other way than that of Faith, this may reaſonably be ſuppos'd to be the thing referr'd to in this Verſe; their Argument goes on thus.

Ver. 8. And (why will it) not rather (follow) ὅτι ποιήσωμεν, that we ſhould do evil that good may come, (or that God may be glorified) as we be ſlanderouſly reported, and as ſome affirm, that (in effect) we ſay (by aſſerting the Doctrine of Juſtification by Faith, which yet we are ſo far from ſaying, that we declare them who do ſo, men) whoſe damnation is juſt.

Ὧν τὸ κρίμα ἔνδικόν ἐστι, whoſe Damnation is juſt.] They by thus objecting againſt that Diſpenſation of Divine Grace and Wiſdom, which they ſhould thankfully embrace, and accept, and without which they cannot be juſtified; and ſo rejecting it as abſurd in their Imaginations, rendring it juſt that they ſhould ſtill lie under the guilt of Sin, and under the wrath of God for it.

Ver. 9. What then, (or wherefore) are we better than they? (do we Jews excel the Gentiles) no, in no wiſe, (οὐ πάντως, not altogether) for we have before proved (touching) both Jews (Chaper the 2d.) and Gentiles, (Chapter the firſt) that they are all under ſin, (and ſo all ſtand equally in need of Juſtification by Faith.)

Οὐ πάντως, that theſe words may be rendred not altogether, as well as οὐ πάντες is rendred not all, 2 Theſſ. 3. 2. Heb. 3. 16. 1 John 2. 19. we learn from Oecumenius, who Paraphraſes them, οὐκ ἐν παντὶ τρόπῳ, not in every kind, and then the context will plainly force this rendring, as being that which anſwers to the following Reaſon, the words bearing this ſenſe: We do indeed excel them, in having the Promiſe of a Meſſiah, and the Salvation tendred by him, firſt made to us, Chap. 2. 10. In having the knowledge of the Law, v. 17. and and the Oracles of God committed to us, Chap. 3. 2. But we do not wholly, or in all things excel them, becauſe not in the matter of Juſtification by Faith, which Jew and Gentile equally ſtand in need of.

Ver. 10. (The Jews, I ſay, as well as the Gentiles) as it is written (of them) there is none righteous, no, not one.

Ver. 11. There is none that underſtandeth, there is none that ſeeketh after God.

Ver. 12. They are all gone out of the way, they are altogether become unprofitable, there is none that doeth good, no, not one.

Ver. 13. Their throat is an open Sepulchre, with their tongues they have uſed deceit, the poiſon of Aſps is under their lips, (they are Men.)

Ver. 14. Whoſe mouth is full of curſing and bitterneſs.

Ver. 15. Their feet are ſwift to ſhed blood.

Ver. 16. Deſtruction and miſery are in their way.

Ver. 17. And the way of peace have they not known.

Ver. 18. There is no fear of God before their eyes.

Ver. 19. (Which words of the Pſalmiſt may juſtly be apply'd to them,) for we know that what things ſoever the Law ſaith (not applying the words to any others,) it ſaith to them that are under the Law, that (not only the mouths of the Gentiles, but) every mouth may be ſtopped, and all the World may become guilty before God.

Καθὼς γέγραπται, as it is written.] Theſe words are cited from the 14*th. Pſalm*, according to the Edition of the Septuagint; but I do not conceive it neceſſary to make good the Apoſtle's words or Argument, that they ſhould be ſpoken of the Jews of that Age in general, eſpecially ſeeing they are there ſaid to have devoured God's People, and to have ſham'd the counſel of the poor. It is enough, 1. That they ſhould generally agree to the Jews of the Age in which the Apoſtle writ, as both the Scriptures of the New Teſtament, and the Writings of Joſephus fully teſtifie they do. And, 2. That the Law condemning any for theſe Crimes, muſt more eſpecially condemn thoſe under the Law, who at any time are guilty of Crimes thus noted and condemn'd by the Law: And with this concluſion of the Apoſtle the Jews themſelves accord, ſaying, (a) There is not a Man who is not obnoxious to God, (or might not juſtly be condemn'd by him) were it not for his Mercy and Clemency. Moreover, it is farther to be noted, that in the cloſe of the Pſalm there ſeems to be a Prayer for the Redemption of the Jews by the Meſſiah, in thoſe words, Oh that the Salvation of Iſrael were come out of Zion, v. 7. The Deliverer that was to come out of Zion, being the Meſſiah, as we learn from Iſaiah, Chap. 59. 20. and from this Apoſtle, Chap. 11. 26. Note, 2dly, That according to the Doctrine of the Jews, their Meſſiah was to come in thoſe times when the Jewiſh Nation was moſt corrupt, and ſo moſt reſembled the Deſcription here alledged. See the Note on Philip. 3. 1.

Ver. 20. Therefore by the deeds of the Law there ſhall no fleſh be juſtified in his ſight, for by the Law is the knowledge of (that) ſin (which rendreth us obnoxious to condemnation.)

Ἐπίγνωσις ἁμαρτίας, the knowledge of ſin.] This knowledge of ſin being chiefly by the Moral Law, Chap. 7. 7. ſhews that the Apoſtle excludes as well that, as the Ceremonial Law from Juſtification; and evident it is that the Antitheſis runs all along not between Ceremonial and Moral Works, but between Works in general, and Faith, v. 20, 22. the Law of Works and Faith, v. 27. Chap. 4, 2. 6. & 9. 32. & 10. 5, 6.

Ver. 21. But now (in the diſpenſation of the Goſpel) the Righteouſneſs of God without (performing the works of) the Law is manifeſted (to the World,) being witneſſed (i. e. atteſted to) by the Law (giving us the knowledge of ſin, v. 20.) and by the Prophets (declaring that the juſt ſhall live by Faith.)

Ver. 22. Even the Righteouſneſs of God which is by Faith in Jeſus Chriſt to all, and upon all that believe, for (as to the way of Juſtification) there is no difference (betwixt Jew and Gentile.)

Ver. 23. For all have ſinned, and ſo come ſhort of (attaining) the glory of God (without a free act of Juſtification by Grace.)

Ver. 24. Being juſtified (i. e. abſolved from the guilt and condemnation due to us for our paſt ſins) freely by his grace, through the redemption that is in Jeſus Chriſt.

Ver. 25. Whom God hath ſet forth (or propoſed) to be a Propitiation (a Propitiatory, or a Mercy-ſeat) through Faith in his Blood, to declare his Righteouſneſs (i. e. the way of Juſtification by Faith, which God alone admits of) for the remiſſion of ſins that are paſt through the forbearance of God, (not imputing their Treſpaſſes to them who believe in him, 2 Cor. 5. 19.)

(a) Cart. Mellif. p. 3012.

Τῶν

Τῶν πεπραγμένων ἁμαρτημάτων, of ſins that are paſt.] For in this only conſiſts our firſt Juſtification, which is by Faith alone; the remiſſion of our future ſins committed againſt the New Covenant, eſtabliſhed in the Blood of Jeſus, being to be remitted, if they be wilful ſins, which only violate the Covenant of Grace, by a ſincere, and a particular Repentance for them, which brings us again under that Covenant, and ſo under the Promiſe of Forgiveneſs through the Blood of Jeſus; the ἱλαστήριον, or Mercy-ſeat, was ſo called, becauſe God there ſhewed himſelf propitious by reaſon of the Blood of the Sacrifice ſprinkled before it; the Apoſtle therefore, in alluſion to it, ſaith, that God hath ſet forth Chriſt to be his Mercy-ſeat, (i. e.) the Perſon through whom he will be propitious to us through Faith in his Blood, ſtyled the Blood of ſprinkling, Heb. 12. 24. and preſented before him in the Heavens.

Ver. 26. (I ſay, God hath now propoſed him as our Propitiatory) to declare at this time his Righteouſneſs (or the way of Juſtification he allows of) that he (by juſtifying us only through the redemption that is in Chriſt Jeſus) might (appear to) be juſt (in requiring this ſatisfaction for our ſins) and yet the juſtifier of them that believe in Jeſus.

Ἱλαστήριον, to be a Propitiation.] In the Old Teſtament we find the Mercy-ſeat ſtill ſtyled ἱλαστήριον, becauſe it was the Place where God promiſed to be propitious to them, and where the High-Prieſt made Atonement for himſelf, and all the Congregation, by ſprinkling the Blood of the Sin-Offering before the Mercy-ſeat. When therefore the Apoſtle ſaith, that God hath ſet forth Jeſus Chriſt to be a Mercy-ſeat to us through Faith in his Blood, we have reaſon to believe the Blood of Chriſt, as our Sin-offering, doth make Atonement for, and render God propitious to us. And as under the Old Teſtament they who deſired to have God propitious to them, were to come with the Blood of their Sin-Offering to the Mercy-ſeat; ſo under the Goſpel-diſpenſation, they muſt expect to find God propitious to them through the Blood of Chriſt their Mercy-ſeat, by whom they coming to God as the Jews did by appearing before his Mercy-ſeat, ſhould find him gracious in pardoning their Iniquities through the Redemption that is in Jeſus; whence I argue againſt the Socinians for our Lord's ſatisfaction thus. What is it that we do obtain by this Redemption? It is, ſaith the Apoſtle, remiſſion of ſins. What is it that procures this Remiſſion? It is the Blood of Chriſt, for we have redemption through his blood, even the remiſſion of ſins, Eph. 1. 7. Col. 1. 14. It is the Death of Chriſt, Heb. 9. Since then, by the Confeſſion of Sclichtingius upon the Place, our Lord is mention'd here as a Piacular Victim, and ſeeing it is certain thoſe Victims ſtill ſuffer'd in the Sinners ſtead, and that whenſoever in the Old Teſtament mention is made of the Remiſſion of Sins, the Blood of theſe Sacrifices was the thing that made Atonement for them, Remiſſion of Sins was the thing purchaſed by that Blood: Have we not reaſon from what is here ſaid of Chriſt our Piacular Victim, to conceive he ſuffer'd in our ſtead, and that his Blood ſhed for us procur'd the Remiſſion of our Sins, as it aton'd an offended God for our Tranſgreſſions?

Εἰς τὸ εἶναι αὐτὸν δίκαιον, that he might be juſt.] The Reverend Dr. Hammond ſaith, the word δίκαιος is here to be rendred clement and merciful, and that 'tis commonly taken in that Notion, and ſeldom in that of Vindictive Juſtice; but in oppoſition to this, I aſſert, that the word δίκαιος is uſed about Eighty times in the New Teſtament, and not once in that ſenſe of Clemency and Mercy, in which he ſaith 'tis commoly taken; he himſelf produces but one Place, viz. Mat. 1. 19. Joſeph being a juſt man, and not willing to make Mary a publick Example, was minded to put her away privily; where, ſaith Dr. Lightfoot, Men torment the word δίκαιος, to make it ſignific Clement and Merciful, when it bears clearly the ordinary ſenſe, thus: Joſeph being a juſt man, would not cohabit with an Adultereſs, and yet being not willing to make her a publick Example, and no neceſſity, as he there ſhews, lying upon him ſo to do, he was minded to put her away privily. 2. It is in the New Teſtament diſtinguiſh'd from the good and merciful Man; as when Joſeph of Arimathea is ſtiled ἀγαθὸς καὶ δίκαιος, a good man, and a juſt, Luke 23. 50. When the Law is called δίκαια, καὶ ἀγαθὴ, juſt and good, Rom. 7. 12. And when 'tis ſaid, Chap. 5. 7. that ſcarcely ὑπὲρ δικαίου, for a righteous man will one die, though ὑπὲρ ἀγαθοῦ, for a good man one would even dare to die. And, 3*ly*, when it relates to God, as here, it always ſignifies either the equity and congruity of his dealings, as 2 Theſſ. 1. 5, 6. or his faithfulneſs to his word, 1 John 1. 9. Apoc. 15. 3. or his Vindictive Juſtice, as Rev. 16. 5, 6, 7. 19. 2. 2 Tim. 4. 8.

Τὴν δικαιοσύνην, to declare his Righteouſneſs.] This Phraſe, the Righteouſneſs of God, as I have before obſerved, doth always in the Epiſtles ſignifie our Juſtification by Faith in Chriſt, as being the only Righteouſneſs that he approves of, and is here ſtiled, v. 22. the Righteouſneſs of God through Faith: And therefore this Righteouſneſs cannot be demonſtrated as ſome conceive by winking at the Sins committed in former Ages, Acts 17. 30. but by propoſing by the Goſpel the way of remitting mens paſt Sins through Faith in Chriſt, or his non-imputation of them.

Ver. 27. (And if this be the only way of Juſtification, or being Righteous before God,) Where is (there any ground of) boaſting then? It is excluded. By what Law? (that) of Works? Nay, (for he that is juſtified by Works, hath whereof to boaſt) ἔχει καύχημα, Chap. 4. 2.) but by the Law of Faith (only.) Ver.

Ver. 28. Therefore we conclude that a man is juſtified by Faith (alone) without (reſpect to) the deeds of the Law, (given to the Jews, for)

Πίστει, by Faith.] Juſtification from our paſt Sins is by Faith alone, without reſpect to any of our Works. We being juſtified freely by his Grace, v. 23. Not by Works of Righteouſneſs which we have done, but through his mercy he ſaved us, Titus 3. 5. (i. e.) he juſtified us by his Grace, and ſo put us in the way of Salvation.

Ver. 29. Is he the God of the Jews only? Is he not alſo of the Gentiles? (which have not the Law, hath he vouchſafed to them no means of Juſtification or acceptance with him?) Yes, (doubtleſs he is the God) of the Gentiles alſo.

Ver. 30. Seeing it is one God who will juſtifie the Circumciſion by Faith, and (the) uncircumciſion through (the ſame) Faith.

Note, that ſo the Jews ſay, If a Man believe not as he ought, Circumciſion will not make him a Jew; but if he believe as he ought, he is a Jew, though he be not circumciſed. Nitzachon. Sect. 7. Subſ. 21.

Ver. 31. Do we then make void the Law through (this) Faith? (Do we contradict it, or ſay it is an uſeleſs thing, or againſt the Promiſes, Gal. 3. 19, 21.) God forbid (that this ſhould be affirm'd by us.) Nay, we eſtabliſh the Law (by declaring that it gives the knowledge of ſin, v. 20. gives witneſs to this way of Juſtification, v. 21. and ſo ſhews the neceſſity of Faith, and ſo is our School-Maſter to bring us to Chriſt, who is the end of the Law, Rom. 10. 4. Gal. 3. 24.)

CHAP. IV.

Verſe 1. WHat ſhall we ſay then? (Gr. What therefore do we ſay, as ſome of our Nation) that Abraham our Father, as pertaining to the fleſh, hath found? (Gr. hath found Juſtification, and Acceptance with God by vertue of his Circumciſion in the Fleſh?)

Κατὰ σάρκα, according to the fleſh. (i. e.) By vertue of his Obedience to God's Command in Circumciſing the fleſh of his foreskin. So Iſrael κατὰ σάρκα, according to the fleſh, 1 Cor. 10. 18. is Iſrael according to the Circumciſion of the Fleſh. To know Chriſt according to the fleſh, 2 Cor. 5. 16. is to know him according to his Circumciſion, or being of the ſtock of Abraham. To glory κατὰ τὴν σάρκα, according to the fleſh, is to glory in being circumciſed, 2 Cor. 11. 18. In this the Jews had the greateſt confidence of being acceptable to God, and therefore are repreſented by St. Paul as πεποιθότες ἐν σάρκι, having confidence in the fleſh, Philip. 3. 3, 4. declaring that no circumciſed Perſon goes to Hell, God having promiſed to deliver them for the merit of Circumciſion. See the Note on Chap. 2. 13. Moreover that vain Opinion had obtained among the Jews that Abraham was not pure, or accepted with God, till after his Circumciſion; this is hinted in the Targum of B. Uziel, who renders Gen. 17. 1. thus: Walk before me, והוי שלים בבשרך, i. e. and be thou perfect in thy fleſh. But it is in expreſs words aſſerted, Pirk Eliezer, Cap. 29. p. 64. This Opinion the Apoſtle here confutes, and then ver. 11. ſhews what his Circumciſion ſignified. Mr. Cl. interprets this Phraſe thus; according to the fleſh, (i. e.) in the judgment of Man, or according to carnal judgment. But there can be nothing more alien from the mind of Paul than this Interpretation: For the Apoſtle had been before aſſerting, that the Circumciſion acceptable to God was not that made in the Fleſh, Chap. 2. 28. In the beginning of the next Chapter he anſwers the enquiry of the Jews, if it doth not render us more acceptable to God, what then is the benefit of Circumciſion? It hath many other Advantages, ſaith he, but not that of Juſtification before God, that being the reſult of Faith, for it is one (and the ſame) God, who will juſtifie the Circumciſion through Faith, and the uncircumciſion by Faith. What then, ſaith he, do we ſay in this affair? Do we ſay, as the Jews, that Abraham, the Father of the Faithful, found (Juſtification, the thing I now diſcourſe of) κατὰ σάρκα, by that laborious Work of Circumciſion perform'd upon himſelf when he was 99 Years old, and upon all his Family? On which account, ſay the Jews, God ſmelt (a) the ſweet odour of their fore-skins, and ſaid, when they tranſgreſs'd, he would remember this odour, and they ſhould be repleniſh'd with his Mercies. Here is a Rational Account of the connexion and pertinence of the Apoſtle's Argument. But how comes in the Judgment of Men with a τί ἐν, What then do we ſay? When nothing at all had been ſaid of their Judgment, nor was the Apoſtle diſcourſing of Juſtification according to Man's Carnal Judgment. Is not the Apoſtle's Queſtion a ſtrong Negative, importing that Abraham had not found Juſtification according to the Fleſh? Why then doth Mr. Cl. turn it into an Affirmative? He goes on, and ſays, If Abraham was accounted juſt for his Works in the judgment of Men, he hath whereof to glory, he hath καύχημα boaſting, ſaith he, before Men; but is that the καύχημα, or boaſting which the Apoſtle ſaid was excluded not by the Law of Works, but by the Law of Faith, Chap. 3. 27? No ſure; but boaſting before God: This therefore muſt be here repeated, if Abraham were juſtified by Works, (i. e.) the Works of Circumciſion perform'd upon himſelf and his whole Family, he hath whereof to boaſt before God, but he hath not to boaſt before God of any Juſtification of this kind, for what ſaith the Scripture? &c. In fine, κατὰ σάρκα never ſignifies in Scripture the Judgment of Man, but the fleſhly luſtings, deſires, and motions of Men, John 8. 15. to judge according to the fleſh, is to judge ex carnali affectu, from Carnal Affection; and 2 Cor. 1. 17. to purpoſe according to the fleſh, is to do it according to Carnal Principles and Advantages, as to walk after the fleſh, is to be govern'd, and acted by Carnal Principles, Rom. 8. 1, 4, 5, 12, 13. 2 Cor. 10. 2.

Ver. 2. (Surely no) For if Abraham were juſtified by (his own) Works, (i. e. his Obedience to God's Command to Circumciſe himſelf and his whole Family,) he hath whereof to glory (Gr. ground of boaſting in thoſe Works by which he was thus juſtified;) but (manifeſt it is he had) not (whereof to boaſt or glory) before God.

Ver. 3. For what ſaith the Scripture? (even this) Abraham believed God, and it (viz. that Faith) was imputed to him for Righteouſneſs.

Ἐπίστευσε δὲ Ἀβραὰμ τῷ θεῷ, Abraham believed God.] We learn from the Author to the Hebrews, that Abraham had Faith before this was ſaid unto him, for by Faith Abraham being called, obeyed, and went forth, &c. and that by a yet ſtronger Faith he offer'd up his Son Iſaac, believing that God was able to raiſe him up from the dead, Heb. 11. 8, 17. But neither of theſe Inſtances are pitch'd upon by the Apoſtle, as fit for his purpoſe, becauſe in both Obedience was joyn'd with Faith; whereas here was a pure Act of Faith without Works, and of this Act of Faith is ſaid, what is not ſaid of either of the other, it was imputed unto him for Righteouſneſs; ſee v. 22. 2*ly*, God for this Act of Faith, and not upon the former, dealt with him as a Righteous Perſon, by entring into Covenant with him, which was a ſign that he accepted him, and pardon'd all his ſins paſt, for it is ſaid, In that very day God entred into Covenant with Abraham, Gen. 15. 18. which he had not done before. Moreover this was ſpoken to Abraham before his Circumciſion, and ſo is very proper to convince the Jews of the no neceſſity of Circumciſion to Juſtification; but Abraham offer'd Iſaac after his Circumciſion, and ſo the Apoſtle could not alledge that inſtance of his Faith here, ver. 10, 11. and he therefore was accounted Righteous by vertue of that Faith which excludes boaſting, Chap. 2. 27. and only juſtifies by Grace.

Ver. 4. Now (or whereas) to him that worketh (and by that obtaineth Righteouſneſs) is the reward reckon'd not of grace, but of debt, (he having perform'd all that was requir'd in order to his being Righteous before God.)

Ver. 5. But to him that worketh not, (i. e. who hath not done any thing on the account of which he can be deemed Righteous by vertue of his Works,) but believeth on him that juſtifieth the ungodly (on the account of his Faith) his Faith is accounted for Righteouſneſs.

Ἐπὶ τὸν δικαιοῦντα τὸν ἀσεβῆ, on him that juſtifies the ungodly.] Juſtification being only the non-imputation, or the pardon of their paſt Sins on the account of that Faith, which laid the higheſt Obligations upon all Believers to die unto Sin for the future, there is no abſurdity in ſaying that God thus juſtifies the ungodly, repenting of, and engaging to ceaſe from their ungodlineſs.

Ver. 6. (And this account of juſtification is) even (ſuch) as David alſo (the other great Perſon to whom God had promiſed a Bleſſing to all Nations through his Seed, Eſa. 11. 10. Acts 2. 30. & 13. 23.) deſcribeth (ſpeaking of) the bleſſedneſs of the man to whom God imputeth Righteouſneſs without Works.

Ver. 7. Saying, bleſſed are they whoſe iniquities are forgiven, and whoſe ſin is covered.

Ver. 8. Bleſſed is the man to whom the Lord will not impute (the) ſin (he hath committed.)

Ver. 9. Cometh this bleſſedneſs then (of Righteouſneſs by not imputing ſin) upon the Circumciſion only, or upon the uncircumciſion alſo? (This Queſtion may be decided by the Example of our Father Abraham,) for we ſay, that Faith was reckon'd to Abraham for Righteouſneſs.

Ἐλογίσθη τῷ Ἀβραὰμ ἡ πίστις, Faith was reckon'd to Abraham for Rigbteouſneſs.] The Gloſs of R. Salomon on Gen. 15. 6. is this: The bleſſed God reputed this to Abraham for Righteouſneſs and Merit, for the Faith by which he believ'd in him. And the Book (b) Ikkarim ſaith thus: Our Father Abraham was praiſed for his Faith, as ſaith the Scripture, Abraham believed God, and it was counted to him for Righteouſneſs.

Ver. 10. How was it then reckon'd (to him for Righteouſneſs, was it) when he was in

(b) Lib. 1. Cap. 21.

Circum-

Circumciſion, or in uncircumciſion? Not (when he was) in Circumciſion, but in uncircumciſion; (he believing unto Righteouſneſs before he was circumciſed, Gen. 15. 6.)

Ver. 11. And he receiv'd (afterwards) the ſign of Circumciſion (as) a ſeal of the Righteouſneſs of the Faith, which he had being yet uncircumciſed, (and ſo of his acceptance with that God who thus entred into Covenant with him, and own'd himſelf his God, Gen. 17. 1.) that he might be the Father of all them that believe, though they be not circumciſed, that Righteouſneſs might be imputed to them alſo, (which it could not be, were Circumciſion the condition of Juſtification and Acceptance with God.)

Ver. 12. And that he might be the Father of (the) Circumciſion alſo, (i. e. a Father) to them who are not of the Circumciſion only, but alſo walk in the ſteps of that Faith of our Father Abraham, which he had being yet uncircumciſed.

Πατέρα, the Father.] i. e. that he might be the Father of all Nations, whether Jew or Gentile, and they might all be bleſſed in him, according to the Promiſe, In thee ſhall all the Nations of the Earth be bleſſed, Gen. 12. 3. Or as it is, Gen. 22. 18. in thy Seed.

Ver. 13. (I ſay, that he might be the Father of the uncircumciſed through Faith, and of the Circumciſion through the like Faith, Chap. 3. 30.) For the Promiſe (made) to Abraham (Gen. 12. 3.) or to his Seed (Gen. 22. 18.) that he ſhould be the Heir of the World, (i. e. of thoſe Bleſſings which ſhould be deriv'd from him to all the Families and Nations of the Earth,) was not (made to him, or his Seed) through (or by vertue of their Obedience to) the Law, but through (and by vertue of) the Righteouſneſs of Faith.

Τὸν κληρονόμον αὐτὸν εἶναι τοῦ κόσμου, that he ſhould be the Heir of the World.] The whole difficulty of this Verſe reſts upon the true Interpretation of this Phraſe, That he ſhould be the Heir of the World. Some think that to be the Heir of the World here, is to be Heir of the Land of Canaan, and the Parts adjacent to it, Idumæa, &c. But this is not only impertinent to the purpoſe of the Apoſtle, who is here proving not that Temporal Poſſeſſions, but that Juſtification is not by the Law, but by Faith: But ſeemeth flatly contrary to the Apoſtle; for the Promiſe of the Land of Canaan was made to Abraham upon his Circumciſion, and to his Seed, Gen. 17. 7, 8. and the Poſſeſſion of, and their continuance in it is ſtill promiſed to the Jews upon condition of their Obedience to the Law of Moſes. Others think that to be Heir of the World, is to be Heir of the Spiritual and Heavenly Canaan; but then as it is hard to find where any ſuch Promiſe was made to Abraham and his Seed, ſo is it as difficult to ſhew how this accords with the main ſcope of the Apoſtle, which is to eſtabliſh our Juſtification by Faith. The Antient Greek Scholiaſts interpret the words thus; that he ſhould be the Heir of the World, τυτέστιν ἐν αὐτῷ εὐλογεῖσθαι πάντα τὰ τῆς κόσμου ἔθνη, (i. e.) that all the Nations of the World ſhould be bleſſed in him. So Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, Theophylact, Quod enim dicit, benedicentur in te omnes tribus terræ hoc eſt hæredem factum eſſe totius mundi: So Origen. And this is confirm'd from the parallel place, Gal. 3. 8. for the Promiſe mention'd here, muſt be the ſame with the Promiſe mention'd there, becauſe the Argument is the ſame. Now, 1. The Promiſe there is plainly declar'd to be this: In thy Seed, that is Chriſt, ſhall all the Families of the Earth be bleſſed, v. 12. And, 2*ly*, He there ſpeaks of a Promiſe made 430 Years before the Law, which term only agrees to the Promiſe made Gen. 12. 3. 3*ly*, This is the Bleſſing of Abraham that was to come upon the Gentiles, Gal. 3. 14. For ſaith he there, The Scripture foreſeeing that God would juſtifie the Gentiles through Faith, (in the promiſed Seed) preached the Goſpel before to Abraham, ſaying, In thee ſhall all the Families of the Earth be bleſſed. So then they that are of Faith are bleſſed with faithful Abraham. He firſt, as being the Father of the Faithful, and ſo the Heir of the believing World, and they after him, as being his Sons, and Seed, by walking in the ſteps of his Faith, and ſo becoming Heirs with him of the ſame Promiſe; for if you be Chriſt's, if by Faith you be intereſted in him, ſaith the Apoſtle, then are you Abraham's Seed, and Heirs according to the Promiſe, Gal. 3. 29. So Heb. 11. 7. Noah is ſaid by his Faith to condemn the unbelieving World, and to be τῆς κατὰ πίστιν δικαιοσύνης κληρονόμος, the Heir of the Righteouſneſs which is by Faith, (i. e.) the Father of all that believed unto Juſtification, or Righteouſneſs after him.

Ver. 14. For if they which are of the Law be Heirs (according to the Promiſe upon that account) Faith is made void, (as being inſufficient to juſtifie without the Law) and the Promiſe is made of none effect, (for then the Nations which are not under the Law, cannot be bleſſed in the Seed of Abraham.)

Κεκένωται ἡ πίστις, Faith is made void.] Then Faith is made void to them that are not of the Law, and it is alſo made void to them that are of the Law.

Ver. 15. Becauſe the Law worketh wrath (by condemning the Tranſgreſſor to that Death to which without the Law he would not be ſubject,) for where no Law is there is no tranſgreſſion, (and ſo no condemnation for it.)

Ver. 16. (And) therefore is (the Inheritance, Gal. 3. 18.) of Faith, that it might be by Grace, (which both Jew and Gentile wanted as to Juſtification, Chap. 3. 23, 24.) to the end the Promiſe (of it) might be ſure to all the Seed (of Abraham) not to that only which is of the Law, but to that alſo which is of the Faith of Abraham, who is the Father of us all, (i. e. that it might be made good to the Gentile alſo, believing as their Father Abraham did.)

Ver. 17. (I ſay, the Father of us all,) as it is written, (Gen. 17.5.) I have made thee a Father of many Nations; (which words, tho' ſpoken then when Abraham had no Seed, yet were they certain) before (or in reſpect of) him whom he believed, even (that) God who quickneth the dead, (and ſo was able to quicken his Body now dead, and the deadneſs of Sarah's Womb,) and calleth thoſe things which be not, (i. e. the Gentiles, which were not then a People,) as if they were.

Τῦ ζωοποιοῦντος τοὺς νεκρούς, who quickneth the dead.] This being an inſtance of the Faith of Abraham, it ſeems moſt reaſonable to refer it to the Object of his Faith, (viz.) that he ſhould have a numerous Seed, yea, that he ſhould have the promiſed Seed from Sarah, though her Womb was dead; and it ceaſed to be with her after the manner of Women: And ſo Hilary the Deacon doth interpret this Phraſe.

Καλοῦντος τὰ μὴ ὄντα ὡς ὄντα, and calleth things that be not, as if they were.] He that is far from God, ſaith Origen, as we Gentiles were before we came to the knowledge of the Truth, is ſaid not to be; and therefore God deſigning to render them the Seed of Abraham by Faith, is ſaid to call thoſe things which be not, as if they were; for τὰ μὴ ὄντα, things which are not, both in the Language of the Old Teſtament, and of the Jews, and of the Primitive Chriſtians, ſignifies the Gentiles, by converting whom, ſaith (c) Clemens R. ἐκάλεσεν ἡμᾶς ἐκ ὄντας, καὶ ἐβούλησεν ἐκ τοῦ μὴ ὄντος εἶναι ἡμᾶς, God called us that were not, and would that of nothing we ſhould have a Being, as I have ſhewed, Note on 1 Cor. 1.28.

Ver. 18. Who I ſay againſt (all Natural grounds of) hope believed in hope, that he might (Gr. ſhould) become the Father of many Nations, according to that which was ſpoken (to him, Gen. 15. 5. as the Stars of Heaven) ſo ſhall thy Seed be.

Note, That this Verſe confirms the Expoſition of the former Verſe, ſhewing that the Faith there mentioned hath reference to this promiſe.

Ver. 19. And being not weak in Faith, he conſidered not his own Body now dead, (or grown already dead, he being about 100 Years old) neither yet the deadneſs of Sarah's Womb (with whom it had ceaſed to be after the manner of Women, Gen. 18. 11.)

Νενεκρωμένον, now dead.] It is here objected, that Abraham's Body could not be thus dead, ſince after the Death of Sarah, even Forty Years after, he had ſix Sons by Keturah, Gen. 25. 1. They who here tell us, that Abraham's Body was not ſimply dead, but only as to Sarah's Womb, and that by a young Woman he was able to have had Seed then, they ſpeak expreſly againſt the Text, which ſaith, his Body was grown dead, and againſt the Opinion of Abraham himſelf, Gen. 17. 17. and of Sarah concerning him, Gen. 18. 12. They who add that this need not ſeem ſtrange, that Abraham ſhould have Children by Keturah, conſidering the Age to which they then lived, ſince in our time Men have had Children after they have been Seventy or Eighty Years old, they will not ſuffer that to be ſtrange to us, which ſeemed ſtrange to Abraham himſelf, witneſs his Anſwer to the Promiſe of Almighty God, Shall a Child be born to him that is an hundred years old? Gen. 17. 17. Oh that Iſhmael might live before thee. And to Sarah, Gen. 18. 12. they deny the Miracle effected by the great Power of God, which therefore the Angel doth encourage Sarah to believe, becauſe nothing can be too hard for God, Gen. 18. 13. They leſſen the Faith of Abraham, which is ſo highly magnified here, as being hope againſt hope, v. 18. Believing in him that quickneth the dead, v. 17. Not ſtaggering at the Promiſe, but being ſtrong in Faith, v. 20. That therefore muſt be here acknowledg'd which the Jewiſh Doctors, and all the Chriſtian Fathers ſay, that God gave a new Bleſſing to their Bodies, and by that rendred them capable of getting, and of bearing Children, when by Nature they were not ſo. This of Sarah the Targum of B. Uziel hints by Paraphraſing the words thus, *Gen.*17. 16. As for Sarah, I will bleſs her בנופה in her Body; and the Apoſtle more plainly in theſe words, Through Faith alſo Sarah her ſelf received ſtrength to conceive ſeed, Heb. 11. 11.

Ver. 20. He ſtagger'd not at (Gr. he doubted not of) the Promiſe through unbelief, but was ſtrong in Faith, giving glory to God (by acknowledging his Power to make it good.)

Οὐ διεκρίθη τῇ ἀπιστίᾳ, he doubted not through unbelief.] It ſeems his Faith was not without ſome doubting from that Anſwer he returns to God, Shall a Child be born to Abraham, that is an hundred years old? And ſhall Sarah, that is ninety years old, bear? In which words he ſeems to conſider both his own dead Body, and Sarah's dead Womb, which the Apoſtle here denies, v. 19. and v. 18. he ſays to God, Oh that Iſhmael might live before thee, as if he expected no other Off-ſpring. To the firſt Objection it is anſwer'd, That thoſe words, Shall a Child be born to Abraham! are to be conſider'd as words of admiration, not of doubting, for he rejoiced at it, ſaith the Chaldee, and the Hebrew word, which we render laughed, hath this import, Chap. 21. 6. Nor is Abraham reprehended for it, as Sarah is, Chap. 18. 13. John 8. 56. To the ſecond it is anſwered, that he only deſires God to bleſs him alſo, as well as the Seed promiſed, which appears probable from God's Anſwer, v. 20. As for Iſhmael, I have heard thee, behold, I have bleſſed him, and will make him fruitful.

Ver. 21. And being fully perſwaded that what he had promiſed, he was able alſo to perform.

Ver. 22. And therefore it (viz. this ſtrong Faith) was imputed to him for Righteouſneſs.

Ver. 23. Now it was not written (thus of him) for his ſake alone that it (viz. his Faith) was imputed to him (for Righteouſneſs.)

Ver. 24. But for (the benefit of) us alſo, to whom it (viz. the like Faith) ſhall be imputed (for Righteouſneſs) if we believe on him that raiſed up Jeſus our Lord from the dead, (that he can and will raiſe us alſo by Jeſus from the dead, and crown us with him.)

Ver. 25. Who was deliver'd (to the death) for our offences (to offer up himſelf a Piacular Victim for them) and roſe again for our Juſtification, (i. e. to appear before God with the Blood of this Victim, to make Atonement before God for us, and thereby to procure our Juſtification, or our Abſolution from the guilt of ſin.)

Note, That from theſe three laſt Verſes many things may be obſerved which tend to the Illuſtration of the Doctrine of Faith, and of Juſtification by Faith. And,

1. From v. 3, 22, 23, 24. it is extreamly evident, that it is the very act of Faith, and not the object of it, viz. Chriſt's Righteouſneſs, which was imputed to Abraham, and is imputed to us for Righteouſneſs; ſo that as the Faith of Abraham, which is here ſaid to be imputed to him for Righteouſneſs, was not the Obeying God in his Commands of walking before him, and being perfect, but as is here expreſly ſaid, his believing God's Power, and his relyance on it without any doubting, was the thing that was imputed to him for Righteouſneſs, as well as that other Act of Faith, that in his Seed ſhould all the Families of the Earth be bleſſed: So the Faith that ſhall be imputed to us for Juſtification, is not, ſaith the Apoſtle here, that which includeth the performance of ſincere Obedience, nor only Faith in the Blood of Chriſt ſhed for the Remiſſion of our Sins, but Faith in him that raiſed up Jeſus from the dead, that he will raiſe us alſo from the dead, and glorifie us with him. See the Note on Rom. 10. 9. So alſo is the Faith of Abraham and Sarah repreſented, Heb. 11. 11.

2. Hence alſo, we learn that our Juſtification depends not only on the Death of Chriſt, but on his Reſurrection; ſo the Apoſtle doth again teach us, ſaying, Who is he that condemneth us, it is Chriſt that died, (as a Piacular Victim for our ſins) yea rather that is riſen again, who is even at the right hand of God, (preſenting the blood of this Victim in his preſence for us,) who (by it) alſo maketh interceſſion for us. For the clearing up of this matter, let it be noted,

1. That as the Victim offer'd under the Old Teſtament was brought to the Altar, and there ſlain, ſo Chriſt offering himſelf for us, was alſo brought to the Altar of the Croſs on which he ſuffer'd as a Piacular Victim for us, bearing our ſins in his own body on the Tree.

2. As the Blood of the Beaſt thus ſlain, was to be brought before the Mercy-ſeat, or into the Holy of Holies, and there preſented before God to make Atonement with, ſo was the Blood of Chriſt, thus ſlain alſo, to be carried into the Heavenly Sanctuary, and there preſented before God to make Atonement for our Sins.

3. As the Beaſt when dead, could not offer up its own Blood, ſo Chriſt, being dead, could not, before his Reſurrection, make an Offering of his own Blood in the Heavens for this end; whence the Apoſtle tells us, that ſuch an High-Prieſt became us who is higher than the Heavens, Heb. 7. 26. And were the Opinion of ſome true, that Chriſt appeared not with his Blood in the Heavens, he muſt be only a Metaphorical High-Prieſt, the offering, or preſenting of the Blood before God being the only proper Office of the Prieſthood; and the Parallel the Apoſtle makes betwixt him and the Aaronical Prieſts, muſt be wholly overthrown: For with what congruity could the Apoſtle inſiſt ſo much on the compariſon betwixt the Blood of Chriſt brought into the Heavenly Tabernacle, and the Blood of the Legal Sacrifices brought into the Earthly Tabernacle, if indeed the Blood of Chriſt was not carried into the true Tabernacle, and there preſented to God? When the Apoſtle ſaith ſo oft the Jewiſh High-Prieſt entred into the Holy Place with the blood of Bulls and Goats, doth he not mean, that he carried their Blood in thither? When then the ſame Apoſtle ſaith, Chriſt, not by the blood of Bulls and Goats, but διὰ τοῦ ἰδίου αἵματος, by his own proper blood entred into the Holy Place, muſt he not alſo mean that Chriſt carried his own Blood into the Heavenly Sanctuary?

CHAP.

CHAP. V.

Verſe 1. THerefore being juſtified by Faith, (and ſo abſolv'd from thoſe ſins which rendred us obnoxious to the diſpleaſure of God) we have peace with God through our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

Ver. 2. By whom alſo we have acceſs by Faith into this (ſtate of) Grace, (or favour with God) wherein we ſtand, and rejoice in hope of (the fruition of) the glory of God.

Ver. 3. And not only ſo, but we glory in tribulation alſo, knowing that tribulation worketh patience,

Ver. 4. And patience (gives) experience (of God's Power with us, enabling us to bear theſe Tribulations, and of our ſincere affection to him for whoſe ſake we ſuffer them,) and experience (of theſe things worketh in us) hope (of a Reward.)

Ver. 5. And hope maketh us not aſhamed (of our Faith in Chriſt, Rom. 1. 16.) ſeeing the love of God is ſhed abroad in our hearts by the Holy Ghoſt, (given to us Believers as the earneſt of our future Inheritance, Eph. 1. 13. & 4. 30. and the fruit of our Faith, Eph. 1. 13. Gal. 3. 14.)

Ἡ ἀγάπη τοῦ θεοῦ, the love of God,] to us thus believing. So Chap. 8. 35, 39. 2 Cor. 5. 14. & 13. 13. 1 John 3. 9, 10.

Ἐκκέχυται, is ſhed abroad.] This is the word ſtill uſed in the New Teſtament, when ſpeaking of the effuſion of the Holy Ghoſt, Acts 2. 17, 18, 33. Titus 3. 6. and it is taken from Joel 2. 28, 29. and ſo this may refer to the χαρίσματα of the Holy Ghoſt ſo liberally imparted to them.

Ver. 6. (Of which love to us, even before we believ'd, the Goſpel gives us the higheſt demonſtrations.) For when we were yet without ſtrength, in due time (Gr. we being fallen, at the appointed time) Chriſt died for the ungodly, (for us, who ſince our Fall had no Righteouſneſs of our own.)

Ὄντων ἡμῶν ἀδυνάτων, when we were weak.] It may here be noted that the words ἀδυνὴς, ἀδυνέω, ἀδύνεια in the Septuagint anſwer to the Hebrew כשל, and ſignifie to fall, and ſtumble to our ruin. So Pſal. 9. 3. They ſhall fall and periſh ἀδυνήσουσι καὶ ἀπολοῦνται at thy preſence. 26. 4. They ſtumbled and fell, ἠδυνήσαν καὶ ἔπεσον. 106. 12. ἠδύνησαν, they fell down, and there was none to help them. Prov. 24. 16. The wicked ſhall fall into miſchief, ἀδυνήσουσιν ἐν κακοῖς. Jer. 6. 21. I will lay ſtumbling-blocks before this People, and the Fathers and Sons ſhall fall together, ἀδυνήσουσιν ἐν αὐτῇ, Chap. 18. 15. 46. 6, 12. & v. 16. He made many to fall, τὸ πλῆθος σου ἠδύνησε, Chap. 50. 32. Lam. 5. 15. Dan. 11. 14. Many ſhall ſtand up againſt the King of the South, but they ſhall fall, ἀδυνήσουσι. So v. 19, 33, 34, 35. So Hoſea 4. 5. 5. 5. 14. 2, 10. And this import of the word ſuits well with the Text, and is ſo proper to repreſent our Fall by Sin, and the words following, v. 8. ἁμαρτωλῶν ὄντων ἡμῶν, even whilſt we were ſinners Chriſt died for us, do render it ſo probable, that I thought fit to mention it in the Paraphraſe.

Ver. 7. (Which ſurely is an high degree of love, beyond all Humane Example) for ſcarcely for a righteous man will one die, (I ſay, for a righteous man only) for peradventure for a good (i. e. a highly kind and charitable) man ſome would even dare to die.

Ἀγαθὸς is not only a vertuous, but an obliging charitable Man, Mat. 20. 15. Is thy Eye evil, becauſe I am good; overcome evil ἐν τῷ ἀγαθῷ with kindneſs, Rom. 12. 21. Τὸ ἀγαθόν σου. Philem. v. 14. is thy kindneſs. So ἀγαθὸς ὀφθαλμὸς, is the liberal Eye, Eccleſ. 35. 8. See Buxt. in voce, טוב, p. 1601.

Ver. 8. But God commendeth his love towards us, in that whilſt we were yet ſinners Chriſt died for us.

Συνίστησι δὲ ὁ θεὸς, but God commends his love to us.] The Death of Chriſt is uſually in Scripture repreſented as an inſtance of the great love of God the Father to us, becauſe his Wiſdom did contrive this way of our Redemption, Eph. 1. 4, 5. Upon the fall of Man he made the Promiſe of a Saviour, Gen. 3. 15. He ſent his Son into the World to be the propitiation for our ſins, that we might live through him, 1 John 4. 9, 10. He graciouſly accepted of his ſuffering in our ſtead, and juſtifies us freely by his graae through the redemption that is in Jeſus Chriſt, Rom. 3. 24. He ſpared not his own Son, but gave him up freely for us all, Rom. 8. 32. Though it be alſo true that Chriſt loved us, and gave himſelf for us, Gal. 2. 20. Eph. 5. 2. and that this love of Chriſt ought to conſtrain us to Obedience, 2 Cor. 5. 14.

Ver. 9. (And if God ſhewed ſuch kindneſs to us being ſinners,) much more being juſtified by his blood, (and ſo made Righteous in his ſight, and having peace with God, v. 1.) we ſhall be ſaved from (the) Wrath (of God) by him.

Ver. 10. For if when we were enemies (to him) we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son, much more being reconciled, we ſhall be ſaved by his life.

Ἐν τῇ ζωῇ αὐτοῦ, by his life.] He being able to ſave us to the uttermoſt, becauſe he ever lives to make interceſſion for us, Heb. 7. 25. And having all Power committed to him, that he might give Eternal Life to them whom God hath given him, John 17. 2.

Καταλλάγημεν τῷ θεῷ, we were reconciled to God.] Here are many Arguments to eſtabliſh the the Doctrine of our Lord's Satisfaction by ſuffering in our ſtead, to reconcile an offended God to us. For,

1. When it is here ſaid, that Chriſt died for the ungodly, 1 Pet. 3. 18. That when we were yet ſinners Chriſt died for us, 1 Cor. 5. 15. And elſewhere, That he ſuffered for our ſins, the juſt for the unjuſt, Heb. 1. 9. 1 Pet. 4. 1. In theſe, and ſuch like places, one of theſe two things is intimated, that our Lord ſuffered in our ſtead, or that he bore the Puniſhment of our Sin: This being the plain import of the like Expreſſions, when they are uſed in the Old or New Teſtament. For when we read in the Old Teſtament, The Fathers ſhall not be put to death for the Children, nor the Children for the Fathers; every man ſhall be put to death for his own ſin, Deut. 24. 17. Of Amaziah, that he ſlew thoſe Servants that had murther'd the King his Father, but the Children of thoſe Murtherers he ſlew not, according to thoſe words of Moſes, the Fathers ſhall not be put to death, οὐκ ἀποθανοῦνται, they ſhall not die for the Children, &c. 2 Kings 14. 6. 2 Chron. 25. 4. And in the Prophet Ezekiel, The ſoul that ſinneth it ſhall die, the Son ſhall not bear the iniquity of the Father, nor ſhall the Father bear the iniquity of the Son, Ezek. 18. In all theſe places it is plain no ſubſtitution is intended, becauſe no exemption of the Father, becauſe the Son, or of the Son, becauſe the Father ſuffers, but then 'tis plainly intimated that the one in this caſe would bear the Puniſhment of the others ſin. But when David ſaith concerning Abſalom, Would God I had died for thee, Oh Abſalom, Τὶς δῴη τὸν θάνατόν μου ἀντὶ σου, 2 Sam. 18. 33. Oh that my Death might have gone inſtead of thine. When here the Apoſtle ſaith, That ſcarcely for a righteous perſon one would die, but for a good man ſome would even dare to die; there evidently a Subſtitution is intended of the one to free the other from Death by the Death he ſuffers: When therefore he before, and after theſe words ſaith, Chriſt died for the ungodly and the ſinner, muſt he not alſo ſignifie that our Lord died in their ſtead, to deliver them from Death? 'Tis evident beyond exception, that in all Piacular Sacrifices, both Jew and Gentile always took this for granted, that the Victim ſuffer'd in their ſtead, and for their ſins. Since then the Socinians own that our Lord ſuffer'd as victima piacularis, or an Expiatory Sacrifice, ſurely both Jew and Gentile muſt conceive that all theſe Phraſes did import that our Lord ſuffer'd in our ſtead, and for our ſins.

2. A Second Argument is taken from the Reconciliation mentioned as to the effect of our Lord's ſuffering for us; for ſeeing it is alone the guilt of ſin, or ſin unpardon'd, that maketh God diſpleaſed with us, the Death which is here ſaid to procure our Peace, and Reconciliation to God, muſt make Atonement for the guilt of our Iniquities.

Crellius replies, That by Reconciliation here the Apoſtle intends not God's Reconciliation to us, but ours to God, by that Converſion to him, which maketh us at Friendſhip with him. But this may be refuted,

1. From the import of the words καταλλάσσειν and καταλλαγὴ, for they do naturally import the Reconciliation of one that is angry or diſpleaſed with us, both in Profane and Jewiſh Writers; thus ἓν τίνι διαλλαγήσεται, in what ſhall David reconcile himſelf to his Lord? 1 Sam. 29. 4. When Apame the famous Concubine was angry with King Darius, he flattered her ὅπως διαλλαγῇ αὐτῷ, that ſhe might be reconcil'd to him, 1 Eſdr. 4. 21. After the reviling, or the falling out of Friends, ἔστι διαλλαγὴ, there is, or may be reconciliation, ſaith the Son of Syrach, Eccluſ. 22. 22. The Jews in Egypt pray for thoſe in Judea, that the Lord would hear their Prayer, καὶ καταλλαγείη, and be reconciled to them, 2 Maccab. 1. 5. Adding, that as Jeruſalem was forſaken through the wrath of the Almighty, ſo ἐν τῇ τοῦ μεγάλου Δεσπότου καταλλαγῇ, when the great God was reconciled, it was ſet up with glory, Chap. 5. 20. And again, Though the Lord, ſay they, be angry with us a little while for our Chaſtiſement and Correction, πάλιν καταλλαγήσεται, he will again be reconciled to his Servants, Chap. 7. 33. And they beſeech the Lord εἰς τέλος καταλλαγῆναι to be reconciled to his Servants for ever, Chap. 8. 29. Whence we learn that Reconciliation always reſpecteth ſome preceding Anger, or Diſpleaſure; and that the reconciling of God, was the appeaſing of his Anger: When therefore we here read in the ſame words of Enemies reconciled to God, and ſo ſaved from his Wrath, what can we imagine, but that a God once angry, and offended with them, is now appeaſed. And when we further read that this Reconciliation was effected by the Death and Blood of Chriſt, is it not obnoxious to conceive his Wrath and Anger was averted by the ſhedding this Blood for us?

2. 'Tis evident that when we were ſinners Chriſt died for us, v. 8. And when we were Enemies, we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son, v. 10. are words of the ſame import; for ſeeing theſe words, Chriſt died for us, and Chriſt ſhed his Blood for us, ſignifie the ſame thing; and by his Blood ſhed we are reconciled, 'tis evident that Chriſt dying for us, and Chriſt reconciling us by his death, or Blood ſhed for us, muſt be the ſame, now we are juſtified by his Blood, as it procures our Peace with God, v. 1. As it ſaves us from his Wrath, v. 9. Therefore we are reconciled to God by it on the ſame account.

3. We being here conſidered as ſinners, ungodly, enemies to God, as Perſons who have upon that account fallen ſhort of the Glory, that is, ſaith Crellius, of the approbation of God,

God, Rom. 3. 23. Is there no need of reconciling God unto ſuch Perſons? And when under theſe Circumſtances we are ſaid to be juſtified through the redemption that is in Chriſt Jeſus, Rom. 3. 25, 26. And being juſtified, to have peace with God through our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, can we conceive that nothing was done by this Jeſus to procure God's Reconciliation to the Sinner, or to purchaſe his Peace with an offended God? Eſpecially if we conſider that the Death of Chriſt here mention'd, as that by which we are reconciled to God, is the Death of him who ſuffer'd as a Sin-Offering for us, the Blood by which we are juſtified, is the Blood of Atonement, or Propitiation, or the Blood ſhed to make reconciliation for the ſins of the people, Heb. 2. 17.

Ver. 11. And not only ſo, (i. e. we are not only reconciled to) but we glory, (Gr. we are rejoycing) in God through our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, by whom we have received the atonement, (or reconciliation.)

Τὴν καταλλαγὴν ἐλάβομεν, we have received the atonement.] Crellius excepts againſt this Interpretation, alledging, that to receive, or obtain Reconciliation, is a Phraſe unknown to Jew and Gentile, and would have the words rendred thus; By whom we have obtain'd this Converſion to God; but to obtain Reconciliation when it is the effect of Blood-ſhed for the Remiſſion of Sins, is very proper; for it was the conſtant Practice under the Law to procure Reconciliation by ſhedding the Blood of the Sin-Offering; and all Nations by this means endeavour'd to reconcile God to them, and what Reconciliation the Prieſt, by offering this Blood, procur'd, the ſinner received and obtain'd; and therefore to receive Atonement, or obtain Reconciliation by an Expiatory Sacrifice, muſt be a thing well known to Jew and Gentile; but to receive Converſion by it, is indeed a Phraſe unknown to them, and the whole Church of Chriſt. Moreover, this Note of Crellius ſhews his little skill in the Greek, for as θάρσος λαμβάνειν is to be courageous, Acts 28. 15. λήθην λαμβάνειν is to forget, ἀρχὴν λαμβάνειν is to begin, Heb. 2. 3. ὑπόμνησιν λαμβάνειν to remember, 2 Tim. 1. 5. πεῖραν λαμβάνειν to experiment, Heb. 11. 36. οἰκοδομὴν λαμβάνειν to be edified, 1 Cor. 14. 5. So καταλλαγὴν λαμβάνειν is to be reconciled, as noxam capere is to be hurt.

Ver. 12. Wherefore (διὰ τοῦτο, by reaſon of this reconciliation life is procured to us by the ſecond Adam, as Death came by the firſt, for) as by one man ſin entred into the World, and death by ſin, (or for ſin) and ſo death paſſed upon all men, (through him) in whom all had (ſo far) ſinned, (as to become equally obnoxious to Death with him.)

Ἐφ ᾧ, in whom.] The Criticks have been very induſtrious to find ſome other ſenſe of thoſe words than that which our Tranſlation gives, ſome rendring this laſt clauſe for that, ſome becauſe all have ſinned. But our Expoſition is confirm'd beyond all contradiction from the following words, which declare, That by the ſin of one man many die, and that by the ſin of one death reigned by one, and that by one offence the ſentence of death came upon all, v. 15, 16, 17, 18. All which are parallel to the expreſſion here, that Death came upon all Men through Adam, in whom, ſaith the ſame Apoſtle, all men die, 1 Cor. 15. 22. And the words following, That by the diſobedience of one many were made ſinners, are plainly parallel to theſe, in whom all have ſinned.

2. None of the other ſenſes are true, or ſuitable to the ſcope and Argument of the Apoſtle here. v. g. It is not true that Death came upon all Men, for that, or becauſe all have ſinned. For the Apoſtle directly here aſſerts the contrary, viz. that the Death, and condemnation to it, which befel all Men, was for the ſin of Adam only; for here it is expreſly ſaid, That by the ſin of one man, many died; that the Sentence was, from one, and by one man ſinning to condemnation; that by the ſin of one, death reigned by one: Therefore the Apoſtle doth expreſly teach us, that this Death, this condemnation to it, came not upon us for the ſin of all, but only for the ſin of one, (i. e.) of that one Adam, in whom all Men die, 1 Cor. 15. 22.

He alſo farther teacheth, that this Death and Condemnation came upon all for one ſin of that one man, for it came δι' ἑνὸς παραπτώματος, by one offence upon all Men; it came not therefore upon all Men for the ſin of all: And this the compariſon plainly requires, which ſaith, the oppoſite Juſtification and free Gift came upon all Men by one man, Jeſus Chriſt, By the obedience of one, and δι' ἑνὸς δικαιώματος, By one Righteouſneſs, v. 16, 17, 18, 19. i. e. By the Obedience to the Death of that one Man, yea, the Apoſtle doth,

3. Not only thus plainly and frequently aſſert that Death came upon all Men for the ſin of Adam, but he proves it by this Argument, that death reign'd from Adam to Moſes over them that had not ſinned after the ſimilitude of Adam's tranſgreſſion; i. e. againſt a Law threatning Death to them for ſin; they therefore, ſaith he, could not die for their own Sins, for though indeed they were then Sinners, yet being under no ſuch Law as Adam was, their ſin was not imputed to Death, and ſo they could not die on that account; Death therefore came upon them, as I aſſerted, through the ſin of Adam, for the true ſenſe of theſe words is this:

Ver. 13. (Through him, I ſay,) For (it muſt be indeed confeſs'd that) until the Law ſin was in the world, but (it muſt alſo be acknowledged that) ſin was not (generally then) imputed (to death) when there was no Law (condemning men to death for it.)

I add generally.] Becauſe tho' all Men died after Adam, all were not puniſhed with Death for their own Natural ſin, but only the Antediluvians, and the Sodomites.

Ver. 14. Nevertheleſs death reigned from Adam to Moſes, (the giver of a new Law, threatning Death to the tranſgreſſors of it,) even over them that had not ſinned after the ſimilitude of Adam's tranſgreſſion, (i. e. Men were all the while ſubject to Death, though they ſinned not as Adam did againſt an expreſs Law, threatning Death to them for it, and therefore Death muſt reign over them for the ſin of Adam,) who (in this) is the figure (or reſemblance) of him that was to come, (i. e. of the ſecond Adam, Chriſt.)

Ἁμαρτία δὲ οὐκ ἐλλογεῖται, ſin was not imputed.] The Apoſtle doth not mean that God did not account them ſinners who tranſgreſs'd againſt the Law of Nature, or that he was not diſpleaſed with them for their Offences, but only that he did not ſo impute them, as to condemn them to Death for them; to make this out, and to give you the true import of Imputation, let it be obſerv'd,

1. That where-ever the Phraſe occurs affirmatively, that ſuch a thing was imputed to any one, it is ſome Perſonal Thing, or Action of our own, and not any thing of anothers, which is thus ſaid to be imputed; as when 'tis ſaid, Rom. 2. 26. That if the uncircumciſion keep the Righteouſneſs of the Law, his uncircumciſion on that account εἰς περιτομὴν λογισθήσεται ſhall be accounted for Circumciſion; i. e. he ſhall be accepted as well as if he were circumciſed. So Rom. 4. 3. Abraham believed God, and it (that is his Faith) was imputed to him for Righteouſneſs, for ſo it is explain'd, v. 5. To him that worketh not, but believeth, his Faith is imputed to him for Righteouſneſs. And v. 9. We ſay, that Faith was imputed to Abraham for Righteouſneſs. See Gal. 3. 6. James 2. 23. And of our Faith in him that raiſed Chriſt from the Dead, it is ſaid, Rom. 4. 24. that it ſhall be imputed to us for Righteouſneſs.

2. When the Phraſe is uſed with a Negative, or when Sin is ſaid to be imputed, or not to be imputed, it is not only a man's own Perſonal ſin, but the non-imputation of it, is the not inflicting ſome condign Puniſhment upon him for it. So Rom. 4. 8. Bleſſed is the man to whom the Lord imputeth no ſin; which being ſpoken on the account of God's Hand heavy on David for his ſin, Pſal. 32. 2, 3, 4. ſhews that the import of it muſt be this: Bleſſed is the Man whom God doth not puniſh for his Iniquity. So 2 Tim. 4. 16. In my firſt Anſwer no Man ſtood by me, μὴ αὐτοῖς λογισθείη, may it not be imputed to them; let them not ſuffer for it. So 2 Sam. 19. 19. Shimei ſpeaks to David thus, μὴ λογισάσθω ὁ κύριός μου ἀνομίαν, let not my Lord impute to me mine iniquity; i. e. let him not remember it to puniſh it. When therefore it is ſaid, 2 Cor. 5. 19. That God was in Chriſt reconciling the World to himſelf, μὴ λογιζόμενος, not imputing to them their iniquities; the meaning is, that for Chriſt's ſake he was pleaſed to exempt them from the Puniſhment of their Tranſgreſſions. So in like manner here ſin is ſaid not to be imputed, whilſt there is no Law; not that God did not look upon Men then as ſinners, but that he did not Puniſh them with Death for it.

Hence note, that in the Scripture there is no mention of the imputation either of one man's ſin, or of his Righteouſneſs unto another, but only of the imputation of his good deeds for Righteouſneſs, or of his evil deeds for Puniſhment. 2. That the puniſhment of Adam's ſin devolv'd upon his whole Poſterity, is fully proved from this Chapter; but it is not here ſaid, that they were truly, and formally made Sinners by his ſin. So likewiſe that for the Obedience of one unto the Death, many were made Righteous, i. e. were treated as Righteous Perſons, and were deliver'd from that Death to which they were obnoxious, we are aſſured from this and other Scriptures; but that they were made formally Righteous by our Saviour's Righteouſneſs imputed to them, the Scripture doth no where aſſert.

Ver. 15. But (in this reſemblance there are two advantagious diſſimilitudes, for) not as the offence, ſo alſo is the free gift. For if through the offence of one man many be dead, (Gr. died) much more the grace of God, and the gift (of Juſtification procur'd) by (or through) the grace of one man, Jeſus Chriſt, hath abounded to many.

Οἱ πολλοὶ ἀπέθανον, many were dead.] When God ſaid to Adam, In the day that thou eateſt thereof, thou ſhalt die, he did not mean that he ſhould then give up the Ghoſt, but that he ſhould be ſubject to Mortality, and at the laſt return to the Duſt from whence he came, as Experience ſhewed, and as the Fathers interpret it. Now in this ſenſe that of the Apoſtle is moſt true, that in Adam all die, (i. e.) became obnoxious to Mortality: But it is not true that all Men die only on the account of Adam's ſin; the Old World was drown'd on the account of their own ſins, and the Jews ſuffered both by the hand of God and Man for ſins committed againſt the Law; and this perhaps might be the reaſon why the Apoſtle ſaith, not by the Offence of one all, but many died: The Advantage therefore here mentioned may conſiſt in this, that all that die, die not purely for the ſin of Adam, but many times bring Death upon themſelves for their own ſin; but all that are juſtified, and ſo freed from Death, are thus exempted from it only by vertue of the Death of Chriſt; this is the old Doctrine both of the Jews, and of the Church of Chriſt: Not that all formally ſinned in Adam, but that all Men became obnoxious to Death for Adam's ſin. God, ſaith the Author of the Book of Wiſdom, created man to be immortal, but through the envy of the Devil, Death entred into the World, Wiſd. 2. 23, 24. By the Woman was the beginning of ſin, and by her we all die, ſaith the Son of Syrach, Ecclus. 25. 24. By the counſel which the Serpent gave to Eve, all the Inhabitants of the Earth become obnoxious to Death, ſaith the Targum on Ruth 4. v. ult. And the ſame Chaldee Paraphraſe upon Eccleſ. 7. the laſt Verſe, ſaith, God made man pure and upright, but the Serpent and Eve ſeduced him to eat of the fruit of the Tree, and ſo they made Death to ruſh upon him, and upon all the Inhabitants of the Earth.

Ver. 16. And (again) not as it was by one that ſinned, ſo is the gift, for the judgment, (Gr. the Sentence) was by one (ſin) to condemnation, (we being all ſentenced to Death on the account of Adam's ſin) but the free gift is of many offences unto juſtification, (of which cometh Life.)

Ἐκ πολλῶν παραπτωμάτων, from many Offences.] This is the ſecond advantageous difference, viz. That whereas we became obnoxious to Death for one ſin of Adam, we by Faith in Chriſt are juſtified, and thereby freed not only from the Condemnation which came upon us for that ſin, but alſo from the Condemnation due unto us for all our other Offences againſt God.

Note alſo, that the word κρίμα, eſpecially when it is joyn'd with Death, doth uſually ſignifie a Sentence condemning any Perſon; κρίμα θανάτου is the Sentence of Death, Deut. 21. 22. So Luke 24. 20. the High-Prieſts and Rulers deliver'd up Jeſus εἰς κρίμα θανάτου to the Sentence of Death. See Chap. 23. 40. And Eccluſ. 41. 2. Oh Death, how acceptable is τὸ κρίμα σου thy Sentence to the needy? And v. 3. fear not κρίμα θανάτου the Sentence of Death. Remember them that have been before thee, and that come after, τοῦτο τὸ κρίμα παρὰ κυρίου πάσῃ σαρκί, for this is the Sentence of the Lord over all fleſh.

Ver. 17. For if by one mans offence death reigned by (that) one (man over all his Poſterity,) much more they which receive (or are made partakers of) abundance of Grace, and (by it) of the gift of Righteouſneſs (or Juſtification) ſhall reign in life, by (the Reconciliation purchaſed for them by the death of) one Jeſus Chriſt.

Ver. 15. Ἡ δωρεὰ ἐν χάριτι. Ver. 17. Ἡ δωρεὰ δικαιοσύνης, the gift of Righteouſneſs.] I have interpreted theſe Phraſes of the Gift of Juſtification as others do; but it is very probable that they may import the Holy Spirit given in Baptiſm, and upon Faith to the Believers of thoſe Times, who being made Sons by Faith in Chriſt, received the Spirit of Adoption, Rom. 8. 14, 15, 16. Gal. 4. 6. and believing, were ſealed with the Spirit of Promiſe, Eph. 1. 13. for he is ſtiled emphatically ἡ δωρεὰ ἐπουρανίου, the Heavenly Gift, Heb. 6. 4. ἡ δωρεὰ, the gift, Acts 11. 17. ἡ δωρεὰ θεοῦ, the gift of God, Acts 8. 20. The gift of the grace of God, Eph. 3. 7. ἡ δωρεὰ τοῦ Χριστοῦ, the gift of Chriſt, Eph. 4. 7. the gift of the Holy Ghoſt, Acts 2. 38. & 10. 45. So the Holy Ghoſt given to the Prophets, and Holy Men of old, is by the Primitive Chriſtians uſually ſtyled ἡ ἄνωθεν ἐπὶ τοὺς ἁγίους ἀνδρὰς ἐπιπεσοῦσα δωρεὰ, Juſt. Mart. adm. Gr. p. 9. B. p. 11. D. p. 30. D. p. 31. C.

Ver. 18. Therefore as by the offence of one, (Gr. by one Offence) the judgment (Gr. Sentence) came upon all men to (the) condemnation (of Death,) even ſo by the righteouſneſs of one (by one Righteous Act, the Obedience of Chriſt to the Death for us) the free gift came upon all men (believing in him) to juſtification of life.

Ver. 19. For as by the diſobedience of one many were made ſinners, (being made ſubject to the Death which was inflicted upon Adam for ſin, as much as if they themſelves had violated the Law, which rendred him obnoxious to it,) ſo by the obedience of one, (ſuffering Death, the puniſhment of Sin, for them) ſhall many be made righteous (i.e. be as truly juſtified, and exempted from the Death which is the puniſhment of Sin, as if they had Perſonally ſuffered, and alſo accepted and treated by God, as if indeed they had been Righteous Perſons.

Ἁμαρτωλοὶ κατεστάθησαν οἱ πολλοὶ, many were made ſinners.] In the Expoſition of this, and of the Phraſe in the 12*th.* Verſe, in whom all have ſinned, I follow the Greek Expoſitors Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, Oecumenius, and Theophylact, upon the Place. And to make good the Interpretation, I ſhall ſhew firſt the inconſiſtency of any other ſenſe aſcribed to them with the Text, with Scripture, and with Reaſon. And,

1. It cannot truly be affirm'd that we all actually, and formally ſinned in Adam, and upon that account were made Sinners; for then it was not by the diſobedience of one, but of many, that many were made Sinners. 2. Then Death, the Puniſhment of Sin, came upon all not for the ſin of one, or for one ſin of that one man, but for the ſin of all; both which things I have plainly proved to be contrary to the expreſs words of the Apoſtle. Then 3. All Men muſt have ſinned after the ſimilitude of Adam's tranſgreſſion; for if we all ſinned in, or with him, we muſt all ſin by the ſame Act, the ſame Will, and in the ſame Perſon, againſt the ſame Law; and ſurely they that thus ſin, muſt ſin after the ſimilitude of Adam's tranſgreſſion: For what diſſimilitude can there be in ſins committed by the ſame Act, and the ſame Will of one and the ſame Perſon, againſt the ſame Law? But of the Poſterity of Adam, the Apoſtle here expreſly ſaith, that they ſinned not after the ſimilitude of Adam's Adam's tranſgreſſion, therefore they were not ſinners by the ſame Act, and Will of the ſame Perſon, againſt the ſame Law. Moreover, if all the Poſterity of Adam ſinned in Adam, they ſinned againſt ſome Law given to them, for ſin is the tranſgreſſion of a Law, and where there is no Law, there is no tranſgreſſion; they could ſin in Adam ſo as to deſerve Death for their ſin, only by ſinning againſt the Law requiring Adam not to eat of the forbidden Fruit, for Adam himſelf became guilty of Death only by tranſgreſſing that Law; but all the Poſterity of Adam cannot be ſaid to have ſinned againſt that Law, for when did they ſin againſt it? If when Adam did ſo, then all his Poſterity muſt be actually ſinners from the beginning of the World, i.e. ſome thouſands of Years before the greateſt part of them had a Being; now ſeeing Action muſt be the Action of ſome Being, does it not ſeem abſurd at firſt ſight, to ſay, that ſo many Myriads were actually ſinners, when they were not in being? If when they came into the World, they could not ſin in Adam, or in his Action, for he did not then eat of the Forbidden Fruit in the midſt of Paradiſe. Again, we cannot ſin againſt a Law which is not in being; ſince therefore there is now no Paradiſe, and no forbidden fruit in being, we cannot be obliged by any Law of God now not to eat of the Fruit in the midſt of Paradiſe, and ſo cannot be ſinners by tranſgreſſing againſt ſuch a Law.

2. It cannot truly be affirmed that we all ſinned in Adam, and by his diſobedience were made ſinners, becauſe his ſin and diſobedience was imputed to us; for I have ſhewed already that the Scripture no where maketh the leaſt mention of any thing of anothers imputed to a Man for Reward, or Guilt, but only of ſome Perſonal thing, or action of our own: See Note on v. 14. Moreover, this Imputation either makes the ſin of Adam truly ours, or it doth not; if it doth not, how can we be made ſinners by it? If it doth, then Death came upon us for our ſin; and ſo not for the ſin of one, but for the ſin of all, which is the thing diſproved already, Note on v. 12. 3. I ask, whether this Imputation made the Poſterity of Adam ſinners, or if it found them ſo before? If it found them ſo before, it was plainly needleſs, for they might have been condemn'd to Death without it; if it made them ſo, then ſince this Imputation is the Act of God, and not of Man, it plainly follows, that God muſt be the Author of that ſin, which flows immediately from it, without the intervention of any Action on the part of any of thoſe Men to whom it is imputed. Moreover, then the Imputation muſt be falſe, as charging them with ſin whom he did not find ſinners, but only by his arbitrary Imputation made them ſo. Now far be it from any Chriſtian to affirm, that God ſhould falſly impute ſin to any Man. In a word, λογίζεσθαι & imputare, is to reckon, to account a thing to any Man, to charge him with it, to lay the charge of it to him. This Action therefore on God's part muſt in the very Nature of it ſuppoſe ſome Action done by the Poſterity of Adam which is blame-worthy, and may be juſtly charged upon them, before there can be any ground for imputation of it, and ſhews that it is impoſſible that the Imputation ſhould be the very thing that renders them blame-worthy, or Perſons worthy to be charged with Guilt. And yet if the ſin of Adam becomes ours only by Imputation, it muſt be ours only becauſe it is by God imputed to us, and not imputed becauſe it is ours; that is, God by this Imputation muſt make us ſinners, and not find us ſuch, for this Imputation is the Action of the Judge, not of the ſuppoſed Criminal; remove, or take away this Action, and no Crime can be charged upon him. In fine, if the ſin of Adam becomes ours only by Imputation, it deſerves Condemnation only by the ſame Imputation, (i.e.) by the Action of God; that therefore we deſerve Condemnation for it, is to be aſcribed directly to the Action of God, and only by accident to that of Adam: Whence therefore is our deſtruction, according to this Opinion, but of God, who makes us worthy of Condemnation, by imputing to us that ſin, which by his Imputation only we ſtand guilty of?

Theſe Interpretations being ſo inconſiſtent with the Apoſtle's words, and with the plaineſt evidence of Reaſon, I am forced to prefer before them that of the Greek Fathers, viz. That we all ſinned in Adam, i. e. by becoming obnoxious to that Death which was the Puniſhment of his ſin, and that by one man's diſobedience many were made ſinners, by being ſubject to the Death, and Temporal Calamities, and Miſeries which came upon Mankind for Adam's ſin; ſo that we become ſinners in him, or by his diſobedience, by a Metonymie of the effect, by ſuffering the Puniſhment which God had threatned to him for it, as the Experience of all Men and Women ſhew we do in all the parts of the Threat; and this is a common ſenſe of the word חטא, which ſignifies both ſin, and the puniſhment of it. So Gen. 4. 7. If thou doeſt evil, חטאת ſin lieth at the door; that is, the puniſhment of ſin, v. 13. So Gen. 19. 15. Make haſt, ſaith the Angel to Lot, and eſcape, leſt thoube conſumed בעון העיר in the ſin of the City; i. e. in the puniſhment of the City, In plagâ deſcendente propter cultam incolarum urbis. Arab. And Gen. 31. 39. Jacob ſpeaks to Laban thus: That which was torn of Beaſts אנכי אחטנה, ἐγὼ ἀπέτινυον, pœnas dabam, I ſuffer'd for it; the ſin was upon me, ſaith Aben Ezra. Gen. 43. 9. Judah ſpeaks thus to Jacob, concerning Benjamin, if I bring him not again, וחטאתי לך ἡμαρτηκὼς ἔσομαι εἰς σε, (i. e.) I will ſuffer Puniſhment.

Punishment. See Chap. 42. 37. let me bear the blame; so also Chap. 44. 32. So Bathsheba saith to David, I and thy Son Solomon shall be חטאים ἁμαρτωλοὶ, 1 Kings 1.21. That is, we shall be punished as sinners, and be in danger of our Life. So לא ירשיענו impium non faciet, i. e. he will not condemn him. Psal. 37. 33. ודם נקי ירשיעו & sanguinem innocentem condemnabant, Psal. 94. 21. So also Job 9. 20. So the Lepers say one to another, we do not well, if we tarry till the Morning light, ומצאנו עון we shall be found sinners, 2 Kings 7. 9. i. e. we shall be punish'd by the King. And Zech. 14. 19. This shall be חטאת מצרים ἁμαρτία Αἰγύπτε the punishment of Egypt, and the punishment of all Nations that come not up to keep the Feast of Tabernacles. The Phrase of bearing sins is constantly used in this sense; as when 'tis said, חטאם ישאו they shall bear their iniquity, they shall die, Lev. 20. 20. עונו ישא ἁμαρτίαν κεκρίνται, ἀπίστονται, Lev. 20. 17, 19. Numb. 14. 34. λήψεσθε τὰς ἁμαρτίας ὑμῶν, Lam. 5. 7. ὑπέχομεν τὰ ἀνομήματα αὐτῶν. If therefore ἁμαρτία in the Old Testament so often signifies the punishment of sin, and φέρειν ἁμαρτίαν doth constantly signifie to bear the punishment of sin, which in this case was Death, what Exception can be made against these words of Chrysostom? (a) What is the meaning of these words, in whom all have sinned? 'Tis this, he saith, even they who did not eat of the Tree, were by him made Mortal, (b) even as if they themselves had fallen, saith Theophylact, when he did. For, saith Theodoret, He being obnoxious to the Decree of Death, in that state he begat Cain, and Seth, and others: ἅπαντες ἦν ὡς ἐκ τοιούτε φύντες θνητὴν εἶχεν τὴν φύσιν, all therefore became Mortal, as being begotten of one that was Mortal. And seeing it is said, ἁμαρτωλοὶ, or ἡμαρτηκότες ἔσονται, they shall be sinners, who are to suffer Punishment; why may not these words, by the disobedience of one many were made sinners, admit the sense which Chrysostom, Oecumenius, and Theophylact give them? Τετέχθη ὑπαίθυνοι κολάσεως, καὶ κατάδικοι θανάτε, they shall for his Disobedience be subject unto Death and Punishment, the effects of sin; For, saith St. Chrysostom, 'tis no absurdity to say, that he sinning, and so being Mortal, they who proceed from him should be Mortal also; but how can it justly follow, that by his disobedience another should be made a sinner, for such a one will be found to deserve no Punishment, as not being Personally a sinner? Τὸ δὲ ἐκ τῆς παρακοῆς ἐκείνε ἕτερον ἁμαρτωλὸν γενέσθαι ποίαν ἀκολουθίαν ἔχει; ἐυρεθήσεται, καὶ ὅτε μηδὲ δίκην ὀφείλων ὁ τοιοῦτος εἰς τὸ μὴ ὄικοθεν γέγονεν ἁμαρτωλός. 'Tis true, we meet not with the words ἥμαρτον, and ἁμαρτωλοὶ κατεστάθησαν in this sense elsewhere in the New Testament; but then this may be because the comparison is not elsewhere made betwixt the first Adam, and the effects of his Disobedience, and the second Adam, and the effects of his Obedience to the Death, and because the opposite Phrase δίκαιοι κατεστάθησαν, required that the words opposed to them should be used in the Metonymical sense. For when the Apostle saith, By the obedience of one many were made righteous, it is evident he speaks not of Christ's Active Obedience, but of his Passive Obedience, or suffering Death for us. For, 1. The whole Chapter is employ'd in setting forth the Benefits accruing to us by his Death, v. 6, 8, 9, 10, 11. 2*ly*, The effect of this Obedience is our Justification, now that through the whole Scripture, and in this very Chapter, is constantly ascribed to the Death of Christ, and his Blood shed for us, ver. 9, 10, 16, 17, 18. 3*ly*, The Disobedience by which many were made sinners, is plainly declared by the Apostle to be one single act of disobedience in Adam, and therefore the Obedience opposed to it, cannot in reason be the Active Obedience of Christ's whole Life, but that Obedience to the Death, which the Apostle mentions, Philip. 2. 6, 8. Now by this Passive Obedience we cannot be made formally Righteous, but only Metonymically, by being made partakers of that freedom from the condemnation, and the guilt of sin, and that reconciliation which Christ purchased by his meritorious Death and Passion. Dissolvens enim eam quæ ab initio in ligno facta fuerat hominis inobedientiam, obediens factus est usque ad mortem, mortem autem crucis, eam quæ in ligno facta fuerat inobedientiam per eam quæ in ligno fuerat obedientiam sanans. Iren. l. 5. c. 56.

Ver. 20. (I say, before the Law we became obnoxious to Death by one man's disobedience,) but the Law entred that the offence might abound (unto death, and men might be found obnoxious to it also on the account of their Transgressions against the Law,) but where sin (thus) abounded (unto death,) Grace did much more abound (unto life.)

Ἵνα πλεονάσῃ τὸ παράπτωμα, the Law entred, that sin might abound unto Death.] Hence it is stiled the Letter that killeth, the Ministry of Death, and of Condemnation, 2 Cor. 3. 6, 7, 9. and subjects all that are under it, to a Curse, Gal. 3. 10.

Ver. 21. That as sin hath reigned unto death, (seizing on all men for it,) so grace might reign through righteousness, (Gr. justification) to eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord.

(a) Τὶ δέ ἐστιν ἐφ ᾧ πάντες ἥμαρτον, ἐκείνε πεπόντος, καὶ οἱ μὴ φαγόντες ἀπὸ τῆς ζύλης, γεγόνασιν ὡς ἐκεῖνε πάντες θνητοί. Chrysost. (b) Ὡς ἂν καὶ αὐτοὶ πταίσαντες διὰ ἐκείνου ἔπταισαν. Theoph.

CHAP.

CHAP. VI.

Verſe 1. WHat ſhall we ſay then? Shall we continue in ſin, (Gr. what do we ſay then? (do we ſay this) let us (who have received this Grace) continue ſtill in ſin) that grace may abound (towards us?) That is, do we by declaring that we are juſtified freely by Grace through the Redemption that is in Chriſt Jeſus, Chap. 3. 24. and that as Sin abounded, Grace did more abound, Chap. 5. 20. give occaſion to this Inference?)

Note here, that if the Faith, to which St. Paul in this Epiſtle doth aſcribe Juſtification, did not only oblige us to, but even comprehend Evangelical, and conſtant Obedience, there could be no colour for this Objection, that therefore muſt be a miſtake.

Ver. 2. God forbid (we ſhould make any ſuch inference from, or any uſe of this Doctrine, ſo contrary to that very Baptiſm by which we enter into the Chriſtian Covenant, and put on Chriſt, for) how ſhall we who are dead, (Gr. have died) to ſin (by our Baptiſm, or entrance into the Chriſtian Covenant) live any longer therein?

Ver. 3. For know ye not that as many (of us) as were baptized into (and by that Baptiſm profeſs'd our ſelves Diſciples of) Jeſus Chriſt, were baptized into (the likeneſs of) his death, (and ſo engag'd to die unto ſin, as he died for ſin, 1 Pet. 4. 1, 2. and this muſt alſo conſequently be an engagement to live to him that died for us, and roſe again, 2 Cor. 5. 15.

Ver. 4. (For) therefore we are buried with him by Baptiſm, (plunging us under the Water) into (a conformity to his) death, (which put his Body under the Earth) that like as Chriſt was raiſed up from the Grave by the glory(ous Power) of the Father, even ſo we alſo (thus dead in Baptiſm) ſhould (riſe with him, and) walk in newneſs of life.

Συνετάφημεν οὖν αὐτῷ διὰ τῦ βαπτίσματος, we are buried with him in Baptiſm.] It being ſo expreſly declared here, and Coloſ. 2. 12. that we are buried with Chriſt in Baptiſm, by being buried under Water; and the Argument to oblige us to a Conformity to his Death, by dying to ſin, being taken hence, and this immerſion being religiouſly obſerved by all Chriſtians for Thirteen Centuries, and approved by our Church, and the change of it into ſprinkling, even without any allowance from the Author of this Inſtitution, or any Licenſe from any Council of the Church, being that which the Romaniſt ſtill urgeth to juſtifie his refuſal of the Cup to the Laity, it were to be wiſh'd that this Cuſtom might be again of general uſe, and aſperſion only permitted, as of old, in caſe of the Clinici, or in preſent danger of Death.

Ver. 5. For if we have been planted together in the likeneſs of his death, (by dying unto ſin) we ſhall be alſo in the likeneſs of his Reſurrection, (by being ſo riſen from our Death unto ſin, as never to let ſin have any more Dominion over us, but dying unto ſin once for all, and henceforth living unto God, v. 9, 10.)

Ver. 6. (And thus we ſtand engag'd to die to ſin,) knowing this, that our old man is (was) crucified with him, that the body of ſin, (i. e. the appetites of the Body, which ſubject us to ſin,) might be deſtroyed, that henceforth we might not ſerve ſin. (For he bore our ſins in his own body on the Croſs, that we being dead to ſin, might live unto righteouſneſs, 1 Pet. 2. 24.

Ver. 7. (Which we ſhall not do if we be truly dead unto it,) for he that is dead is freed from ſin. (1 Pet. 4. 4. He ſins no more.)

Ver. 8. Now if we be (thus) dead with Chriſt, we believe that we ſhall live with him (not a ſpiritual only, but an happy and immortal Life.)

Συζήσομεν αὐτῷ, we ſhall live with him.] As being delivered by his Death, which was the Puniſhment of ſin, and having that Spirit which is the Giver of Eternal Life, and the Pledge and Earneſt of it, imparted to us, it is this Life which is the Object of our Faith, and of this the Apoſtle ſpeaks, 2 Tim. 2. 11. ſaying, If we have been dead with him, we ſhall alſo live with him; if we ſuffer, we ſhall alſo reign together with him.

Ver. 9. (And thus conform'd to his Death we ſhould be, and therefore) knowing that Chriſt being raiſed from the dead, now dieth no more, death hath no more dominion over him.

Ver. 10. For in that he died he died once to ſin, (or for ſin, i. e. in that he died to the putting away of ſin, Heb. 9. 26, 28. he died thus once for all) but in that he liveth, he liveth unto God, (i. e. the life he liveth is an Eternal Life, wholly dedicated to the Glory of God.)

Ἀπέθανεν ἐφάπαξ, he died once for all.] That is, Chriſt ſo died for our ſins once, as never to undergo Death again, and therefore his living to God ſeems to import his Reſurrection to Eternal Life; and ſo the Phraſe is uſed by St. Luke, where of the Children of the Reſurrection, which can die no more, he ſaith, they live unto God, Luke 20. 26, 28. And ſo the Phraſe is uſed in Joſephus, who ſaith, That (a) they who die for God ζῶσι τῷ θεῷ, live to God, as Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, and all the Patriarchs do; (b) they love that Piety which brings them to Eternal Life.

(a) De Macab. p. 1100. (b) Pag. 1102. A.

Ver.

Ver. 11. Likewiſe reckon ye your ſelves dead unto ſin, but living to God, through our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

Οὕτω καὶ ὑμεῖς, ſo alſo reckon ye your ſelves dead unto ſin.] Once for all, ſo as never to have any need of dying to it again, but as ſtill engag'd to live to God's Glory: For, ſay the Ancients, we can have but one Baptiſm, and this ſuppoſes we ſhould ſo die to ſin once, as never to have occaſion to perform that work again. Hence therefore it appears how far they are from Conformity to the Death of Chriſt, who ſtill ſuffer ſin to revive in them after that by pious Reſolutions and Repentance they have begun to mortifie it, and ſo are ſtill beginning again to die to it. And oh! that Chriſtians would more carefully attend to this Conformity to the Death of Chriſt.

Ver. 12, (Being therefore thus engag'd to die unto ſin,) let not ſin therefore reign in your mortal bodies, that you ſhould obey it in the luſts thereof.

Εἰς τὸ ὑπακούειν, to obey it.] For this Obedience to it in the luſtings of it, is a certain ſign of the Dominion of ſin in us, and of our being none of Chriſt's Servants; for they that are Chriſt's, have crucified the fleſh, with the affections and luſts, Gal. 5. 24.

Ver. 13. Neither yield ye your Members (any longer) as inſtruments of unrighteouſneſs to ſin, but yield (up) your ſelves (entirely) to (the Service of) God, as thoſe that are (with Chriſt) alive from the dead, and (yield) your Members inſtruments of righteouſneſs to God.

Ver. 14. (And ſay not this is beyond your ſtrength, ſeeing the Law in your Members leads you Captive to ſin,) for ſin ſhall not have dominion over you, for you are not under the (Pædagogy of the) Law, (which gives the knowledge of ſin, but not ſufficient ſtrength to mortifie it,) but under (that œconomy of) Grace, (which affords that Spirit of Life in Chriſt Jeſus, which frees us from the Law of Sin and Death.)

Ἁμαρτία γὰρ οὐ κυριεύσει, for ſin ſhall not have dominion.] This is a pious ſenſe, but ſeems to ſome to give no place for the following Objection. Others therefore Paraphraſe the words thus; For then ſin ſhall not have Dominion over you, ſo as to condemn you for each Tranſgreſſion, for you are not under the Law, (which pronounceth a Curſe on them that do not perfectly obey it) but (under that Covenant of) Grace, which affords Pardon and Forgiveneſs of it.

Ver. 15. What then? Shall we (go on in) ſin, becauſe we are not under the Law, (which condemns us for every Tranſgreſſion,) but under (that Covenant of) Grace, (which allows the pardon, and promiſes the forgiveneſs of it, Heb. 8. 12.) God forbid. (Shall we continue in the ſins forbidden by the Law, becauſe we are not under the Law?)

Ver. 16. Know ye not (this) that to whom ye yield your ſelves ſervants to obey, his ſervants you are to whom you obey, (and from him you muſt expect your Wages) whether (you be the ſervants) of ſin to (receive the wages of ſin, which is) Death, or (the ſervants of God) by obedience to (the obtaining the fruits of) Righteouſneſs.

Ver. 17. But God be thanked that (and God be thanked that though formerly, v. 19.) ye were the ſervants of ſin, but (yet, ſince your Converſion) you have obeyed from the heart that form of (Chriſtian) Doctrine which was delivered to you.

Χάρις δὲ τῷ θεῷ, but God be thanked.] He doth not here thank God that they had been the Servants of ſin, but that they who had been Servants to it, were become obedient to the Precepts of Chriſtianity, as our Lord thanks his Heavenly Father that he had hid theſe things from the wiſe and prudent, and had revealed them to Babes, Mat. 11. 25. i. e. That having hid them from the one, he notwithſtanding had revealed them to the other.

The Particle δὲ is ſometimes rendred and, as Luke 9. 6. 11. 18. Acts 3. 5. 4. 36. 8. 30. 9. 17. 11. 12. 13. 15. 15. 6. 21. 14. 23. 9, 13.

Sometimes then, Acts 6. 2, 7. 29. 13, 16. 12. 3. Mat. 1. 19. Luke 8. 29, 35.

Sometimes ſo, Acts 7. 15. Rom. 8. 8.

Sometimes yea, 1 Cor. 9. 16. 13. 21. Rom. 11. 30. 16. 19. 1 Cor. 2. 9.

Sometimes but, in the ſenſe of yet, Acts 28. 22. 1 Cor. 14. 1. and yet, Mat. 6. 9.

Sometimes for, Luke 12. 2, 48. 23. 14. Acts 7. 25. 1 Theſſ. 2. 16.

Alſo, Luke 12. 8. 13. 6.

Moreover, 2 Pet. 1. 15.

Howbeit, 1 Cor. 2. 9.

And ſo accordingly the words may be here rendred and God be thanked, or God be thanked then, that though ye were the Servants of ſin, yet, and in the Verſe following, ἐλευθερωθέντες δὲ.

Ver. 18. Being then (for being) made free from (the Law of) ſin (by the grace and aſſiſtance of that Spirit of Life the Goſpel Miniſters, Rom. 8. 2.) ye are become Servants unto Righteouſneſs.

Ver. 19. I ſpeak after the manner of men, becauſe of the infirmity of your fleſh, for as you have yielded your Members ſervants to uncleanneſs, and to iniquity, to (commit) iniquity, even ſo now yield your Members ſervants to righteouſneſs unto holineſs.

Ἀνθρώπινον λέγω.] The Apoſtle doth not here ſpeak, as ſome unhappily imagine, by way of Excuſe, for not uſing the beſt Argument he could uſe in this Affair, but ſuch as was beſt fitted to the Capacities and Notions of thoſe he writes to; for what inducements to yield their Members Inſtruments of Righteouſneſs to that Holineſs which will conclude in Life Eternal, could he uſe more rational and proper than than this, that they had formerly yielded them Servants to commit that ſin, whoſe wages is Death; but he ſpeaks this by way of illuſtration of his Argument, or Exhortation; the ſenſe which the Ancients put upon theſe words is this, τῇ φύσει μετρῶ τὴν παραίνεσιν, I frame my Exhortation with a due conſideration of the infirmity of your fleſh, requiring that only which even to Humane Reaſon muſt ſeem highly equitable, viz. that you ſhould do that Service now to God, which you have formerly done to Sin. I rather think the Apoſtle diſcourſeth to this effect: In this Diſcourſe of your being Servants formerly to Sin, and your Obligation now to be Servants to Righteouſneſs, I ſpeak that which all Natural Men muſt have had Experience of, by reaſon of the Infirmity of the Fleſh, and of which they may thence take a juſt Idea, requiring only, that as they have yielded their Members Inſtruments of Sin, ſo they would yield them Inſtruments of Righteouſneſs.

And that this is the genuine import of the words ἀνθρώπινον λέγω, may appear from the like uſe of it, 1 Cor. 10. 10. No temptation hath happened to you but that which is ἀνθρώπινος common to humane nature, and ſupportable by Men of Reaſon, and from the conſtant uſe of the Phraſe κατ' ἄνθρωπον λέγω, I ſpeak after the manner of men, of which ſee Note on 1 Cor. 9. 8.

Ver. 20. (Now, I ſay, for before you could not do it) for when you were ſervants of ſin, ye were free from righteouſneſs, (doing then no ſervice at all to it.)

Ver. 21. (And that you may not be ſtill enamour'd with your former Service unto ſin, I ask) what fruit had you then in (from) thoſe things, of which you are now aſhamed? (Surely none worthy to be compared with the fruits of Righteouſneſs,) for the end of theſe things is death.

Ver. 22. But now being made free from ſin, and become ſervants to God, you have (at preſent) your fruit unto holineſs, and the end thereof (will be) everlaſting life.

Ver. 23. For the wages of ſin (to its Servants) is death, but the gift of God (to his) is eternal life through Jeſus Chriſt our Lord.

Τὰ γὰρ ὀψώνια τῆς ἁμαρτίας θάνατος, for the wages of ſin is Death.] Hence Divines uſually conclude, that even Infants muſt have ſinned, becauſe they are ſubject to Death; now tho' this be ſo far true, that Death came upon all Men, and ſo upon Infants, by that ſin of Adam, which rendred him, and by him all his Off-ſpring ſubject to Mortality, yet this will no more follow from theſe words, than it will follow, that becauſe the wages of Rebellion is Death, all that die muſt be guilty of Rebellion. Moreover, the intention of the Apoſtle is not here to teach us that Death is the Puniſhment due to every ſin, but that that Death, which is in Scripture ſtiled the ſecond Death, and ſtands oppos'd to Eternal Life, will be the certain iſſue of a Life ſpent in the ſervice of ſin. For the Apoſtle throughout this Chapter ſpeaks of that ſin in which we continue, v. 1. and which we ſerve, v. 6, 20. and which ſo reigneth in our mortal Bodies, that we obey it in the luſts thereof, v. 12. By which we yield our members inſtruments of unrighteouſneſs to ſin, v. 13. 19. In which we ſo ſerve ſin, as to obey its Commands, v. 16, 17. and live free from Righteouſneſs, or in neglect of it, v. 20. The Wages, ſaith he, of ſin thus reigning in, and ſerved by us, is Eternal Death: 'Tis therefore manifeſt the Apoſtle ſpeaks not here of ſin imputed, but only of Perſonal ſin, nor of each ſingle Act, but of an habitual Practice, or a courſe of ſin.

CHAP. VII.

Verſe 1. (AND of the truth of what I told you, Chap. 6. 14. that you are not under the Law, but under Grace, you cannot well be ignorant, for) know ye not, Brethren, for I ſpeak to them that know the Law, (i. e. to the converted Proſelytes, or Jews) that the Law hath dominion over a man as long as he liveth.

Ὁ νόμος κυριεύει τοῦ ἀνθρώπου.] i. e. The Conjugal Law, which gives the Man Power over the Woman, is in force, and obtaineth whilſt the Man liveth, this ſenſe the Verſe following ſeems plainly to require.

Ver. 2. For the Woman which hath an Huſband (ὑπανδρος ſubvirilis) is bound by the Law to (cleave to, and be ſubject to) her Huſband as long as he liveth, but if the Huſband be dead, ſhe is (then) looſed from the Law of (ſubjection to) her Huſband.

Ver. 3. So then if while her Huſband liveth ſhe be married to another Man, ſhe ſhall be (truly) called an Adultereſs; but if her Huſband be dead, ſhe is free from that Law, (which bound her to be in ſubjection to, and yield Conjugal Affection to him only,) ſo that ſhe is no Adultereſs though ſhe be married to another man.

Μοιχαλὶς χρηματίσει, ſhe ſhall be called an Adultereſs.] The Apoſtle, ſaith Theodoret, conſiders not here the permiſſion given to the Woman divorced by the Law of Moſes, to be married to another, as being taught by Chriſt not to approve of ſuch Divorces: But the Apoſtle ſeems only to intimate that ſhe hath

hath no Power to diſſolve that Bond, by putting away her Husband; or perhaps he ſpeaks not of the Law of Moſes, but of that given in Paradiſe, Gen. 2.

Ver. 4. Wherefore, my Brethren, (as this Woman is become free from the Law of her Husband by his Death, even ſo) ye alſo are become dead to, (and therefore free from ſubjection to) the Law by (the Obligation of) the Body of Chriſt, that ye ſhould (or may) be married to another, even to him who is raiſed from the dead, that (by vertue of this Union to him) we ſhould bring forth fruit unto God.

Ἐθανατώθητε τῷ νόμῳ.] This Phraſe, Ye are dead to the Law, is, ſay Interpreters, the Law is put to Death to you; for to that, ſay they, the drift of the Diſcourſe directs. But firſt, this Interpretation puts a plain force upon the words, without any inſtance that they are elſewhere uſed in this ſenſe. 2. The parallel words, Gal. 2. 19, 20. run thus: I through the Law am dead to the Law, that I might live to God: I am crucified together with Chriſt. Now thoſe words ſeem to fix the proper ſenſe of theſe, ſhewing it to be alſo this: Ye are dead to the Law, that is, you are as free from ſubjection to the Precepts of the Law, and from the motions of Sin which are by the Law, as if you were dead. To ſtrengthen this Interpretation, let the Hebrew Phraſe be noted; (a) When a Man dies he is made free from the Commands, the Law μὴ κυριεύσει hath no dominion over him, no power to ſubject him to the motions of ſin which are by the Law, for he that is dead is free from ſin, Chap. 6. 6, 7. So that he doth no longer δουλεύειν ſerve the motions of it, and hence the Apoſtle makes this Inference: That if we be dead with Chriſt, and buried with him, or crucified together with him, ſin ὐ κυριεύσει ſhall not have Dominion over us, as it had whilſt we were under the Jewiſh Diſpenſation, for we are not under the Law, but under Grace. And again, Walk in the Spirit, and ye ſhall not fulfil the luſts of the fleſh, Gal. 5. 16. & v. 18. For if ye be led by the Spirit, ye are not under the Law. Wherefore the ſenſe of theſe four laſt Verſes ſeems to be this: The Law hath Dominion over a Man as long as he lives (under it,) for the caſe of a Man's ſubjection to the Law is in this like to the Woman's ſubjection to her Husband, it continues whilſt he lives, but when he is once dead, ſhe is free from any further ſubjection to him, ſeeing he being dead, can have no further Power over her, and ſo ſhe muſt be free to be married to another; in like manner you being dead to the Law, it can have no further Power over you, and the Law it ſelf being alſo dead to you, through the Death of Chriſt aboliſhing it, and freeing Chriſtians from the Power and Obligation of it, you are free to Marry to another Husband, even Chriſt.

Ver. 5. (We are, I ſay, become thus dead to the Law, this being neceſſary, that we might bring forth Fruit unto God.) For when we were in the fleſh, (i. e. when we lived under the Carnal Ordinances of the Law) the motions of ſin which were (occaſion'd) by that Law, did work in our members to bring forth fruit unto death, (rendring us obnoxious to Death, the Puniſhment threatned by the Law to the Tranſgreſſors of it.)

Ver. 6. But now we are delivered from the Law, (and from the motions of ſin cauſed by it) that being dead wherein we were held, (or being dead to that Law wherein we were held) that we might ſerve God in newneſs of (that) ſpirit (of Life in Chriſt Jeſus which makes us free from the Law of Sin and Death) and not (as before) in the oldneſs of the letter, (which killeth, or ſubjecteth us to Death, 2 Cor. 3. 6, 9.)

Ἀποθανόντος.] The Syriack and Arabick Verſions, Origen, Theodoret, Oecumenius, and Theophylact read ἀποθανόντες, which, ſaith Origen, is undoubtedly the beſt Reading: And this Reading confirms the ſenſe of the fourth Verſe as to thoſe words, Ye are dead to the Law, which I have offer'd in the Paraphraſe; i. e. being freed from the Obligation and Commands of it, and ſo from the luſtings and motions it wrought in us.

Ὥστε δουλεύειν ἡμᾶς ἐν καινότητι πνεύματος, that we might ſerve God in the newneſs of the Spirit.] The Law and the Goſpel are by the Apoſtle in this diſtinguiſh'd; that the firſt is only the miniſtration of the Letter, the other of the Spirit, 2 Cor. 3. 6, 7, 8, 9. The miniſtration of the Spirit is alſo declared to be the fruit, not of the Law, but of the hearing of Faith, Gal. 3. 3. Hence the Apoſtle here infers, that we muſt be dead unto, or free from ſubjection to the Law, that we may be enabled to ſerve God in newneſs of Spirit. Whence it is evident, that to ſerve God in the Spirit, is not to enjoy the ſpiritual ſenſe of the Law, as Mr. Le Cl. thinks.

Ver. 7. What ſhall we ſay then? Is the Law (from which we muſt be delivered, and to which we muſt be dead, that we may not obey the luſts of the fleſh) ſin? (Is it the cauſe of that ſin which worketh in our Members, whilſt we are under the Law?) God forbid, (that we ſhould ſo affirm,) nay, (ſo far otherwiſe is it, that the Law inſtructs us what is to be avoided as ſin, and under what Penalty) for I had not known luſt, (i. e. the luſtings, or covetous deſires of the Heart to be things worthy Death,) except the Law had ſaid, thou ſhalt not covet, (and ſo made him that coveteth obnoxious to Death, as being a tranſgreſſor of the Law.)

Ver. 8. But (or nevertheleſs) ſin taking occaſion by the Commandment, wrought in me all manner of Concupiſcence, (which became Mortal to me by vertue of the Prohibition of the Law.) For (whilſt I was) without the Law ſin was dead, (i. e. unable to have this effect upon me,) for where there is no Law there is no tranſgreſſion (imputed to death, Chap. 5. 13.)

Ver. 9. For I (the Seed of Abraham) was alive (or indeed lived) without the Law once, (before the Law was given, I being not obnoxious to death for that to which no Law had threatned death,) but when the Commandment came, (forbidding it under that Penalty,) ſin revived, and I died, (i. e. it got ſtrength to condemn me to Death.)

Ἐγὼ δὲ ἔζων χωρὶς νόμε, I was alive without the Law.] Πρὸ τῆ Μωυσέως, before the Law of Moſes came. So Chryſoſt. Oecum. Theoph.

Ver. 10. And the Commandment which was ordained to life, was found to me (tranſgreſſing it, to be) unto death.

Ordained.] This word is not in the Original, you may therefore Paraphraſe the words thus; (the Commandment which was given for life, i. e. with this Promiſe, do this and live, was found to me unto death.)

Ver. 11. For ſin taking occaſion by the Commandment deceived me, (or enticed me to the commiſſion of it,) and by it ſlew me.

For the explication of theſe four laſt Verſes, let it be noted,

1. That it is the Opinion of Judicious Commentators, that when the Apoſtle ſaith, Sin taking occaſion by the Commandment, wrought in him all manner of Concupiſcence, v. 8. and deceived him, v. 11. he means that it did this by ſaying only, thou ſhalt not covet, but aſſigning no Puniſhment to him that coveted. But this Interpretation cannot ſtand, for theſe two Reaſons: For firſt, it plainly contradicts the words of the Law, which pronounceth a Curſe upon every one who continues not in all things written in the Law to do them; and much more doth it contradict the drift of the Apoſtle's Diſcourſe in this, and the Epiſtle to the Galatians, viz. That the Law required perfect Obedience to its Precepts, condemning him to Death, or rendring him obnoxious to Condemnation, who in any thing tranſgreſs'd it, and ſo could be no means of Juſtification, as many as were under the Law, being under the Curſe, becauſe tranſgreſſors of it.

2. This agrees not with the following Reaſon, or the Nature of the thing; for if the Law given encouraged them to covet, becauſe it had no preſent Penalty annexed to it, they muſt be more free to covet, or follow their Natural and Carnal Inclinations, when there was no Law at all forbidding them to covet; and therefore ſin could take no more occaſion by a Law without Penalty, than by none at all, to work in us all manner of Concupiſcence, nor could Concupiſcence be dead without the Law, more than with it.

The old and common Interpretation is this, that the Prohibition of what we deſire makes us to think the enjoyment of it more ſweet and valuable, or at leaſt provokes the Carnal Mind, which is not ſubject to the Law of God, to a more fervent luſting after it; dum prohibita non refugit quam ardentius expetit, and this agrees very well with this expreſſion, v. 8. Or,

3. Sin is in Scripture repreſented as an Enemy that ſeeks our ruine and deſtruction, and takes all occaſions to effect it; it is here ſaid to War againſt the Mind, v. 23. elſewhere to War againſt the Soul, 1 Pet. 2. 11. to ſurround and beſet us, Heb. 12. 1. to bring us into bondage and ſubjection, and get the dominion over us, Rom. 6. 12. to entice us, and ſo to work our death, James 1. 14, 15. and to do all that Satan, the grand Enemy of Mankind, doth by tempting and ſolliciting us to the commiſſion of it; when therefore it finds a Law which threatneth Death to the violation of it, it takes occaſion thence more earneſtly to tempt, and to allure us to the violation of it, that ſo it may more effectually ſubject us to Death and Condemnation upon that account, for the ſting of death is ſin, and the ſtrength of ſin is the Law, condemning us to Death upon the violation of it: Thus when God had forbidden under the pain of Death the eating the forbidden Fruit, Satan thence took occaſion to tempt our firſt Parents to the breach of it, and ſo ſlew them, or made them ſubject to Death: ἀπάτησε, he deceived them, Gen. 3. 13. 1 Tim. 2. 14. which is the word here uſed, v. 11.

2*ly*. Obſerve the import of the Phraſe, Without the Law ſin was (or is) dead, which ſeems not to be this, that the inclinations of Men to ſin were in their Nature leſs when they were unreſtrain'd by a Law; But rather this, that ſin was then comparatively dead as to its Power of condemning us to Death: And this, firſt, the Antitheſis doth plainly hint, for thus it runs, Without the Law ἁμαρτία νεκρά, ἐγὼ δὲ ἔζων ſin was dead, but I was living, but when the Commandment came, ſin revived, and I died. How were Men living before the Law, but becauſe then no Law condemned them? Sin therefore muſt be then dead as to its Power of Condemning. How did they die when the Law came but by the Law condemning them to Death? Sin therefore then revived as to its Condemning Power, which it received firſt from the ſin of Adam, which brought Death into the World, and next from the Law of Moſes, which entred that the offence might abound, and reign more unto death, Rom. 5. 20, 21. For though ſin was in the World from Adam unto Moſes, or until the Law given, yet was it not imputed unto Death, when there was no Law given, that did threaten Death unto it; so that Death reign'd, in that interval, by vertue of Adam's sin alone, even over them who had not sinned after the similitude of Adam's transgression; i. e. against a positive Law forbidding it under the Penalty of Death, which Law being delivered by Moses, sin revived, (i. e.) it had again its force to condemn Men as before to death by vertue of a Law which threatned death to them; and in this sense doth the Apostle seem to say, that the Law was added because of transgressions, Gal. 3. 19. to convince us of the Wrath and Punishment due to them; and that the Law therefore worketh wrath, because where no Law is, there is no transgression, Rom. 4. 15. Subjecting us to Wrath, or no such sense of the Divine Wrath, as where a plain Divine Law threatning death and condemnation is violated, upon the sense thus given of these two Phrases, doth our Exposition stand.

Ver. 12. Wherefore the Law (forbidding sin) is holy, and the commandment (to abstain from it) is holy, just, and good, (as requiring only what is equitable in it self, and good for me to do.)

Ver. 13. Was that then which is good made death to me? (Gr. hath that therefore which is good become death to me?) (i. e.) Is that the sole and proper cause of bringing death to me?) God forbid (we should so say,) but (this charge is to be laid upon) sin, (which) that it might appear sin, (i. e. pernicious and destructive,) working death in (or to) me, by that which is good, (i. e. the Law, made me obnoxious to death) that sin by the commandment (forbidding it) might become exceeding sinful.

Καθ' ὑπερβολὴν ἁμαρτωλὸς, exceeding sinful.] That it might appear εἰς θάνατον ὑπερβάλλουσα, Chap. 5. 20, 21. abounding unto death, and so exceeding vile and hateful to us, the end and wages of it being death and condemnation, Chap. 6. 21, 23.

Ver. 14. (And that sin should thus prevail over us in this state of lapsed Nature to transgress the Law, and so become obnoxious to death by it, will not seem strange, if every Natural Man considers the contrariety there is betwixt him and the Law,) for we know that the Law is spiritual, (and requires spiritual things) but (every Natural Man hath cause to say of himself,) I am carnal, sold under sin, (i. e. enslaved by my corrupt Affections.)

Πεπραμένος ὑπὸ τὴν ἁμαρτίαν, sold under sin.] i. e. In peccati potestatem libidinis & concupiscentiæ pretio redactus, Origen; so enslav'd to it, saith Theophylact, ὥστε μὴ ἀνακύψαι δύνασθαι, that he could not look up; a willing Slave, who had sold himself to it, saith Theodoret. And this is continually the import of the Phrase in the Old Testament, as when it is said of Ahab, 1 Kings 21. 20. πέπρασαι ποιῆσαι τὸ πονηρὸν, thou hast sold thy self to do wickedly; and v. 25. ἐπράθη ποιῆσαι τὸ πονηρὸν, he sold himself to do wickedly. Of the Jews, Isa. 50. 1. ταῖς ἁμαρτίαις ὑμῶν ἐπράθητε, you have sold your selves to your iniquities. And of the Jews, who under Antiochus Epiphanes revolted from their Religion to Heathenism, it is said, that ἐπράθησαν τοῦ ποιῆσαι τὸ πονηρὸν, they sold themselves to do evil, 1 Maccab. 1. 15.

Ver. 15. (As may be easily discerned from the workings of our own Conscience against the evil that we do.) For that which I do I allow not (in my own mind,) for what I would do, (in complyance with the Law) that (through the prevalence of my corrupt Nature) I do not; but what (through the conviction of my Conscience) I hate (to do) that I do.

Ὃ μισῶ, that which I hate.] Τοῦτο τῆς ἡδονῆς καταθελγόμενοι ποιοῦμεν ἅπερ ὡς παράνομα βδελυττόμεθα, being allured with pleasure, we, say Theodoret and Oecumenius, oft do those things which we abominate, as being opposite to the Law; for whilst the Law represents sin as pernicious, and destructive both to Soul and Body, it is as natural for all Men to hate it, as to love themselves; but then, as Photius saith, when τὸ ἡδὺ τῆς πράγματος περιβάλλεται, the sweetness or pleasure of the Action is proposed to the mind, the hatred goes off, and the Soul is wrought up to an affection to it; and thus is it with every enlightned Man, that sins against his Conscience, and doth the evil which he would not do. These words, saith Origen, shew that the Carnal Man, of whom he speaks, resistere aliquantulum vitiis conatur, endeavours a little to resist his Vices, legis sc. naturalis instinctu, by the instinct of the Law of Nature, but that at last he is overcome by them, and oppressed with them.

Ver. 16. If then (it be so with me) that I do that which I would not, (by this unwillingness to act in contradiction to it,) I consent unto the Law that it is good, (and commands what is good for me to do.)

Ver. 17. (Now then this being done by those corrupt Affections which over-power me, against the approbation of my Mind, and the inclination of my Will,) it is no more I (according to the better part from which I am denominated) that do it, but sin that dwelleth in me, (i. e. in my flesh, v. 23. and captivates me to the obedience of it.)

Ἡ οἰκοῦσα ἐν ἐμοὶ ἁμαρτία, sin that dwelleth in me.] This he speaks, saith Theodoret, calling τῇ νῦν τὴν δουλείαν καὶ τῶν παθῶν τὴν δεσποτείαν, the slavery of the mind, and the dominion, or, as Theophylact, the Tyranny of the Passions, sin, It is, saith Origen, lex, & voluntas carnis quæ captivos nos ducit in lege peccati, the Law, and Will of the flesh, which leads us Captive in the Law of sin; hence this sin dwelling in us is so often stiled the Law of sin in our members, v. 20, 21, 22, 25. Chap. 8. 2.

Here

Here the Apoſtle ſeems to ſpeak according to the Philoſophy of the Heathen, with which the Jews began to be acquainted, that Man was not to be denominated from his Body, or his Senſual and Carnal Part, but from his Mind, his νῦς, or λογικὴ διάνοια, which in (b) Philo's Phraſe is ὁ ἐν ἑκαστῳ ἡμῶν ἄνθρωπος, the Man within us, ὁ πρὸς ἀλήθειαν ἄνθρωπος, (c) the true man, the man properly ſo called: Who ſaith moreover, λέγει δὲ τοῦτο ὁ ἀληθινὸς ἄνθρωπος ὁ ἐπὶ ψυχῆς ἔλεγχος, this ſaith the true man, the reprover in the ſoul. And of himſelf he ſpeaks thus; Men may have power over my Body, but that is nothing to me, ἐγὼ γὰρ ἀπὸ τῆς χρηστου τῆς ἐν ἐμαυτῳ διανοιας χρηματίζω, (d) for I am denominated from my mind, the better Part, according to which I deſign to live.

Ver. 18. (And upon this I have juſt ground to charge it,) for I know that in me, that is, in my fleſh, dwelleth no good thing, for to will (that which is good) is preſent with me, (or to me) but to perform that which is good I find not (ſtrength.)

Ver. 19. For (in event I find that) the good that I would (do) I do not, but the evil which (the Law prohibits, and) I would not (do) that (being over-power'd by the fleſh) I do.

Ver. 20. Now if I (thus) do that I would not, it is no longer I (chuſing and approving the action in my mind) that do this, but ſin that dwelleth in me, (i. e. in my Fleſh, that hurries me to the commiſſion of it againſt the Law, and inclination of my Mind.)

Ver. 21. (For ſo it is that) I find (Gr. ἄρα indeed) a Law (in my Members ſo thwarting the inclinations and convictions of my Mind,) that when I would do (the) good (to which the Law directs me) evil is preſent with me, (to oppoſe and hinder me from doing it.)

Ver. 22. (I ſay, when I would do good,) for I delight in the Law of God in the inward man, (my mind approving for ſome time, and being pleaſed with its good and holy Precepts.)

Κατὰ τὸν ἔσω ἄνθρωπον, according to the inward man.] It is plain the inward Man here cannot ſignifie the new man, which is created after God in righteouſneſs and holineſs, Eph. 4. 24. and which is not put on, till all old things are paſt away, 2 Cor. 5. 17. and all things are become new, and till we have put off the old man with his deeds, Coloſ. 3. 9, 10. For ſure this cannot be ſaid of him, who is ſtill carnal, ſold under ſin, and captivated to the Law of ſin which is in his members; but only the Mind of Man, the νῦς, as the Apoſtle doth interpret himſelf, v. 25. So Origen informs us, that the Soul uſing the Body as its Inſtrument, is called ὁ ἔσω ἄνθρωπος, the inward man. Contra Celſ. l. 7. p. 357. Ἔσω ἄνθρωπον τὸν νῦν λέγει. So Theodoret, Oecumenius, Theophylact. So the very next Verſe ſhews the coherence, Seeing I delight in the Law of God in the inward man, but I ſee another Law in my members warring againſt the Law of my mind, (i. e.) of my inward Man. And ſo the Apoſtle uſeth the Phraſe when he ſaith, 2 Cor. 4. 16. that though ὁ ἔξω ἄνθρωπος, the outward Man, (i. e.) the Body, was corrupted, yet ὁ ἔσωθεν, the inward man was renewed day by day. And that this delight is no Evidence of a regenerate Man is evident from the Example of the ſtony Ground, which heard the Word μετὰ χαρᾶς with joy, Mat. 13. 20. Of Herod, who heard John Baptiſt ἡδέως with delight, Mark 6. 20. Of the Jews, who rejoiced in his light, John 5. 35. and heard our Saviour gladly, Mark 12. 37.

Ver. 23. But I ſee (or perceive) another Law (of the fleſh) in my members warring againſt the Law of my mind, and bringing me into captivity to the Law of ſin, which is in my members, (for of what a man is overcome, of that is he brought into bondage, 2 Pet. 2. 19. John 8. 34. Rom. 6. 16.)

Ver. 24. (And being thus enſlaved to that ſin which renders me obnoxious to death, the wages of it, I am even forced to cry out) Oh wretched man that I am, who ſhall deliver me from the Body of (ſin, which worketh) death?

Ver. 25. (And ſo) I (have great reaſon to) thank God through Jeſus Chriſt, (whom he hath ſent to Redeem me from this death, to which I am obnoxious by ſin.) So then (to ſhut up this Diſcourſe, thus is it with me whilſt under the Law only) with the mind I my ſelf (or I the ſame man) ſerve the Law of God, but with the fleſh the Law of ſin.

Εὐχαριστῶ τῳ θεῳ, I thank God.] The Latin Verſion, and one Greek Copy reads χάρις τῳ θεῳ, the Grace of God; but the Syriack, Arabick, and all the Greek Commentators agree with our Tranſlation, which therefore is to be preferred before that Lection.

Αὐτὸς ἐγὼ, the ſame man.] Of whom he had before ſpoken, not I Paul now writing this Epiſtle. It hath been a Controverſie ſince St. Auſtin's time, whether St. Paul here ſpeaketh in his own Perſon, or in the Perſon of a Regenerate Man, or only in the Perſon of a Jew conflicting with the motions of his Luſts, only by the aſſiſtance of the letter of the Law, without the aids and powerful aſſiſtance of the Holy Spirit; which is as great an inſtance of the force of Prejudice, and the heat of Oppoſition to pervert the plaineſt Truths, as can be haply produced; for I think nothing can be more evident and unqueſtionably true than this, that the Apoſtle doth not here ſpeak of himſelf in his own Perſon, or in the ſtate he was then in, but as the Ancient Commentators do interpret him, δι' ἑαυτοῦ ὁ Ἀπόστολος τὸν κοινὸν ἄνθρωπον ἐδίδαξε, by himſelf he repreſents man in common, and ſaith not as he might have done, you that are under the Law are Carnal, but τὰ ἐκείνων ἐφ' ἑαυτοῦ σχηματίζων, καὶ τὸ τραχὺ, καὶ σκοδρὸν ἐκλύων, καὶ λεαίνων τῇ περὶ ἑαυτοῦ ῥηματολογίᾳ, repreſenting what belonged to them in his own Perſon, and ſo taking off the harſhneſs, and mollifying the invidiouſneſs of the Sentence, by ſpeaking of it in his own Perſon, he ſaith, I am carnal, ſold under ſin. So Photius and Oecumenius, Theodoret alſo doth inform us that the Apoſtle here introduceth, v. 14. Τὸν πρὸ τῆς χάριτος ἄνθρωπον πολιορκούμενον ὑπὸ τῶν παθῶν, a Man before Grace overcome by his Paſſions, for he calls him Carnal, who had not yet obtained the aſſiſtance of the Holy Spirit. And again, v. 23. he adds, that the Apoſtle having diſcourſed all theſe things, ὥστε δεῖξαι τίνες μὲν πρὸ τῆς χάριτος ἦμεν, to ſhew what we were before Grace, and what we are made after Grace, and as it were taking upon himſelf the Perſon of thoſe who before Grace were vanquiſh'd by ſin, he groans, and laments as a Man ſet in the midſt of his Enemies, enſlav'd and conſtrain'd to ſerve, and ſeeing no help, and thus he ſhews the Law unable to help us. And ſo Origen alſo frequently in his Commentary on the Place, and St. Auſtin ſaith expreſly, and frequently, Deſcribitur homo ſub lege poſitus ante gratiam, liber expoſ. quar. propoſ. ex Epiſt. ad Rom. Quo loco videtur mihi Apoſtolus transfiguraſſe in ſe hominem ſub lege poſitum ad ſimplic. Mediol. l. 1. Et in hæc verba non ego operor illud, &c. loquitur adhuc ex perſonâ hominis ſub lege conſtituti nondum ſub gratiâ. Though he was pleaſed afterwards to change his Opinion, and ſo gave occaſion to the perverting the plain ſenſe of the Apoſtle. For confutation of this dangerous Opinion, I need not to ſay much after the Labours of Arminius, the Reverend Dr. Hammond, Mr. Bull, and Mr. Kettlewell, who have made it manifeſt,

1. That it is uſual with the Apoſtle to make this Metaſchematiſm, or to ſpeak eſpecially of things that might be otherwiſe offenſive, or ungrateful, in his own Name, when indeed they belong not to him, but to other Men: As in theſe words, Rom. 3. 7. If the truth of God hath more abounded through my lye, why am I alſo judged as a ſinner, i. e. not I Paul, but I who make this Objection? So Galat. 2. 16, 17. 1 Cor. 4. 6. Theſe things μετεσχημάτισα I have in a figure transferred to my ſelf, and to Apollos for your ſakes. So 1 Cor. 6. 12. 1 Cor. 13. 2. 1 Cor. 10. 22, 30. Eph. 2. 3. 1 Theſſ. 4. 17.

2*ly*. That ſuch things are in this Chapter ſaid of the Perſon ſpoken of, as can by no means agree to St Paul, or to any regenerate Perſon; to which may be added,

1. That had St. Paul here ſpoken of himſelf, conſidered in the ſtate in which he was at the enditing of this Epiſtle, he muſt have contradicted what he had ſaid of himſelf in the Epiſtle to the Theſſalonians, and to the Corinthians, which were writ before this Epiſtle. For (1.) In his Epiſtle to the Theſſalonians he ſaith, You are Witneſſes, and God alſo, how holily, and righteouſly, and unblameably we behaved our ſelves among you that believed, 1 Theſſ. 2. 10. In his Second Epiſtle to the Corinthians he ſpeaks thus; This is our rejoicing, even the teſtimony of our Conſcience, that in ſimplicity and godly ſincerity, not in fleſhly wiſdom, but by the grace of God we have converſed in this World, 2 Cor. 1. 12. That he knew nothing by himſelf, for which to condemn himſelf, 1 Cor. 4. 4. That he kept under his Body, and brought it into ſubjection, 1 Cor. 9. 27. Now, can the Man who is carnal, and ſold under ſin, who hath no power in him to do any good, who finds a Law in his members warring againſt the Law of his mind, and bringing him into captivity to the Law of ſin, which is in his members, call God and the Church to Witneſs to his holy and unblameable Life? Can he boaſt of keeping under his fleſhly Body, and bringing that into ſubjection, which by his own confeſſion bringeth him into captivity? Can he who does not what he would in his Mind and Conſcience do, but what he hates; not the good which he would, but the evil which he would not; can he, I ſay, rejoice in the Teſtimony of his Conſcience? Can he honeſtly declare he knows nothing by himſelf, for which his Conſcience can condemn him?

2. How oft doth the Apoſtle propoſe himſelf a Pattern to the Churches unto whom he writes, requiring them to be followers of him, as he was alſo of Chriſt, 1 Cor. 11. 1. And again, What things you have learned, and received, and heard, and ſeen in me, theſe do, and the God of love and peace ſhall be with you, Philip. 4. 8. i. e. be you carnal, ſold under ſin, living in the commiſſion of the things you hate, and your mind condemns, and doing what you judge to be evil, and yielding your ſelves captive to the Law of ſin, which is in your members, and then the God of love and peace ſhall be with you? This ſure is an abſurd, if not blaſphemous Exhortation, and yet, according to this Expoſition, it muſt be ſuitable unto the mind of the Apoſtle.

3. With what indignation doth he reject the Accuſations of them who look'd upon him as Walking after the Fleſh, and how ſeverely doth he threaten them, how peremptorily doth he reject their ſcandalous Imputation? Declaring, that though he walked in the fleſh, yet did he not walk according to the fleſh, 2 Cor. 10. 2, 3. and yet if he were carnal, ſold under ſin, if with the fleſh he ſerved the Law of ſin, if the Law of his fleſhly Members

warred againſt the Law of his mind, and brought him into captivity to the Law of ſin, he doth here in effect confeſs what there he peremptorily denies, and with ſuch indignation doth reject.

4. This Expoſition of the Seventh Chapter makes it entirely to confute the Chapter which immediately goes before, and follows after; it gives an invincible ſtrength to the Objections he endeavours to anſwer in the Sixth Chapter. The firſt Objection there begins by way of Enquiry, What do we ſay then, ſhall we ſtill continue in ſin that grace may abound? His Second by way of like Enquiry, Shall we ſin, becauſe we are not under the Law, but under Grace? v. 15. God forbid, ſaith he, that it ſhould be thus with any Chriſtian, and yet according to this Expoſition it was thus with himſelf, one of the beſt of Chriſtians; for ſure he muſt continue in ſin, who was ſtill ſold under ſin, ſtill ſerving the Law of ſin with his fleſh, ſtill doing that evil he allowed not, the evil which he hated, and he would not do, and who was ſtill brought into captivity to the Law of ſin which was in his members.

Again, In his Anſwer to theſe Enquiries he ſhews the Chriſtian could not continue in ſin, or live any longer in it, becauſe he was dead to ſin, his old man was crucified with Chriſt, that the body of ſin might be deſtroyed, that henceforth he might not ſerve ſin, v. 2, 6. And becauſe being dead to, he was freed from ſin, v. 7. He was made free from ſin, and become the ſervant of righteouſneſs. But can he that is ſold under ſin, and is brought into Captivity to the Law of ſin which is in his Members, be at the ſame time dead to ſin, and free from ſin? Can he who with his Fleſh ſerves the Law of ſin, be ſaid to ceaſe from ſin, and not henceforth to ſerve ſin? Not to obey it in the luſts thereof, v. 12. not to yield his members inſtruments of ſin unto unrighteouſneſs, v. 13. Surely there is as clear an Oppoſition betwixt the Chriſtian repreſented in the Sixth Chapter, as free from ſin, and in the Seventh, as miſerably enſlaved to the Law of ſin and death which was in his members, as betwixt Light and Darkneſs.

Again, he ſaith expreſly, Chap. 8. 2. The Law of the ſpirit of life in Chriſt Jeſus hath made me free from the Law of ſin and death. Whereas the Perſon mentioned in the 7*th. is ſold under ſin*, is brought into captivity to the Law of ſin, and cryeth out under his Bondage, Oh miſerable man that I am, who ſhall deliver me from the body of this death! He therefore cannot be the Perſon freed by the ſpirit from the Law of ſin and death.

In fine, this Expoſition of the cloſe of this Chapter contradicts the beginning of it, for there the Apoſtle ſaith of himſelf, and all his Chriſtian Brethren, that this was only their ſtate under the Law, from which they are delivered, that they might bring forth fruit unto God, and ſerve him in newneſs of ſpirit. For what elſe can be the meaning of theſe words, v. 5, 6. For when we were in the fleſh, the motions of ſin which were by the Law did work in our members to bring forth fruit unto death, but now we are delivered from the Law, that being dead, wherein we were held, that we ſhould ſerve God in newneſs of ſpirit, and not in the oldneſs of the letter. So that they who make the Apoſtle ſay of himſelf, that he was brought into captivity to the law of ſin, which was in his members, and to cry out, Oh wretched man that I am, who ſhall deliver me from the body of this death! i. e. this body of ſin which worketh Death; Make him alſo to confeſs that the motions of ſin did ſtill work in his members to bring forth fruit unto death, and therefore that he was ſtill in the fleſh. I therefore conclude this Diſcourſe, in the words of Grotius on v. 19. Deo laus ſit quod optimi, i. e. trium priorum ſæculorum Chriſtiani, hunc locum, ſicut oportet, intellexerint, dictante illo ſpiritu per quem vita ipſorum regebatur.

CHAP. VIII.

Verſe 1. (BEing then married to this other Husband, Chriſt, and ſo freed from the motions of ſin which are by the Law, that we may ſerve God in the newneſs of the Spirit, Chap. 7. 4, 5, 6.) There is therefore (ἄρα verily) no condemnation to them which are in Chriſt Jeſus, (by Faith they being ſuch who now) walk not after the fleſh, (as whilſt they were under the Law they did) but after the ſpirit (conferred upon them by Faith in Chriſt.)

Ἐν Χριστῷ.] The Phraſe εἶναι ἐν Χριστῷ, ſaith Mr. le Cl. is often uſed by St. Paul for being a Chriſtian, which Note he borrowed from Caſtalio, who renders it Chriſtiani facti; but if either of them mean only Chriſtians by Profeſſion, or by being only Members of the Chriſtian Church, this will by no means agree with this Place, or any other of like Nature, ſince freedom from Condemnation, and other Benefits conferred upon us through Chriſt Jeſus will not follow our being Chriſtians in this ſenſe, but upon a lively Faith in Chriſt, our Union to him by the Spirit, our being ſo in him, as to become new Creatures, according to theſe words, v. 9. If any man have not the ſpirit of Chriſt, dwelling in him, he is none of his, 2 Cor. 5. 17. They that are Chriſt's have crucified the fleſh, with its affections and luſts. See 1 Cor. 1. 30. 2 Cor. 10. 7. & 13. 5. Gal. 3. 28, 29. & 5. 6. 1 Theſſ. 4. 16. 1 John 5. 20.

Ver.

Ver. 2. For the law of the ſpirit of life in Chriſt Jeſus hath made me (believing in him) free from the law of ſin and death.

Ὁ γὰρ νόμος τοῦ πνεύματος, for the law of the ſpirit of life.] i. e. The Spirit of Chriſt giving me a new Life, is now another Law, or Rule of my Actions, freeing me from the motions, and power of ſin, to which I was ſubject whilſt under the Law, and from the Death to which that ſubjected me, or the Goſpel, attended with the Spirit, hath wrought this freedom in me, as Methodius interprets the words ὁ γὰρ νόμος τοῦ πνεύματος, ὃ δή ἐστι τὸ εὐαγγέλιον. Method. apud Phot. p. 918.

Ver. 3. For what the law could not do, (i. e. that life, and that deliverance from Death it could not give) in that it was (made) weak through the fleſh, (rendring us ſubject to the tranſgreſſion of it, and ſo to Death) God ſending his Son in the likeneſs of ſinful fleſh, (did) and for ſin, (Gr. καὶ περὶ ἁμαρτίας, and by a Sacrifice for ſin) condemned ſin in the fleſh, (i. e. took away its Power to condemn us, the Condemnation due unto us for it being inflicted on him.)

Καὶ περὶ ἁμαρτίας.] This Phraſe in the Old Teſtament is the uſual Phraſe for a Sin-Offering: So a Bullock for a Sin-Offering is μόσχος περὶ ἁμαρτίας, Lev. 4. 3, 18. 8. 2, 14. 9. 2, 8. 16. 3, 6, 27. & v. 9. 11. The Lamb for a Sin-Offering is πρόβατον περὶ τῆς ἁμαρτίας, Lev. 4. 32. or ἀμνὰς περὶ ἁμαρτίας, Lev. 5. 6, 7. Numb. 6. 16. And in like manner the Goat for a Sin-Offering is χίμαιρα περὶ ἁμαρτίας, Lev. 5. 6. or χίμαρος, Lev. 9. 3, 15. 10. 6. 16. 5, 15, 27. 23. 19, &c. The Dove for a Sin-Offering is ὁ τρύγων περὶ ἁμαρτίας, Lev. 5 7. 12. 6, 8. 14. 22, 31. 15. 15, &c. The Sin-Offering is τὸ περὶ ἁμαρτίας, Lev. 5. 8, 9, 11. 6. 30. 7. 7, 37, &c. and ſo in many other places. This therefore is ſufficient to eſtabliſh the ſenſe of theſe words given in the Paraphraſe; now the conſtant effect of this Sin Offering was this, To make an atonement for the ſin committed, that it might be forgiven, and the guilt of it might be done away. It therefore ſeems moſt reaſonable to interpret the effect of this Sacrifice delivered in theſe words, And for ſin condemned ſin in the fleſh, agreeably to the conſtant deſign of all Sacrifices for ſin, and then theſe words muſt ſignifie, not that he gave us power to kill ſin, or by this Example, of his Wrath againſt it, engaged us to forſake our ſinful courſes, but that he took away its condemning Power; he condemn'd that which before condemn'd us, enabling us to ſay, τίς ὁ κατακρίνων, Who is he that condemns us? It is Chriſt that died, Rom. 8. 34. He killed ſin, or made it dead by the death which cauſed it not to be imputed to us to Death, 2 Cor. 5. 19. And this is the thing which the Law could not do, it could not give Life to a Perſon condemn'd to Death, Gal. 3. 21. it could not juſtifie or free us from Condemnation.

Ver. 4. That the righteouſneſs of the law, (i. e. that inward Purity and Righteouſneſs the Law required) might be (performed and) fulfilled in (and by) us, who walk not after (the luſts of) the fleſh, but after the (motions of the) ſpirit. Or,

That the Juſtification which the Law promiſed by ſaying, Do this, and thou ſhalt live, Luke 10.28. Deut.4.1. 30.15,19. Ezek.20. 11. And that this ſhould be their Righteouſneſs, Deut. 6. 25. might be compleated in us, who walk according to the Spirit, and ſo are abſolved not only from Condemnation for our paſt ſins by Faith, but from Condemnation by the new Covenant, by walking according to the Spirit, for to be ſpiritually minded is life, v. 6.

Τὸ δικαίωμα τοῦ νόμου, the Righteouſneſs of the Law.] Is a Phraſe which occurs only here and Rom. 2. 26. where it plainly ſignifies the Righteouſneſs contained in the Moral Law, or thoſe internal Principles of Holineſs, Juſtice, and Goodneſs, which are compriſed in it, theſe being the weightier matters of the Law, Mat. 23. 23. and the only things in which the uncircumciſion, or the Gentiles could keep τὰ δικαιώματα τοῦ νόμου, the Righteouſneſſes of the Law; here therefore I conceive the Phraſe bears the ſame ſenſe, and confutes the vain Imaginations of the Antinomians.

That which hath made moſt Commentators interpret the Third Verſe otherwiſe than I have done, ſeems to be this, that they ſeem not ſufficiently to have conſidered the double effect of our Lord's Death and Paſſion, and the Order in which they are placed in Scripture, viz. 1. freedom from Condemnation, Juſtification, and Reconciliation to God: And, 2. the vouchſafement of his Spirit as the conſequent of that Faith which rendreth us the Sons of God, God being firſt reconciled to us by Faith in his Sons Blood, and then giving us this Token of his Love, viz. his Spirit to dwell in our hearts; by the firſt of which we are juſtified, and by the ſecond we are ſanctified; by the firſt freed from the Law of Death, by the ſecond from the Law of Sin, 1 Cor. 6. 11. The firſt is the Grace of God, We being juſtified freely by his grace through the redemption that is in Chriſt Jeſus, Rom. 3. 24. The ſecond is, the gift through Grace; the firſt Juſtification, the ſecond ἡ δωρεὰ δικαιοσύνης, the gift following upon our Juſtification, being juſtified freely by his grace, we have peace with God, Rom. 5. 1. And then the love of God is ſhed abroad in our hearts by the ſpirit that he hath given us, v. 5. Ye are all Sons of God by Faith in Chriſt Jeſus, and becauſe ye are Sons, God hath ſent the Spirit of his Son into your hearts, Gal. 4. 6. Whence he is here ſtiled the Spirit of Adoption. v. 16. Chriſt hath redeemed us from the curſe of the law, that the Bleſſing of Abraham, (i. e. Juſtification by Faith) might come upon the Gentiles, Gentiles, that they might receive the promiſe of the Spirit, Gal. 3. 14. For believing in him, we are ſealed with the Holy Spirit of Promiſe, Eph. 1. 14. Now theſe two being always connected, the Apoſtle goes frequently from the one to the other; firſt mentioning our freedom from Condemnation, then our walking in the Spirit, v. 1, 2. Our freedom from the guilt of ſin by the Death of Chriſt, v. 3. and then our fulfilling the Righteouſneſs of the Law by the Spirit of Chriſt, v. 4. And becauſe the Law could not juſtifie or free us from the Condemning Power of ſin, therefore concluding that it could not give the Spirit of Chriſt to ſanctifie us, and that we therefore muſt be freed from the Law, that we might ſerve God in the newneſs of the ſpirit, Rom. 7. 6. Gal. 3. 3.

Ver. 5. (Not after the fleſh, I ſay,) for they that are of the fleſh, do mind the things of the fleſh, (i. e. affect, and deſire, and purſue carnal things) but they that are after the ſpirit, (affect, deſire, and purſue) the things of the ſpirit, (and ſo the one purſues the things which tend to Death, and the other thoſe things which tend to Life.)

Ver. 6. For to be carnally minded is (the way which tends to) death, but to be ſpiritually minded is (the way that leads to) life and peace, v. 7. (which life and peace cannot be obtained by them that are carnally minded) becauſe the carnal mind is (that which ſets us at) enmity againſt God, for it is not ſubject to the Law of God, neither indeed can be (ſubject to it whilſt it continues ſuch.)

Ver. 8. So then they that are in the fleſh cannot pleaſe God.

Ver. 9. But (tis not ſo with you Chriſtians, for) ye are not in the fleſh, but in the ſpirit, if ſo be the ſpirit of God dwell in you; now if any man have not the ſpirit of Chriſt (dwelling in him) he is none of his.

Ver. 10. But if Chriſt be in you (by his Spirit,) the body is dead, (it is indeed ſtill Mortal) becauſe of ſin, (which will never ceaſe to be in us till we die,) but the ſpirit is life, (i. e. will give life to it again) becauſe of Righteouſneſs, (or of that Juſtification which is unto Life, Rom. 5. 17, 18.)

Τὸ μὲν σῶμα νεκρὸν δι' ἁμαρτίαν, the Body is dead becauſe of ſin.] That the Apoſtle ſpeaks not here of the Moral, but of the Natural, Death of the Body, appears from this Conſideration, that in the Verſe following he ſpeaks of this mortal Body, and of the raiſing it from the dead; and that by the Spirit he doth not underſtand the ſpirit of a Man, but the Holy Ghoſt is alſo evident, becauſe this Spirit in the foregoing Verſe is the ſpirit of Chriſt; in the following Verſe, the ſpirit that raiſed Chriſt from the dead, and will raiſe us, in whom he doth inhabit, from it.

Now the reaſon why after our freedom from Condemnation by the Death of Chriſt, our Bodies are ſtill ſubject to Death, is thus aſſigned by the Fathers: Becauſe (a) ſhould we have lived for ever in this imperfect ſtate, we ſhould have ſinned for ever, and therefore God permits good Men ſtill to die, that ſin might not live for ever in them; doing this not out of his diſpleaſure to puniſh them for ſin, but out of mercy to free them from it.

Ver. 11. But (for) if the ſpirit of him that raiſed up Jeſus from the dead dwell in you, he that raiſed up Chriſt from the dead (by the Spirit dwelling in him) ſhall alſo quicken your mortal bodies by the (ſame) ſpirit that dwelleth in you.

Διὰ τοῦ ἐνοικοῦντος πνεύματος ἐν ὑμῖν, by the Spirit that dwelleth in you.] This is ſpoken according to the Opinion of the Jews, that the Reſurrection ſhall be effected by vertue of the Holy Spirit, which they conclude from thoſe words of the Prophet Ezekiel, Chap. 37. 9, 10. Come, Oh Spirit, from the four Winds, and blow upon theſe dead, that they may live. Thus was our Lord raiſed from the Dead, 1 Pet. 3. 18. Thus ſhall we be raiſed, who are the Temples of the Holy Ghoſt, ſaith this Verſe: And with this agrees the Doctrine of the Ancient Fathers. (b) Our Bodies riſing by the Spirit, ſaith Irenæus, ſhall be made ſpiritual, and by the Spirit ſhall have Life. (c) They who are dead and buried with Chriſt, may know that by the Spirit which raiſed him up, they ſhall be raiſed. Origen.

Ver. 12. Therefore Brethren, we are debtors not to the fleſh, to live after the fleſh (any longer, but rather to live after the Spirit.)

Ver. 13. For if ye live after the fleſh, ye ſhall die, (i. e. be ſubject to Death, as the Puniſhment of ſin, or to the ſecond Death,) but if ye through the ſpirit do mortifie the deeds

deeds of the fleſh, ye ſhall live, (and your Bodies ſhall be raiſed to Life Eternal.)

Ver. 14. For as many as are led by the ſpirit of God, they are the Sons of God.

Υἱοὶ θεοῦ, Sons of God.] The ſtrength of this Argument will be exceeding clear from theſe Conſiderations, That the adopted Sons of God are Heirs of God, Joint-heirs with Chriſt, and ſo muſt Reign with him, v. 17. which till they live again, and be raiſed from the dead, they cannot do. 1. That the Adoption is the redemption of their Bodies from Corruption, ver. 23. 2. That we are then compleatly the Sons of God when we are Sons of the Reſurrection, Luke 20. 37. When we have overcome, according to thoſe words, Rev. 21.7. He that overcometh ſhall inherit all things, and I will be to him a God, and he ſhall be to me a Son. And ſomething like this is that of the Jews on theſe words, (d) ינון שמן (e) filiabitur nomen ejus; for, ſay they, his Name is called Jinnon שחוא עתיר לינוד כל ישבו עפר quia ipſe filiaturus eſt omnes dormientes in pulvere, becauſe he will raiſe, and ſo make Sons all that ſleep in the duſt.

Ver. 15. For we have not received the ſpirit of bondage again to (the) fear (of Death, as they who were under the Law did, that threatning Death to every one that continued not in all things written in the Law to do them, Deut. 27. 26.) but we have received the ſpirit of Adoption, (given to us becauſe we are Sons, Gal. 4. 6.) whereby we cry, Abba, Father, (i.e. we are aſſured that God is our Father, and ſo that we are Heirs of God, and Sons of the Reſurrection.)

Πνεῦμα δουλείας, the Spirit of Bondage.] That the Law was to the Jews a Yoke of Bondage, the Apoſtle doth inform us, Gal. 5. 1. And that they who were under it were in bondage to the Elements of the World, Gal. 4. 3, 8. that it gendred to Bondage, and ſubjected its Children to Bondage, v. 24, 25, 31. That they were all their life-time ſubject to Bondage through the fear of Death, he informs us, Heb. 2. 15. And they had reaſon ſo to be, ſince, as the Apoſtle teacheth, the Law given by Moſes did not exempt them from the Death which Adam's ſin had brought upon them, but rather made that Death abound, and them obnoxious to it on many freſh accounts; for the Law entred that the offence might abound (unto Death) Rom. 5. 21. And the Law coming, ſin revived, and I died; and the Commandment was found to be unto death, the motions of ſin which were by the Law working in their members to bring forth fruit unto death, Chap. 7. 4, 10. This therefore gives a clear Account of the Paraphraſe of the firſt part of the Verſe, but we, ſaith he, ſhall live a Life immortal, and enjoy a happy Reſurrection, as being the Sons of God, and in token of this, we have received the Spirit of Adoption, enabling us to call God Father, and aſſuring us we are his Children, and ſo he being our God, muſt have prepared for us a City, Heb. 11. 16.

Ver. 16. The ſpirit it ſelf, (Gr. the ſame Spirit) beareth Witneſs with our ſpirit that we are the Children of God, (and this gives us a full aſſurance of that bleſſed Life, enabling us to conclude thus.)

Ver. 17. And if we be Children, then (are we alſo) Heirs, Heirs of God, and joint-heirs with Chriſt, (the Son of God, now reigning glorioufly in Heaven,) if ſo be we ſuffer with him, (and ſo be conformed to his Image, v. 29.) that we may be alſo glorified together.

Κληρονόμοι μὲν θεοῦ, Heirs of God, joint-heirs with Chriſt.] All having our ſhare in this Glorious Inheritance, though he, as the eldeſt Brother, hath the double Portion.

Ver. 18. (Which ſufferings we have reaſon to endure for the ſecuring this glorious Eſtate.) For I reckon that the ſufferings of this preſent time (we live in this World) are not worthy to be compared with the glory which ſhall be revealed in us, (or to the Glory afterwards to be revealed to us.)

Εἰς ἡμᾶς often ſignifies to, or towards us, and is ſo rendred in this Epiſtle, Chap. 5. 8. Or for us, as Chap. 16. 6. See for the firſt ſenſe, 1 Cor. 14. 36. 2 Cor. 1. 11. 9. 5, 8. 10. 1. 13. 3. Eph. 1. 8, 19. Coloſſ. 1. 6. 1 Theſſ. 4. 8. Heb. 2. 3. And for the ſecond, 1 Cor. 15. 10. 2 Cor. 2. 4. Eph. 3. 2. Coloſſ. 1. 25. 1 Theſſ. 5. 18.

Ver. 19. For (ſo deſirable is it, that) the earneſt expectation of the Creature (ſubject now to vanity) waiteth for the manifeſtation of the Sons of God, (i. e. the whole race of Mankind earneſtly expects it.)

Ἀποκαραδοκία τῆς κτίσεως, the earneſt expectation of the Creature.] Here it is to be noted, that in the Sacred Dialect, deſire and expectation is aſcribed to Creatures, in reference to things they want, and which tend to their Advantage, though they explicitly know nothing of them. Thus the Meſſiah is called προσδοκία τῶν ἐθνῶν, the expectation of the Gentiles, Gen. 49. 10. חמדת the deſire of all Nations, Hag. 2. 4.

Ver. 20. For the Creature was made ſubject to vanity, not willingly, but by reaſon of him that ſubjected it, (i. e. the ἡ κτίσις whole race of Men, ἡ κτίσις ἀνθρωπίνη, 1 Pet. 2. 13. were made ſubject to Corruption, not of their own accord, but by reaſon of Adam, who by his ſin ſubjected his Poſterity to Death and Corruption, and the Earth to a Curſe, Gen. 3. 17. This Creature waiteth)

Ver. 21. In hope, becauſe (Gr. ὅτι that)

the Creature it ſelf alſo ſhall be (then) delivered from the bondage of corruption, into the glorious liberty of the Sons of God.

Ἐπ' ἐλπίδι, in hope.] So the Syriack and many Greek Commentators do begin this Verſe.

Ἀπὸ τῆς δουλείας τῆς φθορᾶς, from the bondage of Corruption.] That is, from the Mortality which all their lives long made them ſubject to Bondage, Heb. 2. 15.

Ver. 22. For we know that the whole Creation groaneth and travelleth in pain together (under this Bondage to Corruption) until now.

Πᾶσα ἡ κτίσις, the whole Creation.] All the World under that ſenſe of Mortality, which ſtill ſubjects them to Bondage; for as Cicero confeſſes, (f) Death muſt be terrible to thoſe, who with their life loſe the enjoyment of all good things; and (g) if it be an evil, muſt be an eternal evil, becauſe it doth for ever deprive them of all good. That (h) Mortis metu omnis quietæ vitæ ſtatus perturbatur, the fear of it diſturbs all the tranquility of life. And that this renders our whole Life miſerable, (i) Quæ enim poteſt in vitâ eſſe jucunditas, cum dies & noctes cogitandum ſit jam jamque eſſe moriendum? For what pleaſure can there be in that Life which is perpetually perplex'd with the thoughts of Death?

Ver. 23. And not only ſo, but our ſelves alſo, who have the firſt fruits of the Spirit, even we our ſelves groan within our ſelves, waiting for the adoption, (viz. the glorious Reſurrection, and thereby) the redemption of the Body.

Υἱοθεσίαν, the Adoption.] I know there is another Expoſition of theſe words to this effect: That by the Creature we are to underſtand the Gentile World in oppoſition to the Chriſtian, the word ברוא among the Rabins, ſignifying the Gentiles, in oppoſition to the Jews, the People of God; that their waiting for the manifeſtation of the Sons of God, is their waiting to ſee what the Jews will do, who of them will be true Sons of God, who not; who of them will embrace the Faith of Chriſt, who not; their Happineſs depending punctually upon the iſſue of this: Their being made ſubject to Vanity, is their being ſubject to the vanity of their Minds, Ignorance, and Idolatry, Rom. 1. 21. Epheſ. 3. 20. Eph. 1. 17. That to this Idolatry they were made ſubject, not willingly, but by the Devil's impoſing it upon them as an act of Religion, ſaith the Reverend Dr. Hammond; in pœnam incœpti Babylonici, in puniſhment of their attempt to build the Tower of Babel, ſaith Dr. Lightfoot. That their hopes of being delivered from this Bondage of Corruption, is their hopes of being reſcued from this Idolatry, thoſe filthy courſes they were engaged in, and the Bondage they were in to Satan, and to be made Chriſt's Freemen, to have a Right to God's Favour, and the future Bleſſings conſequent upon it, the word φθορὰ having that ſenſe, Deut. 4. 16. Wiſd. 14. 12. 2 Pet. 1. 4. 2 Pet. 2. 12. 1 Cor. 15. 33. 2 Cor. 11. 3. But againſt every part of this Interpretation there lies this Objection, That it is not only new, but wholly contrary to all Antiquity, and alſo to the Text, and it is liable to many juſt Exceptions; as, v. gr. Firſt, κτίσις, ſaith this Interpretation, is the Gentile World, whereas πᾶσα κτίσις hath no ſuch ſenſe in Scripture. The Phraſe πᾶσα κτίσις is uſed but three or four times more in the New Teſtament; twice in the Epiſtle to the Coloſſians, where Chriſt is ſtiled the firſt-born πάσης κτίσεως of the whole Creation, not of the Gentile World ſurely. And the Goſpel is ſaid to be preached ἐν πάσῃ τῇ κτίσει, Col. 1. 23. (i. e.) to Jew and Gentile, to the whole World, or to all Mankind, v. 6. Once in St. Peter, where Subjection is required πάσῃ ἀνθρωπίνῃ κτίσει to all Magiſtrates among men, 1 Pet. 2. 13. not only Heathen ſure, but Jew and Chriſtian, when the Government ſhould be put into their hands. And once in St. Mark, where the Apoſtles are commanded to Preach the Goſpel πάσῃ τῇ κτίσει to every Creature, Mark 16. 15. Now becauſe the ſame Diſciples are commanded to Preach εἰς πάντα τὰ ἔθνη to all Nations, Mat. 28. 18. Hence it is argued, that πᾶσα κτίσις ſignifies the Heathen World, in oppoſition to the Jews, whereas it plainly ſignifies all Nations, both Jew and Gentile, as is evident from theſe words of Chriſt to them, That they ſhould Preach in his Name repentance and remiſſion of ſins εἰς πάντα τὰ ἔθνη to all Nations, beginning at Jeruſalem, Luke 24. 47. And ſo the whole of this Interpretation is deſtroyed, for in theſe Places πᾶσα κτίσις is equivalent to all Mankind.

To wait for the manifeſtation of the Sons of God, is not to wait to ſee what the Jews would do, who had not received the Adoption, and were not the Sons of God, as wanting that Faith by which Men become Sons, Gal. 3. 26. but to expect τὴν ὑμετέραν τελείωσιν our perfection, τὴν ἀφθαρσίαν, our advancement to a ſtate of incorruption; τὴν μέλλουσαν ὑμῶν δόξαν, our future Glory; ſo Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, Cecumenius, Theophylact: For it muſt (by reaſon of the connective Particle γὰρ) be the ſame with the glory that is to be revealed, v. 18. and with the glorious liberty of the Sons of God, ver. 21. they expect, ſaith Origen, that time when theſe things ſhall be revealed which are prepared for them that are the Sons of God.

(f) Sit mors terribilis iis quorum cum vitâ omnia extinguuntur. Parad. 20.
(g) Si mors malum eſt ſempiternum malum. Tuſc. Qu. lib. 1. p. 1190.
(h) De fin. bonorum. l. 1. p. 38. (i) Tuſcul. quæſt. 1. 11. 13.

To be made ſubject to Vanity, is not to be made ſubject to Idolatry, but to be made ſubject to Corruption, τῇ φθορᾷ, ſo Chryſoſtom, Oecumenius, Theophylact; for τὴν ματαιότητα καλεῖ τὴν φθόραν, he calls that mutability and Vanity, to which all things in the World are ſubject: Corruption, ſaith Theodoret, when the Apoſtle ſaith the Creature was made ſubject to Vanity, and in Bondage to Corruption, (k) Mihi videtur quod de hac materiali, & corruptibilis corporis ſubſtantiâ iſta dicuntur, neque enim corruptio alicui quicquam dominatur niſi corpori, as is apparent alſo from the thing they groan for, viz. the redemption of the Body from corruption, that this mortal might put on immortality, be cloathed with its houſe from Heaven, that mortality might be ſwallowed up of life, 2 Cor. 5. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5. Secondly, It cannot truly be ſaid that the Heathen were not willingly ſubject to Idolatry, for the Apoſtle ſaith, they ſubjected themſelves to it againſt the Light of Nature, and ſo became without excuſe, and that when they knew God, they did not glorifie him as God, Rom. 1. 20, 21, 22, 23. And this ſenſe of the word Vanity is very frequent in the Pſalms, and in Eccleſiaſtes. David contemplating the frailty of Man, and how ſoon he vaniſheth away, cries out, Every man therefore is but Vanity, τὰ σύμπαντα ματαιότης πᾶς ἄνθρωπος ζῶν, Pſal. 39. 5, 11. And again, ἄνθρωπος ματαιότητι ὡμοιώθη, Man is like to vanity, his days paſs away like a ſhadow, Pſal. 144. 4. And becauſe all things here below are ſo frail, ſo ſubject to change, and to vaniſh, and Man hath ſo ſhort a time to poſſeſs them; therefore, ſaith the Preacher, Vanity of vanities are they, all is vanity, Eccleſ. 1. 2. And when Adam became Mortal, he called his Son Abel Vanity, Gen. 4. 2.

The Vanity to which the whole Creation is ſubject does not therefore ſignifie the vain employments and diſtractions of this preſent life, but that ſtate of Mortality from which the Pſalmiſt infers every Man therefore is but Vanity; for it is thus ſubject to Vanity in hope of a deliverance from that Bondage of Corruption, which Mr. Cl. owns to be the Corruption to which our Body is naturally liable, and from which we Chriſtians wait to be delivered by the Redemption of the Body from Corruption. See Note on ver. 23. And therefore he who ſubjected us to this ſtate, is not God, who brought not Death into the World, but Adam, by whom ſin entred into the World, and death by ſin.

To be delivered from this Bondage to Corruption, is not to be delivered from Idolatry, nor doth ἐλευθερία τῆς φθορᾶς ever bear this ſenſe, but the ſenſe is ἐκ ἐπὶ ἔσται φθαρτὴ, the Creature ſhall not then be corruptible, ἔσται γὰρ ἡ κτίσις ἄφθαρτος ὥσπερ καὶ ἐξ ἡμᾶς γέγονε φθαρτὴ, for as the Creature was made corruptible by us, ſo ſhall it be made incorruptible with us; Oecumenius, Theodoret, Theophylact. For that which it groans for is its redemption from Corruption, v. 23. Having thus offered my Reaſons againſt this Interpretation, it will be very eaſie to confirm the Ancient and true Explication of the words from the Scope and Argument of the Apoſtle here. For I have ſhewed from v. 11. that the Apoſtle is here treating of the Reſurrection of the Body to Eternal Life; that v. 13. he declares this Life belongs to them alone, who through the Spirit do mortifie the deeds of the fleſh; that v. 14. he proves they ſhall enjoy this Life, and Reſurrection, becauſe they are the Sons of God: And v. 17. that being Sons, they muſt be Heirs of God, joynt-heirs with Chriſt; firſt ſuffering, and then reigning in Glory with him; that v. 18. to encourage Chriſtians thus to ſuffer, he ſhews the greatneſs of that Glory they ſhall then enjoy, ſtiling it δόξαν μέλλουσαν ἀποκαλυφθῆναι, the glory to be revealed hereafter; i. e. after the ſufferings of this preſent Life, to which it is oppoſed, are ended; for, as Chryſoſtom and Theophylact well note, he ſaith not πρὸς τὴν μέλλουσαν ἄνεσιν, theſe ſufferings are not worthy to be compared to our future eaſe from them in this life; but πρὸς τὴν μέλλουσαν δόξαν, to our future glory in the next, when they that have communicated with Chriſt in his ſufferings, ſhall rejoyce ἐν τῇ ἀποκαλύψει τῆς δόξης αὐτοῦ, in the revelation of his glory, ſaith St. Peter, 1 Pet. 4. 13. συνδοξάσθητε, ſhall be glorified with him; here v. 17. this Glory is ſtiles ἀποκάλυψις τῶν υἱῶν τοῦ θεοῦ, the revelation of the Sons of God; i. e. ſay the Fathers, the time when they ſhall τὴν ἀφθαρσίαν ἀπολαμβάνειν, become incorruptible, this corruptible putting on incorruption, when they ſhall appear to be the Sons of God, τῇ ἀναστάσει υἱοὶ ὄντες, being Sons of the Reſurrection, v. 14. comforting them in the expectation of it, and their groaning after it with this Conſideration, that it is the expectation of all the World, and that they groan together with them for it, deſiring with them to be delivered from this Bondage to Corruption into the glorious liberty of the Sons of God; adding, that not only they, but even Chriſtians alſo, who had the firſt fruits of that Spirit, who is the earneſt of our Inheritance, εἰς ἀπολύτρωσιν περιποιήσεως, till the redemption of the purchaſed Poſſeſſion, Eph. 1. 14. and by whom we are ſealed up εἰς ἡμέραν ἀπολυτρώσεως to the day of Redemption, Eph. 4. 30. did groan, waiting for the Adoption, viz. τὴν ἀπολύτρωσιν τοῦ σώματος ἡμῶν, the redemption of our Bodies from Corruption, v. 23. For that this was the thing for which they groaned, the ſame Apoſtle informs us in theſe words, We that are in this Tabernacle groan, being burthen'd, that we might be cloathed upon with our houſe from Heaven, that mortality might be ſwallowed up of Life, 2 Cor. 5. 2, 4. And as here, they who have the firſt fruits of the Spirit, do thus groan, ſo there it is ſaid, v. 5. He who hath wrought this expectation in us is God, who hath alſo given to us the earneſt of his Spirit. That this was the Ancient, and almoſt Primitive Expoſition of theſe words, we learn from (l) Irenæus, in theſe words: Oportet ergo & ipſam conditionem reintegratam ad priſtinum, ſine prohibitione ſervire juſtis, & hoc Apoſtolus fecit manifeſtum in eâ quæ eſt ad Romanos ſic dicens, nam expectatio Creaturæ revelationem filiorum Dei expectat. And ſom theſe of (m) Tertullian, Tunc erit mali finis, cum præſes ejus Diabolus abierit in ignem--cum revelatio filiorum Dei redemèrit conditionem à malo utique vanitati ſubjectum. I differ only from the Fathers in this Interpretation as to this ſingle Circumſtance, that I do not extend this deſire of the redemption of the Body from Corruption to brute Beaſts, and inſenſate Creatures, but only to Mankind in general, ſubject by Adam's Fall to Mortality.

Ver. 24. (Waiting, I ſay, for it, though we do not ſee it,) for (as yet) we are ſaved only by hope, but hope (of a thing) that is ſeen, is not hope (truly ſo called,) for what a man ſeeth, why doth he yet hope for?

Τῇ γὰρ ἐλπίδι ἐσώθημεν, we are ſaved by hope.] Of this Reſurrection and Redemption of the Body, being begotten to a lively hope, through the Reſurrection of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, of an Inheritance incorruptible, undefiled, and that fadeth not away, reſerved in the Heavens for us, 1 Pet. 1. 5. And rejoycing in hope of the glory of God, Rom. 5. 2. And through the ſpirit waiting for the hope of righteouſneſs through Faith, Gal. 5. 5.

Ver. 25. But if we hope for that we ſee not, then do we with patience wait for it.

Ver. 26. (And as patience, ſo) likewiſe the ſpirit helpeth (to relieve us in) our infirmities, for (when we are burthen'd with them) we know not what to pray for as we ought, (whether for increaſe of patience under, or deliverance from them, or if ſo, whether by abſence from the Body, or being cloathed upon) but the ſpirit it ſelf, (or the ſame Spirit which teſtifies that we are the Sons of God, v. 16.) intercedeth for us with groanings that cannot be uttered, (Gr. with ſilent groanings after this Redemption, v. 23. 2 Cor. 5.2,4,5.)

Ver. 27. Now he that ſearcheth the hearts (of the Saints,) knoweth what is the mind (or the deſire) of the ſpirit, for he maketh interceſſion for the Saints, according to the will (or purpoſe) of God (to give them this Redemption of the Body.)

Τὸ πνεῦμα, the Spirit] Here cannot ſignifie the Spirit of a Man, for that cannot be ſaid to help with us, being a conſtituent part of us; or to intercede for us, when we know not our ſelves what to pray for; but that Spirit of God who is ſaid to intercede for us, not as an Advocate, or Mediator betwixt God and us, that being the Office of our great High-Prieſt, but as an exciter and director of us in our Addreſſes to God, and to render them for matter, according to the Will of God, and for manner, fervent and effectual, προσωχὴ ἐνεργουμένη, in wrought Prayer, and to make our very ſighs and groanings prevalent, for he is here ſaid only to intercede for us with ſighs and groanings, excited by him after that Redemption to which he ſealeth us, and of which he being the Earneſt and Pledge, we are hence moved with greater Faith and fervency to long for the enjoyment of it; and this is the reaſon why I think not fit to interpret this Paſſage, with ſome of the Fathers of a publick Chariſma, or Gift of Prayer, ſince that muſt ſpend it ſelf in words for the Edification of the Church, and not in ſilent groanings. See Exod. 2. 24. & 6. 5. Judges 2. 18. Pſal. 38. 9. & 102. 20. Acts 7. 34. Thus when our Lord had twice groaned in ſpirit, John 11. 33, 38. he ſaith, I thank thee, O Father, that thou haſt heard me, v. 41.

Ver. 28. And (though we know not in our diſtreſſes what to pray for in particular, or when we ſhall obtain this Redemption of the Body, οἴδαμεν δὲ, yet) this we know, that all things ſhall work together for good (for the promotion of this Happineſs) to them that love God, to them that are called (to the Adoption of Sons) according to his purpoſe, (of bringing many Sons to glory by him, Heb. 2. 10. He having predeſtinated us to the Adoption of Sons through Jeſus Chriſt, according to the good pleaſure of his will, Eph. 1. 5. or according to his purpoſe in Chriſt Jeſus, 2 Tim. 1. 9.

Πάντα, all things.] That under all things, ſhould be comprehended the ſins of good Men, is the unreaſonable ſuggeſtion of St. Auſtin, and ſome of the Schoolmen after him, confuted by the declaration of God by Ezekiel, That if the righteous man forſake his righteouſneſs, and commit iniquity, in the ſin that he hath done ſhall he die, Ezek. 18. And by this Apoſtle declaring to the Hebrews, The juſt ſhall live by his Faith, but if he draws back, my ſoul, ſaith God, ſhall have no pleaſure in him, Heb. 10. 37, 38. 2*ly*, The Teſt of love to God being keeping his Commandments, this Interpretation makes the ſenſe of theſe words run thus: To them that keep his Commandments, even all their diſobedience to them, ſhall work together for good. 3*ly*, If the word all things comprehend all the ſins that are, or can be committed by them that love God, they may as well rejoyce in all their Wickedneſs, as in all their Sufferings for the ſake of Chriſt, ſeeing they may rejoyce in that which by God's deſignation tendeth to their good; and ſo all the Motives urged, Chap. 6. to engage them to die to ſin, and live no longer in it, muſt be not only enervated, but even eſteemed motives deſigned to hinder them from that which is for their good, or, according to the deſcants of St. Auſtin and St. Bernard, to hinder their proficience in Caution and Humility.

Ver. 29. For whom he did (thus) foreknow, he did predeſtinate (or appoint) to be conform'd to the Image of his Son, (by having their vile Bodies changed into the likeneſs of his glorious Body, Phil. 3. 21.) that he might be the firſt-born (or chief) among many Brethren, (who are to be co-heirs, and glorified together with him, v. 17.)

Ὅτι οὓς προέγνω, for whom he did foreknow.] This Particle ὅτι is connective, and this Verſe giving the reaſon or confirmation of what was ſpoken in the former, it ſeems neceſſary to interpret it thus, whom he foreknew to be Perſons called according to his purpoſe, and therefore qualified for this Adoption. It therefore is to be obſerved, that the words know, and foreknow, in the Scripture-language, imports an affectionate knowledge joyn'd with approbation and affection. So Mat. 7. 23. John 10. 14. 1 Cor. 8. 3. If any man love God, οὗτος ἔγνωσται, he is known of God, Gal. 4. 8. But now that ye know God, or rather are known of God, 2 Tim. 2. 19. ἔγνω κύριος, the Lord knoweth who are his. So is the word προέγνω uſed in this Epiſtle, Chap. 11. 2. when the Apoſtle ſaith, the Lord hath not caſt off his People οὓς προέγνω, (n) whom he foreknew to be faithful, as were thoſe Seven Thouſand Perſons who had not bowed the Knee to Baal, whom he thus foreknew.

Προώρισε, he before appointed] to be conformed to the Image of his Son, that as they had born the Image of the earthly Adam, they might alſo bear the Image of the heavenly, 1 Cor. 15. 49. Having Glorious Bodies like to his, ſaith Theodoret; and this agrees well with the ſcope and ſubject-matter of this Chapter, and with the following words, That he might be the firſt-born, or chief among many Brethren; for as here theſe Brethren are ſaid to be Co-heirs with him, the elder Brother, v. 17. ſo elſewhere he is ſtiled, the firſt-born from the dead, that in all things he might have the pre-eminence, or that they might be changed into his Image by the participation of the ſame Spirit. See Note on 2 Cor. 3. 18.

Ver. 30. (And the method he uſed to bring thoſe whom he had deſigned to be thus conform'd to the Image of his Son, was this, viz.) whom he thus predeſtinated, them he alſo called (firſt to the Profeſſion of the Chriſtian Faith,) and whom he called, (upon their cordial embracing of that Faith) them he alſo juſtified, (and ſo freed from condemnation to Death;) and whom he juſtified, them he alſo glorified.

Τούτους καὶ ἐδόξασε, them he alſo glorified.] At preſent in their Head Chriſt Jeſus, (they being bleſſed with all ſpiritual bleſſings in Heavenly places in Chriſt Jeſus, Eph. 1. 3. They being quickned together with Chriſt, and raiſed up together, and made to ſit together in Heavenly places in Chriſt Jeſus, Eph. 2. 5, 6. And then he will hereafter glorifie, by making their vile Bodies like unto his glorious Body. Or,

Τούτους καὶ ἐδόξασε, them he hath alſo glorified.] By giving them that Spirit who is the Earneſt of their Glory. Ἐδόξασε διὰ τῶν χαρισμάτων, διὰ τῆς υἱοθεσίας. Διὰ τῶν χαρισμάτων τῆς υἱοθεσίας, ſo Chryſoſtom and Oecumenius. Ἐδόξασεν ὡς ἐνομαζόμενος, καὶ πνεύματος ἁγίου δωρεὰν μεμισθωκότας χάριν, Theodoret & Theophylact. Magnificavit illos ut ſimiles fiant filio Dei, Pſeud. Ambroſius. And by reaſon of which Spirit given, with the Preaching of the Goſpel, the miniſtration of Juſtification is ſaid to be ἐν δόξῃ in Glory, as being the miniſtration of the Spirit, 2 Cor. 3. 8, 9, 10, 11. And we by participation of this Spirit of the Lord, are ſaid not only to behold the glory of the Lord, but alſo to be changed into the ſame Image with him from glory to glory, v. 18. See the Note there, and John 17. 22. So Origen on the Place; De glorificatione poſſumus in præſenti ſæculo illud intelligere quod dicit Apoſtolus, nos autem omnes revelatâ facie gloriam domini ſpeculantes eadem imagine transformamur à gloriâ in gloriam tanquam à Domini ſpiritu. In favour of this Interpretation, let it be noted, that when the Apoſtle ſpeaks of our final glorification in this Chapter, he ſtill ſpeaks of it as of a thing future, ſaying, we ſhall be glorified with him, v. 17, 18, 21. Whereas he here ſpeaks of it as a thing paſt, ſaying, whom he hath juſtified, them he hath alſo glorified. So when a Miracle was wrought in his Name, ἐδόξασε, God glorified him, Acts 3. 13. See Luke 4. 15. John 8. 54. 11. 4. 13. 31, 32. 16. 14. 1 Cor. 12. 26. See the Preface to the Epiſtle to the Galatians.

Ver. 31. What ſhall we ſay then? (Gr. What ſay we then) to theſe things? (i. e. what further ground of aſſurance, and ſo of patient waiting for theſe things can we want) for if God be for us who can (ſucceſsfully) be againſt us? (ſo as to fruſtrate, or deprive us of this glorious ſtate.)

Ver. 32. He that (in purſuance of this deſign) ſpared not his own Son, but freely gave him up for (the Redemption of) us all, how ſhall he not together with him freely give us all things (belonging to that Glory and Happineſs he hath purchaſed for us?)

Ver. 33. Who ſhall lay any thing to the charge of God's Elect? (i. e. to them who are called by him to Chriſtianity, to hinder their Redemption, by charging them with that guilt which rendreth them obnoxious to Death,) it is God that juſtifieth, (and who will therefore glorifie them.)

Ver. 34. Who is he that condemneth them (to abide ſtill under the Power of Death?) It is Chriſt that died (to redeem them from it;) yea rather that is riſen again (for their Juſtification, Rom. 4. 25. And if when we were Enemies we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son, much more being reconciled, we ſhall be ſaved by his life, Rom. 5. 10.) who is even at the right hand of God (inveſted with all manner of Power, that he ſhould give Eternal Life unto them, John 17. 2.) who alſo maketh interceſſion for us, (and ſo is able to ſave us to the uttermoſt, εἰς τὸ παντελὲς, Heb. 7. 25.)

Ver. 35. Who ſhall ſeparate us from the love of Chriſt? (that love which he hath ſhewed in procuring this Redemption for us, v. 37.) ſhall tribulation, or diſtreſs, or perſecution, or famine, or nakedneſs, or peril, or ſword?

Ver. 36. (Befalling us,) as it is written, (Pſal. 44. 22.) For thy ſake we are killed all the day long, we are accounted as ſheep (appointed) for the ſlaughter.

Ver. 37. Nay, (as there it is ſaid, all this is come upon us, yet have we not forgotten thee, neither have we dealt falſly in thy Covenant, v. 17, 18. So may all this happen to us ἀλλ') but in all theſe things we are (already) more than Conquerors through (the Grace and Spirit of) him that loved us.

Ὑπερνικῶμεν, we are more than Conquerors.] For we not only bear, but glory in tribulations, Rom. 5. 3. We are in Deaths often, but ſtill delivered from Death, 2 Cor. 1. 10. And as the ſufferings of Chriſt abound towards us, ſo alſo doth our conſolation under them abound through Chriſt.

Ver. 38. (And I truſt after this happy Experience it will be ſo ſtill,) for I am perſwaded that neither (fear of) Death, nor (hope of) life, nor (evil) Angels, nor Principalities, nor Powers, (perſecuting us for Chriſt's ſake) nor (the) things (we endure at) preſent, nor things to come,

Ver. 39. Nor height (of Honour,) nor depth (of Ignominy,) nor any other Creature, (or thing) ſhall ſeparate us from the love of God, which is (vouchſafed to us) in Chriſt Jeſus.

CHAP. IX.

Verſe 1. (AS for the unbelieving Jews, my Brethren in the fleſh, that what I am to ſpeak concerning them, may not ſeem to proceed from any diſaffection to them,) I ſay the truth in Chriſt, I lye not, my Conſcience alſo bearing me witneſs in the Holy Ghoſt, (i. e. I call Chriſt and the Holy Ghoſt to bear Witneſs with my own Conſcience, that I only ſpeak the Truth, when I ſay)

Συμμαρτυρούσης μοι τῆς συνειδήσεως ἐν πνεύματι ἁγίῳ, my Conſcience bearing me witneſs in (or with) the Holy Ghoſt.] This Verſe not only ſhews, that in caſes of great moment, which cannot otherwiſe be ſufficiently confirmed, a Chriſtian may eſtabliſh his ſaying by an Oath, but alſo that he may ſwear by Chriſt, and by the Holy Ghoſt, and call them to be Witneſſes of the ſincerity of his own Conſcience in what he doth aſſert. So (a) Philo, θεὸν μάρτυρα καλῶ τὸν συνειδότα, I call God to witneſs with my Conſcience. Now an Oath being an Act of Religious Worſhip, in which God is called upon as a Witneſs to the Truth, or an Avenger of the Falſhood of what we Teſtifie, or Promiſe, by ſwearing by our Lord Chriſt, and the Holy Ghoſt, the Apoſtle muſt perform an Act of Religious Worſhip to them, and by that agniſe their Divinity, according to thoſe words of Moſes, Thou ſhalt fear the Lord thy God, and ſerve him, and ſhalt ſwear by his Name, Deut. 6. 13. And by calling upon them to bear Witneſs to the ſecrets of his Heart and Conſcience, he muſt aſcribe to them the knowledge of the ſecrets of the Hearts of Men, which is the Property of God alone, 1 Sam. 16. 7. 1 Kings 8. 39. 1 Chron. 28. 9. Pſal. 7. 9. Jer. 11. 20. 17. 10. 20. 12.

Ver. 2. That I have great heavineſs, and continual ſorrow in my heart (on the account of their infidelity, the obduration, and Spirit of ſlumber, and the rejection of them, which are the diſmal conſequences of their unbelief.)

Ver. 3. For (ſo great is my concern for them, that were it proper, and could it avail to the procuring their Salvation) I could wiſh that my ſelf were accurſed from Chriſt for (theſe) my Brethren, my Kinſmen according to the fleſh.

ſtill uſed in St. Paul's Epiſtles in the ſevereſt ſenſe, 1 Cor. 16. 22. Gal. 1. 8, 9. And the words ἀνάθεμα εἶ ἀπὸ τοῦ Χριστοῦ, to be Anathema from Chriſt, importing in their literal ſenſe a ſeparation from Chriſt himſelf, and not only from the external Communion of his Church, and being in the deſcants of the Greek (b) Fathers the ſame as χωρισθῆναι τῆς ἀγάπης, ἐκπεσεῖν τῆς δόξης, ἀλλότριον εἶ τοῦ Χριστοῦ, à ſalute ſeparari, to be ſeparated from the love of Chriſt, to be alienated from him, to fall from the Glory, and the Salvation purchaſed by him: I think it reaſonable to interpret the Apoſtle's words in this ſenſe. Nor is it a ſufficient Objection againſt this Interpretation, that this can be no truly Chriſtian Wiſh, for the Apoſtle doth not ſay, I wiſh, but as the Ancients do well interpret him, εἰ ἐνεχώρει, εἰ ἐνεδέχετο, if it were proper to make ſuch a wiſh, if it would avail to make ſo great a multitude for ever happy, ηὐχόμην optarim equidem, I could even wiſh ſo great a Bleſſing to my Brethren, though with the loſs of my own Happineſs.

Ver. 4. (And ſurely I have very great reaſon to be highly concerned for them,) who are Iſraelites, (i. e. Perſons deſcended from one whoſe Faith and Vertue were ſo eminent, that as a Prince he prevailed with God, and ſo had his Name changed from Jacob to Iſrael, as a mark of God's Affection to him, Gen. 32. 28.) to whom pertaineth the Adoption, (God having owned them as his Sons, and his Firſt-born, Exod. 4. 22, 23. Hoſ. 11. 1.) and the Glory, (the Shechinah, or Glorious Preſence dwelling among them between the two Cherubims, and from thence ſhining forth upon them, Pſal. 50. 2. & 80. 2.) and the Covenants (made with Abraham, Gal. 3. 17. and with Moſes, Exod. 24. 8. the two Covenants, Gal. 4. 24. the Old and New Covenant, Jer. 31. 31. & 32. 40.) and the giving of the Law, (that writ with his own Finger in Tables of Stone, Deut. 10. 1. 4. and many other excellent Judicial Laws,) and the promiſes, (not only of ſignal Bleſſings in the Land of Canaan to thoſe that ſhould obſerve his Laws, but the Promiſe of a Meſſiah, and of a New Covenant eſtabliſhed upon better Promiſes.)

Ver. 5. Whoſe are the Fathers, (they being the Off-ſpring of thoſe Patriarchs to whom the Promiſes were firſt made, Heb. 11. 9, 13, 17. and confirmed with an Oath, Heb. 6. 13. 17.) and of whom, as concerning the fleſh, Chriſt (the promiſed Meſſiah) came, (he being born of one of their Nation, and ſo according to the Fleſh their Off-ſpring, even he) who (according to his Divine Nature) is God over all, bleſſed for ever. Amen.

Ὁ ὢν ἐπὶ πάντων θεὸς εὐλογητὸς εἰς αἰῶνας, who is God over all, bleſſed for ever.] This Place galls the Arians, the Note of Le Cl. upon it is this, That Dr. Hammond ſhould rather have examined the Animadverſion of Grotius upon it, than copyed out Jewiſh Fables, which make little to the purpoſe, Eraſmus having written enough to overthrow all that can be inferr'd from them, for if what Grotius and Eraſmus have obſerved ſtand good, Dr. Hammond's Reaſoning cannot be thought of any force. Now here I might refer him to the ſolid confutation of what Eraſmus had ſaid by Joſue Placæus, Part. 3. Diſp. 25. Or to himſelf, Art. Crit. Part. 3. p. 102. 106. But to give him all poſſible Satisfaction in this matter, Firſt, I aſſert, that the Reading we follow, is certainly the true Reading.

1. Becauſe it is the Reading with which all the Verſions agree, the Latin, the Arabick, the Æthiopick, and the Syriack; for it is a miſtake in Grotius, when he inſinuates the contrary of the Syriack Verſion, which in Tremellius runs thus; Qui eſt Deus qui eſt ſuper omnia.

2. Becauſe it hath the general conſent omnium fermè Patrum, of almoſt all the Fathers, who have thus cited it from the Second to the Sixth Century, viz. the Teſtimony of Irenæus, l. 3. c. 18. of Origen in locum, of Tertullian, contra Praxeam, Cap. 13. 15. Novatian, de Trin. Secondly, I aſſert, that the words will not admit of that interpunction, and Interpretation of Eraſmus, which will do any Service to the Arians or Socinians, viz. that a Colon muſt be put after the words κατὰ σάρκα, after the fleſh; and the words following muſt be an Ecphonema, and grateful Exclamation for the Bleſſings conferred upon the Jews, thus: God, who is over all, be bleſſed for ever. For this Expoſition is ſo harſh, and without any like Example in the whole New Teſtament, that as none of the Orthodox ever thought upon it, ſo I find not that it ever came into the Head of any Arian; Socinus himſelf rejects it for this very good Reaſon, that Θεὸς εὐλογητὸς, God be bleſſed, is an unuſual, and unnatural conſtruction; for where-ever elſe theſe words ſignifie bleſſed be God, εὐλογητὸς is put before God, as Luke 1. 68. 2 Cor. 1. 3. Eph. 1. 3. 1 Pet. 1. 3. and Θεὸς hath an Article prefixed to it, nor are they ever immediately joyned together otherwiſe. The Phraſe occurs Twenty times in the Old Teſtament, but in every Place εὐλογητὸς goes before, and the Article is annexed to the word God, which is a Demonſtration that this is a perverſion of the ſenſe of the Apoſtle's words. 2. The Apoſtle having ſaid in the immediate preceding words, that Chriſt came from the Fathers κατὰ σάρκα, according to the fleſh, or as to his Humane Nature, is it not reaſonable to conceive he ſhould proceed to ſay what he was according to his Divine Nature, eſpecially when he was diſcourſing of, and to thoſe Jews, who, as (d) Trypho ſaith, and (e) Origen, and (f) Jerome teſtifie, held their Meſſiah was only to be a Man, and denyed his Divinity? Is it not unreaſonable to think he ſhould ſay nothing of the τὸ κατὰ πνεῦμα, or the ſuperiour Nature of Chriſt? Eſpecially if we conſider that the limitation τὸ κατὰ σάρκα, according to the fleſh, plainly inſinuated there was another Nature in him, according to which he came not from the Fathers. In a word, all the Ancient Verſions render the words as we do, taking no notice of this Interpunction: All the Greek Scholiaſts, and the Ancient Commentators among the Latines, excepting St. Chryſoſtom, here Triumph over Arius; one of them indeed hinting, that (g) there might be Men who would be enclined to ſay, theſe things were not ſpoken of Chriſt, but none ever ſaying that any did then actually aſcribe them to any other Perſon. Hence from the beginning theſe words have been uſed by the Fathers as an Argument of Chriſt's Divinity. For, ſaith (h) Irenæus, Becauſe he is Emanuel, leſt we ſhould think him a Man only, the Apoſtle ſaith, of whom, as concerning the fleſh, Chriſt came; Qui eſt Deus ſuper omnes Benedictus in ſæcula. And in a like Expreſſion to this of the Apoſtle, he ſaith, Secundum id quod verbum Dei homo erat ex Radice Jeſſæ, filius Abrahæ: (i) According to that Nature in which the Word of God was Man, of the Root of Jeſſe, and the Son of Abraham, the Spirit of God reſted upon him, ſecundum autem quod Deus erat; but as to that Nature by which he was God, he judged not after the ſight of his Eyes, for he knew what was in Man. And if theſe words are ſpoken by the Spirit of God concerning Chriſt, the Arguments hence to prove him truly and properly God are invincible. For firſt, ὁ Θεὸς ἐπὶ πάντων, is the Periphraſis by which all the Heathen Philoſophers did uſually repreſent the Supream God. And ſo is God the Father deſcribed both in the Old and the New Teſtament as ὁ ἐπὶ πάντων, he that is over all, Eph. 4. 6. Secondly, This is the conſtant Epithet and Periphraſis of the great God in the Old Teſtament, that he is εὐλογητὸς εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα, God bleſſed for evermore, 1 Chron. 16. 36. Pſal. 41. 13. and 89. 52. And alſo in the New, where he is ſtyled the God ὃς ἐστιν εὐλογητὸς εἰς τοὺς αἰῶνας, who is bleſſed for evermore. This was ſo evident to Enjedinus the Socinian, that he ſaith, This Epithite is ſo peculiar to God the Father, that it is never attributed in the New Teſtament to any other, but whereſoever we find this Phraſe, God bleſſed for ever, it is always aſcribed to the Father. Of the Cuſtom of adding to the Name of God, Bleſſed for evermore, uſed by the Jews, the Reverend Doctor hath ſaid ſufficient; and why all that he here ſaith, ſhould paſs with Mr. Cl. for Jewiſh Fables, what Reaſon can be given, if not that of his averſeneſs to the Doctrine the Doctor here endeavours to eſtabliſh, eſpecially when we find this very Phraſe εὐλογητὸς Κύριος ὁ Θεὸς ἀπὸ τοῦ αἰῶνος καὶ εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα, or εὐλογητὸς Κύριος εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα, Pſal. 40.13. & 88.51.

Ver. 6. But (we muſt) not (exaggerate this blindneſs and rejection of the Jews, whoſe were the Covenants, and the Promiſes in prejudice of the veracity of God) as though the Word of God had taken none effect, (i. e. the Promiſes of God concerning the Seed of Iſrael, and the Bleſſings to be conferred upon them ἐκπέπτωκεν had failed, this doth by no means follow) for they are not all Iſrael, who are of Iſrael, (i. e. all that are deſcended from the Loyns of Iſrael by Carnal Generation, are not the Children of the Promiſe made to Jacob, Gen. 28. 14. which yet are only to be accounted for the Seed, v. 8.)

Ver. 7. Neither becauſe they are the ſeed of Abraham (according to the fleſh,) are they all Children (of the Promiſe made to Abraham,) but (only they who are the Seed of Iſaac, for thus the Promiſe runs,) in Iſaac ſhall thy ſeed be called.

Ver. 8. That is, they which are the Children (of Abraham) according to the fleſh, (and have the ſign of the Covenant in their fleſh,) theſe are not (on that account alone) the Children of God, (of whom it is ſaid, I will be a God unto thee, and thy Seed after thee, Gen. 17. 7.) but (they only who are) the Children of the Promiſe, (as Iſaac was) are (to be) accounted for the Seed.

Ver. 9. For this is the word of Promiſe, (Gen. 18. 10.) At this time will I come, and Sarah ſhall have a Son, (which words confine the Children of the Promiſe to the Seed of Sarah, excluding that of Hagar from it.)

Λογίζεται εἰς σπέρμα, are accounted for the Seed.] That is, of this diſtinction of Seeds, to which the Promiſe belongs, you have a manifeſt inſtance in the Seed of Abraham, for before Abraham had any Seed at all, the Promiſe of Inheriting the Land of Canaan was made unto him thus: Unto thy Seed will I give this Land, Gen. 12. 7. All the Land which thou ſeeſt, to thee will I give it, and to thy Seed for ever, Gen. 13. 15. Unto thy Seed have I given this Land, Gen. 15. 18. But though Iſhmael was his firſt-born, and had that Circumciſion which was the Seal of the Covenant made with Abraham, yet he and his Poſterity, thoſe twelve Princes, and great Nations which iſſued from him, were all excluded from the Covenant, and Iſaac not yet circumciſed, or born, and his Poſterity are declared to be the Seed of Abraham, to whom the Promiſe ſhould be made good, and with whom the Covenant ſhould be eſtabliſhed. For when Abraham ſaid to God, Oh that Iſhmael might live before thee! God returns him this Anſwer: As for Iſhmael, I have heard thee, behold I have bleſſed him, and will make him fruitful, and will multiply him exceedingly, twelve Princes ſhall he beget, and I will make him a great Nation; but my Covenant will I eſtabliſh with Iſaac, whom Sarah ſhall bear unto thee, Gen. 17. 18, 20, 21. Again, when Sarah had ſaid of Iſhmael, Caſt out this bond-woman and her Son, for the Son of this bond-woman ſhall not be Heir with my Son, even with Iſaac, Gen. 21. 10. And Abraham thereupon was grieved becauſe of his Son, v. 11. God ſpeaks thus to him: Let it not be grievous in thine eyes becauſe of the Lad, in all that Sarah hath ſaid, hearken to her, for in Iſaac ſhall thy Seed be called, v. 12. Which Inſtance ſhews it was not being of the Seed of Abraham according to the Fleſh, or having the ſign of the Covenant in the Fleſh, that rendred Men the Sons of God, or Children of the Promiſe then: For Iſhmael was Abraham's firſt-born, and circumciſed, and yet by God excluded from the Promiſe; Iſaac not circumciſed, not yet born, not having the Right of Primogeniture, and yet to him and his Seed alone belong the Adoption, and the Promiſe. Two things may here be added for Illuſtration of this Inſtance.

Firſt, That the Jews can make no juſt Exceptions againſt this Argument of the Apoſtle, it being ſuitable to their own Theology; for it is a Rule among them, That (k) whoſe vows concerning Abraham's Seed, is free from Iſhmael's and Eſau's Sons, and is not bound but touching Iſraelites, for in Iſaac ſhall Seed be called to thee. And ſo Iſaac ſaid of Jacob, And God give thee the Bleſſing of Abraham.

Secondly, That there is a great Emphaſis in theſe words, the Children of the Promiſe, for upon this account it was ſaid of Iſaac, that he was not born according to the Fleſh, but according to the Promiſe, Gal. 4. 23. That Iſhmael was Abraham's Son according to the Fleſh, but Iſaac according to the Spirit; to be therefore Children of the Promiſe, ſeems to be Abraham's Spiritual Seed: Whence the Apoſtle ſaith of thoſe who believe in this Seed, that they are the Sons of God by Faith in Chriſt Jeſus, and ſo are Abraham's Seed, and Heirs according to the Promiſe, Gal. 3. 29. that they, according to Iſaac's, are Children of the Promiſe, Gal. 4. 28. That they are Children not of the bond-woman, but of the free, v. 31. Accordingly the Jews ſay, (l) A Proſelyte is the Son of Abraham, who is the Father of the whole World, as it is ſaid, A Father of many Nations have I made thee.

And becauſe the Jews might quarrel againſt the pertinence of this Inſtance, alledging this might be becauſe Iſhmael was only the Son of Abraham's Bond-maid, whereas Iſaac was the Seed of his own Wife; or that Iſhmael had forfeited his Right by Idolatry, or denying the World to come, of which they accuſe him; here follows the inſtance of chuſing Jacob and his Seed, excluding Eſau and his Seed, againſt which no ſuch Cavil could take place. For, ſaith he,

Ver. 10. And not only this (inſtance is proper to demonſtrate the diſtinction of the Seed of Abraham according to Promiſe,) but (that) alſo (of) Rebeca, who conceived by one, even our Father Iſaac, (two Children born of the ſame Father, and of the ſame Mother, and lying in the ſame Womb.)

Ver. 11. For the Children (of her Womb) being not yet born, neither having done any good or evil (which might move God to diſlike the one more than the other, as may be alledged in the caſe of Iſhmael) that the purpoſe of God according to Election might ſtand, not of (Gr. from) works, but of him that calleth, (i. e. that the purpoſe of God in preferring one of theſe Seeds, and Nations before the other to be the promiſed Seed, and ſo his Church and People might appear to be not on conſideration of their Works, but his free choice.)

Ver. 12. It was (then) ſaid unto her, the elder (in his Poſterity) ſhall ſerve the younger, (i. e. ſhall be inferiour to him who had the Right of Primogeniture according to the fleſh.)

Ver. 13. (According to which preference it happened to their Poſterity,) as it is written, Mal. 1. 2, 3. Jacob have I loved, but Eſau have I hated.

Μήπω γὰρ γεννηθέντων, for the Children being yet unborn.] The Argument of the Apoſtle is to this effect, that though both Jacob and Eſau had the ſame Father, and the ſame Mother, yet of theſe two, when they were yet unborn, and ſo were neither circumciſed, nor had done any thing at all to oblige, or diſoblige God, or to give any ground for any difference to be made betwixt them and their Off-ſpring, God ſpeaks thus of them to Rebekah, Two manner of People ſhall be ſeparated from thy bowels, and the one People ſhall be ſtronger than the other People, and the elder ſhall ſerve the younger, Gen. 25. 23. i. e. Not he to whom by Birth-right it belonged, but he whom God was freely pleaſed to chuſe ſhould inherit the Land of Canaan, promiſed to the Seed of Abraham, and the other Privileges of his Seed. Which Inſtance ſeems plainly to inform us, that the choice which God makes of Men to the enjoyment of the Favour of being his People, and beloved by him above others, as to ſuch things, is not according to their external Privileges, or Works, but according to his free Choice.

And this Prediction was fully verified in After-Ages, for Jacob and his Poſterity were planted in the Land of Canaan, which flowed with Milk and Honey, and was the glory of all Lands; whereas the Edomites were planted in a barren Deſart Land, and this gave ground for thoſe words of the Prophet Malachi, I have loved you, ſaith the Lord to Iſrael, yet ye ſay, wherein haſt thou loved us? Was not Eſau Jacob's Brother, ſaith the Lord? Yet I loved Jacob, and hated Eſau, and laid his mountains, and his heritage waſte for the Dragons of the Wilderneſs. Now for farther explication of theſe words, let it be obſerved,

1. That this Inſtance of Eſau's being rejected, and not owned by God as belonging to the promiſed Seed, is ſuitable to the Sentiments of the Jews, not only becauſe he being an (m) Idolater, and a denyer of the Reſurrection, and of the Bleſſings of the World to come, was not, according to their forementioned Canon, to be accounted for the Seed, and their received Rule, That he who ſwears concerning the Seed of Abraham, is free from Iſhmael and Eſau's Sons, and is not bound but touching Iſraelites, but alſo from their Obſervation upon theſe words of Jacob, (n) The God of my Father Abraham, and of my Father Iſaac, viz. that he ſaith not ſo of Eſau, that Abraham and Iſaac were his Father, becauſe he choſe not to walk in their ways, and to do their works.

2*ly*, Hence it is evident that the Apoſtle ſpeaks not here of the Perſons, but of the Nations and Poſterity of Jacob and Eſau, or not of them Perſonally, but Nationally conſidered, according to the Note of Irenæus, Partum Rebeccæ Prophetiam fuiſſe duorum populorum, l. 4. c. 38. This is plain,

1. From the words of God to Rebekah, Two Nations are in thy womb, and two manner of People ſhall be ſeparated from thy bowels, and the one People ſhall be ſtronger than the other. 2. And from this Obſervation, that as to the Perſons of Eſau and Jacob, it was never true that the elder did ſerve the younger, but only as to their Poſterity, when the Edomites became Tributaries to David, 2 Sam. 8. 14. And 3. Becauſe what is here offered as a Proof, or Confirmation of the truth of this, is cited from the Prophet Malachi, who propheſied long after Jacob and Eſau were perſonally dead, and ſo could only ſpeak of their Poſterity the Iſraelites and Edomites, as he expreſly doth. And,

3*ly*, Hence it clearly follows, that the Apoſtle cannot here diſcourſe of any Perſonal Election of them to Eternal Life, or any abſolute love and hatred of them with reſpect to their Eternal Intereſts, for if ſo, ſeeing he manifeſtly ſpeaks of the whole Nation of Iſrael, they muſt, according to that Opinion, be all elected to Salvation; whereas the Apoſtle informs us that God had no pleaſure in many of them, 1 Cor. 10. 5. and the whole Jewiſh Hiſtory ſhews the contrary. Again, then muſt the whole Poſterity of Eſau be the Objects of God's hatred, and his Reprobation, which is ſo far from being true, that Job and all his Friends appear to have been of the Poſterity of Eſau. And 2*ly*, then it muſt follow, as Eſtius contends, that not only Election, but even Reprobation alſo muſt be without any reſpect to Works, and ſo God muſt adjudge Men to Eternal Perdition without reſpect to any evil done, or to be done by them; for the Children having done neither good nor evil, ſaith the Apoſtle, it happened to them as it is written, Jacob have I loved, and Eſau have I hated. 'Tis certain then that the Apoſtle ſpeaks here only of the Election of one Seed and Nation before another, to be accounted and treated by him as the Seed of Abraham, this only doth his Argument require, and his Inſtances prove, and this is ſufficient to juſtifie God's dealing with the unbelieving Jews, ſo as to reject them from being accounted for, or treated as the Seed of Abraham; and his raiſing up Children to Abraham out of thoſe believing Gentiles, who imitating the Faith of Abraham, became his Spiritual Seed, and Heirs according to the Promiſe, that he would be a God to his Seed, and that he ſhould be the Father of many Nations, and in him ſhould all the Families of the Earth be bleſſed, and his calling them to the Faith, though ſinners of the Gentiles; that depending not on Works, but his free Pleaſure.

Note alſo, that thoſe words, The Children being not yet born, nor having done good or evil, being uſed as an Argument to prove that the Election, or the preference of the one above the other, could not be of Works, is a ſtrong Argument againſt the pre-exiſtence of Souls, and their being ſent into Bodies by way of Puniſhment for their former ſins; for, upon that Suppoſition, it could not be true, that the Children had done neither good or evil, before they were born; nor would the Argument be firm, that one could not be preferred before the other on the account of any Works done by them, ſeeing the one might have ſinned more than the other in their ſtate of pre-exiſtence.

Ver. 14. What ſhall we ſay then (after theſe inſtances?) is there (any cauſe to ſay there is) unrighteouſneſs with God (in taking them for the Seed of Abraham, or for his Sons and People the Poſterity of Iſaac rather than of Iſhmael, the Poſterity of Jacob rather than the Edomites; or in calling now the Gentiles, and, upon their Faith, owning them for his People, the Spiritual Seed of Abraham; and rejecting the Jews from theſe Advantages and Privileges becauſe of their unbelief,) God forbid (that we ſhould accuſe God of unrighteous dealing upon this account.)

Ver. 15. For (to begin with the freedom which God reſerveth to himſelf in ſhewing acts of Grace and Favour to an offending People, in this he only doth what) he ſaith to Moſes (he would do, making this Declaration to him, Exod. 33. 19.) I will have mercy on whom I will have mercy, and I will have compaſſion on whom I will have compaſſion.

Ἐλεήσω ὃν ἂν ἐλεῶ, I will have mercy on whom I will have mercy.] It is here to be noted, that God made this Declaration after Iſrael had committed Idolatry in making the Golden Calf, and ſo had made themſelves naked, i. e. deveſted of the Divine Preſence and Perfection, or of a Covenant-Relation to him, inſomuch that God ſent this dreadful Meſſage to them, I will come up into the midſt of thee in a moment, and conſume thee, Exod. 33. 5. and ſaid to Moſes, Let me alone, that I may deſtroy them in a moment. And though God ſuffered himſelf to be prevailed upon by Moſes to adopt them again for his People, yet he lets him know this was part of his Glory, to be gracious to whom he will be gracious, and to ſhew mercy to whom he will ſhew mercy, Exod. 33. 19. If therefore upon the Infidelity of the Jews, he will call the Idolatrous Gentiles, and receive them to be his People, as he did the Jews again after their Idolatry, who can accuſe him of Injuſtice upon that account?

Ver. 16. So then (theſe Inſtances ſhew that) it is not of him that willeth, (for Abraham willed that Iſhmael might live to be partaker of the Bleſſings promiſed to his Seed, when he ſaid, Oh that Iſhmael might live before thee, Gen. 17. 18. And when he was grieved at the ſaying of Sarah, the Son of the Bondwoman ſhall not be Heir with my Son Iſaac, Gen. 21. 11.) nor of him that runneth, (for when Eſau ran to fetch Veniſon for his Father, that he might receive the Bleſſing, Gen. 27. 5. God's Wiſdom ſaw it fit to have it otherwiſe,) but of God that ſheweth mercy (that any one is choſen to be the Seed to which the Promiſe made to Abraham belongs, and ſo to be his Church and People.)

Οὐ τοῦ θέλοντος οὐδὲ τοῦ τρέχοντος, 'tis not of him that willeth, nor of him that runneth.] i. e. You ſee this is not to be obtained by the moſt paſſionate wiſhes of a faithful Abraham, nor by the fervent deſires of an Eſau, Heb. 12. 17. nor by the greateſt Zeal we can employ in ſuch courſes as ſeem beſt to our own Wiſdom, but we muſt own it to be a Bleſſing which depends meerly upon the Divine Goodneſs, and therefore muſt ſeek it according to his pleaſure in ſuch ways as he appoints, and not in thoſe which ſeem to us moſt proper to obtain it, though then you have a zeal for God, and follow after the Law, that you may obtain obtain Righteouſneſs, it is not to be wondred you obtain not the Bleſſing of Juſtification promiſed to the Seed of Abraham, becauſe you ſeek it not by Faith in the Meſſiah, which is the only way in which God hath declared he will confer it.

Some of the Fathers interpret theſe words thus: (o) It is not of him that wills, or runs only, but of God that ſheweth mercy, and crowns the Work by his aſſiſtance, for otherwiſe, ſay they, it cannot be our Duty either to will, or run, provided we neither can by willing, or running do any thing to encline God to ſhew mercy; and why then doth God blame us for not willing? Mat. 23. 27. John 5. 40. and require us ſo to run that we may obtain? 1 Cor. 9. 24. Heb. 12. 1. And whereas St. Auſtin objects, that, according to this Interpretation, it might be ſaid, it is not of God that ſheweth mercy only, but of Man that wills, and runs. (p) Origen, (q) Chryſoſtom, and (r) Theophylact Anſwer, That this follows not becauſe man's willing and running would not avail without the Divine Aid to enable him to run, and his Grace and Mercy to accept his running; and therefore, according to the Cuſtom of the Scripture, the Effect is to be aſcribed to the chief Agent only; as, except the Lord build the houſe, their labour is but vain that build it, &c. Pſal. 127. 1. So Paul that plants, and Apollo that waters is nothing, but God that giveth the increaſe, 1 Cor. 3. 6, 7. I laboured, yet not I, but the Grace of God, 1 Cor. 15. 10.

To proceed now to the other part of the Objection, the ſeeming Injuſtice, or ſeverity of rejecting, and reſerving them to wrath, and giving them up to an obdurate heart, who will not accept of the way God hath appointed for their Juſtification, viz. that of Faith in Chriſt, but rather will continue in their Infidelity; this will be cleared by another Inſtance, to wit, that of Pharaoh, who had ſo often hardned his heart, refuſing to let Iſrael go.

Ver. 17. For the Scripture ſaith (upon that account) to Pharaoh, even for this cauſe have I raiſed thee up, (i. e. have made thee ſtand in the Plague of Boils, and prolonged thy Life for ſome farther time,) that I might (the more illuſtriouſly) ſhew my power in thee, and that my Name might be declared throughout all the earth (by that conſpicuous Judgment I will execute upon thee in the ſight of all the Nations of the Earth, Joſh. 2. 10. 1 Sam. 4. 8.)

Ver. 18. Therefore (from theſe Inſtances and Scriptures we may learn that) he (God) hath mercy on whom he will have mercy, and (that) whom he will he hardeneth, (or reſerves for puniſhment.)

Ὃν θέλει ἐλεᾷ, ὃν δὲ θέλει σκληρύνει, He hath mercy on whom he will have mercy, and whom he will he hardeneth.] That is, hence it appears that God ſhews Mercy according to his own wiſe Pleaſure, and not as we think fit, and that he gives Men up to the hardneſs of their own hearts, and ſo reſerveth them to be Examples of his Illuſtrious Judgments according to the ſame good Pleaſure, and not according to the time and meaſures that he would preſcribe; ſhewing Mercy to you Jews, when you deſerved to have been cut off for your Idolatry in making, and worſhipping the Golden Calf, and reaſſuming you to be his People, and reſerving the Execution of his Wrath upon Pharaoh, who had before deſerved it for the hardneſs of his Heart, till his Deſtruction would miniſter to the greater Illuſtration of his Power and Juſtice upon ſtubborn Sinners.

Execrable is the Note of Eſtius, that God is here ſaid to harden whom he will, Quod induratio cujuſpiam in primâ ſuâ origine, quæ eſt prima derelictio, ſeu peccati permiſſio, non aliam habet cauſam, quam Dei voluntatem: Becauſe the firſt riſe of any man's induration, which is God's dereliction of him, hath no other cauſe than the Will of God. For as this is contrary to the known ſaying even of St. Auſtin, Deus non deſerit niſi deſerentem, God deſerts no Man who leaves not him firſt; ſo it makes God alone the cauſe of all mens hardening, ſince cauſa cauſæ eſt cauſa cauſati; for if this dereliction be the cauſe of induration, and that hath no other cauſe but the Will of God, it alſo makes all God's Exhortations to Men not to harden their Hearts, and his Reproofs and Puniſhments of them for ſo doing, Exhortations to what his Will is the like cauſe of their not doing, and Reproofs and Puniſhments of that which his Will cauſed them to do.

Ἐξήγειρά σε I have raiſed thee up.] Heb. העמדתיך I have made thee to ſtand, Exod. 9. 16. or have preſerved thee, ἕνεκεν τότε διετηρήθης, for this cauſe haſt thou been kept, ſo the Seventy, from falling by the Plague of Boils. So Junius and Tremellius, feci ut ſuperſtes maneres. I have kept thee alive, ſaith the Targum of Ben. Uziel. See the Chaldee, the Syriack, the Arabick Verſions to the ſame ſenſe and the connexion of this with the former Verſe rightly rendred, makes this ſenſe neceſſary; for the Fifteenth Verſe cannot be rendred in the Future Tenſe, as our Tranſlation doth, Now I will ſtretch out my hand, that I may ſmite thee and thy People with Peſtilence, and thou ſhalt be cut off from the Earth, for Pharaoh and his People did dot die by the Peſtilence. It is therefore to be rendred as the Jews Fagius, Amama, & Cartwright, and Ainſworth tranſlate it: For (f) now I had ſent out my hand, and I had ſmitten thee and thy People with the Peſtilence, and thou hadſt been cut off from the Earth, but in very deed for this cauſe I have made thee ſtand up. So the Targum of B. Uziel, Quum jàm miſerim plagam fortitudinis meæ, æquum erat ut percuterem te, & populum tuum morte, & perderem te è terra, verum profectò non ut beneſaciam tibi, in vita conſervavi te, ſed ut videre faciam te robur meum, &c. Whence we may learn how alien from the Truth, and from the import of the words is that Expoſition which ſaith, For this cauſe have I created thee, or raiſed thee to be King of Ægypt.

Obſerve further, that God hardened Pharaoh's Heart not by any poſitive influx upon it, which made it neceſſary for him to continue obſtinate. This Origen obſerves from thoſe words, If thou refuſe to let my People go, I will do ſo and ſo, that Pharaoh's heart was not ſo hardened, as to take away τὸ αὐτεξούσιον all Power from him to let the People go, for this he doth at laſt when God's Hand was ſtrong upon him, according to theſe words, Ch. 3. 19. I am ſure that the King of Ægypt will not let you go, ולא ביד חזקה niſi per manum fortem, vulg. ἐὰν μὴ μετὰ χειρὸς κραταιᾶς, if not by a ſtrong hand, Septuagint; niſi cum manu valida, Samarit. but by a ſtrong hand, ſo the Biſhop of Bath and Wells. This ſenſe the words will bear, ſaith Ainſworth, being rendred ſi, Exod. 4. 23. Numb. 12. 14. And this ſenſe is plain and certain from the words following, And I will ſtretch out my hand, and ſmite Ægypt with all my wonders which I will do in the midſt thereof, and after that he will let you go, Exod. 3. 20. And again, Chap. 6. 1. Then ſaid the Lord to Moſes, now ſhalt thou ſee what I will do to Pharaoh, for with a ſtrong hand ſhall he let them go. Hence God is always ſaid to have brought them out of Ægypt ביד חזקה with a ſtrong hand, Exod. 32. 11. Deut. 5. 15. 6. 21. 7. 8. 9. 26. Dan. 9. 15. Nor can they who think otherwiſe, ſhew any way how, or in what ſenſe Pharaoh can be ſo often ſaid to have hardened his own Heart, if God himſelf had hardened his Heart before; or why God doth ſo oft command him to let his People go, Chap. 7. 16. & 8. 1, 20. & 9. 1, 13. i. e. to do what he had rendred him unable to do. Or why Moſes ſhould ſay, Let not Pharaoh deal deceitfully any more, in not letting the People go, Chap. 8. 29. Or why God did reprove him becauſe he had refuſed hitherto to let them go, Chap. 7. 16. 8. 29. 9. 17. 10. 3. Or why he threatens Judgments to him if he refuſe to let them go, Chap. 8. 2, 21. 9. 2, 3, 14, 15. and executes them on him upon that refuſal, ſince nemo tenetur ad impoſſibilia, no Man is obliged to do what he cannot, much leſs what he cannot do by vertue of a diſability that God hath laid upon him; and no Man juſtly can be blamed, and much leſs puniſhed for not doing what he is not obliged to do. Nor can God command any Man to do, what he himſelf by his own influx reſtrains him from doing, even when he doth command it; for what he thus reſtrains him from he is not willing he ſhould do, whereas what he Commands he is willing ſhould be done; and when he puniſheth any one for not obeying his Command, he puniſheth him for not doing his Will. Now it is impoſſible that God at the ſame time, and in reference to the ſame Action, ſhould be both willing, and not willing that it ſhould be done. This will be farther evident from a conſideration of all the places where the Heart of Pharaoh is ſaid to be hardened. As Chap. 7. 13. And he hardened Pharaoh's heart. Heb. ויחזק and the heart of Pharaoh was hardened. So the ſame words are rendred by us, v. 22. and ſo here by Ainſworth, the Biſhop of Bath and Wells, the Biſhop of Ely, and all the Verſions on this Verſe; nor is there any Perſon mentioned in the Verſe beſides Pharaoh to whom this Action can be aſcribed, his Heart was therefore hardened at this time, not by God, but by the Arts of his Sorcerers, for the Magicians did ſo with their Inchantments, and Pharaoh's heart was hardened, v. 22.

Chap. 8. 15. We read thus, When Pharaoh ſaw there was reſpite, he hardened his heart. Whence the Fathers truly obſerve, that ἡ μακροθυμία σκληροκαρδίας αἰτία, that the Heart of Pharaoh was hardened by God's Mercy, in taking off his Hand from him: Thus upon the removal of the Flies, Pharaoh hardened his heart, v. 31, 32. And when he ſaw that the Rain, and the Hail, and the Thunders were ceaſed, he ſinned yet more, and hardened his heart, he and his ſervants. And then immediately follow theſe words: And the Lord ſaid to Moſes, Go in unto Pharaoh, for (or although) I have hardened his heart, and the heart of his ſervants, Chap. 10. 1. So v. 20. The Lord then hardened Pharaoh's heart only by taking away the Locuſts. And v. 27. the Lord hardened Pharaoh's Heart by taking away the Darkneſs, the three days aſſigned to it being ended, as Aben-Ezra obſerves on v. 24. none roſe from his place during thoſe three days, but poſt triduum, they being ended, Pharaoh called unto Moſes, and hence we read not as at other times, that Pharaoh asked for the removal of this Plague; and therefore when it is ſaid, Chap. 9. 12. That the Lord hardened the heart of Pharaoh, and he hearkened not unto them, i. e. not to Moſes and Aaron, we have reaſon to conclude he did that alſo by removing the Plague of the Boils, for had the Boils continued upon the Ægyptians, there was no reaſon for calling for the ſucceeding Plague of Hail, nor could the Servants of Pharaoh, with their Boils upon them, have gone into the Field to Houſe their Cattel, v. 20—11. We read alſo, Chap. 14. v. 8. 17. that the Lord hardened Pharaoh's heart to follow the Iſraelites; and of this we may give the ſame account, that he did this by cauſing the Iſraelites to encamp ſo as to give occaſion to Pharaoh to ſay, They are entangled in the Land, the Wilderneſs hath ſhut them in, v. 3. and by cauſing him to ſee the Iſraelites walk ſafely through the midſt of the Sea. But I am not concerned for theſe Places, the hardening of Pharaoh then being not for ſin (God having not commanded Pharaoh not to purſue after them, or follow them into the Red-Sea) but for Puniſhment. When therefore God ſaith, Chap. 4. 21. I will harden the heart of Pharaoh, that he ſhall not let the People go; his meaning may be only this, I will ſo order matters, by removing the Plagues inflicted on him and his People, to mollifie him, and engage him to permit them to go, that he ſhall be hardened, till I come with my ſtrong Hand, and ſlay his Son, even his Firſt-born, v. 23. after which he did let them go, Chap. 12. 31. 33. From theſe two Obſervations it is eaſie to diſcern how appoſite this Example is to the caſe of the Jewiſh Nation. For,

1. Did God harden Pharaoh by his Lenity in removing his Plagues and Judgments from him? The ſame God ſaith of the Jews in this Epiſtle, when he ſpeaks thus unto them, Chap. 2. 4, 5. Deſpiſeſt thou the riches of his goodneſs, and forbearance, and long-ſuffering, not knowing that the goodneſs of God leadeth thee to repentance; but after thy hardneſs, and impenitent heart treaſureſt up unto thy ſelf wrath againſt the day of wrath, and revelation of God's righteous Judgment.

2. If they Object, that if God would have caſt them off from being his People, and have cut them off from any ſhare in the Promiſes made to the Seed of Abraham, why did he it not before, when they had ſo oft deſerved it for their Idolatries, from which they were now free? The Anſwer is from the Example of Pharaoh preſerved alive when he had long deſerved to be cut off, that he might fall at laſt more to the Illuſtration of God's Power, Juſtice, and Glory; and this is the thing hinted, v. 22. as you will ſee in the Expoſition of it.

Ver. 19. Thou wilt ſay then (againſt this account of the Divine Diſpenſations towards the unbelieving Jews, if God hardeneth us becauſe he will, (why doth he yet find fault (with us for our impenitence) for who hath (at any time) reſiſted his will? (How therefore is it in our power to avoid being hardned, if it be his Will we ſhould be ſo?)

Ver. 20. Nay, but O Man, who art thou that replyeſt (thus) againſt God? Shall the thing formed ſay to him that formed it, why haſt thou made me thus?

Ver. 21. Hath not the Potter power over the Clay, of the ſame lump to make one Veſſel unto honour, and another unto diſhonour?

Οὐκ ἔχει ἐξουσίαν ὁ κεραμεὺς τοῦ πηλοῦ, hath not the Potter power over the Clay?] That is, there is no more cauſe from God's Diſpenſation in this caſe, in taking away the means of Grace from, and rejecting ſuch an hardned People, and ſhewing his Favour unto others, who ſubmit to his terms of Mercy, to make this Objection, than for the Clay of Jeremy, when it was marred and broken, Jer. 18. 4. 6. to complain that he took one part of it, and made it a Veſſel of diſhonour, and another part of it, and made it a Veſſel of honour.

That this Example of the Clay in the hands of the Potter, relates to God's dealing with ſinners according to his pleaſure, is evident not only from the application of it there to the impenitent, v. 7, 8. but alſo from the like Paſſage in Eccleſiaſticus, where we are taught from this very Inſtance that the ways of God are κατὰ τὴν εὐδοκίαν αὐτοῦ, according to his good pleaſure, becauſe as the Clay is in the hands of the Potter, ſo is Man in the hands of him that made him, to render to them as liketh him beſt, κατὰ τὴν κρίσιν αὐτοῦ, according to his righteous judgment, Eccluſ. 33. 13.

Ver. 22. What (therefore) if God (being) willing to ſhew his wrath, and make his power (more illuſtriouſly) known, endured with much long-ſuffering (you refractory Jews, which were ſo long ago) the Veſſels of his wrath fitted for deſtruction, (or for breaking, Pſal. 31. 13.)

Ver. 23. And (what if God) that he might make known the riches of his Glory, (ſhewed mercy) on the Veſſels of his mercy, whom he had before, (by working Faith in them) prepared for his Glory.

Ver. 24. Even us whom he hath called, (us I ſay) not only of the Jews (the Natural Seed of Abraham,) but alſo of the Gentiles.

Εἰ δὲ θέλων ὁ Θεὸς, what if God, &c.] i. e. What Injuſtice therefore is it in God to deal with you as he dealt with an hardened Pharaoh, you having as oft refuſed to hearken to his voice as Pharaoh did? Or what if he long hath, and ſtill at preſent bears with ſuch Veſſels of his Wrath fitted for Deſtruction, till in a more illuſtrious manner, and with more ſignal marks of his diſpleaſure, for thus rejecting the Goſpel, and the promiſed Meſſiah, he ſwallow up their Nation, their People, their Temple, and their Holy City in one general Deſtruction? Is it not for the Glory of the Divine Power and Wiſdom to reſerve the rejecters of the Meſſiah ſent to bleſs them, and the Perſecutors of the Chriſtian Faith, to be at laſt cut off with ſuch a Remarkable Deſtruction, as ſhall render it viſible to the World that God's Indignation is incenſed againſt them for this ſin, and ſo ſhall give to Jew and Gentile a farther motive to believe in Jeſus?

their

And again, what if God is pleaſed, upon their impenitence and obduration, to ſhew the Riches of his glorious Goodneſs and Mercy upon thoſe Jews and Gentiles whom he hath called to the Faith of Chriſt, and ſo hath fitted and prepared to be the Veſſels of his Mercy? Hath he not a juſt Right to ſhew his Mercy to ſuch Perſons who have ſubmitted to the terms upon which he hath promiſed Favour and Acceptance, and ſo to own them as the Spiritual Seed of Abraham, and ſo as his peculiar People?

Ἃ προητοίμασεν εἰς δόξαν, whom he hath prepared for his Glory.] Thus the Apoſtle diſcourſing of the Day of the Lord, which was coming to execute his dreadful Judgments on the Jews, ſaith thus, God hath not appointed us to wrath, but to obtain Salvation by our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, 1 Theſſ. 5. 9.

Ver. 25. (And firſt, as for the called Gentiles, is not this the very thing foretold by their own Prophet Hoſea, when he introduceth God thus ſpeaking,) as he ſaith in Oſee, I will call them my People, which were not my People; and her beloved, which (then) was not beloved.

Ver. 26. And it ſhall come to paſs that in the place (and Nation) where (formerly) it was ſaid unto them, Ye are not my People, there ſhall they be called (i. e. there ſhall ariſe a People which ſhall be called) the Children of the living God.

Ἐκεῖ κληθήσονται, there ſhall they be called the Children of the living God.] It muſt be acknowledged that in theſe words the Prophet primarily ſpeaketh of the Reſtoration of the Jews exiled and caſt off from being his People, but yet that theſe words may not only be accommodated, but even extended to the Gentiles, who were emphatically not his People and yet by Faith became the Seed of Abraham, and the true Iſraelites, being the Sons of God by Faith in Chriſt Jeſus, v. 6, 8. may be argued from the Phraſe במקום in the Place or Nation where it was ſaid, ye are not my People; and ſo the Jews themſelves interpret theſe words in the Gloſs upon the Talmud, ſaying, They who were not of my People ſhall adhere to the Lord, and be to me for a People, Gloſs. Talmud. in Tract. de Paſchate ad Cap. 8, according to that of the Prophet Zechariah, And many Nations ſhall adhere to the Lord in that day, and ſhall be my People, Zech. 2. 11.

Ver. 27. (And whereas but a ſmall remnant of Iſrael have believed, and ſo but few of them are fitted to be Veſſels of his Mercy: Is not this alſo the very thing foretold by their own Prophet) Eſaias alſo (when he) crieth concerning Iſrael, Chap. 10 22, 23.) though the number of the Children of Iſrael be as the ſand of the Sea, (yet) a remnant (only of them) ſhall be ſaved, (i. e. ſhall be converted to good, faith (t) R. Salomon, and ſo continue to enjoy the Name and Title of his People.)

Ver. 28. For (ſaith he) he will finiſh the work, and cut it ſhort in Righteouſneſs, becauſe a ſhort work will the Lord make upon the Earth, (i. e. the Land of Judæa.)

Λογὸν συντελῶν μένον, a ſhort work.] i. e. Such a Conſumption and Deciſion is by God deſigned upon that multitude of evil doers in the Land of Iſrael, as ſhall cut them very ſhort, and lop them off, ſo that they ſhall be lett as a Tree, of which only the ſtump remaineth; they ſhall be reduced, ſaith R. Salomon, to a ſmall remnant, and a remnant of that Remnant only ſhall be converted.

Ver. 29. And (this hath happened according) as Eſaias ſaid before, Chap. 1. 9. viz. that there was a time when the ſins of that People were ſo highly provoking, that) except the Lord of Sabaoth had left us a Seed, (except his exceeding Goodneſs had redeemed us in mercy, there were ſins in us, ſaith the Chaldee Paraphraſt, for which) we had been as Sodom, and been made like unto Gomorrah.

Ver. 30. What ſhall we ſay then? (Gr. τί οὖν ἐροῦμεν, what do we ſay then? i. e. What is therefore the ſubſtance of what I have intended in this Diſcourſe? it is even this,) that the Gentiles, which followed not after Righteouſneſs, (i. e. who before the coming of Chriſt were not ſollicitous touching Juſtification before God, as having no Idea, and no notice of it, or call to it, and ſo as little thought of being preferred before Iſrael, as Iſaac, being not born, of being preferred before Iſhmael, and Jacob in the Womb, of being choſen to be the promiſed Seed before Eſau) have (yet through God's Grace and Favour through Faith) attained to Righteouſneſs, even the Righteouſneſs which is of Faith, (and ſo are made God's Sons, and his peculiar People.)

Τί οὖν ἐροῦμεν, what do we then ſay?] From this recapitulation of the whole Diſpute of the Apoſtle in this Chapter and Declaration, that this was the deſign of it, to juſtifie God in this proceeding and dealing with them both, it is exceeding evident that it was not at all deſigned to determine any thing touching

God's

God's abſolute Decrees of dealing with Mankind in general thus or thus, as to their final and eternal ſtate, but only to juſtifie his dealings, as in his Providence he had actually done with the unbelieving Jews, rejecting them upon their ſtubborn Infidelity, and the hardneſs of their hearts; and with the believing Gentiles admitting them to be his Church and People, and the Spiritual Seed of Abraham upon their Faith, and Submiſſion to the terms he had propoſed for their Juſtification and Acceptance with him.

Ver. 31. But Iſrael (to whom the Promiſes were firſt made, and) which followed after the Law of Righteouſneſs, (i. e. earneſtly purſued after Righteouſneſs and Acceptance by the works of the Law) have not attained to the Law of Righteouſneſs, (or to the Righteouſneſs which God accepteth.)

Ver. 32. (And) wherefore (is it ſo) becauſe (they ſought not this Juſtification) by (that) Faith (which alone God preſcribeth for that end) but as (if) it were (to be obtained) by the works of the Law, (by which no fleſh can be juſtified, Chap. 3. 20. And the reaſon why they ſought it not by Faith in Chriſt is this,) becauſe they ſtumbled at the ſtubling-ſtone, (and ſo it happened to them.)

Ver. 33. As it is written, behold I lay in Zion a ſtumbling-ſtone, and a Rock of offence, and whoſoever believeth in him, ſhall not be aſhamed.

Προσέκοψαν γάρ, for they ſtumbled, &c.] They ſought not Juſtification by Faith in Chriſt, becauſe whereas God had pointed out to them this way of Salvation, by ſaying, Behold, I lay in Zion a Corner-ſtone, elect and precious, and whoſoever believeth in him, ſhall not be aſhamed, Eſa. 28. 16. this Corner ſtone became to them of Iſrael, according to the words of the ſame Prophet, Chap. 8. 14. a ſtone of ſtumbling, and a rock of offence, they being offended at him becauſe of his Poverty, Humility, and outward meanneſs, and the Spirituality of his Kingdom; and ſo they ſtumbled, and fell off from being God's People, and excluded themſelves from the Bleſſings procured for, and offered to them by the Meſſias promiſed to their Forefathers. See 1 Pet. 2. 6, 7, 8.

Προσκόμματος λίθον, a ſtone of ſtumbling, &c.] The Jews ſay, the Son of David, i. e. the Meſſias, cometh not till the two Houſes of the Fathers of Iſrael ſhall be taken away, to wit, the Head of the Captivity of Babylon, and the Prince who is in Iſrael, as it is ſaid, He ſhall be a ſtone of ſtumbling, and a rock of ruine to the two Houſes of Iſrael, and many of them ſhall ſtumble, and fall, and be broken. And the Chaldee Paraphraſt upon the place ſaith thus, &c. ואם לא תקבלון וידי, and if they will not obey or receive (him,) my word ſhall be to them for ſcandal, and ruine to the Princes of the two Houſes of Iſrael.

CHAP. X.

Verſe 1. BRethren, my hearts deſire, and Prayer for Iſrael is, that they may be ſaved.

Ἡ μὲν εὐδοκία μου, my Prayer.] That the Apoſtle ſpeaks not in the preceding Chapter of the abſolute, and peremptory rejection, and reprobation of Iſrael, is evident from this Prayer and vehement deſire of the Apoſtle; for on ſuppoſition of ſuch a Decree of Reprobation, this muſt not only be a vain Prayer, but alſo an oppoſing of his Will and εὐδοκία to the good pleaſure of Almighty God revealed to him; for it is evident he prays here for all Iſrael, for them whoſe Zeal to God was not according to knowledge, and who were ignorant of God's Righteouſneſs, v. 2, 3. Not for thoſe only, as Eſthius deſcants, whom God had predeſtinated to be ſaved by the Prayers of the Saints.

Ver. 2. For I bear them record that they have a zeal of God, (being very deſirous to do what they conceive well-pleaſing to him, and acceptable in his ſight,) but (this Zeal is) not according to knowledge, (i. e. not joined with the knowledge of thoſe things which would render them truly acceptable to him.)

Ζῆλον Θεοῦ, a zeal for God.] Hence were ſome of them called Zealots, taking that Name ἀπὸ τῶν ἐπ' ἀγαθῷ ζηλωτῶν, from thoſe who were zealous for that which was good, ſaith (a) Joſephus.

Ver. 3. For they being ignorant (through unbelief, 1 Tim. 1. 13.) of God's Righteouſneſs, (i. e. of that way of Juſtification which alone renders us righteous and acceptable in the ſight of God. See Note on Rom. 1. 17. 2 Cor. 5. 21.) and going about to eſtabliſh their own Righteouſneſs (which is of the Law,

(a) De Bello Jud. l. 7. c. 30. p. 986.

Philip. 3. 9. and ſo a Righteouſneſs peculiar to them who are Jews) have not ſubmitted themſelves to (that Righteouſneſs which is through Faith in Chriſt, and is) the Righteouſneſs of God.

Ver. 4. For Chriſt is the end of the Law for Righteouſneſs (to be imputed) to every one that believeth (in him, the Law being our School-Maſter to bring us to Chriſt, that we might be juſtified by Faith, Gal. 3. 25.)

Ver. 5. (Which Righteouſneſs by Faith can never be obtained by the works of the Law,) for Moſes deſcribeth the Righteouſneſs of the Law (thus,) that the man that doth theſe things ſhall live by them, (ſo that this Righteouſneſs is plainly not of Faith, but Works.)

Ζήσεται ἐν αὐτοῖς, ſhall live by them.] A Proſperous and happy Life in the Land of Canaan, as (b) Origen interprets the words, Eternal Life being not the Promiſe of the Law, but of the Goſpel; and if Eternal Life was obſcurely hinted as the Reward of their Obedience to the Law of Moſes, it related not to their Obedience to the Ceremonial, but to the Moral Law, of which our Saviour ſaith, If thou wilt enter into life (Eternal, v. 16.) keep the Commandments, Mat. 19. 18. And this do, and thou ſhalt live, Luke 10. 28. Obedience to which includes Faith in his Word and Promiſes: And ſo Faith in Chriſt, when once that is revealed as the Condition of our Juſtification, and the Obedience they yielded to it availed to their Salvation only through that New Covenant of Grace which pardoned the Infirmities of that Obedience.

Ver. 6. But the Righteouſneſs which is of Faith ſpeaketh (ſo as that we may accomodate the words of Moſes to it) on this wiſe, ſay not in thy heart, who ſhall aſcend into Heaven, that is, to bring down Chriſt from above (to be a teacher of it to us?)

Ver. 7. Or, who ſhall deſcend into the deep? that is, to bring up Chriſt again from the dead, (to give us the Salvation purchaſed by his Death.)

Τὶς καταβήσεται εἰς τὴν ἄβυσσον, who ſhall deſcend into the deep?] The words, Deut. 30. 13. are theſe, Who ſhall go over the Sea? That is, ſay the Targum of Jeruſalem, and B. Uziel, the great Sea, or the deep Sea; and the Jeruſalem Targum renders the words thus, Oh that there were one like Jonas the Prophet who would deſcend לעומקי ימא into the depth of the great Sea. Now we know Jonas deſcending into the Deep, was a Type of Chriſt, Mat. 12. 40. Deſcending into the deep of the Earth, Pſal. 71. 20. And being brought again, ſaith the Seventy, ἐκ τῶν ἀβύσσων γῆς, from the Abyſſes of the Earth; and this might give occaſion to the Apoſtle to allude to this Traditional Interpretation, or Paraphraſe of the words of Moſes. Note alſo that the Apoſtle ſays not to bring Chriſt ab inferis, as Eſthius here doth, but only to bring him ἐκ νεκρῶν from the dead, this Place therefore concerns not Chriſt's deſcent into Hell, in the ſenſe of Eſthius.

Ver. 8. But what ſaith it? the Word is nigh thee, even in thy mouth, and in thy heart, that is, the word of Faith which we preach.

Ἐγγύς σου, nigh thee.] It is neither far from any man's hearing, for we Preach it every where, nor far from his Underſtanding, for in Preaching it we uſe great plainneſs of ſpeech, 2 Cor. 3. 12. It is in thy Mouth to profeſs, and in thy Heart to believe it, and thus we Preach.

Ver. 9. That if thou ſhalt confeſs with thy mouth the Lord Jeſus, and ſhalt believe in thy heart, that God hath raiſed him from the dead, thou ſhalt be ſaved.

Ἐὰν ὁμολογήσῃς, if thou ſhalt confeſs, &c.] Obſerve here,

1. That Juſtification is here expreſly aſcribed to Faith, and that not as including Works, but only as being that Principle, which, were it cordial and ſincere, will certainly produce them: I ſay, not as including all thoſe Works which by the Goſpel are required to Salvation, for then the Righteouſneſs of Faith muſt be deſcribed as is the Righteouſneſs of the Law, viz. that the man who doth theſe things, ſhall live in them, which is contrary to the words of the Apoſtle, v. 5, 6. See the Preface to the Epiſtle to the Galatians.

2. Obſerve, That the Faith to which Juſtification and Salvation is aſcribed, is not here, as elſewhere ſaid to be Faith in his Blood, but a belief that God hath raiſed up Jeſus from the dead. So St. Paul having diſcourſed of the Faith of Abraham, which was imputed to him for Righteouſneſs, ſaith, This was not written for his ſake alone, that it was imputed to him, but for us alſo, to whom it ſhall be imputed, if we believe in him that raiſed up Jeſus our Lord from the dead, Rom. 4. 23, 24. Thus are we ſaid to be riſen with Chriſt through the Faith of the operation of God, who hath raiſed him from the dead, Coloſſ. 2. 12. And in St. Peter the Chriſtian is ſaid to believe through Chriſt in God, who raiſed him from the dead, that our faith and hope might be in God, 1 Pet. 1. 21. Now this belief in God as raiſing our Lord Jeſus from the Dead, is therefore repreſented as Faith unto Salvation, becauſe it miniſtreth to us a full Aſſurance of Salvation by Chriſt, and of our Reſurrection alſo; for if we believe that Jeſus Chriſt died, and roſe again, even ſo them alſo that ſleep in Jeſus will God bring with him, 1 Theſſ. 4. 14. Knowing that he that raiſed up the Lord Jeſus, ſhall alſo raiſe up us by Jeſus, 2 Cor. 4. 13, 14. And this belief of an happy

Reſurrection

Reſurrection to Eternal Life is a ſufficient motive to be ſtedfaſt, immoveable, always abounding in the fear of the Lord, 1 Cor. 15. 58. And where it hath not theſe Effects upon us, it is not in the Scripture-ſenſe duly believed and attended to.

Note 3*ly*, That when the Apoſtle ſaith, If thou doeſt thus confeſs and believe, thou ſhalt be ſaved, we need not underſtand this of actual and compleat Salvation to be imparted at the Day of Judgment, but that this Faith, and this Confeſſion will put us into the way of Salvation, and give us a Right to it, whilſt we continue to act ſuitably to this Faith, which I have ſhewn to be the frequent import of the word Salvation, and Saved, when Salvation is aſcribed to Faith and Grace. See the Notes on Epheſ. 2. 8. Titus 3. 5.

Ver. 10. For with the heart man believeth unto Righteouſneſs, (Gr. to Juſtification) and with the mouth confeſſion is made (of that Faith) unto Salvation.

Στόματι δὲ ὁμολογεῖται, with the mouth confeſſion is made to Salvation.] For in thoſe Times of Perſecution for the ſake of Chriſt, he that continued, under thoſe fiery Tryals, to hold faſt his Profeſſion, could do it only through that lively Faith, and that ſincere Affection to him above all Worldly Intereſts, which he hath promiſed to Reward with Life Eternal.

Ver. 11. For the Scripture ſaith, whoſoever believeth on him, ſhall not be aſhamed (of his hope of Salvation by him, Rom. 5. 5.) And

Ver. 12. (It rightly ſaith whoſoever) for there is no difference (as to the way of Juſtification and Salvation) between the Jew and the Greek, for the ſame Lord over all, is rich unto all that call upon him (for Salvation.)

Ver. 13. For (as the Prophet Joel ſaith, Chap. 2. 32.) whoſoever ſhall call upon the Name of the Lord, ſhall be ſaved.

Ἐπικαλέσηται τὸ ὄνομα Κυρίου, ſhall call upon the Name of the Lord.] The word in the Original is Jehovah, whence it is certain that the Prophet ſpeaks theſe words of the true and only God, and yet it is as certain that the Apoſtle here aſcribes them to our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, both from the following words, How ſhall they call on him in whom they have not believed? For the Apoſtle in this whole Chapter diſcourſeth of Faith in Chriſt, and from the words forgoing, of which theſe are a Proof, and to which they are connected with the Particle γάρ, for thoſe words, whoſoever believeth in him ſhall not be aſhamed, are ſpoken by the Prophet Iſaiah of Jeſus Chriſt the Corner-ſtone, Iſa. 28. 16. And ſo they are interpreted by St. Peter, 1 Pet. 2. 6, 7. And in the Prophet Joel theſe words follow, εὐαγγελιζόμενοι ὃς Κύριος προσκέκληται, and the evangelized, whom the Lord ſhall call, ſhall be ſaved. Here then we have two Arguments for the Divinity of Chriſt. (1.) That what is ſpoken of Jehovah, is aſcribed to him. (2.) That he is made the Object of our Religious Invocation. See Note on 1 Cor. 1. 1, 2.

Ver. 14. (Now this calling upon him ſuppoſes God's intention that the Gentiles as well as Jews ſhould hear, in order to their believing, for did they not believe,) How then ſhall they call upon him in whom they have not believed? (Did they not hear,) and how ſhall they believe in him of whom they have not heard? And (this hearing ſuppoſeth ſome Preacher was to be ſent unto the Gentiles, for) how ſhall they hear without a Preacher?

Ver. 15. And (this Preacher muſt have a Commiſſion from God, for) how ſhall they Preach unleſs they be ſent? (now certainly we have been ſent to you Jews, Preaching Peace to you by Jeſus Chriſt, Acts 10. 36.) as it is written (Iſa. 52. 7, 8.) how beautiful (upon the Mountains) are the feet of them that preach the Goſpel of Peace, and bring glad tidings of good things, (that ſay unto Zion, thy God reigneth, or as the Chaldee, the Kingdom of thy God is revealed.)

Ὡς ὡραῖοι, how beautiful, &c.] The Midraſh Shir Haſſchirim upon thoſe words of Cant. 2. 12. The voice of the Turtle is heard in our Land, ſaith thus, This is the voice of the King Meſſiah, crying out, and ſaying, how beautiful, &c.

Ver. 16. But (if the Apoſtles were ſent to the Jews, how is it that) they have not all obeyed the Goſpel? (I anſwer, this incredulity of the Jews is only that which was foretold by their own Prophets) for (ſo) Iſaiah ſaith (of them, Chap. 53. 1.) Lord, who hath believed our report? (τῇ ἀκοῇ ἡμῶν.)

Ver. 17. So then (theſe Teſtimonies ſhew that) Faith comes by hearing, and hearing by (the Preaching of) the Word of God.

Ver. 18. But (Gr. moreover) I ſay (of the Gentiles,) have they not heard, (that of the Pſalmiſt being true of us the Preachers of the Goſpel) their ſound went into all the Earth, and their words into the ends of the World, (Rom. 1. 8. Col. 1. 6, 23.)

Ὁ φθόγγος αὐτῶν, their voice.] Theſe words being ſpoken literally of the Preaching of the Heavens to the Gentiles, touching the Power, Wiſdom, and the Goodneſs of God; and the Pſalmiſt ſpeaking immediately after of God's teaching his People by the Law, as a more glorious diſcovery of his Will to the Jews, the Apoſtle very appoſitely accomodates theſe words to the Revelation of his Power, Wiſdom, Goodneſs, and Mercy in the Goſpel to the Heathens.

Ver. 19. But (yea, or alſo) I ſay, did not Iſrael know (of the Preaching of the Goſpel to the Gentiles, and of their own Infidelity in rejecting it? this ſurely they might know from their own Scriptures, for) firſt, Moſes ſaith, I will provoke you (refuſing to believe) to jealouſie by them that are (yet) no People (of God,) and by a fooliſh Nation I will anger you.

Ἀλλὰ, but.] That ἀλλὰ ſignifies yea, ſee our Tranſlation rendring it ſo five times, 2 Cor. 7. 11. John 16. 2. That it ſignifies quin etiam, quin immo, ſee Naldius and Luke 12. 7. 1 Cor. 3. 2. 12. 22.

Ἐπ᾽ οὐκ ἔθνει, by them that are no People.] That this is the Deſcription of the Heathens, ſee Note on 1 Cor. 1. 28. who are alſo ſtiled not only by the Jews, but by the Scriptures whilſt Idolaters, a fooliſh People, Jer. 10. 8. Rom. 1. 21, 22. Titus 3. 3.

Ver. 20. But Iſaias is very bold (in his expreſſion) and ſaith (of the Gentiles,) I was found of them that (formerly) ſought me not, I was made manifeſt to them that asked not after me.

Ver. 21. But to Iſrael (foretelling their infidelity) he ſaith, all day long have I ſtretched forth my hands to a diſobedient and gainſaying People.

Ὅλην τὴν ἡμέραν, all the day long.] Theſe words are cited from Iſa. 65. 1, 2. and Aben-Ezra informs us that (c) R. Moſes Hacohen ſaid, the firſt Verſe is to be underſtood of the Nations of the World, as if it had been ſaid, I am found of the Nations which are not called by my Name, but to my People have I ſtretched out my hand: And ſo the Apoſtle interprets, and applies the words here.

CHAP. XI.

Verſe 1. I Say then (that the generality of the Jews are hardened) and caſt off, but what then?) hath God caſt away his People (utterly, and without exception?) God forbid (we ſhould ſo think,) for I alſo am an Iſraelite, of the Seed of Abraham, of the Tribe of Benjamin, (and yet choſen to be an Apoſtle of Chriſt.)

Ver. 2. God (therefore) hath not (thus) caſt away his People whom he foreknew, (and to repreſent this in a like caſe well known to you) wot you not what the Scripture ſaith of Elias (ἐν Ηλίᾳ, in the Hiſtory of Elias) how he (in it) maketh interceſſion to God againſt (the King and People of) Iſrael, ſaying,

Whom he foreknew, οὓς προέγνω.] Concerning the People of Iſrael, Moſes ſpeaks thus; Thou art an Holy People to the Lord thy God, the Lord thy God προείλετο hath choſen thee to be a ſpecial People to himſelf above (or before) all People that are upon the face of the Earth, Deut. 7. 6. 10. 15. Now to be choſen, and to be known of God, are the ſame thing in Scripture, and therefore the Phraſe is elſewhere varied thus; You only have I known מכל before all the Families of the Earth, Amos 3. 2. ὑμᾶς ἔγνων ἐκ πασῶν, τῶν φυλῶν τῆς γῆς. So Numb. 16. 5. To morrow ויד֫ע and the Lord will know who are his, and who is holy, even him whom he hath choſen. Seventy, καὶ ἔγνω ὁ Θεὸς τοὺς ὄντας αὐτοῦ, καὶ τὸν ἁγίους-ὃν ἐξελέξατο αὐτῷ, and v. 7. the man whom the Lord doth chuſe, he ſhall be holy. And thoſe words of Hoſea, Judah yet ruleth with the Lord, and is faithful with his Saints, Chap. 11. 12. are by the Septuagint thus rendred, καὶ ἰδοὺ νῦν ἔγνω αὐτὸς ὁ Θεὸς, καὶ ὁ λαὸς ἅγιος κληθήσεται θεοῦ, ſo that the People whom he foreknew, may be here only a Periphraſis of the Jewiſh Nation, which God had choſen before all other Nations of the World, and therefore would not utterly caſt off, becauſe his gifts and callings are without repentance, v. 29. Or it may ſignifie thoſe of them who believed in Chriſt, and ſo were ſuch as he had purpoſed to ſave, or the Election according to Grace, v. 5, 7. which ſenſe this Phraſe bears, Rom. 8. 29. 1 Pet. 1. 1, 2.

He maketh interceſſion to God againſt Iſrael, ἐντυγχάνει Θεῷ κατὰ τοῦ Ἰσραήλ.] Ἐντυγχάνειν τινὶ, is to intercede, or be an Advocate for a Perſon, and he that doth ſo, is called συνήγορος, and this is the Office of our Bleſſed Lord, who ever lives to make interceſſion for us; but ἐντυγχάνειν κατά τινος is to accuſe, or charge a Perſon with a Crime, and ſo to intercede againſt him. So 1 Maccab. 8. 32. If the Jews complain againſt thee, ἐὰν ἐντυχῶσι κατά σε, we will do them Juſtice. And when wicked Men came to King Alexander to complain againſt Jonathan, the King commanded a Proclamation to be made, τὸ μηδένα ἐντυγχάνειν κατ᾽ αὐτοῦ περὶ μηδενὸς πράγματος, that no Man ſhould complain againſt him about any matters, 1 Maccab. 10. 61, 63. And again, Chap. 11. 25. ſome wicked Men complained againſt him, ἐνέτυχαν κατ᾽ αὐτοῦ. So here ἐντυγχάνειν κατὰ τοῦ Ἰσραὴλ, is to complain againſt Iſrael thus:

Ver. 3. Lo, they have killed thy Prophets, and digged down thine Altars, and I am left alone (of all thy Prophets) and they ſeek my life.

Τὰ θυσιαστήριά σου, thy Altars.] Not thoſe which God approved of after the building of the Temple, they being then obliged to offer all their Sacrifices at the place which God had choſen to put his Name there, Deut. 12. 5, 6. but thoſe which had before been uſed by the Patriarchs and Prophets for the Service of God, as that of Samuel in Ramah, and in Miſpah, 1 Sam. 7. 9. 9. 13. in Gilgal, Chap. 11. 16. at Bethlehem, Chap. 16. 2, 4. and the Altar of of the Lord at Carmel, 1 Kings 18. 30. on which the pious People of the Ten Tribes ſacrificed when they were not permitted to go up to Jeruſalem, that Law, ſaith Kimchi, then ceaſing as to them.

Ver. 4. But what ſaith the anſwer of God to him? (in that Hiſtory it ſpeaks thus,) I have reſerved to my ſelf ſeven thouſand men who have not bowed the knee to Baal.

To Baal, τῇ Βάαλ.] That is, to the Image of Baal. So Hoſ. 2. 8. I gave her the Gold and Silver which ſhe prepared for Baal, Gr. αὐτὴ δὲ ἀργύριον καὶ χρυσὸν ἐποίησε τῇ Βάαλ. But ſhe prepared this Gold and Silver for the Image of Baal, ſhe made Idols of them, ſaith the Targum. So Tobit 1. 5. ἔθυον τῇ Βάαλ τῇ δαμάλει, they ſacrificed to the Heifer Baal, Jer. 2. 28. according to the number of their ſtreets in Jeruſalem, ἔθυον τῇ Βάαλ have they ſacrificed to the Image of Baal, for ſure they had not as many Baalims as they had Streets, and therefore where the Septuagint read τῇ Βάαλ, there the Chaldee adds Idols, or Images. I will blot out the names of Baal, τὰ ὀνόματα τῆς Βάαλ; reliquias Idolorum Baal, Targum. See Hoſ. 13. 1. This I prefer before that Notion of the learned Selden, that Baal was ἀρρενοθήλυς, Male and Female.

Ver. 5. Even ſo then (is it) at this preſent time alſo, (for even now) there is a remnant according to the Election of Grace.

Ver. 6. And if (they who are choſen in Chriſt, Eph. 1. 4. to be God's Church and People, are put into this ſtate) by Grace, (being juſtified freely by his Grace, Rom. 3. 24.) then it is no more of (the) works (of the Law that they are thus juſtified and accepted by him,) otherwiſe Grace is no more Grace, (for what need is there of Grace, where men have continued in all things written in the Law to do them? Moſes having ſaid, the man that doth theſe things ſhall live by them, Rom. 10. 5.) but (on the other hand) if it be of works (that we are juſtified and accepted) then it is no more (of) Grace, otherwiſe work is no more work, (for Grace comes in only to ſupply the defect of Works, that is, to procure pardon for the non-performance of them according to the tenor of the Law.)

Ver. 7. What then (muſt be ſaid in this caſe but this, viz. that the whole Nation of) Iſrael hath not obtained that (Righteouſneſs, or Juſtification, Rom. 9. 30, 31.) which it ſeeketh for, but the Election (the choſen Generation of Believers, 1 Pet. 2. 9.) hath obtained it, and the reſt were blinded.

The Election of Grace.] See Note on v. 28.

Ver. 8. (And this blindneſs hath happened to them) according as it is written, God hath given them a ſpirit of ſlumber, eyes that they ſhould not ſee, and ears that they ſhould not hear, unto this day.

Ver. 9. And (as) David ſaith, let their Table be (or their Table ſhall be) made a ſnare, and a trap, and a ſtumbling-block, and a recompence unto them (of their evil deeds.)

Ver. 10. Let their eyes be, (or their eyes ſhall be) darkened, that they may not ſee, and ever (ſhalt thou) bow down their back.

God hath given them a ſpirit of ſlumber, ἔδωκεν αὐτοῖς ὁ Θεὸς, &c.] The Hebrew נתן, and the Greek δίδωμι, is often uſed to ſignifie a permiſſion of that which we can hinder; as Gen. 31. 7. οὐκ ἔδωκεν αὐτῷ ὁ Θεὸς κακοποιῆσαί με, God, ſaith Jacob, permitted not Laban to hurt me. Deut. 18. 14. σὺ δὲ οὐκ οὕτως ἔδωκέ σοι Κύριος ὁ Θεός σου, the Lord thy God hath not ſuffered thee to do ſo. See alſo Judges 15. 1. Acts 2. 27. 13. 35. So again, 1 Kings 22. 22, 23. The Lord hath put ἔδωκεν ὁ Θεὸς, a lying ſpirit in the mouth of all thy Prophets; i. e. he hath permitted him freely to go forth, and to deceive them, v. 22. Eſth. 9. 13. If it pleaſe the King, δοθήτω Ἰουδαίοις, let it be granted to the Jews to do ſo to morrow alſo. Of him that ſat upon the Red Horſe it is ſaid, that ἐδόθη αὐτῷ, it was given him to take peace from the Earth, Rev. 6. 4. And Chap. 9. 3, 5. of the Beaſt it is ſaid ἐδόθη αὐτῷ, there was given to him a mouth to ſpeak great things, and blaſphemies, and it was given him to make War with the Saints, and overcome them. See Hoſ. 13. 11. Joel 2. 17, 19. Rev. 6. 8. 9. 14, 15. See the Note on Chap. 1. 24, 26. And in this ſenſe God is here ſaid to have given the Jews a ſpirit of ſlumber, by permitting them to lie under thoſe Prejudices againſt the true Meſſiah, which their Traditions concerning him, and the Doctrine and Authority of the Scribes and Phariſees had wrought within them. As alſo by delivering the things belonging to Chriſt's Kingdom obſcurely to them, and in Parables, becauſe they would not receive them when more plainly taught, Mat. 13. 13. And by taking the Kingdom of God from them, and giving it to a Nation that would bring forth the fruits of it, becauſe they contradicted and blaſphemed the Doctrine of that Kingdom, and ſo cauſed the Apoſtles to turn from them to the Gentiles, Mat. 23. 43. Acts 13. 45, 46. And by refuſing to walk in the light whilſt they enjoyed it, they made it juſt that darkneſs ſhould thus come upon them, or that they ſhould have Eyes, and ſee not, Ears, and hear not; which is a mode of ſpeaking uſed frequently in the Old Teſtament, and in Philo the Jew, and others, to repreſent Men who had contracted ſuch Prejudices againſt God's Word, and ſuch vitious Habits, as made them not to diſcern, or to give ear to the voice of God, or Reaſon calling them to Reformation and Amendment. So God ſpeaks by his Prophet Iſaiah, Hear ye deaf, and look ye blind, ſeeing many things, but thou obſerveſt not, opening the ears, but he heareth not, Iſa. 42. 18, 19, 20. And by the Prophet Jeremiah, Hear now this, O fooliſh People, and without underſtanding, which have eyes, and ſee not, which have ears, and hear not, Jer. 5. 21. By the Prophet Ezekiel, ſaying, They have eyes to ſee, and ſee not; and ears to hear, and hear not, for they are a rebellious houſe, Ezek. 12. 2. So Chriſt ſpeaks to his own Diſciples, Having eyes, do you not ſee? Mark 8. 18. So Philo often ſaith of Men addicted to their ſenſual Pleaſures, and purſuing them againſt the dictates of their Mind, That (a) ὁρῶντες οὐκ ὁρῶσι, καὶ ἀκούοντες οὐκ ἀκούσι, this he ſaith, ὡσεὶ τῶν ἡδονῆς κεκορημένων, of Perſons ſatiated with Pleaſure, or drunk with the love of Wine. (b) This, ſaith he, happens ἐν τοῖς κόροις, ἐν ταῖς μέθαις, when we indulge to Gluttony or Drunkenneſs, and (c) ἐν ταῖς κατ' ὕπνον φαντασίαις, in the Phantaſms of our Dreams. Thus of thoſe Heathens who worſhipped the works of their own Hands, (d) Juſtin Martyr ſaith, That ὀφθαλμὰς ἔχοντες οὐκ ἑώρων, καὶ καρδίαν ἔχοντες συνίεσαν, having eyes, they ſaw not, and having hearts, they did not underſtand.

Γενηθήτω, their Table ſhall be, and their Eyes ſhall be.] They who are ſkilled in the Hebrew Tongue, know that theſe words are as capable of the Future, as the Imperative Mood and Tenſe; they are rendred in the Future by Arias Montanus, and the Seventy Interpreters ſometime render them in the Imperative, as Pſal. 109. 6—15. and ſometimes in the Future, as v. 17. As he loved curſing, ſo let it come upon him, καὶ οὐκ ἤξει ἐπ' αὐτῷ, as he delighted not in bleſſing, ſo let it be far from him, καὶ μακρυνθήσεται ἀπ' αὐτοῦ, and v. 28. let them curſe, but bleſs thou, καταρασάσθωσαν αὐτοὶ καὶ σὺ εὐλογήσεις.

Τὸν νῶτον αὐτῶν, &c. ever bow down their backs.] That is, let them be in Slavery and Bondage; the contrary, going upright, ſignifying their freedom from Ægyptian Thraldom, by taking the Yoke of Bondage from them, which made them ſtoop under it. So Levit. 26. 13. I have broken the bands of your Yoke, and made you go upright. So the Midraſh Tillim upon theſe words of the Pſalmiſt, Pſal. 146. 8. the Lord raiſeth them that are bowed down, ſaith, Theſe are the Iſraelites carried Captive from their own Land, for ſince they were baniſhed from Jeruſalem, they have not been able to ſtand upright, but have bowed down their backs before their Enemies, who go over them. Having thus anſwered the firſt Queſtion, he proceeds to enquire whether they of them who thus ſtumbled, have fallen ſo as that they ſhall never be recovered.

Ver. 11. I ſay then (or moreover of thoſe of the Jewiſh Nation which are thus blinded,) have they (ſo) ſtumbled, that they ſhould (irrecoverably) fall? God forbid (we ſhould ſo think of them) but (ſo hath it happened through the wiſe Counſel of God, that) through their fall Salvation is come unto the Gentiles, (whom God hath now choſen to be his People,) for to provoke them to jealouſie, (or to an emulation of their Faith, that they alſo may be ſaved.)

Ver. 12. Now (εἰ δὲ and) if the fall of them (happened thus to) be the riches of the (Gentile) World, and the diminiſhing of them the riches (and increaſe) of the Gentiles, how much more (ſhall) their fulneſs (be the increaſe of them?)

Πλήρωμα αὐτῶν, their fulneſs.] As πλήρωμα τοῦ χρόνου ſignifies the whole tract of time appointed for ſuch an event, Gal. 4. 4. Eph. 1. 10. Πλήρωμα τῆς γῆς, the whole contents of the Earth, 1 Cor. 10. 26, 28. and πλήρωμα τῆς θεότητος is the full Perfection of the Deity, Col. 2. 9. and πλήρωμα τῆς χριστοῦ, is the perfection, or the fulneſs of Grace and Wiſdom with which he fills his Members, Eph. 4. 13. and that ἐκ τοῦ πληρώματος αὐτοῦ, from that fulneſs of the Spirit which is in him, John 1. 16. and πλήρωμα θεοῦ, is the ſame fulneſs derived from God, Eph. 3. 19. So here τὸ πλήρωμα τῶν ἐθνῶν, is the whole Heathen World, the time when God would ſhew Mercy to all, v. 25. 32. and that πλήρωμα τῶν Ἰουδαίων, the fulneſs of the Jews, is the coming in of all Iſrael, v. 26. And ſo St. Paul himſelf all along interprets it, ſtiling it, v. 15. πρόσλημψις, the receiving of them into Grace and Favour by God, the engraffing them who were broken off, as were all the unbelieving Jews, into their own Olive, v. 23, 24. the turning away iniquity from Jacob, v. 26.

Ver. 13. (Of you Gentiles, I ſay,) for I ſpeak (this) to you Gentiles, in as much as I am an Apoſtle of the Gentiles, (and by thus ſpeaking) I magnifie my Office, (as declaring it to reach to the whole Body of the Gentiles, and to have been thus efficacious among them, Rom. 15. 18, 19.

Ver. 14. (And I ſpeak of your being choſen thus to be God's People,) if by any means I may provoke to (an) emulation (of their Faith) them which are my fleſh, and (ſo) might (be a means to) ſave ſome of them.

Εἴ πως παραζηλώσω, if by any means I may provoke them, &c.] This ſeems to be ſaid in alluſion to thoſe words of God, Deut. 32. 21. They have moved me to jealouſie with that which is not God, κἀγὼ παραζηλώσω αὐτοὺς ἐπ' οὐκ ἔθνει, and I will move them to jealouſie with thoſe that are not a People, v. 12. that ſeeing them who before were not the People of God, now choſen to be his People, and inveſted with all the Privileges which formerly belonged to them, viz. of being his Church, among whom he dwells, and to whom he gives his Spirit, his new Law, his Prophets, Apoſtles, and Evangeliſts, they might be induced to believe, and ſo might ſtill ſhare in all theſe Bleſſings.

Ver.

Ver. 15. (And indeed their Salvation is deſirable, not only for their own, but for your ſakes,) for if the caſting away of them be (an occaſion of) the reconciling of the World, what ſhall the receiving them (again into favour) be (to the Gentiles,) but (even as) life, (or a Reſurrection) from the dead?

Ver. 16. (Nor are you to imagine this is an improbable, and even deſperate Suppoſition.) For if the (Patriarchs, who were the) firſt-fruits (of them) be (were) holy, (called and ſeparated to the ſervice of God from all the People of the Earth,) the lump (of the whole Nation) is alſo (in God's deſignation) holy; and if the root (of them, viz. Abraham) be (was) holy (and beloved of God,) ſo are the branches (alſo beloved ſtill of God for the Father's ſake, and ſo will be once more, in his good time, admitted to his Favour.)

Εἰ δὲ ἡ ἀπαρχὴ, if the firſt-fruits of them were holy.] It is generally known that the word Holy, when applyed to Perſons, Families, Churches, and Nations, ſignifies their being called, conſecrated, and ſeparated from the World, unto God's Service; in which ſenſe in the Old Teſtament it is frequently applied to the Prieſts, Numb. 16. 5. Pſal. 106. 16. to the Levites, Numb. 3. 13. 8. 14, 15, 16, 17. to the whole Jewiſh Nation, Exod. 22. 31. 19. 6. Deut. 7. 6. 14. 2, 21. 28. 9. Iſa. 62. 12. Dan. 8. 24. 12. 7. Hence then the Argument runs thus: If God ſo loved Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, as to engage his Word that he would be their God, and the God of their Seed for ever, Gen. 17. 7. and by thus entring into Covenant with them, hallowed to himſelf all their Poſterity, even as the firſt-fruits of their dough, made an Offering, hallowed the whole lump, Numb. 15. 20. then will he, in his good time, be ſo mindful of them, as to bring them again into his Covenant, ſo that they ſhall be his People, and he will be their God, for as touching that Election, they are ſtill beloved for the Father's ſake: If this Argument runs only upon the Suppoſition that they do believe, it ſaith that only which is as true of all Gentiles; it therefore ſeems to be an Argument that they will be received into favour, and therefore will believe.

Ver. 17. And if (it hath ſo happened that) ſome of the branches (through infidelity) be broken off, and thou (Gentile) being a wild Olive-tree (or branch) wert graffed in among them, and with them (who believe) partakeſt (of the Privileges) of the Root, and the fatneſs of the Olive-tree, (into which thou art graffed,)

Ver. 18. Boaſt not againſt the branches (now cut off, as if they were utterly rejected from God's care and favour,) but if thou boaſteſt, (conſider) thou beareſt not the Root, but the Root thee, (the Promiſes being not made to thee, but to Abraham their Root, and if thou becomeſt partaker of them only by being the Spiritual Seed of Abraham, by imitation of his Faith, how much more ſhall they who are by lineal deſcent the Seed of Abraham, and ſo the primary and direct Heirs of the Promiſe, Acts 3. 25. 12. 26. in due time be graffed into their own Root? v. 24.)

Ver. 19. Thou wilt ſay then, the (natural) branches were broken off (for their Infidelity) that I might be graffed in (i. e. received as God's People in their ſtead.)

Ver. 20. Well, becauſe of unbelief they were broken off, (i. e. rejected from being his Church and People, v. 15.) and thou ſtandeſt, (Gr. haſt ſtood) by Faith, be not high-minded, (vaunt not thy ſelf over them, v. 18, 25.) but fear (leſt this ſhould alſo be thy caſe.)

Ver. 21. For if God ſpared not the natural branches, (thou haſt cauſe to fear) leſt he alſo ſpare not thee.

Ver. 22. Behold therefore (in this diſpenſation) the goodneſs and ſeverity of God; on them which fell, ſeverity, (in taking the Kingdom of God away from them, Mat. 21. 43.) but to thee, goodneſs, (in admitting thee to be his Church and People, which goodneſs will be ſtill ſhewed to thee) if thou continue in (or worthy of) his goodneſs, otherwiſe thou alſo ſhalt be cut off (for thy infidelity and diſobedience.)

Ver. 23. And (as thou ſtandeſt by Faith, ſo) they, if they abide not in unbelief, ſhall be graffed in, for God is able to (work in them that Faith which will) graff them in.

Δυνατὸς γὰρ ὁ Θεὸς, for God is able, &c.] From which Power we may reaſonably conclude his Will to do ſo, for ſo the Apoſtle Argues, Chap. 14. 4. He ſhall be holden up, for God is able to make him ſtand. 2 Cor. 9. 6, 8. He that ſoweth liberally, ſhall reap liberally, for God is able to make all Grace abound toward you. See Note on Chap. 14. 4.

Ver. 24. (And that he will thus graff them in we have juſt cauſe to think,) for if thou wert cut off (Gr. off from) the Olive-tree which is wild by nature, and wert graffed, contrary to nature, into a good Olive-tree, how much more ſhall theſe, which be natural branches, (though now cut off) be graffed (again) into their own Olive-tree?

Note, That there ſhould be a fulneſs of the fallen Jews, and a receiving them again into favour, whom God had now caſt off, the Apoſtle plainly doth ſuppoſe, v. 12, 15. and now he ſets himſelf to the Proof of it by an Argument à minori ad majus, viz. If they who had no ſuch Relation to Abraham, and the Bleſſings promiſed to him, as the Jews had, were yet partakers of the Bleſſings promiſed to Abraham the Root of that Nation, how much more ſhall this Favour, in God's due time, be granted to them who are Children of the ſtock of Abraham?

Ver.

Ver. 25. (And this I now declare,) for I would not, Brethren, that you ſhould be ignorant of this Myſtery (of the intended calling of the now rejected Jews) leſt you ſhould be wiſe in your own conceits, (boaſting over them, v. 18. as being Men of greater Wiſdom, and more highly favoured of God,) that blindneſs is happened in part to Iſrael, (i. e. as to the greateſt part of them, a remnant only being now brought into the Faith, v. 5, 7. Chap. 9. 27.) till the (time of) the fulneſs (or more compleat Converſion) of the Gentiles is come in.

Τὸ μυστήριον τοῦτο, this Myſtery, &c.] See the confirmation of this Expoſition in the following Diſcourſe.

Ver. 26. And ſo all (the Nation of) Iſrael ſhall be ſaved, (i. e. called, and put into a ſtate of Salvation, 1 Tim. 1. 9.) as it is written, (Iſa. 59. 20.) there ſhall come out of Zion the deliverer, and ſhall turn away ungodlineſs from Jacob.

Ver. 27. And again, he (God by Iſaiah) ſaith, this is my Covenant with them, (Iſa. 59. 21.) when I ſhall take away their ſins, (Chap. 27. 9.)

Hence the Second Argument for a General Converſion of the Jews runs thus: If that part of the Jews to which blindneſs hath happened, ſhall be delivered from that heavy Judgment, if there ſhall come to them out of Zion a deliverer to turn away their Iniquity, if God will accompliſh his Covenant hereafter with them by taking away their ſins, then they, who are now thus blinded, ſhall be converted to the Chriſtian Faith. Where note,

1. That this Promiſe is made to that part of the Jews to which blindneſs had happened, v. 15. and ſo the Promiſe of Salvation to this Iſrael, cannot be interpreted of all the true Children of Abraham, Jews and Gentiles both.

2. It ſaith, That God will take away their ſins, and turn away ungodlineſs from Jacob. Now if this ſignifie that God will ſend a Deliverer out of Zion to procure the Pardon of this Peoples ſins, ſince Pardon only can be given to them through Faith in Chriſt, this Deliverer muſt be that Jeſus who ſaves his People from their ſins; if it import that God would take away the Puniſhment of their Iniquity, that being the blindneſs, and ſpiritual ſlumber which was then, and is ſtill upon them, the removal of it muſt ſignifie their Converſion, this blindneſs being only then to be taken away, when they ſhall turn to the Lord, 2 Cor. 3. 14, 15, 16.

Ver. 28. As concerning the Goſpel (preached to them firſt, and, upon their rejection of it, to the Gentiles, Acts 13.45,47.) they are (now) Enemies to it, (and by oppoſing it to God, and Chriſt) for your ſakes, (being prejudiced againſt it becauſe you are received to the Bleſſings of it, and that without Circumciſion, or being joyned to them, Acts 17. 13. 22. 21, 22. 1 Theſſ. 2. 16.) but as touching the Election (of that Nation to be an Holy People to himſelf,) they are (thus) beloved for the Father's ſake.

As touching the Election, κατὰ δὲ τὴν ἐκλογήν.] Here is in this Chapter mention of a double Election, viz. the ἐκλογὴ χάριτος, Election of Grace, v. 5. the Goſpel-Election of Perſons and Nations to be his Church and People, which being purely on the account of that Faith which is the Gift of God, without conſideration of any other worthineſs that we had, or any works that we had done, is ſtiled the Election of Grace; and thus a Remnant only of the Jews were choſen, v. 7. for many of them were called by the Preaching of the Goſpel to the Faith, it being preached to them firſt, Acts 13.45. but few of them were choſen to be Members of the Church of Chriſt, becauſe few of them believed. And ſecondly, there is an Election διὰ τοὺς πατέρας, to be God's People for their Fathers ſake, in which ſenſe the whole Nation of the Jews are ſtyled the Elect; as in theſe words, Becauſe he loved thy Fathers, viz. Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, Deut. 4. 37. καὶ ἐξελέξατο τὸ σπέρμα αὐτῶν μετ' αὐτὸν ὑμᾶς, therefore he choſe you their ſeed after them, and brought you out of Ægypt by his mighty power, where it is evident that all that were brought out of Ægypt, were the Elect or choſen Seed. So Deut. 7. 6, 7, 8. The Lord did not ſet his love upon you, nor chuſe you ὅτι παρεκάλεσεν ὑμᾶς, he did not fore-elect you, becauſe you were more in number than any People, but becauſe the Lord loved you, and becauſe he would keep the Oath which he had ſworn to your Fathers, hath he brought you out with a mighty hand, and redeemed you out of the houſe of bondage. Where again evident it is, (1.) That their being choſen to be God's peculiar People before other Nations, is their Election. And (2.) That all who were brought out of Ægypt were thus beloved, and thus choſen. And again, Chap. 10. 14, 15. The Lord had a delight to thy Fathers to love them, καὶ ἐξελέξατο τὸ σπέρμα αὐτῶν μετ' αὐτοὺς ὑμᾶς, therefore he elected you their ſeed after them above all People; circumciſe therefore the foreskin of your heart, and be no more ſtiff-necked. Where again evident it is that the whole Seed of Abraham by Iſaac, even the ſtiff-necked of them, were the beloved, and the Elect of God; it being therefore not upon account of their Righteouſneſs, Deut. 9. 5. but for the love he had to, and the Promiſes he made to their Fathers, that he firſt loved, and choſe them for his People, and his love to theſe Fore-fathers being ſtill the ſame, and his Promiſe to them being this, that he would be for ever a God to them, and their Seed after them, Gen. 17. 7. He muſt have ſtill that kind affection and regard to them them, which will engage him to chuſe them again for his peculiar People, notwithſtanding their preſent blindneſs; and all Iſrael being thus elected for the Father's ſake, this calling muſt belong to them all.

Ver 29. For (though they have rendred themſelves unworthy of his favour, yet) the gifts and calling of God are without Repentance.

Τὰ χαρίσματα, for the gifts, &c.] The Particle for, ſhews that theſe words relate to what was ſaid in the former Verſe, viz. They are beloved for the Father's ſake, to whom God gave this διαθήκην αἰώνιον this everlaſting Covenant, to be the God of their Seed after them, Gen. 17. 7. Now this Covenant made with the Fathers being abſolute, and the calling of their Seed to be his peculiar People, being the effect of it, God will not repent for ever of his kindneſs to them; hence he engageth to ſave them with an everlaſting Salvation, Iſa. 45. 17. with everlaſting kindneſs to have mercy on them, Chap. 54. 8. 56. 5. 60. 19, 20. 61. 7. and ſaith, I have loved thee with an everlaſting love, Jer. 31. 3. If then God will not repent for ever of his Covenant made with their Fore-fathers, to be the God of their Seed after them for ever, or that he choſe Jacob for himſelf, and Iſrael for his heritage, Pſal. 135. 4. then will he certainly reſtore them to that Privilege, and happy ſtate; but God will not thus repent, for the gifts and callings of God are without repentance. Ergo,

Ver. 30. (Nor will their preſent infidelity and diſobedience be any obſtacle to this Converſion.) For as ye (Gentiles) in times paſt have not believed God, (Gr. were diſobedient to God,) yet have now obtained mercy through their unbelief, (God having received you Gentiles to be his People becauſe of their Infidelity.)

Ver. 31. Even ſo have they alſo now not believed, (Gr. not obeyed,) that through your mercy, they alſo may obtain mercy.

That through your mercy, Gr. τῷ ὑμετέρῳ ἐλέει.] i. e. Which unbelief hath happened not to your rejection, as it did to them, but to your mercy, that they alſo may obtain mercy together with you, and you with them, the fulneſs of the Gentiles coming in with their Converſion.

This Argument for calling the Jews runs thus: If God hath called the Gentiles to his Grace after a long Idolatry and Infidelity, though they were not before ever admitted to thoſe Privileges the Jews enjoyed, nor had God promiſed to be their God for ever, much more will he recall his choſen People from their Infidelity.

Ver. 32. For God hath concluded all, (both Jew and Gentile,) in unbelief, that (at laſt) he might have mercy upon all.

Eſthius's Note upon theſe three Verſes is this, that the Apoſtle doth without Controverſie in theſe words ſpeak of Iſrael according to the fleſh, and therefore in the preceding words muſt be ſuppoſed to ſpeak of the ſame Iſrael; ſo that hence the Tradition of the Church concerning the Calling of the Jews, towards the end of the World is eſtabliſhed.

Ver. 33. Oh the depth of the riches both of the wiſdom and knowledge of God! (by which he is thus able to convert all things to the honour and glory of his Name, and make his ſevereſt Judgments to conclude at laſt in Mercy.) How unſearchable are his Judgments (to any humane underſtanding,) and his ways paſt finding out (by any wit of Man.)

Ver. 34. For who hath (through his own Wiſdom, without Revelation) known the mind of the Lord, or who hath been his Counſellor (in thus ordering matters relating to Jew, or Gentile?)

Ver. 35. Or who hath firſt given to him, and it ſhall be recompenſed to him again, (i. e. who hath laid any Obligations on him to reward him? Surely no Man.)

Ver. 36. For of him (as the Donor,) and through him (as the Director, and providential Orderer,) and to him (as the end) are all things, to whom be Glory for ever. Amen.

A DISCOURSE

OF THE

Calling of the JEWS

TO THE

CHRISTIAN FAITH.

TO ſtrengthen the Arguments which I have offered from this Chapter for the Converſion of the Jewiſh Nation to the Chriſtian Faith, let it be noted,

1. That this hath been the conſtant Doctrine of the Church of Chriſt, owned by the Greek and Latin Fathers, and by all Commentators I have met with on this Place. Among the Greek Fathers, by (e) St. Chryſoſtom, whoſe words are theſe: When the fulneſs of the Gentiles is come in, then all Iſrael ſhall be ſaved, at the time of Chriſt's ſecond coming, and the Conſummation of all things. After the Gentiles have received the Salutary Faith, they alſo ſhall receive the Faith, ſaith (f) Theodoret, when the great Elias ſhall come, and Preach it to them. (g) Gennadius deſcants upon the words of the Apoſtle thus: They being blinded, and excluded from Salvation, God tranſlated this Salvation to you. And again, all you being called, and come in, Grace ſhall again receive them all, for this the Prophet Iſaiah teſtifies. Before, ſaith (h) Photius, the Heathens being diſobedient, the Jews were ſaved. Again, the Jews becoming diſobedient, the Gentiles are ſaved; and the Gentiles being ſaved, the Jews, emulating them, ſhall be alſo ſaved. Becauſe, ſaith (i) Theophilact, the Jews being ſtill blinded, have not obtained Salvation, that which the Apoſtle ſpeaks of, ſhall happen to them afterwards. They of the People of Iſrael who believed not, and for their unbelief were deſerted, that God's Mercy might be ſhewed to you, ſhall not be always left in unbelief, ſaith (k) Origen, but when the diſpenſation of the fulneſs of the Gentiles is compleated, they alſo ſhall find mercy. And therefore, when Celſus had, as it were, propheſied, That the Jews ſhould preſently periſh, this, ſaith Origen, he ſaid, not knowing how preſent God was formerly with them, and how that by their ſin, Salvation came to the Gentiles, and their fall brought Riches to the World, (l) till the fulneſs of the Gentiles be come in, that after this, all Iſrael, which Celſus underſtands not, may be ſaved. In his Fifth Homily upon Jeremiah he exhorts the Chriſtian to live ſo as that he may not receive a Bill of Divorce, (m) but may enter into the holy Inheritance. And Iſrael may then alſo enter; for if the fulneſs of the Gentiles be come in, then all Iſrael ſhall be ſaved, and there ſhall be one Fold, and one Shepherd. In his Commentary on St. Matthew, he ſaith, ibid. p.410. C. They that whip'd Chriſt were whipped, and ſhall be whipped till the fulneſs of the Gentiles is come in: That, p.397. D. they were worthy to be deſerted, either till the fulneſs of the Gentiles was come in, or till they had fulfill'd the puniſhment of their ſins. Nor is this denied by him in the paſſage cited from his Book againſt Celſus; for he ſaith not there, They ſhould never be converted to the Chriſtian Faith, but that they ſhould never be reſtored to their own Worſhip, or Country, that they had been long ſince caſt ἀπὸ σωμῆς ἁγνείας καὶ καθαρείας out from their venerable Service, and Ceremonies, or Purgations; (n) and we confidently affirm ὅτι οὐδ' ἀποκατασταθήσονται they they ſhall never be reſtored again to Jeruſalem, or the Land of Promiſe, which before, ſaith he, they were, for then, being captivated, they returned to their own Land, and enjoy'd their Laws as before, which now they ſhall never be reſtored to. All the Latin Fathers who have left us any Commentations, or Notes on this Epiſtle, are plainly of the ſame mind, as you may ſee by conſulting Hilary the Deacon, Primaſius, Sedulius, and Haymo upon the 25*th* Verſe of this Chapter. This alſo many of the Fathers do conclude,

1. From thoſe words of the Prophet Hoſea, The Children of Iſrael ſhall abide many days without a King, and without a Prince, and without a Sacrifice, and wichout an Altar, and without an Ephod, and without Teraphim. Afterward ſhall the Children of Iſrael return, and ſeek the Lord their God, and David their King, and ſhall fear the Lord, and his goodneſs in the latter days, Hoſ. 3. 4, 5. Which words (o) St. Auſtin having produced, to prove that the Carnal Iſraelites who now will not believe, ſhall hereafter do ſo, he ſaith, nothing is more manifeſt then that by David their King, the Prophet here meaneth Jeſus Chriſt, in whom they now believe not. This, ſaith (p) St. Jerom, is the blindneſs which hath hapned to Iſrael in part, that the fulneſs of the Gentiles might come in, and all Iſrael be ſaved, and after a long time might return, and ſeek the Lord. Some, ſaith he, do interpret this of the Captivity of Babylon, but others, ſaith he, with us, refer it to a time yet future. St. Cyril ſaith, here is a manifeſt declaration of what ſhould hereafter happen to the Adulterous Synagogue, and that ſhe ſhould be received again, that (q) Iſrael ſhould not always be rejected, but being recall'd, and converted to the Faith, ſhould own Chriſt according to the fleſh to be the King of all, and that this glorious Grace ſhould be afforded to her at the end of the World.

2*ly*, That in which they univerſally agree, excepting only St. Jerom, is that Elias is to come, before the end of the World, to convert the Jews to Chriſt; and this they gather from thoſe words of Malachi, Behold, I will ſend you Elijah the Prophet, before the great and terrible day of the Lord, and he ſhall turn the hearts of the Fathers to the Children, Mal. 4. 5, 6. And thoſe of Chriſt, Elias truly ſhall come firſt, and ſhall reſtore all things, Matth. 17. 11. We know, ſaith Juſtin Martyr, Dial. cum Tryph. p. 268. & p. 259. c. 306. that Elias ſhall come before our Lord's ſecond Advent, and that then the Jews ſhall know him whom they have diſhonoured. Origen (r) ſays, That by thoſe words of Malachi, it ſeemeth to appear that Elias ſhall come before Chriſt, and by his ſacred words, and the diſpoſitions they ſhall work in their ſouls, ſhall prepare them for the coming of Chriſt. Theodoret paraphraſeth the words of Malachy thus, Leaſt at my ſecond coming, finding you all in unbelief, I ſhould ſubject you to eternal puniſhments, (s) Elias ſhall come firſt, and teach you of my Advent, and ſhall prevail upon you, O Jews, without doubting, to joyn your ſelves to the Churches of the Gentiles, and to be made one. Yea even St. Jerom upon thoſe words of St. Matthew, Elias indeed ſhall come, and reſtore all things, deſcants thus, (t) He who is to come in the body, at our Lord's ſecond Advent, came now by John in virtue, and the Spirit. And in his Comment on the third of Habakuk, ver. 17. having cited thoſe words of Chriſt ſpoken of the barren

Fig-tree, Let no fruit grow on thee for ever, Matth. 21. 19. He bids us (u) diligently conſider, that he ſaith not for ever and ever, but only in ſeculum for that Age; and when that Age is paſt, and the fulneſs of the Gentiles is come in, then ſhall this Fig-tree bring forth her fruits, and all Iſrael ſhall be ſaved. So generally did this Doctrine obtain among the Ancients.

Moreover, as this Doctrine hath the ſuffrage of all the Ancient Fathers, and Commentators do thus generally agree in Expoſition of this Chapter, ſo is it eaſie to confirm it by ſhewing the abſurdity of other expoſitions, and the plain inconſiſtence of them both with truth, and with the words of the Apoſtle. For,

1*ſt*, The words of the Apoſtle cannot be expounded, as (x) Dr. Lightfoot, and others do interpret them, of the ſpiritual Iſrael, i. e. of all thoſe Perſons, whether Jew, or Gentile, which belong to God's Election. For, 1. The Text ſpeaks of that which was a Myſtery to the believing Gentiles, i. e. a Secret not obvious to their Underſtanding. Now that God's Elect, whether Jew, or Gentile, ſhould be ſaved, could be no Myſtery, but the firſt Article of Chriſtian Faith; and ſo of this the Apoſtle could not ſay, I would not have you ignorant, leaſt you ſhould be wiſe in your own conceit, eſpecially ſince the Apoſtle had before ſaid of the believing Jews, there is now an election of Grace, v. 5. and v. 7. the Election hath obtained.

2*ly*, The Jews, and Iſraelites here mentioned, are manifeſtly diſtinguiſhed from the Elect of Iſrael, by this Character, that they were the blinded Iſrael, v. 7. who lay under a ſpiritual ſlumber, v. 8. whoſe eyes were blinded that they ſaw not, v. 10. who had ſtumbled at the ſtumbling ſtone, v. 11. they are that Iſrael whoſe caſting away was the riches of the world, whoſe diminution was their fulneſs, v. 12 they are Iſrael according to the fleſh, v. 14. the branches broken off for unbelief, v. 17, 19, 20. they who believed not, v. 23, 30, 31, 32. and who were enemies to the Goſpel for the Gentiles ſake, v. 29. this is the Iſrael of whom the Apoſtle here aſſerts they ſhall be ſaved, of this blinded, this unbelieving, this Iſrael cut off, theſe branches broken from their own Olive-tree, theſe Enemies to the converted Gentiles, as there hath been, ſaith the Apoſtle, a diminution, ſo ſhall there be a fulneſs, as there hath been a caſting them off, ſo ſhall there be a reception of them, as there hath been a breaking them off from their own Olive-tree, ſo ſhall there be an inſerting of them into it again, v. 24. as there hath been a time of their unbelief, and ſo of ſeverity, v. 22. and of wrath to them, Rom. 9. 22. 1 Theſſ. 2. 16. ſo ſhall there be a time of mercy, v. 31, 32. Now ſince the unbelief, the diminution, the rejection, the breaking of the branches off, muſt neceſſarily be underſtood of Iſrael according to the fleſh, of the natural branches of the ſtock of Abraham, v. 22, 24. Beloved for the Father's ſake, v. 28. of the Seed of Jacob, whoſe ſins were not yet taken away, v. 26. if you underſtand the fulneſs, the reception, the ingraffing of them, the ſalvation here mentioned of the ſpiritual Iſrael, and of the elect oppoſed to Iſrael that was blinded, v. 7. the Antitheſis is wholly loſt, ſince then the diminution, and the fulneſs, the rejection and reception, the breaking off, and the inſertion, the ſeverity, and the mercy, will not relate to the ſame perſons. Again, blindneſs in part hath hapned to Iſrael, ſaith the Apoſtle, till the fulneſs of the Gentiles ſhall come in, and then all Iſrael ſhall be ſaved, now certainly the blindneſs hapned to Iſrael according to the fleſh, and muſt not the Antitheſis require that the ſalvation ſhould belong to the ſame Iſrael? It hapned not to the Elect, for the Election, ſaith the Apoſtle, hath obtained, and the reſt were blinded, and therefore the Salvation cannot reſpect them only.

Moreover, to whom did this blindneſs happen? was it not to the National Church, and body of the Jews? to them to whom our Saviour had ſaid, whilſt you have the light, believe in the light, leaſt darkneſs come upon you? Joh. 12. 35. Is it not of the Children of Iſrael that the Apoſtle ſaith, they could not ſee to the end of that which was to be aboliſhed 2 Cor. 3. 13, 14. but their minds are blinded, for until this day remaineth the ſame vail untaken away? was it not that very People who had eyes, and ſaw not, ears, and heard not; whoſe heart was waxed groſs, their ears dull, and their eyes cloſed, Iſa. 6. 9. Acts 28. 26, 27. v. 8, 10. and from whoſe eyes were hid the things which belonged to their peace, becauſe they knew not the time of their viſitation? Luke 19. 42, 44. To whom belonged this ἀποβολὴ rejection, or caſting off? doth it not reſpect the generality of that Church, and Nation? doth not our Saviour ſay of them, the children of the Kingdom ſhall be caſt out into outer darkneſs, Matth. 8. 12. that there houſe ſhould be left unto them deſolate, Matth. 23. 38. that the Kingdom of God ſhould be taken from them, and given to a Nation bringing forth the fruits thereof? Matth. 21. 41. Who were the branches broken off, are they not all the unbelieving Jews? v. 20. i. e. the bulk, and body of that Church, and Nation? doth not our Saviour tell them that their vineyard ſhould be let out to other Huſ- bandmen, Matth. 21. 41. are not they that barren Tree which was to be hewen down? Luke 13. 7, 9. and muſt not then the recovery of them from this blindneſs, the receiving of them again, the ingraffing them into their own Olive-tree, reſpect not ſome few ſtragling Converts of them only, but the chief bulk, or body of that Nation?

3*ly*, It is eaſie to obſerve two queſtions in this Chapter; the firſt is this, λέγω οὖν μὴ ἀπέσθο, &c. I ſay then hath God caſt off his People, v. 1. to which the anſwer is, God hath not caſt off his people whom he foreknew, or the remnant according to the election of Grace, v. 5, 7. but only the obdurate Few, v. 8, 9, 10. The ſecond is this, λέγω οὖν μὴ ἔπταισαν, ἵνα πέσωσι, I ſay then have theſe unbelieving Jews, who ſtumbled at the ſtumbling ſtone, Chap. 9. 32, 33. ſo ſtumbled, that they ſhould fall entirely, or ſo as that they never riſe again? and to this the Apoſtle anſwers in the negative, from v. 11. to the 25*th*, and proves it from v. 25. to the 32*d*. 'Tis therefore evident, that his diſcourſe from v. 11. to the 32, reſpects not the ſpiritual Iſrael i. e. the Gentile Converts, nor the Elect of Iſrael, but the obdurate, blinded Nation which God had then caſt off. And

4*ly*, Here is evidently a time prefix'd for this Converſion of the Jews, viz. when the fulneſs of the Gentiles is come in; here is a blindneſs to continue on them till that time; whilſt blindneſs doth continue on them, their ſalvation is not to be expected, and when they ſhall be ſaved, that blindneſs, of neceſſity, muſt ceaſe; but to the ſpiritual Iſrael, or the Elect converted at all times, nothing of this can be applied, for their Converſion is not limited to the time of the coming in of the fulneſs of the Gentiles, but they are converted in every Age, and at all times.

2*ly*, The Opinion of the Revered Dr. Hammond is to this effect: 'I. (y) That it is not 'neceſſary that this ſhould ſtill belong to any 'yet future return of the Jews in a viſible, and 'remarkable manner, the circumſtances of the 'Context applying it to the firſt times wherein 'the Epiſtle was writ.

2. (z) 'That the fulneſs of the Jews men'tioned v. 12. is their being added to the 'Church, their coming in, and being gathered, 'and laying hold of the Faith, being provoked 'ſo to do by ſeeing the Gentiles believe, and 'ſo filling up the vacuities, as it were, which 'was formerly in the Church by their ſtand'ing out impenitently; and the fulneſs of the 'Gentiles, is the Gentiles coming into the 'Church, receiving the Faith, they then be'coming one part of the viſible Church, as the 'Jews another.

3*ly*, 'That the (a) Myſtery there mention'ed is this, that a great part of the Jews are 'now become blind, and that that is made uſe 'of by God, that by occaſion of that the Go'ſpel may (by departing a while from them) 'be preached to, and received by the Genera'lity of the Gentiles, and they compacted in'to Chriſtian Churches, and this in very mer'cy to thoſe Jews, that they, by ſeeing the 'Gentiles believe, might at length be provo'ked to do ſo too, by way of Emulation, v. 11. 'and 31.

4*ly*, 'That ſo (b) all Iſrael ſhall be ſaved, 'i. e. all the true Children of Abraham, Jews, 'and Heathens both, but particularly the rem'nant of the Jews ſhall come in, and repent, 'and believe in Chriſt.

5*ly*, 'That the addition of (c) Jewiſh Be'lievers ſhall be matter of confirmation of 'the Faith to the Gentiles, and a means to 'bring them all to receive it, to convert the 'Gentiles over all the World.

6*ly*, 'As for the truth of that, that as yet 'many more Jews ſhould repent, and receive 'the Goſpel, that, ſaith he, has been demon'ſtrated by the event; (1.) When the Jews 'ſaw Chriſt's Predictions, Matth. 24. mani'feſtly fulfill'd in the Roman Armies ſitting 'down before the City, for then many turned 'Chriſtians, and went out of the City, and 'were delivered from the following Evils. 'And

2*ly*, After that, when the Temple and City 'were deſtroyed, and they brought into ſub'jection by the Romans, then many were hum'bled, and turn'd Chriſtians. And

3*ly*, After that alſo, in Juſtin Martyr's 'days, every day there were ſome that came 'in to be Chriſt's Diſciples. Now to theſe things I

Anſwer, 1*ſt*, That whereas this Reverend Perſon ſaith the Circumſtances of the Context apply this Converſion of the Jews to the times in which this Epiſtle was writ, i.e. about the Year of Chriſt 56. it ſeems extreamly evident, both from the Circumſtances of the Context, and from many other Scriptures, that nothing could more unfitly be aſſigned as the time of the Converſion of the then hardened, and rejected Jews then this. For

1. In the 9th Chapter of this Epiſtle, the Apoſtle calls our Lord Chriſt, the Holy Ghoſt, and his own Conſcience to witneſs, that he had great heavineſs, and continual ſorrow in his heart, on the account of the infidelity of his Jewiſh Brethren, the ſpiritual ſlumber, and blindneſs which then was upon them, and their rejection by God, v. 1, 2, 3. And ver. 22. he plainly repreſents them as Veſſels of wrath fitted for deſtruction, and only reſerved, as Pharoah was of old, for a more illuſtrious ruine, in which God's vengeance on them, and the cauſes of it, ſhould be conſpicuouſly ſeen.

(y) Note D. in v. 11. (z) Ibid. (a) Paraphr. in v. 25. (b) Paraphr. in v. 26. (c) Paraphr. in v. 12.

And v. 27. he proceeds to ſhew, from the Predictions of the Prophets, that only a little Remnant of them ſhould be ſaved; a Remnant like to thoſe Seven thouſand men reſerved in the ten Tribes of Iſrael, when the whole viſible Body of them had revolted to Baal: And v. 31. ſpeaking of them in general, he ſaith, Iſrael hath not attained to juſtification, becauſe they ſought it not of faith, but ſtumbled at the Meſſiah, even at that Jeſus who is the end of the Law for juſtification to every one that believeth. Chap. 10. 4. He being to them a Stone of ſtumbling, and a Rock of offence.

In the 10*th* Chapter, he declares that they had not ſubmitted to the righteouſneſs which was of God through faith, v. 2, 3. and from verſe 16. to the end of that Chapter, he proves that the the preaching of the Goſpel to the Gentiles, and the incredulity of the Jews, was a thing long ago foretold in the Prophetick Writings. In this Chapter, he begins with the Enquiry to which his former Diſcourſe, and the general Infidelity of that People had given occaſion, viz. Hath God entirely caſt off his People? and anſwers it by ſaying, That, as in the time of Elias, in that general Revolt of the ten Tribes, God ſtill reſerved ſeven thouſand who had not bowed the knee to Baal, οὕτως καὶ ἐν τῷ νῦν καιρῷ, ſo in this ſeaſon alſo he had reſerved a like Remnant according to the election of Grace, v. 5. confeſſing notwithſtanding touching the Body of that Church, and People, that Iſrael had not attained to that Righteouſneſs it ſought for, but was, excepting this Election only, wholly blinded, that God had given them up to a ſpirit of ſlumber, had blinded their eyes, had broken them off for their infidelity, and had ſhewed his ſeverity upon them. Wherefore the times when this Epiſtle was written, being the times of the Apoſtles heavineſs, and his continual ſorrow for their rejection; the times when they are repreſented by him as veſſels of wrath fitted for deſtruction; when the Prophets had foretold their Incredulity; when Iſrael had not attained to juſtification, but had ſtumbled at the Meſſiah; when they were ignorant of the Righteouſneſs of God, and had not ſubmitted to it; when to that very day they were blinded, and given up to a ſpiritual ſlumber; Is it poſſible that theſe ſhould be the very times aſſigned by the Apoſtle for the ceaſing of their blindneſs, and that ſo generally, that it might be truly ſaid, all Iſrael were then ſaved, and God had mercy on them all?

The ſame Apoſtle, Anno Chriſti 49. ſpeaks to them of that Nation thus; It was neceſſary that the Word of God ſhould be firſt ſpoken to you, but ſince you thruſt it from you, and judge your ſelves unworthy of eternal life, lo we turn (from you) to the Gentiles, Acts 13. 46. In his firſt Epiſtle to the Theſſalonians written A. D. 51. he declares of the Jews, that they killed the Lord Jeſus, and their own Prophets, and they perſecuted the Apoſtles; that they pleaſed not God, and were contrary to all men, Chap. 2. 14, 15, 16. Forbidding us to ſpeak to the Gentiles that they might be ſaved, to fill up their ſins always, for the wrath is come upon them to the uttermoſt. That is, ſaith Dr. Hammond, By this they do ſo fill up the meaſure of their ſins, that the wrath of God, to the utter deſtruction of them, is now come out upon them, already denounced, and, within a very little while, moſt certain to overtake them. In his ſecond Epiſtle to the Corinthians, written before that to the Romans, tho' perhaps in the ſame year, he ſaith, that even then their minds were blinded, and the veil ſtill remained upon them. And when he came to Rome, about three years after the writing this Epiſtle, and preached to ſome of the chief of them reſiding in that City, he declares that theſe words of Iſaiah were fulfilled upon them, Acts 28. 23, 28. viz. Hearing you ſhall hear, and ſhall not underſtand, and ſeeing you ſhall ſee, and not perceive, for the heart of this people is waxed groſs, and their ears are dull of hearing; and they have cloſed their eyes, leaſt they ſhould ſee with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and underſtand with their hearts, and be converted, and I ſhould heal them. Concluding thus, Be it known therefore to you, that the Salvation of God is ſent to the Gentiles, and they will hear it. Now after they had thus put away the Goſpel from them, and judged themſelves unworthy of eternal life, and the Apoſtles had thus turned from them to the Gentiles, after the wrath of God was thus determined to come upon them, εἰς τέλος, to the end, that is, ſay all the Ancient Commentators, not as in the times of the Judges, for twenty or forty years, or, as in the time of their Captivity, for ſeventy years, but for many Generations, after their minds were thus blinded, their eyes thus ſhut, their hearts thus hardened, can we expect this blindneſs ſuddenly ſhould ceaſe, and this wrath preſently give place to Mercy and Salvation?

2. That many of the Jews turned Chriſtians when they ſaw Chriſt's prediction, Matth. 24. fulfilled, in the Roman Army ſitting down before that City, and went out of the City with the Chriſtians, and ſo were delivered from the following evils, is alſo ſaid without all ground, or teſtimony of Writers of thoſe times. (d) Epiphanius who lived in Paleſtine, and (†) Euſebius who was born, and educated there, give us an accurate Relation of this matter, and carefully inform us, that οἱ Μαθηταὶ, the Diſciples of Chriſt, οἱ ἐν Χριστῷ πεπιστευκότες, they that believed in Chriſt, being admoniſhed by an Angel, or by an Oracle ſo to do, left Jeruſalem, and went to Pella, where they were preſerved, but of one Convert of the Jews then made, they ſay not a word. How unlikely then is it that the ſame Epiphanius, who ſo particularly relates the converſion of one ſingle Aquila from Judaiſm to Chriſtianity, when they returned to Jeruſalem after the ruine of it, and his revolt again to Judaiſm, ſhould never ſpeak one word of theſe ſuppoſed Converts before their departure?

Moreover, this was the time when there happened a great Apoſtacy of the Jewiſh Converts, according to our Lord's Prediction, that becauſe iniquity ſhould then abound, the love of many ſhould wax cold, Matth. 24. 12. And therefore the Epiſtle to the Hebrews written in the 9th, the Epiſtle of St. James writ alſo in the 9th, and the Epiſtle of St. Peter writ in the 10th year of Nero, all near this very time, are very full of Exhortations to them that they would not be double minded, wavering, or unſtable in the faith, James 1. 6, 7, 8. that they would not count that fiery trial which was come to try them, a ſtrange thing, 1 Pet. 4. 12. that they would patiently, and with long-ſuffering endure it, as knowing they were happy who did thus endure, James 1. 12. 5. 8, 10, 11. 1 Pet. 3. 14. 4. 13, 14. 5. 9, 10. The Epiſtle to the Hebrews is full of Exhortations to them, to ſee to it that there be not in them an evil heart of unbelief in departing from the living God, Hebr. 3. 12. that they hold the beginning of their confidence firm to the end, v. 14. to fear leaſt a promiſe being made of entring into reſt, they ſhould fall ſhort of it through unbelief, Chap. 4. 1, 11. there being no renewing them to repentance, who, after ſuch miraculous evidences of the truth, apoſtatized, Chap. 6. 6. and no more ſacrifice for ſin for them, 10. 25. that they would not caſt away their confidence, God having ſaid, Chap. 12. 35, 38. If any man draw back, my ſoul ſhall have no pleaſure in him; and that they would diligently look to it, leaſt any man fail'd of the Grace of God, Chap. 12. 15. Theſe, ſaith our Saviour, are the times of vengeance, and of wrath upon the people, Luke 21. v. 22, 23. the times when the things belonging to their peace being hid from their eyes, their houſe was to be left unto them deſolate, Luke 19. 42, 43, 44. And could the times of the Apoſtacy, even of the converted Jews, be the times of the Salvation of the unbelieving Jews? Was it to be expected they ſhould then, more then ever, ſee the things belonging to their peace, when they were hidden from their eyes? or could the times of wrath, and vengeance upon that people, when the Avenger came out of Zion to puniſh the iniquity of Zion with the ſoreſt Judgments, be the very times when the Deliverer came out of Zion to turn away iniquity from Jacob?

3*ly*, Whereas 'tis added, that after that, when the Temple and City was deſtroyed, and they brought into ſubjection by the Romans, then many were humbled, and turned Chriſtians; and that after that, even in Juſtin Martyr's days, every day there were ſome who came in to be Chriſt's Diſciples. I anſwer,

1. That as for their Converſion when the Temple and City was deſtroy'd, I cannot find one word in Church Hiſtory concerning it, but much to the contrary: For 1*ſt*, Epiphanius ſpeaks particularly of the Return of the Chriſtians to Jeruſalem after the ruine of it, and of the Miracles they then wrought, and yet he mentions only one Aquila a Jew converted to the Chriſtian Faith; adding, that he ſoon after renounced that Faith, and turned to his former Judaiſm. And (e) Juſtin Martyr obſerves, in expreſs contradiction to the Doctor, that after their Country was deſtroy'd, and their City laid waſt, they repented not, but proceeded ſtill in their execrations of Chriſt, and of all that believed in him. And (f) Tertullian adds, that ſeeing from the time of Tiberius to Veſpaſian they repented not, their Land was made deſolate, and their Cities burnt with fire. And indeed this was the very time when wrath came actually upon them to the uttermoſt, when this barren Tree was hewed down, and caſt into the fire, Luke 13. 7, 9. when their houſe was left deſolate, becauſe they would not be gathered; when all the righteous blood ſhed by them from Noah to that time, came upon them, and they had filled up the meaſure of their ſins, Matth. 23. 35, 37, 38. when the Kingdom was wholly taken from them; when the Son of Man came to take vengeance on them; and when he ſent forth his Armies to deſtroy thoſe Murtherers, and to burn up their City, becauſe they refuſed to come unto the marriage Feaſt, Matth. 22. 7. And could this be the time of their Humiliation and Converſion? Was this a fit time to expect the completion of thoſe words of St. Paul, concerning the ſending the Deliverer out of Zion, to turn away iniquity from Jacob, and to take away their ſins, and to ſhew mercy to them in ſuch a ſignal manner, that all Iſrael ſhould be ſaved?

To proceed to the Hiſtory of them in the following times: Juſtin Martyr in his Apology writ in the Year of the Lord 140. ſaith of the Jews in all places, that they were

were (g) as great Enemies to the Chriſtians in all places, as the Heathens were, and as ready to torment and kill them, when they could do it; and that this was evident from the laſt Jewiſh War, in which their Captain, Barchochebas, commanded only the Chriſtians to be tormented, if they refuſed to deny, and to blaſpheme the Lord Jeſus Chriſt. Now this carries down the hatred of the Jews againſt Chriſtians, and their impenitency, till after the times both of Trajan and Hadrian. Some years after this he writ his Dialogue with Trypho; and there he informs us, that the (h) Jews ſtill continued to curſe thoſe who believed in Jeſus, and to lay violent hands upon them when they could do it, that even then their hand was high to do wickedneſs; they ſtill hating and killing Chriſtians as oft as it was in their power.

But we are told that this very Juſtin Martyr ſaith, that every day there were ſome (of them) who came in to be Chriſt's Diſciples.

I Anſwer, That what Juſtin Martyr there ſaith relates not at all to any Jewiſh Converts, but to the Gentiles coming in from the Way of Deceit, to the Faith of Chriſt; and as he had told the Emperors in his Apology, p. 45. B. that the Conſummation of the World was deferr'd, διὰ τὸ σπέρμα τῶν Χριστιανῶν, for the Seed of Chriſtians which was then ſpringing up; ſo he tells Trypho, p. 256. D. that the Day of Judgment, of which he had before ſpoken, and of which the Pſalm he there citeth treats, was (i) deferr'd by God, becauſe he knew that ſome would come daily in to be Chriſt's Diſciples, and would quit the Way of Deceit. Now that this cannot be ſpoken of the Jews is evident, becauſe wrath was come upon them to the uttermoſt, as Juſtin Martyr often intimates, not ſaying that God had not brought wrath and judgment upon them; but only that he had not brought the General Judgment on the World for this Cauſe; he goes on and ſays, That every one of thoſe who thus believed, received Gifts from Chriſt as they were worthy: And this he proves, becauſe it was propheſied, that (k) after our Lord's aſcent to Heaven, he ſhould lead us captive from our Error, and ſhould give us Gifts; where the word πλάνη, uſed ordinarily of the Gentiles, deceived by Satan, and eſpecially the word ἡμᾶς, us, ſhew that the Martyr ſpeaks not of the Jews, but Gentile Converts; and ſo it follows, Therefore we Gentiles, who have received theſe Gifts, ſhew you Jews to be Fools, &c. So that the good Doctor was utterly miſtaken in applying this Paſſage to the Jews, as others, led by his Authority, have done.

From this time to the Days of Conſtantine, the Period aſſigned by Mr. Calvert for the Converſion mentioned by St. Paul, the Fathers generally repreſent them, as a Nation whoſe (l) ears were ſhut, and their heart hardened, declaring that the (m) Scripture had clearly foretold they ſhould be diſinherited, and fall off from the Grace of God. Origen (n) teſtifies, that God had turn'd his Providence from the Jews to the Gentiles; that they were wholly deſerted, and retained nothing of what before was venerable among them, nor any ſcotſteps of the Divine Preſence with them; that after the Crucifixion of our Lord they were perfectly deſerted, and not to be converted till the end of the World. Tertullian (o) ſaith, that from the time that they crucified their Lord, God had taken from them the Prophet, Wiſeman, and the Holy Spirit, and had left them deſtitute of his Grace; and that only at his ſecond coming, he ſhould be received by them who had thus rejected him. And this ſeems moſt agreeable to our Lord's Predictions, That the Kingdom of God ſhould be taken from them, and given to another Nation that would bring forth the fruit of it; that he would miſerably deſtroy thoſe Husband-men, and would let out his Vineyard to other Husband-men, who ſhould render him the fruits in their ſeaſon, Matth. 21. 41, 43. that none of them who were bidden, and refuſed, ſhould taſte of his Supper, Luke 14. 24. that many ſhould come from the Eaſt, and Weſt, and ſhould ſit down with Abraham, and Iſaac, and Jacob in the Kingdom of Heaven, but the Children of the Kingdom ſhould be caſt out into outer darkneſs, Matth. 8. 11, 12. that they who were firſt (i. e. the Jews) ſhould be the laſt, and they who were the laſt (i. e. the Gentiles) ſhould be firſt; for that this is ſpoken of the Rejection of the Jews, and the Calling of the Gentiles, is evident from theſe words of S. Luke, Chap. 13. v. 26, 27, 28, 29, 30. Then ſhall ye (Jews) begin to ſay, we have eaten and drunken in thy preſence, and thou haſt taught in our Streets. But he ſhall ſay, I tell you, I know you not whence you are, depart from me all ye workers of iniquity. There ſhall be weeping and gnaſhing of teeth, when ye ſhall ſee Abraham and Iſaac, and Jacob, in the Kingdom of God, and you your ſelves thruſt out. And they ſhall come from the Eaſt, and the Weſt, and from the North, and from the South, and ſhall ſit down in the Kingdom of God. And behold there are laſt which ſhall be firſt, and there are firſt which ſhall be laſt. Now if we do conſider that wrath was come upon this Nation εἰς τέλος to the end, can we imagine either that this Kingdom taken from them, this Vineyard let out to other Husband-men, theſe Children of the Kingdom caſt out into outer darkneſs, ſhould ſuddenly receive again this Kingdom, be reſtored to this Vineyard, or admitted to the Light of the Goſpel? or that all Iſrael ſhould be ſaved, or iniquity ſhould be taken away from Jacob, whilſt that Nation lay under theſe dreadful Judgments! or that when our Lord had ſo ſolemnly foretold there ſhould be wrath upon this people, and they ſhall fall by the edge of the Sword, and ſhall be led away captive into all Nations; and Jeruſalem ſhall be trodden down by the Gentiles, until the time of the Gentiles be fulfilled, Luke 21. 23, 24. this Wrath ſhould not continue on them whilſt they were Captives in all Nations, and Jeruſalem was trodden down?

Lord's

Here, I confeſs, the Reverend Doctor (on Luke 21. 23.) hath a peculiar Notion, 'That 'the tredding down of Jeruſalem by the Gen-'tiles, is not particularly their Victory over it 'by Titus, but their conſequent poſſeſſing of 'it, even till Adrian's rebuilding a part of it, 'and calling it by his own name Ælia, and 'inhabiting it by Gentiles—Upon the doing 'of this, ſaith he, it followed, that as all the '(unbelieving) Jews were utterly baniſhed the 'City, ſo the believing Jews returned thither 'again from their Diſperſions, and inhabited 'it again, and joyn'd, and made one Congre-'gation, one Church with the Gentiles, which 'had then, till that time, received the Faith 'alſo, and till then continued a diſtinct Church 'from the Jews. By which it appears how 'punctually this Prediction, in our Notion, 'was fulfilled, that Jeruſalem ſhould be in-'habited by the Gentiles, all the Jews in a 'manner excluded, till the time that the Go-'ſpel had been freely preach'd to the Gentiles, 'and by them in ſome eminent manner been 'received, and then it ſhould be re-inhabited 'with the Jews again, i.e. the Chriſtian Jews, 'who being wrought on by emulation of the 'Gentiles, were now, many of them brought 'to receive the Faith. In his Note on the two Witneſſes, Rev. 11. B. he makes them to be the 'two Biſhops of the Church in Jeruſa-'lem, one of the Jewiſh, the other of the 'Gentile Converts, which ſtate of that Church 'continued, ſaith he, till the time of Mar-'cus, a Gentile Biſhop of that Church, i. e. 'from after the deſtruction of Jeruſalem by 'Titus, till that time. But here again are many things delivered, not only without all ſuffrage of Hiſtory, but in perpect oppoſition to the Hiſtories of thoſe times. For

1. Euſebius and Sulpitius Severus do inform us, that till the time of (p) Hadrian all the Biſhops and Prieſts of Jeruſalem were only of the Circumciſion. Here therefore is no room for his two Biſhops, one of the Jewiſh, the other of the Gentile Converts, till the time of Marcus.

2*ly*, They alſo do inform us, that all the Chriſtians then at Jeruſalem were of the Circumciſion, and ſo not of the Gentiles; for Sulpitius obſerves that the Edict of (q) Hadrian, for baniſhing all the Jews from Jeruſalem, happened for the advantage of the Chriſtian Faith, becauſe till then they almoſt all joyn'd the obſervation of the Law to the Faith of Chriſt. The Lord ſo ordering it, that, by this means, the ſervitude of that Law might be removed from the Church. Euſebius alſo ſaith,

(p) Namque tum Hieroſolymæ non niſi ex circumciſione habebat Eccleſia Sacerdotem. Sulpitius, l. 2. c. 45.

that the whole Church of Jeruſalem (r) conſiſted of the faithful Hebrews, who from the times of the Apoſtles, had continued there till the ſiege of Bitter in the eighteenth year of Hadrian: So that here is no room for his ſuppoſed Gentile Converts to be govern'd by a Biſhop of the Gentiles.

3*ly*, They alſo do expreſly ſay, not only that the unbelieving Jews, but that all the Jews in general, were by this Edict baniſhed both from Jeruſalem, and from the Region round about it. He placed a Band of Souldiers, which ſhould baniſh all the Jews from Jeruſalem, ſaith Sulpitius; and this he did, quia Chriſtiani ex Judæis potiſſimum putabantur, becauſe the Chriſtians were thought to have their riſe chiefly from the Jews. Euſebius ſaith, that τὸ πᾶν ἔθνος the whole Nation was baniſhed from Jeruſalem, and the Country round about, and not permitted to ſet one foot in it. And then adds, that (s) the City being after this manner emptied of the Jews, and wholly cleared of its Inhabitants, and made up of Aliens flowing in thither, it was made a Roman City, and Colony, and in honour of the Emperor was named Ælian. The ſame is ſaid by him in his (†) Evangelical Demonſtrations; and by (t) Tertullian, that not one Jew was permitted to ſtay there. Euſebius alſo adds, that (u) ἡ αὐτόθι ἐκκλησία ἐξ ἐθνῶν συγκροτηθεῖσης, the Church there conſiſting only of Gentiles, Marcus was the firſt Biſhop of it. So that here is no place for the Doctor's ſuppoſed Church, conſiſting both of Jews and Gentiles, or for the inhabiting of it by the Chriſtian Jews, and much leſs for his feigned many of them brought now to receive the Faith by emulation of the Gentiles. In a word, Epiphanius ſaith, that Hadrian the Emperor, travelling to Jeruſalem, found there only ἡ ἐκκλησίαν μικρὰν, one little Church and ſeven Synagogues, ſtanding like Cottages; and was this likely to be the Seat of two great Biſhops? So that I find nothing agreable to the truth of Hiſtory in all which this Reverend Perſon ſaith upon this Subject, and much leſs any thing confirmed, either by Scripture, or Authority.

What hath been thus diſcourſed, is abundantly ſufficient to confute the Expoſition of this Reverend and Learned Perſon, as being not agreable to matter of fact; for when was there any ſuch Converſion made of the Jews at the times aſſigned by him, which can in any probability of conſtruction anſwer to the Phraſes uſed by the Apoſtle, that by it all Iſrael ſhould be ſaved; ungodlineſs ſhould be turn'd away from Jacob; God ſhould bleſs them by taking away their ſins; that they who now were blinded ſhould have the vail taken away from before their eyes; they who now were diminiſhed ſhould have again their fulneſs; and they who now were caſt off, ſhould be again received? This could not happen in the very times when this Epiſtle was firſt endited: For though it be true that St. James mentions many thouſands or myriads of Jewiſh Converts, all zealous of the Law, Acts 21. 20. yet were they all converted at, or before the time of writing this Epiſtle, and ſo belonged only to the Remnant according to the Election of Grace here mentioned, not to the Reſidue that were blinded, of whoſe Converſion the Apoſtle here ſpeaks from v. 12. to v. 32. Nor could their Converſion, and Salvation be a Myſtery to be then revealed to the Gentiles. That no ſuch Converſion after the blindneſs mention'd in this Chapter happened to them, upon their ſeeing the abomination of deſolation ſtanding in the holy place, or ſoon after the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, hath been already ſhew'd; and that Juſtin Martyr ſaith nothing of any ſuch remarkable Converſion of them, hath been alſo proved.

That there might be ſome Converſion of them in the Reign of Trajan, is by ſome argued from the words of Euſebius; That (x) Juſtus, then Biſhop of Jeruſalem, was one of the many Myriads or Thouſands of the Circumciſion which then had believed. Yet is this Teſtimony of no force, as to this matter; For 1. Grammarians well know that μύρια and μυριάδες, when put indefinitely, do only ſignifie many; now if the πόσαι μυριάδες the many Myriads mentioned by St. James, hindred not, but that the Jewiſh Converts might be only a little Remnant, in reſpect to the blinded Jews, this may be as true of the ὅσαι μυριάδες, the ſo many Myriads of Euſebius, eſpecially if we conſider that moſt of them might be the very Perſons mention'd by St. James, he carefully informing us that the whole Church of Jeruſalem, under her fifteen Biſhops of Jeruſalem, of which this Juſtus was the eleventh, was made up of (y) Believers who had continued from the Apoſtles time till the Wars and Siege under Hadrian. And ſpeaking of theſe Perſons, not as Men believing then, but as πανδηκότες men who had before that time embraced the Chriſtian Faith. And hence (z) Ruffinus makes no mention of theſe ſuppoſed Myriads, but only ſaith, That Juſtus being one of thoſe of the Circumciſion who had embraced the Faith of Chriſt, was made their Biſhop. In a word, this very Euſebius concurring ſo exactly with the Sentiments of all the other Fathers, that the Jews were then rejected, and lay under a Curſe, and proving from this very Apoſtle, and from the words contained in the beginning of this very Chapter, that they ſhould generally fall and be rejected for their unbelief, σπανίων ἐξ αὐτῶν εἰς τὸ σωθῆναι τὴν κύριον ἡμῶν πιστεύοντων, (a) a very few of them only believing; and that (b) after the coming in of all Nations to the Chriſtian Faith, they did not yet ſee, or underſtand; he cannot be ſuppoſed to mention any thing which anſwers to the Converſion of the Jews intended in this Chapter, but muſt, with us, refer that to that glorious time when the (c) Prophecies ſhall more fully, ſaith he, be fulfilled, i. e. the time when the fulneſs mention'd by the Apoſtle ſhall come in. This being therefore all that hath been pleaded for the remarkable Converſion of the Jews, after the writing this Epiſtle; and this all being almoſt nothing, and far from bearing any Correſpondence to the comprehenſive words of the Apoſtle on that Subject; I conclude that no Converſion of this Nature happened to them, between the writing this Epiſtle, and the times of Conſtantine.

And whereas it is ſaid that this Converſion ſhould be wrought in them by way of Emulation, and that they ſhould lay hold of the Faith, being provoked ſo to do by ſeeing the Gentiles believe, it is confeſt that the Apoſtle repreſents this as a fit means to work this Emulation in them; but yet it is as certain that it hath not yet had the deſigned effect upon them, they being ſo far from being provoked to embrace the Chriſtian Faith, by ſeeing the Gentiles admitted to it, that this was to them the great ſtumbling block, and they were Enemies to the Goſpel for their ſakes, v. 28. they being prejudiced againſt it, becauſe the Gentiles were admitted to the Bleſſings of it without Circumciſion, and obſervance of the Law of Moſes. See Note on Gal. 3. 4. 6. 12. This is that Prejudice of the Judaizing Chriſtians which the Apoſtle labours to remove in moſt of his Epiſtles, but more eſpecially in that to the Galatians; and as for the unbelieving Jews, they could not endure to hear of any to be ſent for the converting of the Gentiles, Acts 22. 21, 22. but perſecuted the Apoſtles upon this account, for bidding them to preach to the Gentiles that they might be ſaved, 1 Theſſ. 2. 16. And the ſame Enmity to the Chriſtians ſeems to continue to this day among them upon the ſame accounts.

Wherefore there having been as yet, ſo far as we are able to diſcern, no ſuch remarkable Converſion of the Jews ſince the enditing this Epiſtle, and no ſuch happy Emulation of the converted Gentiles, as did provoke them to embrace the Chriſtian Faith, this could not be, as here the Doctor doth ſuggeſt, a confirmation of the Faith to the Gentiles, and much leſs a means to bring them all to receive it, or to convert the Gentiles over all the World. And what Records or Hiſtories make the leaſt mention of any ſuch Converſion of the Gentile World, on the account of the remarkable Converſion of the Jews after the writing this Epiſtle? When came in ſuch a fulneſs of the unbelieving Jews as was the Riches of the World, v. 12. or ſuch a Reception of them to the Chriſtian Faith as was unto them life from the dead, v. 15? or how can theſe Aſſertions be reconciled to the words of the Apoſtle; for if the coming in of the fulneſs of the Gentiles be their receiving the Faith in thoſe times, then the partial blindneſs of the Jews muſt ceaſe in thoſe times alſo; for blindneſs, ſaith the Apoſtle, hath happened to the Jews in part, and that blindneſs is to continue only till the fulneſs of the Gentiles ſhall come in: If then the blindneſs of the Jews is not yet ceaſed, but they have generally continued, even from the time of writing this Epiſtle, to this very moment, in as much blindneſs and obduracy, as they then lay under, and as much branches broken off, as now they are, it follows that the fulneſs of the Gentiles mentioned by the Apoſtle, is not yet come in.

Laſtly, The Myſtery mentioned v. 25. cannot be this, that by occaſion of the infidelity of the Jews, the Goſpel was preached to, and received of Gentiles, for of this the Apoſtle introduceth the believing Gentiles ſpeaking thus, v. 19. Thou wilt ſay then, the branches were broken off that I might be graffed in, &c. this therefore could not be to them a Myſtery. Nor could it be this, viz. that this was done in mercy to the Jews, viz. that they by ſeeing the Gentiles believe might at length be provoked to do ſo too. For of this the Apoſtle had ſpoken twice, declaring it to be foretold by Moſes, ſaying, I will provoke you to jealouſie by them that are no people. Chap. 10. 19. And in this Chapter, ſaying, Through their fall, Salvation is come to the Gentiles to provoke them to jealouſie, v. 11. It remains then, as the Apoſtle and the primitive Church from him declare, that it be this, That when the time for the fulneſs, i. e. for the Converſion of the ſtill Heathen Gentiles is come in, then ſhall the blindneſs of the Jews be removed, and ſo all Iſrael ſhall be ſaved, and then all Nations ſhall flow in unto them, and their reception ſhall be to the Gentiles as life from the dead.

I think I have ſaid what is ſufficient to ſhew theſe words cannot admit the ſenſe impoſed upon them by the Reverend Dr. Hammond, I proceed now more largely to diſcuſs the proper import of that phraſe, The fulneſs of the Gentiles ſhall come in. This is by ſome interpreted thus, Blindneſs hath happened to the Jews, till the full number of the Gentiles which God ſhall call be compleated. But this ſenſe is contrary to the expreſs words of the Apoſtle, who declares there ſhall be a greater and more glorious Converſion of the Gentiles, then that which happened by occaſion of their fall, that their fulneſs ſhould be much more the Riches of the Gentiles, then their fall was, v. 12. and that their coming in, ſhould be unto the Gentiles, as life from the dead, and ſhould much more enrich them then their caſting off, v. 15.

Note therefore that there is a double fulneſs of the Gentiles mention'd in the Holy Scriptures:

1. That which is ſpoken of v. 12. in theſe words, If the diminution of them was the fulneſs of the Gentiles, and this conſiſted in the Preaching of the Goſpel to all Nations, and the imparting the glad tydings of Salvation to them, and was in a great meaſure to be accompliſhed before the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, and the ruine of that Church and Nation, according to our Lord's Prediction in theſe words, The Goſpel of the Kingdom ſhall be preach'd in all the world for a witneſs to all Nations, and then ſhall the end come, Matth. 24. 14. Mark 13. 10.

2*ly*, There is to be another fulneſs of the Gentiles by a more glorious Converſion of them, and a coming in of thoſe Nations which have not hitherto embraced the Goſpel, or have relapſed into Heatheniſm or Mahometiſm, to be effected when this rejection of the Jews ſhall ceaſe, and God ſhall ſend the Deliverer out of Zion to turn away iniquity from Jacob; and of this only can we underſtand thoſe words of the Apoſtle, v. 12. If the fall of the Jews hath been (already) the Riches of the (Gentile) World, and the diminution of them the Riches of the Gentiles, how much more ſhall their fulneſs, i. e. the time of their Converſion be the encreaſe and fulneſs of the ſame Gentiles. And v. 15. If the caſting away of them be the reconciling of the world, what ſhall the receiving them again be (to the ſame World) but even as life from the dead. And v. 25. Blindneſs in part hath happened to the Jews, till the fulneſs of the Gentiles ſhall come in. This blindneſs therefore ſtill continuing upon them, as much as ever, another fulneſs of the Gentiles is to be expected, when it entirely ſhall be removed from them, and ſo all Iſrael ſhall be ſaved.

2*ly*, Jeruſalem is yet trodden down of the Nations, and the Jews are yet Captives in all Nations, whereas the Captivity, and the treading down of Jeruſalem is to ceaſe when the times of the Gentiles are fulfill'd; according to thoſe words of Chriſt concerning the deſtruction of the Jews, They ſhall fall by the edge of the Sword, and ſhall be carried Captives into all Nations, and Jeruſalem ſhall be trodden down, till the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled, Luke 21. 24. i. e. till the times when they ſhall have a plenary Converſion by the coming in of the Jews, and ſhall no more Lord it over them, as now they do, but ſerve them, and flow in unto them. And to this purpoſe let it be noted,

1. That if we conſult Ancient Prophecies concerning the vaſt extent of our Saviour's Kingdom over all Nations, we ſhall find reaſon to believe they have not yet had their full accompliſhment upon them, for he hath not yet had the uttermoſt parts of the earth for his poſſeſſion, Pſal. 2.8. God hath not yet made all People, Nations, and Languages to ſerve him, and all Dominions to obey him, Dan. 7. 4. 27. he hath not yet filled the whole earth or broke in pieces, and conſumed all other Kingdoms, Dan. 2. 34, 35. That ſeems not yet fulfilled which was foretold by Micah that the Lord ſhould be King over all the earth, Mich. 5. 4. and by Zachariah, that there ſhould be but one Lord, and his name one, Zach. 14. 9. and by David, that all Kings ſhould fall down before him, and all Nations ſerve him; that all the ends of the earth ſhould remember, and turn to the Lord, and all the kindreds of the Nations worſhip before him, Pſal. 72. 8. Thoſe and ſundry other ſuch like Prophecies there are, which yet were never accompliſh'd according to the full import of them. For as (d) Brerewood obſerves, if we divide the known Regions of the World into thirty equal parts, the Chriſtians part is (only) as five, the Mahumetans as ſix, the Idolaters as nineteen; whence we have reaſon to conclude that there is yet a time to come, before the Conſummation of all things, in which our Saviour will yet once more diſplay the victorious Banner of his Croſs; and like a mighty Man of War march on conquering, and to conquer, till he hath confounded, or converted his Enemies; and finally, conſummated his Vic-ries in a glorious Triumph over all the Powers of the Earth, and made all Nations, Tongues, and Languages to ſerve him.

2*ly*, That there is ſtill to be a glorious Converſion of the Jewiſh Nation, as it ſeems evident from the words of the Apoſtle here, who ſpeaketh of a time when the partial blindneſs which then had happened to the Jews, and ſtill continues upon them, ſhould ceaſe; when God would turn away ungodlineſs from Jacob, and take away (the puniſhment of) their ſins, which yet he hath not done; when not a little Remnant only, as at our Lord's firſt Advent, but all Iſrael ſhould be ſaved; when that Iſrael, whoſe Minds were then, and ſtill are blinded by the Vail that is upon them, ſhall have that Vail taken away by their turning to the Lord. But alſo from thoſe Prophecies of the Old Teſtament, which promiſe to that Nation ſuch Kindneſs, Favour, and Salvation, as either hath not been at all as yet, or but imperfectly fulfilled; as when he promiſeth to bleſs her with ſuch Bleſſings as never ſhould be taken from her, and to ſhew Mercy to her, ſo as never to forſake her more. To this effect are theſe Expreſſions; As I have ſworn that the waters of Noah ſhould no more go over the Earth, ſo I have ſworn that I would not be wrath with thee, nor rebuke thee, (any more;) for the Mountains ſhall depart, and the Hills be removed, but my kindneſs ſhall not depart from thee, neither ſhall the Covenant of my Peace be removed, ſaith the Lord that hath mercy on thee, Iſa. 54. 9, 10. And the Redeemer ſhall come to Zion, and to them that turn from Tranſgreſſion in Jacob, ſaith the Lord. As for me, this is my Covenant with them, ſaith the Lord; My Spirit that is upon thee, and my words which I have put in thy mouth, ſhall not depart out of thy mouth, nor out of the mouth of thy Seed, nor out of the mouth of thy Seeds ſeed from henceforth and for ever, Iſa. 59. 20, 21. I will make thee an Eternal Excellency, a Joy of many Generations. Violence ſhall no more be heard in thy Land, waſting nor deſtruction within thy Borders, but thou ſhalt call thy Walls Salvation, and thy Gates Praiſe. The Sun ſhall be no more thy light by day, neither for brightneſs ſhall the Moon give light unto thee, but the Lord ſhall be unto thee an everlaſting light, and thy God thy glory. Thy Sun ſhall no more go down, neither ſhall thy Moon withdraw it ſelf; for the Lord ſhall be thine everlaſting light, and the days of thy mourning ſhall be ended, Iſa. 60. 15, 18, 19, 20. Everlaſting joy ſhall be unto them, and I will make an everlaſting Covenant with them, Iſa. 61. 7, 8. Thou ſhalt no more be termed forſaken, neither ſhall thy Land any more be termed deſolate, but thou ſhalt be called Hephzi-bah, and thy Land Beulah; for the Lord delighteth in thee, and thy Land ſhall be married, Iſa. 62. 4, 12. I will rejoyce in Jeruſalem, and joy in my People; and the voice of weeping ſhall be no more heard in her, nor the voice of crying, Iſa. 65. 19. For as the new Heavens, and new Earth, which I will make, ſhall remain before me, ſaith the Lord, ſo ſhall your ſeed, and your Name remain, Iſa. 66. 22. And I will give them one heart, and one way, that they may fear me for ever, for the good of them, and of their Children after them. And I will make an everlaſting Covenant with them, that I will not turn away from them to do them good, but I will put my fear in their hearts, that they ſhall not depart from me, Jer. 32. 39, 40. And they ſhall no more be a prey to the Heathen, neither ſhall the Beaſts of the Land devour them; but they ſhall dwell ſafely, and none ſhall make them afraid. And I will raiſe up for them a Plant of renown, and they ſhall be no more conſumed with hunger in the Land, neither bear the ſhame of the Heathen any more, Ezek. 34. 28, 29. And they ſhall dwell in the Land that I have given unto Jacob my Servant, wherein your Fathers have dwelt, and they ſhall dwell therein, even they, and their Children, and their Childrens children for ever; and my ſervant David ſhall be their Prince for ever. Moreover, I will make a Covenant of Peace with them, it ſhall be an everlaſting Covenant with them; and I will place them, and multiply them, and will ſet my Sanctuary in the midſt of them for evermore. My Tabernacle ſhall be with them; yea, I will be their God, and they ſhall be my People, Ezek. 37. 25, 26, 27. I have gathered them unto their own Land, and have left none of them any more there. Neither will I hide my face any more from them, Ezek. 39. 28, 29. And I will plant them upon their Land, and they ſhall no more be pulled up out of their Land which I have given them, ſaith the Lord thy God, Amos 9. 15.

Now it ſeems very evident, that ſcarcely any of theſe things can be applyed to the Return of the Jews from their Captivity in Babylon. For ſince that time his kindneſs hath departed from them, and his Covenant of Peace hath been removed for above 1600 years; Violence hath been heard in their Land, waſting and deſtruction within their Borders, and their Land hath been made deſolate; the days of wrath, of mourning, and of weeping have been long upon them; their Sun hath been, according to our Lord's Prediction, darkened, and their Moon hath not given her light; their Sanctuary and Tabernacle hath been conſumed, and they have been a prey to the Heathen; they have long ſince ceaſed to be his People, and he to be their God.

Nor can we reaſonably confine theſe Promiſes to that little Remnant which believed in the times of the Apoſtles, for they were never gathered out of all Lands, nor did they inherit the Land for ever, but were baniſh[ed] thence, as well as the unbelieving Jews [by] Hadrian; they can in no propriety of Sp[eech] be ſtyled the Houſe of Iſrael, the whole of Iſrael. Nothing indeed ſeems more unlikely, then that the time of the Caſting them off, the breaking off the Branches, the leaving them under a Spiritual ſlumber, the taking the Kingdom from them, and caſting them out into utter darkneſs, ſhould be the time of the Completion of theſe glorious Promiſes; and that this Senſe cannot accord with the Diſcourſe of our Apoſtle here, hath been already ſhew'd.

Nor 3*ly*, can we apply theſe Promiſes to the believing Gentiles; for ſure they could not be a prey to the Heathens, or to bear their ſhame, or be the People whom God had led into Captivity, and after gathered into their own Land, and ſo planted there as never to be plucked up again; the Promiſe could not be made to them, that they ſhould ſuck the breaſts and eat the Riches of the Gentiles.

3*ly*, I have already ſhew'd from Scripture Prophecies, That after this Converſion the Nations generally ſhall flow in to them, and walk in their light, and ſo their fulneſs (which ſignifies not their Incorporation into another Church, but as the oppoſite words, their fall, their diminution, their rejection, require, and as the Apoſtle doth himſelf interpret it, their reception to the Chriſtian Faith, and ſo into the Favour of God) ſhall be the Riches of the Gentiles, and as life from the dead to them; then the Gentiles ſhall come to their light, and Kings to the brightneſs of their riſing; and Nations that have not known them ſhall run in unto them, becauſe God hath glorified them. Then, ſaith God, I will gather all Nations, and Tongues, and they ſhall come and ſee my Glory, Iſa. 55. 5. 56. 8. 66. 18, 22. Then all Nations ſhall turn, and fear the Lord truly, ſaith Tobit, Chap. 13. 10, 11. And this I conceive to be that fulneſs of the Gentiles of which the Apoſtle here ſpeaketh.

CHAP. XII.

Verſe 1. I Beſeech you therefore, Brethren, by the mercies of (that) God (of whom, and through whom are all things, and to whoſe glory they are all deſigned, Chap. 11. 36.) that ye preſent your Bodies a living Sacrifice, holy acceptable to God, which is your reaſonable Service.

Παραστῆσαι τὰ σώματα ὑμῶν θυσίαν ζῶσαν, to preſent your bodies a living ſacrifice.] Sin reigning in our mortal Bodies, and by obeying the motions of it in our outward actions, we being ſaid παριστάναι τὰ μέλη ὑμῶν to preſent the Members of our Bodies inſtruments of unrighteouſneſs to ſin, Chap. 6. 12, 13. The Apoſtle here doth appoſitely exhort us παραστῆσαι to preſent the ſame Bodies now a living Sacrifice, in oppoſition to the Legal Sacrifices which were firſt ſlain, and then offered up to God upon the Altar, viz. by being now dead unto Sin, but alive unto God through Jeſus Chriſt our Lord, An holy Sacrifice, as being conſecrated to the Service of God, and having our fruit unto holineſs, as the Servants of God ſtill have, Rom. 6. 22. And as the Sacrifices offered to God were to be free from any ſpot and blemiſh, and ſo holy; ſo are our Bodies made an holy Sacrifice when they are kept in Sanctification and Honour, and free from all filthineſs of the Fleſh, and ſo a Sacrifice acceptable, and well-pleaſing to that God who deſired not the Legal Sacrifices, nor delighted in Burnt-offerings, Pſal. 51. 16. Hebr. 10. 8. And this, ſaith he, is not as the Sacrifices of the Law, ἐκ τῶν ἀλόγων, of dead and unreaſonable Beaſts, which was bodily Service, or that in which the Body chiefly was imployed; but it is λογικὴ λατρεία, a Sacrifice of their Reaſon, devoting your ſelves, who are Rational Creatures, to his Service, and alſo is highly ſuitable to their Reaſon.

Ver. 2. And be not conformed to (the evil Cuſtoms of) this (Heathen) World, but be ye transformed (into other men) by the renewing of your mind, (and judgment of things) that ye may prove (Gr. diſcern, and approve, ſee Note on 1 Cor. 11. 28. Gal. 6. 4.) what is the good, and acceptable, and perfect will of God, (i. e. that will which under the Goſpel requires only what is ſubſtantially good, and therefore always acceptable to him, and perfectly inſtructs us in our whole Chriſtian duty).

Καὶ μὴ συσχηματίζεσθε τῷ αἰῶνι τούτῳ, and be not conformed to this World.] It is the obſervation of Grotius on the former Verſe, that the Apoſtle having ſhewed before that Juſtification could not be obtained by the Law, comes now to ſhew how the Goſpel perfected and ſpiritualized the Law, as to the Ritual and the Judicial Parts of it, and engaged us more exactly to fulfil the Moral Parts of it, beginning firſt with the Sacrifices, which by the Jews were eſteemed one great and chief part of their Ritual Worſhip. And then he may here proceed to their Separations from Men of other Nations, or, as the Phariſees had improved it, even from the Vulgar ſort, thinking it unlawful to eat, converſe with, or even touch the People of the Earth, as they ſtiled them, and making their Holineſs to conſiſt chiefly in ſuch Niceties and Separations, ſhewing that we do moſt effectually comply with all that God deſigned by any Precepts of this Nature, when we keep our ſelves unſpotted from the World, or free from any Conformity unto the ſinful Cuſtoms of it, as Chriſtianity eſpecially requires, requires, Chriſt giving up himſelf for our ſins, that he might deliver us from this preſent evil World, Gal. 1. 4. Or he inſtructs them how to change their former Heathen, into a Chriſtian Converſation; declaring, that whereas formerly they walked κατὰ τὸν αἰῶνα τοῦ κόσμου τούτου, according to the courſe of this World, Eph. 2. 2. and according to the will of the Gentiles, 1 Pet. 4. 3. they ſhould no longer live the reſt of their time to the luſts of Men, but to the will of God, v. 2.

Τῇ ἀνακαινώσει τοῦ νοὸς ὑμῶν, by the renewal of your mind.] The whole new Creature doth conſiſt in the renewal of the Mind the Will, the Affections and the Actions of the Man, 1 Theſſ. 5. 23. But becauſe this Renewal doth begin with the change of the Mind, diſcerning and approving what is acceptable to the Lord, and upon that follows the choice of what is ſo by the Will, and the inclination of the Affections to what the Mind doth thus approve of, and the regulation of our outward Actions is according to what we thus approve, chooſe, and affect, this Renewal of the Mind is put for the Renovation of the whole Man, and we are ſaid to be renewed in the ſpirit of our mind, and to put on the new man, Eph. 4. 23, 24. and to put on the new man, which is renewed εἰς ἐπίγνωσιν in knowledge, according to the image of him that created him, Coloſſ. 3. 10.

Τὸ θέλημα τοῦ Θεοῦ τὸ ἀγαθὸν, καὶ εὐάρεστον, καὶ τέλειον, the good, and acceptable, and perfect will of God.] The Ritual Precepts of the Law had no internal Goodneſs in them antecedent to the Command; and God himſelf ſays of them, I gave them ſtatutes which were not God, Ezek. 20. 25. and in oppoſition to their coſtly Sacrifices and Burnt-offerings, ſaith, He hath ſhewed thee, oh man, what is good, and what the Lord requireth of thee, even to do juſtice, and love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God, Micah 6. 6, 8. They were not pleaſing to him in themſelves, Pſal. 51. 14. Hebr. 10. 8. but he declareth his delight in juſtice and mercy, Jer. 22. 16. And the deſign of the Apoſtle, in the whole Epiſtle to the Hebrews, is to prove the imperfection of theſe Sacrifices, and of the old Covenant, and therefore the neceſſity of a better Sacrifice, and a new, and better Covenant; and ſo in oppoſition to theſe Ritual Injunctions, he may here ſtile the Goſpel Inſtitution, the good, and acceptable, and the perfect will of God.

Ver. 3. (Which will of God you will the better diſcern by your humility and diligence in the exerciſe of your ſpiritual Gifts) For this I ſay, through the Grace (of Apoſtleſhip, ſee Note on Chap. 1. 5.) given to me, to every Man that is among you, (thus gifted) not to think of himſelf more highly then he ought to think, (on the account of thoſe Miniſterial Gifts conferred upon him, not for his own ſake, but for the benefit of others, 1 Cor. 4. 6, 7. 12. 7. as did the Scribes, and Phariſees, and Doctors of the Law, on the account of their wiſdom and knowledge of it, Rom. 2. 18—23.) but to think ſoberly (of himſelf) according as God hath dealt to every Man the meaſure of Faith.

Μέτρον πίστεως, the meaſure of Faith.] Here the Greek Scholiaſts agree in the Expoſition of theſe words, that by the meaſure of Faith we are to underſtand the meaſure of Gifts proceeding from that miraculous Faith which was required to the exerciſe of them. Τὸ γὰρ χαρίσματος αἴτιον, ἡ πίστις, for Faith is the cauſe of theſe Gifts, ſaith Chryſoſtom; and when they found this Faith raiſed in them, they exerciſed them; they being given, ſaith Theodoret, according to the meaſure of their Faith. This Faith enabled them to remove Mountains, 1 Cor. 13. 2. to heal the ſick, James 5. 15. to caſt out Devils, Matth. 17. 20. And hence St. Peter exhorts them who had received theſe Gifts, to miniſter them ὡς ἐκ ἰσχύος ἧς χορηγεῖ ὁ Θεὸς, as from the ability, or ſtrength of Faith that God giveth, 1 Pet. 4. 11. and this is elſewhere ſtiled the meaſure of the Gift of Chriſt, Eph. 4. 7. This they did, ſaith (a) Origen, διὰ τὴν πίστιν ταύτην, by this faith; καθὼς εἰς ἕκαστος αὐτῶν τὴν δωρεὰν ἔλαβε παρ' αὐτοῦ, as every one received the Gift from Chriſt, ſaith (b) Irenæus. The Phraſe occurs twice in (c) Maimonides, where he ſaith, God declared that he would try the Jews with falſe Prophets, to know menſuram fidei veſtræ in veritate legis the meaſure of their faith in the law, & ad menſuram fidei veſtræ in lucem producendum, num firmiter, & conſtanter perſiſtatis in eâ. Whence we learn, that the ſtrength and firmneſs of Faith is the meaſure of it.

Ver. 4. For as we have many Members in one Body (Natural,) and (Gr. but) all (the) Members (of it) have not the ſame Office, (but ſome are more feeble, ſome more vigorous, ſome imployed in more, ſome in leſs honourable Services, 1 Cor. 12. from v. 12. to the 27*th.*)

Ver. 5. So we (Chriſtians) being many, are one Body in Chriſt (our Head,) and every one (of us are different) Members of one another.

Ver. 6. Having then Gifts differing according to the Grace (or favour of God) given to us, whether (it be) Prophecy, let us propheſie according to the proportion of Faith.

Κατὰ τὴν ἀναλογίαν τῆς πίστεως, according to the proportion of Faith.] That is, ſay ſome, according to thoſe Principles of Faith and good Life, which are known among you; but ſurely they who propheſied by a Spiritual Gift, could not do otherwiſe; for no Man can by the Holy Spirit be excited to contradict the Doctrine or Precepts of Chriſtianity. Others, Let him do it according to the meaſure of the miraculous Faith imparted to him, enabling him now to reveal Myſteries, now to foretel things, now to diſcloſe the ſecrets of men, according as God, upon his faith, ſhall grant ability to him to do it. And therefore (d) Chryſoſtom, Oecumenius and Theophylact ſay, that though this was a Gift, yet it flowed in upon a Man according, as by his Faith he made himſelf a Veſſel fit to receive the gift of Prophecy. And this ſeemeth to be the better Expoſition, not only becauſe it hath the ſuffrage of the Ancient Expoſitors, but becauſe it beſt anſwers to the meaſure of Faith mentioned v. 3. for ἀναλογία, ſaith Origen here, is not ratio, as the Latins render it, but menſura competens, a competent meaſure; and κατ' ἀναλογίαν, in Heſychius, is κατὰ τὸ μέτρον, according to the meaſure; and it agrees beſt with the Phraſe of St. Peter, to exerciſe theſe Gifts according to the ability that God hath given them, and to be content with that, though others may enjoy it in higher meaſures.

Ver. 7. Or (if it be) miniſtery (that of an Evangeliſt) let us wait on our Miniſtry; or, he that teacheth, on teaching.

Διακονία, Miniſtry.] This Chariſma being reckoned here before that of Teaching, or Exhortation, I think it beſt to interpret it of the Office of the Evangeliſt rank'd before that of the Paſtor and Teacher, Eph. 4. 11. and immediately after that of the Prophets, as here, rather than to interpret it of the Office of a Deacon; all theſe four Offices of Apoſtle, Prophet, Evangeliſt and Teacher, being deſigned, ſaith the Apoſtle there, v. 12. εἰς ἔργον διακονίας, for the work of the Miniſtry. Hence St. Paul writes thus to Timothy, do the work of an Evangeliſt; fulfil τὴν διακονίαν σου thy Miniſtry, 2 Tim. 4. 5. And of Mark the Evangeliſt, he ſaith, bring Mark with thee, for he is profitable to me εἰς διακονίαν to the Miniſtry, i. e. to be ſent to preach the Goſpel, or viſit the Churches where I cannot come, v. 11. And in this ſenſe, ſaith St. Peter, εἴ τις διακονεῖ, if any man miniſters, let him do it as of the ability that God giveth, not as of the Charity of others, which was the proper Office of the Deacon. Of the Teachers, See note on 1 Cor. 12. 28. Eph. 4. 11. Acts 6. 4. 13. 1. 20. 24. 2 Cor. 6. 3. Coloſſ. 4. 17.

Ver. 8. Or, He that exhorteth, on Exhortation: He that giveth (or is imployed in diſtribution of the Churches ſtock) let him do it with ſimplicity, (or liberality. See the Note on 2 Cor. 8. 2.) He that ruleth, with diligence. He that ſheweth mercy (to the ſick, impotent, ſtrangers, orphans,) with chearfulneſs.

Ὁ μεταδιδούς, He that giveth, and He that ſheweth mercy.] Theſe two Expreſſions ſeem to denote the ſame Perſons who are called Helps, 1 Cor. 12. 28. See the Note there. He that ruleth may be the ſame with thoſe who are there ſtiled Governments, and elſewhere προϊστῶτες, or προϊστάμενοι, 1 Theſſ. 5. 12. 1 Tim. 3. 4. 5. 17. He that exhorteth is mentioned among the Spiritual Men, 1 Cor. 14. 3. 31.

Ver. 9. Let Love be without diſſimulation (not in word only, but in deed and in truth, 1 John 3. 18.) abhor that which is evil, cleave to that which is good.

Ver. 10. Be kindly affectioned to one another in brotherly love, (not bearing only ſuch a kindneſs to one another as common humanity calls for, but ſuch as the Relation of Chriſtian Brethren, and the Bonds of Conſanguinity require,) in honour preferring one another (Through humility acting as if you conceited others more worthy of honour than your ſelves. See Note on Philip. 2. 3. and being well contented that they ſhould be placed in a more honourable poſt.)

Ver. 11. Not ſlothful in buſineſs, (in the concerns of God, and of one another) fervent in ſpirit, (ardently, and zealouſly engaging in the ſervice of God, and of one another, as knowing you are then) ſerving the Lord.

Τῷ κυρίῳ δουλεύοντες, ſerving the Lord.] So the Syriack, Arabick, Æthiopick Verſions, and all the Greek Scholiaſts read. The other reading, τῷ καιρῷ δουλεύοντες, ſerving the time, mentioned by Ambroſe, St. Jerom and Ruffinus, ſeems to have had its riſe from the abbreviation of the word in MSS. they reading ω, though it hath a good ſenſe thus, Temporibus ſervite, rebus præſentibus vos accommodantes & ſi quid inciderit incommodorum vel declinantes, ſi liceat commode, vel tolerantes. See Eph. 5. 16. Coloſſ. 4. 5.

Ver. 12. Rejoycing in hope (of the Glory of God) Rom. 5. 2. or of eternal life, Tit. 1. 2. patient in tribulations (for the cauſe of Chriſt), continuing inſtant in prayer, (that you may ſtand firm in the faith, and have a ſeaſonable deliverance from them.)

Ver. 13. Diſtributing to the neceſſities of the (perſecuted) Saints. Given to (or purſuing) hoſpitality (towards them when they come to you.)

Ver. 14. And bleſs (i. e. wiſh well to, and pray for) them which perſecute you; yea bleſs, and curſe not, (whatever provocations you may have to do ſo.)

Ver. 15. Rejoyce with them that do rejoyce, and weep with them that weep, (as the Relation of Members of the ſame Body doth require. 1 Cor. 12. 26.)

Ver. 16. Be of the ſame mind one towards another, (being concerned for the ſame good to them which you deſire for your ſelves.) Mind not high things, but condeſcend to Men of low eſtate, (to the meaneſt concerns of the meaneſt Chriſtians.) Be not wiſe in your own conceits, (ſo as to think you need not the aſſiſtance of Divine Wiſdom, or the adviſe and counſel of your Chriſtian Brethren, Prov.3.5,7. Luke 12. 53. or ſo as to neglect the concern of your Chriſtian Brethren, Prov.3.5,7.Luke 12.53. or as to neglect the concerns of thy Chriſtian Brother, Gal. 6. 2, 3.

Ver. 17. Recompenſe to no man evil for evil; provide things honeſt (Gr. honourable) in the ſight of all men.

Τὰ καλὰ, honourable.] That there be Actions, which according to the voice of Nature, and antecedently to any poſitive Commands, are good, and evil, honourable and praiſe-worthy, or matter of diſhonour, or diſpraiſe, in the general Opinion of the World; ſuch as are Τὰ καλὰ, honourable before men, as well as in the ſight of God, 2 Cor. 8.21. this Epiſtle doth abundantly demonſtrate; for the Apoſtle in the firſt Chapter, having mentioned all the unrighteouſneſs and impure actions of the Heathen World, he adds, That the Heathens knew, from the conſideration of the Righteouſneſs of God, that they who did ſuch things were worthy of death, v. 32. In the ſecond Chapter he inform us, that the Gentiles, having not a written Law, and notwithſtanding doing by Nature the things contained in the Moral Law, ſhew the work of the Law written in their hearts, their Conſcience bearing witneſs to it, and their thoughts accuſing, or elſe excuſing one another, v. 14, 15. That the Exerciſe of Righteouſneſs and Peace renders us not only acceptable to God, but alſo approved of Men, Chap. 14. 17. Accordingly the Wiſeman ſaith, that by obſerving Mercy and Truth we ſhall προνοεῖν καλὰ provide things honourable in the ſight of God and Men, Prov. 3. 3, 4.

Ver. 18. If it be poſſible, as much as lyeth in you, live peaceably with all men.

Ver. 19. Dearly beloved, avenge not your ſelves (upon your enemies, v. 20.) but rather give place unto (the) wrath (of God againſt them,) for it is written (Deut.32.35.) Vengeance is mine, I will repay it, ſaith the Lord.

Δότε τόπον τῇ ὀργῇ, Give place unto wrath.] i. e. Refer it to the Puniſhment of God, συχώρησον αὐτῷ ἐπιξελθεῖν, τοῦτο γὰρ ὅδε δότε τόπον τῇ ὀργῇ ſuffer him to come in with his wrath upon thoſe who are your enemies, and perſecute you for his ſake, for this is the import of theſe words, Give place unto wrath; ſo Chryſoſtom, Oecumenius, Theophylact: And this Expoſition is confirmed by the enſuing reaſon, for vengeance is mine, I will repay it; and from the occaſion of thoſe words, Deut. 32. 35. they being ſpoken for the comfort of God's People, whoſe Cauſe he will plead, and for whoſe ſakes he will repent of the evil brought upon them, v. 36.

Ver. 20. Therefore if thine Enemy hunger (rather) feed him; if he thirſt, give him drink; for in ſo doing thou ſhalt heap coals of fire (the Divine vengeance) on his head.

Ἄνθρακας πυρὸς σωρεύσεις ἐπὶ τὴν κεφαλὴν αὐτοῦ, thou ſhalt heap coals of fire upon his head.] I know that many good Interpreters conceive here is an Alluſion to Artificers that melt Lead, or other Metals, by heaping Coals of fire upon them, and ſo imagine that the import of theſe words is this, Thou ſhalt melt him down, or work him, by this obliging kindneſs, into good affection to thee: But I believe the ſenſe is rather this, That, if he perſevere in his enmity to, his perſecution of thee, and perverſneſs to thee, after theſe kind offices, the event, though not ſought by thee, will be this, thou by thy patience ſhall engage the wrath of God to fall upon him, and to maintain thy Cauſe againſt him; and ſo ſhall be more certainly and happily delivered from his Malice, then by avenging of thy ſelf, thou wouldſt be. For 1ſt, This ſuits beſt with the connexion of this with the foregoing Verſe by the Particle Therefore, avenge not your ſelves, but rather give place to the wrath of God to fall upon your Enemies, or Perſecutors, ſeeing he will repay vengeance to them. Therefore let not their Enmity hinder you from being kind to them; for that Kindneſs, if it do not mollifie them, will cauſe the Wrath of God to wax hot againſt them.

2ly, Becauſe the words are plainly taken from Prov. 25. 21. where they are exactly to be found, where, ſaith Grotius, apparet de pœnâ divinâ agi, it is evident the Wiſeman ſpeaks of the Divine vengeance. And this is the continual import of the Phraſe in the Old Teſtament, where only it incurs, and where it ſtill figniſies the Wrath and Indignation of the Lord. So Pſal. 140. 9, 10. As for the Head of them that compaſs me about, let the miſchief of their own lips cover them, let ἄνθρακες πυρὸς coals of fire fall upon them. So Iſa. 47. 14. they ſhall not deliver themſelves from the power of the flame, ὅτι ἔχεις ἄνθρακας πυρὸς καθῆσαι ἐπ' αὐτοῖς, for thou haſt coals of fire to cauſe to ſit upon them. So Ezek. 10. 2. God commands the Angel to fill his hand ἀνθράκων πυρὸς with coals of fire, to ſcatter them over the City, to burn the City with them. And 4 *Eſdr.*16.52, 53. Let not the ſinner ſay he hath not ſinned, for God ſhall heap coals of fire upon his head who ſaid before the Lord God, and his Glory, he hath not ſinned.

Ver. 21. Be not overcome of evil, (let it not prevail upon thee to be impatient under, or avenge it) but overcome evil with good.

Μὴ νικῶ ὑπὸ τοῦ κακοῦ, be not overcome of evil.] Vincitur à malo qui vult peccare in alium, quia ille peccavit in ipſum. Aquinas.

CHAP.

CHAP. XIII.

Verſe 1. LET every Soul be ſubject to the higher Powers, (or Supream Authority placed over them,) for there is no Power but of God, (the Fountain of it,) the Powers that be are ordained of God.

Οὐ γὰρ ἔστιν ἐξουσία εἰ μὴ ἀπὸ Θεοῦ, there is no Power but of God.] That this may rightly be underſtood, let it be noted, 1. That God doth not now, as in the caſe of Saul and David, by himſelf appoint and nominate the Perſon who ſhall ſway the Scepter in any Nation of the World. The Roman Emperors, the Powers then in being when St. Paul writ this Epiſtle, had no ſuch appointment, but were elected by the Roman Armies, or choſen and confirmed by the Senate. Whence it appears, that an immediate appointment or deſignation of the Perſon by God, cannot be neceſſary to render any Prince God's Ordinance.

2*ly*, By virtue of God's general appointment or ordinance, whether in the fifth Commandment, or by a Law of Nature, requiring that all Nations ſhould have ſome Government placed over them, no individual Perſon can claim a Right to be the higher Power in any Nation, more then others, nor are the People by it tied to yield Obedience to this Man, rather then to that. This therefore cannot be ſufficient to make a Man the individual Perſon who is God's Ordinance, in reference to ſuch a Nation: It remains therefore

3*ly*, That this Authority be conveyed to this or that individual Perſon or Family, by Compact, Conſent, or Choice of the Perſons governed, that ſuch a Perſon, or Family, ſhall have the Supream Authority in ſuch a Nation. It therefore muſt be ſuch a Choice, Conſent, or Contract that renders any Perſon the Ordinance of God to ſuch a Nation. And this is what Men call a Legal Right, or Title to the Crown; this is a Title by the Laws and Conſtitutions of the Land.

But then as mutual Conſent and Contract make two Perſons Man and Wife, and yet Matrimony is God's Ordinance, and the Power of the Man over the Wife, and of the Wife over the Body of the Husband, is from God; and as among us one becomes a Maſter, another a Servant, by Conſent and Covenant, and yet the Maſter hath from God authority over his Servant; ſo here, the individual Perſon becomes the higher Power by the Conſent, the Choice, or Contract Original, or Actual of the Community, but yet the Power he exerciſes in that ſtation is of God, the Fountain of all Power, and he acts in that ſtation, not as the Miniſter of Man, but God.

Ver. 2. Whoſoever therefore reſiſteth the Power, reſiſteth the Ordinance of God, and he that reſiſteth (the Ordinance of God) ſhall receive to himſelf Damnation (Gr. Judgment.)

Ὁ ἀντιτασσόμενος τῇ ἐξουσίᾳ, whoſoever reſiſteth the Power.] Origen having cited this and the preceding Verſe in his Diſſertation againſt Celſus, confeſſes it is a place (a) capable of much diſquiſition, by reaſon of ſuch Princes as govern cruelly and tyrannically, or who by reaſon of their power, fall into effiminacy and Carnal Pleaſures; referring us to his Comment on that place for the farther Explication of the words. Now there he ſaith, (b) This is not to be underſtood of Perſecuting Powers; for in ſuch Caſes that of the Apoſtle takes place, we muſt obey God rather than Man; but of thoſe Powers which are not a terrour to Good works, but to the evil; and it is a contradiction to the Holineſs, Juſtice, and Goodneſs of God, to ſay that he hath given Princes any Power to oppreſs, rob, ſpoil, murther, or do any injury to their Subjects. They cannot purely upon this account, that they are the Ordinance of God, have any Power or Authority to do evil to them; and ſo reſiſting, i.e. not being ſubject, or obedient to them in any ſuch thing, cannot be that reſiſting of God's Ordinance to which the Penalty is here annexed. Now this is the Non-reſiſtance of which the Greek Commentators ſpeak, even the Non-performance of Subjection and Obedience to their Commands; and ſo the coherence ſeems to require, which ſaith, Let every Soul be ſubject to the higher Powers, for whoſoever doth reſiſt them (by not being ſubject) reſiſteth the Ordinance of God. Moreover, they only are the Ordinance of God, as they are the Miniſters of God, v. 3, 4. now they are only the Miniſters of God for good, for the puniſhment of evil doers, and for the praiſe of them that do well, v. 4. And 3*ly*, the Subjection here required, to which the Reſiſtance is oppoſed, is a Subjection due to them, not only for wrath, but for conſcience ſake; but we cannot be obliged from Conſcience towards God, to be ſubject to them in thoſe things which they have no Authority from God to require, and for refuſal of obedience to which we have God's Authority.

(a) Πολλῆς ζητήσεως ἔσης καὶ ἐπὶ τῶν διὰ τὸ ὠμότερον καὶ τυραννικώτερον ἄρχειν, ἢ διὰ τὸ εἰς τὸ ἄρχειν ἐπὶ τρυφὴν καὶ πυρὸν ἐξωκεῖλαι. L. 8. p. 421.

They

They who interpret this of Violent Reſiſtance by Force of Arms, ſpeak the truth, but not the whole truth, that being not the only Reſiſtance oppoſite to Subjection, and therefore not the only Reſiſtance here forbidden: For, as Dr. Faulkner obſerves, ἀντιτάσσεσθαι, which we tranſlate to reſiſt, includes all practiſing out of a Spirit of Averſneſs, Oppoſition, and Contradiction, and whatſoever is contrary to the ὑποτάσσεσθαι the being ſubject, v. 1. and 5. See Acts 13. 8. 18. 6.

Ἑαυτοῖς κρίμα λήψονται, ſhall receive judgment to themſelves.] i. e. They ſhall be ſentenced, puniſh'd, and condemned for it by the Magiſtrate, who is a terrour to all Evil Works. So the word κρίμα ſignifies in theſe words, feareſt not thou God, ſeeing thou art ἐν τῷ αὐτῷ κρίματι under the ſame Sentence of Condemnation by the Magiſtrate, Luke 23. 40. See Note on Chap. 5. 16. And to this Senſe the Connexion inclines, He ſhall receive Sentence or Puniſhment (from the Rulers) for Rulers are a terrour to evil Works; if therefore thou doeſt evil be afraid, for he beareth not the Sword in vain, but is an Avenger of Wrath. Or, if he eſcape the Hand of the Magiſtrate, he ſhall be puniſhed by that God whoſe Miniſter and Ordinance the Power he reſiſteth is; this follows from the obligation to be ſubject, not only out of Wrath, but alſo from Conſcience towards God; but hence it doth not follow that he muſt be damned, as that imports his being ſentenced by God to Eternal Torments, it follows not from the word κρίμα, ſeeing that, in its literal import, ſignifies Judgment, and no more, and ſometimes is applied to Humane Judgments; nor from the Obligation to be ſubject out of Conſcience, for then all Men muſt be damned who neglect what they, in Conſcience toward God, ſtand bound to do, or do what they in Conſcience are obliged not to do, and then wo be to them who through weakneſs, or prejudice, miſtake their duty, or are ignorant of it, and therefore do neglect it, or tranſgreſs againſt it. Seeing then the Reſiſter of God's Ordinance here is not only the wilful Rebel, but he alſo who is not ſubject and obedient to the Commands of lawful Authority, if the puniſhment of this ſin, without exception, be Eternal Torments, all muſt be ſentenced to them who out of ignorance and weakneſs, miſunderſtanding or prejudice, refuſe in any lawful matter to yield obedience to the Commands of their Superiours, and ſo not only ſins of wilfulneſs, but ſins of ignorance and weakneſs, muſt be damnable.

Now according to this double Notion of Reſiſtance, let it be noted,

1. That the Reſiſtance which conſiſts in Non-ſubjection, or a Refuſal to yield Actual Obedience to the Law of the Superiour, can only be allowed when the Matter of the Law is ſinful, and ſo forbidden by the higheſt Power, not when 'tis judged inexpedient, or unprofitable only, for of that Subjects are not to judge, but the Law-giver only, in that they lawfully may; and therefore, to avoid Scandal, and Puniſhment, and from reſpect to him, who is God's Vicegerent, ought to obey, even as Servants are to obey their froward Maſters, 1 Pet. 2. 18. and Children their Parents in all lawful things, Col. 3. 20. not diſputing their Authority in ſuch matters, and this from Conſcience towards God.

2*ly*, That no Reſiſtance of the higher Powers by force of Arms, or Violence, can be allowed purely on the account of Religion, for if ſo, we could not be obliged to ſuffer wrong in ſuch Caſes from Conſcience towards God, as the Apoſtle ſaith we are, 1 Pet. 2. 19. or from the Example of our Lord, v. 21—24. becauſe the Sufferings which God hath not obliged us to undergo, we cannot undergo from Conſcience towards God.

3*ly*, That no violent Reſiſtance, or no Reſiſtance of the Higher Powers by force, can be allowed to any who have not the Power of the Sword, and who are no Avengers of Wrath; for he that thus uſeth it, plainly takes the Sword without Authority from him to whom belongeth Vengeance, and the Power of Life and Death originally, i. e. God, and ſo without Authority from him to whom this Power of the Sword originally belongs, and therefore by our Saviour's Aphoriſm, deſerves to periſh by it, Matth. 26. 52. Hence therefore it muſt follow,

1. That in abſolute Governments, there is no power of lifting up the Sword againſt the higher Powers, becauſe there is none can claim a ſhare in the Government, and ſo none can have any power of the Sword, or right to be an Avenger of Evil, but the Abſolute Power.

2*ly*, That in mixt Governments, if any Perſons, or States can claim the Power, it muſt be either (1*ſt.*) upon Compact that ſuch Perſons ſhall have this Power to defend their Laws. Or (2*ly*,) by virtue of that Rule of Grotius, That (c) where a People hath conferr'd, not an abſolute Power, but a Government according to Law, they muſt be ſuppoſed to have reſerved to themſelves a Power neceſſary to preſerve their Laws. Or elſe by ſome Act done by the Superiour which is a virtual Abdication, or a Renunciation of his Government; in all which Caſes we can have no direction from the words of the Apoſtle, who in general commands Subjection to the Higher Power, but declares not how far any

(c) Si populus Regem fecerit non pleno jure, ſed additis legibus, poterunt per eas leges contrarij actus irriti fieri aut omninò, aut ex parte, quia eatenus populus jus ſibi ſervavit. De jure Belli & Pacis. L. 14. § 2.

Man is ſo, or when he ceaſeth to be ſo.

Ver. 3. For Rulers (if they act by the Authority of God, and according to Law) cannot be a terrour to Good Works, (i.e. ſuch as the Light of Nature pronounceth good) but to the Evil; wilt thou then not be afraid of the Power (that it will do thee any harm,) do (then) that which is good, and thou ſhalt (rather) have praiſe of the ſame.

Ver. 4. For he is (by his inſtitution) the Miniſter of God to thee for good, (if thou beeſt a doer of what is good,) but if thou doeſt that which is evil (thou haſt cauſe to) be afraid, for he beareth not the Sword (of Juſtice) in vain, for he is the Miniſter of God to execute wrath (Gr. for wrath) on him that doth evil.

Ver. 5. Wherefore ye muſt needs (Gr. ye ought to) be ſubject (to this Miniſter of God,) not only for wrath, but alſo for Conſcience ſake.

Ver. 6. For, for this Cauſe pay ye Tribute alſo (to them) for (that) they are God's Miniſters, attending continually on this very thing (the executing Judgment between Man and Man, to preſerve every Man in his Right, and to puniſh the wrong doer.)

Διὰ τοῦτο γὰρ καὶ φόρους τελεῖτε for this cauſe pay ye tribute alſo.] Hence it appears that paying Tribute to, is an acknowledgment of the Right of Government in him to whom we pay it, it being payable only on this account, becauſe he is the Miniſter of God, and rendred to Cæſar, becauſe it is Cæſar's, i. e. becauſe it doth belong to him as being Ceſar, or the Power God hath ſet over us.

Ver. 7. Render therefore to all their dues, Tribute to whom Tribute is due, Cuſtom to whom Cuſtom, (i. e. all legal impoſitions,) Fear to whom Fear, Honour to whom Honour (is due).

Ἀπόδοτε οὖν πᾶσι τὰς ὀφειλάς, Render therefore to all their dues.] It is obſervable, that all that is ſaid here, and Tit. 3. 1. and 1 Pet. 2. 11, 12. ſeems plainly to relate to thoſe falſe Doctrines and Opinions which had obtained among the Jews, and were deſtructive of all Government, and which all Chriſtians therefore were concerned to ſhew their freedom from, and oppoſition to them, that ſo they might ſtop the mouths of thoſe Heathens, who looking upon Chriſtians as the off-ſpring of the Jews, were apt to charge them with the ſame Principles of oppoſition to all Heathen Governments. Now their Principles were theſe:

1*ſt*, That they, being the People of God, God alone was to be owned as their Lord and Governour, in oppoſition to all Earthly Governours, at leaſt in oppoſition to all Governours which were not of their own Nation, and by him immediately choſen, and ruling by his Laws. See this fully proved Note on 1 Pet. 2. 16.

2*ly*, As a Conſequent of this they refuſed to pay Tribute to Cæſar, crying out to Agrippa, τὸ τέλη ἀναιρεῖν, (d) to take away their Tributes, looking upon them as a ſign of Subjection which they ought not to ſubmit to.

Ver. 8. Owe no Man any thing (which Juſtice obligeth you to render to him) but (be eſpecially concerned) to love one another, (which love, if ye obſerve its Precepts, will preſerve you from doing any evil, or injuſtice to your Brother,) for he that (truly) loveth another, hath fulfilled the whole Law (relating to him).

Τὸν ἕτερον, another.] This being v. 10. τὸν πλησίον, his Neighbour, ſhews that every Man is the Chriſtian's Neighbour.

Ver. 9. For this (that which the Law forbiddeth in theſe words) thou ſhalt not commit Adultery, thou ſhalt not kill, thou ſhalt not ſteal, thou ſhalt not bear falſe witneſs, thou ſhalt not covet, and if there be any other Commandment (of the Law relating to thy Neighbour,) is briefly comprehended in this ſaying, Thou ſhalt love thy Neighbour as thy ſelf, (i. e. with the like love thou beareſt to thy ſelf, though not with love equal to it. See Note on Matth. 22. 39, 40.

Ver. 10. For (he that is acted by) love, worketh no ill to his Neighbour, (which is the thing required in theſe negative Precepts,) therefore Love is the fulfilling of the Law.

Κακὸν οὐκ ἐργάζεται, worketh no evil.] Not that the Law is compleatly fulfill'd by doing no evil to our Neighbour, but becauſe, in Chriſt's interpretation, the neglect of doing any Good we are able, and have opportunity to do for him, is doing evil, Mark 3. 4. Here therefore is a Meioſis, for Charity is alſo kind, 1 Cor. 13. 4. and engageth us by love to ſerve another, Gal. 5. 13, 14.

Πλήρωμα οὖν νόμου ἡ ἀγάπη, love therefore is the fulfilling of the Law.] The Apoſtle plainly here diſcourſeth of the fullfilling of the Law, as it relateth to our Neighbour, but, as Eſtius here notes, Love is alſo the fulfilling of it, as it reſpects our duty to God; for he that loves his Neighbour aright, loves him for God, and in obedience to God, and ſo muſt principally love God; he alſo loves his Neighbour as himſelf. Now no Man truly loves himſelf, who loves not him above all things, who is his chief Good; and in loving whom thus, his happineſs conſiſts. See Matth. 22. 37.

Ver. 11. And that (Gr. this, i. e. Exhortation to obey Authority, and walk in fervent Charity towards all Men, I recommend to you now is very ſeaſonable) knowing the Seaſon that now it is high time (for all) to awake out of ſleep, for now is our Salvation, (or the ſalvation of us Gentiles) nearer than when we (firſt) believed.

Ἐξ ὕπνου ἐγερθῆναι, to awake out of ſleep.] Is a Phraſe importing two things; (1.) The Converſion of Heathens to Chriſtianity, as in that call to them mentioned Eph. 5.14. Wherefore he ſaith, awake thou that ſleepeſt, ariſe from the dead, and Chriſt ſhall give thee life, or ſhine upon thee. 2*ly*, Our care to walk as becometh Converts with true Chriſtian Vigilance, as when the Apoſtle ſaith to the Corinthians, Awake to righteouſneſs, and ſin not, 1 Cor. 15. 34. and to the Theſſalonians thus, Let us not ſleep as do others, 1 Theſſ. 5. 6, 7.

Νῦν γὰρ ἐγγύτερον ἡμῶν σωτηρία, for now is your ſalvation nearer.] i. e. Say ſome, the deliverance of you Chriſtians from the Perſecution of the Jews ſtirring up the Heathens againſt you. And I believe this Paſſage hath a Relation to the deſtruction of the Jewiſh Nation, and the diſſolution of that Church, and of the Worſhip confined to the Temple, but chiefly upon this account, that then was the time when the Salvation of the Gentiles, was to be more fully and glorioufly accompliſhed, that being the time when God would ſhew forth all his wrath upon the unbelieving Jews, the Crucifiers of our Lord, and their Meſſiah, and upon that account the Veſſels of his Wrath, Rom. 9. 22. Hence the Apoſtle exhorteth the believing Jews to conſtancy in the Faith, Foraſmuch as they ſaw this day approaching, Hebr. 10. 25. and they being then, ſaving a little Remnant, entirely rejected, and cut off from being any more the Church of God, the Gentiles were to be more fully called, and owned as the Church of God. The Apoſtle had before diſcourſed of this matter, telling the Romans, that by their rejection and fall, came σωτηρία ſalvation to the Gentiles, Chap. 11. 11. that their fall would be the riches of the world, and the diminiſhing of them the riches of the Gentiles, v. 12. and v. 13, 15. I ſpeak, ſaith he, to you Gentiles, that their rejection will be the reconciling of the World. And of this Salvation of the Gentiles, he ſaith, it is now nearer then when they firſt believed, the time of the utter rejection of the Jews drawing nigh; and therefore he adviſes them, eſpecially now at this Seaſon to give no obſtruction to their Converſion, and lay no obſtacle in their way, by any diſobedience againſt their Superiours, but, by their ſubmiſſion to every Ordinance of Man for the Lords ſake; to put to ſilence all the Objections of ignorant Men againſt them, as Diſturbers of Government; that they would diligently avoid all Works of Darkneſs; that they who ſpoke of them as evil doers, might by their good works which they beheld, be induced to glorifie God in the day of their viſitation, 1 Pet. 2. 12, 14. to avoid all ſtrife and envy, and to walk in love, as being that which rendred them ſo amiable in the eyes of the very Heathen.

Ver. 12. The night (of Heathen ignorance, Acts 17. 31.) is far ſpent, and the day (of Grace and Salvation to them) is at hand, let us therefore caſt off the Works of Darkneſs, and let us put on the Armour of Light.

Ἡ νὺξ προέκοψεν, the night is far ſpent.] Νύκτα καλεῖ τὸν τῆς ἀγνοίας καιρὸν, he calls the night the time of the ignorance of the Gentiles, ſaith Theodoret; and ſo the day muſt be the appearance of the Goſpel Light to them: And this is very ſutable to the Language of the Holy Scripture, which ſpeaketh of the Gentiles thus, Ye were ſometimes darkneſs, but now are ye light in the Lord, Eph. 5.8. and as Men darkned and blinded in their minds, Eph. 4.18. and whoſe fooliſh hearts were darkned, Rom. 1. 20. In the Old Teſtament they are ſtill repreſented as Men who ſat in darkneſs, and in the ſhadow of death, Iſa. 9. 1. and when Chriſt was ſent to be a Light to the Gentiles, he is ſaid to be ſent to give light to them that ſat in darkneſs, Luke 1. 78, 79. And when St. Paul was ſent to Convert them, he is ſaid to be ſent to turn them from darkneſs to light, Acts 26. 18. And when St. Peter mentions their Converſion, he tells them, God had called them from darkneſs, into his marvellous light, 1 Pet. 2. 9.

Ἡ δὲ ἡμέρα ἤγγικεν, and the day is at hand.] i. e. The Day of Salvation, 2 Cor. 6. 2. whence they to whom this Salvation was come by the receiving this Goſpel Light, are ſaid to be τῆς ἡμέρας, men of the day, and υἱοὶ τῆς ἡμέρας, Children of the day, 1 Theſſ. 5.5,8. and bid here to walk honeſtly as in the day.

Ver. 13. Let us walk honeſtly as in the day, not in rioting and drunkenneſs, not in chambering and wantonneſs, (1 Pet. 4. 3.) not in ſtrife and envying, (things inconſiſtent with the Chriſtian Charity, which is the Glory of their Profeſſion).

Εὐσχημόνως, honeſtly.] Decently, honourably, as becometh Chriſtians both towards our Governours, having our Converſation καλὴν honourable, and decorous among the Gentiles, that they beholding our good Works may glorifie God, that is, may own him whom the Chriſtians worſhip as a Good, and holy God, and ſo be gained to the Faith.

Κοίταις καὶ ἀσελγείαις, in chambering and wantonneſs.] Κοίτας δὲ γυναικῶν ἐπιθυμίας, ἀσελγῆς δὲ τὰς ἀφροδισιακὰς ἐπὶ τῷ θηλυκῷ εἴδει. Heſych. Phavor.

Ver. 14. But put you on the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and make no proviſion for the Fleſh, to fulfil the Luſts thereof.

Ἐνδύσασθε τὸν Χριστὸν, put ye on the Lord Jeſus Chriſt.] i. e. Be conform to his Doctrine and Holy Life. So Chryſoſtom ſaith it was a common Phraſe, ὁ δεῖνα τὸν δεῖνα ἐνδέδυται, ſuch a one hath put on ſuch a one; that is, he is an imitator of him; ſo to put on the New Man, is to walk as New Men, in newneſs of Life and Converſation; Eph. 4. 24. In holineſs and righteouſneſs, after the Image of him that hath created us anew, Col. 3. 10.

CHAP. XIV.

Verſe 1. (NOW to prevent theſe ſtriſes and envyings) Him that is weak in faith, (and ſo not rightly grounded in it) receive ye (into Chriſtian Communion) but not to doubtful Diſputations (not reſpecting the difference in their thoughts and reaſonings from yours).

Μὴ εἰς διακρίσεις διαλογισμῶν, not to doubtful diſputations.] Not diſcriminating them by their inward Thoughts or Reaſonings, or rejecting any from Communion upon that account, becauſe they are weak in Judgment; this ſenſe the Antitheſis ſeems to require; and this ſenſe will be confirmed from our Note on v. 23. and from a like paſſage of St. James, If you ſay to the Man in gay clothing, ſit thou here honourably, and to the poor, ſtand thou there, or ſit down at my foot-ſtool, ὐ διακρίθητε ἐν ἑαυτοῖς, do you not put a difference, or a diſcrimination among your ſelves, and are become Judges διαλογισμῶν πονηρῶν of evil reaſonings.

Ver. 2. For (ſuch difference of Conceptions there is among the Jewiſh, and the Gentile Chriſtians, that) one (i. e. the Gentile Chriſtian,) believeth he may eat all things, another who is weak, (Gr. but the weak, i. e. the Jewiſh Convert, who is miſtaken in, and doth not rightly underſtand his Chriſtian liberty, abſtaineth from all meats, as fearing they may pollute him, and ſo) eateth (only) Herbs.

Ὁ δὲ ἀδυνατῶν, but the weak.] I have obſerved, Note on Chap. 5, 6. and on 1 Cor. 8. 13. that the weak Perſon is not the Man of a doubting Conſcience about a thing indifferent, but of an erronious Conſcience about a thing unlawful; this is plain 1 Cor. 8. 7. from theſe words, Some with Conſcience of the Idol to this hour, eat it as a thing offered to an Idol, and their Conſcience being weak is defiled. Now to eat with conſcience of the Idol, muſt be to eat from an erronious Conſcience; and the thing is as plain here from v. 14. which ſhews that the weak Perſon eſteemeth that unclean which in it ſelf was not ſo, and therefore acted from an erronious Conſcience. I have obſerved there alſo, that ὁ ἀδυνατῶν the weak, and ἀδυνατεῖν to be weak, and to be made weak, is to fall and ſtumble, or to be made to fall and ſtumble; and here it alſo ſignifies one that ſtumbleth at ſome Doctrine of Chriſtianity, viz. at that of Chriſtian Liberty from Jewiſh obſervances, and who is ſcandalized at, or made to fall by the uſe of that liberty by others, as is evident alſo from theſe words, v. 21. It is good not to eat fleſh, nor to drink wine, nor to do any other thing whereby thy Brother ſtumbleth, or is offended, or is made weak. And v. 13. Let us not therefore judge one another any more, but judge this therefore, that no man put a ſtumbling block, or an occaſion to fall (Gr. a ſcandal) in his Brother's way.

Λάχανα ἐσθίει, eateth herbs.] Why Herbs only? St. Chryſoſtom thinks it was διὰ τὸ μὴ φανερὰν εἶναι τὴν ἔκλυσιν, that it might not appear whether they did it out of obſervance of the Jewiſh Law, or only out of Temperance; but that the Apoſtle contradicts by ſaying not that he did this being cautious, but that he did it being weak; and v. 14. that he did it eſteeming that which he abſtained from as unclean; and this is ſuppoſed as a thing evident throughout this Chapter, that he abſtained out of Conſcience of eating that which he eſteemed unlawful. Others ſay the word λάχανα Herbs, is taken ſynecdochically for all ſorts of meat allowed by the Law; but then they ought in reaſon to ſhew us ſome example, or inſtance where the word λάχανα is uſed in this ſenſe. Let it be therefore noted, (1*ſt*.) That the Eſſens among the Jews (a) abſtained from all fleſh, uſing as victuals, with great delight, green Herbs, and the fruits of Trees; and this they did, as judging Fleſh μὴ κατὰ φύσιν not to be natural Food, as there it follows. (b) Philo ſaith they had τράπεζαν καθαρὰν ἀπὸ ἐναίμων, a Table pure from any thing that has blood in it, as being an incentive to Concupiſcence, and did eat only Bread, and Salt and Hyſſop. See Note on Coloſſ. 2. 21. here then is one inſtance of them, who being weak, did eat Herbs. Moreover, Joſephus ſaith of ſome Prieſts of his acquaintance, ſent bound to Rome from Judea, for ſome little Crime, that they were good Men, (c) who in their afflictions forgat not their Piety to God

nouriſhing themſelves there with Figs and Nuts, yea their Superſtition would not permit them to uſe (d) the Oil of Heathens, as being not clean, and ſo ſuch as they, could not uſe the Meats of Gentiles, much leſs things offered to Idols, as ſometimes all the Meat ſold in the Shambles was, without tranſgreſſing their own Inſtitutions and Traditions. They therefore might eat Herbs, either that they might avoid eating things ſold in the Shambles, which had been offered to Idols, and which were therefore deemed κοινὰ common, or unclean, by the whole (e) Jewiſh Nation; or to avoid the eating things which they eſteemed polluted by the Gentiles, as the Jewiſh Prieſts mentioned by Joſephus, did. Moreover, the Perſon who believeth all things here, is ſo like the Perſon who ſaith all things are lawful for me, 1 Cor. 10. 23. where the Apoſtle is ſpeaking of things offered to Idols, and the Arguments, many of them, are ſo apparently in ſenſe the ſame here, and 1 Cor. 8. and Chap. 10. that I can ſee no reaſon wholly to exclude this ſenſe; or to ſay the Apoſtle doth not at all intend to ſpeak here of things ſo offenſive to the Jew, that in the other Epiſtle he concludes his diſcourſe upon that Subject with theſe words, Give no Offence to Jew or Gentile; for what ſtrength is there in this Argument. He cautions them there againſt things highly offenſive, both to Jew or Gentile, i. e. the eating things offered to Idols in the Idol Temple; therefore he cannot here ſpeak of things ſo offenſive to the Jew only, as is eating of things offered to Idols when ſold in the Shambles. Does he not plainly declare in this very caſe againſt theſe Canons of the Jews, that he was perſwaded by the Lord Jeſus that there was nothing common of it ſelf, bnt only unto him that ſo eſteemed it, v. 14. and therefore allow, and even adviſe all Chriſtians, whatſoever was ſold in the Shambles, or ſet before them at a common Table to eat it, asking no queſtion for conſcience ſake, 1 Cor. 10. 25, 27. Why therefore is it ſaid, He cannot ſpeak here of things ſo offenſive to the Jew?

Ver. 3. Let not him that (ſutably to this belief) eateth (all kinds of meat,) deſpiſe him that (thorow weakneſs) eateth not (of any,) and let not him that eateth not, judge (and condemn) him that eateth (as unclean, for not obſerving theſe diſtinctions between meats clean, and unclean by the Law, or according to their Traditions, by being offered to Idols, or polluted by the unclean) for God hath received him.

Ὁ Θεὸς γὰρ αὐτὸν προσελάβετο, for God hath received him.] This is St. Peter's Argument, Acts 15. 9. God put no difference betwixt us Jews, and them, purifying their hearts by faith, and ſo making them clean in his ſight, though they were not circumciſed, nor abſtained from thoſe Meats we count unclean, he therefore received them without requiring this of them, and therefore ſo ſhould we. Note here, that though God teſtified his reception of them by a viſible and miraculous diſpenſation of the Gift of Songs and Prophecy, yet doth not the Apoſtle ſay, God hath thus teſtified his reception of them, but only he hath received them, i. e. into Communion with him, viz. by giving them that ſpirit which is the medium of our Union to, and Communion with him. Note alſo, that theſe words prove againſt Eſtius, that the Apoſtle here ſpeaks not of the Jew, but of the Gentiles, whom the Jews always deemed unclean, till they became Proſelytes to their Law, and ſo obliged to obſerve theſe differences between Meats. See Note on 1 Cor. 7. 14. and therefore thought God would not receive them, whilſt they did not obſerve this Law. Moreover, when the Apoſtle ſaith, v. 2. another believeth that he may eat all things, Is this other the Jew? Then the ſtrong Jew believed not only that he might eat Swines Fleſh, but even things offered to Idols, which yet Eſtius denies, v. 1. the reaſon is, becauſe both theſe muſt be included in quibuſlibet cibis, all kinds of meat. But if it be the Gentile, as is far more probable, then the Apoſtle ſpeaks here of the Gentiles. Again, when the ſame Apoſtle ſaith, another eſteemeth every day alike, does he mean the Jew? did the Jew think the obligation to obſerve the Sabbath was aboliſhed? And if he meant the Gentile, the Apoſtle muſt here ſpeak of them. But, ſaith Eſtius, this Doctrine could not extend to the Gentile, to whom it was not lawful to comply with the legal obſervances, no not for the ſake of the infirm Jews. To this I anſwer, 1ſt, That the Apoſtle ſays nothing in this whole Chapter which doth oblige him ſo to do, but only not to judge, not to exclude from Communion thoſe Jews that did ſo, and not to eat of thoſe Meats, when that would miniſter ſcandal to the Jew; and doth he not preſcribe the ſame Rule to the Gentile in the Caſe of Scandal, in theſe words, But if any man ſay unto thee, this is offered to Idols, eat not for his ſake that ſhewed it, and for conſcience ſake, 1 Cor. 10. 28. 2ly, St. Paul, who had the ſame perſwaſion that the Law was not binding to him, as any Gentile could have, yet to the Jew became as a Jew, that he might gain the Jew; why therefore might he not permit the ſtrong Gentile ſo to do, eſpecially when this was not done out of reſpect to the Law of Moſes, but purely to the higher law of Charity.

Ver. 4.

Ver. 4. (Since therefore God hath received, and owned him as his Servant,) who art thou that judgeſt another Man's Servant? to (God) his own Maſter, he ſtandeth, or falleth, (and by him only he is to be judged, he is, at preſent weak indeed) yet he ſhall be holden up (σταθήσεται δέ, but he ſhall be eſtabliſhed,) for God is able to make him ſtand (δυνατὸς γάρ ἐστιν ὁ Θεὸς στῆσαι αὐτὸν, to eſtabliſh him).

Σταθήσεται δέ, he ſhall be ſtabliſhed.] The Apoſtle ſeems plainly here to ſpeak of the weak Jew, who through the Errour of his Judgment, might be apt to ſtumble at the Liberty which the ſtrong Chriſtian uſed, and which the Chriſtian Doctrine taught that Chriſt had purchaſed for him alſo, as thinking both himſelf, and others, obliged to obſerve the Law of Moſes, and of him he ſaith he is now indeed weak, but he ſhall be eſtabliſhed, i. e. the time will come when by the deſtruction of the Jewiſh Temple, to which their Service was annexed, and in which alone a great part of their Ceremonial Worſhip was to be performed, they ſhould be better ſatisfied of the ceſſation of their obligation to obſerve thoſe Precepts. Thus alſo he ſaith, Philip. 3. 5. As many as are τέλειοι fully inſtructed in their Chriſtian Liberty, let them mind this thing, viz. that it is only the Circumciſion of the Spirit that God now regardeth, v. 3. and if any one be otherwiſe minded, God ſhall reveal even this unto you; i. e. he will in his due time convince you of this truth. See the Note there. Note alſo that the Effuſion of the Spirit on the Jews, though circumciſed, and zealous for the obſervation of the Law, was an Argument that God alſo had received the believing Jew to his favour, notwithſtanding his weakneſs of Judgment in thoſe Matters.

Δυνατὸς γάρ ἐστιν ὁ Θεὸς στῆσαι αὐτὸν, for God is able to make him ſtand.] The Apoſtle elſewhere argues from God's Power to his Will; ſo Chap. 11. 23. If they abide not in unbelief, they ſhall be graffed in, for God is able to graff them in again. Chap. 16. 25. To him that is able to confirm you. 2 Cor. 9. 6, 8. He that ſoweth liberally ſhall reap liberally; for God is able to make all Grace abound toward you. Hebr. 2. 18. He is able to ſuccour them that are tempted. And this Argument is always good, where we put no obſtruction to his Will by rendring our ſelves unworthy of his Illuminations and his Favours; he being otherwiſe always as ready as he is able to do what he ſees needful, and truly conducing to our Spiritual Good.

Σὺ τίς εἶ ὁ κρίνων ἀλλότριον οἰκέτην, who art thou that judgeſt another mans ſervant?] Some interpret theſe words thus, We are not to judge another man's Servant for doing what his own Maſter alloweth, or permitteth: but this is adding to the Text; for the Apoſtle doth not ſay, who art thou that judgeſt another Man's Servant wrongfully, or condemns in him what God allows; nay, he plainly ſuppoſeth him weak, and erronious, and yet allows not any condemning, and rejecting him, and excluding him, ſaith Dr. Hammond, out of the Church, becauſe God hath received him to be his Servant.

Ver. 5. One Man eſteemeth one day above another, (i. e. as more fit to do God ſervice in, as being ſet apart by him for that end) another eſteemeth every day (alike fit for that purpoſe) let every Man be fully perſwaded in his own mind, (or act with fulneſs of perſwaſion that he doth what is lawful).

Ἕκαστος ἐν τῷ ἰδίῳ νοὶ πληροφορείσθω, let every one be fully perſwaded in his own mind.] The Greek and Latin Fathers give this ſenſe of theſe words, in Matters of this Nature touching the obſervation of a day to the Lord, or not, the abſtaining from Meats, or not, let every Man abound in his own ſenſe, i. e. let there be no condemning, no excluding any Man on the account of ſuch different Sentments; and this ſenſe is very agreeable to the Context, if the word πληροφορέω will bear it, of which ſure the Greek Interpreters muſt be ſufficient Judges, eſpecially when Phavorinus ſaith that πληροφόρησον is the ſame with πλήρωσον, fulfil, as in that of the Apoſtle, τὴν διακονίαν σου πληροφόρησον, fulfil the Miniſtry, 2 Tim. 4. 5. and when this ſenſe accords ſo well with the Hebrew Proverb, איש ימלא את לבו Let a Man fulfil his heart, or do his pleaſure.

They who render the words, as we do, Let every Man be fully perſwaded in his own Mind, as the word πληροφορία doth import, Col. 2. 2. Hebr. 6. 9. 10. 22. 1 Theſſ. 1. 5. and the Verb πληροφορία, Luke 1. 1. Rom. 4. 21. either refer it to the preceding words thus, Let every Man content himſelf with this, that he is fully perſwaded he doth as he ought, and not ſearch into the Actions or Judgments of other Men about theſe Matters, to condemn you for them; and this alſo is a ſenſe againſt which I know no exception, and is made probable from v. 14, 21, 22. or elſe give the ſenſe thus, Let a Man have that perſwaſion of the lawfulneſs of what he doth, or abſtains from, as will preſerve him from ſinning againſt Conſcience in it.

Ver. 6. (And to engage you to maintain friendſhip and communion without cenſuring and condemning one another for theſe Matters, conſider that) He that regardeth a day, regardeth it to the Lord, (or out of Conſcience towards him,) and he that regardeth not the day, to the Lord he doth not regard it, i. e. becauſe his Lord hath freed him from any obligation ſo to do). He that eateth (freely of all kind of Meats) eateth to the Lord, (or to his glory,) for he giveth God thanks (for his liberty thus to eat,) and he that eateth not (ſc.) to the Lord he eateth not, and giveth God thanks (even for thoſe Herbs he eateth, or that he hath provided for him other food.)

Κυρίῳ, to the Lord.] If the Lord here ſignifies the Lord Chriſt, as we may gather from v. 7, 8, 9. 'tis evident from the reaſon following, For he giveth God thanks, that Chriſt is God. If it ſignifie God the Father, yet the following Verſes, which apply it to Chriſt, make it plain that the Argument is good from God the Father to our Lord Chriſt, and again from Chriſt, v. 10. to God the Father, v. 11. and conſequently that they muſt equally be God.

Here we are told, That 'no Man can be ſaid to do any thing to the Lord, or out of Conſcience towards God in ſuch Caſes wherein God has not interpoſed his Authority, nor is any Man in Scripture ſaid to do any thing to the Lord, who cannot produce a plain Law for what he does; but when both contending Parties can produce a Divine Authority for doing, or not doing the ſame thing, (i.e. a Law forbidding, and yet commanding the ſame thing,) there is great reaſon for them to receive one another, becauſe they both act out of Reverence to the Divine Authority. But this Aſſertion may be evidently diſproved,

1. From the Example of St. Paul, who ſerved God from his Fore-fathers with a pure Conſcience, 2 Tim. 1. 3. and convers'd before God in all good Conſcience, Acts 23. 1. and was zealous for God, even when he perſecuted Chriſtians to the death, Acts 22. 3, 4. and thought himſelf bound in Conſcience to do many things againſt the name of Jeſus, Acts 26. 9. He therefore, if he may be believed, did theſe things out of Conſcience towards God, wherein God had not interpoſed his Authority.

2*ly*, This alſo is evident from the Inſtances related in this Verſe; for a Law cancelled and diſanulled by God himſelf, hath no Divine Authority; and he who only produceth ſuch a Law, is ſo far from producing a plain Law for what he doth, that he produceth none at all, nor doth he act out of Reverence to the Divine Authority, but only with reſpect to his own erronious Conceptions of a Divine Authority, when there is no ſuch thing; nor can he produce any Divine Authority for what he doth. Oh! but God had once interpoſed his Authority in this caſe, and the Jews could not be ſatisfied that this Authority was repealed. I anſwer, And ſo it is with all the unbelieving Jews unto this very day, who ſtill obſerve the Law of Moſes, as far as under their preſent Circumſtances they can, as believing it was given them for an everlaſting Covenant; and ſo being unſatisfied that the Authority of it is repealed, ſo far is it from being true that this Caſe hath no parallel; 'tis therefore evident, that in this ſenſe it cannot be ſaid, he that regardeth a day enjoyned by the Law of Moſes, regardeth it to the Lord; and he that eateth not, to the Lord he eateth not; for the Apoſtle in this very Chapter, declareth himſelf perſwaded by the Faith of the Lord Jeſus, that there was nothing now unclean of it ſelf, but only through the miſtaken eſtimation of the Jew, v. 14. and elſewhere, that the Jewiſh Feaſts, New-Moons, and Sabbaths, were only ſhadows of good things to come, and that Chriſt was the Body, or the Subſtance of them, Col. 2. 17. and that there was made ἀθέτησις, a diſannulling of the former Command, by reaſon of the weakneſs and unprofitableneſs of it, Hebr. 7. 18. It could be therefore nothing but Prejudice and Errour which made the Jew conceive he obſerved thoſe days, and abſtained from thoſe Meals by a Divine Authority, or that he could produce ſuch an Authority for ſo doing; he therefore muſt be ſaid to do this to the Lord, and out of Conſcience towards God, becauſe he, through the weakneſs and errour of his Judgment, thought the Law of Moſes obliged him ſtill in Conſcience to the obſervance of theſe things. Now this is ſo far from being an unparallel'd Caſe, that it is the very Caſe of the Romaniſts uſing ſtill the anointing of the ſick; of the Anabaptiſts dipping them who are baptized; of the Greek Church refuſing to eat things ſtrangled, and blood, out of Reverence to the Apoſtolical Injunction; of the Diſſenters uſing Prayer by the Spirit, or conceived Prayer, out of Reverence to the Command to pray in the Holy Ghoſt, and abſtaining from Communion with that Church which obſerves no Church Diſcipline, out of reſpect to the Command to purge the Evil from among us; for all this is done by them out of a miſtaken Reverence to a Divine Authority which they conceive obliging to them. But then the Greek Expoſitors here note, that this Indulgence to Men of an erronious Conſcience, is not to be extended to Doctrines of Faith, and Matters of great moment, but only (g) to Caſes of Meat, and Faſting, and the like; and that it is eſpecially to be granted to thoſe who are infirm, and want indulgence.

Ver. 7. For none of us (who are Chriſtians) liveth to himſelf, (but to him that died for him and roſe again, 2 Cor. 5. 16.) and none of us (dying) dyeth to himſelf, (ſo as to be exempted from the power and juriſdiction of the Lord, whoſe ſervants we are.)

Οὐδεὶς γὰρ ἡμῶν ἑαυτῷ ζῇ, for none of us liveth to himſelf.] This I conceive to be a reaſon, not of that which is contained in the 6th

verſe, but of what was delivered v. 4. viz. that Chriſt was our Maſter, and we his Servants, and therefore by judging one another for theſe things, they took upon them to judge another Man's Servant. For (1ſt.) in the next Verſe the Apoſtle re-aſſumes this Matter, enquiring who art thou that judgeſt thy Brother? And (2ly.) theſe words are a plain proof of this, that we are his Servants to whom we live, and to whom we muſt give an account of our Actions, and who is Lord both of the dead and of the living; but they ſeem not ſo applicable to what is delivered v. 6. or to give a clear reaſon why he that abſtains from Swines-fleſh, or that religiouſly obſerves a Jewiſh Feſtival, doth this unto the Lord Chriſt, who came to take away, not to enforce the obligation of thoſe things.

Ver. 8. For whether we live, we (Chriſtians, if we act ſutably to our duty, and our obligations,) live unto the Lord, (under his dominion, and under the government of his Laws,) or whether we dye, we dye, (and dying, are ſtill ſubject) to the Lord, whether therefore we live or dye, we are the Lords.

Ver. 9. For to this end Chriſt both died and roſe again, that he might be Lord both of the dead, and of the living.

Ἵνα κυριεύσῃ, that he might be Lord.] He by his Reſurrection being conſtituted Lord of all things, and having all power both in heaven and earth conferr'd upon him, muſt have power over all, we being all his Servants, and ſo obliged not to live unto our ſelves, but unto him that died for us, and roſe again, 2 Cor. 5. 16. He being alſo the Rewarder of all thoſe that ſerve him faithfully, he muſt be Lord over the dead, ſo as to be able to bring them to life again, that they may receive the promiſed reward.

Ver. 10. But why (why then) doeſt thou judge thy Brother, or why doeſt thou ſet at nought thy Brother, (as if he were thy Servant, and thou his Maſter, and his Judge, ſeeing) we ſhall all ſtand before the Judgment-Seat of Chriſt, (and from him, who is our Lord and Maſter, ſhall receive the Sentence according to our works.)

Ver. 11. For it is written (Iſaiah 54. 23.) as I live ſaith the Lord, every Knee ſhall bow to me, and every Tongue ſhall confeſs to God.

Ver. 12. So then every one of us ſhall give an account of himſelf (and of his behaviour in theſe matters) to God, (and it becomes not us to antidate his judgment).

Περὶ ἑαυτοῦ λόγον δώσει τῷ Θεῷ, ſhall give an account of himſelf to God.] Here Oecumenius notes that it is ſaid of God the Father, that he judgeth no Man, but hath committed all Judgment to his Son, John 5. 22. and therefore what the Apoſtle here ſaith, viz. Every Man ſhall confeſs to God, and bow the Knee to me, v. 11. and give an account of himſelf to God, v. 12. is manifeſtly ſpoken of Chriſt as Judge, ἄρα Θεὸς ὁ Χριστὸς, and therefore Chriſt is God. And this Argument was uſed before the Nicence Council by (h) Novatian and others.

It is a wonder that Socinus ſhould deny that the Apoſtle ſays that every knee ſhall bow to Chriſt, when citing the ſame place, Philip. 2. 10, 11. the Apoſtle ſo expreſly declares, that at the Name of Jeſus every knee ſhould bow, and every Tongue confeſs that Jeſus is the Lord; and here from this place proves that Chriſt is Lord both of the dead and of the living, before whoſe Tribunal they muſt all ſtand, and ſo muſt own his Power and Authority over them, which is the thing expreſſed metaphorically by bending of the Knee, and the confeſſion of the Tongue. And if theſe words, which the Prophet certainly ſpake of Jehovah, the God of the Jews, be well applied by the Apoſtle to Chriſt, Chriſt muſt be alſo the Perſon intended by them; for how could the Apoſtle prove that every Knee muſt bow to Chriſt, from the words of God ſaying, to me every knee ſhall bow, if Chriſt were in his whole Nature and Eſſence as different from that God, who ſpake thoſe words of himſelf, as is a Creature from his great Creator. (i) Crellius here ſaith St. Paul accommodates this paſſage to Chriſt, not that he is God, but that what is contained in it, ſhall be Chriſt, as ſubordinate to God, be exhibited and performed to God himſelf. But this Subterfuge is confuted by the words of the Apoſtle, who ſaith expreſly Philip. 2. 10, 11. That to the Name of Jeſus every knee ſhould bow, and every Tongue confeſs that Jeſus is the Lord, and ſo declares theſe words are fulfilled by the honour exhibited, not to God the Father, but to our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and ſeeing he is Lord over the dead, by the power by which he is able to ſubdue all things to himſelf, Philip. 3. 21. which doubtleſs is the power of God; and ſeeing, having raiſed all Men, he will bring to light the hidden things which they have done, and manifeſt the counſels of their hearts, 1 Cor. 4. 5. and ſo muſt be Omniſcient, and have the knowledge of the Secrets of the Heart; and 'tis the property of God alone to raiſe the dead by his own power, and be the ſearcher of all Hearts: Theſe Properties aſcribed to Chriſt, and elſewhere, muſt ſhew that he is truly God. See the Note on Philip. 2. 10.

(h) Neque enim ſi non & Deus eſſet, omne ſe nomine ejus Genuflecteret. Novat. c. 17. Vide Epiſt. Polycarp. § 6.

(i) Non quod Chriſtus ſit ipſe Deus, ſed quia id quod in hoc teſtimonio continetur, per Chriſtum tanquam Deo ſubordinatum Deo præſtari & exhiberi debeat.

Ver. 13. Let us not therefore (take upon us to) judge one another any more, but let us judge this rather, that no Man (ought to) put a ſtumbling block, or an occaſion to fall (from the faith) in his Brother's way.

Μὴ πρόσκομμα ἐξιόνωμα, not to put a ſtumbling block.] Is, not to cauſe our Brother to ſtumble at the Chriſtian Faith, and fall off from it, or to periſh; for what is here, do not put a ſtumbling block (by thy Meat) in thy Brothers way, is v. 15. deſtroy not him with thy Meat for whom Chriſt died; and to eat, ἵνα ἐξιόνωμαι, ſo as to put this ſtumbling block before him, is for meat to deſtroy the work of God. And that in this ſenſe the phraſe is ſtill uſed in the Epiſtles, ſee Note on 1 Cor. 8. 9. only let it be noted, that where there is the ſame danger of deſtroying my Brother, or diſſolving the work of God, be it not by Infidelity, but Schiſm, or Idolatry, or looſe Living, there is the ſame reaſon and obligation not to put a ſtumbling block, or an occaſion to fall in our Brother's way: For the reaſon why the Apoſtle would not have us put this ſtumbling block, which makes our Brother fall from the Faith, in his way, is this, becauſe he would not have us be inſtrumental to his periſhing, to deſtroy him for whom Chriſt died. He therefore muſt equally forbid the doing any other thing which may be left undone without ſin; and being done, hath a like tendence to cauſe my weak Brother to periſh.

Ver. 14. I know and am perſwaded by (the faith of) the Lord Jeſus, that there is nothing unclean of it ſelf, but (notwithſtanding this,) to him that eſteemeth any thing unclean, to him (as to the uſe of it) it is unclean.

Τῷ λογιζομένῳ τι κοινὸν, to him that eſteemeth any thing unclean, &c.] Here is a plain demonſtration that the Perſon here mentioned as weak in Faith, was alſo weak in Underſtanding, i. e. one who underſtood not that Meat to be free from uncleanneſs, which indeed was ſo; and that he was therefore weak in the Faith, becauſe he was ſo in his Underſtanding, and ſo alſo is it plainly 1 Cor. 8. 7, 10. 'Tis therefore without ground affirmed, That theſe two ſorts of weak Perſons muſt be uſed very differently; you muſt have a care of offending thoſe who are weak in Faith, but you muſt inſtruct and govern thoſe who are weak in Underſtanding.

2. Here alſo is a plain Evidence that the weak Jew had no juſt matter of offence given him by the Gentiles eating, that they did not take offence at the open violation of any expreſs Law of God by the Gentiles eating, nor were they thus weak out of Reverence to an expreſs poſitive Law, which all Men agreed was given by God to them, at whoſe eating they were ſcandalized. To make this very clear, conſider that the weakneſs of the Jews conſiſted in two things:

1. That they were not convinced that the Law of Moſes was out of date, and therefore durſt not do any thing which was forbidden by that Law, nor omit doing what the Law commanded; and as to this, it is true, that they were weak out of Reverence to an expreſs poſitive Law, which, through the weakneſs of their Underſtanding, they thought to be ſtill binding; but the Apoſtle here declares to be by Chriſt taken away.

2. That they could not endure to ſee others do what they themſelves durſt not do; i. e. they could not endure to ſee the Gentile Converts eat thoſe Meats which the Law of Moſes forbad the Jews to eat: Now here, I ſay, they were not weak out of Reverence to any expreſs poſitive Law; nor could they take offence at the open violation of any expreſs Law of God, for there was no ſuch Law given to the Gentiles, to abſtain from ſuch Meats as unclean, nor to the Gentile Converts to Chriſtianity to obſerve any ſuch Law; they therefore by eating of theſe Meats, did violate no Law given by God to them, and ſo the Jews could take no offence at their violation of any ſuch Law. And ſo much ſtronger is the caſe of eating things offered to Idols, in which yet the Apoſtle doth require this abſtinence, with regard to the Conſcience of the weak Jew, 1 Cor. 8. 7, 10. and Chap. 10. 28, 29. For the eating of things offered to Idols, (unleſs it were done in the Idol Temples, the place appointed for his Worſhip) was againſt no Law of God, but only againſt the Canons of the Jews; and ſo here the Jews could not be thus offended with that action, out of reverence to any Law which God had made againſt it, but only from the Jewiſh Canons, and Interpretations of the Law touching abſtaining from Idolatry; the imagination of the Jew, that ſuch Meats bought in the Shambles, or ſet before Chriſtians at a friendly Entertainment, were unlawful, was a vain imagination, and ſo they had only an imaginary Law which occaſioned their offence. Nor doth the Apoſtolical Canon concern any other Meats offered to Idols, than thoſe which were eaten in the Idol Temple; for ſure the Apoſtle, who was a part of that Council, would not here freely allow what the whole College of Apoſtles thought it neceſſary, even for the Gentile Converts to abſtain from. This Scandal therfore of the weak Jews, was plainly Scandalum acceptum non datum, received, but not given; for they had no reaſon at all to believe that the Law of Moſes was ever given to, or was in force among the Gentiles, and much leſs that their Jewiſh Canons could be ſo.

Ver. 15. But (though nothing be unclean of it ſelf, yet) if thy Brother be grieved (i. e. ſcandalized) with thy Meat, now walkeſt thou not charitably, (in eating it to his offence and ruine, wherefore) deſtroy not him with thy Meat for whom Chriſt died.

Ἐὰν λυπεῖται, if thy Brother be grieved.] The Greek imports ſuch Sorrow as puts a Man in danger of his Life, and therefore is the metaphorical ſenſe ſuch Sorrow as endangereth his Chriſtian Life. So Job 31. 39. If I have cauſed the owners thereof to loſe their life, εἰ ψυχὴν ἐλύπησα, if I have grieved his ſoul, ſaith the Seventy; חפחתי If I have cauſed his life to expire, or break out. See Dr. Hammond on the place.

Note alſo here, that the Apoſtle plainly doth ſuppoſe that he for whom Chriſt died, might periſh. See the Note on 1 Cor. 8. 11.

Ver. 16. Let not then (any thing be done by you whereby) your good (i. e. your Chriſtian Calling) may be evil ſpoken of, (Gr. blaſphemed by them who are thus offended at this uſe of your Chriſtian liberty.)

Ἀγαθὸν, your good.] Τὸν πίστιν καλεῖ, he calleth our faith our good, ſaith all the Greek Commentators, and that very appoſitely; for the Jews blaſphemed, and fell off from Chriſtianity upon this account.

Ver. 17. For the Kingdom of God is not (a thing which conſiſts in) Meat and Drink, but in Righteouſneſs, and Peace, and Joy in the Holy Ghoſt.

Ver. 18. For he that in theſe things ſerveth Chriſt, is both acceptable to God, and approved of Men.

Καὶ χαρὰ ἐν πνεύματι ἁγίῳ, And joy in the Holy Ghoſt.] This cannot here ſignifie delight to do Good, or rejoycing in Unanimity, for the Phraſe hath no ſuch ſenſe in Scripture, but always ſignifies an inward Joy ariſing from the Conſolations of the Holy Ghoſt; as when the Apoſtle ſaith the Theſſalonians received the Word with much affliction, and with joy in the Holy Ghoſt, Theſſal. 1. 6. And when St. Luke informs us the Churches had peace, and walking in the Comfort of the Holy Ghoſt, were multiplied, Acts 9. 31.

Ver. 19. Let us therefore follow after thoſe things which make for (the) peace (of the Church,) and whereby we may edifie, (and build up) one another (in Chriſtian love and union into one ſpiritual Temple in the Lord.)

Ver. 20. For Meat deſtroy not thou the Work of God, (i. e. the Chriſtian Convert, 1 Cor. 3. 9. for though) all things indeed are pure, but (yet) it is evil for that Man who eateth with offence (to do ſo).

21. It is good neither to eat fleſh, nor (to do) any (other) thing (from which thou mayeſt abſtain,) whereby thy Brother ſtumbleth, or is offended, or made weak.

Προσκόπτει, ἢ σκανδαλίζεται, ἢ ἀσθενεῖ, ſtumbleth, or is offended, or is made weak.] I have ſhewed what it is to be made weak, Note on v. 1. what to ſtumble, Note on v. 13. to offend or ſcandalize a weak Brother, is alſo to be an occaſion of his ruine, by cauſing him to fall off from the Faith, or to be prejudiced againſt it, as will appear from a brief view of the chief places where the phraſe is uſed. So Matth. 5. 29, 30. If thy right eye, or hand, σκανδαλίζει σε, offends ye, i. e. if it leads thee to Hell, and to Perdition, cut it off. So Chap. 11. 6. Bleſſed is he who is not offended in me, i.e. who is not by the meanneſs of my preſent Circumſtances, or by the Doctrine I am ſent to preach, diverted from believing in me. So Chap. 13. 21. When Perſecution comes, the ſtony Ground εὐθὺς σκανδαλίζεται is preſently offended. So v. 57. and Chap. 15. 12. Mark 6. 3. Luke 7. 23. the Jews were ſcandalized at Chriſt; i.e. they were diverted from owning him as their Meſſiah, either by reaſon of his words, or of the meanneſs of his original, and his appearance in the World. So were the Multitude and ſome of his Diſciples ſcandalized at his Diſcourſe about eating his Fleſh, John 6. 60, 61. So doth our Lord admoniſh his Diſciples, not to be ſcandalized at the Perſecutions they ſhould ſuffer, Joh. 16. 1. So he foretels that many, who had once believed in him, would be ſcandalized, when Tribulations ſhould abound, Matth. 24. 10. So he tells his own Diſciples, that they ſhould be ſcandalized at his Sufferings, Matth. 26. 31. And ſo both Peter, and the reſt of them were offended, or ſcandalized, their Faith in him failing for a ſeaſon, Luke 24. 21. So are we to underſtand thoſe words, Wo to him that offends, or ſcandalizeth one of theſe little ones, as appears from the reaſon following, v. 14. It is not the will of your heavenly Father, that one of theſe little ones ſhould periſh. So I have ſhew'd the word is uſed 1 Cor. 8. 13. And ſo it may be well interpreted, when the Apoſtle ſaith 2 Cor. 11. 29. Who is offended, i. e. in danger to fall off from the Chriſtian Faith, and I burn not with a fervent zeal for his Recovery.

Ver. 22. Haſt thou (then) Faith, (or a perſwaſion that all Meats are clean, and lawfully may be eaten,) have it to thy ſelf before God, (and ſatisfie thy ſelf with that,) happy is he that condemneth not himſelf (by acting uncharitably) in that which he alloweth.

Ver. 23. And he that doubteth (Gr. that puts a difference between Meats) is damned if he eats (againſt his Conſcience making that difference) becauſe he eateth not of faith, (but againſt his own perſwaſion,) for whatſoever is not of faith, is ſin.

Μακάριος ὁ μὴ κρίνων ἑαυτὸν, happy is he that condemneth not himſelf, &c.] i. e. He is comparatively an happy Man that hath this firm perſwaſion of the lawfulneſs of eating any thing that is ſet before him, without asking any queſtion about it for Conſcience ſake, for he createth no trouble, or condemnation to himſelf about theſe matters, nor is he troubleſome to others by his niceneſs and ſcrupuloſity; whereas he that puts a difference betwixt Meats, is not only troubleſome to others with whom he doth converſe, but condemns him himſelf as oft as he is tempted to eat of that which his Conſcience doth not allow of.

Ὁ διακρινόμενος, he that doubteth.] He that diſcerneth, and puts a difference between Meats lawful, and unlawful; this is the import of this word elſewhere: So *Matth.*16.3. you know how διακρίνειν to diſcern the face of the Heavens. Acts 10. 28. and 11. 12.Go with them μηδὲν διακρινόμενος, making no difference betwixt the Gentiles, and the Jews, the circumciſed, and the uncircumciſed, not counting them unclean any longer, as St. Peter doth himſelf interpret it, v. 28. And again, Acts 15. 9. οὐδὲν διέκρινε, he put no difference betwixt them and us, purifying their hearts by faith, 1 Cor. 4. 7. Τίς σε διακρίνει, who put the difference betwixt thee, and others. Chap. 11. 12. Not diſcerning the Lord's body, or not diſcriminating it from other Meats. So Jude 22. Of ſome have compaſſion διακρινόμενοι making a difference.

Πᾶν δὲ ὃ οὐκ ἐκ πίστεως, whatſoever is not of faith.] i. e. With a due perſwaſion of the lawfulneſs of the action; for that is the Faith ſpoken of in the foregoing Verſe, when the Apoſtle ſaith, Haſt thou faith, have it to thy ſelf; and that is the Faith which ſtands oppoſed to doubting in this Verſe; and to this Faith alone agree the preceding words, He that makes a diſcrimination between Meats lawful and unlawful, and yet eats of them without diſcrimination, is condemned by his own Conſcience, if he eats, becauſe he eateth not of faith, or with perſwaſion of the lawfulneſs of eating what he doth partake of.

CHAP. XV.

Verſe 1. WE then that are ſtrong (and rightly underſtand our Chriſtian liberty and duty ought to bear the infirmities of the weak, (being careful to forbear the doing that which doth ſcandalize, and hurt the Souls of them who have not this knowledge) and not to (do things becauſe they) pleaſe our ſelves (when our weak Brother is thus injured by them.) Verſe 2. Let (therefore) every one (of us rather chuſe to) pleaſe his Neighbour for his Good to (the) edification (of him in his Chriſtian Faith.

Πρὸς οἰκοδομὴν, to edification.] Edification in the Scripture ſometimes ſignifies our encreaſe in the Knowledge of our Chriſtian Duty, in which ſenſe it is ſeven times uſed, 1 Cor. 14. 3, 4, 5, 12, 16, 26, 29. Eph. 4. 29. eſpecially in that Knowledge which tends to our Advancement in Piety, and therefore is called οἰκοδομὴ Θεοῦ, the Edification of God, 1 Tim. 1. 4. Sometimes our growth, or confirmation in that Faith, Jude 20. Sometimes it refers to the whole Body, which is called Θεοῦ οἰκοδομὴ, the building of God, 1 Cor. 3. 9. 2 *Eph.*21. 4. 12. And then the Body is edified, (1.) By the mutual Love of its Members; in which ſenſe, ſaith the Apoſtle; Charity edifieth, 1 Cor. 8. 1. and this is οἰκοδομὴ ἐν ἀγάπῃ, Edification in love, Eph. 4. 16. (2*ly*,) By the ſtrict Union of the Members to, and their peaceable Converſation with one another; and this is ſtiled οἰκοδομὴ εἰς τὸ ἕνα, the edifying of the Church into one, 1 Theſſ. 5. 11.. And thus we are bid to follow after the things which make for peace, and τὰ τῆς οἰκοδομῆς τῆς εἰς ἀλλήλους the edification of one of us unto another, Chap. 14. 19. Now the edification which conſiſts in Knowledge of our Chriſtian Duty, cannot be here underſtood, becauſe our forbearance of that which ſcandalizes our Brother, tends not to the information of his Underſtanding, but, as it is an Act of Charity, it tends to the Edification of the Body in Love, as it is the avoiding that which may ſcandalize the weak, and ſo induce him to ſtumble at, and fall off from Chriſtianity, it tends to his Edification in the Faith; and as it is receiving the Weak into Fellowſhip and Communion, notwithſtanding his different Conceptions from us, it tends to the edifying the Body in Union and Peace.

Ver. 3. For even Chriſt (whoſe example we are called to imitate) pleaſed not himſelf, i.e. indulged not ſo to his own pleaſure, eaſe, and quiet, as to neglect the Glory of God, or the good of others, but willingly bore with the infirmities, and ſuſtained the reproaches of men) as it is written (of him, Pſal. 69. 9.) the Reproaches of them that reproached thee fell on me; (i.e.) He was afflicted for them, his zeal for the Glory of God, and the Good of Souls, cauſed him patiently to endure the contradict. of ſinners. Hebr.12.2,3. To bear the Croſs they laid, and deſpiſe the ſhame they caſt upon him, which ſure is much more then to abſtain from a little meat on the account of others.)

Καθὼς γέγραπται, as it is written.] That this Pſalm was undoubtedly ſpoken of the Meſſiah, we learn from v. 22. applyed to Chriſt, Joh. 19. 28, 29. and from the former part of the Verſe cited here, viz. the zeal of thine houſe hath conſumed me, applied to Chriſt, John 2. 17. And the Jews themſelves ſay, that the things contained in this Pſalm, ſhall be accompliſhed in the days of David, או בימי המשיח * or in the days of the Meſſiah, and that which is ſaid in the cloſe of the Pſalm, that (l) God will ſave Zion, &c. that men may dwell therein, and have it in poſſeſſion, ſhall be accompliſh'd בימי המשיח in the days of the Meſſiah.

Ver. 4. (Nor ought we to think our ſelves unconcerned in what was ſaid ſo long ago by David of others) for (this, and) whatſoever things were written afore-time, were written for our learning: That we through patience (in bearing the like Cenſures, Reproaches, and Infirmities of others) and (through the) comfort of the Scriptures (promiſing a reward to that patience,) might have hope (of being rewarded for it.)

Ver. 5. Now the God of Patience and Conſolation (who works this patience in us, and gives this conſolation to us) grant you to be like-minded one towards another, (i. e. to have a like concern for others as for your ſelves,) according to (the example of) Chriſt Jeſus.

Ver. 6. That ye (thus bearing with the Infirmities of the Weak, and thus receiving one another into Communion,) may with one mind and mouth (in their Aſſemblies) glorifie (and worſhip) God, even the Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, (or the God, and Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.)

Ὁμοθυμαδὸν ἐν ἑνὶ στόματι, with one mind and mouth.] i. e. Not only praiſing God with the ſame words in their Doxologies, but alſo joyning in thoſe Praiſes with a Mind full of Chriſtian love and ſenſe of the Divine Goodneſs.

Τὸν Θεὸν καὶ πατέρα, the God and Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.] So 2 Cor. 1. 3. 11. 31. Eph. 1. 3. Coloſſ. 1. 3. 1 Pet. 1. 3. Apoc. 1. 6, 12. On which words the Deſcants of the Fathers is to this effect, That the firſt Perſon of the Sacred Trinity is the (m) God of Jeſus Chriſt, in reſpect of his Manhood, his Father in reſpect of his Divinity; or as he is the Word. Or the words may be rendred thus; God who is, or the God that is, or God, to wit, the Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt; for the Hebrew ו, and ſo the Greek καὶ, ſignifies ſometimes id eſt, Noldius partic. Hebr. p. 280, 281. ſometimes nempe, to wit, p. 287. and ſometimes qui eſt, who is, p. 315.

Ver. 7. Wherefore receive ye one another, (Jew and Gentile) into mutual love and fellowſhip, without contention, about the things in which your judgments differ) as Chriſt alſo hath received us (both, reconciling both to God in one Body on the Croſs, and to one another, Coloſſ. 1. 20. Eph. 2. 14.) to the Glory of God the Father (which will be much promoted by this Union.)

Ver. 8. (As he hath received us, λέγω δέ.) For I ſay, that Jeſus Chriſt was a Miniſter of the Circumciſion (or the Jews) for (the eſtabliſhment of) the Truth of God, to confirm the Promiſes made to the Fathers (of that Nation, and ſo he ſhewed his love and mercy towards them.)

Ver. 9. And (he was alſo the Saviour of the Gentiles) that the Gentiles (alſo) might glorifie God for his mercy (to them,) as it is written (Pſal. 18. 49.) For this cauſe I will confeſs to thee (i. e. praiſe, and celebrate thee) among the Gentiles, (or, ἐν ἔθνεσι, with the Gentiles) and (will) ſing to thy Name.

Ἐξομολογήσομαι, I will confeſs unto thee.] The very next words, (n) Great deliverances giveth he unto his King, and ſheweth mercy to David למשיחו his Meſſiah, or Anointed, are by the Jews interpreted of the King Meſſiah, that is, Chriſt; and ſo the preceding words are doubtleſs fitly applied to him.

Ver. 10. And again, He (the ſame David) ſaith (Pſal. 67. 4.) rejoyce ye Gentiles with his People.

Ver. 11. And again, (Pſal. 118. 1.) Praiſe the Lord all ye Gentiles, and laud him all ye People.

Ver. 12. And again Eſaias ſaith, (Chap. 11, 10). There ſhall be a Root of Jeſſe, and he that ſhall riſe to Reign over the Gentiles, in him ſhall the Gentiles truſt.

Ἡσαΐας λέγει, Eſaias ſaith.] The Chaldy Paraphraſt interprets the firſt Verſe of the Meſſiah; and R. Chanina proves from the tenth Verſe, that (o) the King Meſſiah is not to come, but to give Precepts to the Nations of the World.

Ver. 13. Now (may) the God of Hope fill you with Joy and Peace (the fruits of hope) in believing (theſe things,) that ye may abound in hope, through the power of the Holy Ghoſt (witneſſing to your ſpirits, that ye are the Sons of God, Chap. 8. 16, 17. and ſhedding abroad the ſenſe of his love in your hearts, Chap 5. 5. and ſo ſealing you up to the Day of Redemption, Eph. 4. 30.

Ver. 14. And (this I pray, not doubting the Aſſiſtance of this Good Spirit with you, for) I my ſelf alſo am perſwaded of you, my Brethren, that ye alſo are full of Goodneſs, filled (by the Spirit) with all knowledge, able alſo to admoniſh one another.

Ver. 15. Nevertheleſs, I have written the more boldly to you in ſome ſort, (Gr. ἀπὸ μέρους, as to the Gentile part of you, See Note on 2 Cor. 2. 5.) as putting you in mind (of the favour of God to you Gentiles, and your duty to him) becauſe of the Grace that is given to me of God, (i. e. becauſe of the Apoſtolick

(l) Pug. fid. part. 3. diſt. 3. c. 16. § 25.

Office by him committed to me. See Note on Rom. 1. 5.)

Ver. 16. That I should be the Minister of Jesus Christ to the Gentiles, ministring the Gospel of God, (i.e. exercising my self in the Offices of the Gospel, as the Priest in the Legal Services,) that the offering up of the Gentiles (by me) might be acceptable, being sanctified (not with salt, or any other such libamen, but) by (the effusion of) the Holy Ghost (upon them.)

Ἱερουργοῦντα τὸ εὐαγγέλιον, ministring the Gospel.] Here is a plain allusion to the Jewish Sacrifices offered by the Priest, and sanctified, or made acceptable and savoury by the libamen offered with it; for he compares himself in the preaching of the Gospel to the Priest, Sacris operanti, conversant about his Sacrifice, to prepare and fit it to be offered. The Gentiles dedicated by him to the Service of God, are his Sacrifice or Oblation, the Holy Spirit is the Libamen poured on this Sacrifice, by which they are sanctified and rendred εὐπρόσδεκτα acceptable to God. See Numb. 15. 3, 10.

Ver. 17. (And this I have so effectually performed by his Grace, that) I have therefore whereof I may glory, through (the assistance of) Jesus Christ, in those things which pertain to (my service of) God (in his Gospel.)

Ver. 18. (And here I shall only mention what I my self, by the assistance of this Grace, have done,) For I will not dare to speak of any of those things which Christ hath not, (but only of those which he hath) wrought by me, to make the Gentiles obedient by word, and deed.

Ver. 19. (Viz. That he hath assisted me in preaching the Gospel) through many (Gr. ἐν δυνάμει, with the power of) Signs, and Wonders, and by the Power of the Holy Ghost. So that from Jerusalem, and round about unto Illyricum, I have fully preached the Gospel of Christ.

Ἐν δυνάμει σημείων, ἐν δυνάμει πνεύματος.] i. e. Confirming the Gospel by outward Miracles, and by the inward distributions of the Holy Ghost. See the difference between them, Note on Hebr. 2. 4.

Ver. 20. Yea, so have I strived to preach the Gospel (as to do it) not where Christ was named, (i.e. preached by others before me,) least I should build upon another Man's foundation.

Ver. 21. But (my preaching hath been) as it is written (Isa. 52. 15.) to whom he was not spoken of, they shall see, and they that have not heard, shall understand.

Ver. 22. For which cause (wherefore by going from one Region to another to preach the Gospel,) I have been much hindred from coming to you.

Ver. 23. But now having no more place(s) in these parts (unacquainted with the Gospel,) and having a Great desire these many years to come to you.

Ver. 24. Whensoever I take my (intended) journey into Spain) I will (by God's assistance) come to you, for I trust to see you in my Journey, and to be brought on my way thitherward by you, if first I be somewhat filled (i. e. satisfied) with your Company.

Ἐλπίζω γὰρ ὑμᾶς, I will come to you, &c.] Here is an Evidence that St. Paul in purposes of this nature, was not assisted by the Holy Spirit, they being purposes, which by the Providence of God, he was hindred from fulfilling. 'Tis also evident from Chap. 1. 10, 11. and from this, and the 28th Verse, that St. Paul writ this Epistle while he was at liberty and before Christ had told him he must testifie of him at Rome, Acts 23. 11. and before he was constrained to appeal to Cæsar, Acts 25. 11. for in this Epistle he speaks still of his Journey to Rome, and from thence to Spain, as of a voluntary undertaking, hoping then that the unbelieving Jews would not have given him that disturbance when he went up to Jerusalem with his Alms gathered for his Nation, which afterwards he found they did.

Ver 25. But now I go to Jerusalem to minister to (the necessities) of the Saints (there.)

Ver. 26 For it hath pleased them of Macedonia and Achaia, to make a certain Contribution to the poor Saints which are at Jerusalem.

Ver. 27. It hath pleased them (I say,) and (with good reason seeing) their Debtors they are, for if the Gentiles have been made partakers of their spiritual things, (receiving the Gospel from Judea,) their duty is also (in Gratitude) to minister to them in carnal things.

Ver. 28. When therefore I have performed this (charitable office) and have sealed (and secured) to them this fruit (of the Gentiles liberality,) I will come by you into Spain.

Ver. 29. And I am sure, that when I come to you, I shall come in the fulness of the Blessing of the Gospel of Christ, (or with a full imparument of spiritual Gifts to you. See Note on Chap. 1. 11.)

Ver. 30. Now I beseech you, Brethren, for the Lord Jesus Christ's sake, and for the love (which is the fruit) of the Spirit, that you strive together in your Prayers to God for me.

Ἐν ταῖς προσευχαῖς, in your prayers for me.] If Paul, saith Estius, might desire the prayers of the Romans, why might not the Romans desire the Prayers of Paul? I answer, They might desire his Prayers, as he did theirs, by an Epistle directed to him to pray for them. He adds, If they might desire his prayers whilst living, why not when dead, and reigning with Christ? I answer, because then they could direct no Epistle to him, or any other way acquaint him with their mind. Hence Elijah, being to be taken up into Heaven, speaks to Elisha thus, Ask what I shall do for thee, before I am taken away from thee, 2 Kings 2. 9.

Note

Note alſo, that we ſay not that ſuch deſires of the Prayers of Saints departed, are injurious to the Interceſſion of Chriſt, but that they are Idolatrous, implying that Creatures are Omniſcient, Omnipreſent, and have the knowledge of the heart.

Ver. 31. That I may be delivered from them that do not believe in Judea, and that the Service which I have for (my Brethren in) Jeruſalem, may be accepted of the Saints (there, though it come from the Churches of the Gentiles.)

Ver. 32. That I may come to you with (the greater) joy, and may with you be refreſhed.

Ver. 33. Now the God of Peace be with you all. Amen.

CHAP. XVI.

Verſe 1. I Commend to you (or care) Phœbe our ſiſter (in the faith,) which is a Servant of (or one that Miniſters to) the Church which is at Cenchrea, (or the aſſembly of Chriſtians at the haven of Corinth.

Φοίβην τὴν ἀδελφὴν ἡμῶν, Phœbe our ſiſter.] This Phœbe was a Deaconeſs, choſen to that Office according to the Apoſtolical Preſcription, 1 Tim. 5, 10. So Origen and Chryſoſtom.

Ver. 2. That you receive her in the Lord (i. e. for the Lord's ſake, or as being one that belongs to him, Matth. 10. 42.) as becometh Saints, (i. e. Chriſtians) and that ye aſſiſt her in whatſoever buſineſs ſhe hath need of you, for ſhe hath been a ſuccourer of many, and of my ſelf alſo.

Καὶ αὐτῆ ἐμοῦ, and of my ſelf alſo.] Hence ſome infer that ſhe was not a Deaconeſs, but one that miniſtred to the Apoſtles in their preaching of her Subſtance; but St. Paul had none ſuch to miniſter to him, 1 Cor. 9. 5, 15. and this is made one Condition of a Deaconeſs, 1 Tim. 5. 10. προϊσταμένην τε φιλοξενίαν καὶ κηδεμονίαν κεκλῆσθαι, he ſaith, ſhe has been a ſuccourer of many, by reaſon of her care of, and hoſpitality towards them.

Ver. 3. Greet Priſcilla, and Aquila, my helpers in (the work of) Chriſt Jeſus.

Ἀσπάσασθε Πρίσκιλλαν, Greet Priſcilla.] Priſcilla ſeems to be named firſt here, and 2 Tim. 4 19. as being firſt converted, ſay Interpreters; but ſhe is named laſt Acts 18. 2, 26. 1 Cor. 16. 19. and therefore the Gloſs ſaith ſhe is here placed firſt, there being in Chriſt Jeſus neither male nor female.

Ver. 4. Who have for my life laid down their own necks, (i. e. expoſed themſelves to the hazard of their own lives,) to whom not only I give thanks (for my own preſervation,) but alſo all the Churches of the Gentiles (for preſervation of their Apoſtle.)

Ver. 5. Likewiſe greet the Church which is in their Houſe, (i. e. their Chriſtian Family,) Salute my well-beloved Epenetus, who is the firſt fruits of Achaia.

Καὶ τὴν κατ' οἶκον αὐτῶν Ἐκκλησίαν, and the Church in their houſe.] They were ſo zealous in the faith, ſay Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, and Theophylact, ὥστε τὸν οἶκον αὐτῶν πᾶν εἰς ποιῆσαι, τοῦτο δὲ Ἐκκλησίαν ὠνόμασεν, that they converted their whole Families to the profeſſion of it, for ſuch Families he calls the Church. See this proved Note on 1 Cor. 16. 19.

Ἀπαρχὴ τῆς Ἀχαΐας, the firſt fruits of Achaia.] So Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, Oecumenius, Theophylact, the Syriac and Arabick Verſions; but the Alexandrian Copy, the Æthiopick, the Vulgar, and almoſt all the Latin Commentators read τῆς Ἀσίας, the firſt fruits of Aſia minor. So doth Origen on this place, and Hom. 11. on Numbers F. 109. D. & G. and St. Jerom on Ezek. 43. F. 241. 1. and this reading is to be prefer'd before the other, becauſe the ſame Apoſtle ſaith expreſly, that Stephanus was the firſt fruits of Achaia, 1 Cor. 16. 15. that is, he was the firſt converted to the Faith there, and Epenetus in Aſia minor, for ſo the phraſe the firſt fruits, is uſed by (p) St. Clemens.

Ver. 6. Salute Mary, who beſtowed much labour on us.

Ver. 7. Salute Andronicus and Junia my Kinſmen, and my fellow Priſoners, who are of note among the Apoſtles, who alſo were in Chriſt (that is, converted to the Chriſtian Faith) before me.

Τοὺς συγγενεῖς μου, my Kinſmen.] So St. Paul ſtiles all the Jews, Rom. 9. 3. καὶ συναιχμαλώτους, and fellow Priſoners. Before St. Paul went to Rome, He was ἐν φυλακαῖς περισσοτέρως, in Priſons often, 2 Cor. 11. 23. Ἅπαξ δέσμα φορέσας, bearing his Chain ſeven times, ſaith (q) St. Clemens, and ſo might well have many fellow Priſoners.

Ἐπίσημοι ἐν τοῖς Ἀποστόλοις, of note among the Apoſtles.] That is, ſay ſome, men highly eſteemed by them; Men eminent, ſays Chryſoſtom and Theodoret, not only among the Teachers, but the Apoſtles of the Churches. For they who were Co-workers with the Apoſtles in planting of the Chriſtians, are ſtiled

Ver. 8. Greet Amplias my Beloved in the Lord.

Ver. 9. Greet Urban our helper in (the Goſpel of) Chriſt, and Staehys my Beloved.

Ver. 10. Salute Appelles approved in Chriſt (by the ſincerity of his faith, and the integrity of his life.) Salute them that are (in Chriſt) of Ariſtobulus houſhold.

Or δόκιμον, approved.] By ſuffering patiently great Tribulations, ſaith Origen: for tribulation worketh patience, and patience δοκιμὴν experience of our ſincere affection to him for whoſe ſake we ſuffer them, Rom. 5. 4.

Ver. 11. Salute Herodian my Kinſman: Greet them that be of the houſhold of Narciſſus which are in the Lord.

Τοὺς ὄντας ἐν Κυρίῳ, which are in the Lord.] From theſe two Verſes is confirm'd our obſervation, that when the whole Family was converted, the Apoſtle writes to the Church in ſuch a Houſe; when not, the Salutation is directed to as many as were in the Lord in that Family, according to the deſcant of (r) Origen on the place.

Ver. 12. Salute Tryphena and Tryphoſa, who labour in the Lord (ſ ſervice.) Salute the beloved Perſis which laboured much in the Lord.

Ver. 13. Salute Rufus choſen in the Lord, and his Mother, and mine, (ſhe being one who ſhewed the affection of a Mother to me alſo.)

Τὸν ἐκλεκτὸν ἐν Κυρίῳ, choſen in the Lord.] One of great excellency in Chriſtianity, as we ſay a choice Man, ſo the word ἐκλεκτὸς often ſignifies, Pſal. 78. 31. They ſmote down τοὺς ἐκλεκτοὺς the choſen men that were of Iſrael. So ἐκλεκτὰ μνημεῖα, are choice Sepulchres, Gen. 23. 6. ἐκλεκτὰ τῶν δώρων, choice Gifts, Deut. 12. 11. and ἄνδρες ἐκλεκτοὶ, choice Men, Judges 20. 16. See Acts 15. 25, 26.

Ver. 14. Salute Aſyncritus, Phlegon, Hermas, Patrobus, Hermes, and the Brethren which are with them.

Ver. 15. Salute Philologus, and Julia, Nereus, and his Siſter, and all the Saints that are with them.

Πάντας τοὺς ἁγίους, all the Saints.] Not here that Saints, and Chriſtian Brethren are all one.

Ver. 16. Salute one another with an holy kiſs; the Churches of Chriſt ſalute you.

Ἐν φιλήματι ἁγίῳ, with an holy kiſs] Of the Kiſs of Charity let it be obſerved, (1ſt) That it was uſed at the end of the Prayer before the Celebration of the Sacrament. So (s) Juſtin Martyr ſaith expreſly, ἀλλήλους φιλήματι ἀσπαζόμεθα παυσαμένων τῶν εὐχῶν, Prayers being ended, we ſalute one another with a kiſs, and then the Bread and Cup is brought to the Preſident. (2ly,) That this ſeems to have been done by the (t) Men apart, and the Women apart, as their ſeparate places in the Church, or Synagogue, ſeemed to require. So the (u) Apoſtolical Conſtitutions ſay, theſe things being done, let the Men apart, and the Women apart, ſalute one another with a kiſs in the Lord. Though (x) Origen ſeems to make this practiſe proper to the Men.

Ver. 17. Now I beſeech you, Brethren, mark them which cauſe diviſions and offences, contrary to the Doctrine which you have learned (of the Apoſtles) and avoid them, (or, turn from them.)

Σκοπεῖν τοὺς τὰς διχοστασίας, καὶ τὰ σκάνδαλα ποιοῦντας, mark them that cauſe diviſions and ſcandals.] By Scandals the Greek Scholiaſts underſtand Hereſies, whereas, through the whole New Teſtament, this word ſeems rather to import ſuch Actions as give occaſion to others to ſtumble at, and fall off from the Chriſtian Faith. See note on Matth. 18. 6. Rom. 14. 13. Eſtius here notes, (1ſt,) That unwritten Traditions may be hence proved, becauſe the Apoſtle ſaith, Mark them that cauſe offences contrary, not to the Scriptures, but to the Doctrine they had received. But to make this Argument of any force, he muſt prove that the Doctrine they had received was not contained in the Scriptures, either then, or after written. 2ly, The Apoſtle plainly ſpeaks here of Doctrines received from the mouths of the Apoſtles by thoſe very Men to whom he writ; and when he hath once proved the unwritten Traditions of the Church of Rome to be ſuch, we ſhall be ready to receive them. (2ly,) He adds, that this place makes for a diligent inquiſition after Hereticks, as if St. Paul was ſetting up an Inquiſition here; whereas the word σκοπεῖν doth only ſignifie to mark, or to look to them; as Luke 11. 35. 2 Cor. 4. 18. Gal. 6. 1. Philip. 2. 4. Nor doth he exhort the Romans to obſerve them in order to the apprehending, or puniſhing, but, as he himſelf notes, in order to the declining of them. 3ly) He obſerves truly, that the Apoſtle here inſinuates that even the vulgar People may from ſome general Principles diſcern true Doctrine, and that which was delivered by the Apoſtles, from that which was falſe, and was not ſo delivered; but this was only then to be done by comparing that which was thus delivered from the mouth of the Apoſtles, who preached it by the Aſſiſtance of the Holy Ghoſt, and confirmed their Doctrine by Miracles, with that which was delivered beſides, or in oppoſition to it, and was not ſo confirmed; and this can only now be done by them, by comparing all Pretenders to the Apoſtles Doctrine, with thoſe Scriptures which they endited by the Aſſiſtance of the Holy Spirit, and confirmed by Miracles.

Ver. 18. For they that are ſuch ſerve not the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, but their own Belly, and by good Words and fair Speeches deceive the Hearts of the Simple, (i. e. of innocent well-meaning perſons.)

Οἱ γὰρ τοιοῦτοι, they that are ſuch.] That is the Gnoſticks, ſaith Dr. Hammond, to whom indeed theſe Characters do well agree. But Theodoret ſaith thus, Τὰς κακὰς τῷ νόμῳ σωτηρίους διὰ τούτων αἰνίτ]εται, by theſe words he ſtrikes at the evil defenders of the Law, or thoſe who preached up Circumciſion, and the obſervance of the Law, as neceſſary to the Salvation of the Gentiles. Τὰς ἐξ Ἰουδαίων αἰνίτ]εται, he means the Jews, ſays Chryſoſtom, Oecumenius, and Theophylact, for he ſtill taxes them with the love of their Bellies. And certain it is, that theſe Men cauſed Diviſions and Separations from others, as unclean, and not fit to be eaten and converſed with, Acts 11. 3. Gal. 2. 12, 13. and Scandals ſubverting the Souls of the Gentiles, Acts 15 24. Evacuating the Goſpel of Chriſt, Gal. 2. 21. and cauſing Men to fall from Grace, Gal. 5. 2, 4. that they did this ἐν λόγῳ κολακείας, by flattering words, 1 Theſſ. 2. 5. and that in this they ſerved not Chriſt, but their own Bellies, Philip. 3. 19. doing theſe things for filthy lucres ſake, Tit 1. 10, 11. Whence it appears there is no neceſſity of referring theſe words to the Gnoſticks, or deſerting the Opinion of the Ancients touching the Perſons here intended.

Ver. 19. (This Exhortation I direct to you to preſerve you in the way in which hitherto you have walked to the credit of the Goſpel) for (the fame of) your obedience (to it) is come abroad unto all men; I am glad therefore on your behalf (that ye are not yet infected with theſe Judaizers,) but I would have you (ſtill) wiſe to (diſcern and hold faſt) that which is good, and ſimple concerning evil, 1 Cor. 14. 20. i. e. as men who have no knowledge of it, and no skill to practice it.

Ver. 20. And (to encourage you to continue ſuch, know that) the God of Peace (who is an Enemy to theſe Diviſions mentioned, v. 17.) will bruiſe Satan under your feet ſhortly. The Grace of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt be with you. Amen.

Τὸν Σατανᾶν, Satan.] By Satan we may underſtand thoſe perſecuting Jews, and Judaizers, who are ſtiled the Meſſengers, and Miniſters of Satan, 2 Cor. 11. 15. 12. 7. their Perſecutions being aſcribed to Satan, who animates and provokes them to them, 1 Theſſ. 3. 5. Rev. 2. 9, 10. And then God's bruiſing him under their feet, muſt ſignifie his taking away their power thus to deceive, and perſecute, by the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, and theſe Impoſtors with it.

Ver. 21. Timotheus my Work-fellow in the Goſpel, and Lucius, and Jaſon, and Soſipater my Kinſmen, ſalute you.

Ver. 22. I Tertius, who wrote this Epiſtle, ſalute you (in the name of) the Lord.

Ver. 23. Gaius mine Hoſt, and (the Hoſt) of the whole Church ſaluteth you. Eraſtus the Chamberlain of the City ſaluteth you, and Quartus a Brother.

Ver. 24. The Grace of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt be with you all. Amen.

Ver. 25. Now unto him that is of power to eſtabliſh you according to my Goſpel, and the preaching of Jeſus Chriſt, according to the Revelation of the Myſtery which was kept ſecret ſince the World began (or from former Ages.)

Τῷ δὲ δυναμένῳ, to him that hath power.] And will to execute that power. See Note on Chap. 14. 4.

Κατὰ τὸ εὐαγγέλιόν μου, according to my Goſpel, and the preaching of Jeſus Chriſt.] Both theſe Expreſſions, ſay the Fathers, are of the ſame import, the Goſpel which the Apoſtles preached being the ſame with that which Chriſt preached whilſt he was on Earth; and they, after his Aſcenſion, preaching in his Name, by his Authority, and by the Aſſiſtance of his Spirit, and ſo delivering his Laws and Doctrine, not their own.

Χρόνοις αἰωνίοις σεσιγημένου, kept ſecret ſince the World began.] The Greek may ſignifie from the beginning of Ages, the promiſe of the Meſſiah being obſcurely made, or hinted to Adam from the beginning; though the Fathers only render theſe words ἀνωθεν, before, as Theodoret, or πάλαι, of old, as Chryſoſtom, Oecumenius, Theophylact. See the Notes on 2 Tim. 1. 9, Tit. 2. 2.

Ver. 26. But now is made manifeſt, and by the Scriptures of the Prophets, according to the Commandment of the Everlaſting God, made known to all Nations for the Obedience of Faith.

Διὰ γραφῶν προφητικῶν, By the Scriptures of the Prophets.] They of old foretold of the Meſſiah, and of the Calling of the Gentiles, but yet as to many Circumſtances, this was ſtill a Myſtery, till theſe Prophetick ſayings were more clearly revealed by the Spirit given to the Apoſtles and Prophets, and by the actual accompliſhment of what they foretold. See Note on Eph. 3. 6.

Ver. 27. (That is) To God only (eſſentially, and from himſelf) wiſe, be Glory through Jeſus Chriſt (the Mediator of the New Covenant, the Authour and Finiſher of our Faith) for ever. Amen.

Μόνῳ σοφῷ Θεῷ, to the only wiſe God.] This, as the Fathers note, cannot exclude the Divine Nature of Jeſus Chriſt, who is the Wiſdom of the Father from this Title, any more than thoſe words, who only hath immortality, 1 Tim. 6. 16. exclude Chriſt from being immortal.

O THE

THE PREFACE TO THE First Epistle to the Corinthians.

§ 1. THAT this was an Epistle written by St. Paul the Apostle, as is asserted v. 1. was never doubted in the Church of God; but whether this was the first Epistle of St. Paul to the Corinthians, hath been a matter of dispute, because he saith in it, I have written to you in an Epistle, Chap. 5. 9. which seemeth plainly to relate to some Epistle formerly by him writ to them: For this, saith Pseud-Ambrosius, was spoken de præteritâ Epistolâ quam ante hanc, quæ prima dicitur, scripserat. But as I have observed in the Note upon that Verse, No Fathers ever ascribed to St. Paul more then Fourteen Epistles, including that to the Hebrews. Eusebius never mentions any third Epistle to the Corinthians, amongst the true, controverted, or spurious Writings which pass under his Name. No Christian Writer ever cited any thing from this supposed Epistle, all the Greek Scholiasts declare the Apostle speaketh in those words not of another, but of this very Epistle, which is sufficient to justifie the Version I have given of those words, I had written, or was writing in this Epistle. Moreover, his supposed Epistle to Laodicea is cited as a Book exploded by (a) St. Jerom, his Epistles to Seneca, are in like manner cited by St. (b) Jerom and St. Austin, the Acts of Paul are cited, and rejected by (c) Origen and Eusebius, but none of them make any mention of more than two Epistles to the Church of Corinth.

§ 2. That this Epistle was written by him whilst St. Paul was at Ephesus, and before he went thence to Macedonia, is clear from the very words of this Epistle: For Chap. 16. 8. he saith, I will tarry still at Ephesus till Pentecost; and adds, v. 19. The Churches of Asia, of which Ephesus was the Metropolis, salute you; Aquila and Priscilla salute you, with the Church which is in their House; now that they dwelt at Ephesus, we read Acts 18. 25. That it was writ before he went thence into Macedonia, those words inform us Chap. 16. 5. I will come to you when I pass through Macedonia; for I do pass through Macedonia. It is therefore generally agreed, that it was written in the 57th, as Dr. Pearson, or in the 55th Year of Christ, as Dr. Lightfoot hath it. As also may be probably concluded thus: In the 9th Year of Claudius, saith Orosius, in the 10th say others, in the 12th saith Dr. Pearson, the Jews were banished from Rome, and St. Paul coming to Corinth, finds Aquila and Priscilla newly come from thence to Corinth upon that occasion, Acts 18. 2. He stays there a year and an half, v. 11. that is, till the 11th of Claudius, at Ephesus three years, Acts 20. 31. and at the close of these three years he writes this Epistle. If then you begin this Banishment of the Jews from Rome, as Valesius doth in the 10th of Claudius, these five years that Paul continued at Corinth and Ephesus will end in the first of Nero, A. D. 55. If with Dr. Pearson, you begin them only at the 12th of Claudius, they will end in the third of Nero, A. D. 57.

§ 3. That the Persons to whom it was written, were chiefly Gentiles, is evident from these words, Ye know that ye were Gentiles, carried away to these dumb Idols, even as ye were led, Chap. 12. 2. That it was also written to the Jewish Converts then at Corinth, Estius conjectures, because he saith, Chap. 10. 1. that all our Fathers were under the Cloud. But 'tis not necessary that should relate to their Fathers according to the flesh, but only to the preceding Church of God called before them out of Ægypt, and partaking of like privileges with them: For the Apostle declares, that not they who are the Children of the Flesh are counted for the Seed, but they who are the

§ 4. The occaſions of writing this Epiſtle we may beſt learn from the Ancients, and from the Epiſtle it ſelf.

Firſt then, The Ancients do inform us of this City, that it was full of (d) Rhetoricians and Philoſophers, and that they gave occaſion to moſt of thoſe Miſcarriages which the Apoſtle reprehends in this Epiſtle.

2ly, That there were (e) Judaizers crept in among them who magnified themſelves, and debaſed the Apoſtle as a great Boaſter, but of little worth, ſtiling him an Apoſtate from the Law, and commanding the obſervation of it to them.

3ly, They add, That the City of Corinth was very (f) rich, and that ſome of them choſe themſelves Teachers out of the rich, as being moſt able to ſupport them, as others did out of the Philoſophers, as being moſt able to teach them more than the Apoſtle could do.

4ly, They ſay that the Corinthians ſent queſtions to St. Paul (g) concerning Marriage and Virginity, by Stephanus, Fortunatus, and Achaicus, by whom the Apoſtle more fully was informed of the ſtate of their Church; and therefore ſent this Anſwer to them concerning theſe ſeveral Heads.

And ſutably to theſe things mentioned by the Ancients, we find

1. That the Apoſtle ſpends the latter part of the firſt Chapter, from v. 20. to the end, in ſhewing the vanity of the Wiſdom which the Philoſophers pretended to, in compariſon to the Wiſdom diſcovered by the Goſpel, preach'd by the Apoſtles. And Chapter the ſecond, he ſhews the impoſſibility of knowing, or aſſenting to the things delivered by the Goſpel, by thoſe, who depending on Philoſophy, and Humane Reaſon, rejected what was taught purely by Revelation, and conſequently the neceſſity of admitting that Revelation of the Spirit they challenged to themſelves, that the Doctrine of the Goſpel might be made known to the World. And againſt both the Rhetoricians and Philoſophers, he ſhews the neceſſity of Preaching the Goſpel, not in the words of Humane Wiſdom, Chap. 1. 17, 18, 19. Chap. 2. 1. Chap. 3. 18, 19, 20. Chap. 4. 20.

2ly, Becauſe on the account of thoſe Philoſophers and Rhetoricians, as well as of the Judaizers, they broke out into Parties, and Factions, he minds them of thoſe Factions, beſeeching them carefully to avoid them, Chap. 1. 10. as tending to the dividing of Chriſt's Body, v. 13. and as Indications that they were yet Carnal, 1 Cor. 3. 4. purſuing this under his own name, and that of Apollo, through the whole third Chapter, ſhewing that they ought not to glory in Men, or be puffed up for one againſt another, whatever were their Gifts, or Eloquence, but give the Glory of their Labours unto God alone, See Chap. 4. 8.

3ly, Becauſe they who declared they were of Cephas, ſeem to be thoſe Judaizers who looked on the Apoſtle as unfaithful in his Office for rejecting Circumciſion, and the Law. He declares that he found no occaſion thus to charge himſelf, nor was he much concerned for their Cenſures of him in that kind, Chap. 4. 4, 5. ſhewing by his Sufferings, how great an Evidence he had given of his Fidelity in the diſcharge of his Office, from v. 9. to the 14th. and that he had begotten them to that Faith in which they ought to ſtand, and follow his Example, from v. 14. to the 17th. And becauſe he, having ſent Timothy to them, they imagined he either durſt not, or would not come to them himſelf, He declares he would both come, and uſe his Apoſtolical Authority amongſt them, and try the power of them who were thus puffed up againſt him by reaſon of their Humane Wiſdom.

4ly, Becauſe one of theſe Eloquent Perſons had been guilty of a very heinous Crime, he commands them to puniſh him by removing him from their Society, and delivering him up to Satan. And Scandal of Christianity, He reprehends this Vice in them, Chap. 6. from v. 1. to the 10th. And having said all this by way of Preface, he begins, Chap. 7. to return his Answer to the Questions they had sent unto him.

§ 5. There is one further Observation useful for, and worthy to be pondered by the licentious Persons of our Age, That because Fornication and Lasciviousness were Vices to which the Heathens were generally addicted; and their Philosophers, and perhaps some Hereticks, viz. the Nicholaitans, which were amongst them, maintain'd this was a thing indifferent, therefore the Apostle, both in the Epistles to the Corinthians, and to most other Churches, is very copious in shewing the destructive Nature of this Sin. It is to be observed that Corinth was, above all other Cities, even to a Proverb, infamous for Fornication and Lasciviousness, so that Κορινθία γυνὴ, a Corinthian Woman is in the Language of the Ancients, a whorish Woman, according to the Proverb, οὐ Κορινθία ἔοικας γειτονεύειν (h), ut Corinthia videris corpore quæstum factura. And Κορινθιάζειν, Κορινθιάζεσθαι is ἐπιτρέφειν fcortationibus indulgere, Hesych. Phavorin. There was, saith (i) Strabo, in it a Temple dedicated to Venus, which πλείους ἢ χιλίας ἱεροδούλας εἰκάζοντο ἑταίρας. These Vices reigned also in Galatia, the Worshippers of the Mother of the Gods: In Ephesus, (See Note on Eph. 5.5.) Thessalonica, Crete. (Athenæus l. 12. p. 527. A. 528. C.) and generally in all Heathen Nations. Hence the Apostle is so frequent, and express in his condemning this Vice.

1. As a Sin contrary to Nature, as being against our own Body, 1 Cor. 6. 18. a Sin of Unrighteousness, to which God gave them up for their Idolatry, Rom. 1. 28. and a Sin, which they who committed, were given up to a reprobate mind, and knew they did things worthy of death, v. 29, 32. a Sin contrary to the moral Law, or to the Law of Nature; for he declares that Law was given for the condemning Fornicators, 1 Tim. 1. 10.

2ly, As a Sin contrary to the Christian Faith, and inconsistent with it. Know ye not, saith he, that your Bodies are the Members of Christ; shall I then take the Members of Christ, and make them the Members of an Harlot, God forbid! 1 Cor. 6. 15. And again, But Fornication, and all Uncleanness, let it not be once named among you, as becometh Saints, Eph. 5. 3. For God hath not called us to Uncleanness, but unto Holiness. He therefore that despiseth this his Call, despiseth not Man but God, who also hath given us of his Spirit, 1 Thess. 4. 7, 8. Hence he declares it to be contrary to sound Doctrine of the Gospel, 1 Tim. 1. 10, 11. and forbids Christians to eat with any Brother who is a Fornicator, 1 Cor. 5. 11.

3ly, As being a Sin which will exclude the Fornicator from the Kingdom of God. Be not deceived, saith he, no Fornicator shall inherit the Kingdom of God, Gal. 6. 10, 11. To the Galatians he speaks thus, The Works of the Fleth are manifest, Adultery, Fornication, Uncleanness, Lasciviousness, of which I tell you again, that they who do such things shall not inherit the Kingdom of God, Gal. 5. 19, 20, 21. To the Ephesians thus, This know ye, that no Fornicator, or unclean Person, hath any Inheritance in the Kingdom of Christ, or of God, Psal. 5. 5. They, saith St. John, shall be excluded from the New Jerusalem, Rev. 22. 15.

4ly, As that which will assuredly expose them to the wrath of God. For thus he speaks to the Colossians: Mortifie your earthly Members, Fornication, Uncleanness; for which things cometh the wrath of God upon the Children of Disobedience. Col. 3. 5, 6. To the Ephesians thus, Be not deceived with vain words, for because of these things cometh the wrath of God upon the Children of Disobedience, Eph. 5. 6.

5ly, As that which will subject them to eternal Punishments. For Whoremongers and Adulterers κρινεῖ ὁ Θεὸς God will adjudge to Condemnation, Hebr. 13. 4. The Portion of the Whoremonger shall be assigned him in the Lake that burns with Fire and Brimstone, Rev. 21. 8.

§ 6. And this is all I at the first intended by way of Preface to this Epistle. But finding that the Doctrine of the Resurrection of the same Body which dieth, is now either questioned, or thought unnecessary to be believed, though anciently the very Heathens look'd upon it as a Fundamental Doctrine of Christianity, and the Ground of their most raised Hopes; And upon this account they burnt the very Bones of Christian Martyrs, and reduced them to Ashes, and then threw those Ashes into the River Rhodanus, or Roan, that so they might defeat the (k) hope of a Resurrection which enabled the Christians to suffer Death with alacrity, and to endure all kinds of Torments for their Religion; which sure had been a vain attempt, had not the Christian Doctrine promised as the Foundation of their Hopes, the Resurrection of the same Body thus consumed, but only of some other Body in its stead; And seeing the fifteenth Chapter of this Epistle is the Seat of that Controversie, I shall therefore endeavour briefly to evince two things:

1. That it was certainly the recieved Doctrine of the Professors of the Christian Faith.

2. That

2. That it is truly grounded on the Scriptures, and therefore ought to be owned as an Article of Christian Faith. And

1. That it was certainly the ancient and received Doctrine of the Orthodox Professors of the Christian Faith, is evident

1. From the Epistle of (l) Clemens Romanus, and writ in the first Century: For there he doth expressly caution Christians against the denial of this Article, in these words, Let none of you say that this same Flesh shall not be judged, for as you were called in the Flesh, so shall you come in the Flesh to Judgment, and in this very Flesh shall you receive your Reward. And in his first Epistle, to prove that God will raise them from the dead, who have served him in holiness, he cites these words from Job, § 36. Job 19. 25, 26. ἀναστήσεις τὴν σάρκα μου ταύτην, Thou wilt raise up this my Flesh which hath suffered all these things.

2ly, From (m) Irenæus, who in the second Century makes this one Article of Faith of the whole Church received from the Apostles, and kept, taught, and delivered in all places with the greatest care, and uniformity, viz. that Christ will come from Heaven in Glory, ἀναστῆσαι πᾶσαν σάρκα παντὸς ἀνθρώπου, to raise up all Flesh of all Mankind. (n) Tertullian in the third Century, producing the Christians Creed as the Rule of Faith, which came from Christ, and was by his Companions handed down to the Church, the Institution of Christ, which all Nations ought to believe, makes this one Article of it, That Christ will come to judge the quick and dead, facta utriusque partis resuscitatione cum carnis restitutione, or, per carnis resurrectionem, by raising, and restoring of their Flesh. Accordingly the Article of the Resurrection of the Flesh, or as the Aquileian Symbol hath it, hujus Carnis, of this Flesh, Or as other Confessions have it, of their Bodies, hath been received in all Christian Churches. And they have been condemned as Hereticks from the beginning of the second Century, who denied (o) σαρκὸς ἀνάστασιν, the Resurrection of the Flesh, & carnis (p) salutem, & regenerationem ejus, dicentes non eam capacem esse incorruptibilitatis, the life and reproduction of the Flesh, saying, it was incapable of incorruption: As did the (q) Valentinians, the Basilidians, and the Marcionites, say the Fathers.

§ 7. I proceed secondly to shew, that this Doctrine of the Primitive Christians is truly grounded on the Scriptures, and therefore ought to be received, and owned as an Article of Christian Faith. This I prove

1. From all those places which speak of the Resurrection of the Body, these places I shall produce, for their sakes who do not remember in any place of the New Testament, any such Expression as the Resurrection of the Body, v. g. He that raised Jesus from the dead, ζωοποιήσει καὶ, shall also make alive your Mortal Bodies, Rom. 8. 11. that is, He shall raise them from the dead; for that ζωοποιῶν and ἐγείρων, to quicken and raise up are, with relation to this matter, words of the same import, we learn from these words. As the Father, ἐγείρει τοὺς νεκροὺς καὶ ζωοποιεῖ, raiseth up the dead, and quickneth them, so the Son ζωοποιεῖ quickneth whom he will, John 5. 21. Again, saith the Apostle, How are the dead raised up, i. e. the Bodies of the dead; for so it follows, καὶ ποίῳ σώματι, and with what kind of Bodies do they come forth of the Grave, 1 Cor. 15. 35. So v. 44. It is sown a Natural Body, it is raised σῶμα πνευματικὸν a Spiritual Body. And still more evidently, τὸ φθαρτὸν τοῦτο, This Corruptible (Body) must put on Incorruption, καὶ τὸ θνητὸν τοῦτο, and this Mortal (Body) must put on Immortality, v. 53. So when this Corruptible (Body) shall have put on Incorruption, and this Mortal (Body) put on Immortality, then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, Death is swallowed up in Victory. If any one likes not my addition of σῶμα Body to the Pronoun, and Adjective, four times here mentioned, I desire him to find out, if he can, another Substantive; if he cannot, he must confess the Resurrection of the Body is here mentioned four times; for the Apostle argues thus, The dead shall be raised up, δεῖ γάρ, for this Corruptible (Body) must put on Incorruption; and when this is done, then Death, which only hapneth to this corruptible mortal Body, shall be swallowed up in Victory.

It is said, That 'he who reads with attention on this Discourse of St. Paul, where he speaks 'of the Resurrection, will see that he plainly 'distinguisheth between the Dead, that shall be 'raised, and the Bodies of the Dead; for it is 'νεκροὶ, πάντες, οἱ which are the Nominative Cases to ἐγερθήσονται, ζωοποιηθήσονται, ἐγερθήσονται all along, and not σώματα, Bodies, which one may in 'reason think would some where or other have 'been expressed, if all this had been said to 'propose it as an Article of Faith, that the 'same Bodies shall be raised. The same manner of speaking the Spirit of God observes all thro' the N. Testament, where it is said, raise the dead, quicken, or make alive the dead, the resurrection of the dead, Joh. 5. 28, 29. Rom. 4. 17. Matth. 22. 27, 52. 2 Cor. 1. 9. 1 Thess. 4. 16.

Answer.

Answer. I hope the Instances produced already are sufficient to confute this Observation. I shall therefore go on further to observe, and prove, that the Resurrection of the Dead is by the Apostle used with plain relation to the Bodies of the Dead, so that he even proves the Resurrection of the Dead, because the Body is raised, and so doth not plainly distinguish betwixt the dead that shall be raised, and the Bodies of the dead. This is evident enough from what I have observed already, that the Apostle proves οἱ νεκροὶ ἐγερθήσονται, the dead shall be raised, because the corruptible Body must put on Incorruption, &c. But it is still more evident from those words, So is also ἀνάστασις τῶν νεκρῶν, the resurrection of the dead; for it is sown in corruption, it is raised in incorruption, v. 42,43. Where I desire to know, what is the Nominative Case to ἐγείρεται, it is raised, used three times here? If it be σῶμα, Body, I have sufficiently confuted this Criticism: If it be not, why doth the Apostle so expound it in the immediate ensuing words, It is sown a Natural Body, ἐγείρεται σῶμα πνευματικὸν, it is raised a Spiritual Body.

I add that this appears almost from all the places cited, that the οἱ νεκροὶ and the πάντες ἀποθνήσκοντες the dead, and the all dying, hath relation to the Body only, which being that alone which is by death bereft of life, must be that only which, in propriety of Speech, is said to die. Thus when 'tis said, 'These very words urged 'for the resurrection of the same Body, run thus, 'πάντες οἱ ἐν τοῖς μνημείοις, all that are in the 'Graves shall hear his voice, and shall come 'forth; they that have done good, εἰς ἀνάστασιν 'ζωῆς, to the resurrection of Life, but they that 'have done evil, to the resurrection of Condemnation, And is then added, Would not a 'well meaning Searcher be apt to think, that if 'the thing here intended by our Saviour were 'to teach, and propose it as an Article of Faith, 'necessary to be believed by every one, that the 'very same Bodies of the dead should be raised, 'the words should rather have been πάντα τὰ σώ-'ματα ἃ ἐν τοῖς μνημείοις, i. e. all the Bodies 'that are in the Graves, rather then all who 'are in the Graves; which must denote Per-'sons, and not precisely Bodies.

To this I answer, (1st,) that the words πάντες οἱ ἐν τοῖς μνημείοις, all that are in the Graves, and πάντα τὰ σώματα τὰ ἐν τοῖς μνημείοις, all the Bodies that are in the Graves, are plainly words of the same import. For what is laid down in the Graves, or Sepulchres, is it not σώματα τῶν κεκοιμημένων, the Bodies of them that sleep only? Matth. 27. 52. And must it not then be these Bodies that come forth of them? May we not discern in the passage now cited, how the Holy Ghost passes immediately from the Bodies of the Saints that slept, to their Persons, saying, the Bodies of the Saints that slept arose, καὶ ἐξελθόντες ἐκ τῶν μνημείων, and they coming out of their Graves, after this Resurrection, went into the Holy City, and appeared unto many, v. 53.

(2ly,) When God said to Adam, what was also true of his Posterity, In sorrow shalt thou eat thy Bread until thou return to the ground, for out of it wast thou taken; for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return, Gen. 3. 19. And the Psalmist of Man in general, His breath (or Spirit) goeth forth, he returneth to his Earth, Psal. 146. 5. Will any one be tempted from these personal, demonstrative Pronouns thou, and he, to say that these words must denote the Persons, and not precisely the Bodies of Men? and thence infer that the whole Person of Adam was taken out of the Earth, and was but dust, and that the whole Person of Man returneth to his Earth; if not, why is it argued that the like Pronoun οἱ, they, must here denote Persons, and not precisely Bodies? Are we not told that the word Person stands for a thinking, intelligent Being that has Reason and Reflection, and can consider it self as it self? And can they who are in the Graves do this? if so, surely they are not dead in them, but buried alive. If they cannot, why must these words οἱ ἐν τοῖς μνημείοις denote Persons?

But it is said, That 'according to this Interpretation 'of these words of our Saviour, no 'other Substance being raised but what hears 'his voice, and no other Substance hearing his 'voice, but what, being called, comes out of the 'Grave; and no other Substance coming out of 'the Grave, but what was in the Grave, any 'one must conclude that the Soul, unless it be 'in the Grave, will make no part of the Per-'son that is raised.

Answer. To this I answer, That any one may reasonably hence conclude, that the Soul makes no raised part of him that is raised, or that it is not called, or raised out of the Grave, as the Body is; but by what Logick can we hence conclude it makes no part of the raised Person? For instance; We profess in our Creed to believe that Jesus Christ died, and rose again, i. e from the Grave: and, saith St. Peter, This Jesus hath God raised up, having loosed the pains of death, because it was impossible he should be holden of it, Acts 2. 24, 32. Now because nothing can be raised from the dead but that which died, nothing can be raised from the Grave, but what was laid in it, shall we hence infer, that the Soul of the Lord Jesus, or his Spirit, (which he commended into his Father's hands, and which went to Paradise,) unless it died, and was in the Grave, could make no part of the Person which was dead, and was raised from the dead, and out of the Grave? When our Lord says, v. 28,29. They that were in the Graves shall come forth to the Resurrection of Life; And v. 25. the dead shall live. What can live again, but that which was dead? What can have a Resurrection to Life, but that which had no Life, and was not that the Body only? Yea, are not these things said in purſuance of what went before; As the Father raiſeth up the dead, and quickeneth (or gives life) to them, even ſo the Son quickeneth whom he will. Now what can be raiſed from the dead, but that which was dead? What can be quickned, or have life given to it, but that which had no life? If then that were the Body only, muſt not the raiſing of the dead, and quickning them, import only the raiſing and quickning of the Body, although this be performed compleatly by the Union of the Soul to the raiſed Body.

2ly, That in our Saviour's Diſcourſe againſt the Sadduces, περὶ τ ἀναςάσεως τῶν νεκρῶν, touching the Reſurrection of the dead, he alſo ſpeaks of raiſing that which was dead, i. e. the Body, is evident from this that he ſaith of them who partake of that Reſurrection, ἐκ ἔτι δύνανται ἀποθανεῖν, they can die no more; which can be only ſpoken of that Body which died before.

Matth. 22. Mark 12. Luk. 20. 35, 36.

3ly, We read of God τῷ ζωοποιοῦντι τοὺς νεκρούς, quickning the dead, Rom. 4. 17. Now what doth he quicken, but what was dead? what doth he give life to, but that which ceaſed to have life, that is, the Body?

4ly, St. Paul ſaith, We had in our ſelves the Sentence of Death, that we might not truſt in our ſelves, but in God, τῷ ἐγείροντι τοὺς νεκρούς, who raiſeth the dead, 2 Cor. 1. 9. Now what was this Sentence of Death? Did St. Paul, and his Chriſtian Companions, believe the whole Man ſhould be kill'd by their Perſecutors? or, as their Lord had taught them, that they could kill the Body, but could not kill the Soul, Matth. 10. 26. Doth he not ſay in their names, that that which periſhed, or was corrupted, was only ὁ ἔξω ἡμῶν ἄνθρωπος, our outward Man, 2 Cor. 4. 16. in oppoſition to the inward Man? that whilſt they lived they were at home in the Body, and that at death they did ἐκδημῆσαι ἐκ τοῦ σώματος dwell out of the Body, 2 Cor. 5. 6, 8. or, as to the Soul, were abſent from it? And muſt not then the Sentence of Death they had in themſelves, be only this, that their Bodies might die by the hands of Perſecutors, that their outward Man might periſh by them? And muſt not then their truſt in God that raiſeth the dead, relate to his raiſing their dead Bodies?

5ly, The dead in Chriſt that ſhall be raiſed, 1 Theſſ. 4. 16. are they that ſleep, v. 13, 15. that is, that ſleep in the duſt, Dan. 12. 2. now is it not τὰ σώματα, the Bodies of the Saints that thus ſleep, Matth. 27. 52. and muſt not then the Apoſtle ſpeak of them only? Is not this ſpoken to comfort the Theſſalonians concerning them that were aſleep, v. 13, 18. and were they troubled for the Souls of them that ſlept in Jeſus? v. 14. or doth the Apoſtle ſay any thing to comfort them, but that which relates to the Body only? And will it not hence follow, that what he here ſaith touching the Reſurrection of the Dead, concerneth their dead Bodies only? Thus have I ſhew'd that all the places here cited, as ſpeaking of the Reſurrection of the Dead, refer to the Reſurrection of their Bodies.

§ 8. But further, had not the Scripture ſo expreſly ſpoken of raiſing our Mortal Bodies, of raiſing that a Spiritual Body which was ſown a Natural Body, and proved the dead ſhall be raiſed, becauſe this corruptible ſhall put on incorruption, and could it not be proved, that raiſing of the dead, and of the bodies of the dead, were in import the ſame, this Article might be eſtabliſhed from other paſſages of Scripture, ſpeaking the ſame thing in effect, as v. g.

1*ſt*, We who have the firſt fruits of the Spirit groan within our ſelves, expecting υἱοθεσίαν the Sonſhip, even the Redemption of our Body, Rom. 8. 23. Now what is this Redemption τοῦ σώματος ἡμῶν of our Body, but the delivery of it from the Bondage of Corruption? v. 21. What did they groan for? 'twas, ſaith the ſame Apoſtle, that Mortality might be ſwallowed up of Life, 2 Cor. 5. 4, 5. which only is to be done when this Mortal Body ſhall put on Immortality, ſaith the ſame Apoſtle; this therefore was to be done to accompliſh the redemption of the Body ſpoken of, and is not then the redemption, and the reſurrection of the body in effect the ſame?

2. We expect that Saviour, the Lord Jeſus Chriſt from Heaven, who ſhall change τὸ σῶμα τῆς ταπεινώσεως ἡμῶν, our vile Body into the likeneſs of his glorious Body, Philip. 3. 20, 21. The Body therefore to be changed is σῶμα ἡμῶν our Body; the Body of our Humiliation, ſo ſtyled as Methodius ſaith, becauſe ταπεινοῦται ἀπὸ σφάλματος, 'tis humbled and made mortal by the fall; or as Irenæus, l. 5. c. 13. quod & humiliatur cadens in terram, becauſe it is humbled by falling into the Earth. This Body is to be thus changed when our Lord cometh down from Heaven, that is at the reſurrection of it; for the Lord ſhall deſcend from Heaven, and the dead in Chriſt ſhall riſe firſt, 1 Theſſ. 4. 16. Is it not therefore manifeſt from theſe words, that our vile, mortal Bodies, fallen into the Earth, or laid in it, ſhall be raiſed, and by, or at the Reſurrection, ſhall be changed into the likeneſs of Chriſt's glorious Body?

Now hence I argue for the Reſurrection of the ſame Body thus; If the Scripture teacheth that there ſhall be a quickning, by raiſing up our mortal Bodies, a Redemption, by the Reſurrection of our Bodies, a changing of our Bodies at, and by the Reſurrection, into the likeneſs of Chriſt's glorious Body, It ſeems ſufficiently to ſay, there ſhall be a Reſurrection of the ſame Body which before was mortal, and a change by it of the ſame Body which was vile, or humble; and a Redemption by it from corruption of the ſame Body which was formerly in bondage to corruption; for all this muſt be said of the same Body, or not of the same Body; if of the same Body, then the same Body must be raised; if not of the same Body, then of another; and how then is it said of our Body? How are these other Bodies, τὰ θνητὰ σώματα ὑμῶν, your mortal Bodies, Rom. 8. 11. the Redemption of them; the Redemption, τῦ Σώματος ἡμῶν; the change of them, the change, τῦ σώματος τῆς ταπεινώσεως ἡμῶν, of our mortal vile Bodies?

2ly, When the Apostle saith, (s) This corruptible, this mortal Body, does he mean this Body of ours, or does he not? If he does mean this mortal, corruptible Body of ours, then he asserts of that, that it shall be raised immortal and incorruptible; if he does not mean it of ours, he must mean it of some other Body then ours, and how then is that raised a spiritual Body, which was sown a natural Body? how doth this mortal put on immortality? how are we concerned in the Resurrection of another Body? or what assurance doth it give us, that we shall rise from the dead, seeing when any of us departs this life, it is our Body that dies, and not anothers? Yea, why then doth he say, the dead shall rise, and we, that are living, shall be changed? we shall all be changed; i.e. our vile Bodies shall be changed into the likeness of Christ's glorious Body; our mortal Bodies into immortal; our natural Bodies shall be changed by being raised spiritual Bodies? Let any Man try his utmost skill, and see if he can find any Nominative Case to σπείρε, it is sown, used here four times, but σῶμα, Body, or understand this of any other Body then ours, seeing then the same word is the Nominative Case to ἐγείρε, it is raised, which was so to σπείρε, it is sown, the Apostle must be supposed to say, this Body of ours is raised in incorruption.

§ 9. Argument 2. To proceed to other Scriptures of like import: All that are in their Graves shall come forth, saith Christ, ἐκπορεύσονται ἐκ τῶν μνημείων, they shall come out of the Graves in which they were, John 5. 28. 29. Shall they come forth with the same Body which was laid in the Grave, or with another? If with the same, then the same Body must be raised; if with another, how come these Graves to be called their Graves, and how are the dead, and they that are in the Graves raised out of them, and not another?

Again, when it is said the Sea gave up the dead ἐν αὐτῇ in it, and Death and Hades (the place of the dead) gave up the dead in them, Rev. 20. 13. did they give up the same Bodies which were laid down in them, or some others? The first is the thing contended for; if they gave up some others, how did they give up the dead that were laid down in them?

To say that a great part of these dead Bodies possibly may have undergone variety of changes, and entred into other Concretions, even in the Bodies of other Men, is to me no Objection against the raising of the same Body, if God hath engaged so to do; for then, as he is able, so is his Providence concerned to prevent the entring of one Body so into the Concretion of another, as to hinder it from being the same Body when raised, as it was when laid down in Sea, or Grave, and I know what he hath promised he is able to perform.

Lastly, Even the Phrase (t) the Resurrection of the dead, and especially the Resurrection ἐκ νεκρῶν from the dead, used Col. 1. 18. Rev. 1. 5. where Christ is stiled the first-born of those that arise from the dead, prove this. For the proper notion of a Resurrection consists in this, that it is a substantial change, by which that which was before, and died, or was corrupted, is reproduced the same thing again. I call it a change of that which died, or was corrupted disjunctively, because in the Resurrection of our Lord, and of Lazarus, and others whom he raised from the dead, the Body was not corrupted. Hence it follows,

(1*st.*) That the Soul which is immortal and incorruptible, cannot be said to rise again, Resurrection implying a Reproduction; wherein that which after it was never ceased to be what it was, cannot be reproduced; and so the (u) Resurrection of the Dead can only signifie the Resurrection of the Bodies of the Dead, with the re-union of them to those Souls to which they were before united, which makes this Resurrection advance into a Resurrection of Life. And seeing that which never fell, cannot be said to be raised up, that which did never dye cannot be restored from death; Men cannot properly be said to rise again from the dead, but in respect to that part, or that state which had fallen and was dead. And as for a Man to be born at first, signifies the production, and union of the essential parts of an individual Man, his Body and his Soul. So to be born again, or born from the dead, implies the restitution, and re-union of his Body and his Soul; a Man only by that becoming the same entire Person which he was before. Seeing therefore it is acknowledged, that the same Persons shall be raised, yea, that there can be nothing plainer then that in the Scripture it is revealed, that the same Persons shall be raised, and appear before the Judgment Seat of Christ, to answer for what they have done in the Body; and the same Person cannot be raised without the raising of his Body to be united to his Soul, much less be raised from the dead, without raising that of him which was dead, which only was his own, and not another Body, which before was no part of him, it follows, that if the same Persons be raised from the dead, that of them which was dead, or their own Bodies must be raised; and so the meaning of the Scripture, when it saith, the same Persons shall be raised, must be this, that their Bodies, separated from their Souls by death, shall be raised from the dead.

Moreover, By saying that the Resurrection is only of that which died, or was corrupted, it appears that I, with the Ancients, only assert the Resurrection of that Body which died, or was corrupted, and am not in the least concerned for any changes that it underwent before; and so the Scripture forces me to speak, when it stiles the Resurrection, the quickning the dead; the vivification of our mortal Bodies; the raising of those Bodies which were sown in corruption; the coming forth of them which were in their Graves; the awakening them that sleep in the dust of the Earth; and saith, that then the Sea, Death, and Hades shall give up their dead, allowing a Resurrection only to them that shall then be dead, and saying only of them that shall be found alive, they shall be changed. And if this only be the true sense of the Scripture in this matter, and this only the Resurrection there intended, it cannot be concerned in the least in what the Philosophers say touching the change the Body undergoes whilst living; though I am far from thinking, that to the raising of the same Bodies, it can be requisite that these Bodies should be made up wholly of the same Particles which were once vitally united to their Souls in their former Life, without the mixture of any other Particle of Matter; for were this necessary to the same living Body, we could not have the same Bodies for a day; and if it be not necessary to make the Body continue still the same while we live, it cannot be necessary to make the raised Body, the same with that which died.

That which here seems to me of greatest moment to be considered, is this, that the dead, being raised that they may be judged according to their works, Rev. 20. 12. and that every one may receive τὰ διὰ τοῦ σώματος, the things done by the Body, as the Instrument of the Soul, 'tis only requisite that the dying Body, which is to be raised to the Resurrection of Condemnation, should be then united to a Soul sentenced hereafter to Condemnation for the evils done whilst in the Body, and by the Body as its Instrument, and not repented of, and reformed before its separation from the Body. And that the Body should be raised to the Resurrection of Life, 'tis only requisite that some time or other before its death, it should have been united to a Soul that truly repented of all its past sins, and did from thence forward do that which was lawful and right, whilst they were thus united: Now seeing this is the state of all Bodies which arise to the Resurrection of Life, or of Condemnation, 'ts only necessary to this last Resurrection, that it should be the raising the Bodies of Men dying in their sins, as in my Hypothesis it is; and that the Bodies raised to the Resurrection of Life, should be the Bodies of Men dying in the favour of God; 'tis therefore only necessary their dying Bodies should arise. And now the Argument arising from these Scriptures, which teach that there shall be a Resurrection of the Dead, and so of their dead Bodies, that every one may receive according to what he hath done in or by the body, will run thus:

Either the Body is to be raised, and re-united to the Soul, to receive Rewards or Punishments with it, or to be the Instrument by which the Soul shall be rewarded, or punished, or it is not; if not to any of these ends, why is it raised at all? Why do good Men, by the direction of the Holy Spirit, expect the Resurrection of the Body? or why is it propounded as their great encouragement to be stedfast, immoveable, always abounding in the fear of the Lord, 1 Cor. 15. 58. 1 Thess. 4. 18. and as a comfort to them that mourn for the dead? Why are the wicked to be punished with everlasting fire, or said to go away after the Resurrection into eternal Punishment? Matth. 25. 41, 46. Or why doth our Saviour require us not to fear them who can kill the Body, but can do no more, in comparison of him who can destroy both Soul and Body in Hell fire, Matth. 10. 28. and say that 'tis better one of thy Members perish, then that thy whole Body should be cast into Hell fire? Matth. 5. 29, 30. If it be to be raised for these ends, 'tis necessary the same Body should be raised which sinn'd with, or was the Instrument of the Soul in doing good or evil, it being absurd to think that one Body should sin, another should be punished for it; or that one Body should suffer, another should be crowned for it. And, for any thing I can discern to the contrary, we might as well appear before Christ's Judgment Seat without any Body at all, as without that which we deposited. Let it now be remembred, that the Body in which the Impenitent is to suffer, is only the same Body which was laid down in the Grave,

And then the Arguments usually offered to invalidate his suffering in his own Body, or in the same Body in which he sinned, will be almost as strong to excuse a Murtherer from suffering in his Body for a Murther committed Twenty years ago, as to the purposes they are used in this Case. Nay, I have met with nothing said in this Affair, which does not prove as strongly that the Body of our Blessed Lord, born of the Virgin Mary, after he had sucked, and digested that Milk into Chyle, was not the same Body which was born of the Virgin, as not having all the same individual Particles, and that when he grew in stature, he grew into another Body, and so into a Body which came not from the loins of Abraham, and was not of the Seed of David according to the flesh; and that when the Jews destroy'd his Body, they destroy'd not that Body of which he spake, when he said, destroy this Body, because the Body they destroy'd, had by Perspiration lost, and by Nutrition gained many Particles.

§ 10. I come now to answer the Objections against this Article, viz. 'The Appellation the 'Apostle bestows on him that enters into this 'Enquiry, Whether the Dead shall have the 'very same Bodies, or no, seems not much to 'encourage him in that Enquiry; nor will he, 'by the remainder of St. Paul's answer, find the 'determination of the Apostle to be much in 'favour of the very same Body, unless the being 'told that the Body sown is not the Body that 'shall be; that the Body raised is as different 'from that which was laid down, as the Flesh 'of a Man is from the Flesh of Beasts, Fishes, 'and Birds, or as the Sun, Moon, and Stars 'are different from one another; or as different 'as a corruptible, weak, natural, mortal body, 'is from an incorruptible, powerful, spiritual, 'immortal Body; and lastly, as a Body that is 'Flesh and Blood, is from a Body that is not 'Flesh and Blood; for Flesh and Blood cannot, 'says St. Paul in this very place, inherit the 'Kingdom of God; unless, I say, all this 'which is contained in St. Paul's words, can be 'supposed to be the way to deliver this as an 'Article of Faith, which is required to be be- 'lieved of every one. Now to this I answer,

1*st*, That it seems to me a great mistake, to say the Apostle in that Appellation thou Fool reflects upon him that enquires, whether the same Body which was dead should be raised, or no. He had already entirely dispatch'd that question against those Philosophers, who said (x) there is no Resurrection, v. 12. and that the Resurrection of the Body was a thing impossible. And v. 35. he begins the enquiry, not about the truth of the Resurrection, but about the manner in which it shall be made, and the qualities which the raised Bodies should have, asking the question of (y) Philosophers, ποίῳ σώματι, with what kind of bodies, or with what qualified Bodies do they come; for they conceiving that the Body was the Prison of the Soul, and that it was her punishment to be tied to it, thought we could not be truly happy till by death we were delivered from it; they therefore judged it an unjust, and an unworthy thing for God to raise these Bodies to be united to the Souls of Good Men; and therefore Celsus saith the hope of the Resurrection of the Flesh is the hope of Worms, a filthy, and abominable thing, and so a thing which God neither will, nor can do. See all this proved from their own words in the Note upon this Verse. Now to this Objection the Apostle returns a full and satisfactory Answer, by shewing the happy change which will then pass upon the raised Body, and the (z) excellent qualities it shall then have, and which were wanting to it whilst it was on earth.

2*ly*, When the Apostle adds, v. 37. That which thou sowest, (when) thow sowest (it, is) not that Body which shall be (again produced,) but bare (or naked) Grain, it is evident he speaketh there, not of the Body of Man, but of the Body of Wheat, or of some other Grain, and is there still pursuing the same question, With what kind of Bodies do they come? Answering, as it was common with the Jews to do, by this very Similitude to a like question among them, viz. (a) Whether the Body should arise naked, or clothed upon? and therefore saith thou sowest not the Body which shall be, i. e. a Body cloathed with a shell as in Peas, Beans, and Lentils, or with an Hull, or Chaff, as in Wheat, Rye, Barley, but γυμνὸν κόκκον, naked Grain, whereas God raises it up cloathed, and so saith he, will it be with our Bodies at the Resurrection, they will not be raised γυμνὰ, naked, but ἐνδυσάμενα, cloathed upon, for this corruptible Body must put on Incorruption, 2 Cor. 5. 2, 3, 4. this being then the whole intendment of this Similitude, it ought not to be urged any further.

3*ly*, The same is evidently the Apostle's purpose in the following Verses, which in sense run thus.

Ver. 39. (And as) all flesh is not the same (manner or kind of) flesh, but there is one kind of flesh of Men, another (kind of) flesh of Beasts, another of Fishes, and another of Birds.

Ver. 40. (And as there is alike difference in the qualities of Bodies, for (there are alſo Celeſtial Bodies, and Bodies Terreſtrial; but the glory of the Celeſtial is one, and the glory of the Terreſtrial is another.

Ver. 41. (And in the Celeſtial Bodies) there is one Glory of the Sun, and another of the Moon, and another of the Stars (among themſelves) for one Star differeth from another Star in glory.

Ver. 42. So alſo is (it as to) the Reſurrection of the Dead (the Body raiſed being in qualities much different from that Body we now have, for) it is ſown in corruption, (frail, mortal, ſubject to putrefaction) it is raiſed in incorruption, &c. Now from the words thus paraphraſed, let it be noted,

1ſt, That the Apoſtle ſays not, That the Body raiſed is as different from that which is laid down, as the Fleſh of Man is from the Fleſh of Beaſts, Fiſhes, and Birds, or as the Sun, Moon, and Stars are different from one another, but only as the Fleſh of Men differs in qualities from that of Beaſts, Fiſhes, and Birds; and as the Sun, Moon, and Stars differ in their glorious qualities from one another, ſo do our raiſed Bodies differ in quality, from thoſe earthly Bodies we at preſent have, as is evident from the enſuing words, in which he mentions this difference betwixt them in qualities. Note

2ly, That in the inſtances of fleſh of Man and Beaſts, and of Celeſtial and Terreſtrial Bodies, and of Celeſtial Bodies among themſelves here uſed by the Apoſtle, there is not only a difference as to qualities, but alſo as to the ſubject matter, that being in them only ſpecifically, but not numerically the ſame, whereas it is not ſo as to our Bodies ſown and raiſed, they differing only as to the qualities from the body ſown, but not as to the ſubject matter, it being this corruptible Body which muſt put on incorruption. As therefore the different qualities of divers Souls, good and bad, learned and unlearned, made glorious and miſerable, infer a difference in ſubſtance, becauſe the ſubject of thoſe qualities is not the ſame; but when the ſame Soul becomes vertuous, and learned, all this new Ornament of Grace and Knowledge, and even its advancement to a ſtate of perfect Happineſs and Glory, makes it not ceaſe to be the ſame Soul ſtill, ſo is it here as to the difference of glorious qualities the raiſed body hath above the Body ſown. I therefore 3ly, Grant that the raiſed Body is as different from the earthly Body we at preſent have, as a corruptible, weak, natural, mortal Body is from an incorruptible, powerful, ſpiritual, immortal Body; but then the ſubject of theſe different qualities being ſtill the ſame, this difference hinders not its being the ſame Body ſtill, ſince otherwiſe Chriſt's Body being alſo raiſed an incorruptible, powerful, immortal Body, could not be the ſame with that in which he ſuffered; and if his Body is ſtill the ſame that ſuffered and was raiſed from the dead, then a like change of our vile Bodies will not hinder their being ſtill the ſame.

'But it is ſtill objected, That 'the Body raiſed 'is as different from the Bodies we at preſent have, and lay down in the Grave, as a Body 'that is fleſh and blood, is from a Body that is 'not fleſh and blood; for fleſh and blood, ſaith 'St. Paul, cannot inherit the Kingom of God.

Anſw. To this I anſwer (1.) ab abſurdo, that if even this hinder the Body raiſed from being the ſame Body, our Saviour cannot now have the ſame Body with that in which he ſuffered, or which was raiſed from the dead; for doubtleſs he is entred into, and doth inherit the Kingdom of God; if therefore fleſh and blood cannot inherit the Kingdom of God, and the Body which hath not fleſh and blood cannot be the ſame Body with that which hath fleſh and blood, our Saviour's glorified Body cannot be the ſame Body which was raiſed from the dead, or in which he ſuffered.

2ly, I anſwer, That fleſh and blood doth in the Scripture language denote the weakneſs, and the frailty of that which is compounded of it, as when 'tis ſaid, we wreſtle not with fleſh and blood, i. e. weak, frail men, Eph. 6. 12. See Matth. 16. 17. Gal. 1. 16. Hebr. 2. 14. Eccluſ. 14. 18 And thus it is true that fleſh and blood, that is, ſuch weak, frail Bodies as they are, which here conſiſt of fleſh and blood, unchanged into incorruptible Bodies, or uncloathed upon with their Celeſtial Bodies, which will keep them from mortality, or a poſſibility of corruption, v. 48, 49. 2 Cor. 5. 1, 2. cannot inherit the Kingdom of God; and therefore the Apoſtle adds, That this mortal muſt put on immortality, this corruptible put on incorruption, and ſo it ſhall be changed, as to its qualities; but then I have ſhew'd, that this change from mortal and corruptible, to an immortal and incorruptible Body, hinders not its being ſtill the ſame Body, that is, the ſame in ſubſtance as it was before.

3ly, I think it is evident from the Apoſtle's words, that the Bodies of good Men then living, ſhall have the ſame qualities with the Bodies of them who are raiſed from the dead, for they alſo ſhall inherit the Kingdom of God, they ſhall have ſpiritual, powerful, immortal Bodies; their Bodies, ſaith he, ſhall be changed, for this corruptible muſt put on incorruption; and yet can it be thought that this change ſhall amount to the deſtruction of that Body they then had, and the production of another Body, as it muſt do, if they ceaſe to have the ſame Body which they had before this change? If it do not, it is hence evident that the Body may be ſtill the ſame body, notwithſtanding the great change which ſhall then paſs upon it.

In a word, what the Apoſtle ſays here evidently concerns only the Bodies of good Men, and ſo gives us no cauſe to think the Bodies of the wicked ſhall be changed at all; and if the wicked ſhall be raiſed with the ſame Bodies to the Reſurrection of Condemnation, why not the good with the ſame Bodies to the Reſurrection of Life?

Verse 1. PAUL called to be an Apostle (or the called Apostle) of Jesus Christ, through the will of God, and Sosthenes our Brother.

Τῇ Ἐκκλησίᾳ τοῦ Θεοῦ, the Church of God.] The sanctified in Christ Jesus, the Saints called, seem here to be words of the same import, denoting such as are called out of the World, and separated from others, through Faith in Christ, to be a peculiar People to God, as the Jews were before: All Christians being, by vertue of this calling a chosen Generation, a Royal Priesthood, an holy Nation, a peculiar People, 1 Pet. 2. 9. Though many Members of the Church of Corinth, and of other Churches, wanted the inward Sanctification of the Holy Spirit. So that the word Saints, in many places of the Epistles, is as large as the word Christians, and stands opposed, not to the unsound Christians, but to the Heathen World, 1 Cor. 6. 1, 2. See here 1 Cor. 14. 33. 16. 1, 15. 2 Cor. 8. 4. 9. 1, 12. 13. 13.

With all that in every place.] Hence it appears that St. Paul's Epistles, though occasionally written, and directed to particular Churches, were designed for the use of all Christians.

Τοῖς ἐπικαλουμένοις ὄνομα Κυρίου, that call upon the name of the Lord Jesus.] This in the New Testament is the Character of a Christian, that he is one that calleth on this name, Acts 9. 14, 21. 22. 16. Rom. 10. 12, 13. 2 Tim. 2. 22. And that these words ought not to be rendred passively, viz. all that are called by the name of Christ, is evident from the Septuagint, who still translate the Phrase שֵׁם יִקְרָא which is active, by ἐπικαλέσῃ ἐν ὀνόματι Θεοῦ, or ἐν ὀνόματι Κυρίου, i. e. he shall call on the name of the Lord. See Gen. 4. 26. 12. 8. 13. 4. 21. 33. 25. 25. Psal. 79. 6. 99. 6. 116. 4. Isai. 65. 1. Lam. 3. 55. Zech. 13. 9. But when the Phrase runs thus, שִׁמְךָ נִקְרָא, that is, thy name is called upon us, or we are called by thy name, it is rendred thus, τὸ ὄνομά σου ἐπικέκληται ἐφ' ἡμᾶς, Deut. 28. 10. 1 Kings 8. 43. 2 Chron. 7. 14. Isai. 4. 1. 63. 19. Jer. 14. 9. 15. 16. Dan. 9. 18, 19. Amos 9. 12.

Secondly, We are expresly told that the Disciples were first called Christians at Antioch, Acts 11. 26. Now before this time we find not only Stephen ἐπικαλούμενον calling upon this name, and saying, Lord Jesus receive my Spirit, Acts 7. 59. and St. Paul bid to wash away his sins, calling upon the name of the Lord, ἐπικαλεσάμενος τὸ ὄνομα τοῦ Κυρίου, Acts 22. 16. but we find this to have been the Character of a Disciple, or a Convert to the Faith of Christ, that he was one that called upon the name of the Lord. Thus Ananias speaks to the Lord Jesus of St. Paul, he is one who hath received power from the High Priest to bind τοὺς ἐπικαλουμένους τὸ ὄνομά σου all that call upon thy name, Acts 9. 14. and of St. Paul converted, it is said, that he had destroyed τοὺς ἐπικαλουμένους τὸ ὄνομα τοῦτο them that called upon this name in Jerusalem, v. 21.

Thirdly, The Reverend Dr. Hammond, who here translates this Phrase passively, doth elsewhere translate it actively, the Context forcing him so to do. So Rom. 10. 13. Whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord, i. e. pray and adhere to Christ, shall be saved. And Acts 9. 14. He hath authority to bind all that call upon thy name, i. e. saith he, that publickly avow the Worship of Christ, Acts 22. 16.

Tea, both theirs and ours.] All the Greek Interpreters, Chrysostom, Theodoret, Oecumenius, Theophylact, observe that the words, both theirs and ours, are to be connected with the word Lord, τὸ ὃ αὐτῶν τε καὶ ἡμῶν τῷ Κυρίῳ σωμήσασι and so the sense is this, The Lord, I say, both of me who write, and you to whom I write.

Ver. 3. Grace be to you, and peace from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ.

Χάρις ὑμῖν, &c.] 'Tis unadvisedly said by some that this is a Wish, and not a Prayer. The full import of the Phrase is, as St. Peter, 2 Pet. 1. 2. and St. Jude, v. 2. and (a) Polycarp do cite it, viz. Grace and Peace be multiplied to you from God the Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ. Now is not this to desire for them Grace and Peace from God the Father, and consequently to pray for it? Why therefore is it not also to desire the same Blessings from God the Son? Are they not both the Givers of Grace and Peace to the Church? Doth not Christ know all the Necessities of his Church in this kind? Doth not he who searcheth the heart and reins, Rev. 2. 23. know the desires of his Servants? And why then should they only wish these things from I know not whom, and not pray to him who is the Giver of Grace and Peace for them? Especially when they have St. Paul's example for it, in these words, For this thing I besought the Lord (Christ, v. 9.) thrice, and he said unto me, my Grace is sufficient for thee, 2 Cor. 12. 8, 9, 10. And again, The Lord Jesus Christ, and God the Father, who hath loved us, and given us eternal Consolation, and good hope through Grace, comfort your hearts, and confirm you in every good word and work, 2 Thess. 2. 16. 1 Thess. 3. 11, 12.

Ver. 4. I thank my God always on your behalf for the Grace of God, which is given you by (or in) Jesus Christ.

Ver. 5. That in every thing ye are (or have been) enriched by him in all utterance (of tongues) and in all knowledge (of Divine Mysteries, or in the Gift of Prophecy) 1 Cor. 14.

Ἐπὶ τῇ χάριτι τῇ Θεοῦ, for the Grace of God.] Here the Context seems to restrain this Phrase to the favour of God shew'd to the Corinthians, in vouchsafeing these Spiritual Gifts, which is a frequent import of this Phrase in Scripture. So Rom. 12. 6. Having gifts differing according to the grace (of God) that is given to us, whether prophecy, let us prophesie according to the proportion of faith, &c. Eph. 4. 7, 8. To every one of us is given grace according to the measure of the gift of Christ. Wherefore he saith, when he ascended up on high he led captivity captive, and gave gifts unto men, 1 Pet. 4. 10. As every one hath received the gift, so minister the same one to another, as good Stewards of the manifold grace of God, 2 Cor. 1. 12. Not in fleshly wisdom, but by the grace of God we have had our conversation in the world, and more abundantly to you wards. Our preaching to you being not in the words of Humane Wisdom, but in demonstration of the Spirit, and in Power, 1 Cor. 2. 4. Thus, to sing with grace in the heart, Eph. 5. 19. Col. 3. 16. is, say the (b) Ancients, to sing using the spiritual gift vouchsafed to them by the Holy Ghost. Which interpretation is confirmed from the Spiritual Psalms, Hymns, and Songs there mentioned. See 1 Cor. 14. 15. Eph. 6. 18. And this is very sutable to the Language of the Jews, who when the Hebrew mentions חֵן Grace, do render it the Spirit of Prophecy. So Psal. 45. 2. Grace is poured into thy lips, datus es Spiritus Prophetiæ in labiis tuis, saith the Chaldee.

Ἐν παντὶ λόγῳ.] Estius saith this ought not to be interpreted of the Gift of Tongues, because λόγος in Scripture never bears that sense. But (1.) it is certain from Verse the seventh, that it is χάρισμα, a Gift; and it is joyn'd with Faith and Knowledge, which are Gifts, 2 Cor. 8. 7. and cannot well be referred to any other Gift vouchsafed then to the Church. And 2*ly*, the word γνῶσις relating to Prophecy, or the Knowledge of Mysteries, was usually attended with the Gift of Tongues. See Acts 19. 6. and though we find not the word λόγος absolutely put in this sense; yet λόγος σοφίας, the word of wisdom, and λόγος γνώσεως, the word of knowledge, are reckoned among Spiritual Gifts, 1 Cor. 12. 8. All this indeed with Mr. le Cl. passes for meer Niceties; and he saith it is more natural to understand by λόγος the knowledge of Religion, though that, as he confesses, is the import of the following word γνῶσις knowledge; so that according to this wise Exposition, the Apostle thanks God here, and 2 Cor. 8. 7. commends them for abounding in the knowledge, and in the knowledge of Religion. Besides, the Knowledge of Religion cannot be called Grace in the sense given of that Phrase v. 4. nor by that, but by the χαρίσματα, Gifts of the Holy Spirit, was the testimony of Christ confirmed to the Corinthians, v. 6.

Ver. 6. Even as (by these gifts) the Testimony of (or Doctrine concerning) Christ was confirmed in you (or established among you.)

Καθὼς, even as.] This Particle signifies sometimes when, as Acts 7. 17. καθὼς δὲ ἤγγιζεν ὁ χρόνος, but when the time drew nigh.

Ver. 7. So that ye come behind (the other Churches) in no gift, waiting for the coming (or revelation) of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Ver. 8. Who shall confirm you to the end,

(a) Proemio Epist. ad Philip. (b) Ἀπὸ χαρίσματος· διὰ τὸ ἀπὸ τῆς ἀγίας πνεύματος δεδόσθαι χάριτος.

that you may be blameleſs in the day of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

From theſe three Verſes it is to be obſerved (1.) That the Corinthians were abundantly repleniſhed with the Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt, the Gifts of Tongues and Knowledge, v. 5. that they came behind the other Churches in no gift, v.7.

Secondly, That they obtained theſe Gifts by Jeſus Chriſt, and through Faith in him, *v.*4.

Thirdly, That by theſe, the Doctrine of Chriſt, the Teſtimony of the Apoſtles concerning him, that he was raiſed from the dead, and become the Authour of Salvation to them that believe, was confirmed to them, v. 6.

Fourthly, That by theſe Gifts, and by this earneſt of the Spirit they had encouragement to expect or wait for the ſecond coming of the Lord.

Βεβαιώσει ὑμᾶς, who ſhall alſo confirm you to the end, &c.] Theſe words are by the Ancients thus interpreted, viz. who in that day of the Lord Jeſus which you expect, will confirm you for ever blameleſs. And this is ſutable to his Prayer, that Chriſtians may be unblameable in the day of the Lord, Philip. 1, 9, 10. 1 Theſſ. 3.12,13. 5.23. for, ſay they, God is faithful, who hath promiſed to them that obey the Goſpel υἱοθεσίαν, the adoption, that is, the redemption of the body, Rom.8. 23. or that they ſhall be partakers of that Kingdom and Glory to which he hath called them, 1 Theſſ. 2. 12. Others thus, He will do all that is (c) requiſite on this part to render you unblameable to the end; ſo that you ſhall not fail of it through any want of Divine Grace neceſſary to that end, or any unfaithfulneſs on God's part to his Promiſe, who hath already reconciled you to himſelf through the death of Chriſt, to preſent you holy, and unblameable, and unreproveable in his ſight; if ye continue in the Faith grounded and ſettled, and be not moved away from the hope of the Goſpel, Col. 1. 21, 22, 23. See Philip. 1. 6. Hebr. 3.6,14. That the Apoſtle ſpeaks not here of any Promiſe of Perſeverance made to the Elect only among the Corinthians, is evident, 1. Becauſe he plainly ſpeaks to the whole Body of the Church, to the Church of God which was in Corinth, to all that call upon the name of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt. And 2*ly*, he ſpeaks not only of their being preſerved from falling away finally, but of their being preſerved unblameable; whereas it is certain, the Elect are not always ſo preſerved.

Ver. 9. (For) God is faithful by whom ye were called to the fellowſhip (or Communion) of his Son Jeſus Chriſt our Lord, (i. e. That God by whom you are called, is faithful to perform his part in preſerving you blameleſs to that day, or to confer upon you the promiſed heritance.)

Ver. 10. Now I beſeech you Brethren, by the name of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, that you all ſpeak the ſame thing, (owning and teaching the ſame Doctrine which you have received, 1 Cor. 11.2. 15.1. Rom. 16. 17. in love, and unity,) and that there be no diviſions (or Schiſms) among you, but ye be perfectly joyned together in the ſame mind, and in the ſame judgment; (in the ſame belief, and in the ſame kind affections one towards another.)

Ἐν τῷ αὐτῷ νοΐ, that ye be perfectly joyned in the ſame mind and judgment.] (d) This can be no further the Matter of an Exhortation, then it is in our power to obey it: ſeeing then it is not in any Man's power to change this ſettled judgment, or to think otherwiſe upon our entreaty, becauſe our Exhortation gives no conviction to the Underſtanding, it follows that this Exhortation muſt only be to do what was in the power of the Corinthians; viz. (1.) To prevail with them to lay aſide their ſtrife, envy, and diviſions, 1 Cor. 3.3. and the ſad conſequents of them, debate, wrath, backbiting, whiſpering, ſwelling, tumult, 2 Cor. 12. 20. and to this the reaſon of this Exhortation leads, Be of one mind and judgment; for I hear there be contentions among you, v.11. And 2*ly*, to engage them unanimouſly to own the Doctrine which they had received, and he had preached to them, 1 Cor. 15. 1. which if they were ſo minded, might eaſily be done, ſince they ſo lately had received it, the Heads of it were ſo few, 1 Cor. 15. 3. and 'twas ſo eaſie for them to conſult the Apoſtle in their doubtings of the ſenſe of what he had delivered. But at this diſtance of time from the firſt diſcovery of the Chriſtian Faith, and after it is become a Syſtem of very many, and theſe diſputable Opinions, for the truth of which we have now no Apoſtle, no living and infallible Judge of Controverſies to conſult, if it be not ſufficient to preſerve unity in the Church, that Men heartily believe all the Articles of the Apoſtles Creed which are plainly delivered in Scripture, and live peaceably and quietly together, following after peace and charity, with all that call upon the Lord Jeſus out of a pure heart, 2 Tim. 2. 22. and avoiding any Separations from their Brethren, where nothing ſinful is enjoyned to be believed, or done, to hold Communion with them, I doubt there will be little Union in the Church of God.

Ver.11. For it hath been declared to me by them that are of the Houſe of Cloe, that there are Contentions among you.

Ver.12. Now this I ſay (or mean by charging you with theſe Contentions) that every one of you ſaith (one) I am (a follower) of Paul, and (another) I of Apollo, and (a third) I of Cephas, and (a fourth) I of Christ.

Ἐγὼ εἰμὶ Παύλε, I am of Paul, &c.] Of the Gentile part of the Church of Corinth. Some preferred St. Paul, as being their Spiritual Father, who in Christ Jesus had begotten them through the Gospel, 1 Cor. 4. 14, 15. Others preferred Apollo, as being an Eloquent Man, and mighty in the Scriptures, Acts 18. 24. the Jewish Christians preferring St. Peter, as the chief Apostle of the Circumcision out of the Territories of Judæa. That this is here said, not by a fiction of Names, or Persons, under which the Apostle taxed the Heads of the Sects among the Corinthians; but that they really divided upon these accounts, is evident, first, From St. Paul's thanking God that he baptized so few of them, least they should have occasion to say he baptized in his own Name, and so made Disciples to himself. 2ly, From those words, let no man glory in men, for all are yours, whether Paul, or Apollo, or Cephas, Chap. 3. 21, 22.

Ver. 13. (Why do you not all say the same thing, viz. I am of Christ, Chap. 3. 23.) Is Christ divided (was it one Christ that sent, and enabled Paul, another that sent Peter, to preach the Gospel to you? Is not one and the same Christ preached to you by us all? or is his Body divided? 2 Cor. 11. 4.) was Paul (or any other but Christ Jesus) crucified for you? (that you should be baptized into their death, as indeed Christians are into the death of Christ) or were you baptized in the name of Paul? (or any other but Christ Jesus, so as to be called the Disciples of Paul.)

Ver. 14. I thank God (whose Providence so ordered it) that I baptized none of you but Crispus and Gaius.

Ver. 15. Least any should say that I had baptized in my own name.

Ver. 16. And I baptized also the houshold of Stephanus: besides I know not whether I baptized any other.

Οὐκ οἶδα, I know not.] Therefore his Inspiration or Divine Assistance in writing his Epistles, did not reach to an Information in such things as these, but only to direct him into all Truth he was to teach unto the Churches. See Chap. 16. 7. 1 Pet. 5. 12.

Ver. 17. For Christ (when he called me) sent me not to baptize, but to preach the Gospel (to the Gentiles, and that) not with wisdom of words, least the Cross of Christ (i. e. the Doctrine of Christ crucified) should be made of none effect (by that means.)

Οὐ γὰρ ἀπέστειλέ με Χριστὸς βαπτίζειν, Christ sent me not to baptize, but to preach, &c.] i.e. When he appeared himself, and after sent Ananias to him, he expressly sent him to preach to the Gentiles, Acts 22. 21. 26. 16, 17. to bear his Name before the Gentiles, Acts 9. 15. to be the Witness of his Resurrection, Acts 22. 15. But in that threefold rehearsal of his Commission, there is no mention made of his being sent to baptize; nor was it needful, after the general Commission given to Christ's Apostles for that end, Matth. 28. 19. That was not, say the Greek Expositors, his great business; for (e) to baptize is easie to any who is admitted to Sacred Orders; but to preach the Gospel requires a Divine Revelation, and great Assistance of the Power of God. Hence Peter himself preaches to Cornelius and his Kinsmen, but commands them to be baptized by others, Acts 10. 48. And this Gospel he sent me to preach (Not with the wisdom of words, least the Cross of Christ should be made of none effect.) Men not ascribing the prevailing of it to the power of God, but to the perswasion of Humane Wisdom, or as being not attended with Divine Assistance, God not approving, v. 19. and therefore not assisting the preaching of the Gospel in that way. Ἴσως δὲ, εἰ καλῶς ἡ ὑπερβολὴ φράσοιεν, ὡς τὰ παρ' ἕλλησι θαυμαζόμενα, εἶχεν ἢ γεγραπται, κατενόησεν ἂν τις, ὡς ἡ ἀληθείαν κεκρατηκέναι τῶν ἀνθρώπων, ἀλλὰ ἡ ἐμφανομένην ἀκολουθίαν, καὶ τὸ καλῶς φράσεως ἐψυχαγωγηκέναι τὰς ἀκροωμένας, Orig. Philocal. p. 25.

Ver. 18. For the preaching of the Cross (or of a crucified Jesus in this plain manner) is only to them that perish (by rejecting it, because not attended with this Humane Wisdom) foolishness; but unto us who are saved (by it) it is (evidently) the power of God.

Ver. 19. (Whereas the preaching of it in the words of Humane Wisdom would render it of none effect.) For it is written, I will destroy the wisdom of the Wise, and will bring to nothing the understanding of the Prudent, (Isai. 29. 14. as he hath already done, for)

Ver. 20. Where is (now the wisdom of) the wise (Philosopher among the Gentiles?) where is the (wisdom of) the Scribe (the Interpreter of the Law, or Teacher of Traditions among the Jews? (Where is the disputer of this world, (or the Searcher into the Secrets of Nature?) Hath not God (by this dispensation) made (or declared to be) foolish the wisdom of this world?

Πῦ σοφός.] That is, what hath been done by the wisdom of the Philosopher, or by the Jewish Doctors, or by the Searcher into Natures Secrets, to bring Men to the true Knowledge of God, and of his Will? Hath not God discovered their Wisdom to be but Folly, in comparison of this way which he hath chosen to bring Men to the Knowledge of himself? The Disputer of this World is by St. Jerom rendred Causarum Naturalium Scrutator, Com.

in Gal. 3. and ſo the Naturaliſts are ſtiled by the Jews (f) Sapientes Scrutationis, the Searchers into the Secrets of Nature. That the σοφὸς, i. e. the wiſe man mentioned here, refers not to the חכמים or wiſe men of the Jews, but to the Philoſophers among the Gentiles, is evident, for that the wiſdom of the wiſe, v. 19. is the wiſdom of the Heathen World, appears from v. 21. where it is ſaid, the world through wiſdom knew not God; which is true only of the Gentiles, not of the Jews. 'Tis therefore reaſonable to conceive the wiſe in the twentieth Verſe ſhould ſignifie the ſame Perſons. So doth St. Paul interpret the wiſe in theſe words, I am a debtor to the Greek, and the Barbarian, to the wiſe, and the unwiſe, Rom. 1.14. So Chryſoſtom, (g) Theodoret, Oecumenius, Theophylact upon the place, ſaying, that by the wiſe the Apoſtle underſtands the Man adorned with the Verboſity, or Eloquence of the Greeks.

Ver. 21. For (to begin with the Philoſophers) after that in the wiſdom of God (diſcernible in his Works of Creation, and Providence,) the world by (all its) wiſdom knew not (the true) God, (ſo as to glorifie him as God, and to be thankful to him for his bleſſings, Rom. 1. 21.) it pleaſed God, by the fooliſhneſs of preaching, (as they think fit to ſtile it,) to ſave them that believe (in a crucified Jeſus thus preached to them.)

Here two things are to be learnt, (1.) That from the Creation, Beauty, Order, and Grandeur of the World, and the direction of all things in it to an end, and the fitting them with Parts, and Inſtruments adapted beſt to the obtaining that end, it might be known that the Creator of the World was God alone, and ſo was only to be glorified as God, Pſal. 19. 1, 2. Rom. 1. 19, 20. Pſal. 104. 24. 136. 5. Jer. 10. 12. 51. 15. 2*ly*, That the Goſpel was ſent into the World, that they who did not know the true God acceptably by the Light of Nature, might do it by the Light of that Revelation which made ſuch a bright and glorious manifeſtation of the Power, Wiſdom, Juſtice, and Goodneſs of God, which they whom Satan had not blinded muſt diſcern, 2 Cor. 4. 4.

Ver. 22. (Which ſalvation thus tendered, the wiſe men of the world, and Jewiſh Doctors, will not accept) for the Jews require a ſign, and the Greeks ſeek after (profound) wiſdom.

Ver. 23. But (or nevertheleſs) we preach Chriſt crucified, (though his Crucifixion be) unto the Jews a ſtumbling block, and to the Greeks fooliſhneſs.

Ἰουδαίοις μὲν σκάνδαλον, unto the Jews a ſtumbling block.] Your Jeſus, ſaith (h) Tryphon, having by this fallen under the extreameſt Curſe of the Law of God, we cannot ſufficiently admire that you ſhould expect any good from God who place your hopes in a Man that was crucified. And again; We doubt of your Chriſt, who was ſo ignominiouſly crucified, for our Law ſtiles every one that is crucified accurſed. Hence by way of ignominy they ſtill call our Saviour תלוי (i) ſuſpenſum, one hanged upon the Tree.

Ver. 27. And God hath chosen the weak things of the world (unarmed fishermen, tent-makers, assisted with no humane force) to confound the things which are mighty, (to break through all the opposition that the Kings, and Rulers of the World do make against them, to pull down the strong holds, cast down the reasonings, level the heights of the Philosophers, who do exalt themselves against the knowledge of Christ, 2 Cor. 10. 4, 5.

Ver. 28. And (he hath chosen the) base things of the world, and things which are not, (i. e. the Gentiles who are esteemed base, and looked upon as nothing by the Jews) to bring to nought (Gr. to abolish) things that are (to become God's Church and People, and so to cause the Jewish Church and Oeconomy to cease, Rom. 11, 15, 17. Philip. 3. 3.

Καὶ τὰ μὴ ὄντα, &c.] To confirm this explication of the words, let it be noted,

1. That the Apostle in this Chapter often speaks conjunctly of the Jew and Gentile, interweaving them together in his Discourse. So v. 20. he speaks of the wise men of the Gentiles, and then of the Scribe among the Jews: v. 22. of the Jews requiring signs, and the Greeks wisdom; of Christ crucified being to the Jews a stumbling block, and to the Greeks foolishness. So here v. 27. he seems to speak of the Gospel preached by the Apostles in a plain familiar way, by them deemed weakness, and stiled foolishness, as confounding all the Wisdom, and the Power of the Greeks; and v. 28. of the Gentile Church succeeding, and abolishing that of the Jews. Note therefore

2. That the Jews looked upon themselves as the only εὐγενεῖς Persons of true Nobility; as being of the stock of Abraham. Even the poorest Israelite, saith R. Akibah, is to be looked upon as a Gentleman, as being the Son of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. But the Gentiles they horribly despised as the base People of the Earth, not fit to be conversed with by them, they being in their Law stiled οὐκ ἔθνος, not a Nation, Deut. 32. 21. οὐ λαὸς, not a People, Hos. 1. 10. And it being said by the Prophet, that all the Heathens are as nothing, and were accounted as nothing, Isai. 40. 17. they still accounted them as such. Hence Mordecai is introduced praying thus, Lord give not thy Scepter (n) to them that are not, Esther 4. 11. And Esdras speaking to God thus, As for the People which also came of Adam, thou hast said they are nothing, but be like unto spittle, and hast likened the abundance of them to a drop that falleth from a Vessel. And now, O Lord, these Heathens who have ever been reputed as nothing, have begun to be Lords over us, 2 Esdr. 6. 56, 57. Thus Abraham is said to be the Father of the Gentiles before that God, who calleth (o) things which are not, as if they were, Rom. 4. 17. And (p) Clemens Romanus saith of the Gentiles, He called us who were not, and would that of no being we should have a being. So fitly are the Gentiles represented here by τὰ μὴ ὄντα, τὰ ἀγενῆ, τὰ ἐξουθενημένα, the things base, accounted as nothing, and the things which are not. See also 1 Cor. 6. 4. And this is the ancient Exposition of Origen, who speaking of the Rejection of the Jews, and the Calling of the Gentiles, and God's provoking the Jews to jealousie by them, that were not a Nation, he confirms this from these words, (q) God hath chosen the base things of the World, and things which are not, that he might abolish the things which were before, that Israel according to the flesh might not glory before God.

Ver. 29. That no flesh should (have cause to) glory in his sight (either of their Wisdom, Birth, or Privileges.)

Ver. 30. (Not you who are advanced to this happy state.) For of him are you in Christ Jesus, who of God is made unto us Wisdom, and Righteousness, and Sanctification, and Redemption.

CHAP. II.

Verſe 1. AND I brethren (have acted ſutably to what I told you, that Chriſt ſent me not to preach the Goſpel with wiſdom of words, 1 Cor. 1. 17. for) when I came to you, I came not with excellency of Speech, or of (Humane) Wiſdom, declaring to you the teſtimony of God.

Τὸ μαρτύριον τοῦ Θεοῦ, the teſtimony of God.] This is the Reading of Chryſoſtom, Oecumenius, Theophylact, who intimate not in the leaſt that they knew any Copies which read μυστήριον. The Teſtimony of the Apoſtles concerning the Meſſiah, or the Son of God, his Death, his Reſurrection, and Exaltation to be a Prince and a Saviour, is called the Teſtimony of God, 1 John 5. 9. becauſe God teſtified to the truth of theſe Doctrines by ſigns, and wonders, and divers miracles, and diſtributions of the Holy Ghoſt, Hebr. 2. 4.

Ver. 2. For I determined not to know any thing among you, (i. e. to diſcover any other knowledge to you) ſave (that of) Jeſus Chriſt, and him crucified.

Τὸ εἰδέναι τι, not to know any thing.] To act as one who knew nothing ἐκτὸς ἔξω σοφίας of the Eloquence and Wiſdom of the Greeks, but only to give you the Knowledge of a crucified Saviour, which was to them fooliſhneſs, Chap. 1. 23. So Chryſoſtom.

Ver. 3. And I was with you in weakneſs, and in fear, and in much trembling, (or in much fear and trembling.)

Ἐν ἀσθενείᾳ, in weakneſs.] Of Body, and of Speech, his bodily preſence being weak (and mean) and his ſpeech contemptible, 2 Cor. 10. 10. This infirmity of his fleſh rendring him deſpicable in the eyes of others, Gal. 4. 13, 14.

Ἐν φόβῳ καὶ ἐν τρόμῳ, in fear and trembling.] By reaſon of the violent oppoſition which he found from the Jews, which made ſo deep impreſſion on him when he was at Corinth, that Chriſt ſaw fit to appear to him, and encourage him by ſaying be not afraid, but ſpeak, and hold not thy peace, for I am with thee, Acts 18. 6, 9.

Ver. 4. And my Speech and my Preaching was not with enticing words of Man's wiſdom, but in demonſtration of the Spirit, and in power, (the power of God confirming what I preach'd with ſigns and wonders, Rom. 15. 19. 2 Cor. 12. 12.

Ἐν ἀποδείξει Πνεύματος, in demonſtration of the Spirit.] That is, ſaith (r) Origen, by demonſtration of the truth of what I ſaid concerning Chriſt out of the Prophets, who ſpake by the Spirit, and comparing ſpiritual things revealed to us, with ſpiritual things revealed to them, v. 13. Reaſoning with the Jews out of the Scripture, as St. Paul's manner was, Acts 17. 2. and ſaying no other things but thoſe which Moſes, and the Prophets ſaid ſhould come, that Chriſt ſhould ſuffer, and that he ſhould riſe from the dead, and ſhould ſhew light to the Gentiles, Acts 26. 22, 23.

Others, as (s) Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, Oecumenius, Theophylact underſtand by this Phraſe the miraculous Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt, only it muſt be noted againſt Mr. le Cl. that neither the word πνεῦμα is to be reſtrained to the Gift of Tongues, but comprehends all the internal Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt; nor muſt the word δύναμις power be reſtrained to healing Diſeaſes; but comprehend all the external Gifts ſhewed upon others, as caſting out Devils, raiſing the dead.

Ver. 5. That your Faith ſhould not (ſeem to) ſtand in the wiſdom of Man, but in the power of God.

Ver. 6. Howbeit, we ſpeak the (higheſt) wiſdom among them that are perfect (men in Chriſt Jeſus, i. e. fully inſtructed in the Prin- ciples of Chriſtian Faith) yet not the wiſdom of the (Heathen) world, nor of the Princes of the World, (the Jewiſh Magiſtrates and Doctors) who come to nought (and are to be aboliſhed.)

Ἐν τοῖς τελείοις, among them that are perfect.] i. e. Fully inſtructed in the Principles of Chriſtian Faith; that this is the ſenſe of the word perfect here, appears from the oppoſition of thoſe that are perfect to Babes in Chriſt, as in thoſe words, You have need that one teach you which be the firſt Principles of the Oracles of God, and are become ſuch as have need of Milk, and not of ſtrong Drink, for every one that uſeth Milk is unskilful in the word of righteouſneſs. Therefore leaving the Principles of the Doctrine of Chriſt, let us go on unto perfection, Hebr. 5. 12, 13. 6. 1. εἰς τὴν τελειότητα. Thus to that queſtion of the young Man, What lack I yet, Chriſt anſwereth, εἰ θέλεις τέλειος εἶναι, if thou wilt be perfect, i. e. fully inſtructed in the Conditions of Life required by the Goſpel, Go ſell all, and follow me, Matth. 19. 21. So Philip. 3. 15. Let us therefore, as many as be perfect, i. e. fully inſtructed in our Chriſtian Liberty, mind this. See 1 Cor. 13. 10. Col. 1. 28. Strong meat is for them that are perfect, Hebr. 5. 14.

Ver. 7. But we ſpeak the wiſdom of God in a Myſtery, even the hidden wiſdom which God ordained before the world (to be revealed in due time) to our glory, (i. e. to be the means of our happineſs and glory.)

Τὴν ἀποκεκρυμμένην, the hidden wiſdom.] i. e. Before, not after the Revelation of it; for this Myſtery, ſaith the Apoſtle, God hath revealed to us by his Spirit, v. 10. It is the Myſtery which hath been hid from Ages and Generations, but now is made manifeſt to the Saints, Rom. 16. 25, 26. Eph. 1. 9. 3. 3, 4, 9, 10. 6. 19. Col. 1. 26, 27. 2. 2. 4. 3, 4.

Πρὸ τῶν αἰώνων, before the world.] At the beginning of the Ages of the World, Gen. 3. 15. and before any of them were compleated, or run out. Hence it is ſtiled the Myſtery concealed in the times of the preceding Ages, Rom. 16. 25. as being not made known in other Ages to the ſons of men, as now it is, Eph. 3. 5. but being a Myſtery hid from thoſe Ages, v. 9. In this ſenſe ſeemeth it to be that God hath promiſed us Eternal Life, πρὸ χρόνων αἰωνίων, from ancient Generations, ἐξ ἀρχῆς, from the beginning, ſaith Photius, and this Grace, in the promiſe of it, is ſaid to be given us in Chriſt, 2 Tim. 1. 9. πρὸ χρόνων αἰωνίων, a long time ago, ſaith Dr. Hammond, ἄνωθεν καὶ ἐξ ἀρχῆς, from the beginning, or of old, ſaith Theodoret.

Ver. 8. Which none of the Princes of this world knew, for had they known, they would not have crucified the Lord of glory.

Οὐδεὶς τῶν ἀρχόντων, none of the Princes.] Pilate, or the Jewiſh Rulers, for they only can be ſaid to have crucified the Lord of Glory, they only are the Rulers which were to be aboliſhed, v. 6. and they are ſtiled οἱ ἄρχοντες, Princes and Rulers, Luke 14. 1. 18. 18. the Princes who ſtood up, and the Rulers which took counſel againſt the Lord, and againſt his anointed, Pſal. 2. 2. Acts 4. 26. They were the Princes who delivered him to be condemned to death, and crucified him, and this they did out of ignorance, Acts 3. 17. 13. 27.

Ver. 9. But (God hath dealt with us) as it is written, (Iſa. 64. 4.) eye hath not ſeen, nor ear heard, neither have entred into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him.

Ὀφθαλμὸς οὐκ εἶδε, eye hath not ſeen.] Theſe words do not immediately reſpect the Bleſſings of another World, but are ſpoken by the Prophet of the Goſpel ſtate, and the Bleſſings then to be enjoyed by them that love God, Rom. 8. 28. For all the Prophets, ſay the (t) Jews, propheſied only of the days of the Meſſiah, but as for the world to come, or the ſtate of things then, (as it is written) eye hath not ſeen, O God, beſides thee; where the Gloſs adds, The eyes of the Prophets could not ſee theſe things. Hence the Apoſtle adds in the following Verſe, But God hath revealed them unto us by his Spirit; whereas our future Happineſs is not yet revealed, ſaith St. John, 1 John 3. 2.

Ver. 10. But God hath revealed them to us by his Spirit; for the Spirit ſearcheth all things, yea the deep (and myſterious) things of God.

Ver. 11. (And as it is among men, ſo is it here in reference to theſe things,) For what man knoweth the (ſecret) things of a man, ſave the ſpirit of a man which is in him, even ſo the (ſecret) things of God knoweth no man (Gr. none) but the Spirit of God (which is in him.)

Εἰ μὴ τὸ Πνεῦμα τοῦ Θεοῦ, but the Spirit of God.) Theſe words accord with thoſe of the Book of Wiſdom, Thy counſel who hath known except thou give wiſdom, and ſend thy Spirit from above, which knoweth and underſtandeth all things, Chap. 9. 17. v. 11. Whence it plainly ſeems to follow,

1. That the Holy Spirit is Omniſcient, as Knowing all things, even the deep things of God. Wiſdom is a loving Spirit, and will not acquit a Blaſphemer of his words; for God is witneſs of his reins, and a beholder of his heart, and a hearer of his tongue: For the Spirit of the Lord filleth the world, and that which containeth all things hath the knowledge of the voice, Wiſd. 1. 4, 5, 6, 7.

(t) Lightf. in locum.

2*ly*, That the Holy Spirit is with God, and in God, even as intimately as the Soul is in the Body, according to thoſe words of the Book of Wiſdom, She is μετὰ σε with thee, an aſſeſſor of thy Throne, and was preſent with thee when thou madeſt the world, Wiſd. 9. 4. 9.

Ver. 12. Now we have received not the Spirit of the World, (which ſuggeſts worldly wiſdom) but the Spirit which is of God, that we might know the things that are freely given us of God.

Ver. 13. Which things alſo we ſpeak, not in the words which mans wiſdom teacheth, but which the Holy Ghoſt teacheth, comparing ſpiritual things with ſpiritual.

Πνευματικὰ πνευματικοῖς συγκρίνοντες, comparing ſpiritual things with ſpiritual.] That is, ſaith Mr. Cl. ſpeaking ſpiritual things to ſpiritual men. But where doth συγκρίνω ſignifie to ſpeak, or why doth he limit what is ſpoken to the ſpiritual man, ſince the Apoſtles ſpake as well to the unbelieving Jew and Gentile, as to the ſpiritual man? And how doth it appear that Ἀνθρωπ⊙ Man is here to be underſtood, becauſe it follows in the next Verſe, rather than πράγματα things, which is underſtood in the immediate foregoing words? The interpretation of the Fathers is much more probable, viz. we ſpeak theſe things in the words taught by the Holy Ghoſt, (u) comparing the things which were writ by the Spirit in the Old Teſtament, with what is now revealed to us by the ſame Spirit, and confirming our Doctrines from them. Moreover from this, and the preceding Verſes, as alſo from the following, it is exceeding evident that the Apoſtles ſpake and writ by inſpiration of the Holy Ghoſt, as did the Prophets of old time, and delivered only thoſe things as from God, which God revealed to them by the Holy Spirit, according to thoſe words of St. Peter, We preach the Goſpel to you by the Holy Ghoſt ſent down from Heaven, 1 Pet. 1. 12.

Ver. 14. But the natural man (who acteth only by the Principles of Humane Reaſon, and of worldly Wiſdom) receiveth not the things of the Spirit, for they are fooliſhneſs to him (as being deſtitute of his Humane Wiſdom, Chap. 1. 23.) neither can he know them (by any ſtudy of his own) becauſe they are ſpiritually diſcerned, (i. e. by Scripture Prophecies, and by the Revelation of the Spirit, and therefore while he continues to reject this way of knowledge, he cannot receive them.

Ψυχικος ἄνθρωπ⊙. the natural man.] By the Natural Man, ſaith Mr. Cl. is not here meant the man that makes uſe of nothing but Reaſon, but the man that is wholly devoted, and enſlaved to earthly things, and entirely taken up with the Concernments of this Life, like a brute Creature. The oppoſition here made betwixt ſpiritual and animal things, ſaith he, plainly proves what I have ſaid. Whereas there is not a word ſpoken of ψυχικὰ, animal things, in the whole Chapter, but only an oppoſition betwixt ψυχικὸς, the natural or animal, and the πνευματικὸς ſpiritual perſon, whom I ſhall prove to be a perſon endued with a ſpiritual Affiatus, and by that confound his Notion. That the Natural Man here is the man who rejects Revelation, and admits of no higher Principle to judge of things by but Philoſophy, and demonſtration from the Principles of Natural Reaſon, or in the words of (x) Porphyry, ἡ κατὰ τὸ λογισμὸν πειθὼ ἐνεισκομιζόμενος, of perſuaſion to be found out by rational deduction, is the expreſs aſſertion of (y) Theodoret, St. (z) Chryſoſtom, Photius, Oecumenius, and Theophylact upon the place, they therefore thought the word would bear this ſenſe, and evident it is to any one who conſiders the Chain of the Apoſtle's Diſcourſe from Chap. 1. 17. to the end of this Chapter, that this muſt be the ſenſe; for v. 17. he begins to declare, he preached the Goſpel οὐκ ἐν σοφίᾳ λόγου not in wiſdom of words, or humane wiſdom; here tells that he did it not καθ' ὑπεροχὴν λόγου ἢ σοφίας, not with excellency of ſpeech, or humane wiſdom; there the Perſons which reject the Goſpel are σοφοὶ, the wiſe men of the world; the 19, 20, 21 v. ſtiled σοφοὶ κατὰ σάρκα wiſe men according to the fleſh; the Greeks, that ſeek for wiſdom, v. 22. they who eſteemed it fooliſhneſs are the ſame Greeks, v. 23. Here it is the ψυχικὸς, or the natural man who receives it not, and to whom it is fooliſhneſs. Who therefore ſees not that the Natural Man, is the ſame with the Wiſe man, the Diſputer, the Philoſopher, the Greek there? There the Goſpel thus rejected by them, for want of this Wiſdom, and accounted fooliſhneſs, is indeed the power of God, and the wiſdom of God, v. 24. Here it is the wiſdom of God in a myſtery revealed to the Apoſtles by the Spirit, v. 7, 10. the Spirit, not of the World, or of Humane Wiſdom, but by the Spirit they had received from God, that they might know it, v. 12. and therefore they delivered it not in the words of Humane Wiſdom, in which the Greeks gloried, and which they ſought for in the Goſpel, but in Words taught them by the Holy Ghoſt, v. 13. when then it follows, But the natural man receives not τὰ τῆς Πνεύματος the things of the Spirit; must he not be the Man who receives not the things taught by the Revelation of the Holy Ghost? The opposition which he bears to the πνευματικὸς, the Man who hath this wisdom revealed to him by the Spirit of God, demonstrates this to be the sense.

Οὐ δέχε, &c. He receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God.] But counts them foolishness, Chap. 1. 23. when propounded to him, because he doth not see them proved from Principles of Natural Reason, by Philosophical Deductions, which is the Wisdom he seeks after, v. 22. Hence again it is evident he is the Greek, and not the Sensual Person.

Οὐ δύναται γνῶναι, he cannot know them.] Viz. By that Wisdom which he alone will be conducted by, because they are spiritually discerned, or by the Revelation of the Spirit; for being Mysteries, they are not knowable by Humane Reason, till God is pleased to reveal them.

Note also, that the Apostle doth not here discourse of the Inability of an Heathen to understand the sense of any Revelations discovered to him, for how then are they to be discovered to him, but only of his Inability to find out, and originally come to the knowledge of them by the meer Light of Reason; and from the denial of this he infers the necessity of a Supernatural Revelation, that the hidden Wisdom of God may be made known to the World: Nor doth he say, that the Natural Man cannot understand these Revelations, when discovered to him, because he wants further means to do it, but only that he cannot know them, before they are discovered by the Revelation of the Spirit; and that he will not then receive them, because they are not taught him, as the Wisdom of the World is, by deductions from Principles of Humane Reason. The Jew, saith he, admits of Revelation, and so he only doth require a sign to prove this Revelation; but the Greek seeks after Humane Wisdom, and because he finds not that in our way of preaching he will not receive the Revelation, though it be confirm'd by demonstration of the Spirit and of Power.

Ver. 15. But he that is Spirtual (i. e. who hath the Revelation of the Spirit) judgeth (or discerneth) all things (relating to this Mystery, v. 7.) yet he himself is judg'd of no man, or discerned by none who hath no higher Principle then that of Nature to discern things by.]

Ἀνακρίνει, judgeth all things.] The Passive ἀνακρίνεται is rendred discerned in the foregoing Verse, and so should have been rendred here; and the Active searcheth, or discerneth, as Acts 17. 11. and here Chap. 10. 25, 27. 14. 24.

Ver. 16. For who (without a Revelation) hath known the mind of the Lord that he may instruct him, (or which will and can instruct him in these things? sure no man by natural Principles;) but we (who are spiritual) have the mind of Christ, (and so are able to discern and instruct others in it.)

Πνευματικὸς here, and in other places of this Epistle, is not the Man who is adorned with the Fruits of the good Spirit, much less, as Mr. Cl. suggests, the Man who relishes, or is affected with the spiritual Doctrines of the Gospel; but * ὁ τῷ πνεύματι χάριτι ἀξιωθείς, the Man who is endued with a spiritual afflatus, and hath those Gifts of the Spirit which are stiled the Word of Wisdom, and of Knowledge, Chap 12.8. For, (1.) he is the Man who speaks in demonstration of the Spirit, v. 4. the Wisdom of God in a Mystery, v. 7. to whom God hath revealed it by the Holy Spirit, v. 10. that he might know the things that are freely given us of God, v. 12. and who speaks of them in words taught by the Holy Ghost, v. 13. and who by this Revelation of the Spirit hath the mind of Christ made known to him, v. 16. who speaks ἐν πνεύματι Θεοῦ by the Spirit of God, and by the Holy Ghost, Chap. 12. 2. Such were the Prophets in the first Age of the Church, who by this Afflatus performed all Sacred Offices in the Church, before they had stated Church Officers among them. See Note on 1 Cor. 14.32. Whence the Apostle saith, If any man be a Prophet among you, or spiritual, let him know, (i.e. acknowledge and discern by his spiritual Afflatus) that the things which I write unto you are the Commandments of the Lord, 1 Cor. 14. 37. And to those Prophets he writes thus, Brethren, if any man be overtaken with a fault, you that are spiritual restore such a one in the spirit of meekness, Gal. 6. 1. See the Note there This is the constant Notion of the Spiritual Man in (b) Irenæus, who speaking of those Men who had the Prophetical Gifts for the Edification of the Church, saith, they are the Men whom the Apostle stiles spiritual. When afterwards Church Governours were appointed, they seem to have been chosen out of these Spiritual Men, or to have had for a time, together with their Ordination, this Gift, which therefore he stiles the Gift of Truth. And from whom, saith he, the Truth is to be learned by others. If the Church of Rome would from Verſe 1. AND I Brethren, (though I ſpeak the higheſt wiſdom among them that are perfect, yet) could (I) not ſpeak to you as to ſpiritual (perſons) but as unto carnal (by reaſon of thoſe fruits of the fleſh which ſtill abide in you, v. 3. and your affection to thoſe who are only wiſe according to the fleſh, Chap. 1. 28.) and even as to Babes in Chriſt.

Ver. 2. I have fed you with Milk (the Principles of the Doctrine of Chriſt, Hebr. 5. 12, 13. 6. 1. See 1 Cor. 15. 2, 3.) and not with meat, (the higher Doctrines of Chriſtianity) for hitherto (or then) ye were not able to bear it, neither yet now are ye able.

Ver. 3. For ye are yet carnal; for whereas there is (yet) among you envying, and ſtrife, and diviſions, (which are the works of the fleſh, Gal. 5. 20, 21.) are ye not carnal, and walk as men (who have little of the Spirit in you. See Note on Chap. 9. 8.)

Ver. 4. For while one ſaith (in oppoſition to each other) I am (the Diſciple) of Paul, and another I am of Apollos, are ye not carnal?

Σαρκικοὶ, carnal.] This word being here plainly applied to the Works of the Fleſh, ſeems to imply that the Spiritual Man oppoſed to him, ſhould ſignifie the Man endued with the Fruits of the Good Spirit, or who walketh in the ſpirit, not fulfilling the luſts of the fleſh, Rom. 8. 1, 4. Gal. 5. 16. And thus the Greek Interpreters do underſtand theſe words; hence noting, that it is poſſible for Men to have great Gifts, as the Corinthians had, and yet be carnal. Yet (a) Irenæus interprets the words thus, that they were carnal, becauſe the Spirit of the Father did not reſt upon them; i. e. becauſe he being the Spirit of Love and Union, would not abide with them when they indulged to Envy, and Diviſions, or be unto them a Spirit of Inſtruction; and according to this Interpretation, he muſt deny them to be Spiritual, as the word ſignifies one who enjoys ſome Spiritual Gift, and receives ſome illumination from him. Whatever be the ſenſe, it muſt be noted that the Apoſtle doth not here ſtile them Carnal, in that worſt ſenſe in which the Carnal Perſon is repreſented as one who is not ſubject to the Law of God, neither indeed can be, Rom. 8. 7, 8. and therefore can do nothing pleaſing to God; and as it wholly doth exclude us from any intereſt in Chriſt, Gal. 5. 24. for he allows them to be babes in Chriſt, v. 1. But as it imports Men, through the too great prevalency of their Carnal Appetites, luſting againſt the Spirit, ſtill ſubject to ſuch things as ſhew'd ſome ſtrong Remainders in them of a Carnal Mind.

But yet one great difficulty remains ſcarce obſerved by any Interpreter excepting Crellius, viz. how the ſame Corinthians could be ſuch Babes in Chriſt, and have ſuch need of milk, and not of meat, and yet be inriched in all utterance and knowledge, 1 Cor. 1. 5. and abound in faith, utterance, and knowledge, 2 Cor. 8. 7.

I anſwer, That theſe Encomiums muſt be reſtrained to ſome few of them who were their extraordinary Church Officers, and enjoyed this Faith and Knowledge for the Inſtruction of the reſt; and then, notwithſtanding this, it may be true that the Apoſtle could not write to the generality of them as ſuch, but rather as to Babes in Chriſt. Or 2*ly*, this Faith, Utterance, and Knowledge muſt be reſtrained to the Gift of Miracles, of Songs, and Prophecy, which might be given for the Confirmation of the Goſpel, and the Good of others, to them who were not Spiritual in the beſt ſenſe, but of very ſmall proficiency in the ſaving Fruits of that good Spirit. Hence we find them puffed up on the account of theſe Gifts, envying others who had them in an higher meaſure, and abuſing them to vain oſtentation and confuſion in the Church, and not to Edification, which things ſufficiently evidence they were but Babes in Chriſt,

Ver. 5. Who then is Paul, or who is Apollos (not Authors of your Faith) but (only) Miniſters by whom ye believed, (which Faith alſo they wrought in you) even as the Lord gave (his Gifts) to every man (of you, and his bleſſing on their labours.)

Ver. 6. I have planted (the Goſpel among you) Apollos watered (the Seed ſown) but God (only) gave the encreaſe (of it.)

Ver. 7. So then neither is he that planteth (to be eſteemed as) any thing, nor he that watereth, but (the glory of all muſt be aſcribed to) God that giveth the encreaſe.

Θεῷ, to God, &c.] Whence it is evident

that

that there can be no cause why you should run into factions about, or desire to be named from them, who have no excellency but from God, and do nothing but by his assistance.

Ver. 8. Now he that planteth, and he that watereth are one [in their design and ministry] and every man (of them) shall receive his own reward (from that God whose Workmen they are;) according to his own labour.

Ἓν εἰσιν, are one.] Κατὰ τὴν διακονίαν, according to their Ministry, saith (b) Clemens Alex. as being God's Ministers in this Dispensation, or ἑνότητι τοῦ πνεύματος, as having both received their different Gifts from the same Spirit, it being one, and the same Spirit who divideth to every man as he will, 1 Cor. 12. 11.

Ver. 9. (I say according to his labour) For we are Labourers together with God, (his grace assisting us;) ye are Gods husbandry, ye are Gods building.

Ver. 10. According to the grace of God given to me as a wise Master builder, (assisted by Divine Wisdom,) I have laid the foundation Jesus Christ, and him crucified, 1 Cor. 2. 2.) and another (coming after me) buildeth thereon, but let every man take heed how he buildeth thereupon.

Ἀρχιτέκτων, a Master builder.] So the Jews call their wise men בנאים Architecti. See Buxtorf. Lex. Talm. p. 318. which Metaphor the Apostle here uses.

Ver. 11. For other (true) foundation can no man lay then that (which) is laid (already by me) which is (faith in) Jesus Christ.

Ver. 12. Now if any man build upon this foundation gold, silver, precious stones, (i. e. sound Doctrine, which will bear the trial of the fire) wood, hay, stubble, (Humane Eloquence and Wisdom, Legal Rites, and Judaical Traditions, which will be abolished, and vanish away.)

Ver. 13. Every mans work shall be made manifest; for the day (of Christ's Advent to destroy the Jewish Temple, Church, and Nation) shall declare it, because it shall be (Gr. it is) revealed by fire, (i.e. to be attended with great tribulation, Matth. 24. 21. πυρώσει ὑμῖν πειρασμὸν, with burning for trial, 1 Pet. 4. 12.) and the fire shall try every mans work of what sort it is (whether it be gold or silver, to abide the fire, or hay and stubble to be consumed by it.)

Ver. 14. If any mans work abide which he hath built thereupon, (as sound Evangelical Doctrine will, suffering nothing by, but being confirmed by the conflagration which shall burn up the Jewish Oeconomy) he shall receive a reward, (be approved as a wise builder, and shall be eminently preserved from the evils of that day of trial, Matth. 24. 13.)

Ver. 15. If any mans work shall be burnt, (as theirs must be who build upon the foundation Legal Observances, and Judaical Rites, for they must perish with that Church and Temple which is the foundation of them) he shall suffer (the) loss (of all his labour) but he himself shall be saved, yet so as by fire (i. e. not without great hazard and difficulty, as one snatch'd out of the fire.)

Ὡς διὰ πυρός, as out of the fire.] To be saved out of the fire, is a Proverbial Speech concerning them that escape with great danger out of a Calamity, so it is used in the Old Testament, I have pluck'd them as a fire-brand out of the fire, Amos 4. 11. Is not this a brand pluck'd out of the fire, Zach. 3. 2. And in the New, Others save with fear, plucking them out of the fire, Jude 23. So L. Æmilius in (c) Livy saith, He escaped the popular flame half burnt. The interpretation of Sir Norton Knatchbull, He shall be saved, but so as that he pass through the fire of Persecution with constancy to the faith, accords well with Christ's words, but not with the use of this Proverbial Expression. Now hence 'tis evident, that the Apostle speaks not of the Gnosticks, who denied the Resurrection, 1 Cor. 15. 14, 17. and so believed in vain, and taught that Christ might be denied with the mouth in the time of Persecution, and so were then ashamed of him, and also were abominably filthy, both in Doctrine, and Manners; for of such the Apostle would not say, they should be saved, yet so as by fire; but so as Jude and Peter do, they are of old ordained to condemnation, their judgment lingreth not, and their damnation doth not slumber, Jude 4, 13. 2 Pet. 2, 3.

Ἡ γὰρ ἡμέρα δηλώσει, for the day will declare it.] Here observe

1*st*, That a day absolutely put, doth often signifie a day, or a time of punishment; so they that come after him shall be astonished at his day, Job 18. 21. The Lord shall laugh at him, for he seeth that his day is coming, Psal. 37. 13. Remember, O Lord, the Children of Edom, what they did in the day of Jerusalem, Psal. 137. 7. So the day of Midian, Isa. 9. 4. Wo unto them for their day is come, the time of their Visitation, Jer. 50. 27.

2*ly*, That in like manner the day here mentioned is the day of our Lord's coming to destroy the unbelieving Jews to burn their Temple, and to destroy the Jewish Oeconomy, will appear probable from the description of that day, as a Refiners fire, Mal. 3. 2, 3. 4. 1, 2. Joel 2. 1, 13, 30, 31. And as the fire of an Oven, burning up the Chaff and Stubble; for, behold, the day of the Lord cometh that shall burn as an Oven, and all the proud, and all that do wickedly, shall be as stubble, and the day that cometh shall burn them up.

But whether ye understand these words of that day, or any other day of Judgment, this is certain, that the Apoſtle cannot be here ſuppoſed to ſpeak of the R. Purgatory fire, (1ſt,) becauſe the fire the Apoſtle ſpeaks of, as (d) Origen hath noted, is not πῦρ ὑλικὸν καὶ αἰσθητὸν, ἀλλὰ ἐπολομικὸν, fire properly, but metaphorically ſo called, as appears from theſe words, he ſhall eſcape as by fire. 2*ly*, Becauſe this fire is to try every mans work, Paul's and Apollo's, as well as theirs who built on the Foundation hay, and ſtubble; and ſure they will not ſay Paul and Apollos went to Purgatory. 3*ly*, This fire ſhall try every man's work of what ſort it is; now Purgatory fire doth not try mens works, but puniſh them for them.

Ver. 16. (Moreover, to paſs from their falſe Doctrines, to the evil effects of them in your diviſions.) Know ye not that ye (Chriſtians) are the Temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you (the Chriſtian Church, as the Shechinah did in the Temple.)

Ver. 17. If (then) any man corrupt the Temple of God (by dividing that Church, which is his Temple, and in which one and the ſame Spirit dwells, into parts and factions) him ſhall God deſtroy, for the Temple of the Lord is holy, (and therefore not to be prophaned by thoſe Diviſions which render you carnal, 1 Cor. 3. 1, 3.) which Temple ye are.

Εἴ τις τὸν ναὸν τοῦ Θεοῦ φθείρει, if any man corrupt the Temple of God.] I have in the Paraphraſe followed the common Interpretation of theſe words, but the like words uſed Chap. 6. from v. 15—19. by way of dehortation from Fornication, and 2 Cor. 6. 16. from Communion with Heathens in their Idolatrous Rites, and evil Practiſes, and by way of Inducement to cleanſe our ſelves from all filthineſs of fleſh and ſpirit, Chap. 7. 1. more naturally incline us to refer theſe Verſes to the corrupting the Temple of God by filthineſs of the Fleſh, Uncleanneſs, and Fornication, or by filthineſs of the Spirit, i. e. Idolatrous Practiſes, both which the Corinthians did. See the Note on 2 Cor. 7. 1. and then the Connexion will run thus, I have declared you to be a building of God, v. 9. as being built up together for an habitation of God through the Spirit, Eph. 2. 22. If therefore you do not keep this Temple of God holy, but corrupt it by joyning the Temple of God with Idols, 2 Cor. 6. 16. or prophane and defile it, with Uncleanneſs and Fornication, you may expect that theſe ſins by which God's Temple is deſtroyed, ſhould end in their own ruine and deſtruction.

Ver. 18. (And becauſe you break into theſe diviſions on the account of, or are taught theſe practiſes by the Philoſophers of this Age, Men in whom you glory for their Eloquence and Wiſdom,) Let no man deceive himſelf, if any man among you ſeemeth to be wiſe in (the wiſdom and learning of) this world, let him (embrace that Goſpel and Doctrine of Chriſt which the World calls fooliſhneſs, and ſo) become a Fool (to them) that he may be wiſe (according to the wiſdom of God, 1 Cor. 1. 24, 25.)

Σοφὸς ἐν τῷ αἰῶνι τούτῳ, to be wiſe in the wiſdom of this World.] That the Corinthians were induced to eat things offered to Idols in the Idol Temples by Men pretending to great knowledge. See Chap. 8. 1, 2. That they alſo introduced among them the Doctrine of the lawfulneſs of Fornication. See Note on Chap. 5. 1. on Chap. 6. 16. on Chap. 7. 1. And in this ſenſe of theſe two laſt Verſes agree the deſcants of the Ancients, who ſay the Apoſtle v. 17. begins to ſpeak περὶ τῶν πεπορνευκότων of him that had committed Fornication, Chap. 5. 1. and againſt them qui turpiter viventes corpora ſua violando corruperunt, who by filthy practiſes had corrupted their Bodies, and violated the Temple of the Holy Ghoſt: Theſe Teachers ſeem to have been the Nicolaitans, who received their Doctrines from the Philoſophers.

Ver. 19. For the wiſdom of the world is fooliſhneſs with God; for it is written (Job 5. 13.) He taketh the wiſe in their own craftineſs, (cauſing one Sect of Philoſophers to deſtroy what another ſtabliſhed, and ſo ſhewing the uncertainty and vanity of their pretended wiſdom.)

Ver. 20. And again (Pſal. 94. 11.) the Lord knoweth the thoughts (and machinations) of the wiſe that they are vain.

Ver. 21. Therefore let no man (ſo) glory in men (as to be induced by their eſteem of them to rend or divide the Church, or to indulge to thoſe vile practiſes which corrupt the Temple of God,) for all things (or perſons) are yours (as being appointed for your ſervice.)

Ver. 22. Whether Paul, or Apollos, or Cephas, they have received their Apoſtleſhip for your ſakes) or the world, (as being made for you) or life, or death, or things preſent, or things to come, all are yours, (as being all deſigned for your good.)

Πάντα ὑμῶν ἐστιν, all are yours.] The Jews believed that the World was made for them, and that God deſpiſed the Gentiles, and looked upon them as nothing when he made it, 2 Eſdras 6. 55, 59. The Apoſtle on the contrary affirms, the World was made for the Gentiles converted to the Chriſtian Faith: And adds, that the Apoſtles had received their Gifts and Authority for their ſakes, that if Life were continued to them under continual Perils, it was for their furtherance and joy in the faith, Philip. 1. 25. or if we be always given up to death, ſo that death worketh in us, it is that life may work in you, 2 Cor. 4. 11, 12. for we ſuffer all things for you, v. 15. 2 Tim. 2. 10. that things preſent, the Preſſures they now ſuffered; and things to come, the Proſperity, or Adverſity they might afterwards be ſubject to, were for their ſakes; for whether we be afflicted it is for your conſolation and ſalvation; or whether we be comforted it is for your conſolation and ſalvation, 2 Cor. 1. 6.

Ver. 23. And you are (only) Chriſts, (who is your head) and Chriſt is Gods, (or of God, having as Mediator, his Commiſſion and his Power from him, and acting all things to his glory.)

Χριστὸς δὲ τοῦ Θεοῦ, and Chriſt is Gods.] Here the Socinians cry out, Vide hic diſcrimen inter Deum & Chriſtum: See here the difference betwixt God and Chriſt. Hence it appears, ſaith Crellius, that Chriſt is in no wiſe God moſt high, as having another above him, as his Head, on whom he depends, and from whom he is here manifeſtly diſtinguiſhed.

But the Fathers thought not ſo, who ſay Chriſt is of God, ὡς γεγεννημένον ἡμῶν, καὶ ὡς αἰῶνας ἔχων τὸν Πατέρα, as being begotten by him before all Ages, and having him for his Father, ἐξ αὐτοῦ γεγεννημένος καὶ τὸ θεῖον αὐτοῦ λαβών, as receiving the Divine Nature from him. Others grant this of Chriſt as Mediator betwixt us and God, in which ſenſe he performing that Office as Man, or by virtue of his Humane Nature, in which alone he could be a Prophet ſent from God, or offer up himſelf to the death for us, or intercede in our behalf, or be exalted to the right hand of God, to be a Prince and a Saviour, He therefore was exalted thus to the Glory of God the Father, and ſo depended on him in the exerciſe of that Office. See Note on 1 Cor. 11. 3.

CHAP. IV.

Verſe 1. (WE are yours, I ſay, yet) let a man (alſo) ſo account of us as of the Miniſters of Chriſt, and Stewards of the Myſteries of God, (i. e. of thoſe Revelations of the Goſpel which are ſtiled Myſteries, as being not before revealed to the World. See Note on Chap. 2. 2, 7.

Ver. 2. Moreover it (chiefly) is required in Stewards, that a man (taking that office upon him) be found faithful.

Ver. 3. But (whether it be thus, or not) with me it is a very ſmall thing that I ſhould be judg'd of you, or of mans judgment, yea, I judge not my own ſelf, (ſo as to acquieſce in that judgment.)

Ἵνα ὑφ' ὑμῶν ἀνακριθῶ, that I ſhould be judged of you.] Not that he was unconcerned, whether the Corinthians had a good eſteem of him, or not, the contrary is evident from the whole drift of his Epiſtles, in which he labours to convince them of the truth of his Doctrine, and of his ſincerity in the diſcharge of his Office, and rejoyceth greatly in their affection to him, 2 Cor. 6. 13. 7. 14, 15. 18. 24. His meaning only is, that their judgment is little to him, in compariſon of the final and unerring Judgment of the Lord.

Ver. 4. For I know nothing (of unfaithfulneſs) by my ſelf, yet am I not thereby juſtified (at God's Tribunal) but he that (further) judgeth me is the Lord.

Οὐκ ἐν τούτῳ δεδικαίωμαι, yet am I not thereby juſtified.] Here alſo the Apoſtle doth not intend to ſay that he, and others, could have no good aſſurance of their preſent Juſtification, and Favour with God, from the teſtimony of an upright Conſcience, which, ſaith St John, gives confidence with God, 1 John 3. 21. for then farewel all Joy and Comfort in this World. He doth himſelf aſſure us, that their rejoycing was this, even the teſtimony of their Conſcience, that in ſimplicity and godly ſincerity they had their converſation in this world, 2 Cor. 1. 12. He adviſeth all Men to approve their actions to themſelves, and then, ſaith he, they ſhall have rejoycement in themſelves, and not in another, Gal. 6. 4. His meaning therefore is, that our final Juſtification, or Abſolution from Condemnation, depends not on that Judgment which we paſs upon our ſelves, but upon that which God, the righteous Judge, will paſs upon us at the laſt. Here alſo Note in St. Paul another ſenſe of Juſtification, as it relates to our Abſolution from Condemnation, and our approbation as Righteous at the laſt day, which will be, ſaith he, according to our Works, 2 Cor. 5. 10. and our fidelity in execution of the Truſts committed to us, v. 2.

Ver. 5. Therefore judge nothing before the time, until the Lord come, who both will bring to light the hidden things of darkneſs, and will make manifeſt the counſels of the heart, and then ſhall every man have praiſe of God.

Μὴ πρὸ καιροῦ τι κρίνετε, judge nothing before the time.] The Apoſtle doth not here condemn all Judgment, Civil or Eccleſiaſtical, of any Perſons, Deeds, or Words, or bid us ſuſpend our judgment of things occurring to our Senſes, till the Day of Judgment, but only forbid our Cenſures of things uncertain, of which no righteous Judgment can be paſſed, becauſe we cannot be certain of the truth of that Judgment, and of things which it belongs not to us to judge of.

Ὃς φωτίσει τὰ κρυπτὰ τοῦ σκότους, who will make manifeſt the counſels of the heart.] Hence note, that Jeſus Chriſt muſt have the knowledge of the ſecrets of the hearts of all Men ſubject to his Judgment, and ſo muſt be that God who alone knows the hearts of all Men, 1 Kings 8. 39. and is alone the ſearcher of all hearts, 1 Chron. 28. 9. to give every man according to his ways, and according to the fruit of his doings, Jer. 17. 10. and therefore Chriſt expreſly aſcribes this knowledge to himſelf, by ſaying, All the Churches ſhall know that I am he which ſearcheth the reins and hearts, and I will give to every one of you according to your works, Rev. 2. 23.

Ver. 6. And theſe things, Brethren, I have in a figure transferred to my ſelf, (one rude in ſpeech, but not in knowledge, 2 Co. 11. 6.) and to Apollos (a man of eloquence and wiſdom, Acts 18. 24.) for your ſakes, that you might learn (in the example of us) not to think of (other) men above that which is written, (viz. that we are only Miniſters of Chriſt by which ye believed, Chap. 3. 5.) that no one of you be puffed up for one againſt another, (becauſe of the different Gifts vouchſafed to them.)

Μετεσχημάτισα, I have in a figure transferred.] This ſeems not to refer, as moſt Interpreters conceive, to what the Apoſtle had ſaid Chap. 1. 10. viz. their ſaying I am of Paul, I am of Apollo, I of Cephas, for here is nothing ſaid of Cephas, but it refers to what he had ſaid Chap. 3. 5, 6, 7, 8. that Paul and Apollo were only Miniſters by whom they believed; that therefore neither Paul nor Apollo were to be look'd upon as any thing, they doing nothing but by the Grace given them by that God to whom therefore the whole praiſe was due for the ſucceſs of all their Labours; and this Scheme of Speech I have uſed, ſaith he, touching my ſelf and Apollo, inſtructing you not to think highly of other Doctors among you, who have done leſs for the promoting your Faith than we have done.

Ver. 7. For who maketh thee (what Doctor ſoever thou art) to differ from another, or what (Gift) haſt thou which thou haſt not received (from God?) Now if thou didſt receive it, why doſt thou glory as if thou hadſt not received it (from him?)

Τίς σε διακρίνει, who maketh thee to differ.] The Apoſtle manifeſtly ſpeaking here of thoſe Gifts of the Spirit which were immediately infuſed without Humane induſtry, and were diſpenſed by God, and by his Spirit, according to his good pleaſure, 1 Cor. 3. 5. 12. 11. it cannot be hence argued that no Man doth any thing to make himſelf differ from another in any Vertue, or pious Diſpoſitions. For to what purpoſe are Men continually exhorted, and ſtirred up by powerful Motives to all Chriſtian Duties, and particularly to excel in Vertue, if theſe Exhortations and Motives are not propoſed to engage them to exerciſe theſe Chriſtian Vertues, to chuſe the good, and refuſe the evil; and if one Man, upon conſideration of theſe Motives, doth chuſe to live a pious Life, whereas another is not by the ſame Motives prevailed on ſo to do, doth he not differ from another by virtue of that choice? And though the Grace of God by way of Excitation worketh in us thus to will, yet ſince our Faculties do firſt deliberate upon, and then comply, and chuſe to do that thing to which this Grace excites us, if to conſider be to differ from him that doth not ſo, and to comply with, and embrace the Call of God, be to differ from him who complies not with the ſame Call, it muſt be certain, that as God's Grace preventing and exciting, ſo my Faculties co-operating, tend to make me differ from another, though having alſo theſe Faculties from God, the Action may be well aſcribed, and the whole Glory of it muſt be due to him.

Seeing then no Act of Vertue, and no good Habit is produced in us without a frequent and manifold co-operation of our own Faculties to the ſame Action and Habit, whereas theſe Gifts of Tongues, Interpretation, Prophecy, were Gifts conferred upon Chriſtians in the Primitive times, without any ſuch co-operation of their Faculties, it cannot with like reaſon be enquired of the former, as it may be of theſe Gifts, Who made thee to differ from another in them? and though all ground, and even pretenſe of glorying by this immediate infuſion of theſe Gifts, is evidently excluded, yet the Apoſtles do themſelves glory in thoſe good Actions which they chooſe to do, 1 Cor. 9. 15, 16. 2 Cor. 1. 12. 11. 10. and ſay to others thus, Let every man try and approve his own work, and then ſhall he have καύχημα rejoycing, or glorying in himſelf, Gal. 6. 4.

Ver. 8. Now ye Corinthians are full (of ſecular wiſdom) now ye are rich (both in wealth and in ſpiritual gifts, 1 Cor. 14. 26.) ye have reigned as Kings, (flouriſhing in the enjoyment of theſe things in all tranquillity and honour) without (any want of) us; and I would to God ye did reign (indeed, and not in conceit only) that we poor perſecuted and deſpiſed Apoſtles) alſo might reign with you.

Κεκορεσμένοι ἐστε, ἐπλουτήσατε, ye are filled, ye are rich.] All the ancient Commentators having noted in their Prefaces to this Epiſtle, that (a) Corinth was a City which abounded in wealth, and was full of Rhetoricians, and of Philoſophers, and that hence aroſe their diſorders, pride, and vain-glory, as well as from their Gifts, I thought fit in the Paraphraſe to take notice of both.

Ver. 9. For I think that God hath ſent forth us, the Apoſtles, laſt, (i. e. as the laſt, or the Meridian Gladiators) as it were men appointed unto death; for we are made a Spectacle to the World, to Angels, and to Men.

(a) Κέκριται μὲν πλουσιωτάτη Βιωτικοῖς ἐκόμα, καὶ πρὸ τῶν ἄλλων πάντων τῇ τῶν χρημάτων περιουσίᾳ — καὶ Ῥητόρων πολλῶν ἔμπλεως ἡ πόλις καὶ φιλοσόφων.

Ὡς ἐπθανατίους, as men appointed unto death.] Here the Apostle seems to allude to the Roman Spectacles, τῆς τῶν θηριομάχων, καὶ μονομαχίας ἀπέχρη, that of the (b) Bestiarij, and the Gladiators, where in the morning Men were brought upon the Theater to fight with wild Beasts, and to them was allow'd Armour to defend themselves, and smite the Beast that did assail them: But in the Meridian Spectacle were brought forth the Gladiators naked, and without any thing to defend them from the Sword of the Assailant; and he that then escaped, was only reserved for slaughter to another day; so that these Men might be well called ἐπθανάτοι, Men appointed for death; and this being the last appearance on the Theater for that day, they are said here to be set forth ἔσχατοι the last. Of these two Spectacles (c) Seneca speaks thus: In the Morning Men are exposed to Lions, and to Bears; at Midday to their Spectators; those that kill are exposed to one another; the Victor is detained for another slaughter; the conclusion of this fight is death. The former fighting compared to this was Mercy; here is only butchery; they have nothing to cover them, their whole Body is exposed to every stroke, &c. Hence (d) Tertullian cites the words thus, Puto nos Deus Apostolos novissimos elegit velut Bestiarios; I think God hath chosen us Apostles last, as Men to be exposed to wild Beasts.

Ver. 10. We are (counted as) fools for Christ's sake, but ye (who flourish in your eloquence and wisdom, are accounted) wise in Christ; we are weak (as to bodily presence, 2 Cor. 10. 10. and bodily infirmities, 1 Cor. 2. 3. 2 Cor. 12. 9. and made still weaker by our continual wants and persecutions,) but ye are strong, (and lusty;) ye are honourable, (for your gifts and wisdom, which have gotten you a great name and reputation among others,) we are despised (or in disgrace every where.)

Ver. 11. Even to this present hour we both hunger and thirst, and are naked, and are buffeted, and have no certain dwelling place, (or are in no certain condition.)

Ver. 12. And labour, working with our own hands; being reviled, we bless; being persecuted, we suffer it, (or we bear, as weak persons, who know not how to escape, or help our selves.)

Ver. 13. Being defamed, we intreat; we are made as the filth of the world, and the offscouring (or refuse) of all things to this day.

Περικάθαρμα, περίψημα.] These words which we render filth and offscouring, do probably relate to the Sacrifices which the Heathens used for the lustration of a City. The Athenians, saith (e) Phavorinus, nourished some very base and refuse People, and when any Calamity or Plague befel them, they sacrificed them for the purgation of the City, and these they called καθάρματα. And Suidas (g) saith, they said of such a Man, be thou our περίψημα our Redemption, or Propitiation; and then flung him into the Sea, as a Sacrifice to Neptune. Hence, saith (h) Origen, that our Lord giving up himself for the Propitiation of our Sins, was made much more than his Apostles, περικάθαρμα τῦ κόσμε, καὶ πάντων περίψημα, the lustration of the World, and the peculiar Sacrifice of all Men.

Ver. 14. But though I thus speak of your glorying in these things with the neglect of us, v. 8.] I write not these things to shame you, but as my beloved Sons I warn you (to behave your selves hereafter more like dutiful Children towards me.)

Ver. 15. For though you have ten thousand instructers in Christ, yet have you not many Fathers, (indeed not any besides me) for in Christ Jesus I have begotten you through the Gospel.

Οὐ πολλοὺς Παῖδας, not many Fathers.] The (i) Masters of Tradition among the Jews, called them Children, whom they instructed in their Traditions; and the Targum upon Numb. 3. 1. observes that Nadab and Abihu are called the Sons of Moses) because he had instructed them; for he who teacheth another, is, as it were, his Father. Thus the Disciples of the Prophets are called the Sons of the Prophets. So Jonathan, These are the names of the sons of Aaron, the Disciples of Moses, the sons of Israel, who were called by his name. And so both (k) Irenæus and (l) Clemens Alexandrinus do observe, that they were called Fathers, who

Ver. 16. Wherefore I beſeech you, be you followers of me, (adhering to the Doctrine received from me, and walking as I do, and teach, v. 17.)

Ver. 17. For this cauſe have I ſent unto you Timotheus, who is my beloved Son, and faithful in the Lord, who will bring you into remembrance of my ways which are in Chriſt, as I teach every where in every Church.

Ver. 18. Now ſome (among you) are puffed up as though (becauſe I have ſent Timothy to you) I would not (my ſelf) come unto you.

Ver. 19. But I will come unto you ſhortly, if the Lord will, and will know (and examine) not the ſpeech (and eloquence) of them that are puffed up, but the power (and ſpiritual Authority which attends their preaching, whether that be equal to the power God hath given us for edification.)

Ver. 20. For the Kingdom of God is (confirm'd and propagated) not in (and by the wiſdom of) words, but in (and by the power of the) Spirit, (which if they want, they cannot be ſent from God as we are.)

Οὐκ ἐν λόγῳ, ἀλλ' ἐν δυνάμει, not in word, but in power.] It is propagated, ſaith Theophylact, διὰ σημείων τῇ δυνάμει τὸ Πνεύματος γινομένων, by Miracles done by the power of the Spirit; for to convince Men of the truth of it, ſaith Chryſoſtom, 'tis not enough to uſe fine words, but the dead muſt be raiſed, the Devils caſt out, and other mighty wonders muſt be wrought, for by theſe things the Goſpel is eſtabliſhed.

Ver. 21. What will you? ſhall I come unto you with a rod, (inflicting puniſhments upon you) or (will you ſo reform that I may come unto you) in love, and in the ſpirit of meekneſs?

Ἐν ῥάβδῳ, with a Rod.] That the Apoſtles had a power of inflicting Corporal Puniſhments on ſome who did oppoſe the progreſs of, or who notoriouſly offended againſt the Rules of the Goſpel, is the opinion of all the ancient Commentators, who inſtance in the death inflicted by St. Peter on Ananias and Sapphira, Acts 5 5, 10. the blindneſs inflicted by St. Paul on Elimas, 13. 11. the delivery of Hymenæus and Philetus, and the inceſtuous perſon unto Satan, 1 Tim. 1. 20. ὥστε παιδεῦσαι τὸ σῶμα, ſo as to chaſtiſe the body of them, ſaith, Theodoret. Ἵνα νόσῳ αὐτὸν πάξῃ, that he might macerate him with ſome Diſeaſe, ſay Chryſoſtom, Oecumenius, and Theophylact; and ſo they interpret theſe words, ſhall I come unto you with a rod, that is, ἐν κολάσει, ἐν τιμωρίαις, with puniſhments and chaſtiſements. And this ſenſe will appear highly probable, if we conſider theſe words of the Apoſtle, I write unto you being abſent, leaſt being preſent, I ſhould uſe ſharpneſs, according to the power God hath given me for edification, and not for deſtruction, 2 Cor. 13. 10. For that theſe words cannot be underſtood only of the power of Excommunication common to him with others, we may learn from the ſame words, 2 Cor. 10. 8. where the mighty Weapons of his warfare able to remove every height exalting it ſelf againſt, and to captivate every mind to the obedience of Chriſt, and to avenge all diſobedience, being premiſed, it follows, For ſhould I boaſt exceedingly of the power God hath given me for edification, and not for deſtruction, I ſhould not be aſhamed.

CHAP. V.

Verſe 1. IT is reported commonly that there is Fornication among you, and ſuch Fornication as is not ſo much as named among the Gentiles, (viz.) that one ſhould have his fathers wife, (i. e. his ſtep-mother.)

Οὐδὲ ὀνομάζεται, not named.] i. e. Not countenanced among civilized Heathens, but forbidden by their Laws; by the Laws of the Greeks, ſay (a) Ocellus Lucanus and (b) Jamblycus; and by the Romans, it being, ſaith Cicero, Scelus inauditum, an unheard of wickedneſs, of which the Perſians only are accuſed by (c) Philo, (d) Tertullian, (e) Minutius Felix; and therefore this was one of the three great Infamies with which the (f) Heathens loaded the Primitive Chriſtians, that they had inceſta convivia among them; and practiſed the very Crime here cenſured by St. Paul, and the words ὅλως ἀκούεται, it is every where heard of, do make it not improbable that this very thing might give the riſe to that vile Objection againſt Chriſtianity, eſpecially if the Corinthians had the foundation of this practiſe from the Jews, from whom the Chriſtians for ſome time were not diſtinguiſhed.

Ὅτι γυναῖκα τινα τοῦ πατρὸς ἔχειν, that one ſhould have his Fathers wife.] Either as his Wife, or ſo as to commit Fornication with her. Now this, ſaith Dr. Lightfoot, was done by them agreably to the Jewiſh Doctrine concerning Proſelytes, viz. That they were as perſons new born, and had loſt all their kindred they had before: So that by the Law, as the (g) Rabbins expounded it, they might marry their Mother and Siſter. And to this (h) Tacitus ſeems to refer in his account of the Jews, when he ſaith, All things are by them deemed prophane, which to us are ſacred, rurſum conceſſa apud illos quæ nobis inceſta; and what we account inceſtuous is with them lawful; and that they are firſt of all taught to contemn the Gods, Parentes, liberos, fratres vilia habere, and to have no regard to Parents, Children, and Brethren. But conſidering that Corinth abounded with Philoſophers, and that (i) Chryſippus the Stoick reckons the enjoyment of a Mother, Siſter, or Daughter, as things blamed without reaſon; and that hence the (k) Nicolaitans and Carpocratians had their Doctrine of the Community of all Women, not excepting Mother, and Daughters, and Siſters. I think it probable that this Corruption might have had its riſe from them; and that upon one or other of theſe accounts they ſo tamely indured him who had done this infamous thing; yea, they were puffed up, ſay the Greek Interpreters, on the account of the Eloquence and Wiſdom of this very Man.

Ver. 2. And ye are puffed up, and have not rather mourned, (for the ſcandal of this great offence, and taken care) that he that hath done this deed (ſo reproachful to the Society of Chriſtians) may be taken away (and caſt out from among you as he ought to be.)

Πεφυσιωμένοι ἐστέ, ye are puffed up.] Either in your conceit, that you have got ſuch a profound and Eloquent Teacher; or on the account of ſome high Wiſdom which makes you look on theſe things as indifferent.

Καὶ οὐχὶ μᾶλλον ἐπενθήσατε, and have not rather mourned.] It was the cuſtom both of the Jews and Chriſtians, when any one was to be cut off from the Church, as a dead Member, to do it with Faſting, and Humiliation, to ſhew their Sympathy with him, and to demonſtrate their Sorrow for the Scandal brought upon the Society. The School of Pythagoras, ſaith (l) Origen, put Coffins in the room of them who deſerted the Society, looking upon them as dead men; and the Chriſtians lament them who have been guilty of laſciviouſneſs, or any other abſurd action, as perſons loſt and dead to God. And among the (m) Apoſtolical Conſtitutions this is one, with ſorrow and mourning cut off from the Church that incurable Perſon; for, ſaith the Apoſtle, you ſhall put away from among you the evil perſon; and to this cuſtom the Apoſtle ſeemeth to allude, 2 Cor. 2. 1, 3. 12. 21.

Ver. 3. For I verily, as being abſent in body, but preſent (with you, Col. 2. 5.) in (and by the) ſpirit, (exciting me ſo to do) have judg'd already, as if I were preſent, concerning him that hath ſo done this deed, (that he ought to be removed from your body, and delivered up to Satan.)

Ver. 4. (And therefore do command you) in the name of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, when ye are gathered together (in your Chriſtian Aſſemblies,) and my ſpirit (ſupplying my abſence) with the power of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt (is preſent with you.)

Ver. 5. To deliver ſuch a one to (the buffetings of) Satan for the deſtruction of the fleſh (ſo laſcivient in him,) that the ſpirit may be ſaved in the day of the Lord Jeſus.

Παρὼν τῷ πνεύματι, preſent in ſpirit.] That is, ſay the Fathers, not only with mind and conſent, but * διὰ τῆς πνεύματος χάριτος, by the gift of the Spirit, by which I am inabled to diſcern what is fit to be done in this caſe, by the Spirit by which I am inabled, καὶ τὰ πόῤῥωθεν οἰδέναι, to diſcern things done at a diſtance, as Eliſha did the actions of Giezi by his Prophetick Spirit, 2 Kings 5. 26. So Chryſoſtom and Theophylact. And ſo the Phraſe ſeems to be uſed in theſe words; For though I am abſent in the fleſh, yet am I with you in the ſpirit, joying, and beholding your order, and the ſtedfaſtneſs of your faith, Col. 2. 5. ſince in his abſence he could not behold their order, and the ſtedfaſtneſs of their Faith by his own Spirit, but only by the Aſſiſtance of the Holy Spirit. So alſo do they interpret τῷ ἐμῷ πνεύματι my ſpirit, v. 4. by my Spiritual Gift; ſo that the ſenſe of theſe words v. 3, 4. ſeems to run thus

I by the Spirit of Diſcerning, and the Authority God hath given me, have already judged that this Perſon ought to be delivered up to Satan; and therefore when you are gathered together in the Name of Chriſt, and have my ſpirit, who alſo preſides in your Aſſemblies, and there aſſiſts you in the performance of your Chriſtian Offices, and have the Power of Chriſt ready to confirm and execute your Sentence, do you in his Name deliver ſuch a one to Satan.

Συὺ τῇ δυνάμει, with the power of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt.] The word δύναμις, power, hath ſtill reference to ſome miraculous and extraordinary Power, and is not uſed, that I know of, concerning any ſimple Act of Diſcipline, as when Chriſt anſwers St. Paul thus, ἡ δύναμίς μου, my power is perfected in weakneſs; and the Apoſtle on that account; moſt gladly will I rejoyce in my weakneſs, ἵνα ἡ δύναμις τοῦ Χριστοῦ, that the power of Chriſt may reſt upon me, 2 Cor. 12. 9, 10. i. e. ſay the Ancients, that in the midſt of my manifold Infirmities, the Power of Chriſt enabling me to do all kind of Miracles, may more conſpicuouſly reſide in me. This miraculous Aſſiſtance is by the Apoſtle ſometime called ſimply the power, 1 Cor. 2. 4 4. 19, 20. 12. 28, 29. Sometime the power of God, 1 Cor. 1. 18, 24. 2. 5. 6. 14. 2 Cor. 4. 7. 13 4. and ſometimes the power of Chriſt, as in the place now cited. Now among the Powers of Chriſt which attended the preaching of the Goſpel, this was one of delivering Men for their Offences up to Satan, to inflict Corporal Diſtempers on them for the deſtruction of the Fleſh. This Power ſeems to have been peculiar to the Apoſtles, and therefore here St. Paul preſcribes the doing of it, the Authority or Power of his Spirit being preſent with them. That this is indeed the import of delivering up to Satan for the deſtruction of the fleſh, is evident not only from the concurring Expoſition of the Ancients, who all interpret it of ſome Diſeaſe to be inflicted on him by (n) Satan, but alſo from the end of that Delivery to him, which is, ſaith the Apoſtle here, for the deſtruction of the fleſh; and in the caſe of Hymenæus and Philetus, that they might learn not to blaſpheme. Now bodily Afflictions plainly tend to mortifie the Fleſh, and to awaken Men, as oft as they come thus from a miraculous Power, to conſider of their ways, and quit thoſe courſes which thus ſubject them to the Hand of God; whereas Excommunication hath no apparent tendance to thoſe ends, when no ſuch dreadful iſſue follows from it; and therefore ſeems not to be all that is intended by this delivery up to Satan: Though I confeſs, the Jews expected ſome like effect of their Excommunication called Cherem, which ſaith (o) Buxtorf ran in this form of words, Sint ſuper ipſum plagæ magnæ, & fideles morbi magni & horribiles, let his ſtrokes be great, and his diſeaſes horrible. Moreover, the Apoſtle ſpeaks not of this as of a common Act of Diſcipline which every Presbyter might exerciſe, but as that which required his extraordinrry Preſence in the Spirit, and the Power of Chriſt aſſiſting them; and therefore ſeems to ſpeak of it as an act which was to be attended with ſome miraculous effect.

Ver. 6. Your glorying (in ſuch a Doctor, in ſuch Wiſdom) is not good. Know ye not (as) a little leaven leaveneth (and ſoureth) the whole lump. (So ſuch a Member continued among you, will defile the whole Body or Society.)

Ver. 7. Purge out therefore the old leaven, that ye may be a new lump, (foraſmuch) as ye are (by your Chriſtianity obliged to be) unleavened, for even Chriſt our Paſſover is ſacrificed for us (Chriſtians).

Ἐκκαθάρατε τὴν παλαιὰν ζύμην, purge out the old leaven.] Here the Apoſtle ſpeaks of cutting off the inceſtuous Perſon, according to the Metaphor of the Jews, whoſe ſaying is, that as a little leaven leavens the whole lump, ſo concupiſcence corrupts the whole Man; and that by the command to abſtain from leaven, Adultery is forbidden, this impurity he calls the old leaven to be purged out, becauſe the Corinthians were infamous for it to a Proverb, as (p) Phavorinus, Heſychius, and Eraſmus ſhew. He alludes alſo to the command to put away leaven out of their houſe, in commanding to put away the evil Perſon, and to the Paſchal Feaſt, in giving this reaſon why the old leaven ſhould be put away, becauſe Chriſt our Paſſover is ſacrificed for us, which being done once for all, we Chriſtians muſt ever keep the Feaſt, by being always a new lump, pure from Hypocriſie, which is the leaven of the Phariſees, Luke 12. 1. from the leaven of falſe Doctrine, and corrupting of the Word of God, which is the leaven of the Phariſees and Sadduces, Matth. 16. 6, 12. and from the leaven of wickedneſs, and wicked men, according to thoſe words of the Pſalmiſt, Deliver me out of the hands of the wicked, from the hands of the cruel וחומץ and the leavened, Pſal. 71. 4. i. e. the ſowre, and the angry Man, who corrupts and depraves others.

Ver. 8. Therefore let us keep the Feaſt, not with (the) old leaven (of our former uncleanneſs) nor with the (Phariſaical) leaven of malice and (deceitful) wickedneſs, but with the unleavened bread of ſincerity and truth.

(n) Hic traditur Satanæ in interitum carnis, ut ſerpens terram ejus lingeret, animæ non noceret. Ambroſ. de Paenit. c. 12. See Note on Chap. 4. 21. (o) Lex. Talm. in voce Cherem.

Μὴ ἐν ζύμῃ κακίας, not with the leaven of that malice] Which is usually carried on with dissimulation of affection and concern for Piety, and so is Pharisaical, nor with the wickedness which prompts us to deceive another to his hurt. Thus Theophylact here saith, he is κακὸς an evil man, who doth evil things; but he is πονηρὸς who doth them with profound subtilty, and deceitful, or hurtful, counsel. Thus πονηροὶ καὶ γόητες evil men and deceitful are joyned together, as deceiving, and being deceived, 2 Tim. 3. 13. And so this is an Exhortation to reject such false Apostles, and deceitful Workers, as this Doctor was, and others in the Church of Corinth, who transformed themselves into the Apostles of Christ, 2 Cor. 11. 13. and yet were not ἐξ εἰλικρινείας men of sincerity, 2 Cor. 2. 17. but Corrupters of the Truth, who walked in craftiness, handling the word of God deceitfully, 2 Cor. 4. 2. and by their subtilty seduced them from the simplicity which was in Christ, 2 Cor. 11. 3.

Ver. 9. I writ unto you in an Epistle (or I had writ to you in this Epistle before I was fully acquainted with the state of your affairs by the coming of Stephanus, Fortunatus, and Achaicus, 1 Cor. 16. 17.) not to company with Fornicators.

Ἔγραψα ὑμῖν ἐν τῇ ἐπιστολῇ, I had written to you in this Epistle. All the Greek Interpreters upon this place conclude he wrote this, οὐκ ἐν ἄλλῃ ἀλλ' ἐν ταύτῃ, not in another, but in this Epistle, so Chrysostom, Theodoret, Oecumenius, Photinus, and Theophylact on the place. And who ever heard among the Ancients of more then fourteen Epistles of St. Paul? or of one word cited from an Epistle of his to the Corinthians supposed to be lost; it cannot therefore be concluded hence, that any Epistle of St. Paul writ and sent to the Church of Corinth is lost; but only that some things in this Epistle were changed by him, before he sent it to them. But saith Mr. Cl. there is a contrariety in this interpretation to all the Rules of Grammar, which it seems none of the Greek Scholiasts understood as well as he. Moreover it is the common observation of Grammarians, that the Aorist is so called, because it is of an indefinite signification, and is sometimes used for the perfect, sometimes for the pluſquam perfect tense. So Herod laying hold of John ἔδησεν αὐτὸν had bound him, Matth. 14. 3. He commanded his Servants to be called οἷς ἔδωκε τὸ ἀργύριον, to whom he had given the silver, Luke 19. 25. Jesus ἐμαρτύρησεν had testified, John 4. 44. ἐξεδύσατο, he had withdrawn himself, John 5. 13. Annas ἀπέστειλεν had sent him bound to Caiaphas, John 18. 24. 2*ly*, That τῇ, as Phavorinus saith, is put ἀντὶ τοῦ ταύτῃ instead of this, he both confesses and proves from Colos. 4. 16. 1 Thes. 5. 27. and where then is the contrariety of this Interpretation to the Rules of Grammar?

Ver. 10. Yet not (intending) altogether (to forbid you any conversation) with the Fornicators of this World, or with the Covetous, or Extortioners, or with Idolaters, for then must ye needs go out of the World.

Ver. 11. But now (since I heard of this great miscarriage, and have been more exactly informed of the state of your Church) I have (changed my stile, and written to you not to keep Company, if any man that is called a Brother be a Fornicator, or Covetous, or an Idolater, or a Railer, (a contumelious person) or an Extortioner, (and that so strictly as to charge you) with such a one no not to eat.

Νυνὶ δὲ ἔγραψα ὑμῖν, but now I have written to you.]

Object. 1. This shews, saith Mr. Clerk, that the Apostle here speaks of this Epistle, and in v. 9. of another?

Answ. This only shews that he speaks of this Epistle sent, and v. 9. of what he had writ in it, before he saw this Cause to change his stile.

Object. 2. But, saith he, he had no where in the former part of this admonished his Corinthians not to associate with Fornicators.

Answ. Nor is it to be wonder'd that he should no where say that which he had changed into these words, v. 11. And secondly, according to my Exposition, what he before had written is contained in the immediate preceding words, v. 10.

Ὀνομαζόμενος ἀδελφὸς, called a Brother.] Some think the word ὀνομαζόμενος refers to the words following, and imports, that if any man be defamed, and noted for the Vices following, he is by the Apostle's direction to be avoided: But the word plainly refers to the Brother, and imports, that if any one who hath professed himself a Christian, be found guilty of these Crimes, he is to be avoided. Now of all these sins some among the Corinthians were still guilty, of Fornication, 2 Cor. 12. 21. of Covetousness, and Extortion, 1 Cor. 6. 8. 2 Cor. 11. 20. they were Idolaters, 1 Co. 10. 7, 14, 20. Railers, or contumelious persons, 2 Cor. 10. 2. 11. 19. Drunkards, 1 Cor. 11. 21.

Μηδὲ συνεσθίειν, no not to eat.] According to the Jewish Canons it was not lawful to eat, or drink with one that was under their Cherem. Tertullian and Theodoret carry this farther, and say, Cum talibus non vult nos cibum sumere, nedum Eucharistiam, with such we must not eat at our own, much less at the Lord's Table. But this being a matter of Discipline, can concern only those who are entrusted with the Government of the Church, not private Communicants.

Ver. 12. For what have I to do to judge (or censure) them that are without (the Church as heathen Fornicators, and the Stepmother of this incestuous Fornicator are) do not ye (and all other Churches and Societies) judge them that are within their body?)

Ver. 13. But them that are without God judgeth, therefore (leaving them to the judg- ment of God, cenſure them that thus offend within your Body, and you will by ſo doing) put away from among your ſelves that wicked Perſon.

Τί γάρ μοι καὶ τοὺς ἔξω κρίνειν, for what have I to do to judge them that are without.] Here our Critick, Mr. le Cl. is too bold; 1*ſt*. When he quarrels with St. Paul's Greek, asking what Conſtruction this is, τί μοι κρίνειν? I anſwer none at all; but τί μοι μεμπτέον καὶ τοὺς ἔξω κρίνειν, what concerns it me to judge them that are without, is both good ſenſe, and good Greek. As in Latine, quid mea refert? in Engliſh, what is it to me? ſo τί μοι ὄφελος, what profit (is it) to me? 1 Cor. 15. 32. τί γάρ, what is it to the truth of God, Rom. 3. 3. τί γάρ, quid enim refert, Philip. 1. 18. 2*ly*, 'Tis horribly bold to add, without any, yea againſt all Copies, μανθάνω inſtead of κρίνειν καί, which have no affinity, either in letters, or in ſenſe; the words need none of theſe Criticiſms; they are taken from Deut. 13. 5. 22. 21. and there they run thus, καὶ ἐξαιρεῖς τὸ πονηρὸν ἐξ ὑμῶν αὐτῶν, ſo ſhall you put away the evil from among you; and the Greek Commentators read them thus καὶ ἐξαροῦντα τὸ πονηρὸν, and you will put away the evil: So the whole ſenſe runs thus, 'κέκρικα I have judged already of the inceſtuous perſon, v. 3. and I judge concerning all other perſons in profeſſion Chriſtians, but in practice Fornicators, &c. that you ought not to communicate with them; but I ſay nothing of the Stepmother of this perſon, who hath not own'd the Chriſtian Faith; for what belongs it to me to judge of them who are without the Church? do not you in your Church, and Civil Aſſemblies, judge them only which are of your Body, but them who are without the Church, God, who is the Governour of all Men, judgeth; and by thus judging thoſe that are within your Body, you will put away the evil, or this evil perſon from among you.

CHAP. VI.

Verſe 1. DAre any of you, having a matter (of complaint, ſuit, or action) againſt another, go to Law before the unjuſt, (the Heathen Tribunals) and not (rather ſubmit it to be heard) before the Saints.

Κρίνεσθαι ἐπὶ τῶν ἀδίκων, Go to Law before the unjuſt.] The ſaying of the Jews is this, That That (a) He who goes to Law before the Tribunal of the Gentiles, prophanes the Name of God, and gives honour to an Idol; that he is to be accounted as a wicked man, as one that hath reproached and blaſphemed, and lifted up his hand againſt the Law of Moſes. Accordingly the Apoſtle here repreſents this action in the Chriſtian, as a reproach to the Society, and to the Spirit of Wiſdom which was poured out upon the Church, v. 5, 6. and as that which gave occaſion to the Heathen to obſerve in the Chriſtians a contentious Spirit.

Ver. 2. Do you not know (from Daniel) that the Saints (of the moſt high ſhall receive the kingdom, Dan. 7. 27. and ſo) ſhall judge the world. And if the world ſhall be judged by you (Chriſtians, and by Chriſtian Magiſtrates) are ye unworthy (of the ſmalleſt Judicatures, or) to judge the ſmalleſt matters.

Κριτηρίων ἐλαχίστων, the ſmalleſt matters.] This word κριτήρια here, and v. 4. ſaith Grotius, doth not ſignifie Tribunals, but Controverſies and Judicial Cauſes. Accordingly the βιωτικὰ κριτήρια Judgments concerning things of this Life, v 4. are by Photius rendred τὰ βιωτικὰ φιλονεικήματα καὶ τὰς πρὸς ἀλλήλους δίκας καὶ ἔριδας, their Controverſies, Contentions, and judicial Cauſes againſt each other about theſe matters.

3. Know ye not (from Chriſt) that we (endowed with the Holy Spirit) ſhall judge (condemn, and caſt out the Prince of this World, and his evil) Angels, how much more (worthy are we by the aſſiſtance of the ſame Spirit to judge of) the things pertaining to this Life.

Οἱ ἅγιοι τὸν κόσμον κρινοῦσι, the Saints ſhall judge the world.] We often read, that even the beſt of Saints ſhall ſtand before the judgment Seat of Chriſt; that they ſhall be Aſſeſſors with Chriſt then, we read not; the words of Chriſt, Matth. 19. 28. in what ſenſe ſoever taken, prove it not; they being ſpoken not of all Saints, as the Apoſtle here ſpeaks, but of the twelve Apoſtles only, theſe words muſt therefore admit of one of theſe two ſenſes, viz. that there ſhall be Chriſtian Magiſtrates who ſhall be governours, and ſo the Judges of the World, according to the Prophecy of Iſaiah, That Kings ſhall be their nurſing Fathers, and Queens their nurſing Mothers, Iſa. 49. 23. and that of Daniel, ch. 7. 18. The Saints of the moſt High ſhall take the Kingdom, or that they ſhall judge and condemn the world by the Faith preached for a teſtimony to them, as Noah did Hebr. 11. 7. whence is the Goſpel ſo often called the teſtimony of Chriſt, and by the Spirit given to convince the world of ſin, of righteouſneſs, and judgment, Joh. 16. 8. in which ſenſe our Lord ſaith, Now is the judgment of the world, Joh. 12. 31.

Ἄγγελους κρινοῦμεν, we ſhall judge Angels.] i. e. Evil Angels ſay all the Greek Scholiaſts; and this the Chriſtians gloriouſly did by expelling them from their Seats, and their Dominions, and forcing them to confeſs before their Votaries, they were only Devils. See Note on Mark 16. 17. in which ſenſe ſaith our Saviour, Now is the Prince of the World caſt out; the Prince of the World is judged, John 12. 31. 16. 11.

Ver. 4. If then ye have judgments (Controverſies, or Judicial Cauſes) of things pertaining to this life, (do ye) ſet them to judge who are leaſt eſteemed in (and by) the Church, (i.e. the Heathen Magiſtrates.)

Τοὺς ἐξουθενημένους, them who are leaſt eſteemed.] That the ἐξουθενημένοι are the Heathens, hath been ſhewed Note on 1 Cor. 1. 27, 28. Moreover it is manifeſt, that theſe words are to be read by way of queſtion, as in the Paraphraſe; or by way of charge againſt them thus, If you ſhall retain your Secular Judicatures, or Tribunals, you ſet them to be Judges over you who are deſpiſed in the Church. For the Apoſtle doth not here command them to do this, but ſharply doth rebuke them for it; ſaying, I ſpeak this to your ſhame: and this he doth, by ſhewing that this in effect ſignified, that there was not a wiſe man among them. For, ſaith he,

Ver. 5. I ſpeak this to your ſhame; is it ſo that (by this action you ſhould even confeſs before the Heathen) that there is not one wiſe man among you, no not one that ſhall be able to judge between his Brethren.

Ver. 6. But Brother goeth to Law with (his Chriſtian) Brother, and that before the Unbelievers, (as if there were not among them one Believer ſufficient to decide their Controverſies)

Ver. 7. Now therefore there is utterly a fault (or a defect) among you, becauſe ye go to Law (about theſe matters) one with another; why do you not (rather) take wrong? why do ye not rather ſuffer your ſelves to be defrauded?

Ὅλως ἥττημα, there is utterly a defect] Among you, that you go to Law at all, it being either, on the one ſide, want of Patience and Chriſtian Contentment, that you do not rather bear ſome Injuries, then thus ſeek to redreſs them; or, on the other, Covetouſneſs and Injuſtice, which moves you to do wrong to, and defraud your Brethren.

Ver. 8. Nay (ſo far are you from this Chriſtian temper of bearing Injuries with patience, that) you do wrong, and defraud, and that your Brethren.

Ver. 9. (And what will be the iſſue of theſe evil practiſes?) Know ye not that the unrighteous ſhall not inherit the Kingdom of God? Be not deceived, neither Fornicators, nor Idolators, nor Adulterers, nor Effeminate, nor Abuſers of themſelves with Mankind.

Ver. 10. Nor Thieves, nor Covetous, nor Drunkards, nor Revilers, nor Extortioners ſhall inherit the Kingdom of God.

Ver. 11. And ſuch were ſome of you, but ye are waſhed (by Baptiſm,) but ye are ſanctified, but ye are juſtified in the Name of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and by the Spirit of our God.

Ἀλλ' ἐδικαιώθητε ἐν ὀνόματι Κυρίου, &c. but ye are juſtified in the name of our Lord.] Here is the figure call'd Hyperbaton, for we are juſtified in the name of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and ſanctified by the Spirit of our God. So Philem. 5. Hearing of thy love and faith which thou haſt towards the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and towards all Saints; i. e. which Faith thou haſt towards Chriſt, and Love to his Saints. Moreover, whereas Mr. Cl. here ſaith, that to be juſtified is the ſame thing with being waſh'd, or ſanctified, and that to be ſo by the name of the Lord, is to be ſo by taking upon them the profeſſion of the Chriſtian Religion in Baptiſm, he is utterly out in both; for ſure I am, he cannot produce one paſſage in all St. Paul's Epiſtles, where δικαιωθῆναι, to be juſtified, bears any ſuch ſenſe; but it ſtill ſignifies to be abſolved from the Guilt of Sin, and approved as Righteous, either at preſent, or before God's Tribunal. And ſo the Name of Chriſt, when we are ſaid to be juſtified by it, muſt ſignifie not the Profeſſion of Chriſtianity, but Faith in Chriſt dying for us, and be the ſame with εἰς αὐτὸν, in him, for in him ſhall all that believe be juſtified, &c. Acts 13. 39. Moreover, Juſtification here is aſcribed to the Name of Chriſt, i.e. to Faith in him, Sanctification to the Spirit of God, which ſhews they cannot ſignifie the ſame thing; for where the Cauſe is different, the Effect muſt be ſo alſo.

Ver. 12. (And whereas your falſe Teachers encourage you to eat things offered to Idols in the Idol Temples, Chap. 10. 23. and to indulge unto exceſs, becauſe all Meats are lawful, I grant that) All (theſe) things are lawful, but all things (lawful) are not expedient (to be done, eſpecially when tending to my Brothers ruine or my own) all things (of this nature) are lawful for me, but I will not be brought under the power of any (ſo as that I cannot refrain from them in ſuch Caſes.)

Ver. 13 Meats (indeed) are for the belly, and the belly for meats, (nor have either of them any other uſe) but (this is only for this preſent life, the time will come when) God ſhall deſtroy both it, and them.

Ὁ δὲ θεὸς καὶ ταύτην καὶ ταῦτα καταργήσει, God ſhall deſtroy both it and them. From theſe words that opinion, not of Origen only, but of (b) Athanaſius, St. (c) Ba- ſil, (d) Hilary, (e) Theodoret, and others, ſeems to be confirm'd, that at the Reſurrection, when we ſhall neither eat, nor drink, marry, nor be given in marriage, Matth. 22. 30. there will be as no Meats, the World being then burnt up, ſo no Belly, nec quæ ſunt ſub ventre, nor any difference of Sexes.

Ver. 16. Now (whereas ſome extend theſe words, All things are lawful for me, to fornication alſo, know ye that) the Body is not (at all) for fornication, but for (the ſervice of) the Lord, (the Head of the Body) and the Lord for (the Reſurrection, and the Glorification of) the Body.

Τὸ δὲ σῶμα οὐ τῇ πορνείᾳ, the body is not for fornication.] The Hereſie of the Nicholaitans held, that it was lawful to eat things offered to Idols, and to commit Fornication, Rev. 2. 14, 15. as Irenæus, Clemens Alexandr. Theodoret, and St. Auſtin teſtifie. See the Notes on 2 Pet. 2. and the Epiſtle of St. Jude. And therefore Theodoret introduces the words thus, τοῦτο λέγεις, this thou ſayeſt in defence of thy eating thus, and of thy fornication all things are lawful for me.

Ver. 14. And (accordingly) God hath both raiſed up the Lord, and will alſo raiſe us up by his power.

Ver. 15. Know ye not that your Bodies are the Members of Chriſt (your Head, 1 Cor. 12. 12, 27.) ſhall I then take the Members of Chriſt, and make them the Members of an Harlot, (as I by fornicatton ſhall moſt ſurely do.)

Ἄρας οὖν.] Taking them then from Chriſt, ſhall I make them the Members of an Harlot; for, ſaith Hilary, here Membra adherentia meritrici deſinunt eſſe Membra Chriſti, The Members which cleave to an Harlot, ceaſe to belong to Chriſt.

16. What? know ye not that he who is joyned to an Harlot is one body (with her,) for two, ſaith he, ſhall (by that action) be one fleſh, (as doing that, by which, according to God's inſtitution, two are made one fleſh.)

Ver. 17. But he that is joyned to the Lord is one Spirit (with him, as being partaker of his Spirit, for by one Spirit we Chriſtians are all united to this Head, Rom. 8. 11. 1 Cor. 12. 13.)

Ver. 18. Flee (therefore) Fornication, (for) every (other) ſin that a man doth is without the (pollution of) the Body; but he that committeth Fornication ſinneth againſt (and polluteth) his own Body.

Εἰς τὸ ἴδιον σῶμα, againſt his own body.] Other Sins pollute the Heart, and the Soul; but thoſe of Fornication and Uncleanneſs only do properly pollute the Body. Hence are thoſe Actions ſtill in the Scripture ſtiled Pollutions; for though all ſins, ſaith Hilary, render a man carnal, yet is this more eſpecially, deſiderium carnis quod ſordibus maculatam animam cum corpore tradit Gehennæ, Carnal Concupiſcence which expoſes to Hell the Soul together with the Body, defiled by its filthineſs.

Ver. 19. Know ye not that your Body is the Temple of the Holy Ghoſt which is in you, (and) which you have of God, and you are not your own, (He having by his Spirit taken poſſeſſion of you, and ſealed you up as his own proper goods.)

Ver. 20. (You, I ſay, are not your own.) For you are bought with a price, (even the precious Blood of Chriſt) therefore glorifie God in your Body and in your Spirit, which are Gods (by right of purchaſe, and the poſſeſſion of his Spirit.)

Τὸ σῶμα ὑμῶν ναὸς, &c. Your Body is the Temple of the Holy Ghoſt.] Two things concur to make up the notion of a Temple.

1*ſt*, That the Divinity ſhould either dwell in, or give ſome ſignal tokens of his eſpecial Preſence there. Hence was the Temple at Jeruſalem called the Houſe of God's habitation, and the Tabernacle the Houſe where the Divinity or the Shechinah dwelt in the midſt of them. Accordingly I am with you, Hag. 2. 4. is thus interpreted v. 5. My Spirit is in the midſt of you, or among you. Hence is the Tabernacle ſtiled, the place of the habitation of God's glory, Pſal. 26. 8. and from thence he is ſaid to ſhine forth, when he gave them a teſtimony of his gracious Preſence. Now the Holy Spirit being that in the New Teſtament which anſwers to the Shechinah in the old, he dwelling in the Bodies, and being preſent in the Aſſemblies of the Saints, doth make them a Spiritual Temple or Habitation of the Lord, Eph. 2. 22.

2*ly*, That it be a place dedicated and appropriated to his uſe: Hence were the Tabernacle and Temple ſo often ſtiled the Houſe and Temple of the Lord, and by him my Houſe, according to thoſe words of Chriſt, Wiſt you not that I muſt be ἐν τοῖς τοῦ πατρός in my Fathers houſe; for as to be (f) ἐν τοῖς τοῦ Διός, is to be in the Temple of Jupiter, ſo to be ἐν τοῖς τοῦ πατρός, muſt ſignifie to be in my Father's Temple; and therefore, ſaith the Apoſtle, you are not your own, as being dedicated and appropriated to God's uſe and Service.

He alſo ſaith, If any man corrupt, or deſecrate, the Temple of God, him will God deſtroy, for the Temple of God is holy, 1 Cor. 3. 17. i. e. appropriated, and conſecrated to his uſe. And he Exhorts all Chriſtians to abſtain from all idolatrous and prophane Actions by this Enquiry, What communion hath the Temple of

God,

God with Idols? proving all Christians to be the Temple of God, and so appropriated to him by these words, You are the Temple of God; as God hath said, I will dwell, and walk in them; I will be their God, and they shall be to me a People, 2 Cor. 6. 16.

Excellent therefore is the Inference of (g) Tertullian, That since all Christians are become the Temple of God, by virtue of his Holy Spirit sent into their hearts, and consecrating their Bodies to his Service, we should make Chastity the Keeper of this Sacred House, and suffer nothing unclean or prophane to enter into it, least that God who dwelleth in it, being offended, should desert his House thus defiled.

(g) Cum omnes Templum simus Dei, illato in nos & consecrato Spiritu Sancto, ejus Templi ad tua & antistita pudicitia est, quæ nihil immundum nec profanum inferri sinat, ne Deus ille qui inhabitat, inquinatam Sedem offensus derelinquat. De cultu fœmin. l. 2. c. 1.

CHAP. VII.

Verse 1. NOW (to speak) concerning the things whereof you wrote unto me, (viz.) it is good for a man not to touch a woman, (i. e. to live unmarried, or without the use of a woman, or it is not good to marry, Matth. 19. 10. This I grant, as Christ did to him, who having the Gift of Continency, can receive this saying.)

Καλὸν ἀνθρώπῳ γυναικὸς μὴ ἅπτεσθαι, it is good for a man not to touch a woman.] It was an old Philosophical question, An uxor ducenda esset, whether a Man should marry? in which many of them held the Negative, as (a) Bion and Antisthenes, who said, An handsome Wife would be common, one deformed a punishment, ὁ λιπτὸν ἄρα, therefore we should have none. Hence that of (b) Menander, ὁ γαμεῖς ἐάντε νῦν ἔχεις, if thou be wise thou wilt not marry. This some held out of different Sentiments, as v. g. either out of good liking to that celebrated Doctrine of Plato, Κοινὰς μὲν γυναῖκας κοινὸς ὁ πᾶς παῖδας, that Women and Children should be common; and this Doctrine was improved by the Nicolaitans into all manner of impurity, who therefore did ἀναιδῶς ἐκπορνεύειν commit whoredom without shame. But others, chiefly of the School of Pythagoras, refused to touch a Woman, as being an impediment to Philosophy, and that which defiled that Purity they aimed at. Hence (c) Apollonius the Magician is represented as a Man of so great Chastity, Γυναικείας ὅπη καθαρὸν ἑαυτὸν μίξεως διὰ τέλους ἔσχε, that he lived ever free from converse with Women. And (d) Porphyry saith, that a Philosopher must not marry. That to live the intellectual Life, we must abstain from Women, all use of them being a defilement. The word γυνὴ which in this Chapter still signifies a Wife, seems to refer this question to the first Opinion, but the Phrase γυναικὸς μὴ ἅπτεσθαι, inclines us to refer it to the latter; the first question being too gross to be propounded by the Corinthians to the Apostle, the second being a question then in vogue, on the account of which Apollonius and the Pythagoreans obtained great repute.

Ver. 2. Nevertheless, to avoid (that) Fornication (which is so common at Corinth, and so freely practised by the Nicolaitans, under the pretence that Matrimony was a thing indifferent) let every man have (ἐχέτω, retain) his own wife, and let every woman have her own husband.

Ver. 3. Let (also) the husband render to the wife due benevolence, (i. e. the conjugal duty,) and likewise also the wife to the husband.

Ver. 4. (For) the wife hath not power over her own body, but the husband; and likewise also the husband hath not power of his own body, but the wife.

Οὐκ ἐξουσιάζει, hath not power.] Here is a plain Argument against Polygamy; for if the Man hath not power over his own body, he cannot give the power of it to another, and so he cannot marry another; nor could the Wife, exclusively to him, have the power of his body, if he could give his to another.

Ver. 5. Defraud ye not (therefore) one another (of this benevolence,) except it be with (mutual) consent for a time, that ye may give your selves to fasting and prayer, and (then) come together again, that Satan tempt you not for your incontinency.

Τῇ νηστείᾳ καὶ τῇ προσευχῇ, to fasting and Prayer.] The Apostle speaks not here of ordinary Prayer, which is the daily work of Christians, but of extraordinary Devotions on some special occasions; for daily Prayers, publick or private, needed no such consent of Parties; nor by them could either of them be defrauded of their due Benevolence: Vain therefore are the questions of St. Jerom, Quale illud bo- num eſt quod orare prohibet, quare non ingrediuntur Eccleſias, as if the Bed undefiled could hinder Mens prayers, or their going to Church? Vain is his Inference, Si Sacerdoti ſemper orandum eſt, ergo ſemper carendum Matrimonio, if the Prieſt muſt always pray, he muſt never marry; for to pray always, and without ceaſing, is alſo the duty of the Laity, Luke 18. 1. Eph. 6. 18. 1 Theſſ. 5. 17.

Καὶ πάλιν ἐπὶ τὸ αὐτὸ συνέρχεσθε, and come together again.] This Chapter affords many Arguments againſt the Vow of Continence, and thoſe perpetual Divorces from the Bed, which are ſo commonly practiſed by the Papiſts, on pretenſe of Religion: For (1.) the Apoſtle here admits of no Separation of the Wife and Husband, but only with Condition that they come together again to perform Conjugal Duties, as the word συνελθεῖν doth import, not allowing a perpetual Separation, no not that they may give themſelves to Prayer and Faſting; and that for a perpetual reaſon, at leaſt whilſt an Age capable of temptation, and which may be ſubject to Incontinence, remains. (2.) He declares the Gift of Continence not to be common to all, but proper to ſome only, as being the proper Gift of God, and therefore not to be gotten by our Induſtry: I would, ſaith he, that all men were unmarried, even as I my ſelf am; but every man hath his proper gift of God, one after this manner, and another after that. He then that can receive it, Matth. 19. 12. ſaith our Saviour, let him receive it. Whence it is natural to conclude, that all Men cannot. (3.) Notwithſtanding the preſent neceſſity which rendred it ſo deſirable, that they might ſerve the Lord without diſtraction, and which made their Condition better, and more happy, who had the gift of Continence, he abſtains from laying any Obligation to Celibacy upon them, leaſt he ſhould lay a Snare upon their Conſciences, v. 35. and bring them under a neceſſity of burning, v. 9. much leſs would have urg'd young Men and Women to that vow, which lays a greater Snare upon them, and lays an abſolute Neceſſity upon them, rather to burn then marry. And laſtly, He ſuppoſes that ſome cannot contain, v. 9. ſome have a neceſſity to marry, and need ſo requires them to do, v. 36, 37.

Ver. 6. But I ſpeak this (of marriage, v. 2.) by permiſſion, not by commandment (of the Lord, v. 12.)

Κατὰ συγγνώμην, by permiſſion, &c.] i. e. I intend not by this to lay a commandment upon all to marry; but only do permit it to all, as being a ſure remedy againſt Fornication. Yea, far am I from the firſt, Ver. 7. For I would that all Men were (unmarried) even as I my ſelf (am,) but every man hath his proper gift of God, one after this manner, and another after that.

Ver. 8. I ſay therefore to the unmarried and (to the) widows, it is good for them if they abide even as I (do).

Ἀγάμοις, the unmarried.] The Apoſtle begins his Diſcourſe concerning the Virgin Man and Woman, v. 25. here therefore he muſt ſpeak of the unmarried, as comprehending the Widower, or the Man looſed from a Wife, as v. 11. Ἄγαμος is the Woman, who muſt not embrace a ſecond Marriage. And perhaps this only was St. Paul's caſe, as may, ſaith Grotius, be probably collected from this place, and may be argued from the Teſtimony of (e) Clemens of Alexandria, and the interpolated Ignatius, who both reckon St. Paul among the Apoſtles that were married, and from the ſtrictneſs of the Jewiſh Canon, which obliged all Jews to marry at Twenty.

Ver. 9. But if they cannot contain, let them marry, for it is better to marry then to burn, (or be inquieted with filthy luſtings.)

Εἰ δὲ οὐκ ἐγκρατεύονται γαμησάτωσαν, if they contain not, let them marry.] Had the Apoſtle then known of any Vow of Continence, or any Eccleſiaſtical Law rendring it a damnable ſin, and a renouncing their firſt Faith to marry, though they burned, he could not ſo generally have propounded, and preſcribed Marriage as the Remedy of that Diſeaſe, but would have reſtrained his words as Eſtius here doth, Iis quibus conjugij contrahendi poteſtas eſſet, id eſt, qui à lege & voto continentiæ ſunt liberi, to thoſe who were free from the Law, and Vow of Celibacy. But I believe he knew of none whom God's Law had placed under a Neceſſity of burning; that is, ſay the Greek Commentators, of being ſubject to the inſults of Luſt.

Ver. 10. And to the married I command, yet not I (only) but the Lord (alſo, Matth. 19. 9.) let not the Wife depart (or ſeparate her ſelf) from her Husband.

Ver. 11. But if ſhe depart (Gr. ἐὰν δὲ χωρισθῇ, but if ſhe be ſeparated.] Let her remain unmarried, or be reconciled to her Husband; and let not the Husband put away (or divorce) his Wife.

Γυναῖκα ἀπὸ ἀνδρὸς μὴ χωρισθῆναι, let not the wife depart from her husband.] Note that the Apoſtle ſpeaks here of the married Perſons, who had mutually embraced the Chriſtian Faith, forbidding them to divorce themſelves, except for cauſe of Fornication, as it was cuſtomary for Women, as well as Men to do, both amongſt the Jews and Romans. Dr. Lightfoot on this place cites this Canon from R. Juchanan, the wife hath power to put away her husband; and he gives Inſtances of it in Herodias divorcing her self from Philip, and Drusilla from Azizus; and our Lord supposes this was practised in these words, If a woman put away her husband, and marry another, she commits adultery. That this was common among the Heathens, is apparent from that saying of (f) Seneca, That none blushes at it, because there was scarce a marriage without it. Hence had they divers names for the Divorce of both kinds; for the Wife being, after marriage, carried to the House of her Husband, her Divorce was called (g) ἀποπομπὴ, a sending her away from his House; and because the Woman, being not Mistress of the House, could not do this to the Man, but only leave his House, her Divorce was called ἀπόλειψις, a leaving of the House, tho it was conceived in the usual form, Res tuas tibi habeto. See Note on 1 Tim. 3. 2, 12. That here the Apostle condemns these Divorces, with our Saviour, is evident, because he saith, he speaks this by commandment of the Lord.

Ver. 12. But to the rest (you mention to me who are coupled with unbelievers) speak I, not the Lord (by any decision he hath made, or any precept he hath given in this case, v. 25. as in the former instance) if any brother hath a wife that believeth not, and she be pleased to dwell with him, let him not put her away.

Ver. 13. And the woman which hath an husband that believeth not, and he be pleased to dwell with her, let her not leave him.

Οὐκ ὁ Κύριος, not the Lord.] St. Paul doth not say this, to intimate that this direction was given by him only as a Man using his natural Reason, to direct them to what he thought best, but not as delivering the mind of Christ, for he had before declared the contrary, by saying, We have the mind of Christ, Chap. 2. 16. And after doth it in these words, If any man think himself a Prophet, or Spiritual, let him acknowledge that the things I write unto you, are the Commandments of the Lord, Chap. 14. 37. But he speaks thus, to declare our Lord in his Discourse touching Divorce, had not decided the Case de imparibus Conjugiis, of the Marriage of a Believer with an Infidel, but left this to the decision of the Apostles, by the assistance of the Holy Ghost, promised to lead them into all Truth.

Μὴ ἀφιέτω αὐτὸν, let her not leave him.] This caution was needful, because the Primitive Christians were sometimes in doubt of this, as finding that the Jews did null all Marriages of the Holy Seed with Infidels; and hence conjecturing, that they also might be obliged to do so, and thinking it ἀσεβὲς, an impious thing to cohabit with an Heathen, especially if he were addicted also to unnatural Lusts, and that by being ὁμόκοιτοι bed fellows to such a one, they communicated with him in his Iniquity and Idolatry; and concluding, that as he who was joyned to an Harlot, was one Body with her, so she that was joyned to an Idolater was one Body with him. Hence Justin Martyr saith of one of these Christian Women, not without seeming approbation of the Fact, that (h) τὸ λεγόμενον παρ' ὑμῖν βιβλίδιον δοῦσα ἀπέλειπεν, Giving him a Bill of Divorce, she was separated from him.

Ver. 14. For the unbelieving husband is (Gr. hath been) sanctified by the (believing) wife, and the unbelieving wife is (hath been) sanctified by the (believing) husband, else were your Children (seminally) unclean, (and so not to be admitted to the Christian Covenant) but now they are holy.

Ἐν τῇ γυναικὶ, by the wife.] Uxoris gratiâ, because of the Wife; i. e. he is to be reputed as sanctified, because he is one Flesh with her who is holy. So ἐδούλευσεν Ἰσραὴλ ἐν γυναικὶ καὶ ἐν γυναικὶ ἐφυλάξατο, Israel served for a Wife, and for a Wife he kept sheep, Hos. 12. 12. I desire that you faint not ἐν ταῖς θλίψεσί μου by reason of my tribulations, Eph. 3. 13. and that no man be shaken ἐν ταῖς θλίψεσι ταύταις by reason of these tribulations, 1 Thess. 3. 3. See Naldius in the 23d signification of the Particle Beth. Or we may take these words in the sense of the Greek Interpreters, viz. the unbelieving Husband hath been sanctified to the believing Wife by his Consent to cohabit with her, and to have Seed by her.

Ἐπεὶ ἄρα τὰ τέκνα ὑμῶν ἀκάθαρτά ἐστι νῦν δὲ ἅγιά ἐστιν, else were your Children unclean, but now they are holy.] He doth not say, else were your Children Bastards, but now they are legitimate; but else were they unclean, i.e. Heathen Children, not to be owned as an Holy Seed, and therefore not be admitted into Covenant with God, as belonging to his Holy People. That this is the true import of the words ἀκάθαρτα and ἅγια will be apparent from the Scriptures, in which the Heathens are stiled the unclean, in opposition to the Jews in covenant with God, and therefore stiled an holy People. So Isa. 35. 8. ὁδὸς καθαρὰ ἔσται ἐκεῖ, καὶ ὁδὸς ἁγία κληθήσεται, an high-way shall be there, and it ſhall be called the way of holineſs, ἀκάθαρτος, the unclean ſhall not paſs over it; but the redeemed of the Lord ſhall walk therein, v. 9. And Chap. 52. 1. God ſaith of Jeruſalem the Holy City, There ſhall no more come into thee, ἀπερίτμητος καὶ ἀκάθαρτος, the uncircumciſed, and unclean. So Acts 10. 28. You know that it is unlawful for a Jew to keep company with a man of another Nation; but God hath ſhewed me that I ſhould call no man common, or ἀκάθαρτον unclean. Whence it is evident that the Jews look'd upon themſelves as δῆλοι Θεῷ καθαροί, the clean Servants of God, Neh. 2. 20. and upon all Heathens, and their Off-ſpring, as unclean, by reaſon of their want of Circumciſion, the ſign of the Covenant. Hence, whereas it is ſaid that Joſhua circumciſed the People, Chap. 5. 4. the Septuagint ſay, ἐκαθάρισεν, he cleanſed them. Moreover of Heathen Children, and ſuch as are not Circumciſed, they ſay they are not born in holineſs; but they on the contrary are ſtiled זרע קדש σπέρμα ἅγιον, an holy Seed, Iſa. 6. 13. Ezra 9. 2. and the Off-ſpring from them, and from thoſe Proſelytes which had embraced their Religion, are ſaid to be born בקדושה in holineſs, and ſo thought fit to be admitted to Circumciſion, or Baptiſm, or whatſoever might initiate them into the Jewiſh Church; and therefore to this ſenſe of the words holy, and unclean, the Apoſtle may be here moſt rationally ſuppoſed to allude, declaring that the Seed of holy Perſons, the Off-ſpring born ἐκ τῶν ἡγιασμένων of Saints, as (i) Chriſtians are ſtill called in the New Teſtament, are alſo holy. And though one of the Parents be ſtill Heathens, yet is the denomination to be taken from the better, and ſo their Off-ſpring are to be eſteemed not as Heathens, i. e. unclean, but holy, as all Chriſtians by denomination are. So (k) Clemens Alexandrinus infers, ſaying, I ſuppoſe the Seed of thoſe that are holy is holy, according to that ſaying of the Apoſtle Paul, the unbelieving wife is ſanctified by the husband, &c. Hence then the Argument for Infant Baptiſm runs thus, If the holy Seed among the Jews was therefore to be Circumciſed, and be made federally holy by receiving the Sign of the Covenant, and being admitted into the number of God's holy People, becauſe they were born in Sanctity, or were ſeminally Holy; for the Root being holy, ſo are the Branches alſo; then by like reaſon the holy Seed of Chriſtians ought to be admitted to Baptiſm, and receive the Sign of the Chriſtian Covenant, the Laver of Regeneration, and ſo be entred into the Society of the Chriſtian Church. The Subſtance of this Argument is in Tertullian de Anima, cap 39. and in the Authour of the Queſtions ad Antiochum, qu. 114.

Ver. 15. But if the unbelieving perſon (will) depart, (and ſo break off the Matrimonial duty) let him depart; a Brother or Siſter is not under bondage (Gr. is not enſlaved) in ſuch caſes, but God hath called us to peace, (and therefore we muſt give no occaſion of quarrel with, or ſeparation from ſo near a Relative, or of diſturbance of the Family.) οὐ δεδούλωται, is not under bondage.] That is, ſaith (l) Hilary, The Chriſtian in this caſe is free to marry to another Chriſtian. He is free, ſaith (m) Photius, to depart, becauſe the other hath diſſolved the Marriage. If he depart, ſay (n) Chryſoſtom, Oecumenius, and Theophylact, becauſe thou wilt not communicate with him in his infidelity, be thou divorced, or quit the yoke; for it is better that thy Marriage ſhould be diſſolved, than thy Piety. Theſe Fathers therefore plainly ſuppoſed, that the Laws which ſay, He that marries her which is put away committeth Adultery, Matth. 5. 22. and that the wife is bound to the husband as long as he liveth, v. 39. Rom. 7. 1, 2, 3. concerned only equal Marriages, partly becauſe the Apoſtle ſaith, He had no commandment of the Lord to produce for the deciſion of this caſe; and partly becauſe he doth not here ſay, as in the caſe of equal Marriages, v. 11. ἐὰν χωρισθῇ, if ſhe be ſeparated, let her remain unmarried. It is the opinion of (o) Mr. Thorndike, that the Apoſtle look'd upon Marriage, made by Perſons before they were Chriſtians, to lay no ſtricter Obligations on them, then the Laws which they were under when the Marriage was contracted deſign'd to lay upon them. But this ſeems not conſiſtent with our Lord's deciſions touching Divorce and Polygamy; for tho' they were allowed both by Jews and Gentiles, our Saviour pronounces them diſagreeable to the firſt Inſtitution of Matrimony by God; and theſe Laws binding all that were Chriſtians, no Chriſtian Convert could, after his or her Converſion, do any thing on their parts oppoſite to them; and whatſoever liberty of Divorce the Laws of Jew or Gentile might allow of, the Apoſtle will not permit the believing Wife or Husband to make uſe of them, by beginning the Separation, v. 12, 13, 15. If then theſe words, a Brother or Siſter is not in bondage in theſe caſes, do import, they are not obliged to live unmarried, such a total and perpetual desertion must dissolve the Matrimony, and render the deserting Person as dead unto the other. But though all the Romanists, and many of the Reformed allow of this Interpretation of the Fathers, it must be dangerous to admit of it without this Restriction, A Brother or a Sister is not enslaved, after all means of Peace and Reconciliation have been in vain attempted, and the Unbeliever hath entred into another Marriage, or rather hath dissolved the former by Adultery, as may well be supposed of those Heathens who thus separated from their Christian Mates. And this Interpretation seems to be confirmed from the former words relating to the Case of the believing Wives and Husbands, if they depart, let them remain unmarried; it being not to be supposed that Believers would dissolve the Bond of Matrimony by Adultery. Therefore the Apostle seems to grant this in the case of Unbelievers, departing from Christians on the account of their Faith, and for this there is good reason.

Ver. 16. For what knowest thou, oh wife, whether (by dwelling with him) thou shalt (not be a means to) save thy husband? or how knowest thou, oh man, whether thou shalt (not by thus dwelling with her, be a means to) save thy wife?

Ver. 17. But (whether this be so, or not) as God hath distributed the gift (of Continence) to every man, (or not) as the Lord hath called every one (to the Faith, married to an Unbeliever, or Servant to them, or not) so let him walk, (doing nothing on his part contrary to those Relations) and so order I in all Churches (which I have converted.)

Εἰ μὴ, but.] Or rather, if not. So אִם אֵין and אִם לֹא Gen. 18. 21. εἰ δὲ μὴ, and if it be not so. See Chap. 24. 8. 42. 16, 37. Job 9. 24. εἰ δὲ μὴ, and if it be not so, who will make me a liar; and Chap. 24. 25. John 14. 2. εἰ δὲ μὴ, if it were not so, I would have told you. See Naldius de partic. Hebr. p. 92. To others εἰ μὴ seems to be misplaced, as being added to the beginning of this Verse, when indeed it belongs to the close of the former, thus; How knowest thou, oh man, εἰ τὴν γυναῖκα σώσεις εἰ μὴ, whether thou shalt save thy wife, or not. And so the seventeenth Verse will begin with ἐκάστῳ, as the twentieth and the four and twentieth Verses, which answer to it, do.

Ver. 18. Is any man called, being circumcised, let him not (endeavour to) become (as one) uncircumcised: is any man called in uncircumcision, let him not be circumcised.

Μὴ ἐπισπάσθω, let him not be uncircumcised.] Ὅτι ἡ ἀπὸ περιτομῆς ἀκροβυστία γίνεται. Epiph. de Ponder. & Mensur. p. 172.

Ver. 19. Circumcision is nothing, and uncircumcision is nothing, (that renders us more, or less acceptable in the sight of God) but the keeping of the Commandments of God (is all in all.)

Ver. 20. Let every man (still) abide in the same calling in which he was called (to the Faith, not thinking himself obliged by it to quit his calling.)

Ver. 21. Art thou called, being a Servant, care not for it; but if thou canst (lawfully) be made free, use it rather. (Care not I say;)

Ver. 22. For he that is called in the Lord, being a Servant, is the Lords Freeman, (being delivered by him from his bondage to sin, John 8. 36.) Likewise he that is called, being free, (nevertheless) is Christs servant.

Ver. 23. Ye are bought with a price, (Gr. have you been bought with a price from your slavery) be ye not (again) the servants of men (who are unbelievers, 1 Tim. 6. 2.)

Τιμῆς ἠγοράσθητε, have ye been bought with a price.] That the Charity of Christians was employed to buy their Brethren out of slavery, We learn from the Apologies of (p) Justin M. and (q) Tertullian, who tell us, That the Offerings of Christians at the Sacrament, were, amongst others, employed for that use; and that these words ought to be rendred by way of Interrogation, is evident from the precedent Discourse, which is still by way of question, Is any man called, being uncircumcised, v. 18. Art thou called being a servant, v. 21. And that they are to be thus interpreted, the design of the Apostle shews, which is to inform them that their Christianity did not exempt them from their Secular Relations to Heathens, the Believer still continuing in his Conjugal Relation, and in the same Relation of a Servant to his Heathen Master. Now to tell them they were bought with a price by Christ, and therefore ought not to be the servants of men, is plainly to contradict this design; but it is well consistent with the foregoing advice, If thou canst be made free, use it rather; so add, Are ye then bought out of Servitude by the Charity of Christians, return not again to the Service of Unbelievers.

Ver. 24. (Otherwise) Brethren, let every man wherein he is called, therein abide with God.

Ver. 25. Now concerning Virgins I have no particular commandment of the Lord, yet I give my judgment, as one that hath obtained mercy of the Lord to be found faithful (in my Apostolical Function, by advising still what is beſt and moſt expedient in thoſe caſes to be done.)

Περὶ τῶν Παρθένων ἐπιταγὴν Κυρίου οὐκ ἔχω, concerning Virgins I have no commandment of the Lord.] To produce touching their continuance in, or change of that ſtate. Here Eſtius takes care to add, that the Apoſtle muſt be underſtood only de Virginibus quæ nondum Deo voverint continentiam, of ſuch Virgins which were not under the Vow of Continence. And when the Apoſtle ſaith without exception, If a Virgin marry ſhe hath not ſinned, v. 28. he adds, Niſi ſit virgo Chriſto dicata, i. e. unleſs ſhe be a Virgin conſecrated to Chriſt by ſuch a Vow; both which Exceptions ſeeing St. Paul, aſſiſted by the Holy Spirit, thought not fit to add, we may preſume that he knew nothing of that matter.

Γνώμην δὲ δίδωμι, &c. but I give my judgment as one that hath obtained mercy of the Lord to be found faithful.] This, ſaith the Apoſtle, is all that is required of a Miniſter of God, and a Steward of his Myſteries, that he be found faithful in adminiſtring the Grace of his Apoſtleſhip, 1 Cor. 4. 1, 2. And this fidelity was ſtill attended with the power of Chriſt aſſiſting them, as appears from theſe words, I thank Chriſt Jeſus our Lord who hath enabled me, for that he counted me faithful, putting me into the Miniſtry, 1 Tim. 1. 12. So that this Phraſe doth not imply, as ſome imagine, that the Apoſtle had only an ordinary aſſiſtance in this advice, ſuch as any pious skilful Paſtor may ſtill expect, much leſs that this is a counſel which might be diſregarded without ſin.

Ver. 26. I ſuppoſe therefore that this is good for the preſent diſtreſs (of Chriſtians daily ſubject to perſecution) I ſay, that it is good for a man ſo to be (i. e. a Virgin ſtill.)

Διὰ τὴν ἐνεστῶσαν ἀνάγκην, for the preſent diſtreſs.] This Phraſe plainly ſhews this cannot relate ad pacata Eccleſiæ tempora, to the peaceable times of the Church, for they are not times of Tribulation, as the word ἀνάγκη often ſignifies. So Luke 21. 23. there ſhall be ἀνάγκη μεγάλη, great tribulation, ἐν ἀνάγκαις, ἐν στενοχωρίαις, in afflictions, neceſſities, diſtreſſes, 2 Cor. 6. 4. ἐν ἀνάγκαις, ἐν διωγμοῖς, in neceſſities, in perſecutions, 2 Cor. 12. 10. Nor can it ſignifie the Troubles common to this Life, for they are not always inſtant, or preſent. See v. 28. where the Phraſe is θλῖψις ἐν σαρκὶ, trouble in the fleſh.

Ver. 27. Art thou (then) bound to a wife, ſeek not to be loſed; art thou looſed from a wife, ſeek not a wife.

Ver. 28. But if thou marry thou haſt not ſinned, and if a Virgin marry ſhe hath not ſinned, nevertheleſs ſuch (in theſe times of perſecution) ſhall have (more) trouble in the fleſh; but I ſpare you, (not thinking it therefore fit to lay the yoke of Celebacy upon you.)

Ver. 29. But this, I ſay Brethren, that the time (of this life) is ſhort, it remains then that both they that have wives be as though they had none.

Ver. 30. And they that weep as though they wept not; and they that rejoyce as if they rejoiced not, and they that buy as if they poſſeſſed not.

Ver. 31. And they that uſe the world as not abuſing it, (or as thoſe that uſe it not) for the faſhion of the world paſſeth away.

Ὡς μὴ καταχρώμενοι, as not abuſing it.] So this expreſſion is uſed in (1) Philo, This is anothers, do not covet it; this is thy own, uſe it ſo as not abuſing it; haſt thou abundance, give to others, for the excellency of wealth conſiſts not in thy purſes, but in helping thoſe that want.

Note alſo, That they who interpret theſe words, the time is ſhort, with relation to the Troubles ſhortly to come at the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem; and the faſhion of the world paſſing away, of a new ſcene of things beginning to appear, ſeem not to give the true import of the Apoſtle's words: For (1.) it is not eaſie to perceive what concernment the Corinthians then had in the deſtruction of Jeruſalem; what peculiar Troubles hapned; what loſs of Wives or of Poſſeſſions they did then ſuſtain; or indeed, what Perſecution they then lay under from which the deſtruction of Jeruſalem might free them.

2ly, The faſhion of the worlds paſſing away ſeems plainly to refer to the diſſolution of it, or at leaſt to our paſſing out of it in a ſhort time, according to thoſe words of St. John, Love not the world, nor the things of the world, for the faſhion of the world paſſeth away, and the luſts thereof, 1 John 2. 15, 17. Again, to have, and uſe theſe things, as if we had them not, or did not uſe them, is to be moderate in the enjoyment of them; not to be much affected with them when we have, or much afflicted when we want or loſe them.

Ver. 32. But (this advice I give, becauſe) I would have you without carefulneſs (for the things of the world; now ſo it is that) he that is unmarried careth (only) for the things that belong to the Lord, how he may pleaſe the Lord.

Ver. 33. But he that is married careth (alſo) for the things of the world, (and is ſolicitous) how he may pleaſe his wife.

Ver. 34. There is (the ſame) difference alſo between a wife and a virgin, (for) the unmarried woman careth (only) for the things of the Lord, that ſhe may be holy both in body and ſpirit; but ſhe that is married careth (alſo) for the things of the world,

world, how she may please her husband. Μεμέρισται ἡ γυνὴ καὶ ἡ παρθένος, there is difference between a wife and a virgin.] The Reading of the King's Manuscript is this, καὶ μεμέρισται, and is distracted. And then begins the 34th Verse thus, καὶ ἡ γυνὴ ἄγαμος καὶ ἡ παρθένος ἡ ἄγαμος, and the unmarried woman, i. e. the widow, and the virgin careth for the things of the Lord: But though this Reading makes a good sense, it is not found in any of the Greek or Latin Interpreters. 2*ly*, It makes too great a variation from the ordinary Reading, by adding καὶ before μεμέρισται, and by joyning ἡ γυνὴ ἡ ἄγαμος, which in all printed Copies, and ancient Interpreters are separated. And 3*ly*, it makes ἡ γυνὴ here to signifie the Sex only, and to be indeed a Virgin or unmarried Woman; whereas in this Chapter it above twenty times signifies a Wife, and always stands opposed to the Virgin or unmarried Person. So v. 1, 2. v. 3. twice; v. 4, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14 twice; 16 twice; 27 thrice; 29, 39. which observation is sufficient to destroy this Reading; especially seeing the common Reading gives a good sense, and may be rendred thus, the Virgin, and the Wife are divided, or drawn several ways; the first looking only after purity, the second after the pleasure of her husband also.

Ver. 35. And (of) this (difference) I speak for your own profit, not that I may cast a snare upon you, (by restraining you wholly from marriage) but for that which is comely, and that you may attend upon the Lord without distraction.

Ver. 36. But if any man think that he behaveth himself uncomely towards his Virgin, if she pass the flower of her Age, (Gr. if it be over-aged) and need so require, (or he thinks this ought to be done) let him do what he will, he sinneth not; let them (who so think) marry.

Ἐὰν ἡ ὑπέρακμος, if it be over-aged.] The (s) Jews from the Precept to increase and multiply, thought themselves obliged to marry at Twenty, and that they offended against the Law, if they did not so; declaring that whosoever neglected this Precept was guilty of Homicide. The Philosophers say with (t) Hesiod, that γάμος ὥριος, marriage was seasonable to the Woman about thirty, to the Male from thirty to thirty five. By the Law of (u) Lycurgus, they who continued unmarried were prohibited to see the Games; by the Laws of the Spartans they were punished; and by Plato they are declared unworthy of any Honour: To either of these Opinions the Discourse of the Apostle may relate.

Ver. 37. Nevertheless, he that stands fast in his heart, having no necessity, but hath power over his own will, and hath so decreed (or determined) in his heart that he will keep his Virgin, (i. e. Virginity) doth well.

Ver. 38. So then, he that giveth (her) in marriage doth well, but he that giveth (her) not in marriage doth better, (or thus, so that both he that marrieth doth well, and he that marrieth not doth better.)

Note, It is generally supposed that these three Verses relate to Virgins under the power of Parents, and Guardians; and hence the usual Inference is this, Children are to be disposed of in marriage by their Parents. Now this may be true, but it hath no foundation in this Text; for τηρεῖν ἑαυτὸν παρθένον, is not to keep his Daughters, but his own Virginity, or rather his purpose of Virginity; for as (†) Phavorinus informs us, He is called a Virgin, who freely gives himself up to the Lord, renouncing Matrimony, and preferring a Life spent in Continency. And that this must be the true import of these words, appears from this consideration, that this depends upon the purpose of his own heart, and the power he hath over his own will, and that no necessity arising from himself to change this purpose; whereas the keeping a Daughter unmarried depends not on these Conditions on her Fathers part, but on her own; for let her have a necessity, surely the Apostle would not advise the Father to keep her a Virgin, because he had determined so to do; nor could there be any doubt, whether the Father had power over his own will, or not, when no necessity lay upon him to betroth his Virgin. The Greek runs to this sense, If he had stood already firm in his heart, finding no necessity, to wit, to change his purpose, and hath power over his own will not to marry, finding himself able to persist in the Resolution he hath made to keep his Virginity, he doth well to continue a Virgin; and then the Phrase, If any man thinks he behaves himself unseemly towards his Virgin, if it be over-aged, and thinks he ought rather to joyn in Marriage, refers to the aforesaid Opinions of Jew and Gentile, that all ought to marry at such an Age; if any think thus, saith the Apostle, let them do what they will, let them marry, for in doing so they do not sin: and then he concludes with those words applied to both Cases, So then both he that marries doth well, and he that marries not doth better.

Ver. 39. The wife is bound by the Law, ſo long as her husband liveth; but if her huſband be dead, ſhe is at liberty to marry to whom ſhe will, only (ſhe ought to do it) in the Lord.

Hence alſo it is evident, that ſecond Marriages are allowable. See Rom. 7. 3. 1 Tim. 5. 14.

Ver. 40. But ſhe is happier if ſhe (can, and therefore) doth ſo abide, after my judgment, and I think alſo I have the Spirit of God (to direct me even in this judgment, δοκῶ δὲ κἀγὼ, I think that I alſo have the Spirit of God.) 'This, 'ſay ſome, is not ſpoken with the Authority 'of an Apoſtle, or a Teacher ſent from God, 'but in ſuch a ſtile as implies an ordinary aſ'ſiſtance, ſuch as any skilful Paſtor may ſtill 'expect. CHAP. VIII.

Verſe 1. NOW as (for the Plea mentioned in your Letter) touching (the lawfulneſs of eating) things offered to Idols, we (who abſtain from eating theſe things to the ſcandal of others) know (as well as others) that (an Idol is nothing, for) we all have (this) knowledge, but knowledge (when it is not joyned with charity) puffeth up (againſt) but charity edifieth (our brother.)

Περὶ τῶν εἰδωλοθύτων, now as touching things offered to Idols.] This is that other Doctrine of the Nicolaitans, Nullam differentiam eſſe docentes Idolothyton edere, that things offered to Idols might be eaten without diſcrimination, which the Apoſtle here ſets himſelf to confute, ſpeaking of theſe things both in the general, Chap. 10. 23. to the end; and in particular, as they were eaten with Relation to the Idols in the Idol Temple.

Ver. 2. And (therefore) if any man think he knoweth any thing (and by reaſon of that knowledge deſpiſeth others, not regarding their welfare) he knoweth nothing yet as he ought to know.

Καθὼς δεῖ γνῶναι, as he ought to know.] To know thus, ſaith (a) St. Bernard, is to know in what order, with what ſtudy and endeavour, and to what end we ought to know all things. In what order, as deſiring to know that firſt which is moſt neceſſary to Salvation. With what ſtudy, as deſiring moſt ardently to know that which is moſt vehemently to be loved, and moſt tends to produce love in us. To what end, viz. not out of Curioſity, Vainglory, or filthy Lucre; but for the edification of thy ſelf, or of thy Brother.

Ver. 3. But if any man love God (and for his ſake his Brother, 1 John 4. 17. uſing his knowledge to the glory of God, and the benefit of his Brother) he is known (and accepted) of God.

Ver. 4. As concerning therefore the eating of thoſe things that are offered in Sacrifice to Idols, we (alſo generally) know that an Idol is nothing in the world (of that it is eſteemed by them that worſhip it, i. e. no Deity) and that there is no other God but one.

Οὐδὲν εἴδωλον, an Idol is nothing.] This Aphoriſm, that an Idol was nothing, was uſual among the Jews, who were taught by the Old Teſtament, that the Heathen Deities were הבלים and אלילים Vanities and Nothings. Thus in (b) Echa Rabboth, or the old Comment on the Lamentations, Rachel ſpeaks thus to God, Why envieſt thou an Idol, which is nothing. And in the (c) Elle Shemoth Rabba, we have this Aphoriſm, There is nothing ſolid in an Idol. And hence their Rabbins concluded, ſaith Dr. Lightfoot, that it could have no power to pollute, and that whatſoever Worſhip was paid to it, if it were not worſhipped under the Notion of a God, it was nothing; but whatever they meant by an Idols being nothing, 'tis certain the Apoſtle only means that it is nothing of a God; for he proves that it is nothing, becauſe there is no God but one; and ſo all the Criticiſms about the word εἴδωλον, Idol, are impertinent.

Ver.

Ver. 5. For though there be that are called Gods, whether in Heaven or in Earth, as (to the Heathens) there are Gods many, and Lords many, (they having their Celestial and Terrestrial Gods and Lords.)

Ὥσπερ εἰσὶ θεοὶ πολλοὶ, as there are Gods many, and Lords many.] (d) Here Mr. Cl. translates the words thus, as really as there are Gods many, &c. and Magisterally saith, the Apostle hath no reference to the Gods, or Idols of the Heathens; but by Gods in Heaven, are meant God and the Angels; in the Earth Magistrates, who are also called the Lords of the World. But he proves not a word of all this. Yea, the contrary is not only asserted, by all the (e) Ancient Fathers, and Commentators on the place, who both assert, and prove the contrary, but also is evident from the words themselves: For first, when the Apostle had said expresly, We Christians know there is no God but one; would he immediately add, there are really Gods many; what would this have been, but as Chrysostom and Theophylact say, τοῖς φανεροῖς μάχεσθαι, to speak things repugnant, which to avoid, the Apostle adds, That though there be οἱ λεγόμενοι θεοὶ, those that are called Gods, to separate them from him that truly is so; or to shew that they are only so in name, but not in reality; not in truth, but in word only. And this is evident from the words following; though (to them) there be Gods many, and Lords many, παρ' ἕλλησι θεοὶ καὶ κύριοι λεγόμενοι, yet to us (Christians) there is but one God, and one Lord. Lastly, Whereas he saith, By Gods in Heaven are meant God and the Angels, let him shew any Instance in the New Testament where θεοὶ is put for God and the Angels, or where both are thus mentioned under that one name: Here to be sure it cannot be so; for the Apostle had not only said before, We Christians know there is no other God but one; and saith after, this is he of whom are all things, i. e. whose Creatures the Angels are, could he then say, in the intermediate words, there really are many Gods in Heaven, God and the Angels? But Mr. Cl. cares not how he contradicts either all the Ancients, or St. Paul himself, so he may serve the Arians.

6. But (or yet) to us (Christians) there is but one God the Father, of whom are all things, and we in (or for) him, and one Lord Jesus Christ, by whom are all things, and we by him.

Εἷς θεὸς ὁ πατὴρ, one God the Father.] Hence the Arians and Socinians argue thus against the Deity of Christ; viz. As he who saith there is one Emperor, to wit, Cæsar, saith in effect there is no other Emperor but Cæsar; so he that saith there is one God the Father, saith in effect there is no other God besides the Father. Again, He who having separately spoken of one God, proceeds distinctly to speak of one Lord, to wit, Jesus Christ, doth by that distinct Title sufficiently shew Jesus Christ is not that God.

Answ. To the second Argument the Reply is obvious, by retorting the Argument, as do the Ancient Commentators against this Arian Objection thus, That as the Apostle, by saying there is one Lord, to wit, Jesus Christ, cannot be reasonably supposed to exclude the Father from being also the Lord of Christians, as he is often stiled in the New Testament; so neither by saying there is one God the Father, ought he to be supposed to exclude Jesus Christ from being also the God of Christians. So (g) Origen and (h) Novatian. Especially if we consider (1st.) That he is here stiled that one Lord, by whom are all things, i. e. by whom all things are created, Eph. 3. 9. all things which are in Heaven, or in Earth, Coloss. 1. 16. for he that made all things is God, Hebr. 3. 4. and by the Work of the Creation is the Godhead known, Rom. 1. 20. And this is elsewhere made the very description of God the Father, that it is he by whom are all things, Rom. 11. 35. Hebr. 2. 10. (2ly,) That all things were created, not only by this Lord, but εἰς αὐτὸν for him also, Col. 1. 16. Now this is the very thing which the Apostle here ascribes to God the Father.

2ly, To the other Argument I answer, That we, and all the Ancients assert, as truly as they can do, the Unity of the Godhead; and that Christ Jesus is not another God, but only another Person from the Father; and that the application of the word God here to the Father, doth not necessarily exclude the Son from being God alſo, but only from being the Fountain of the Deity, as the Father is. Thus when theſe words, I am Alpha and Omega, the Firſt and the Laſt, Rev. 1. 17. 2. 8. 22. 13. are by St. John applied to Chriſt, it cannot be concluded hence that the Father is not alſo Alpha and Omega, the Firſt and the Laſt, as he is often called in the Old Teſtament; and though our Saviour be the proper Title of our Lord Jeſus, as his very Name informs us, yet is the Father in Scripture ſtiled our Saviour, 1 Tim. 1. 1. 2. 3. and the Saviour of all men, Chap. 4. 10.

The Primitive Fathers therefore conſidering God the Father as the Fountain of the Deity, and Jeſus Chriſt as God of God, do frequently aſſert two things, which may ſerve to illuſtrate this paſſage, viz.

Firſt, That Chriſtians acknowledg'd one God only, even the Father, and yet that Jeſus Chriſt was truly God of the Subſtance of the Father (i).

Secondly, That God the Father was the Creator of all things, and yet that all things were created by the Word.

Ver. 7. Howbeit there is not in every man this knowledge, for ſome with conſcience of the Idols (being ſomething) unto this hour eat (what is offered to) it, as a thing offered to an Idol, (i. e. not as common Meat, but as a ſacred Banquet in honour of the Idol) and their Conſcience being weak, (i. e. erronious, ſubject to ſtumble and fall) is defiled.

Ἀλλ' οὐκ ἐν πᾶσιν ἡ γνῶσις, there is not in all this knowledge.] This contradicts not what is ſaid v. 1. We all have knowledge, that being ſpoken of them who abſtained from eating things offered to Idols, out of ſcandal to others only, this of them who through weakneſs did eat of them; the firſt being well informed Chriſtians, knew there was but one God the Father, and one Lord Jeſus Chriſt to be worſhipped; the weak thought there might be ſome Deaſtri, or Inferiour Lords, to whom ſome Reverence was due.

Ver. 8. But (it is to be conſidered by us that) meat commended us not to God, for neither if we eat are we the better (for ſo doing in the ſight of God) neither if we eat not are we the worſe, (you therefore ought not ſo to eat, as to give occaſion to the fall of your weak Brother.)

Ver. 9. But (rather to) take heed, leſt by any means this liberty of yours become a ſtumbling block to them that are weak, (ſo as to provoke them to fall from Chriſtianity, or to defile themſelves with Idolatry.)

Ver. 10. For if any man (who with this erronious Conſcience goes to theſe Feaſts) ſee thee who haſt knowledge ſit at meat in the Idol Temple, ſhall not the Conſcience of him that is weak be (the more) emboldned (by thy example) to eat things which are offered to Idols, (in honour of the Idol, or as thinking it no hurt to worſhip Idols.)

Ἐν εἰδωλείῳ κατακείμενον, ſitting at meat in the Idols Temple.] The Gentiles, ſaith (k) Joſephus, offer Hecatombs to their Gods, καὶ χρῶνται ἱεροῖς πρὸς εὐωχίαν, and uſe their Temples for their Banqueting-houſe; ſo we read Judg. 9. 27. Amos 2. 7. and in prophane Authors very frequently; when therefore, ſaith the Apoſtle, the weak Jew who abhorreth Idols, or the Gentile newly converted from the worſhip of them, ſhall ſee thee doing the ſame thing which Heathens do in honour of their Idols, and that in places appropriated to their Worſhip, will they not be tempted by the Example of ſuch a ſtrong and knowing Chriſtian, to conclude that either Idolatry is by Chriſtians accounted no ſin, or that the Idol deſerves ſome honour, and ſo comply with them from theſe erronious Principles in eating things offered to Idols.

Ver. 11. And (ſo) through thy knowledge ſhall thy weak Brother periſh for whom Chriſt died.

Ver. 12. But (ſurely it deſerves well to be conſidered, that) when ye ſin ſo againſt the Brethren, and wound their weak Conſciences, ye ſin againſt Chriſt (wounding, and murthering the Members of his Body, defeating the great end of his death, and deſtroying them whom he deſigned to ſave.)

Δι' ὃν Χριστὸς ἀπέθανεν, for whom Chriſt died.] From this, and the like place, Rom. 14. 15. it is ſtrongly argued, that Chriſt intentionally died for thoſe that may for ever periſh; for here the Apostle dissuades the Corinthians from scandalizing their weak Brethren, by an Argument taken from the irreparable Mischief they do to them, the eternal Ruine they may bring upon them by this Scandal; whereas, if it be as some assert, that all things, even the sins of the Elect, shall work together for their good, and that they can never perish. If the Apostle knew, and taught this Doctrine to them, why doth he go about to fright them from this Scandal, by telling them, it might have that effect which he before had told them was impossible? If you interpret his words thus, So shall he perish for whom in charity you ought to judge Christ died, 'tis certain from this Doctrine, that they must be assured this Judgment of Charity must be false, or that their Brother could not perish. In the first case they could not be obliged to act by it; and in the second, they could not rationally be moved by it to abstain from giving Scandal on that impossible Supposition. If you interpret him thus, So shalt thou do that which in its nature tends to make thy Brother perish, and might have that effect, had not God determined to preserve all for whom Christ died from perishing, since the determination renders it sure to me, who know it, that they cannot actually perish, it must assure me there can be no cause of abstaining from this Scandal, least they should perish by it. Moreover, by thus offending them, saith the Apostle, you sin against Christ, viz. by sinning against them whom he hath purchased with his Blood, and destroying them for whose Salvation he hath suffered, deny now this intent of Christ's Death, and shew, if you can, in what Christ hath demonstrated his great Love to them that perish; how they can ever sin against Redeeming Love; or how by thus offending them, who neither do, nor can belong to him as Members of his Body Mystical, we are injurious to Christ.

Ver. 13. Wherefore, if meat make my Brother to offend (and so to perish) I will eat no flesh whilst the world stands, least I make my Brother to offend (and perish.)

Οὐ μὴ φάγω κρέα, I will eat no flesh.] It being customary for the Heathens to consecrate all the Flesh they used to eat to some (1) Dæmon or Idol, and the weak Jews being so nice in matters of that nature, this necessity might sometimes lye upon the Christian to abstain from all Flesh to avoid the offence of the weak Brother; and the Apostle here engageth rather to submit to it, then to be an occasion of his ruine. See Theodor. H. Eccl. l. 3. c. 15. and Note on Rom. 14. 2.

Note also, That there is nothing in this Chapter which intimates that the Apostle discourseth of Conscience doubting about things indifferent, but rather that he all along discourseth of an erronious Conscience, which from a false Perswasion falleth into sin; for, saith he, some with conscience of the Idol to this hour eat it as a thing offered to the Idol, v. 7. Now so to do, is to act plainly, not from a doubting Conscience about a thing indifferent, but from an erronious Conscience about a thing unlawful; and yet, this is the Man whose Conscience being weak is defiled. And in this sense are the words ἀδυνὴς, ἀδύνεια, ἀδυνεῖν, to be weak and weakness commonly used in the Septuagint, as answering to the Hebrew כשל which signifies to fall and stumble. See Note on Rom. 5. 6.

Πρόσκομμα γίνεσθαι τῆς ἀδυνῆσιν, to be a stumbling-block to the weak.] V. 9. is not barely to offend them, or to induce them to do any thing with a doubting Conscience, but to make them stumble at the Christian Faith, or fall off from it, or perish by Idolatry. For thus it follows, and so shall thy weak brother perish. So Rom. 9. 32, 33. Israel stumbled at the stone of stumbling, as it is written, behold, I lay in Zion λίθον προσκόμματος a stone of stumbling, 1 Pet. 2. 8. to them that be disobedient; the stone which the builders disallowed is made λίθος προσκόμματος a stone of stumbling.

To scandalize, or offend this weak Brother v. 13.] Is not only to do a thing ungrateful to him, or to cause him to sin by acting with a doubting Conscience, but to divert him from the Faith, or cause him to dislike it, because he sees that Christians so freely do communicate with Idols, or to encourage him to joyn Idolatry with the Profession of it: That this is the constant sense of the word σκανδαλίζεσθαι, see Note on Rom. 14. 13, 21.

Hence evident it is, that what Dissenters say from hence against our Ceremonies, that they offend or grieve them, that they cannot comply with them by reason of those doubts which they lye under, touching the lawfulness of the use of them, is impertinent to the Apostle's Argument; if they would have the Apostle here to patronize them, they must confess that they are acted herein by a false Judgment, and erronious Conscience, as the weak Person mentioned by him was.

Nevertheless this seemeth to press hard on them who believe the Schism of such weak Persons, will finally tend to their ruine, and render them Exiles from the Flock of Christ, and yet for things indifferent, will in this dreadful sense cause their weak Brother to offend, or to be scandalized, since this they do for that which commends them not to God, which doing, they are not the better; or omitting, they are not the worse, v. 8. For if Schism and Idolatry be equally damning sins, and equally cause my Brother to offend, and him to perish for whom Chriſt died, we are equally to take heed in both Caſes, leaſt ἐξουσία ἡμῶν, our power to do the thing indifferent, become a ſtumbling block to the weak, or the erronious in their judgment of theſe things: For let Men imagine what other differences they pleaſe in the Caſe, whilſt the ſad iſſue or event is in the general the ſame, to wit, the periſhing of my Brother, and my power to have abſtained from that which through his erronious Conſcience gave occaſion to it, is the ſame, I fear the guilt will be the ſame.

Verſe 1. AM not I (who thus abſtain from what is offenſive to the weak) an Apoſtle (as well as others?) am I not free (to do what they may?) have I not ſeen the Lord Jeſus Chriſt (as well as they?) and are not you my work in the Lord? (and ſo if others have a power to live upon your temporal things, have not I rather? v. 11, 12.]

Οὐκ εἰμὶ Ἀπόστολος; am not I an Apoſtle?] The Apoſtle here from his own example in abſtaining from the power which the Lord had given him to receive the Neceſſaries and Conveniencies of Life from them to whom he preached the Goſpel, ſhews how much it concerned them in a matter unneceſſary to abſtain from the exerciſe τῆς ἐξουσίας of their rightful power granted by Chriſt, to avoid the Scandal of the weak, and to promote Mens ſpiritual welfare. So Eſtius. This Condeſcenſion indeed was not in the exerciſe of his Apoſtolical Authority, but it was in that which he might have challenged as an Apoſtle of Chriſt, 1 Theſſ. 2. 6. Hence he ſpeaks thus, Am not I an Apoſtle? and therefore have I not ἐξουσίαν power to eat and to drink? yea, it was that he might have challenged by the Nature of his Office, v. 7. by the Preſcriptions of the Law, v. 8. and by the ordinance of Chriſt, v. 14. And this Abſtinence he uſed not only in Achaia, but in Theſſalonica, 1 Theſſ. 2. 9. 2 Theſſ. 3. 8. that he might be an Example for their imitation, v. 9. It was not therefore any private or perſonal Right which he here waved, but a Right of Office belonging to all who did officiate in things Sacred. See Note on 2 Cor. 9. 2.

Οὐχὶ Ἰησοῦν τὸν Κύριον ἡμῶν ἑώρακα; have I not ſeen Chriſt?] The Apoſtles being choſen to be witneſſes of the Reſurrection, it was requiſite that St. Paul, being called to that Office, ſhould alſo ſee him riſen. Hence Ananias ſpeaks thus to him, The God of our Fathers hath choſen thee, that thou ſhouldſt ſee the juſt one, and ſhould hear the words of his mouth, for thou ſhalt be his witneſs to all men of what thou haſt ſeen and heard, Acts 22. 14, 15. 26. 26. accordingly we find that Chriſt was ſeen of him, 1 Cor. 15. 8. yea, oft appeared to him after his Reſurrection, Acts 18. 9. 22. 18. and that he was taught the Goſpel by the immediate Revelation of Jeſus Chriſt, Gal. 1. 12. The Syriack, Arabick, and ſome MSS. read thus, Am I not free? Am I not an Apoſtle? Have I not ſeen Jeſus Chriſt our Lord?

Ver. 2. If I be not (ſo viſibly and demonſtratively) an Apoſtle to others, yet doubtleſs I am (ſo) to you, for the ſeal (and teſtimony) of my Apoſtleſhip are you in the Lord, (as being converted by me, exerciſing the ſigns of an Apoſtle among you in all patience, in ſigns, and wonders, and in mighty deeds, 2 Cor. 12. 12.

Ver. 3. My anſwer (or Apology) to them that do examine me (why I, and my Companions uſe not the ſame freedom as other Apoſtles and Evangeliſts) is this.

Ver. 4. Have I not power to eat and drink (without uſing ſo much abſtinence, or at the charge of the Church as well as they?)

Ver. 5. Have we not power to lead (or carry) about a ſiſter, a wife, as well as other Apoſtles, and as the Brethren of the Lord, and Cephas?

Ἀδελφὴν γυναῖκα περιάγειν, to lead about a ſiſter, a wife.] It is the obſervation of Hilary, Oecumenius, and Theophylact, that as ſome Women attended on the Lord when he was on Earth to miniſter Neceſſaries to him and his Diſciples, ſo ſome rich Women converted by them, followed the Apoſtles to provide Diet, and other Neceſſaries for them; and they who ſo interpret theſe words tranſlate them a Siſter Woman. This Expoſition Theodoret mentions, but ſeems not to approve; and indeed it ſeems to have had its riſe from (a) Tertullian, when he was a Montaniſt.

For (b) Clemens of Alexandria not only ſaith, that he that marrieth, εἰκότως ἔχει τὸν Ἀποστόλων, hath the Apoſtles for examples; and that St. Peter carried his wife with him till her martyrdom; but confutes the Enemies of Matrimony from theſe very words, Have we not power to lead about a ſiſter, a wife, as well as other Apoſtles; adding that οὐχ ὡς γαμετὰς, ἀλλ' ὡς ἀδελφὰς περιῆγον τὰς γυναῖκας (c), they carried their wives about, not as wives, but as ſiſters, to miniſter to thoſe that were Miſtreſſes of Families, that ſo the Doctrine of the Lord might, without any reprehension, or evil suspicion, enter into the Apartments of the Women. This Exposition seemeth (1st,) Most agreeable to the words, which are not γυναῖκα ἀδελφὴν, but ἀδελφὴν γυναῖκα, which cannot well be rendred a Sister woman, there being no Sister which is not a Woman. (2ly,) It is most agreeable to the Context, which plainly seems to speak not of such wealthy Women which could nourish the Apostles out of their Abundance, but of such which were to be nourished with them by others. And (3ly,) to the Language of the Jews, who called their Wives Sisters. Thus Tobit saith to his Wife, μὴ λόγον ἔχε ἀδελφὴ, take no care my sister, Tob. 5. 20. And Clemens in the words now cited, saith they were carried with them, not as Wives, but Sisters. And lastly, This seems best to consult the credit and esteem of the Apostles, who could not without evil suspicion, carry about with them single Women, or the Wives of other Men. As for the Women who are said to have followed Christ, they were none of his Retinue, they attended not upon his Person, but upon his Doctrine, and so they ministred no such ground of Suspicion. But hence I think it doth not follow, as Mr. Cl. saith, that St. Paul then had a Wife, but only that he, or Barnabas had one, or at least might have had one, no law then forbidding it. Tertullian saying, if not in his own sense, yet in the Person of the Orthodox, licebat Apostolis nubere, & uxores circumducere. De Exhort. Castit. cap. 8.

Ver. 6. Or I only and Barnabas, have not we power to forbear working? (and to receive maintenance of the Church as others do.)

Ver. 7. Who goeth a warfare at any time at his own charge? who planteth a vineyard, and eateth not of the fruit thereof? or who feedeth a flock, and eateth not of the milk of the flock? (And shall we the Souldiers of Jesus Christ, 2 Tim. 2. 2. the Planters of his Spiritual Vineyard, the Pastors of his Flock, Acts 20. 28. be debarred of this priviledge?

Τίς στρατεύεται, who goeth a warfare.] The pertinency of this Instance will be more visible, if we consider that both in the Old and New Testament, the Ministerial Function is represented as a warfare. See Note on 1 Tim. 1. 18. And the Levite, who was consecrated to do the Service of the Tabernacle, is said to enter into the Host, Num. 4. 3. λειτουργεῖν, to officiate, saith the Septuagint, to serve the service, saith the Chaldee. The Church of God is also represented as his Vineyard, Isa. 5. 1—5. Mat. 20. 1. 21. 28, 33—40, 41. Luke 13. 6, 7. and as his flock, Isa. 40. 11. 63. 11. Mat. 26. 31. Luke 12. 32. Acts 20. 28, 29. 1 Pet. 5. 1, 2. But then (d) St. Chrysostom and Theophylact observe, that he saith not who goeth to warfare, and is not rich, who plants a Vineyard, and heaps not up Gold of the fruits of it; who feeds a flock and makes not a merchandize of the sheep; teaching us that the Spiritual Pastor should be content with little, and seek only what is necessary, not what is superfluous.

Ver. 8. Say I these things as a man, (only from principles of natural reason and equity) saith not the Law the same also.

Κατ' ἄνθρωπον, as a man.] This Phrase in the New Testament doth always signifie to speak, act, and live after the manner of a meer Natural Man, not yet acquainted with the Mind of God, not acting by the Guidance of Divine Wisdom, or not assisted by the Holy Spirit. So Rom. 3. 5. I speak κατὰ ἄνθρωπον as a man by meer strength of reason would be apt to argue, 1 Cor. 3. 3. Are ye not carnal, and walk as men, i. e. as Natural, and not Spiritual Men, v. 1. 1 Cor. 15. 32. If κατὰ ἄνθρωπον after the manner of men, i. e. the Heathen manner, I have fought with Beasts at Ephesus, Gal. 1. 11. The Gospel which was preached by me, was not κατὰ ἄνθρωπον after man, i. e. it was not the product of Humane Wisdom, but received from the Revelation of Jesus Christ, Gal. 3. 15. Brethren, I speak after the manner of men, i. e. what is acknowledged in all civilized Nations. See Note on 1 Pet. 4. 6.

Ver. 9. For it is written in the Law of Moses, Thou shalt not muzzle the mouth of the Ox that treadeth out the Corn; doth God (say this only to shew he) take (eth) care for Oxen?

Ver. 10. Or saith he it altogether for our sakes? for our sakes, no doubt, this is written, that (in this Spiritual Husbandry, 1 Cor. 3. 9.) he that ploughs should plough in hope (of reaping some advantage by it,) and (that) he that thresheth in hope, should be partakers of his hope.

Δι' ἡμᾶς γὰρ ἐγράφη, for our sakes this was written.] A like expression occurs in (e) Maimonides, who having cited these words, Thou shalt not take the dam with the young, saith, If God took such care for Beasts and Birds, how much more for Men. So that these words do not import, that God takes no care for Beasts, for he saveth Man and Beast, Psal. 36. 6. and giveth to the Beasts their food, Ps. 147. 9 but only that the commands he gives us to shew mercy and kindness to our Beasts are especially designed to teach us greater kindness to our Brother Man. Thus the High Priest (f)

Eleazar

Eleazar ſaith to Ariſtæas, that all the Precepts of this Nature delivered by Moſes, had λόγον βαθὺν a profound ſenſe; and that God did not make them, as being concerned about Mice, or Weaſels, or ſuch like Beaſts; but that all theſe Laws were made for Righteouſneſs ſake, and the information of our manners.

Ver. 11. If then we have ſown unto you ſpiritual things, is it a great thing if we ſhall reap (ſome of) your carnal things, (Rom. 15. 27.)

Ver. 12. If others be partakers of this power over you, are not we rather (who laid the Foundation of a Chriſtian Church among you, 1 Cor. 3. 10. and have begotten you through the Goſpel? 1 Cor. 4. 15.) nevertheleſs, we have not uſed this power (among you, 2 Cor. 11. 7, 8, 9.) but (chuſe rather to) ſuffer (the want of) all things, leaſt we ſhould hinder the (advancement of the) Goſpel of Chriſt.

Ἐξουσίας ὑμῶν, power over you.] So ἐξουσία πνευμάτων is power over unclean ſpirits, Matth. 10. 1. ἐξουσία πάσης σαρκὸς, power over all fleſh, John 17. 2.

Ver. 13. And not to inſiſt only on myſtical interpretations of the Law.] Do you not know that they who miniſter about holy things (excoriating, waſhing and preparing the Sacrifice for the Altar, as do the Levites) live of the (holy) things of the Temple, and (that) they which wait at the Altar are (according to the inſtitution of the Law) partakers with the Altar, (for that conſumes not always the whole Sacrifice, but leaves ſome portion to be eaten by the Prieſts.)

Ver. 14. Even ſo hath the Lord (Jeſus in the Goſpel, Matth. 10. 10. Luke 10. 7.) ordain'd that they who preach'd the Goſpel, ſhould live of the Goſpel.

Ver. 15. But yet I have uſed none of theſe things, neither have I written theſe things, that it ſhould be ſo done unto me; for it were better for me to dye (for want of food) then that any man ſhould make my glorying (in thus advancing the Goſpel) void.

Ver. 16. (I ſay my glorying) For though I preach the Goſpel, I have nothing to glory of (upon that account,) for a neceſſity is laid upon me (by the command and ſpecial call of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt ſo to do) yea, wo is to me if I preach not the Goſpel, (becauſe then I ſhall be guilty of diſobedience to the heavenly viſion, Acts 26. 9.

Ver. 17. For if I do this willingly (if I chuſe to take nothing for preaching the Goſpel, when I am under no obligation ſo to do) I have a (ſpecial) reward (and may glory in it) but if unwillingly I preach the Goſpel, (yet am I under a neceſſity of doing this, and therefore cannot glory in it, or expect any ſpecial reward above others for it, ſince) a diſpenſation of the Goſpel is committed to me, (and ſo in that I only can diſcharge my truſt.)

Εἰ γὰρ ἑκὼν τοῦτο πράσσω, if I do this willingly.] This is the Interpretation of Oecumenius, and it ſeems beſt to ſuit with the Scope of the Apoſtle: The other ſenſe mentioned by the Ancients, and followed by moſt Interpreters, is this, If I preached the Goſpel as a Volunteer, having no command from Chriſt to do it, I might expect a peculiar Reward; but having the command from Chriſt, I execute it only in obedience to the truſt committed to me, and ſo I cannot glory in, or expect a reward for that above others.

Ver. 18. What then is my reward (or what is matter of ſpecial reward and glory to me) verily (this) that when I preach the Goſpel, I may make the Goſpel of Chriſt without charge, that I abuſe not (or uſe not, See 1 Cor. 7. 31.) my power (which is given me) in the Goſpel, (and this matter of rejoycing I have.)

Note firſt, From v. 12, 15, 18. that our power in things indifferent, and uncommanded, is not to be uſed to the hindrance of the Goſpel of Chriſt, and the ſcandal of the Weak.

2*ly*, That there is καύχημα, or matter of glorying in things done by the aſſiſtance of the Grace of God, and it is for the Glory of a Man to do them, v. 15, 16. 2 Cor. 11. 10. ἡ καύχησις ἡμῶν, our rejoycing, or our glorying, is this, even the teſtimony of our Conſcience, 2 Cor. 1. 12. And again, Let every man approve himſelf to his own Conſcience, and then ſhall he have τὸ καύχημα rejoycing in himſelf, and not in another, Gal. 6. 4. The glorying therefore, or the καύχημα which the Apoſtle elſewhere doth reject, and exclude, is only that of the Merit of our Works, or their ſufficiency to procure the Juſtification of a Sinner, Rom. 3. 27. 4. 2. or that which doth exclude the help, or the aſſiſtance of the Grace of God in Chriſt, 1 Cor. 1. 29, 31.

3*ly*, That there may be ſome actions eminently good which fall under no particular command, I ſay particular command; for I believe this very action of St. Paul, in which he glories, was done according to that Charity which ſeeketh not her own, but the good of others, that they might be ſaved; that Chriſtian Charity which mindeth not her own, but the things of Jeſus Chriſt, Philip. 2. 5. and that it was in the general his duty to take care not to hinder the Goſpel of Chriſt, v. 12. and to cut off occaſion from others to glory, to the impairing of the Truth, 2 Cor. 11. 12. to perform that which rendred him inſtrumental to gain the more, v. 19. and therefore he ſaith, v. 27. All this I do for the Goſpels ſake, that I may be partaker of it with you. I think every very good Work, which reſpects our duty towards God, falls under the general command of loving God with all our heart, our mind, and ſoul; and all the kindneſs we ſhew to our Brother under the command of loving him as our own ſelves, and think no action eminently good, can be done by any Chriſtian which is not comprehended under the general Precept of of doing whatſoever things are true, honeſt, juſt, pure, lovely, and of good report, if there be any vertue, any praiſe, Philip. 4. 8. But yet this action, as to the ſubſtance of it, being under no Precept, but being a refuſal to uſe the power God had granted to him as much as others, and this refuſal being done out of reſpect unto God's Glory, and the good of Souls, was that of which he juſtly gloried, and for which, though he did not merit any thing, yet he might reaſonably expect from God, whoſe Glory he promoted by it, an eſpecial recompence, according to the Rule of his own Nation, (g) To him a Reward is given who doth any thing uncommanded.

Ver. 19. For though I be free from all men (as being a ſervant to none) yet have I made my ſelf (as) a ſervant to all, that I might gain the more.

Ver. 20. To the (unconverted) Jews I became as a Jew, (circumciſing Timothy for their ſakes, Acts 16. 3.) that I might gain the Jew, to them that (in their opinion) are (yet) under the (obligation of the) Law, as under the Law, (purifying my ſelf in the Temple, becauſe they were zealous of the Law, Acts 21. 20—26.) that I might gain them that are under the Law.

Ver. 21. To them that are without Law (the unbelieving Gentiles) I became as without Law, (diſcourſing to them from thoſe Natural Principles which they owned, Acts 17. rather then from the Law and the Prophets,) being not without Law to God, but under the Law to Chriſt, (or obedient to the Law of Chriſt, and taking care notwithſtanding that I did nothing contrary to the Moral Law of God, and to the Rules of Chriſtianity) that I might gain them that are without the Law.

Ver. 22. To the weak (Convert among the Gentiles) I became as weak, (by condeſcending to abſtain from what might hurt their weak Conſciences) that I might gain the weak, I am made all things to all men, (by my compliance with them in all lawful matters) that I might by all means ſave ſome.

Ver. 23. And all this I do for the Goſpels ſake, that I might be a partaker of (the Promiſes and Rewards of) it with you.

Ver. 24. (Which neither you nor I ſhall obtain by the bare profeſſion or knowledge of it without Charity, and a life ſuitable to the Precepts of it, for) know ye not (among whom the Iſtmian Games are acted) that they who run in a race run all, but one (of them only) receiveth the prize, ſo (therefore) run (your Chriſtian race) that ye may obtain (the reward of it.)

Ver. 25. (And then you will be moved to abſtain, as I do, from what may cauſe your weak Brother to fall, and periſh; for) every one that ſtriveth for maſtery (or is a Wreſtler in thoſe Games) is temperate in all things, (i. e. obſerveth a ſtrict abſtinence) now they (who thus abſtain that they may prevail in wreſtling) do it (only) to obtain a corruptible Crown, (of Bays, or Olive) but we (Chriſtians, by uſing this temperance, ſhall obtain) an incorruptible (Crown.)

Ver. 26. I therefore ſo run (this race) not as uncertainly, (or not regarding whether I am within the Lines, or come firſt to the Goal, or not,) ſo fight I not as he that beateth the air, (i. e. not vainly, as you ſeem to do; for what advantage have you by going to the Idol Temples, or eating things offered to Idols, to the deſtruction of your Brother?)

Ver. 27. But I keep under my Body, and ſubdue it, (by denying my ſelf theſe liberties in things indifferent) leaſt while I preach to others, I my ſelf ſhould be a caſtaway. (As being not partaker of the Bleſſings of the Goſpel, v. 23.)

Ἀδόκιμος, Leaſt I my ſelf ſhould be a caſtaway] i. e. One diſapproved of by God at the laſt. Excellent here is the Note of the ancient Commentators, Εἰ ὁ Παῦλος τοῦτο ἐδεδοίκει, ὁ τοσάτις διδάξας, τί ἂν εἴποιμεν ἡμεῖς; If Paul, ſo great a Man, one who had preach'd and laboured ſo much, dreaded this, what cauſe have we to fear leaſt this ſhould befal us?

Note alſo, That the Agoniſtical Phraſes, mentioned in theſe four laſt Verſes, are fully and excellently explained by the Reverend Dr. Hammond, who informs us, Firſt, That the (h) Iſtmian Games were celebrated among the Corinthians, and therefore the Apoſtle ſpeaks thus to them, Know ye not.

Secondly, That of the five Games there uſed, the Apoſtle alludes only to two or three, Running, v. 24, 26. Wreſtling, v. 25. Cuffing, v. 26, 27.

Thirdly, That he who won the Race by running, was to obſerve the Laws of Racing, keeping within the white Line, which marked out the Path, or Compaſs in which they were to run; and was alſo to out-run the reſt, and come firſt to the Goal, otherwiſe he ran uncertainly, v. 24, 26. and was ἀδόκιμος, one to whom the prize would not be adjudged by the βραβευταὶ, or Judges of the Games.

Fourthly, That the Athletæ Combatants, or

Wreſtlers, obſerved (i) a ſet Diet, both for the quantity and quality of their Meat, and carefully abſtained from all things that might render them leſs able for the Combat, whence they are here ſaid to be temperate in all things, v. 25.

Fifthly, That he who cuff'd uſed to prepare himſelf for the Exerciſe by a (k) σκιομαχία, or thruſting out his Arms into the Air. And this is ſtiled, ſo fighting as to beat the Air, v. 26. But when he came to the Combat, then his Fiſt ſtrove to hit the Face and Eyes of his Adverſaries; and this is v. 27. ὑπωπιάζειν, to ſtrike under the eye, or give his Adverſary a blue Eye, and applied to the Body, is ſo to keep it under, by beating it black and blue, as theſe Combatants did one another.

Sixthly, That the Reward of all theſe Exerciſes was only a Crown made of the Leaves of ſome Plant, or Boughs of ſome Tree, the (l) Olive, Bays, or Laurel, which therefore the Apoſtle here calls a corruptible Crown, v. 25.

CHAP. X.

Verſe 1. (AND to make you the more diligent in running your Chriſtian Race, and to avoid thoſe ſins which will cauſe you to fail of the prize you run for, I ſhall lay before you the Caſe of the Iſraelites, your Fore-runners, ſhewing what Priviledges, and what Advantages they had, and by what means moſt of them ſo unhappily miſcarried; for to begin with their Priviledges,) I would not that ye ſhould be ignorant how that all our Fathers (the Church of Iſrael) were under (the protection of) the Cloud, and all paſſed through the Sea.

Ver. 2. And (ſo) were all baptized into (the Covenant made with God, and the Doctrine taught by) Moſes in the Cloud, and in the Sea.

Τὸ τιὼ νεφέλην ἦσαν, were under the Cloud.] To underſtand the alluſion here, note that to be under the Cloud, is to be under the Protection or Covert of the Cloud. For the Cloud of Glory, ſaith the (a) Tradition of the Jews, ſignified the Care and Providence of God, and his Preſence with them day and night; and that accordingly it compaſſed their Camp as a Wall doth a City. And therefore of the Feaſt of Tabernacles, which in the Hebrew is חג הסכות the Feaſt of Coverings, the (b) Jews ſay it was eſpecially appointed to admoniſh them of the Divine Protection exhibited to them by the Cloud. And the Chaldy Paraphraſt ſaith this Feaſt was inſtituted, that their Poſterity might know that I made the Children of Iſrael to dwell under the ſhadow of the Cloud. And therefore (c) Philo ſtiles it σκηνοπηγίον, a Covering. And ſo the Pſalmiſt repreſents it, when he ſays, He ſpread out the cloud for a covering to them, and a fire to enlighten them by night, Pſal. 105. 39. And the Prophet, when he ſays, The Lord will create upon every dwelling place of Mount Zion, and upon her Aſſemblies a cloud and ſmoke by day, and the ſhining of flaming fire by night, for upon all their glory ſhall be a covering, Iſa. 4. 5, 6. Πάντα τὸ σκεπάσει αὐτὴν σκιάσει ἡ νεφέλη, the Cloud ſhall over-ſhadow all her Circuits, ſaith the Septuagint. He was to them as a covering by day, and a light of Stars in the night ſeaſon, ſaith the Book of Wiſdom, Chap. 10. 17. By theſe things Mr. Cl. may ſee we have good warrant for ſaying, the Cloud was a covering to them, and that they were under the Cloud, becauſe it was over them; not only becauſe it went before them, which indeed is a greater impropriety, then that which he charges upon others, that being indeed none at all; for what hinders the ſame Cloud from being at one time contracted into the Figure of a Pillar, and at another expanded as a Covering; for do we not read that the Cloud covered the Mount, Exod. 24. 15. that it covered the Seat of the Congregation, Exod. 40. 34. that it covered the Tabernacle, Numb. 9. 15, 16. The learned Biſhop of Ely notes, that there were three ſeveral uſes of the Cloud, (1.) To guide them in their Journeys; and this it did as a Pillar going before them. (2.) To preſerve them from the heat of the Sun in the Wilderneſs; and then it was ſpread out as a Covering, Pſal. 105. 39. and was a Cloud ſhadowing the Camp, Wiſd. 19. 7. (3.) To defend them from their Enemies, that they might not aſſault them; and ſo it ſtood betwixt the whole whole Hoſt of Iſrael, and the Egyptians, and was a Cloud of dark- ness to the latter, so that they came not near the Israelites, Exod. 14. 20. it therefore must be large enough to darken their whole Camp.

2*ly*, That they all passed through the Sea, so as to come to the opposite Shore, saith (d) Josephus; they went through it, saith (e) St. Paul, elsewhere; through the middle of it, say the (f) Septuagint. I confess the Rabbins, and many Commentators say, they only fetch'd a Compass like to an half Circle in the Sea, and came out again on the same side; because before they entred into the Sea, they were in the edge of the Wilderness of Ætham, Num. 33. 6. And after they had passed the Sea, they Go three days journey in the wilderness of Ætham Exod 15. 22. But to this it is answered, That the Wilderness on each part of that Arm of the Sea, was called the Wilderness of Ætham, and beyond the Red Sea was the same with Shur, Exod. 15. 22. for the Hebrew word קצה which we render edge, is by the Septuagint forty times rendred μέρος, a part. And here, say they, they came to Butnan, ὅ ἐστι μέρος τῆς ἐρήμου, which is some part of the wilderness, Numb. 33. 6. intimating that beyond the Sea there was another part of the same Wilderness.

3*ly*, They were baptized into Moses in the cloud.] i. e. Into the Doctrine taught by Moses; for the Cloud was not only for direction, but for a covering over them; according to the words of the Psalmist, He spread out the Cloud for a covering, Psal. 105. 39. (And in the Sea) for they were covered with the Sea on both sides, Exod. 14. 22. So that both the Cloud and the Sea had some resemblance to our being covered with Water in Baptism. And this the (g) Jews do so far own, that they say they were baptized in the Desart, and admitted into Covenant with God before the Law was given.

Note fourthly, That the Cloud had a bright shining side, as well as a dark side, so that their Baptism in the Sea, answered to that of Water, and their Baptism in the Cloud, to Baptism by Fire, or by the Holy Ghost, which say the (h) Jews, was represented by the Shechinah, or the Cloud of Glory.

Ver. 3. And did all eat the same spiritual meat, (that Manna which was a Type of Christ, the true Bread which came down from Heaven, John 6.)

Ver. 4. And did all drink the same spiritual drink, for they drank of that (spiritual) rock that followed them, and that rock was Christ, (as typifying him, and the spiritual Waters to be received from him, John 7. 37, 39.)

Τὸ αὐτὸ βρῶμα, τὸ αὐτὸ πόμα, the same meat, and the same drink.] For though some Manuscripts omit τὸ αὐτὸ, the same, in both these Verses, yet is that word to be retained in both places, for so read (i) Irenæus, and all the Greek Expositors. And whereas Estius interprets the words thus, They ate the same among themselves, not the same with us. This Exposition is contrary not only to what (k) St. Austin and all the Greek Fathers teach, but also, to the scope of the Apostle, which is to shew that they had the like spiritual Advantages and Priviledges with us, which yet he doth not do, unless their spiritual Meat and Drink signified, or typified to them Christ, as ours doth to us; that all of them were not Believers in Christ by Faith, but some of them were Unbelievers, is no objection against this sense; for so it is with Christians now; the Wicked not partaking of the Benefit of Christ by Faith, as the Fathers speak, though they receive the Sacrament of his Body and Blood with their Mouths.

Note also, That St Paul represents Manna as Spiritual Food, and the Rock as being Spiritual, and affording them Spiritual Drink, agreeably to the descants of the Jews: For Manna, saith (l) Philo, is the food of the Soul; it signifies the Law of God, and the Divine Logos, whence all permanent Instruction and Knowledge flows. And this is the heavenly Food, of which Moses in the Person of God speaketh, saying, Behold, I rain down for you Bread from Heaven. The Food of the Soul; saith the same Philo, is heavenly, not earthly, as the holy Scripture testifieth, saying, I rain down for you Bread from Heaven. He calls the (m) Manna put into the Ark, ὁ ἱερὸς καὶ θεῖος ἄρτος τὸ μνημεῖον, the Memorial of the Divine and Heavenly Food; and saith that (n) Man- na is the Divine Logos, the Celeſtial and Incorruptible Nouriſhment of a Soul deſirous of Knowledge. The Jews alſo declare that (o) Manna was a Type of the Eternal Happineſs of Man; that it had its riſe from Heaven, and thence deſcended on the Earth, by opening the Gates of Heaven; that it is the Divine Light incorporated; the Splendor of the Glory of the Majeſty of God; the Bread of which Angels feed, and by which the Sons of the World to come are to ſubſiſt. And with theſe Repreſentations of it, agree the words of the Apoſtle, ſaying, The Jews by eating of it did eat τὸ αὐτὸ βρῶμα πνευματικὸν, the ſame ſpiritual food with us. But here Mr. Cl. ſaith, 'The word πνευματικὸς, ſpiritual, is here oppo- 'ſed to φυσικὸς, natural, not to σωματικὸς, corpo- 'real; for Manna was a corporeal Food, which 'could not be ſpiritual in any other reſpect, then 'as it was prepared, not by ſenſible Cauſes, 'but by Spirits, viz. Angels, whoſe Bread 'therefore it is ſaid to be, Pſal. 78. 2. (R. 25.) I anſwer here is nothing true, or at leaſt nothing certain; For 1. the Chaldee Paraphraſt ſaith, it is called the Bread of Angels in the Pſalmiſt, becauſe it came from Heaven, the Habitation of the Angels, as the Pſalmiſt himſelf interprets it, ſaying, He opened the Gates of Heaven; he rained upon them Manna for to eat, and gave them Bread from Heaven, Bread of the Mighty did man eat. 2ly, Why does he ſay, It could not be called ſpiritual Food in any other ſenſe, then as it was prepared by Spirits? Is it becauſe it was corporeal Food? and might it not be alſo the Food of the Soul? Are not Bread and Wine corporeal Food? and yet may they not be alſo ſpiritual? yea, doth not the Apoſtle's Argument plainly require that the Manna ſhould be ſpiritual? for how elſe did they eat the ſame ſpiritual food with us. And 3ly, how abſurd is it to ſay, It is called ſpiritual Food, becauſe prepared by Spirits. Can he give one inſtance of any corporeal thing called ſpiritual upon that account? Was it not ſpiritual Meat, as the Water iſſuing from the Rock was ſpiritual Drink, and was that ſo becauſe prepared by Spirits?

And this Rock was Chriſt.] i. e. It typified Chriſt; for as the Rock, being ſmitten, gave forth Waters, ſo our Lord being ſmitten, Water came forth out of his ſide; and the Holy Ghoſt, ſignified by this effuſion of Waters from the Rock, was poured forth as a River. By the ſolid Rock, ſaith (p) Philo, Moſes underſtands the Wiſdom of God, which is the Nurſe, and the Inſtructor of all that deſire the incorruptible Life. He by a Synonumous word calls the Rock Manna, that is, the moſt Ancient of Beings, the Divine Logos. And again, The Rock cleft in the top, is the Wiſdom of which he makes the Souls that love him to drink; and being thus made to drink, they are alſo filled with the univerſal Manna; for Manna is called π, which is the progeny of all things; now the moſt general Cauſe of all things is God, and the ſecond, the word of God. By theſe things Mr. Cl. may be convinced that the Jews might underſtand theſe Types by Tradition; and ſeeing them thus accompliſhed, might be induced to believe. And as for Chriſtians, the Apoſtle here ſhews the influence they ought to have on them, viz. to preſerve them from the like offences, leaſt they became ſubject to the like judgments to which the Jews were obnoxious, v. 5, 6. But Mr. Cl. denies that the words bear this ſenſe, the Rock ſignified Chriſt, or repreſented him, and ſaith the import of thoſe words, that Rock was Chriſt, is only this, that which might be ſaid of that Rock in a carnal ſenſe, may in a ſpiritual be affirmed of Chriſt: which is not to expound, but ridicule the Apoſtle, as ſpeaking thus, They all drank the ſame ſpiritual drink, for they drank of the Rock that followed them: Now what may be ſaid of that Rock in a carnal ſenſe, may be ſaid of Chriſt in a ſpiritual, i. e. they all drank the ſame ſpiritual drink, becauſe they drank what was carnal. Moreover, we find many Phraſes of the like nature, both in the Old and the New Teſtament; as when 'tis ſaid, the three branches are three days; the ſeven kine, and ſeven ears of corn, are ſeven years; the four great beaſts are four kingdoms; thou art the golden head; the ſeed is the word, the field is the world; the reapers are the Angels; the harveſt is the end of the world; the hair is Jeruſalem; this bread is my body; this cup is my blood. Now in all theſe Inſtances doth not its import typifies, ſignifies, repreſents? why therefore ſhould it not do ſo in the like propoſition, this Rock is Chriſt? Or what one inſtance can Mr. Cl. produce, that any thing was ever ſaid to be another thing, becauſe what might be ſaid of it in a carnal ſenſe, might in a ſpiritual ſenſe be ſaid of the other? And is it not ſufficient prejudice againſt this περιεργεία, or uncouth interpretation, that it hath no parallel example; whereas our Expoſition is confirmed from numerous Examples of like nature.

Ver. 5. But notwithstanding (these Priviledges and Favours common to them with us) with many of them God was not well pleased, for they were overthrown (by him) in the Wilderness, (Hebr. 3. 17.)

Ver. 6. Now these things were our examples, (who succeed them in like Priviledges and Favours) to the intent that we lust not after evil things as they also lusted (after flesh, when they had Manna, food sufficient for them, Num. 11. 4.)

Τύποι ἡμῶν, our examples.] The Examples he here puts, saith Theodoret, exactly answer to the sins of the Corinthians; for as the Jews lusted to eat Flesh, when God had given them food enough, so the Corinthians lusted to eat things offered to Idols, when they had other Meat provided plentifully by God for them; for the earth is the Lords, and the fulness thereof, v. 28.

Ver. 7. Neither be ye Idolaters (by eating things offered to Idols, and partaking of the Table of Devils) as were some of them, as it is written, the People sat down to eat and drink (of the Sacrifices offered to the golden Calf) and rose up to play.

Ἐκάθισεν ὁ λαὸς φαγεῖν, &c. the People sat down to eat and drink, and rose up to play.] When the Heathens had offered upon the Altar, and consumed that part which belonged to the God they worshipped, they banquetted in the Idol Temple upon the remains, and so did epulis accumbere divum, as (q) Virgil speaks, at long Tables prepared for that purpose, whence this is by the Apostle called partaking of the Table of Devils; and used very appositely, say the Fathers, to convince the Corinthians that by eating things offered to the Idols in the Idol Temple, they must be guilty of Heathenish Idolatry.

Rose up to play.] Here almost all the Critics observe, that παίζειν, to play, bears an impure sense, importing their fornication with one another; as when we say, such a one hath play'd the whore; but this Criticism seems here to be without foundation: For (1.) the Scripture often mentions their Idolatry, but never chargeth them with Whoredom then committed when they made the golden Calf; all that God himself charges upon them is, that they had made them a molten Calf, and had worshipped and sacrificed to it, and said these be thy Gods; Exod. 32. 8, 35. Neh. 9. 18. Psal. 106. 19, 20. Acts 7. 41. (2.) The Apostle speaks of Whoredom in the Verse following, as a distinct sin, and therefore cannot reasonably be supposed to charge them with it here. (3.) The Exposition of the Ancients, that they rose up to dance before the Calf, is confirmed by these words, and when Moses saw the Calf, and the dancing, he was wrath, Exod. 32. 19. And because this was done after the manner of the (r) Heathen, and was one of the Rites by which they honoured their Gods, the Apostle useth it as a confirmation of their Idolatry. And this is all the Fathers seem to mean by saying, that to play is used ἀντὶ τῆς εἰδωλολατρείας, for committing Idolatry; and the Jerusalem Targum when it saith, they did ludere cultu peregrino, play after the Heathen manner.

Ver. 8. Neither let us commit fornication as some of them committed (fornication at the Sacrifices of Baal Peor, Num. 25. 16, 17, 18.) and (upon that account there) fell in one day three and twenty thousand (of them.)

Μηδὲ πορνεύωμεν, neither let us commit fornication.] How prone the Christians of the Church of Corinth was to this sin, which made the Heathen Corinth infamous to a Proverb, we learn from these words of the Apostle, I fear when I come I shall bewail many who have sinned already, and have not repented of the uncleanness, and fornication, and lasciviousness which they have committed, 2 Cor. 12. 23. See 1 Cor. 3. 16, 17. 5. 11. 6. 9, 13, 15, 16.

Εἰκοσιτρεῖς χιλιάδες, three and twenty thousand.] The number of the slain was four and twenty thousand, Num. 25. 9. and so Oecumenius saith some ancient Copies read here; but of this number one thousand was slain by the Judges, and that probably the day before the Plague, three and twenty thousand by the immediate hand of God. Now the design of the Apostle here is only to mention them who fell in one day by the hand of God. See Bochart. Hieroz. l. 2. c. 34.

Ver. 9. Neither let us tempt Christ (our Lord) as some of them tempted (him,) and were destroyed of Serpents, (Num. 21. 5, 6.)

Τὸν Χριστὸν, Christ.] This reading ought not to be questioned, for we find it not only in Hilary the Deacon, St. Chrysostom, Oecumenius, Theophylact, but in (s) Irenæus; hence Primasius of old proved the Divinity of Christ, as being that God whom they tempted, Psal. 106. 14. and others his Præ-existence before the birth of the Blessed Virgin against the Socinians.

Ver. 10. Neither murmur ye as some of them also murmured, (Num. 14. 2.) and were destroyed of the Destroyer, (v. 37.)

Ὑπὸ τοῦ ὀλοθρευτοῦ, of the Destroyer.] i. e. By a Plague sent by the hand of Samuel, the Angel of Death, called ὀλοθρεύων, the Destroyer, Hebr. 11. 28. Wisd. 18. 25. and him that had the power of Death, Hebr. 2. 14. Now the Corinthians murmured, saith Theodoret, because some of them had received only inferior Gifts;

Ver. 11. Now all theſe things hapned to them for examples (to poſterity,) and they are written for our admonition, upon whom the ends of the world (the laſt of Ages, or the Chriſtian Age) is come.

Τὰ τέλη τῶν αἰώνων, the end of the Ages] This Phraſe either ſignifies the end of the Jewiſh Age, as if the Apoſtle did intend to ſay, Theſe things which hapned in the beginning of the Jewiſh Age, were recorded for caution and example to us, who are come to the concluſion of it, or the laſt of the Ages of the World, i.e. the Chriſtian Age; for the Jews, according to the Tradition of Elias, divide the duration of the world into three Ages, the Age before the Law, the Age of the Law, and that Age after the Law, or that of the Meſſiah, Talmud. in Sanhedr. cap. Chelek.

Ver. 12. Wherefore let him that thinketh he ſtandeth, (and is in high favour with God, as they once were, and ſtill think they are) take heed leaſt he fall.

Ver. 13. (And whereas the great inducement to ſymbolize with Jew or Gentile in their Rites, is this, that you may avoid Perſecutions, you have no cauſe to doubt of Chriſt's protection under them, for he hath ſo preſerved you hitherto, that) there hath no Temptation taken you, but ſuch as is common to man, (ἀνθρώπινος, ſupportable by the ſtrength and reſolution of a man,) but (moreover) God is faithful, who will not ſuffer you to be tempted (at any time) above that you are able, but will with the temptation alſo make a way (ſo far) to eſcape it, that you may be able to bear it.

Ὃς οὐκ ἐάσει ὑμᾶς, who will not ſuffer you.) i. e. Any of you, who do what in you lyes to arm your ſelves againſt them, to be tempted above what you are able, this therefore ought not to be reſtrained to the Elect; for the preceding words, no temptation hath hapned to you, are ſpoken to all the Members of the Church of Corinth; and God hath doubtleſs engaged to all that enter into Covenant with him, to enable them to perform the Conditions of that Covenant; ſince a Covenant upon an impoſſible Condition, he knows, cannot be performed; and all are bound to pray in faith, that God would not ſuffer them to be tempted above what they are able, by his ſtrength, to bear.

Ver. 14. Wherefore my dearly beloved, flee from (the) Idolatry (committed by participation of things offered to Idols in the Idol Temple.)

Ver. 15. I ſpeak as to wiſe men (in what I am now offering to ſhew the Idolatry of this practice) judge ye (the reaſonableneſs of) what I ſay.

Ver. 16. The cup of bleſſing which we bleſs (or receive with thankſgiving to God for it) is it not the communion of the blood of Chriſt, (or that Rite by which we Chriſtians do profeſs to hold Communion with, and own him as our Lord and Saviour, who ſhed his Blood for us?) the Bread which we break, is it not (alſo) the Communion of the Body of Chriſt? (i.e. do we not by eating it at his Table, declare our fellowſhip with, and own him as our Lord, whoſe Body was thus broken for us?)

Κοινωνία, the Communion.] This word Communion hath two ſignifications; 1ſt, When the Subject ſpoken of may be diſtributed into parts, ſo that each Man may have a ſhare of it; it denotes a diſtribution, and communion of thoſe Parts to the Community, or Body mentioned. Thus in the caſe of Alms, ſeeing there is a diſtribution of our Subſtance to thoſe that want, this is in Scripture ſtiled κοινωνία, and is ſometimes rendred Contribution, Rom. 15. 26. ſometimes Diſtribution, 2 Cor. 9. 13. Heb. 13. 16. and ſince there were διαιρέσεις, diviſions, and diverſities of Gifts, Miniſtrations, and Operations vouchſafed to the Church; all which the Holy Spirit wrought, dividing to every Member of it ſeverally as he would, 2 Cor. 12. 11. The giving theſe Gifts, and ſeveral Operations to them, is called the Communion of the Spirit, 2 Cor. 13. 13. Philip. 2. 1. Thus becauſe one conſecrated Loaf was anciently diſtributed among all the Communicants, and they all drank their ſhare of the ſame Cup of Bleſſing, therefore the Bread thus broken, and ſhared out, may be ſaid to be the Communion, or Communication of the Body of Chriſt, as being the Communication of the Bread which repreſented his broken Body; and the Cup they ſeverally drank of may be ſtiled the Communication of the Blood of Chriſt, as being the Communication of that Wine which repreſented his Blood ſhed; and to this import lead the following words, becauſe the Bread or Loaf is one, of which we all partake, we being many are one Body, for we are all partakers of one Loaf, according to the old proverbial expreſſion, σύσσιτοι καὶ σύσσωμοι.

But where the Subject mentioned is not capable of ſuch diviſion, or diſtribution, but every one is to have the whole, or the ſame with another, it imports a Fellowſhip and Communion in the ſame thing; in which ſenſe we are ſaid to be called by God εἰς κοινωνίαν, to the fellowſhip of the Son, 1 Cor. 1. 9. to have κοινωνίαν a Fellowſhip in his Sufferings, to have κοινωνίαν Communion with God the Father, and the Son, 1 John 1. 5. and in the Apoſtles Symbol, to believe the Communion of Saints; and in this import of the word the ſenſe runs thus, Do we not by partaking of this Bread and Wine conſecrated in memorial of Chriſt, giving his Body broken, and his Blood ſhed for us, hold Communion, or declare our Fellowſhip with Chriſt. Both theſe ſenſes ſeem agreeable to the ſcope of the Apoſtle, and the firſt infers the ſecond.

Τὸ ποτήριον τῆς εὐλογίας, the Cup of Bleſſing.] The Paſchal Cup being ſtiled by the Jews, the Cup of Bleſſing, becauſe they ſanctified it, i. e. they gave thanks for it in theſe words, Bleſſed be thou, O Lord our God, the King of the World, who haſt created the fruit of the Vine, and being alſo ſtiled the Cup of Bleſſing of the Table, it cannot reaſonably be doubted that the Euchariſtical Cup was ſo called for the ſame reaſon, and that it was ſanctified, or conſecrated by Thankſgiving to God for it.

Ver. 17. For we being many, are one Bread and one Body, (or becauſe the Bread is one, one Loaf being broken for us all) we (who partake of it) being many, are one Body, (owning our ſelves thereby all Members of that Body of which Chriſt Jeſus is the Head,) for we are all partakers of one Bread, (and thus you ſee that, by partaking of this Chriſtian Sacrifice, we own our ſelves to have communion with the Lord Jeſus, and with the whole Society of Chriſtians)

Ὅτι εἷς ἄρτος, ἓν σῶμα οἱ πολλοί ἐσμεν, becauſe the Bread is one, we being many, are one Body.] Theſe words, the Bread which we break, the Loaf or Bread is one, and we all partake of one Loaf, and therefore are one Body, ſhew how groſly the Church of Rome hath varied from Chriſt's Inſtitution, in diſtributing to the Communicants ſeverally an unbroken Wafer, ſo that they neither are partakers of one Bread, or Loaf, or a Bread Broken, as the cuſtom both of Jews and Chriſtians was to do.

Ver. 18. Behold Iſrael according to the fleſh, (and ſee if it be not ſo there alſo, for) are not all they who eat of the Sacrifices (the Peace-offerings, for of theſe only did the People eat) partakers of the Altar.

Κοινωνοὶ τοῦ θυσιαστηρίου, Partakers of the Altar.] i.e. Do they not by partaking of the Gift conſecrated by the Altar, and of which one part is conſumed upon it, partake with the Altar, and own that they communicate with, and worſhip that God at whoſe Altar or Table the Meat was offered in honour of him, Mal. 1. 7. For as ſwearing by the Altar, is ſwearing alſo by him whoſe altar it is, Matth. 23. 20. ſo having communion with the Altar, is having communion with him whoſe Altar it is. To illuſtrate this, let it be noted, (1ſt,) That in theſe שלמים or Peace-offerings, there was a threefold Participation; (1.) God had his part offered to him upon his Altar, viz. the Blood, and the Entrails; part was given to the Prieſt, viz. the Breaſt and the Shoulder; and part to the Offerer, viz. the Skin, and the reſt of the Fleſh; and this in token, ſay the Jews, of Friendſhip, and Communion of the Party offering them, with God, and the Prieſt. And he by eating the remainder, and feaſting on it in the Temple, or the Holy City, became partaker with the Altar, or with God, who had received his ſhare upon the Altar. Note 2*ly*, that theſe Peace-offerings were offered either by way of Thankſgiving for Mercies obtained, or by way of Vow, or of free Devotion; for this diviſion of Peace-offerings we find Lev. 7. Moreover, theſe being offered to the God of Iſrael, ſignified the owning him as that God from whom they recived and expected all their Mercies.

Ver. 19. What ſay I then (i. e. what need I then to ſay) that the Idol is any thing, or that which is offered to the Idol is any thing? (which can of its own nature pollute.)

Ver. 20. But this I ſay, that the things which the Gentiles ſacrifice they ſacrifice to Devils, and I would not that ye ſhould have fellowſhip with Devils, (or do ſervice to them by partaking of things offered to them in the Idol Temples, for)

Δαιμονίοις, to Devils] Here, Mr. C. ſaith, the word δαιμόνιον doth not neceſſarily ſignifie Devils, or evil Spirits, for the Heathens did not always ſacrifice to evil Spirits, if we conſider what were their true thoughts. But the Wiſdom of God did not think fit to conſider the Speculations of ſome of their Philoſophers; but what was indeed their Practiſe, and what the Objects, and Directors of their Worſhip were, and who was gratified by it; they pretended to own a Supream Deity; but the Spirits which ſpake in the Oracles they conſulted, moved their Idols, and reſided in them, and ſet up and promoted their whole Idolatrous Worſhip, were doubtleſs evil Spirits, and ſo the Primitive Chriſtians engaged to force them to (t) confeſs themſelves to be, even before them who paid homage to them. The pulling down of this Idolatrous Worſhip is in our Saviour's Language the caſting out the Prince of this World, John 12. 31. 16. 11. The converting of the Gentiles from this Idolatry to the Worſhip of the true God, is the turning them from the power of Satan unto God, Acts 26. 18. The delivering them from the power of darkneſs, Coloſſ. 1. 13. who before walked according to the Prince of the power of darkneſs, Eph. 2. 2. and were led captive by Satan at his will, 2 Tim. 2. 26. The Pſalmiſt according to the Septuagint, ſaith, ὅτι πάντες οἱ θεοὶ τῶν ἐθνῶν δαιμόνια, that all the Gods of the Heathens are Devils, Pſal. 96. 5. And of the Jews who ſacrificed to them, it is ſaid they ſacrificed to Devils, and not to God, לשדים to evil, waſting, and deſtroying Spirits. And ſo they are alſo ſtiled, 2 Chron. 11. 15. Rev. 9. 20. And ſo all Chriſtians ever did expound

this place, and with good reaſon, it being abſurd to think St. Paul is here diſſwading Chriſtians from having fellowſhip with good Angels.

Ver. 21. You cannot drink the Cup of the Lord (and thereby declare your fellowſhip with him, and that you own him as your Lord in oppoſition to all others) and (yet) drink the Cup of Devils, (and ſo make the like acknowledgment concerning them) ye cannot be partakers of the Lords Table, and (of) the Table of Devils.

Καὶ τραπέζης δαιμονίων, and of the Table of Devils.] This being the deſign of the Apoſtle, to ſhew that the Corinthians could not partake of the Idol Sacrifices in the Idol Temples, without being κοινωνοὶ τῶν δαιμονίων, Men who held communion with Devils; and the proof of this being taken from the practiſe of Chriſtians in partaking of the Euchariſt, and of the Jews in partaking of Sacrifices offered at the Altar, it is evident that the ſixteenth Verſe muſt be interpreted ſuitably to this deſign, and ſo as to be a fit Medium to prove this concluſion. 'Tis therefore evident,

1. That κοινωνία Communion cannot here ſignifie the real, and ſubſtantial Communication of the Body and the Blood of Chriſt, ſince that ſenſe renders the Apoſtle's Argument infirm; for how doth it hence follow, that becauſe Chriſtians eat ſubſtantially the Body, and drink the Blood of Chriſt, therefore they who eat of the Idol Sacrifices are guilty of Idolatry, and hold Communion with Devils. Moreover, the eating of things offered to Idols, could not in this ſenſe make them that did it Communicators of Devils, for ſure they did not eat the Subſtance of the Devils: This therefore cannot be the import of the words. Nor

2*ly*, Can the ſenſe of them be to this effect, the Cup and Bread communicate to us the Spiritual Effects of Chriſt's broken Body, or his Blood ſhed for us; though this be in it ſelf a certain Truth. For

1. Theſe Spiritual Effects cannot be ſhared among Believers, ſo that every one ſhall have a part of them only; but the ſame Benefits are wholly communicated to every due Receiver. See Note on v. 16.

2. The Apoſtle here attempts to prove, not that the Corinthians, by eating things offered to Idols in the Idol Temple, received any ſpiritual influence from Devils, but only that, by that action, they did partake of what was offered to them, and was a ſolemn part of their Religious Worſhip, as the eating theſe Sacrifices was ſtill reputed, and ſo that by it they muſt own themſelves to be Worſhippers of Devils, and then, by parity of reaſon, he muſt by the example of the Euchariſt intend to prove, not that the Chriſtian did partake of the Spiritual Effects of our Lord's Paſſion, but that he did partake of what was conſecrated in honour of him, and received as a ſolemn Act of Religious Worſhip, and Communion with him. And this appears yet farther, from the words which the Apoſtle uſeth, as the cloſe of this Argument, and as the thing which anſwers to the two preceding Inſtances; for they do not run thus, By the things which the Gentiles offer, they receive ſpiritual Influences from evil Spirits; but thus, this I ſay to compleat this Argument, and to render the Sacrifice offer'd to Idols, parallel to thoſe of Chriſtians, and of Jews, that as theſe are offered to the honour of Chriſt, and of the God of Iſrael, ſo the things which the Gentiles ſacrifice they ſacrifice to Devils, and I would not that ye ſhould be partakers with Devils; viz. by feaſting of the Sacrifices thus offered to them, and of which the Devils had a part; and that it was by the act of eating and drinking of theſe Idol Sacrifices, that they became partakers of the Cup and Table of Devils, and thereby guilty of Idolatry, as the (u) Fathers declare; ſo it is evident from theſe words, Ye cannot drink the Cup of the Lord, and the Cup of Devils; ye cannot be partakers of the Lords Table, and the Table of Devils; it was therefore by theſe actions that they held communion with them, and committed Idolatry.

Ver. 22. Do we provoke the Lord to jealouſie (by bringing Devils into competition with him) are we ſtronger then he? (ſo that we need not fear the puniſhments he may inflict on them who give his honour to another.)

Ver. 23. (And whereas you plead thus for your ſelves,) All things are lawful for me, (i.e. all meats may lawfully be eaten, be it ſo) but (yet) all (lawful) things are not expedient (to be done;) all things are lawful for me, but all things edifie not (as Charity doth, Chap. 8. 1.)

Ver. 24. (For the Rule of Charity is this,) Let no man ſeek his own (only,) but every man anothers wealth, (preferring the publick to his private good, and the good of Souls to that of his own Body.)

Ver. 25. (Concerning then the eating of things offered to Idols in the general, and without relation to the Idol Temple, in which to eat them is Idolatry, I thus determine.) Whatsoever is sold in the Shambles that eat (ye,) asking no question for Conscience sake, (as if you thought it matter of Conscience whether you might eat it, if offered to Idols, or not.)

Ver. 26. For the Earth is the Lords, and the fulness thereof, (and therefore you may eat of any Creature the Earth provideth for your food, without scruple of Conscience, when others are not scandalized at it.)

Ver. 27. (And again I say) If any of them that believe not, bid (or invite) you to a Feast, and you be disposed to go, whatsoever is set before you eat, asking no question for Conscience sake.

Πᾶν τὸ παρατιθέμενον ὑμῖν ἐσθίετε, whatsoever is set before you eat.] The Apostle had before discoursed of eating things offered to Idols in the Idol Temple, and shew'd (1st,) The scandal it might give to the weak Gentile Christian: And (2ly) that it was indeed an Idolatrous action. Here he begins his discourse of eating at all, things offered to Idols, with respect chiefly to the weak Jewish Convert. And (1.) whereas by their Canons (x) an Idol, and all things appertaining to it, and whatever was offered to it, was wholly forbidden, the Rabbins pronouncing the eating, or possessing any thing of it forbidden, in these words, Thou shalt not bring an abomination into thine house, Deut. 7.26. the Apostle relieves the Conscience of the Christian in this case, letting him know that he might eat these things, when sold in the Shambles, without scruple of Conscience, v. 25. (2.) Whereas their Canons teach, That (y) if an Heathen make a Banquet for his Son or Daughter, a Jew is forbidden to eat of his meat, because he is forbidden, if called, to eat of his Sacrifice, Exod. 34.15. the Apostle exempts the Conscience of the Christian from this obligation also, v. 27.

Ver. 28. But if a man say unto you this is offered to Idols, (thinking that by thus partaking in such meat, you own the Idol, or concur in the Worship of it) eat not for his sake that shew'd it, and for Conscience sake; the earth is the Lords and the fulness thereof; (who therefore can repleniſh thee out of other meats provided for thy food)

Ver. 29. Conscience I say (meaning) not thy own, but (that) of others (who shew'd thee this was offered to Idols,) for why is my liberty (so used by me, as that I be) judged of (and condemned by) another mans Conscience?

Ver. 30. For if I by grace be a partaker (of God's good Creatures) why (do I use them so as that) I am evil spoken of (by others) for that for which I give thanks, (because of the benefit received by it?)

Τί βλασφημοῦμαι; why am I evil spoken of?] This is the Exposition of all the Greek Scholiasts, and it is confirmed by the parallel place, Let not your good be evil spoken of, Rom 14. 16. i. e. Let not your Faith, or the Liberty you take by reason of it, be used so as to Minister occasion to others to speak evil of that Faith, as the Jews did of Christianity upon occasion of this liberty, for they held the eating of things offered to Idols to be (z) Idolatry, and pronounced all Idolaters to be Apostates from the Law and the Prophets; and this was one of their great Objections against Christians, that (a) they did eat things offered to Idols, and thought not themselves defiled by doing so; though in truth this was done chiefly by the Hereticks of those times, the (b) Nicolaitans, the (c) Gnosticks, the Followers of Basilides; but the true Christians, saith (d) Justin Martyr, will rather suffer death, then be guilty of Idolatry, or eating things offered to Idols.

Ver. 31. Therefore whether ye eat, or drink, or whatever ye do, do all to the glory of God.

Πάντα εἰς δόξαν Θεοῦ ποιεῖτε, do all to the glory of God.] In things capable of honouring God positively, or proper to give glory to him, have always a general intention of glorifying God in the doing of them, that in the virtue of that intention you may proceed to particular actions.

In things not capable of honouring God positively, be careful that you act so, as that the Name of God be not blasphemed, or his Doctrine evil thought, or evil spoken of by reason of your actions. Yea do, and abstain from all things so, as to satisfie your own Conscience, and discover to others that the honour of God, and the advancement of the interests of his Kingdom, are much dearer to you then any Gratifications of your Carnal Appetites, or any Temporal Concern.

Ver. 32. Give no offence to the (unbelieving) Jew, or to the Gentile, or to the (weak Members of the) Church of God.

No offence.] As by thus eating things offered to Idols in the Idol Temple, or elsewhere, being thus admonished of it, v. 28. you are like to do; for the Jew will be apt hence to con-Verſe 1. BE ye (therefore) followers of me (in this condeſcenſion for the good of others) as I alſo am of Chriſt (in it, Rom. 15. 2, 3. Gal. 6. 2. Philip. 2. 5, 6. 2 Cor. 8. 9.

Ver. 2. Now I praiſe you Brethren, that you remember me in all things (I have taught you) and keep the ordinances (Gr. Traditions) as I delivered them to you.

Ὅτι κατὰ πάντα μου μέμνησθε καὶ καθὼς παρέδωκα ὑμῖν τὰς παραδόσεις κατέχετε, that you keep the Traditions, as I delivered them to you.] This Commendation muſt be reſtrained to the generality, or ſounder part of the Church of Corinth, or muſt be underſtood, as ſuch general Expreſſions uſe to be, ὡς ἐπὶ τὸ πολύ, as for the moſt part, or excepting thoſe few things in which afterwards I find reaſon to complain of your neglect, Chap. 15. 3. and here v. 23.

Vain is the Note of Eſtius on this Text, That it makes plainly for unwritten Traditions. For (1.) the word Tradition is common to things written and unwritten, to things delivered by word, and by Epiſtle, 2 Theſſ. 2. 15. The whole Chriſtian Faith is a Tradition, Jude 3. The Doctrine of Chriſt's Death, Burial, and Reſurrection is a Tradition, παρέδωκα γάρ, for I delivered to you theſe Doctrines, ſaith St. Paul, 1 Cor. 15. 3. And will the Romaniſts ſay that theſe things are not written in the New Teſtament? 2. To prove Traditions extra-Scriptural, 'tis not ſufficient to cite a paſſage out of Scripture ſpeaking of Traditions not then writ by one Apoſtle, but it muſt be proved that theſe Traditions were neither then when mentioned, in writing, nor afterwards committed to writing by himſelf, or any other inſpired Perſon. 3. The Traditions mentioned here, and 2 Theſſ. 2. 15. were Traditions immediately delivered to thoſe Churches from the mouth of an Apoſtle; and when the Romaniſts can make good this from like authentick Teſtimony of any of their fardle of Traditions, we ſhall be ready to receive them.

Ver. 3. But (I muſt further advertiſe you of ſome things which I had no occaſion, when preſent, to take notice of, and therefore) I would have you know that the Head of every man is Chriſt, and the Head of the Woman is the Man, and the Head of Chriſt is God, (and ſo as Chriſt, as Mediator, acts in ſubordination to the Father, ſo muſt the Woman act in ſubordination to the Man.)

Κεφαλὴ δὲ Χριστοῦ ὁ Θεός, and the Head of Chriſt is God.] We are hence taught, ſaith Sclibtingius, that the Head of Chriſt is God, whereas the moſt High God can have no Head above him, ſo that Chriſt, who hath this Head above him, cannot be God moſt High.

Anſw. To this ſome of the Fathers anſwer, That God is here ſaid to be the Head of Chriſt, as being the (a) Father of the Son, and ſo the Cauſe of him: but yet as Woman is of the ſame Nature with the Man who is her Head, ſo is Chriſt of the ſame Nature with God the Father. They alſo add, That the word Head is here uſed as a note of (b) Principality, or Cauſality in the Father, but not of Subjection in the Son, which wholly enervates the Argument of Crellius from this place. And though the Schools ſeem not to allow of this Language, yet it is uſed by Irenæus in theſe words (c), The Father is above all things, and he is the Head of Chriſt; the Word is through all things, and he is the Head of the Church.

Others anſwer, That the Father is here ſtiled the Head of Chriſt, conſidered as Mediator, in which Relation he received his Kingdom and Dominion from him, John 17. 2. 1 Cor. 15. 27. Hebr. 2. 8. and exerciſes it wholly to his glory, Philip. 2. 9, 10, 11. in which ſenſe the Father may be ſtiled his Head, becauſe he doth all things according to his Fathers will, to his glory, and by Authority derived from him: And this Interpretation is confirmed from thoſe words, the Head of every man is Chriſt; He being Mans Head by virtue of the Power and Dominion given him over all Fleſh, Chap. 15. 27. John 17. 2. Eph. 1. 19-22. and that Power being given to the Man Chriſt Jeſus.

Ver. 4. Every Man (therefore) praying or propheſying (in the Church) having his Head covered, diſhonoured his Head (Chriſt, as acting unſuitably to that Relation which he bears to God and Chriſt, for Man ought not to cover his Head, becauſe he is the image and glory of God, v. 7.)

In the Church.] For that the Apoſtle ſpeaks not of propheſying at home, as Mr. Cl. imagines; but in the Church, is evident from the Apoſtle's Argument, v. 16. againſt this practice in theſe words, we have no ſuch cuſtom, neither the Churches of God: His Argument to the contrary is anſwered in the Note on v. 6.

Τὴν κεφαλὴν αὐτῆς, his Head.] That is (d) Chriſt, for 1. He is the Head of the Man, v. 3. 2. This ſeemeth moſt agreeable to the Reaſon aſſigned, why he ſhould be uncovered when he doth Service in the Church, viz. becauſe he is the Image, and the Glory of God. And 3*ly*, did he diſhonour his own Head by covering it, he ought never to be covered; whereas if this only reſpects his Head Chriſt, whom he repreſents in praying and propheſying in the Church, it is ſufficient that he is thus uncovered, when he thus acteth as his Miniſter. Laſtly, The Head the Woman diſhonoureth is the Man, ſtiled her Head; and ſo the Head the Man diſhonoureth is Chriſt the Man, ſtiled his Head, v. 3.

Ver. 5. But every Woman that prayeth or propheſyeth with her Head uncovered, diſhonoureth (the Man) her Head, (whoſe glory ſhe is, as being put in ſubjection to him) for this is even all one as if ſhe were ſhaved, (and ſo had removed the token of ſubjection to the Man which Nature gave her.)

Κατὰ κεφαλῆς ἔχων, with his Head covered; ἀκατακαλύπτῳ τῇ κεφαλῇ, with her head uncovered] For explication of theſe words, let it be noted from (e) Theodoret, That the Men of Corinth, according to the cuſtom of the Greeks, both wore long hair, and prayed to God with their Heads covered in the Publick Aſſemblies. So alſo ſaith (f) Plutarch, did the Romans. So ſaith (†) Lightfoot did the Jews. So did, ſaith (g) Servius, all that ſacrificed to any God, excepting Saturn. But the Heathen Woman paid her Devotion to the Gods, reſoluta comas ſeu capillos, with her Hair looſe, and hanging down; or in the Language of the Poets, Crine jacente, aut deciſſo. Note

2*ly*, That the Jews judged it τὸ αἰσχρὸν, a ſhameful and indecent thing for a Woman to be ſhaved, and permitted this only in the caſe of (h) Whoredom, as a Token of their ſhame. And among the Heathens it was indicium ultimi luctus, a Token of the higheſt Grief. It is cuſtomary, ſaith (i) Plutarch, for Men to be ſhorn, and for Women to wear long hair; and therefore in times of mourning, the Men let their hair grow, and the Women are ſhaved; this being contrary to cuſtom among the Greeks and Romans. It was alſo cuſtomary for the (k) Jewiſh Woman to go veil'd. Note

3*ly*, That the Apoſtle doth not here approve of the Woman's praying or propheſying in the Church, as is evident from 1 Cor. 14. 34. 1 Tim. 2. 11, 12. though here he ſays nothing to the contrary, as intending to rectifie that diſorder, when he ſpake of other diſorders in the caſe of Propheſying, Chap. 14. 34.

Ver. 6. For if the Woman be not covered, let her alſo be ſhorn; but if it be a ſhame for a Woman to be ſhorn, or ſhaven, let her be covered. (See Note on v. 5.)

Ver. 7. For the Man indeed ought not to cover his Head (as a ſign of ſubjection) foraſmuch as he is the Image and Glory of God, (as having the Government of the World committed by God to him) but the Woman (ought to cover her Head, foraſmuch as ſhe) is the glory of the Man (as being taken from, made for him, and put into ſubjection to him.)

Εἰκὼν καὶ δόξα Θεοῦ, the Image and Glory of God.] True here is the Note of Theodoret, that Man is here ſtiled the Image and Glory of God, neither as to his Body, nor his Soul; for in reſpect of the Soul, the Woman is equally the Glory of God as to Spirituality and Immortality, and ſo is equally ſaid to be made after his Image, Gen. 1. 27. but κατὰ μόνον τὸ ἀρχικὸν, only as to Rule and Government, which is the proper Glory of a Man, according to the Pſalmiſt's words, Thou haſt crowned him δόξᾳ καὶ τιμῇ with Glory and Honour, and haſt ſet him over the Works of thy Hands, and haſt put all things in ſubjection under his feet, Pſal. 8. 5, 6.

Ver. 8. For the Man is not of the Woman, but the Woman of the Man.

Ver. 9. Neither was the man created for the woman, but the woman for the man.

Ver. 10. (Moreover) For this cauſe ought the woman to have power (a veil) upon her head, becauſe of the (evil) Angels, (ſhe being tempted by the Prince of them to do that which is perpetual cauſe of ſhame to her, and which increaſed her ſubjection to the man, Gen. 3. 16. ought therefore to uſe this token of ſhamefacedneſs and ſubjection.)

Ἐξουσίαν ἔχειν ἐπὶ τῆς κεφαλῆς διὰ τοὺς ἀγγέλους, a veil upon her head becauſe of the Angels.] Here let it be noted, (1*ſt*,) That all the Ancient Interpreters agree in this, that ἐξουσία, which we render power, doth ſignifie a veil or covering, which being put over her Head, compels her to hang down her Eye-lids; and 'tis here, ſay they, called power, as being τὸ τῆς ἀνδρὸς ἐξουσίας καὶ κυριότητος ἐνδεικτικὸν, the token of the power and Dominion of the Man over her.

Note 2*ly*, That the reading διὰ τὰς ἀγγελίας, by reaſon of her revelations, as Mr. Cl. doth, inſtead of διὰ τοὺς ἀγγέλους, without conſent of any Copy, or Verſion, is not to be endured. Moreover, διὰ τὰς ἀγγελίας ſignifies barely by meſſage, not by reaſon of her Revelations, that being properly in Greek διὰ τὰς ἀγγελίας τὰς παρ' αὐτῆς.

Note 3*ly*, That the evil Angels are abſolutely ſtiled Angels in theſe words of this Epiſtle, Know ye not that ye ſhall judge Angels, 1 Cor. 6. 3. and elſewhere, the Angels that ſinned, 2 Pet. 2. 4. or that kept not their firſt ſtation, Jude 6. Note 4*ly*, That among the Nine Maledictions of the Women which the Jews reckon up, this is one, that (l) ſhe is to have caput velatum inſtar lugentis, her head covered like one that mourneth, and this, they ſay, ſhe is to wear, not ſo much as a Token of Subjection, as of Shame; whence (m) Philo calls the τὸ ἐπικεχυνον cover of the Womans head, τὸ τῆς αἰδοῦς σύμβολον, the Symbol of her ſhame; and this ſhame, ſay they, is due to her (n), becauſe ſhe brought the firſt ſin into the world: It is with her, ſay they, as when one tranſgreſſeth, and is aſhamed, and therefore ſhe comes forth with her head covered: She ought, ſaith (o) Tertullian, by her habit to reſemble Eve, a Mourner, and a Penitent, ob ignominiam primi delicti, for the ſhame of the firſt ſin; hence he often interprets this Text of (p) evil Angels.

Moreover, in the judgment both of Jews and Chriſtians, the Serpent which deceived Eve acted by the ſuggeſtion of the (q) Devil, or of Samael, whom the Jews ſtile the Prince of Devils. That therefore theſe words may be interpreted as in the Paraphraſe, is evident not only from theſe obſervations, but eſpecially from a place parallel to this, Let the Woman learn in ſilence with all ſubjection: For I ſuffer not a Woman to uſurp Authority; for Adam was firſt formed, and then Eve, (as here v. 8, 9.) and Adam was not deceived, but the Woman being deceived, was in the tranſgreſſion, 1 Tim. 2. 11, 12, 13. where the ſame reaſon is aſſigned for her ſubjection, which I offer for explication of theſe words.

Others interpret the words thus, The Woman ought to act decently in the Church, and therefore to be covered, becauſe of the Angels who are preſent in the Aſſemblies of the Saints, it being the opinion both of (r) Jews and Chriſtians, that the miniſtring Angels are there preſent.

Ver. 11. Nevertheleſs neither is the man without the woman, nor the woman without the man in the (wiſdom of) the Lord (ordaining that one ſhould come out of the other.)

Ver. 12. For as the Woman is (taken out) of the man, even ſo is the man alſo (propagated) by the woman, but all (theſe) things are of God, (who made Woman out of the Man, and by his benediction encreaſeth Men by the Woman.)

Ver. 13. Judge in your ſelves, is it comely that a woman pray (publickly) to God uncovered, (when God himſelf hath given her a covering by Nature, to intimate to her, that ſhe ſhould be veil'd.)

Ver. 14. Doth not even Nature it ſelf (which hath made Man the Image and Glory of God, created him before the Woman, and given him dominion over her) teach you, that if a man have long hair, (the covering and token of ſubjection of the other Sex) it is a ſhame to him. (See Note on v. 5.)

Ver. 15. But if a woman have long hair, it is a glory to her, (ſhe being fitted by it to repreſent the condition of her Sex) for her hair was given her for a covering, (i. e. in token of ſubjection to her husband.)

Ἡ ἐδὲ αὐτὴ ἡ φύσις, doth not even Nature it ſelf.] The Expoſition given in the Paraphraſe is ſo natural, and ſo well founded in the words and argument of the Apoſtle, and ſo agreeable to the Sentiments of all the Ancient Commentators on the place, that we ſeem not here to need the induſtry and learning the Critics have ſo liberally ſpent upon this place, the Apoſtle here by Nature underſtanding not any inward Principle implanted in the heart and reaſon of a Man, but the firſt riſe and conſtitution which Man and Woman have received from the God of Nature. It is againſt Nature, ſay the Fathers, for a Man to wear long hair, for by it he aſſumes the habit of a Woman, ἄρχειν ταχθεὶς τὸ τῆς ὑποταγῆς σύμβολον παραδέχε-and being made by God to rule, he takes upon him the symbol of subjection. Of the Criticisms upon the word κρεῖν they say not a word.

Ver. 16. But if (after what hath been thus said) any man seem (still) to be contentious, (I shall add only this, that) we have no such custom, neither the Churches of God, (it being only customary in the Assembles of Heathens for Women to pay their Devotions to the Gods thus. See Note on v. 5.)

οὐδὲ Ἐκκλησίαι Θεοῦ, nor the Churches of God.] Hence it is manifest, 1st, That the Apostle here cannot be thought to have respect only to the custom of the Greeks, as Mr. Cl. imagines, for then why doth he plead the custom of all the Churches of God against this practice? 2ly, Hence note, That in things only respecting decency, and in conforming to which there is no violation of the Command of God, the Custom of the Church should be our Rule, it being an Argument of Pride, and a Contentious Spirit, in Matters of so little moment, to be singular, and to create disturbance to the Church of God.

Ver. 17. Now in this (other thing) that I (am about to) declare unto you, I praise you not, (viz.) that you come together (so as is) not for the better, but for the worse.

Ver. 18. For first of all when you come together in the Church, I hear that there be divisions (Gr. Schisms) among you, and I partly believe it, (or I believe it true, καὶ μέρος τι, of some part of you.)

Σχίσματα, Schisms.] Here the word Schisms is used not of Men separating from the Church, but of them coming together in the Church, but yet eating the Lord's Supper separately, and so as not to joyn with the whole Assembly in that Ordinance; so the word also is used Chap. 1. 10. not of a separation from the unity of the Catholick Church, saith Estius, but of Sects and Divisions in the Church.

Ver. 19. For (according to our Lord's saying, Matth. 18. 7.) there must be Heresies (or Sects) among you, (the Flesh, the World, and the Devil tempting to it, and the Wisdom of God permitting it) that they who are approved (of him) may be made manifest among you.

Δεῖ γὰρ αἱρέσεις εἶναι, for there must be Heresies, &c.] This necessity of Heresies is not absolute, or of God's making, but only on supposition of the Pride, and Vain-glory, Strife, Envyings, and Contentions which were already in the Church of Corinth, 1 Cor. 3. 3. and God's permission that Men so affected should act according to the corrupt affections and dispositions of their hearts, as the necessity of Diseases in the Body arises from Mens intemperance; nor is the reason here assigned of them properly causal, as if the Wisdom of God designed there should be Heresies for this end, that they who are approved of him might be made manifest, but rather (s) eventual; as if the Apostle had said, whence it will come to pass that they who are approved will be manifest.

Ver. 20. When you come together therefore (thus) to one place, this is not (acting as if you came) to eat the Lord's Supper, (the Feast of Christian Charity and Communion.)

Ver. 21. For in (your way of) eating every one taketh before (the) other his own Supper, (not tarrying for, or regarding others, v. 33.) and (so it falls out that) one (who had nothing to bring) is (still) hungry, and another (with his plenty) is drunken.

Ὃς μὲν πεινᾷ, and another is drunken.] This may either refer to the Gentile Converts among the Corinthians, retaining still their Heathen custom of drinking liberally after their Sacrifices, whence μεθύειν, to be drunk, is by Grammarians thought to have its original from μετὰ τὸ θύειν, because of the free drinking they indulged to after their Sacrifices; or to the Judaizing Converts, who thought themselves obliged to drink plentifully at their Festivals, four large Cups of Wine, saith (t) Dr. Lightfoot, at the Paschal Supper, and to be quite drunk, saith (u) Buxtorf in the Feast of Purim.

Ver. 22. What, have ye not houses to eat and to drink in (if need be before you come? v. 34.) or despise ye (those poor Christians who are Members of) the Church of Christ (as well as you?) and (put to) shame them that have not (what to eat, or drink?) what shall I say? shall I praise you in (doing) this? I praise you not.

Ἕκαστος τὸ ἴδιον δεῖπνον προλαμβάνει, every one takes before his own Supper.] It is the opinion of Dr. Lightfoot, that the Apostle speaks not here of the Agapæ, or Love Feasts which accompanied the Eucharist, as the Tradition of the Ancient Church supposed, but of the Paschal Supper which these Judaizers did eat before the Eucharist, as thinking that the Eucharist, which our Lord instituted after that Supper, was only an Appendix of it, and that it was not instituted for the commemoration of the death of Christ, but as a new form of their commemoration of their Deliverance out of Egypt, and that on this account the Apostle here repeats the institution of that Sacrament by our Lord, and so oft tells them that Christ appointed this Supper for the Commemoration of his Death, and that we might shew it forth till he come, and charges them with not discerning it to be the Lord's Body, v. 29. But he seems to be mistaken in both these Conjectures. For,

1. It is very unlikely they ſhould miſtake the Lord's Supper celebrated then every Week at leaſt, for that Paſchal Supper which was only to be celebrated once a Year, and was then rather to be celebrated at home, in every Man's Family, then in the Church, and which, according to the Jewiſh Canons, could not be obſerved at all in Corinth, or out of Judea whilſt the Temple ſtood.

2*ly*, Thoſe words of the Apoſtle in the preceding Chapter, viz. The Cup of bleſſing which we bleſs, is it not the Communion of the Blood of Chriſt? the Bread we break, is it not the Communion of the Body of Chriſt? And thoſe that follow, Ye cannot drink the Cup of the Lord, and the Cup of Devils; ye cannot be partakers of the Lord's Table, and of the Table of Devils, do plainly ſhew that the Apoſtle there ſuppoſes, they well knew that in that Supper they were partakers of the Cup and Table of the Lord, and had Communion with his Body and Blood.

Dr. Lightfoot adds, That thoſe words one is hungry, and another is drunken, refer not to the Poor, and the Rich, but to the Gentile who came faſting to the Lord's Supper, whereas the Judaizing Chriſtian, according to his cuſtom, drank freely at his Paſchal Supper; and he concludes that the Apoſtle doth not here reprehend their manner of coming to theſe Suppers, but that he reprehends them for the very uſe of them. But here again he ſeems much miſtaken. For,

1*ſt*, 'Tis evident the Apoſtle reprehends them not for the Supper it ſelf, i. e. the eating and the drinking, but becauſe they did προλαμβάνειν, take their meat and drink before others, not ſtaying till they came, v. 21, 33. Hence, for a remedy of this diſorder, he ſaith not, abſtain from theſe Suppers, but only when ye come together, tarry one for another.

2*ly*, That the hungry here were the Gentile Converts, who choſe to eat the Euchariſt faſting, is very improbable, not only becauſe it was then generally received at night, but becauſe the Apoſtle both here, and v. 34. allows all to eat and drink before they come, not taking notice of any that ſcrupled the doing this. Moreover, the οἱ μὴ ἔχοντες, the hungry here are not Men who have no Houſes, but who have nothing to eat, or drink; for they were put to ſhame by this, that they had nothing to eat, or drink, as others had, nor were thought worthy to partake with them that had in the Aſſembly of which they were a part; it being not the place where they aſſembled which is called the Church of God, but the Perſons who aſſembled, for by the ſame action was the Church deſpiſed, and they that had nothing put to ſhame: Now 'tis not eaſie to conceive how by this ſeparate meeting in a Church they ſhould deſpiſe a Church, whereas by denying their poor Brethren any ſhare in their Banquet, they viſibly deſpiſed them. And

3*ly*, Theſe Agapæ, or Feaſts of Charity, being mentioned by St. Jude v. 12. by Ignatius, Ep. ad Smyrn. § 8. by Clemens Alex. pædag. l. 2. c. 1. p. 41. by Tertullian. Apol. c. 39. by the Apoſtolical Conſtitutions, l. 2. c. 28. and by (u) Julian the Apoſtate, it is very unreaſonable to call this cuſtom in queſtion, or to imagine that St. Paul here rather referr'd to a Paſchal Supper, then to this Appendix of the Supper of the Lord. When I call it an Appendix, I do not mean that it was eaten by them after the Lord's Supper, for the word προλαμβάνειν, to take before his own Supper, ſhews the contrary, viz. that this Banquet was celebrated before the Lord's Supper, but only that it was joyn'd to the Lord's Supper in imitation of our Lord, who celebrated the Sacrament after the Paſchal Supper.

Ver. 23. (To come together thus, I ſay, is not to come as they ought to do, who aſſemble to eat the Lord's Supper;) For I have received of the Lord that which I alſo (as I received) delivered to you, that the Lord Jeſus in the ſame night in which he was betrayed took bread.

Ver. 24. And when he had given thanks he brake it, and ſaid (to them all) take, eat, this is my body which is broken for you, do this in remembrance of me, (Giving my Body to be broken for you all.)

Ἔλαβεν ἄρτον, took bread, &c.] The Argument lyes thus; Chriſt gave an equal diſtribution of the Sacramental Bread to every one at the Table, in token that he died equally for all; and he appointed them all to eat together of it at one common Table, in remembrance of his Love to them all, can you then eat every one ſeparately his own Supper, excluding thoſe to whom he equally diſtributed the Sacred Bread from any ſhare of yours, leaving them hungry, and in want of Bread, and yet conceive you worthily eat the Lord's Supper, and duly participate of, and thankfully commemorate this great Feaſt of Love. But farther obſerve

1*ſt*, That this Bread, is called in the Preſent Tenſe, τὸ σῶμα κλώμενον, τὸ σῶμα διδόμενον, Chriſt's body broken, his body given, Luke 22. 19. even whilſt he was alive, and ſo his Body was not actually broken, or given for us, it therefore could not be literally and naturally his broken body, but only by way of repreſentation, as being then inſtituted to repreſent that Body which was ſhortly to be given, and broken on the Croſs for us, Matth. 26. 28. ſo alſo is it ſaid of his blood Mark 14. 24. yet in his Veins, that it is τὸ αἷμα τὸ ἐκχυνόμενον, his blood ſhed, Luke 22. 20.

and this according to the usual Sacramental Phrase. Thus, before the Paschal Sacrament was celebrated, it was said, this πάσχα ἔστι τῷ Κυρίῳ, is the Passover to the Lord, Exod. 12. 11, 13. i. e. this is that which is instituted to represent it; for this night I will smite all the first-born of Ægypt, and will pass over you: And of Circumcision it is said, This is my Covenant, Gen. 17. 10. before that Abraham was actually circumcised, v. 23, 24.

2*ly*, Observe that St. Paul calleth that five times Bread which they did eat of, which was to them the Communion of the Body of Christ; and by eating of which unworthily, they became guilty of the Body of Christ, not discerning the Lord's Body, 1 Cor. 10. 16, 17. 11. 26, 27, 28. He therefore five times calls that Bread which was consecrated, and by our Saviour called his Body: Now is it not a wonder that one single passage, mentioned by our Saviour whilst he was alive, should be deemed sufficient to make us all believe that his whole Body, and so his Hand, was in his Hand, and that this living Christ was at the same time dead, and sacrificed, and that the same Body which was whole before the Eyes of his Disciples, was also broken for them at the same time, with many thousand Contradictions more, and and yet that what the Holy Ghost, who knew the meaning of our Saviour's words better than any Romanist, hath said so oft to inform us that this Element is, after Consecration, Bread, should not be thought sufficient to make us think it Bread, though it appears to all our Senses so to be.

Ver. 25. After the same manner also he took the Cup when he had supped, saying, this Cup (i. e. the Wine contained in it) is the (memorial of the) New Testament (or Covenant ratified) in my blood, this do as often as you drink it in remembrance of me, (confirming this Covenant with my Blood.)

Ποτήριον, the Cup.] Note here two Reasons for the participating of the Cup by the whole Body of the Church of Corinth: 1. Because it is the Blood of the New Covenant, which belongs as much to the Laity as to the Priests; the Blood shed for the remission of the sins, not only of the Priests, but of the Laity. 2. Because by the drinking of this Cup they remembred Christ's Blood shed for them, and shew'd forth his death. Now since these Reasons do equally concern all Christians, the drinking of the Cup, by which this Commemoration, by our Lord's institution, is to be made, must equally concern them; for sure the means which Christ appointed for such an end, ought to be used by all who are obliged to pursue that end; and if the Apostle here reprehends the Corinthians for varying from the Tradition received from the Lord in Celebration of the Sacrament, he would have reprehended them much more, had they so varied from it as to neglect the distribution of that Cup which he had instituted for these sacred ends.

Ver. 26. For as often as ye eat this Bread, and drink this Cup, ye do shew (by this memorial of it) the Lord's death till he come (to judgment.)

Τὸν θάνατον τοῦ Κυρίου καταγγέλλετε, ye shew the Lords death.] If then this be the end and use of this Sacrament, to be a Solemn Commemoration of the Death of Christ during his absence from us; if it was designed to be a standing Memorial of his Sufferings till he came again to Judgment; the obligation that lyes upon all Christians to observe it is perpetual, and ought not to cease till the World ends. Indeed, saith (x) Theodoret, after his Presence there will be no more need of the Symbols of his Body, because the Body it self will then appear. Which words are a full Confutation of the Doctrine of Transubstantion.

Ver. 27. Wherefore, whosoever shall eat this Bread, and (or) drink this Cup of the Lord unworthily, (as they must do who by this practise thwart the great design of this Institution, which was to shew his equal Love to all to whom he equally gave these Elements, and to oblige us to live in a continual remembrance of it) shall be guilty of (violating the Sacrament of) the Body and Blood of the Lord.

Ἢ πίνῃ, or drink.] Here Walker's Note is this, the Greek ἤ, or, that he might lead you to think there was something in the Popish Argument taken hence to prove that whole Christ was contained in either Species, because either by eating or drinking unworthily, Men become guilty of prophaning both the Body and the Blood of Christ, but for justification of our Version And, it may be noted that the Syriack, Arabick, and Æthiopick Versions read καὶ, and so does Clemens Alex. Strom. 1. p. 271. 2*ly*, That according to Phavorinus, ἤ κεῖται ἀντὶ τοῦ καὶ, that is, ἤ is often put for and; so what is in the Hebrew וְ or, is in the Seventy rendred καὶ, and, Lev. 4. 23, 28. Num. 15. 8. Mal. 2. 17. So what is ἤ Luke 20. 2. is καὶ Mat. 21. 23. Mark 11. 28. So the Promise made to Abraham, καὶ τῷ σπέρματι αὐτοῦ, Gen. 17. 8. is the Promise made to him, ἢ τῷ σπέρματι, or to his Seed, Rom. 4. 13. and yet again, and to his Seed, Gal. 3. 16. and eating and drinking going here before v. 26. and following after v. 28, 29. this intermediate Verse must bear the same sense.

Ver. 28. But let a man examine himself, and so let him eat of that Bread, and drink of that Cup.

Δοκιμαζέτω ἑαυτὸν, let him examine himself.]

(y) Μετὰ γὰρ τὴν τοῦ αὐτοῦ παρουσίαν οὐκ ἔτι χρεία τῶν Συμβόλων τοῦ Σώματος, αὐτοῦ φανερωθέντος τοῦ Σώ-

δοκιμαζέσθαι is to diſcern, or approve; ſo δοκιμάζεις, thou approveſt the things which are moſt excellent, Rom. 2. 18. Happy is the Man that condemneth not himſelf, ἐν ᾧ δοκιμάζει, in that which he approves, Rom. 14. 22. Δοκιμαζέσθαι ἑαυτὸν is to approve himſelf to himſelf, or diſcern how it is with himſelf. So 2 Cor. 13. 5. ἑαυτοὺς δοκιμάζετε, prove your own ſelves; Know ye not that Jeſus Chriſt is among you, except ye be Reprobates? Gal. 6. 4. Δοκιμαζέτω, Let every man approve his own work. And ſo here the ſenſe is, Let a man approve himſelf to his own heart, as a good Chriſtian, and one that comes to celebrate this Ordinance with a grateful Commemoration of the Love of Chriſt dying for him, and with true Charity and unfeigned Kindneſs to all thoſe for whom he equally did ſhed his Blood, and give his Body to be broken, And ſo he may repair unto it with a true Chriſtian Spirit, and in acceptable manner.

Ver. 29. For he that eateth and drinketh unworthily, (as they who make theſe diviſions, and diſtinctions, and commit theſe diſorders when they come together to eat the Lord's Supper, do) eateth and drinketh damnation (Gr. judgment) to himſelf, not diſcerning the Lord's Body, (to be given as an indication of his equal kindneſs to all his Members, without any difference, or diſtinction, and as a Symbol of their mutual Communion with one another, Chap. 10. 16, 17.)

Ἀναξίως, unworthily.] i.e. Not diſcerning the Lords Body; which words plainly teach us what it is to eat and drink unworthily, viz. to do it ſo as in that action not to diſcern the Lords Body. Now this, as hath already been obſerved, cannot ſignifie not to apprehend the Sacrament to repreſent Chriſt's Body broken, and his Blood ſhed for us; for of this ignorance had the Corinthians been guilty, the Apoſtle would have argued ex non conceſſis from things not granted by them, Chap. 10. 16, 21. It therefore ſignifies their behaving themſelves as if they had not conſidered that this Sacrament was inſtituted in thankful and practical remembrance of Chriſt dying for them, and ratifying by his Blood the Covenant in which he promiſed to be merciful to their iniquities, and remember their ſins no more; and as a Feaſt of Love deſigned equally for the benefit of all his Members, and to knit them in the cloſeſt Bonds of Unity and Friendſhip to each other; when this was wanting, they did not diſcern aright the Lord's Body, or the Sacrament of it, and ſo did eat and drink unworthily. In the Talmud, ſaith (z) Dr. Pocock, there is a diſtinction betwixt a Man who eats the Paſſover לשם מצוה in obedience to the Command, (which was that they ſhould do it as a memorial of God's paſſing over them when he deſtroyed the Ægyptians, by reaſon of the Blood of the Paſchal Lamb, Exod. 12. 13, 14.) and he that thus did eat it, was the juſt man that walketh in the ways of the Lord, mentioned Hoſ. 14. 9. and betwixt another who did eat it only as common Food, i.e. without reſpect to the Commandment, or the ends of its Inſtitution; and he is compared to the tranſgreſſor there mentioned that ſhall fall therein. So here, he that eateth this Holy Sacrament with a thankful memorial of the Benefits conferr'd upon us, the Death from which we are delivered by the Blood of Chriſt, the true Paſchal Lamb ſacrificed for us, he eats it worthily; but he that partakes of it only as common Bread and Wine, not conſidering the ends for which it was deſigned, and the Benefits of Chriſt's Death it repreſented and conſigned, he diſcerns not the Lord's Body, i.e. he putteth no ſufficient difference betwixt that and common Food, as the word διακρίνω doth import. See Note on Rom. 14. 23.

Κρίμα, damnation.] The word imports Temporal Judgments; as when St. Peter ſaith, the time is come ἄρξασθαι τὸ κρίμα that judgment muſt begin at the Houſe of God, 1 Pet. 4. 17. not damnation ſurely; and this is certainly the import of the word here, (1.) Becauſe the Corinthians did thus eat unworthily, and yet the Judgments inflicted on them for ſo doing were only Temporal, viz. Weakneſs, Sickneſs, and Death, v. 30. 2. Becauſe the reaſon aſſigned of thoſe Judgments is, that they might not be condemned in the other world, or that they might not be obnoxious to damnation.

Ver. 30. For this cauſe (the not diſcerning the Lords Body, is it that) many are weak and ſickly among you, and many ſleep.

Ver. 31. For if we would (thus) judge (and diſcern) our ſelves, we ſhould not be judged, (or thus puniſhed by God).

Ver. 32. But when (neglecting this) we are judged, we are chaſtned of the Lord, that we ſhould not be condemned with the World, (but awakned by thoſe Chaſtiſements to reform thoſe evil practiſes which render us obnoxious to condemnation.)

Ver. 33. Wherefore my Brethren (that this miſcarriage may be rectified) when ye come together to eat (the Lord's Supper) tarry one for another, (that ye may all eat of that, and your Love Feaſts together.)

Ver. 34. And if any man (pretend to do this out of) hunger, let him eat at home (before he come) that you come not together to condemnation, and the reſt will I ſet in order when I come, (or as for the other things relating to this Ordinance, or your Letter, I will ſet them in order when I come.)

CHAP. XII.

Verse 1. NOW concerning spiritual gifts (or persons, v. 3.) Brethren, (which is another thing in, and about the exercise of which you offend, making them matter of contention, emulation, and vain glory,] I would not have you ignorant (of what it concerns you to know of them, and your selves that exercise them.)

Ver. 2. Ye know that (before your conversion to that Faith by which ye received these gifts) ye were Gentiles carried away to (the service of) those dumb Idols (which could not speak themselves, much less enable you to speak) even as you were lead (by seducing Guides.)

Πρὸς τὰ εἴδωλα ἄφωνα, to dumb Idols.] For though the Priests told them they were only the Receptacles of those Deities they worshipped, that they resided in the Image, and gave Answers by it, as the (a) Christian Writers own; yet both the Prophets, and Writers of the New Testament, and all the Fathers in their Apologies, still represent them as they were in themselves, saying, they have mouths but speak not, Psal. 115. 5. 135. 16. and dumb stones, Hab. 2. 19. and muta simulacra, and such as only gave Answers, when they gave any, by the means of Evil Spirits.

Ver. 3. Wherefore I give you to understand that no man speaking by the Spirit of God calleth Jesus accursed, (or Anathema,) and that no man can say that Jesus is the Lord, (and confirm the Doctrine with supernatural Gifts and Miracles,) but by the Holy Ghost.

Ἀνάθεμα, accursed.] This the Jews did as we learn, not only from the words of (b) Justin Martyr, but also from their nineteenth Prayer against (c) Hereticks, made by Samuel the younger in the days of Gamaliel: Their Exorcists and Diviners therefore, though they pretend to it, saith the Apostle, cannot be acted by the Spirit of God. Nor can they who confirm the Doctrine of Christ by Miracles, be acted by any other but the Holy Ghost; for no evil Spirit would assist them to confirm a Doctrine so opposite to, and destructive of their Kingdom and Designs.

Ver. 4. Now there are diversities of (these spiritual) gifts, but (it is) the same Spirit (which enables us to exercise any of them.)

Ver. 5. And there are differences of administrations (or offices in the Church, to which this diversity of Gifts belongs,) but (it is) the same Lord (who hath appointed all these Offices, Eph. 4. 12.)

Ver. 6. And there are diversities of operations (performed by these Officers in the Church by virtue of these Gifts) but it is the same God who (by giving them this Spirit) worketh (them) all in all.

Διαιρέσεις δὲ χαρισμάτων, there are diversities of Gifts.] These Gifts being in the nature of Spiritual Faculties, or Habits, are very properly ascribed to that Spirit who animates the Christian, and by whom he lives the new Life; and these ministries, as properly to the Lord Christ, whose Ministers and Servants the Apostles, Prophets, Teachers, &c. are in the propagation of the Gospel. These Operations being miraculous, and far exceeding the power of any Creature, as fitly are ascribed to the Creator of all things. But whereas Crellius hence infers, That this third Person being distinguished from the other two by the Title of the same God, he only must be truly and properly so called, He might as well have argued, that because the second Person mentioned here is stiled the same Lord, he must be only so exclusively to the same God; and because the first is called the same Spirit, he must be so exclusively of the same God, and Lord, who yet are equally Spirits.

Ver. 7. But the manifestation of the Spirit (in the exercise of these Gifts) is given to every man (not for his own private use, but) to profit (others) withal.

Ver. 8. For to one is given by the Spirit the word of wisdom, (to reveal the Faith to others, which is the wisdom of God,) to another the word of knowledge (to reveal mysteries, 1 Cor. 13. 2. and understand the mind of God in the Old Testament for confirmation of that Faith) by the same Spirit.

Ver. 9. To another faith (to enable him to believe firmly that he shall be empowered to do things most difficult) by the same Spirit; to another the gifts of healing (all manner of diseases) by the same Spirit.

Ver. 10. To another the working of Miracles, (or powers, such as the raising the dead to life) to another prophecy, (enabling him to foretel things future, and speak by a divine afflatus,) to another discerning of (the) spirits (of others,) to another divers kinds of tongues, to another the interpretation of tongues.

Διαιρέσεις χαρισμάτων, diversities of Gifts.] It is exceeding difficult to fix the true import of all these Gifts, I therefore shall only propose what follows by way of Conjecture, till I receive better information from more able Hands.

1*ſt*, Then by the word of wiſdom, I underſtand the wiſdom given to the Apoſtles to reveal the Goſpel to the World; for that, in this Epiſtle, is ſtiled the wiſdom of God in a myſtery, the hidden wiſdom, 1 Cor. 2. 6, 7. and elſewhere the manifold wiſdom of God, Eph. 3. 10. Chriſt, the great Teacher of it is alſo ſtiled the wiſdom of God, 1 Cor. 1. 24. and in him are ſaid to be contained all the treaſures of wiſdom, Col. 2. 3. The Apoſtles, to whom this Goſpel was committed, are called σοφοὶ, wiſe men. Behold I ſend unto you Prophets and Apoſtles, Luke 11. 49. and wiſe men, Matth. 23. 34. and they are ſaid to teach this Goſpel according to the wiſdom given to them, 2 Pet. 3. 15.

2*ly*, The word of knowledge being diſtinguiſhed from that of Revelation, and of Prophecy, 1 Cor. 14. 6. 13. 8. and being ſet by way of appoſition, or explication with the knowledge of all myſteries, 1 Cor. 13. 2. ſeems to ſignifie the Gift of underſtanding Myſteries, or Things concealed; ſuch was the Myſtery of the Calling the Gentiles before it was revealed, Rom. 16. 25. Eph. 1. 9. 3. 9. the Myſtery of recalling the Jews, Rom. 11. 25. the Myſtery of Iniquity, 2 Theſſ. 2. 7. the Myſtery of the Beaſt, Rev. 10. 7. And in this ſenſe St. Barnaby ſeems to ſpeak of it, when he ſaith, Sect. 6. Bleſſed be God, ὁ σοφίαν καὶ νοῦν δούς τοῦ ἐν ἡμῖν τῶν κρυφίων αὐτοῦ, who hath given us the wiſdom and knowledge of his Secrets; and ſo it agrees with that Gift which the Fathers call προγνωσις, as when (d) Irenæus ſaith, Some have the knowledge of things to come, and viſions, and prophetical ſayings; and the Man thus gifted ſeems to be in St. Clemens R. the powerful man to utter knowledge.

3*ly*, That by Faith we are to underſtand a miraculous Faith, enabling them to do things moſt difficult, ſeems highly probable from theſe words, Though I have all Faith, ſo as to remove Mountains, 1 Cor. 13. 2. But chiefly I would underſtand by it a peculiar impulſe that came upon them when any difficult matter was to be performed; which inwardly aſſured them God's power would aſſiſt them in performance of it. See Note on James 5. 15. whence it is often mentioned as a preparatory diſpoſition to the working ſuch Miracles, and is ſometimes ſtiled the Faith of God, Mark 11. 22. ſometimes Faith without doubting, Mat. 21. 21. and ſo it was a præ-requiſite to the caſting out ſtubborn Devils, Matth. 17. 20. and to the enſuing Gifts of healing and working Miracles; and hence perhaps it is that in the following enumeration of them, v. 28, 29, 30. we find no mention of it.

4*ly*, Ἐνεργήματα δυνάμεων, the working of Miracles is by the Fathers referred to the power reſiding in the Apoſtles to inflict Diſeaſes, and even Death it ſelf upon Offenders, as in the caſe of Ananias and Sapphira, Acts 5. 5, 10. and of Elymas the Sorcerer, Acts 13. 11. and of the Inceſtuous Perſon, 1 Cor. 5. 4. where the Apoſtle makes mention τῆς δυνάμεως τοῦ Χριστοῦ of the power of Chriſt. And where he ſpeaks of his Rod, he calls it the power that God had given him, 1 Cor. 4. 19, 20. 2 Cor. 10 & 13. 10. But yet I doubt not but theſe words are truly rendred the working of Miracles, for to them the word δύναμις, power, generally relates in the New Teſtament: As when mention is made of the Miracles done by Chriſt himſelf, Matth. 11. 20, 23. 13. 54, 58. 14. 2. Mark 5. 30. Luke 4. 36. 5. 17. 6. 19. 19. 37. Acts 2. 22. 10. 38. and of the Miracles done by others in name of Chriſt, Matth. 7. 22. Mark 9. 39. Luke 9. 1. Acts 1. 8. 4. 33. 6. 8. 8. 13. 19. 11. 1 Cor. 2. 4. 2 Cor. 12. 12. Gal. 3. 5. 1 Theſſ. 1. 5. Hence is it frequently mentioned in conjunction with Signs and Wonders, Acts 2. 22. 8. 13. Rom. 15. 19. Heb. 2. 4. It is alſo here plainly diſtinguiſhed from the Gift of Healing; and it as plainly is diſtinguiſhed from the power of Caſting out Devils in thoſe words, In thy Name have we propheſied, and caſt out Devils, and done δυνάμεις πολλὰς many mighty works, Mark 7. 22. It therefore rightly ſeemeth in the Paraphraſe to be reſtrained to the doing things beyond the courſe of Nature, and wrought by an immediate Divine Hand; ſuch as the ſupplying a defective Member, or the raiſing the Dead. Thus to the firſt order of the Succeſſors of the Apoſtles (e) Euſebius aſcribes many ſtrange powers of the Holy Ghoſt; and (f) Juſtin Martyr ſpeaks of the powers done in his time by the Name of Chriſt.

5*ly*, The Gift of Prophecy is not to be reſtrained, as ſome ſeem to do, to teaching, and the Interpretation of the Scripture, which it importeth only as that was done by a particular Inſpiration of the Holy Ghoſt; for otherwiſe, as here the Prophets, and the Teachers, are two diſtinct Offices in the Church, ſo alſo are they reckoned as ſuch in the Church of Antioch, Acts 13. 1. and they are reckoned as diſtinct χαρίσματα in theſe words, Having Gifts different, whether Prophecy, let us prophecy according to the proportion of Faith; or miniſtry, let us wait on our miniſtry; or he that teacheth on teaching, Rom. 12. 6, 7. And ſo they are reckoned by (g) Juſtin Martyr, when he ſaith, one Man receives at Baptiſm the Spirit of Underſtandiug, ὁ δὲ προγνώσεως, ὁ δι' διδασκαλίας, another of fore-knowledge, or prophecy, and another of teaching; and this discovers to us another sense of Prophecy, viz. that it imports, as Irenæus saith, προγνωσιν τῶν μελλόντων, the foreknowledge or prediction of things future, and that in order to the Exhortation to some duty. Thus Agabus foretold by the Spirit the dearth that was to come on all Judea, Acts 11. 28, 29, 30. that other Christians might be moved, as they were, to send their Charity to them. Thus Judas and Silas being Prophets, διὰ λόγε πολλε, with many words they comforted the Brethren, and established them, Acts 16. 32. This Gift was exercised also by foretelling who would be fit Persons to do good service in the Church. Thus St. Paul commits a Charge to Timothy, according to the foregoing Prophesies concerning him, 1 Tim. 1. 18. and saith, Neglect not the Gift that is in thee, that was given thee by prophecy, Chap. 4. 14. And that in this sense the Fathers understood it, is evident not only from the word προγνωσις, foreknowledge, by which they do express it, but from the Argument they use against the Jews to convince them that God had left their Church, and had own'd, and embraced the Societies of Christians, because he had left them no Prophets, but had transferred that Gift to the Christians. And these Predictions being made by Revelatton of the Spirit, ἀποκάλυψις, or Revelation, is accounted a part of this Gift; for to the Prophet is ascribed his Revelation, 1 Cor. 14. 26, 30. and the Revelation of St. John is the Book of his Prophecy; and to the Prophet is ascribed the manifestation of the Secrets of Mens hearts, as in those words, If all Prophecy, and there come in an unbeliever, or one unlearned, he is convinced of all, he is judged of all, and thus are the secrets of his heart laid open, 1 Cor. 14. 24. Thus of those Prophets, Irenæus l. 5. c. 6. saith, that they did not only explain the Mysteries of God, but also τὰ κρύφια ἀνθρώπων εἰς φανερὸν ἄγειν δὲ τῷ συμφέροντι, manifest the secret things of men, when it was needful, or profitable for them, or the Church. See Origen against Celsus, l. 1. p. 34.

(d) Οἱ δὲ προγνωσιν ἔχουσι τῶν μελλόντων, καὶ ὀπτασίας, καὶ ῥήσεις προφητικάς. L. 2. c. 57. Ὁ δυνάμεις γνώσεως ἐξερπεῖν. Epiſt. ad Cor. § 48.

6*ly*, The διάκρισις πνευμάτων discerning of Spirits, not only imports the faculty of discerning betwixt the impulse of false and true Prophets, which he that hath, seems to be stiled by St. Clemens, ὁ σοφὸς ἐν διακείσῃ τῶν λόγων, a wise man in discerning words, and betwixt the lying wonders and magical operations of evil Spirits, and the powers of the Holy Ghost, as 1 Cor. 14. 29. 1 Thess. 5. 20, 21. 1 John 4. 1. but also a judgment of discerning the Spirits of other Men, whether they be qualified for such an Office in the Church, and accordingly chusing them out for that work. So the Spirit in the Prophets said, Separate me Barnabas and Paul for the work whereunto I have called them, Acts 13. 2, 3. And thus the Holy Ghost is said to have constituted the Bishops and Presbyters in Asia, Acts 10. 28. because, as (h) Clemens R. saith, they constituted Bishops and Deacons, δοκιμάσαντες τῷ πνεύματι, making trial of them by the Holy Ghost. And (i) Clemens of Alexandria, that St. John ordained to be of the Clergy, τὰς ἀπὸ τῦ πνεύματ@ σημαινομένως, such as were signified to him by the Spirit. (k) Ignatius saith of the Bishops of his time, that they were constituted not by men, but Ἰησῦ Χριστῦ γνώμῃ by the counsel of Christ Jesus. (l) St. Cyprian, that they were constituted, not only by the consent of the People, and the suffrage of their fellow Bishops, but also Judicio Divino & Dei testimonio, by the judgment and testimony of God. And lastly, this Gift seems also to imply a discovery of what was done inwardly, or in the Spirit of a Man: So Peter discerned the heart of Ananias and Saphira, Acts 5. 3, 9. and of Symon Magus, Acts 8. 21, 23. St. Paul of Elymas, Acts 13. 10. and of the lame man, seeing he had faith to be healed, Acts 14. 9. And (m) Ignatius speaks of the Spirit in him that did fortel, and τὰ κρυπτὰ ἐλέγχειν reprove things secret.

Ver. 11. But all these (Gifts) worketh one and the same Spirit, dividing (them) severally to every man as he will.

Κωδὼς βάλεται, as he will.] Here seems to be a plain Argument for the Personality of the Holy Ghost, because a will is here ascribed to him. 2*ly*, Hence it is evident that he is no Creature, because no Creature can enable other to perform these works. 3*ly*, That he is God; for as all this diversity of operations is ascribed to the same God, v. 6. so is it here said, (n) All these worketh one and the same Spirit.

Ver. 12. For as the natural body is one, and (yet) hath many members, and (Gr. but) all the members of that one body, being many, are one body, (the body is one still:) so is (it in the body of) Christ, (all whose members, though they be many, and adorned with different Gifts, make but one Body mystical, united by the Spirit to their head Christ Jesus.)

Ver. 13. For by one Spirit we are all baptized into (this) one body, whether we be Jews or Gentiles, whether we be bond or free, and (by receiving of that living water) we have been all made to drink into (or of) one Spirit.

Εἰς ἓν σῶμα ἐβαπτίσθημεν, we were baptized into one body.] Vain here is the Note of Mr. Cl. viz. That we are baptized that we might be called by one Name, be of one Society, the Church of Chriſt: For 'tis not by partaking of one Spirit that we are called Chriſtians, but by profeſſing Faith in Chriſt. The Apoſtle is plainly proving, that as the Natural Body is one, ſo is the Myſtical: Now the Natural Body is one, as being informed by one Soul and Spirit united to it, and animating all the parts of it, ſo is it, ſaith he, in the Myſtical Body united together by one and the ſame Spirit received in Baptiſm, and from our Spiritual Head Chriſt Jeſus, communicated to all the living Members of his Body, to give them Spiritual Life and Motion. See Eph. 4. 16.

Εἰς ἓν πνεῦμα ἐποτίσθημεν, were made to drink of one Spirit.] So our Lord repreſents the participation of the Holy Spirit, ſaying, If any man thirſt, let him come to me and drink. He that believeth, out of his belly ſhall flow rivers of living waters. This ſpake he of the Spirit which they that believed in him ſhould receive, John 7. 37, 38, 39. And the Apoſtle calls the Water, which was a Symbol of the Spirit, Spiritual Drink, 1 Cor. 10. 4.

Ver. 14. (All I ſay) for (as) the (Natural, ſo the Myſtical) body is not one member, but many.

Ver. 15. If the foot ſhall ſay becauſe I am not the hand, I am not of the Body, is it therefore not of the Body?

Ver. 16. And if the ear ſhall ſay, becauſe I am not the eye, I am not of the body, is it therefore not of the body?

Ver. 17. If the whole Body were an (o) eye, where were the hearing; if the whole were hearing, where were the ſmelling?

Ver. 18. But now hath God ſet the Members every one of them in the Body, as it hath pleaſed him.

Ver. 19. And if they were all one Member, where were the Body?

Ver. 20. But now are they many Members, yet but one Body.

Ver. 21. And the eye (the man endowed with the word of wiſdom, or knowledge) cannot ſay to the hand (the perſon employed in leſſer miniſteries) I have no need of you; nor again the head (the perſon placed in the higheſt dignities in the Church) to the feet, (the Deacon, or Man imployed in the loweſt Offices of the Church) I have no need of you.

Ver. 22. Nay much more thoſe members of the body which ſeem to be weak are neceſſary, (Gr. but the Members of the Body which ſeem more weak, are more neceſſary, viz. the Brain, the Stomach, and the Guts.)

Ver. 23. And thoſe members of the body which we think to be leſs honourable, (Gr. more diſhonourable) upon theſe we beſtow (Gr. put) more abundant honour, and our uncomely parts have more abundant comelineſs.

Τιμὴν περισσοτέραν, more abundant honour.] The Clothes God made to cover the nakedneſs of Adam and Eve, are ſtiled by Onkelos, Clothes of Honour: And the word τιμὴ here rendred Honour, is in the Septuagint put to ſignifie a Cover, ſo behold, he is to thee a covering of the eye, Gen. 20. 16. is in the Septuagint εἰς τὴν τιμὴν τῶ προσώπου σου, for an honour of thy face.

Ver. 24. For our comely parts have no need, but God hath tempered the body together, (agreeably to the condition of each Member,) giving more abundant honour (or covering) to that part that lacked, (placing them ſo, that even Nature may be a covering to them.)

Συνεκέρασε τὸ σῶμα, hath ſo tempered the Body.] Agreeable to this is that of (p) Cicero, Principio corporis noſtri magnam natura ipſa videtur habuiſſe rationem, quæ formam noſtram, reliquamque figuram in quâ eſſet ſpecies honeſta, eam poſuit in promptu, quæ autem partes corporis ad neceſſitatem datæ, aſpectum eſſent deformem habituræ, atque turpem, eas contexit, atque abdidit, hanc naturæ tam diligentem fabricam imitata eſt hominum verecundia, quæ enim natura occultavit, eadem omnes, qui ſanâ mente ſunt, removent ab oculis.

Ver. 25. (And ſo hath he dealt alſo with the Body myſtical, making the meaner offices of them who attend upon the Poor more neceſſary, and to them more honoured, who need their help) That there ſhould be no Schiſm in the Body, but that the Members ſhould have the ſame care for (and regard to) one another.

Ἵνα μὴ ᾖ σχίσμα, that there may be no Schiſm in the Body.] Of this Schiſm of the Members againſt the Belly, ſee Menenius apud Livium, l. 2. c. 32. Max. Tyr. diſſ. 5. p. 50.

Ver. 26. And whether one member (of the natural body) ſuffer, all the members ſuffer with it (by ſympathy,) or one member be honoured (or adorned,) all the members rejoyce with it, (i. e. if being indiſpoſed, it becomes ſound, being weak it recovers ſtrength; all the Members are eaſed, and ſo may be ſaid to rejoyce with it.)

Ver. 27. Now ye are the body of Chriſt, and Members in particular, (or ſeverally are Members of that Body, and ſo ought to act in its myſtical Body, as do the Members in the natural, rejoycing with them that do rejoyce, and mourning with them that weep, Rom. 12. 15.)

Note: For illuſtration of this long Compariſon betwixt the Body Natural and Myſtical, obſerve (1*ſt.*) That this Compariſon is taken from the Jews, who teach, that ſuch order

ought to be observed betwixt the Priesthood, and the People, as in the Humane Body, in which there are Members superiour, and others serving to the rest, for all of them serve the Heart from whence Life proceeds; and so it is meet that the Levites should serve the Priests, and the People the Levites; Paulus Fagius in Levit. 3. 7. The Argument which the Apostle useth from the Comparison of the Natural with the Mystical Body, seems to consist in these particulars:

1*st*, That the most inferiour Members of the Natural Body, are as much the Members of that Body as the most noble, and so are the most inferiour Christians as much the Members of Christ's Body.

2*ly*, That there would be no perfect Natural Body without the diversity of Members; and in like manner no Mystical Body without such diversity of Gifts and Offices as God has ordered in his Church, v. 17, 19.

3*ly*, That the Members are placed in the Body according to the Wisdom, and the good Pleasure of God, v. 18, 24. and so it is in the Members of the Mystical Body, which therefore ought to acquiesce in the good Pleasure of his Will, in whatsoever station and condition his Wisdom doth see fit to place them.

4*ly*, That the Members which seem the weakest, and the meanest, are as necessary and serviceable to the Body, as the other. Humane Life could not continue, nor Humane Kind subsist without them, v. 22. so in the Mystical Body, they that are imployed in Works of Charity and Mercy to the Poor, and the Sick, those that serve Tables, are in their Kind as necessary and serviceable, as other Members of the Church; and had their χαρίσματα or Spiritual Gifts, as well as others, Rom. 12. 6, 7, 8. 1 Pet. 4, 10, 11.

5*ly*, That as Nature had provided a Covering for the less honourable Parts, and taught us to imploy our care in Covering, and adorning them; so was it also with respect to the less honourable Members of the Ecclesiastical Body, there were Helps, and Ministers particularly appointed to take care of them, to cover their Nakedness, and supply their Wants, and that Promises were made to those who imployed themselves in such Acts of Charity, v. 23, 24.

6*ly*, That as there was no division in the Members of that Natural Body, but all the Members took care of, and were imployed for the good of the whole, so God had ordered matters thus in the Body Mystical, that there should be no divisions, no separate interests in it; but they should mutually regard the interests of one another, sympathizing, and rejoycing together, v. 25, 26.

Ver. 28. And God hath set some in the (body of the) Church, first Apostles (to exercise the Gifts of Wisdom;) secondarily Prophets, (to exert those of Knowledge and Prophecy,) thirdly Teachers, (to labour in the Word and Doctrine) after them, (Workers of) Miracles, then (they that have the) Gifts of Healing, helps (to take care of the Poor) Governments, (Rulers of the Church) diversities of Tongues.

Ver. 29. Are all Apostles? are all Prophets? are all Teachers? are all Workers of Miracles?

Ver. 30. Have all the Gifts of Healing? do all speak with Tongues? do all Interpret?

Note, For Explication of these Offices,

1*st*, That to Prophets I ascribe the Gift of Knowledge and of Prophecy, from these words, If I have prophecy, and know all mysteries, and all knowledge, 1 Cor. 13. 2. And as the first Gift, the word of Wisdom, belongs especially to the Apostles, so it seems probable that the second, the word of Knowledge, should belong to the second Office, that of Prophets. But whereas Mr. Cl. saith, that the Prophets did not teach by Inspiration, but only had been fitted to teach by inspiration; that they spake as they saw fit themselves; and those things which they received from Christ, and his Apostles, they interpreted after their own manner. This seems to be confuted by these words of the Apostle, If any thing be revealed to him that sitteth by, let the first Prophet be silent, for the Spirits of the Prophets are subject to the Prophets.

2*ly*, The Teachers seem to be Men, who having received the Doctrine of Faith from the Apostles, preached it to others for their Conversion to the Faith, and so they are the Men who laboured in the Word and Doctrine, 1 Tim. 5 17. They were, saith (q) Eusebius, Ἀποστόλων μαθηταὶ, the Disciples of the Apostles who built up the Churches in the Faith which the Apostles had planted, promoting the preaching of the Gospel more and more, and spreading among them the Salutary Seed of the heavenly Kingdom. And they of them who preached the Gospel to them who had not heard it, were called Evangelists, and sometimes Apostles. So Andronicus and Junia are called ἐπίσημοι ἐν τοῖς Ἀποστόλοις, Men of esteem among the Apostles, Rom. 16. 7. and of these St. John saith, For his Names sake they went forth, taking nothing of the Gentiles, we therefore ought to receive such, that we may be fellow-helpers to the Truth, Eph. 3. 7, 8. But whereas Theophylact and Mr. Cl. say that the Prophets indeed spake by the Holy Ghost, but these Teachers from themselves; this I cannot assent to, for διδασκαλία, teaching, is numbred among the Spiritual Gifts, Rom. 12. 6. and διδάσκαλοι, Teachers among them to whom Christ had given these Gifts. See the Note on Eph. 4. 11.

3*ly*, The

3*ly*, The Helps ſeem to be the Deacons and other Officers, who miniſtred not only to the Poor, but in holy Things alſo, in baptizing and diſtributing the Euchariſt; for ἀντιλαμβάνεσθαι, whence comes the word Helps, ſignifies to take care of others; and theſe alſo, as before I noted, had their Spiritual Gifts. As then the Talmudiſts, ſaith Dr. Lightfoot, call the Levites the Helps of the Prieſts, ſo may the Apoſtle call the Deacons, which anſwered to them, the Helps of the Apoſtles and Biſhops of the Church.

4*ly*, Governments are almoſt generally ſuppoſed to denote the Rulers of the Churches planted by the Apoſtles, and who are ſometimes ſtiled Biſhops, Acts 20. 28. ſometimes ἡγούμενοι, Guides or Rulers, Hebr. 13. 7,17. and ſometimes προεστῶτες, Preſidents or Prelates, Rom. 12. 8. 1 Theſſ. 5. 12. But Dr. Lightfoot conjectures they were the Men who had the Gift of Diſcerning Spirits, becauſe κυβέρνησις, which we here render Governments, ſignifies in the Old Teſtament wiſe counſels, and skill in giving judgment of things. Thus νοήμων κυβερνήσεις κτήσεται, a Man of underſtanding ſhall attain to wiſe counſels, Prov. 1. 5. Οὗ μὴ ἔστι ἀρχὴ κυβέρνησις, where no counſel is the people fall, but in much counſel there is ſafety, Prov. 11. 14. and μετὰ κυβερνήσεως, by wiſe counſel thou ſhalt make war, Prov. 14. 6. It is not reaſonable, ſaith he, to ſuppoſe no Office ſhould be appointed for the exerciſe of this ſo neceſſary Gift, and yet no other is here mentioned to which we can apply it. Let the Reader chuſe which of theſe Interpretations he likes beſt.

Ver. 31. But covet earneſtly the beſt (and the moſt uſeful) Gifts, and yet ſhew I to you a more excellent way (of miniſtring to the welfare of the Church, and of your own Souls, even that of Charity.)

CHAP. XIII.

Verſe 1. FOR though I ſpeak with the Tongues of Men and Angels (the Languages of all Nations, or knew how to converſe with Angels) and have not Charity, I am become as ſounding Braſs, or a tinkling Cymbal, (benefiting no man by my empty, and confuſed, and pleaſing no man with my ſhrill and noiſy ſound.)

Ver. 2. And though I have the gift of prophecy, and underſtand all myſteries, and all knowledge; and though I have all Faith, ſo that I could remove Mountains, and have no Charity, I am nothing (worth in the ſight of God.)

Ver. 3. And though I beſtow all my goods to feed the Poor, and though I give my Body to be burnt (for the Faith,) and have not charity (to Man, but do this rather out of vain-glory, or to be admired, and praiſed of Men) it profiteth me nothing (as to my eternal ſtate.)

Note. Here is to be noted that the Apoſtle in theſe Verſes reckons up the things which were of higheſt value with the Jews, and which rendred their wiſe men the moſt celebrated. Thus of (a) R. Jochanan Ben Zacchai they ſay that he underſtood the Language of Angels; of (b) R. Azai, that there was not in his days a rooter up of Mountains like to him, or one that could do ſo great things as he did. The Man on whom the Spirit of Prophecy did reſt, or who was fit to receive him, muſt, ſay they, be (c) a wiſe man, a religious man, a temperate man, and one that is endued with all probity of manners. Of Alms they ſay, that (d) whoſoever diminiſheth anything of his ſubſtance to beſtow in Alms, ſhall be delivered from Hell. And as for Martyrdom for the Law, they thought it ſufficient to expiate, not only for their own ſins, but even for the ſins of the whole Nation: Thus (e) Joſephus brings in Eleazer praying thus for the Jews, Let my blood be an expiation for them, and receive my life for their lives. And he ſaith of the Martyrs that ſuffered under Antiochus Epiphanes, that (f) the Divine Providence ſaved all Iſrael from the evils they ſuffered by the blood, and the propitiatory death of thoſe pious men.

But here is raiſed a diſpute, whether the Gifts here mentioned were at any time, or could be exerciſed by them who wanted Charity? or ſuch profuſe Alms, and conſtancy in ſuffering to the Death, were ever, or could be ſeparted from that Grace? To which I anſwer; It is true that the Apoſtle here ſpeaketh only hypothetically, that were theſe things performed without Charity, they would not profit to Salvation; but then that Supposition seems fairly to imply the thing it self was not impossible, or that there was no necessary connexion betwixt these Gifts and Actions, and the Grace of Charity. Moreover, our Saviour seems plainly to inform us that Men might prophecy, and cast out Devils, and do mighty works in his Name, Matth. 7. 22, 23. and yet be workers of iniquity, and persons whom he would not own at the last day. He also teacheth that some may do their Alms to be applauded by Men, Matth. 6. 2. and therefore do them, so as to receive no reward from God, and so informs us that Alms may be given without true love to God, or to our Neighbour for his sake. And lastly, all the Fathers teach that it is not the suffering, but the reason of it that makes the Martyr; and that (g) when Men in Schism or Heresie, thus give their Bodies to be burnt, they are not to be deemed true Martyrs, by reason of the want of Charity. And the same they say of them who suffer for Vainglory, viz. that (h) they shed their blood in vain.

Ver. 4. Charity suffereth long, and is kind; Charity envieth not; Charity vaunteth not it self, is not puffed up.

Ver. 5. Doth not behave it self unseemly; seeketh not her own; is not easily provoked; thinketh no evil.

Ver. 6. Rejoyceth not in iniquity (or falsehood,) but rejoyceth in the truth.

Ἐν ἀδικίᾳ, in iniquity.] That ἀδικία here signifies falsehood, the truth to which it is opposed, shews; so it signifies in the Old Testament above an hundred times, and the word שקר which in the Hebrew signifies a lie, is as often by the Septuagint translated ἀδικία, as לוא, so a right hand of falshood δεξιὰ ἀδικίας, Psal. 144. 11. The way of lying is ὁδὸς ἀδικίας, Psal. 119. 29. And he that telleth lies is λαλῶν ἄδικα, see Psal. 101. 7. 119. 69, 78, 86, 118, 128, 163. Psal. 63. 11. Exod. 22. 7. Now falsehood, and a lie in the Old and New Testament, do often signifie a false Religion, or a Religion containing a false object of Worship. Thus the molten Image is a teacher of Lies, Hagg. 2. 18. and he that maketh it, is said to have a lie in his right hand, Isa. 44. 20. he that goes after them walketh in lies, Jer. 23. 14. and inherits lies, οἷς ἐληλύθασι οἱ πατέρες ἡμῶν εἴδωλα, turns the truth of God into a lie, Rom. 1. 25. believes a lie, 2 Thess. 2. 10, 11. See the Note on Rom. 3. 7. And the Truth in the New Testament is emphatically put to signifie the Gospel, or the Christian Faith. So 2 Epist. of St. John v. 3, 4. I rejoyced greatly to find thy children walking in the truth. And Epist. 3. v. 3, 4. I have no greater joy then to hear that my children walk in the truth. So that the import of these words may be this, Charity will not permit us to rejoyce, but rather cause us to be troubled to find Men still continue in their false Worship, as the Gentiles, or in opposition to the Gospel delivered to them, as the Jews do; but it rejoyceth to see Men walking according to the truth of the Gospel.

Ver. 7. Beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things.

Note. From these four comprehensive Verses we learn the Properties and Fruits of Charity: (1.) What it requires us to do to all. (2.) What it will not permit us to do to any. (3.) What it requires us to do, or will not permit us to do, to our offending Brother.

1st, What Deportment it requires towards all Men, viz.

1. It is good, kind, and tender hearted towards all; v. 4. The Lord make your Charity to abound to one another, and to all men, 1 Thess. 3. 12. For Charity requiring us to love our Brother as our selves, it must engage us to consider him as we do our selves, and so extend the same kindness to him, when he needs it, as we shew to our selves, Gal. 6. 10.

2. It is active, and laborious, engaging us by love to serve one another, Gal. 5. 13, 14. to do them any Service we are able with good will, and without grudging; for there must be in us ὁ κόπος τῆς ἀγάπης, the labour of love, 1 Thess. 1. 3. Hebr. 6. 10.

3. It rejoyceth in the truth, v. 6. that is, in Mens doing righteously, and living according to the Gospel, which is called by way of eminence the Truth; it begets in us a complacency and inward pleasure to behold Truth and Righteousness, Piety and Goodness, prevailing in the World.

4. It makes us ready to believe all things, v. 7. that is, all the good it hears, or can have any charitable ground to think of others.

5. It hopeth all things, v. 7. i. e. It inclines us to hope still the best concerning Mens intentions and actions liable to doubt; and if our Brother be at present bad, to hope, and not despair of his amendment, and so still to endeavour his Reformation by all proper means.

2*ly*, The things which Charity will not permit us to do to any, are these, viz.

1. Charity worketh no evil to our Neighbour, in his Person, Estate, Good Name, Relations,

Rom. 13. 10. much leſs in reference to his Soul: And therefore

2. It will not ſuffer us to ſcandalize, or to offend our Brother, by doing any thing which either may embolden him to ſin, or diſaffect him to Religion, or diſcourage him in the practice of his Duty; for if thy brother be grieved with thy meat, now walkeſt thou not charitably, Rom. 14. 15.

3. Οὐ λογίζεται κακόν, v. 5. It will not permit us to ſurmiſe, or to ſuſpect the evil of others which we do not know, it imputes not evil to them, nor puts it to any Mans account beyond abſolute neceſſity. It doth not cenſure their Miſcarriages as done out of Malice, or with ill Intentions. So Theodoret.

4. It rejoyceth not in iniquity, v. 6. in any evil done to, much leſs by others; it permits no Man to be pleaſed with any deceit or falſhood ſpoken of, or done to others, or with any ill ſtories, or malicious inſinuations concerning them.

5. It envies not the Happineſs, or the Proſperity of others, but is well pleaſed with it, v. 4.

6. Οὐκ ἀσχημονεῖ, it behaveth not it ſelf unſeemly towards any, in words or geſtures; it refuſeth not to do the meaneſt offices of kindneſs to them, as if it were unſeemly, or below us to be employed in them, v. 5. So Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, Oecumenius, Theophylact.

7. Οὐ φυσιοῦται, it vaunteth not it ſelf, v. 4. it is not puffed up againſt our Brethren; it roots out of us all Elation of Mind, Ambition, Oſtentation, Pride in over-valuing our ſelves, and deſpiſing others, Eph. 4. 2. ὁ προπετεύεται, 'tis not raſh, heady, or precipitate in ſpeaking of, or acting towards others. So Chryſoſtom and Oecumenius. It doth not curiouſly ſearch into other Mens matters which belong not to us. So Theodoret.

8. It ſeeketh not her own Praiſe, Profit, Pleaſure to the hurt of others; but inclines Men to ſeek the Good of others, 1 Cor. 10. 24.

9. Οὐ σάκνει, It bites not with the Tongue, Gal. 5. 14, 15. but cuts off all Strife, Contentions, bitter Zeal, Animoſities, v. 21, 22. all Bitterneſs, Wrath, Clamour, Evil Speaking, Eph. 4. 31, 32.

3*ly*, The Deportment Charity requires to our offending Brother, is expreſſed in theſe Particulars:

1. Charity beareth long, and cauſeth us to endure Provocations with much patience, before we do conceive any diſpleaſure againſt others.

2. It endureth all things, though grievous to be born, without returning Evil for Evil; enabling us to forbear one another in love, Eph. 4. 2. Coloſſ. 3. 13. and will not ceaſe from being kind, and well affected to our Brother, by reaſon of any provocation whatſoever.

3. It covers all things, i. e. inclines us to conceal the evil that we know of others; and thus it covers a multitude of ſins, James 5. 20.

4. Οὐ παροξύνεται, v. 5. It is not highly exaſperated, and breaks not forth into violent ungovernable Paſſions on any provocation.

5. 'Tis eaſie to be intreated, ready to forgive, and full of Mercy, Coloſſ 3. 13. Eph. 4. 32. James 3. 17.

Ver. 8. Charity never faileth (as to the proper and elicit acts of it) but (as for other Gifts) whether there be Propheſies, they ſhall fail; whether there be Tongues, they ſhall ceaſe; whether there be (the Gift of) Knowledge, it ſhall vaniſh away.

Ver. 9. For (with all our Gifts) we know (ſtill but) in part, and prophecy but in part, (knowing but few things in compariſon to our future knowledge)

Ver. 10. But when that (ſtate of knowledge) which is perfect is come, then that (knowledge) which is in part, ſhall be done away.

Ver. 11. When I was a child I ſpake as a child, I underſtood as a child, I thought as a child; but when I became a man, I put away childiſh things, (and the like difference will there be betwixt us now and then.)

Ver. 12. For now we ſee (only as) through a glaſs darkly, but then we ſhall ſee face to face, (with the greateſt nearneſs and perſpicuity which now we cannot; for no man ſaith, God ſhall ſee my face and live, Exod. 33. 20, 23. John Ep. 2. v. 12. Ep. 3. v. 14.) Now I know but in part, but then ſhall I know even as I am known, (more fully and compleatly, ſeeing God as he is, 1 John 3. 2.)

Ver. 13. And now abideth Faith, Hope, and Charity, theſe three, (all great and excellent Vertues, and ſuperiour to the Gifts now mentioned,) but the greateſt of theſe is Charity, (both for duration, as continuing when Faith ſhall end in viſion, 2 Cor 5. 7. and Hope in enjoyment, Rom. 8. 23, 24. and for Perfection, (as rendring us more like to God, and beneficial to men.)

CHAP.

CHAP. XIV.

Verse 1. FOllow (therefore) after Charity (above all things) and desire (also) spiritual gifts, but rather that ye may prophecy, (i. e. expound the Scripture, or reveal some mystery to the edification of the Church.)

Ver. 2. For he that speaketh in an unknown Tongue (not understood, nor explain'd) speaketh not to (the understanding of) men, for no man understands him, but to (the understanding of) God (only,) howbeit (though) in the Spirit he speaketh mysteries, (the profound things of God.)

Ὁ γὰρ λαλῶν γλώσσῃ, for he that speaketh with an unknown tongue.] That what is said in this Verse is spoken only by way of concession, as Mr. Cl. imagines, cannot be true, because it is expressly said, that in the Spirit he speaketh Mysteries; for Mysteries, when the Apostle speaketh of Spiritual Gifts, hath still relation to some profound secret Things, as 1 Cor. 2. 7. 13. 2. And πνεύματι λαλεῖ cannot here signifie, as Mr. Cl. vainly conceives, He speaketh to his own understanding; since the Apostle, through this whole Chapter, is speaking of Spiritual Gifts, which also he expressly calleth Spirits, saying, Seeing you are zealous πνευμάτων of Spirits, i. e. of Spiritual Gifts; and the Afflatus or Inspiration here was to enable the Man to speak the Mystery, and not to use the unknown Tongue. For Explication of this whole Matter, let it be noted,

1*st*, That the Gifts of Tongues and Prophecy, in their original Donation, did still go together; and they who spake with Tongues, spake τὰ μεγαλεῖα τοῦ Θεοῦ, the great things of God, Acts 2. 11. 10. 46. they spake with tongues, and prophesied, Acts 19. 6. Now these two being thus joyned by God, should not have been used separately by these gifted Men, except only when they were to speak to Gentiles in their own Language, which was one great design of the Gift of Tongues, v. 22. Nor should they have used the Gift of Tongues when an Afflatus came upon them, and some Mystery was imparted to them by which the Church was to be edified, unless they knew there was one present who had the Gift of Interpretation of Tongues: This therefore was a great abuse of this Gift, that, when they had a Mystery revealed to them, they did not utter it in a Language understood by the Assembly, but only by themselves, and so they did not edifie the Church by it, though it was given, as all the other Gifts were, for edification, Chap. 12. 7.

Note, 2*ly*, That the Gift of Tongues being imparted per modum habitus, as a permanent Gift, like to a Habit, they who had received this Gift could always use it at their pleasure, and so could also use it when a Prophetical Afflatus came upon them; but the Gift of Prophecy being an Afflatus in manner of a Revelation, could be only used when the Afflatus came upon them; so that the first Gift might at any time be used without any fresh Operation of the Holy Ghost, whereas the second Gift always required that Afflatus.

Ver. 3. But he that prophesieth (in plain intelligible words) speaketh to (the profit of) Men, (viz.) to their edification, (by the Scripture he expounds,) their exhortation (by what he teacheth,) and (to their) comfort (by his Revelation.)

Ver. 4. He that speaketh in an unknown Tongue edifieth himself (only,) but he that prophesieth edifieth the Church.

Ἑαυτὸν οἰκοδομεῖ, edifieth himself.] He therefore understood himself, as the Church did him that prophesied. And indeed, by speaking what he himself understood not, he would have been as much a Barbarian, and as unprofitable to himself as he was to others. To say with Cajetan, The words were pious which he uttered, and he had pious Affections when he uttered them, is unsatisfactory; for what if the Matter of them was so, since if he understood them no more then a Parrot, his Piety in speaking them could be no more then that of a Parrot; he neither could know they were pious, nor receive any benefit by them, supposing they were so, whilst he understood nothing of them; nor could any pious Affections be raised in him by words not understood. To say with Grotius, Sentit in se vim Christi, He perceives the Gift of Christ operating in him, if he perceived not the meaning of his own words, is to talk as unintelligibly as he spake, for that can only signifie, he knew he had the Gift of Tongues, which sure could not much edifie him who formerly had used that Gift, and so could not be ignorant he had the Gift. Moreover, doth not the Apostle bid him, who speaks with Tongues, not interpreted, speak only to himself, and to God, v. 28. and can he speak to himself more then to others, who understandeth not himself? or is it fit that he should speak to God he knows not what? However it is certain, that the Apostle not only dislikes, but plainly forbids this way of speaking in the Church, v. 28. and so, by parity of Reason, forbids the like way of speaking to others in the Church of Rome.

Ver. 5. I would that ye all spake with Tongues, but rather that ye prophesied; for greater (because more beneficial) is he that prophesies, then he that speaketh with Tongues, except he interpret (his Tongue, and the Mystery he utters in it) that the Church may receive edifying (by it.)

Ἵνα ἡ Ἐκκλησία οἰκοδομὴν λάβῃ, that the Church may receive edification.] Hence I gather, that in this unknown Tongue he uttered ſomething tending to, and by God deſigned for the Edification of the Church, though by uttering his Myſtery, v. 2. in an unknown Tongue, he fruſtrated that deſign.

Ver. 6. Now therefore Brethren, if I come unto you ſpeaking with (ſtrange) Tongues, what ſhall I profit you, except I ſhall ſpeak to you (alſo) either by revelation (of ſome ſecret,) or by knowledge (of ſome Myſtery,) or by propheſying, (i. e. foretelling of ſomething to come,) or by doctrine, (inſtructing you what to believe, or practice.)

Ἢ ἐν προφητείᾳ, or in propheſying.] Though Propheſying being in this Verſe diſtinguiſhed from Revelation, Knowledge, Doctrine, ſeems only to import the foretelling of ſomething to come, yet doth the Apoſtle in this, and the foregoing Chapter, manifeſtly ſpeak of it in the whole Latitude of the word, as comprehending all theſe other things. As v. g. Revelation; ſo v. 24. If all propheſie, and there come in an unbeliever, and one unlearned, he is convinced of all, he is judged by all, and ſo the ſecrets of his heart ſhall be made manifeſt; According to that other ſenſe we have given of this Gift, Chap. 12. that it was that which enabled them to manifeſt the ſecret things of Men. Hence to the Prophet is aſſigned his Revelation, v. 30. 2*ly*, γνῶσις, here rendred Knowledge, viz. of the Will and Mind of God. So Chap. 13. 2. If I have propheſie, and know all Myſteries, καὶ πᾶσαν γνῶσιν, and all knowledge. Whence to the Prophet belongs the λόγος γνώσεως, the word of Knowledge, mentioned Chap. 12. 8. And this is the ordinary Notion of it, viz. that it imports a Gift by which the Mind of God, or his Will, is by the Divine Afflatus diſcovered, for the good of others. And 3*ly*, Doctrine, whence the Prophet is ſaid to ſpeak to the edifying of the Church, v. 3. and ſo that all may learn of him, be exhorted, and comforted by him, v. 3, 31. And whereas Propheſie in the Old Teſtament doth often ſignifie a Divine Afflatus, inabling to compoſe Hymns, or Pſalms of Praiſe to God, 1 Sam. 10. 5. 1 Chron. 25. 1. Accordingly the Pſalm here mentioned v. 26. and the ſinging with the Spirit, v. 15, 16. are the effects of the Prophetical Afflatus by which the Chriſtians of thoſe times taught, and admoniſhed one another in Pſalms, and Hymns, and Spiritual Songs, Col. 3. 16. Eph. 5. 20. And the praying in the Spirit, v. 15. or in the Holy Ghoſt, Jude 20. ſeems to be praying by a like Afflatus of the Holy Ghoſt helping their Infirmities, and teaching them what was proper to be asked for the good of the Church. See Note on Rom. 8. 26, 27. And therefore though when they came together, every Man had a Pſalm, a Doctrine, a Tongue, a Revelation, an Interpretation, for the correcting their miſcarriage in all theſe things, the Apoſtle gives only Rules concerning Tongues and Propheſying.

Ver. 7. And thus it is even (in) things without life, giving ſound, whether (it be) pipe or harp, (for) except they give a diſtinction in the ſound (to render it intelligible) how ſhall it be known what is piped or harped?

Ver. 8. For if the trumpet (for example) give an uncertain ſound, who ſhall prepare himſelf for the Battel (at the hearing of it?)

Ver. 9. So likewiſe you, except you utter by the tongue words eaſie to be underſtood (by your Auditors) how ſhall it be known what is ſpoken (by you?) for (by ſpeaking what they know not) ye ſhall (be as men who) ſpeak only to the air, (vain and unprofitable words, loſt in the ſpeaking, as the voice is in the air.)

Ver. 10. There are, it may be, ſo many kinds of voices, (Languages and Idioms, as there be Nations, or as the Jews compute to the number Seventy) in the world, and none of them are without ſignification, (but this ſignification they have only to them that underſtand them.)

Ver. 11. Therefore, if I know not the meaning of the voice, I ſhall be to him that ſpeaketh (as) a Barbarian, (or one that underſtandeth not what he ſaith,) and he that ſpeaketh ſhall be (as) a Barbarian to me.

Βάρβαρος, a Barbarian.] It was not only the Greeks that called all other Nations Barbarians, according to that of the Apoſtle, I am a debtor to the Greek, and the Barbarian. In which ſenſe (a) Julius Pollux reckons up γλῶτται Ἑλλάδα, καὶ βάρβαρον, the Tongue of the Greeks, and the Barbarians. But almoſt every other Nation called Strangers, who underſtood not their Language, by that name, as the ſame (b) Pollux noteth in theſe words, τὰς δὲ βαρβάρους, καὶ ξένους ἐκάλουν. So the Jews upon thoſe words, When Iſrael came out of Ægypt, and the houſe of Jacob מֵעַם לֹעֵז מִבֵּית יַעֲקֹב, from a ſtrange People, ſay all Language that is not the holy Language, is barbarous. So the (c) Chaldæans ſtiled thoſe who ſpake not Chaldee, and the Romans thoſe who ſpake not Latin. Hence (d) Verres is in Cicero's ſtile, Linguâ & Natione barbarus, by Language and by Nation Barbarian.

Ver. 12. Even ſo ye, foraſmuch as ye are zealous of ſpiritual gifts, (Gr. of Spirits) (that you may not be Barbarians and unprofitable in the uſe of them) ſeek that ye may excel (in them which tend) to the edification of the Church.

Ver. 13. Wherefore let him that ſpeaketh in an unknown Tongue, (in which he cannot edifie) pray that he may interpret, (i. e. pray ſo as to interpret what he prays.) προσεύχεσθω ἵνα διερμηνεύῃ, let him pray that he may interpret.] Seeing it is evident from v. 4. and the 28th, that he who spake with Tongues understood the meaning of his own Tongue; nor can he be said to have the Gift of Tongues, who only hath the Gift of Talking he knows not what, as the Phanatici did among the Heathens; nor can it be supposed, the Spirit of God should assist Men in that useless manner; these words cannot be here understood as an Exhortation to this Linguist, that he should pray that he might understand, and so be able to interpret his own words, which he already could do, had he been as willing as he was able, and had not more regarded the vain ostentation of his Gift, then the edification of the Church. Some therefore give the sense of the words thus: Let him rather pray that he may have the Gift of Interpretation, then that of Tongues; for covet, saith the Apostle, the best Gifts, Chap. 12. 31. Seek to excel in those which tend to the edification of the Church, v. 12. now this doth the Gift of Interpretation more then that of Tongues. But I rather chuse to interpret them thus: 'Let him (so) pray (with his Gift, as) that he may (by the words used in his prayer, or by explaining it in a known Language) interpret, and impart to others, what the Afflatus hath imparted to him, and not out of vain ostentation utter it in a Tongue unknown. To strengthen this sense, let it be observed first, That the Apostle here plainly discourseth of speaking with an unknown Tongue in Prayer, and of praying also by the Afflatus of the Spirit, as is apparent from the illative words, For if I pray in an unknown Tongue, my spirit prayeth, &c. 2*ly*, Observe from Budæus, that the Particle ὅπως is sometimes elegantly deficient, of which he gives two instances from Aristotle, to which add these from the New Testament, as in Heaven, κ) (pro ὅπω, κ) ἐπὶ τῆς γῆς, so also upon earth, Matth. 6. 10. Luke 11. 2. κ) εἰ ὁ Σατανᾶς, for κ) ὅπω εἰ, and so if Satan, Mark 3. 26. As my Father sent me, κἀγὼ for ὅπω κἀγὼ, so send I you; and with this Ellipsis the word runs thus, ὅπω προσεύχεσθω ἵνα κ), let him so pray, as that he also may interpret. Or observe from Noldius and Pasor, that ἵνα signifies adeo ut, so as that: So the word was hidden from them, ἵνα μὴ αὐτὸν ἴδωσιν αὐτὸ, so as that they perceived it not, Luke 9. 45. He will do greater works then these, ἵνα ὑμεῖς θαυμάζητε, so that you may marvel at the greatness of them. John 5. 20. Did I purpose according to the Flesh, ἵνα ᾖ παρ' ἐμοὶ, so as that there should be with me yea, yea, nay, nay. 2 Cor. 1. 17. I rejoyced that you sorrowed according to God, ἵνα, so as that you might be damaged by us in nothing. So Rev. 8. 12. 9. 20. 13. 13. and then the words may be rendred thus, Let him pray ἵνα διερμηνεύῃ so as that he may interpret.

Ver. 14. For if I pray in an unknown tongue, my spirit prayeth, (i.e. my spiritual gift is exercised) but my understanding is unfruitful (to others.)

τὸ πνεῦμά μου προσεύχεται, my Spirit prayeth.] Here Mr. Cl. asks, What Mortal would have rendred τὸ πνεῦμά μου by my Gift? I answer, every one who knows that the Apostle is here speaking of Spiritual Gifts: And 2*ly*, he not only warrants, but constrains them to do so; by saying, v. 12. seeing you are ζηλωταὶ πνευμάτων, zealous of spiritual gifts: and v. 32. πνεύματα προφητῶν, the spiritual afflatuses of the Prophets are subject to the Prophets: and v. 2. πνεύματι, he by the Spirit speaketh mysteries. And 3*ly*, that the word πνεῦμα never signifies the Mind in all this Discourse, or the Understanding, that being in the very next Verse νοῦς, the word opposed to πνεῦμα, Spirit: He adds, what intolerable Language is to say, my Gift prays? I answer, Just such intolerable Language as the Spirit intercedeth, Rom. 8. 26. for that is only the Gift of the Spirit intercedeth; and though that may pass for a Catachresis, to say my Gift is exercised in prayer; or as v. 15. I pray with my Gift, is to give the true meaning of St. Paul's words; when he adds, That nothing is more ordinary then for the Spirit and the body to be opposed to one another. This is 1*st*, Impertinent, here being no opposition betwixt the Spirit and the Body, but only betwixt the Spirit and the Mind, i.e. according to Mr. Cl. betwixt my mind, and my mind, and what Mortal would have so interpreted τὸ πνεῦμά μου? 2*ly*, The thing it self is not proved by him. See, saith he, Rom. 8. 23. Where yet there is no such opposition at all, but only an assertion that they who have the first fruits of the Spirit wait for the redemption of the Body. Now what Mortal would have interpreted these words thus, We that have the first fruits of the Mind groan, waiting for the Body opposed to it? See, says he, Gal. 6. 15. Where again is no opposition betwixt the Spirit and the Body, but only betwixt the Spirit and the Flesh, or rather betwixt walking in the Spirit, that is, according to the conduct of the Holy Spirit, and fulfilling the Lusts of the Flesh. See 1 Cor. 3. 1, 3. Rom. 8. 1, 4, 5, 13, 14, 15 He might more pertinently have cited 1 Cor. 7. 34. James 2. 26.

Ver. 15. What is it then? (i. e. what then is to be done?) I will pray with the spirit, (i.e. with my spiritual gift,) I will pray with the understanding also: I will sing with the spirit, I will sing with the understanding also; (i. e. so using my spiritual gift in prayer, and psalmody in the publick, as that I may be understood by others.)

τῷ πνεύματι, with the Spirit.] I do not think that this Phrase, with the Spirit, relates here to the Gift of Tongues, but to an Afflatus inabling them to pray and sing by the impulse of the Holy Ghost; the uttering what this Afflatus suggested in an unknown Tongue they had before received, was the great fault the Apoſtle in this Chapter endeavours to correct, the Perſon ſpeaking with an unknown Tongue, is ὁ λαλῶν γλώσσῃ· the Perſon ſpeaking with an Afflatus, whether Myſteries, v. 2. Prayer, or Pſalmody, is ὁ λαλῶν πνεύματι.

Ver. 16. Elſe when thou ſhalt bleſs (i. e. give thanks to God.) with the ſpirit (ual Afflatus not underſtood by others,) how ſhall he that occupieth the room of the unlearned, (i. e. the Laick, or the Man who only knows his Mothers Tongue) ſay Amen, (or give his Aſſent) at thy giving of Thanks, ſeeing he ununderſtands not what thou ſayeſt?

Ὁ ἀναπληρῶν τὸ τόπον τῦ ἰδιώτυ, who fills up the place of the Idiot.] That is, ὁ λαϊκὸς, the Laick, ſay Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, Oecumenius, and Theophylact. (e) Buxtorf informs us this is a Phraſe frequent among the Jews. And (f) Maimonides teacheth, that the word place is uſed to denote the dignity, or eſtimation of any Man; it being frequent with their Rabbins to ſay, ſuch a one fills up the place of his Fathers in ſuch a thing, that is, he reſembles them. So (g) Epictetus in his Enchiridion ſaith, Ἢ φιλοσόφε τάξιν ἐπέχειν δεῖ, ἢ ἰδιώτυ, Thou muſt either hold the place of a Philoſopher, or one Unlearned: So that to fill up the place of an Idiot or Unlearned Perſon, is to be one of them, or to be like them in want of underſtanding of ſtrange Tongues. Ridiculous therefore are thoſe Popiſh Commentators, who interpret this of the Clerk of the Congregation, there being no ſuch Office then, either among Jews or Chriſtians. But when the (h) Miniſter of the Synagogue ſaid Prayers, all the People of the Synagogue anſwered Amen after him. It was the cuſtom in the Jewiſh Church, ſaith (i) Buxtorf, to ſay Amen to the Bleſſings, or Curſings of the Prieſt. To his Curſes; ſo the Woman ſuſpected of Adultery, was to confirm his Imprecation by ſaying Amen, Amen, Numb. 5. 22. So all the People anſwered Amen to the Curſes pronounced from Mount Ebal, Deut. 17. 15—26. And to the Oath and Imprecation impoſed upon them by Nehemiah, Neh. 5. 12, 13. To his Bleſſings; ſo when Ezra bleſſed the Congregation, all the People anſwered Amen, Amen, Neh. 8. 6. And this practiſe was from them tranſlated to the Primitive Church.

Ver. 17. For thou verily giveſt thanks well (with thy ſpiritual gift, i. e. piouſly) but the other is not edified (by it.)

Ver. 18. I thank my God, I ſpeak with Tongues more then you all.

Ver. 19. Yet in the Church of God I had rather ſpeak five words with my underſtanding (ſo imploy'd,) that by my voice I may teach others alſo, then ten thouſand words in an unknown tongue.

Ver. 20. Brethren be not (like) Children in underſtaning, (chuſing what pleaſeth you, bef... what profits others:) howbeit in (freed... from) malice be you (as) Children, but in m... derſtanding be (and act as) men (as perſons ... maturity of judgment to know what is fitting ... be ſpoken.)

Ver. 21. In the Law it is written (by way ... a ſign to a diſobedient and unbelieving Pe... thus,) with Men of other tongues, and o... lips will I ſpeak unto this people; and yet ſ... all that will they not hear me, ſaith t... Lord.

Ἐν τῷ νόμῳ γέγραπται, in the Law it is wri... ten.] All Interpreters I have met with refe... this to the ſaying of the Prophet Iſaiah, Ch... 28. 11. telling us, it is there mentioned as ... Miracle ſhew'd to the People, that God would ... ſend Prophets to them in a Language that they ... underſtood not; but I find no mention of ... Miracle there; wherefore it may be noted ... that in the Law, properly ſo called, among ... the Curſes threatned to them (k) for a ſign and ... a wonder, this is one, that the Lord ſhall bring ... againſt them a Nation, whoſe tongue they under... ſtood not; and then 'tis intimated, that ye... they would not hear: to both theſe places the ... Apoſtle may here refer.

Ver. 22. Wherefore tongues are for a ſign ... not to them that believe, (and ſo not to be u... in their Aſſemblies) but for them that believe ... not, (they being deſigned for the more ſpeedy ... and effectual propagation of the Goſpel by this ... Gift, among thoſe Nations whoſe Language ... they underſtood not) but propheſying (by teach... ing the Doctrines of the New, or expounding ... the Myſteries of the Old Teſtament) ſerveth not ... for them that believe not (that Faith, or thoſe ... Scriptures,) but for them that believe ... (them.)

Ver. 23. If therefore the whole Church come ... together into ſome place, and all ſpeak with ... tongues, and there come in thoſe that are un... learned, or unbelievers, will they not (be ... tempted by hearing you thus ſpeaking to one a... nother in unknown Languages, to) ſay that you ... are mad.

Ἢ ἀπιστοι.] Here Grotius notes, that Heathens and Unbelievers then uſed to come to the Aſſemblies of the Chriſtians; and ſo we read they did Acts 13. 44, 48. and whilſt they aſſembled in the Jewiſh Synagogue it could not be otherwiſe.

Ver. 24. But if all propheſie (one after another; v. 31.) and there come in one that believeth not, or one unlearned, he is convinced (or diſcovered) of all, he is judged (or diſcerned) of all (that propheſie.)

Ver. 25. And thus are the ſecrets of his heart made manifeſt (by the Prophets revelation of them,) and ſo falling down upon his face, face, he will worship God (the Searcher of the heart) and report (from his own experience) that God is in (or among) you of a truth.

Τὰ κρυπτὰ τῆς καρδίας αὐτοῦ φανερὰ γίνεται, the secrets of his heart are made manifest. For as Theophylact notes, ἡ ἀποκάλυψις ἐδῶ ἐν Προφητείᾳ, Revelation is one Species of Prophesie; and though it be taken in a restrained sense, and so distinguished from Prophesy, v. 6. yet *v.*30. 'tis supposed that Revelation belongeth to a Prophet, and the Doctrine, the Revelation, the Psalm, v. 26. do all seem to belong to the Prophet, the Speaker with Tongues, the Interpreter of them, and the Prophet, being the only Persons mentioned in the ensuing words, and in this whole Chapter; so that what cannot be ascribed to the one, must belong to the other. See Note on Chap. 12. v. 10.

Ver. 26. How is it then (or what is then to be done) brethren? (since) when you come together, every one (that is a spiritual, or gifted person) hath a Psalm, (or) hath a Doctrine, (or) hath a Tongue, (or) hath a Revelation, (or) hath an Interpretation (of Tongues,) let all (these) things be done to edifying, (let them be managed so as best conduceth to the end for which they were designed, Chap. 12. 7.)

Ver. 27. If any Man speak in an unknown tongue, let it be (used) only by two, or at the most by three (at one meeting,) and that by course (i.e. successively,) and let one (who hath the Gift) interpret (what is spoken.)

Ver. 28. But if there be no Interpreter (present,) let him (that only speaks with tongues) keep silence in the Church, and let him (only) speak (mentally) to himself, and to God (in Prayer and Thanksgiving, v. 15, 16.)

Ἐὰν δὲ μὴ ᾖ διερμηνευτής, σιγάτω, But if there be not an Interpreter, let him be silent.] The Apostle permits him to use his Tongue in the presence of one who had the Gift of Interpreting Tongues, because then the Church was not only edified by the Interpretation, but the Faith of the Hearers was confirmed by the exercise of two miraculous Gifts; but the Apostle permits him not to be his own Interpreter, though he could do it; because his speaking that first in an unknown Tongue, which he himself must afterward interpret in a known Language, served only for ostentation, not for edification; nor could it be known whether his Tongue was supernatural, or acquired only.

Ver. 29. Let the Prophets speak two or three (successively,) and let the other (Prophets) judge or discern.

Καὶ οἱ ἄλλοι διακρινέτωσαν, and let the rest discern.] Since 'tis impossible that the Afflatus of the Holy Spirit should suggest any falshood to him that had it, there can be no ground to judge him that had it, as (1) Grotius hath well observed upon this place. But, saith Theodoret, as the Devil raised up false Apostles to oppose the true Apostles, 1 Tim. 4. 1. so did he also false Prophets, 2 Pet. 2. 1. 1 John 4. 1. in opposition to those who truly were inspired, and of these, say the Greek Interpreters, the true Prophets were to judge. Or else διακρινέτωσαν, let them discern the Agreement of what they utter, with the dictates of the same Spirit in the Old Testament, comparing spiritual things with spiritual, 1 Cor. 2. 13. So in the Conference Acts 15. when Peter had given his judgment in that matter, St. James adds, With this agree the words of the Prophets, as it is written v. 15.

Ver. 30. (And) if whilst one propheses any thing be revealed to another that sitteth by, let the first hold his peace, (or cease, before the other utter his Revelation.)

Ver. 31. For (so) ye (that have the Gift) may all propheste one by one, that (by your mutual discourses) all may learn, and all be comforted, (or exhorted to good works.)

Ver. 32. And (this is not difficult for you to do, since) the Spirits of the Prophets are subject to (therefore may be restrained by) the Prophets, Πνεύματα προφητῶν, the Spirits of the Prophets are subject to the Prophets.] The common Interpretation of these words, that the Spirits of the true Prophets are subject to the Judgment, Examination, and Regulation of other Prophets, seems not agreeable to the Apostles Affirmation, that he that is spiritual is judged of none, 1 Cor. 2. 13, 15. nor is there any ground for judging his Doctrine, who speaks by the impulse of the Holy Ghost; nor doth the Apostle say the Spirit of the Prophets ought to be, but ὑποτάσσεται it actually is subject to the Prophets. I prefer therefore the Interpretation of (m) Oecumenius and Theophylact, that this is spoken in opposition to the Heathen Prophets; for the Prophets among the Greeks receiving an Afflatus from the Evil Spirit, could not be silent if they would; but it was not so with the Holy Prophets; they had it in their power to speak, or to be silent: and to this the Apostle refers, by saying the Spirits of the Prophets, that is, their spiritual Gifts are subject to the Prophets; that is, 'tis in their power to restrain them, and consequently they may propheste the one after the other.

(1) Multum aberrant qui putant dona prophetica aliis prophetis esse subjecta, non pugnant inter se Dei dona, nec sententiæ ex quibus sunt, ubi Deum loqui constat.

(m) Οἱ μὲν παρ' Ἕλλησι μάντεις ἐπειδὰν ἅπαξ καταληφθῶσιν ὑπὸ τοῦ Δαίμονος, κἂν ἐθέλοντος, οὐκ ἠδυνάτο σιγᾶν, οἱ δὲ παρ' ἡμῖν ἅγιοι προφῆται οὐχ ὕτως, ἀλλὰ παρ' αὐτοῖς φησίν, ὅτι τὸ σιγᾶν ἢ λαλεῖν, καὶ τοῦτο ἔστιν ὅπερ φησὶν ὅτι τὰ πνεύματα τῶν προφητῶν, τουτέστι τὰ χαρίσματα τῶν προφητῶν, ὑποτάσσεται αὐτοῖς.

And

And upon this account the Church rejected the Extatick Prophets of the Montaniſts, that they had an ungovernable Impetus; for, ſay they, (n) they can ſhew no truly inſpired Prophet in the Old, or the New Teſtament, who was moved after this manner. Moreover, it is the opinion of Perſons eminently Learned and Judicious, that in Corinth, and ſome other Churches, there were then no ſettled Paſtors to perform the Publick Offices, but they were all performed by Prophets, and by gifted Men excited to that work in the Aſſembly, Chriſt being thus in the midſt of them, Matth. 18. 20. according to his promiſe. And this they judge more probable touching the Church of Corinth, becauſe there ſeems no order to be obſerved among them, and no ſubjection of their Prophets to any Ruler of the Church, no direction of the Sentence to them when the Inceſtuous Perſon was to be delivered up to Satan, or when he was to be Abſolved; but all ſeems to be done by the immediate Authority of St. Paul. They alſo from this Chapter do obſerve, that whereas all the publick Offices then performed in the Church were Prayer and Pſalmody, Expounding or Preaching the Word, and Thankſgiving, all theſe are here aſcribed to Men endowed with theſe Spiritual Gifts; for that when they came together, ſome of them prayed, others compoſed Sacred Hymns by their Spiritual Gifts, we plainly read v. 15. that their Prophets did then teach for Edification, Inſtruction and Comfort, v. 3,31. That they did alſo ἐυλογεῖν bleſs, and ἐυχαριστεῖν give thanks, we learn from *v.*16, 17. that all, or any of theſe things, were done by ſtated Paſtors, we never read in theſe Epiſtles: Now if this were ſo, the occaſional Prophets might be ſubject to the ſtanding Prophets, mentioned Chap. 12. And thus theſe words may be interpreted by them who like not the Expoſition given in the Paraphraſe.

Ver. 33. (And God doubtleſs in this caſe would have the firſt to be ſilent.] For God is not the Author of Confuſion, (which yet would follow upon all the Prophets ſpeaking together, ſo that one ſhould confound the other,) but of Peace, as (may be ſeen by the Regular Exerciſe of theſe Gifts) in all the Churches of the Saints.

Ἀκαταστασίας, of Confuſion.] This alſo confirms the Interpretation given of the preceding words; for the propheſying of many together would neceſſarily breed Confuſion; whereas the neglect of judging of their Propheſies could only be ſuppoſed to breed Error.

Ver. 34. Let your Women keep ſilence in the Churches, for it is not permitted to them to ſpeak, (by way of teaching, or propheſying, but only by joyning with the Church in Prayer and Pſalmody,) but they are commanded to be under obedience, as alſo ſaith the Law, (Gen. 3. 16.)

Αἱ γυναῖκες ὑμῶν, Let your Women be ſilent in the Church.] In that of Corinth, the Women not only propheſied in the Church, but they did eat with the Head uncovered, 1 Cor. 11.5. The latter Indecency he corrects there, and the firſt here, ſee 1 Tim. 2. 12.

Ver. 35. And if they will learn any thing, let them ask their Husbands at home, for it is a ſhame (i. e. a thing indecent) for Women to ſpeak in the Church.

Ἐν Ἐκκλησίᾳ λαλεῖν, to ſpeak in the Church.] So the (o) Hebrew Canon ſaith a Woman muſt not read in the Synagogue for the Honour due to that Aſſembly.

Ver. 36. (And whereas in this matter you think fit to practiſe contrary to all the Churches of the Saints, even thoſe in Judea, I ask) What? came the word of God out from you (to all other Churches?) or came it only to you, (and not to other Churches, that you thus differ in your practiſe from them.)

Ver. 37. If any man think himſelf to be a prophet, or ſpiritual, let him acknowledge that the things I (now) write unto you, are the Commandments of the Lord. (See Note on Chap. 2. 15.)

Ver. 38. But if any man (pretends to) be ignorant (whether they be ſo or not) let him be ignorant, (at his peril be it, I ſhall not contend farther with him, or ἀγνοείτω let him not be acknowledged as a true Prophet, or Spiritual Perſon.)

Ver. 39. Wherefore, brethren, covet to propheſie, and forbid not to ſpeak with tongues, (provided theſe directions be obſerved, but)

Ver. 40. Let all (theſe) things be done decently, and in order.

Εὐσχημόνως καὶ κατὰ τάξιν, decently, and in order.] This order, ſaith Theodoret, he had taught in the words foregoing, Let all things be done decently; not like Children, *v.*20. not ſo as to give occaſion to others to ſay you are mad, v. 23. not ſo as to breed Confuſion, v. 33. not indecently, by Women ſpeaking in the Church, v. 34, 35. in order, that is, one after another; or by courſe, v. 27, 31. See Chryſoſtom, Oecumenius, and Theophylact diſcanting upon theſe words to this effect.

CHAP.

CHAP. XV.

Verse 1. MOreover, Brethren, I declare to you the Gospel which I preached to you, which also ye have received, and wherein ye stand. (Gr. have stood)

Ver. 2. By which also ye are (in the way to be) saved, if ye keep in memory what (i. e. retain the Gospel as) I preach'd (it) to you, (which you will do) unless ye have believed in vain.

Δι' ὃ καὶ σώζεσθε, by which also ye are saved.] That they who by imbracing the Christian Faith were brought into that way which leadeth to Salvation, and in which, if they persevere, they will assuredly be saved, are stiled in Scripture, οἱ σωζόμενοι, the saved, Acts 2.47. 1 Cor. 1. 28. and are said σωζεσθαι, to be saved, Rom. 8. 24. 2 Tim. 1. 9. 1 Pet. 3. 21. See Note on Eph. 2. 5, 8. and on Titus 3. 5. So here it signifies you are at present in a state of Salvation, and will assuredly enjoy it, if you retain, and live suitably to the Faith delivered to you.

Ver. 3. (I declare, I say, the Gospel which I preached) For I delivered to you first of all (or among the principal Doctrines of Faith) that which I also received, how that Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures.

Ver. 4. And that he was buried, and that he rose again the third day according to the Scriptures.

Ver. 5. And that he was seen (after his Resurrection) of Cephas, (Luke 24. 34.) then of the twelve, (v. 36. John 20. 19, 26.)

Τοῖς δώδεκα, of the twelve.] i. e. Of the Society of the Apostles, consisting formerly of twelve Persons, and therefore so called still, John 20. 24. though in strictness of Speech they were but eleven when Thomas was with them, and ten in his absence, Matth. 28. 16. Luke 24. 33.

Ver. 6. And that you may not depend upon their testimony only,) After that he was seen of above five hundred Brethren at once, of whom the greater part remain unto this day (to testifie it) though some are fallen asleep.

Πεντακοσίοις ἀδελφοῖς, to five hundred Brethren.] Of whom he was seen in Galilee, where he had many Disciples; for before his Resurrection he told his Disciples, that being risen, he would go before them into Galilee, Matth. 26. 32. after his Resurrection the Angel sends this Message to them, Behold, he goes before you into Galilee, there you shall see him, as he said unto you, Mark 16. 7. Now it may reasonably be thought that the eleven, who went themselves into Galilee, to the Mountain which Jesus had appointed, even after they had seen him at Jerusalem, Luke 24. 33, 36. would acquaint the Seventy, and others who believed in Jesus, where it was he had appointed to be seen of them; and then no doubt their Curiosity, as well as their Affection to him, would induce them to repair unto the place. Now that they who had believed in Jesus, were very many, will be evident, if we consider how often it is said in the Gospels, that many believed on his name, John 2. 23. 7. 31. 8. 30. 10. 42. and that great multitudes believed on him, John 12. 42. 4. 1. That many of the Rulers believed on him, that he baptized more Disciples then John, and that the Pharisees complained that the world was gone after him. If you say we read only of the eleven going to Galilee, Matth. 28. 16. I answer that others might go with them, though no mention be made of them: or that the rest might be Inhabitants of Galilee, where most of Christ's Disciples dwelt. If you still object, That the number of the names of Christ's Disciples after his Ascension, are reckoned only one hundred and twenty, Acts 1. 15. it is answered by Dr. Lightfoot, that the number of One hundred and twenty are not to be accounted the whole number of Believers at that time, but only were those who had followed Christ continually, v. 21. to be sure they were not all the Disciples in Judea, but only in Jerusalem.

That this Appearance of Christ to them was before his Ascension, is evident, because this was in Galilee, Luke 24. 50. and saith Tradition on Mount Tabor, his Ascension was nigh to Jerusalem from the Mount of Olives, Acts 1. 12. And Christ and his Angel giving them such timely notice of his going before them to the place, it is probable it was some considerable time before his Ascension.

As for the note of some, that Christ was seen of these Five hundred Brethren in the Air, because the Greek word is ἐπάνω, upwards, it seems very light, for that word joyned with numbers still signifies plusquam, or more then, as doth our English word upwards, and the Hebrew מעלה so Mark 14. 5. ἐπάνω τριακοσίων δηναρίων, is more then Three hundred pieces of silver; ἀπὸ πέντε καὶ εἰκοστοῦς καὶ ἐπάνω, from five and twenty years and upwards, Numb. 4. 3, 23, 30, 35, 39, 43, 47. Chap. 8. 25. ἀπὸ εἰκοστοῦς καὶ ἐπάνω, from twenty years and upward, Numb. 1. 3, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28. Chap. 14. 29. 1 Chron. 23. 24. 2 Chron. 31. 17. Ezr. 3. 8. ἀπὸ μηνιαίου καὶ ἐπάνω, from a month and upwards, Numb. 3. 15, 22, 28, 34, 39, 43. Chap. 26. 62.

Ver. 7. After that he was seen of James, then of all the twelve (at his Ascension.)

Ver. 8. Afterwards he was ſeen of me alſo, (Acts 9. 17.) as of one born out of due time (or ſhape.)

Ὡσπερεὶ τῷ ἐκτρώματι, as of one born out of due time.] Ἔκτρωμα, ſay Heſychius, Phrynicus and Phavorinus, is παιδίον νεκρὸν ἄωρον, a dead Child born out of due time, ἐκβολὴ γυναικὸς, one whom the Woman caſts forth. St. Paul therefore having not ſeen Chriſt, of whom he was to teſtifie, till after his Converſion, and our Lord's Aſcenſion, as the reſt of the Apoſtles had, John 15. 27. Acts 1.21,22.ſpeaks of himſelf as a Witneſs born out of due time.

Ver. 9. For I am the leaſt of the Apoſtles, (and one) that am not worthy to be called an Apoſtle, becauſe I perſecuted the Church of God.

Ver. 10. But by the grace (and favour) of God (notwithſtanding) I am what (now) I am, and his grace which was beſtowed upon me, was not in vain; but I laboured more abundantly then they all, yet (is it) not I, but the grace of God that was with me, (to which the fruit of all my labour is to be aſcribed.)

Ver. 11. Therefore whether it were I or they (who preach the Goſpel,) ſo we preach, and ſo ye (alſo) believed.

Ver. 12. Now if Chriſt be (ſo) preached that (all unanimouſly affirm) he roſe from the dead, how ſay ſome among you, that there is no reſurrection of the dead?

Πῶς λέγουσί τινες ἐν ὑμῖν, how ſay ſome among you?] That there were ſome in the Apoſtles time who taught that the Reſurrection was paſt already, we learn from 2*Tim.*2.18.but that they were Jews, who of Sadduces had embraced the Chriſtian Religion, as (a) Mr.le Clerk with confidence enough, but no proof aſſerts, I find no reaſon to believe. The (b) Gnoſticks taught not that the Reſurrection was paſt already, but only that the fleſh was not fit to riſe, and that it was incapable of ſalvation, and of incorruption, and therefore they are generally ſaid by the Ancients to deny the Reſurrection, but none of them inſinuate that it was paſt already. The (c) Marcionites are by *Clemens Alex.*ſaid to have held thisDoctrine,and tohave renounced Matrimony, becauſe in the Reſurrection ſaith Chriſt,they do not marry. But he began his Hereſie in the ſecond Century,and therefore could not infect the Church of Corinth with it in St. Paul's time. Menander indeed taught, that they who received his Baptiſm, were made Partakers by it of the Reſurrection, and that they ſhould not die. And he,according to many of the Ancients, was contemporary with St. Paul. See Note on 2 Tim. 2. 18. But haply St.Paul refers here to none of theſe, but only to the Philoſophers among them, as St. Chryſoſtom thinks.For Corinth being an eminent City of Achaia, where the Philoſophers and wiſe Men of the World abounded,who look'd upon the Reſurrection of the Fleſh as a thing both impoſſible and abſurd, (See here Note on *v.*35.) and placed their future Happineſs in their Exemption from the Clog and Priſon of the Body, they might put a new Conſtruction upon the Doctrine of the Reſurrection, ſaying, it only did import a Renovation of our Manners,or a Reſurrection from the Death of Sin unto a Life of Righteouſneſs, and ſo it was performed already in that Baptiſm in which we are raiſed with Chriſt from the Dead, Coloſſ. 2. 12.

Ver. 13. But (or for) if (it be ſo that) there is no reſurrection of the dead, then is Chriſt not riſen.

Ver. 14. And if Chriſt be not riſen, then is our preaching (in) vain, and their faith is vain.

Ver. 15. Yea; and we are (then) found falſe witneſſes of God, becauſe we have teſtified of (or by) God, that he raiſed up Chriſt, whom he raiſed not up, if ſo be that the dead riſe not (at all).

Ἐμαρτυρήσαμεν κατὰ τοῦ Θεοῦ, we have teſtified of God.] It being very rare that κατὰ with a Genitive Caſe ſignifies de, of, theſe words may be rendred per Deum, by God; as becauſe he could ſwear καθ' ἑαυτοῦ μείζονος, by none greater, he hath ſworn καθ' ἑαυτοῦ by himſelf, Hebr. 6.13. and v. 16. Men ſwear κατὰ τοῦ μείζονος, by a greater. So Matth. 26. 63. I adjure ye κατὰ τοῦ Θεοῦ by God. And then the ſenſe runs thus, We have pretended to be μάρτυρες αὐτοῦ Gods Witneſſes in this Matter, Acts 5.32. and by the Power of Miracles, and of the Holy Ghoſt derived from him, to bear witneſs to the Reſurrection of Chriſt, and ſo muſt be falſe Witneſſes of God, if he hath not raiſed him from the dead.

Ver. 16. For if the dead riſe not, then is not Chriſt raiſed.

Ver. 17. And if Chriſt be not raiſed, your faith is vain, ye are yet in your ſins. (Not juſtified, not abſolved from them, ſeeing he died for our ſins, and roſe again for our juſtification, Rom. 4. 21.)

Ver. 18. Then they alſo who have fallen aſleep in Chriſt, (and ſuffered for his Name) are periſhed, (ſo as never to riſe up out of that ſleep, and ſo were truly miſerable.)

Ver. 19. (For) if in this life only we have hope in Chriſt, we (Chriſtian Sufferers) are of all men the moſt miſerable.

Εἰ ἐν τῇ ζωῇ ταύτῃ, if in this life only we have hope.] The Apoſtle ſeems not here to ſay, that if there ſhould be no Reſurrection of the ody, the Christian could have only hope in is Life; for if the Soul be immortal, and ay be happy after its separation from the ody, this seems not to follow: But he argues us, If Christ is not risen for our Justification, e are yet under the Guilt of Sin, v. 17. and so, both Soul and Body must perish after eath, v. 18. and then the Hope of Christians ust terminate with this Life, which being ore especially to them a Life of Misery, by ason of the Sufferings to which their Faith

th here expose them, they would of all Men e most miserable.

Ver. 20. But now is Christ risen from the ead, and become the first fruits of them that ept, (who therefore shall follow after him thus sen, as the whole Harvest follows the first uits, v. 23.)

Ver. 21. For since by man came death, by an also came the resurrection of the dead, the wisdom of God so ordering it, that the me nature which had lost Life and Immortality, ould regain it.)

Ver. 22. For as in (the Man) Adam (and r his sin in eating the forbidden fruit) all en (proceeding naturally from him) die, so (and by the Man) Christ shall all (partakers his Nature, and his Spirit) be made ave.

Ἐν τῷ Χριστῷ, in Christ.] The opinion of the ews was this, That the Messias was the send Adam who should raise the dead; (d) His ame, say they, is called צמח Psal. 72. 17. for e shall raise them that sleep in the dust. And he last Man, or Adam, is the (e) Messiah, ho shall be above Moses, and above the mini-ring Angels; He shall take away the old Sin om whence Death came, and in his days shall e the Resurrection of the dead; and this God ntended in the Creation of Adam, that he should e immortal, but Sin brought death upon him; herefore the Divine Intention, which was not ulfilled in the first Adam, was fulfilled in the ing Messiah. Thus is the Doctrine of the hurch delivered by (f) Irenæus, that Christ ook our Nature upon him, and suffered Death n it; That as by Man vanquished Death fell pon all Mankind, so by Man conquering we ay ascend to Life. That whereas we are all ead in the animal Adam, we may be quickned n the spiritual.

Ver. 23. But every man in his own order,
Christ the first fruits, afterwards they that are Christs at his coming (to judgment.)

Ἐν τῇ παρουσίᾳ αὐτοῦ, at his coming.] This Chapter contains many Arguments against the Doctrine of the Resurrection of some Saints before the rest, to reign with Christ on Earth a Thousand years: For (1st,) from these words, Every man in his own order, it might have reasonably been expected that some mention should have been made, as of Christ the first Fruits, so of the first and second Resurrection; but yet we see, that when the Apostle is professedly speaking of the order in which we shall arise, he hath nothing to say of this first Resurrection, which it seems is to happen a Thousand years before the General Resurrection, and nothing of a first and second Advent of our Lord; one to Reign on Earth a Thousand years, a second to Judge all the World; and yet this double Advent is as necessary, as is Christ's Reign on Earth.

Moreover the end, and the delivery up of his Kingdom, are here made contemporary with his Advent; and the Resurrection of all that are Christ's, is to be at this very Advent:
But how can he deliver up his Kingdom, and yet Reign on Earth a Thousand years? In a word, if all that are his must be raised at his coming to the final Judgment, then none before that coming? and then they must all be raised together, not some a Thousand years before the rest.

Ver. 24. Then cometh the end, when he shall have delivered up (Gr. deliver up) the (Mediatory) Kingdom to God, even the Father, when he shall have put down all (other) rule, and all authority and power, (both of Men and Devils, which opposed his Church.)

Ver. 25. (Which Kingdom till then he cannot deliver up,) For he must reign (according to the promise, Psal. 110. 1.) till he (who made this promise) hath put all things under his feet.

Ver. 26. The last Enemy which shall be destroyed (by him) is death.

Ver. 27. For he (namely the Father) hath (saith the Psalmist) put all things under his feet: but when he saith all things are put under him, it is manifest that he is excepted (from this subjection) who did put all things under him. (See the Note on Hebr. 2. 8.)

Ver. 28. And when all things shall be subdued unto him, then shall the Son also himself (lay down his Kingly Office in governing his Church, and as Man) be subject to him that put all things under him, that God (the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost) may be (immediately) all in all, (by a full communication of himself to, and an intimate union with all his Saints.)

Ἵνα ᾖ ὁ Θεὸς πάντα ἐν πᾶσι, that God may be all in all.] He saith not that the Father, mentioned v. 24. but that God may be all in all, and so he seems to lead us to this Interpretation of the Godhead, which comprehends Father, Son, and Holy Ghost; and then the import of

(f) Ut quemadmodum in animali omnes mortui sumus, sic in spirituali omnes vivificemur. L. 5. c. 1. Ut quemadmodum per hominem victum descendit in mortem Genus humanum, sic etiam per hominem victorem ascendamus in vitam. Cap. 11.

the Phraſe, That God may be all in all, will be this, That the Godhead may govern all things immediately by himſelf, without the intervention of a Mediator between him and us, to exact our obedience in his Name, and convey to us his Favours and Rewards, we being then to render all our Duty immediately to him, and derive all our Happineſs immediately from him. So that as now Chriſt, Theanthropos, God-Man, is all in all, Col. 3.11. becauſe the Father hath put all things into his hands, does all things, and governs all things by him, when this Oeconomy ceaſes, the Godhead alone will be all in all, as governing and influencing all things by himſelf immediately.

Moreover, the Jews ſay that (g) the Kingdom of the Meſſiah ſhall return to its firſt Author, and ſo ſaith the Apoſtle here; for though it ſhall have no ſuch end as the preceding Monarchys had, Luke 1.32,33. by giving place to a ſucceeding Kingdom, for till the world laſts, ὑ παρελδίσῃ, it ſhall not paſs away, or be diſſolved by any other Kingdom, Dan. 7.14. but ſhall be an eternal Kingdom in the ſenſe in which he is a Prieſt for ever, and hath ἀ Ἱερωσύλω ἀπαρέλδλον, a Prieſthood that doth not paſs away, Hebr. 7.17,24,25. and ſo he is able to intercede for ever for us. Yet as that Prieſthood muſt needs ceaſe, when the ſubject of it ceaſeth, and he hath none to intercede for, ſo muſt his Kingly Office ceaſe, when all his Friends have that Eternal Life conferred upon them, for which this Power was committed to him, Joh. 17. 2. and all his Enemies are become his foot-ſtool, Pſal. 110.1. when there is no more an Houſe of Jacob to reign over, or a Throne of David to ſit on, Luke 1. 32, 33. Rev. 11. 15. And the whole Office of a Mediator muſt then ceaſe, when God and Man are made compleatly and indiſſolubly one.

For farther Explication of this Matter, let it be obſerved,

1. That this Mediatory Kingdom was given to our Lord by the Father; for he hath put all things in ſubjection to him, v. 27. and that after his Reſurrection; for it was given as the Reward of his Sufferings, and ſo could not be given till they were accompliſhed; He humbled himſelf, and became obedient to the death, even the death of the Croſs. Wherefore God hath highly exalted him, and given him a Name which is above every Name, that at the Name of Jeſus every knee ſhould bow, of things in Heaven, and on Earth, and under the Earth. And that every Tongue ſhould confeſs that Jeſus Chriſt is Lord to the glory of God the Father, Philip. 2. 8, 10,11. Accordingly after his Reſurrection, he ſpeaks to his Diſciples thus, all power is given me in heaven and in earth, Matth. 28.18. But why this Reward ſhould not ceaſe when the work is done; Why v. g. his Dominion over death ſhould not ceaſe, when death is deſtroyed; his power of giving Eeternal Life, or judging, when all are judged, and none are left to be crowned, I confeſs I do not underſtand.

2. Seeing the Humane Nature only ſuffered, and ſeeing the Divine Nature is capable of no ſuch Exaltation, or new Dominion, 'tis certain that this Kingdom could be given to Chriſt only according to his Humane Nature; for though the Godhead could alone enable him to execute his Kingly Office, yet was he thus exalted, this Power and Judgment was conferred upon him, becauſe he was the Son of Man, John 5. 27. He intercedeth ſtill in Heaven by virtue of his Blood, all Favours are granted to the Church through him, and God will judge the World by the Man Chriſt Jeſus.

3. During this Reign of Chriſt, God the Father immediately judgeth no man, but hath committed all judgment to the Son, that all Men might honour the Son (by owning his Authority) even as they honoured the Father, John 5. 22, 23. (by owning his Authority over them.) He made him Lord of all things, to puniſh and reward according to his Wiſdom, Will, and Pleaſure. And ſo his Humane Nature, or Chriſt as Man, though ſubject to the Father, as his Vice-Roy, acting by the Authority of him who put all things into his hands, and ſet him over the works of his hands, Hebr. 2. 7, 8. and doing all to the glory of God the Father, yet ſeems not now to be in the ſame order of ſubjection to the Father, as are other Creatures; i. e. ſo as to act by his immediate command in all particular Tranſactions, as the holy Angels do, obeying his commands, and hearkning to the voice of his word, Pſal. 103.20. They are all miniſtring Spirits, Hebr. 1. 13, 14. but he is ſet down at the right hand of God in full poſſeſſion of his mediatory Kingdom. Whil'ſt he continued on Earth, and acted only as a Prophet ſent from God, He always owned that he could do nothing of himſelf, but as the Father gave him commandment, ſo he did, and ſo he ſpake, John 5. 30. 8. 38. 12. 49. But being once exalted to be Lord of all things, he acteth as a Lord in all things which relate to his Kingly Office over his Church, giving Laws to all, as being Lord of all, and rewarding and puniſhing according to his Will.

4. The Exerciſe of this Authority he ſhall then lay down when all things are ſubdued to him, no other Kingdom or Dominion being to be exerciſed in the Celeſtial State, but what is eſſential to the whole Godhead. And though he ſhall ever ſo far Reign as to be ſtill at the right hand of God, highly exalted in Honour, Dignity, and Beatitude, and to have ſtill religious Reſpect and Veneration from all Saints, who then are to Reign with him, 2 Tim. 2.12.

and be owned by them as their King; and though the effects of this Kingly Power shall continue for ever, his Enemies being destroyed, and his Saints reigning in bliss for ever, yet the exercise of that Kingly Power shall then cease, and he as Man shall be then subject to the Father, as other Saints and Angels will be, that so as Christ before was all in all, Col. 3. 13. with reference to his Church, and from his fulness did they all receive, so now the Godhead may be all in all, and fill all things immediately by himself. This is only my conjecture of the sense of this obscure place, which upon better information I shall willingly recede from.

Ver. 29. (I say in opposition to them, among you who say there is no Resurrection from the dead, that Christ is risen, and become the first fruits of them that sleep,) Else what shall (will) they do who are baptized for the dead, (as they must be, if he in whose name they are baptized be still dead) if the dead rise not at all, (and so Christ himself is not risen) why are they then (who hold this Doctrine) baptized for the dead?

Ver. 30. And why stand we in jeopardy every hour (for a dead Jesus?)

Οἱ βαπτιζόμενοι ὑπὲρ τῶν νεκρῶν, who are baptized for the dead.] For that Jesus who, according to their Doctrine, must be still dead. To strengthen this Exposition, let it be noted

1. That it is absolutely certain, that all who received Christian Baptism were baptized in the Name of Jesus; but it is very uncertain whether any in the Apostles time were baptized for them who died without Baptism, or to fill up the place of those Christians who died after Baptism? There is no intimation of any such thing in Scripture, or in Primitive Antiquity.

2. That the Apostle doth not say, What do they that baptize for the dead? but τί ποιήσουσιν οἱ βαπτιζόμενοι, what will they do who are baptized already, if the dead arise not again? τί καὶ βαπτιζόμεθα, why are they also baptized for the dead? we who believe otherwise of him, may well be baptized in the Name of Christ; but why are they so, who believe him dead? what will they do? what motive can they have to stand to their Baptismal Covenant, and own a dead Man as their Lord and Saviour? what inducement can they have to continue faithful to him to the end but this, that if they suffer they shall also reign together with him? What will they do for comfort against the fear of death, if when they fall asleep they perish, and shall not rise again? Must they not be as well the worst of Fools, as the most miserable of Men, to suffer thus for a dead Man, who could not help himself, and therefore is not likely to give them any help in Life, or hope in Death?

Note 3*ly*, That ὑπὲρ often signifies in gratiam, on the account, or for the sake: So Rom. 1. 5. We have received Grace and Apostleship, &c. ὑπὲρ τοῦ ὀνόματος αὐτοῦ, for his Names sake, Eph. 3. 13. I desire that you faint not at my Tribulations ὑπὲρ ὑμῶν which I suffer for your sake, Col. 3. 24. ὑπὲρ τοῦ σώματος αὐτοῦ, for the sake of his Body, 2 Thess. 1. 5. That you may be accounted worthy of the Kingdom of God, ὑπὲρ ἧς καὶ πάσχετε, for the sake of which ye also suffer. See more Examples, both Sacred and Prophane, in Scmidius on the place, and Dr. Edwards in his Preface to the Authority, &c. of the Holy Scripture.

4*ly*, Observe that οἱ νεκροὶ is used in Scripture when speaking of one single Person. Thus when Christ had raised the Widows Son, he bids John's Disciples tell him that νεκροὶ, the dead are raised, Luke 7. 15, 22. And so here v. 12, 13. If there be no ἀνάστασις νεκρῶν resurrection of one single Person from the dead, then is not Christ risen; yea, the resurrection νεκρῶν of the dead in general is thrice mentioned by this Apostle, when speaking of the Resurrection of Christ alone, thus, when he saith, God will judge the world by Christ, of which he hath given us a demonstration, having raised him ἐκ νεκρῶν from the dead, Acts 17. 30. 31. It follows, that when they heard him asserting the resurrection of the dead ἀνάστασιν νεκρῶν they mocked; whereas he only had asserted the Resurrection of Christ from the dead. Thus St. Paul saith twice, περὶ ἐλπίδος καὶ ἀναστάσεως νεκρῶν, for the hope, and the resurrection of the dead, I am called in question, Acts 23. 7. 24. 21. and yet he was not called in question about the Resurrection of the Dead in general, for that the Pharisees believed as well as he, but only concerning one Jesus who was dead, whom Paul affirmed to be alive, Acts 25. 19. or risen from the dead. And so the Apostle saith Christ was declared to be the Son of God with power, ἐξ ἀναστάσεως νεκρῶν, by his rising from the dead, Rom. 1. 4. And here if Christ be risen, how say some among you, that ἀνάστασις νεκρῶν οὐκ ἔστιν, there is no resurrection of the dead. And this import of the Phrase seems to be confirmed by the word ὅλως, viz. if it be wholly and entirely true of all that are dead, that they rise not, and so Christ is not risen, what avails it any, that they are baptized for the dead?

Ver. 31. I protest by your rejoycing (i. e. by that rejoycing) which I have (common with you under all our sufferings, Rom. 5. 3.) in Christ Jesus, I (run the hazard to) die daily, (or by that rejoycing I have in you, as my Children, and the fruit of my labours in Christ, 1 Cor. 9. 16. 2 Cor. 1. 14. 7. 4. 9. 2. Phil. 2. 16. 1 Thess. 2. 19.)

Ver. 32. If after the manner of men I have fought with beasts at Ephesus, what advantageth it me if the dead rise not? (it will be then more reasonable to say) let us eat and drink for to morrow we die.

Κατὰ ἄνθρωπον, after the manner of men] i. e. After the usual manner of Heathens, that St.

Paul thus fought with Beaſts indeed, and that they would not touch him, they, ſaith (h) Nicephorus, who writ the Life of this Apoſtle, do affirm. Theodoret ſeems plainly to hint the ſame thing in theſe words, (i) In humane opinion I was made the food of Beaſts, but I was wonderfully preſerved from them. And this ſenſe will appear the more probable,

1. From the Phraſe καὶ ἀνθρωπον, which ſignifies as men uſe to do, but never according to mens purpoſes, or to ſpeak after the manner of men. See the Note on 1 Cor. 9. 8.

2. From the place here particularly mentioned Epheſus, which cannot refer to the Tumult there cauſed by Demetrius, for the Apoſtle ſuffered nothing in it, had he intended a Combat with Metaphorical Beaſts, or Salvage Men, that at Lyſtra where he was ſtoned, and left for dead, Acts 14. 19. had been more properly mentioned. See the Note 2 Cor. 1. 8, 9, 10. where he ſpeaks of ſuch Troubles that befel him in Aſia, as made him to deſpair even of Life; though as we read nothing in the Acts of this fight with Beaſts, ſo we read nothing of that trouble. 'Tis therefore no objection againſt this Interpretation, that this fight with Beaſts is not recorded by St. Luke, or that St. Paul ſpeaks not expreſly of it in the Catalogue of his Afflictions, 2 Cor. 11. it is ſufficient that there he tells us, he was in deaths often, v. 23.

Ver. 33. (But) be not deceived (with ſuch diſcourſes, rather avoid them, for) evil communications corrupt good manners.

Ver. 34. Awake to righteouſneſs, and ſin not, (which advertiſement is very needful,) for ſome (among you) have not the knowledge of (that righteouſneſs of) God, (which doth oblige him to render to Men according to their works, 2 Theſſ. 1. 6, 7. Hebr. 6. 10.) I ſpeak this to your ſhame.

Ver. 35. But ſome Men will (yet) ſay, How are the dead raiſed up (again?) and with what (kind of) Bodie do they come?

Ποίῳ σώματι; with what kind of body?] This was the queſtion of the (k) Philoſophers, whoſe chief Objection againſt the Reſurrection of the Fleſh, and of the Body, was this, That the Body was (l) the Priſon and Sepulchre of the Soul, and that it was her Puniſhment to be tied to it; that the Body was the great hinderance to the knowledge of the truth, and that we could not be truly happy, till by death we are delivered from it. It was therefore judged by them not only an impoſſible thing, but even an unjuſt, unworthy thing for God to raiſe theſe Bodies, to be united to thoſe Souls whoſe happineſs conſiſted in being delivered from the Body, and whoſe Puniſhment it was to be confined to it, that being according to their (m) Philoſophy, not to make them live, but die again; and therefore Celſus ſaith, The hope of the Reſurrection of the Fleſh is the hope of Worms, a filthy, an abominable, and an impoſſible thing, which God neither will, nor can do. Now to this Objection the Apoſtle here returns a full and ſatisfactory Anſwer, by ſhewing the happy change which ſhall then paſs upon the raiſed Body, and this he ſeems to do with ſome reſemblance to the ancient Philoſophy of the Pythagoræans and Platoniſts, and to the Sentiments of the Jews.

Ver. 36. Thou fool (who makeſt an enquiry about a matter of which thou haſt an inſtance in the very ſeed thou ſoweſt, for) that which thou ſoweſt is not quickned except (firſt) it die, (and lye buried in the Earth.)

Ver. 37. And (again) that which thou ſoweſt, (when) thou ſoweſt (it is) not that body which ſhall be (again produced,) but bare (or naked) grain, it may chance of wheat, or of ſome other grain.

Ver. 38. But God giveth it a body (cloathed) as it hath pleaſed him, and (yet) to every ſeed (he giveth with the clothing) his own (kind of) Body.

Γυμνὸν κόκκον, naked grain.] Note here, that the (n) Jewiſh Rabbins uſe the ſame ſimilitude of Grain in the Affair of the Reſurrection, and ſpeak alſo of a cloathing of the body raiſed, from the example of Grain raiſed with a covering. See the Note on 2 Cor. 5. 2, 3, 4. Note alſo that St. Paul is not diſcourſing of the Identity of the raiſed Body, but only of the Qualities with which it is raiſed.

(kind of) fleſh, but there is one kind of fleſh of men, another (kind of) fleſh of beaſts, another of fiſhes, and another of birds.

Ver. 40. And (as there is like difference in the qualities of bodies, for) there are alſo celeſtial bodies, and bodies terreſtrial; but the glory of the celeſtial is one, and the glory of the terreſtrial is another.

Ver. 41. (And in the Celeſtial Bodies) there is one Glory of the Sun, another of the Moon, another glory of the Stars; for one Star differeth from another Star in glory.

Ver. 42. So alſo is (it as to) the Reſurrection of the dead, (the Body raiſed being in qualities much different from the earthly Body we at preſent have, for) it is ſown in corruption, (frail, mortal, ſubject to death and putrefaction) it is raiſed in incorruption, (not ſubject any more to death or diſſolution.)

Ver. 43. It is ſown in diſhonour, (with ſome diſhonourable parts, 1 Cor. 12. 23. a vile Body, Philip. 3. 21. ſubject to filth and deformity) it is raiſed in glory, (in clarity, and ſplendor, ſhining like the Sun, Matth. 13. 43. and like Chriſt's glorious Body, Philip. 3. 21. free from all defect, or deformity of its Members, and from any diſhonourable parts, 1 Cor. 6. 13.) it is ſown in weakneſs, (ſubject to weakneſs by labour, to decays by age, to impotency, and waſting by diſeaſes,) it is raiſed in power, (nimble, ſtrong, active, and that without renitency, or moleſtation, grief, pain, or laſſitude.

Ver. 44. It is ſown a natural (Gr. an animal) body, (having multiplicity of Organs, Muſcles, Tendons, Arteries, Veins, Nerves, by which, by the aſſiſtance of the animal and vital Spirits, it perceives, moves, and conveys nouriſhment to all its parts, and ſo wanting continual recruits of Meat and Drink,) it is raiſed a ſpiritual body, (poſſeſſed and acted by the Holy Spirit, and advanced ſo far to the perfection of Spirits, as to be free from groſneſs, ponderoſity, from needing reſt, ſleep, or ſuſtenance;) there is a natural (Gr. animal) body, and there is a ſpiritual body.

Σῶμα ψυχικὸν, an animal body.] It ſeems hence probable that the word ſown doth not relate to the Bodies being laid in the Earth, but rather to its production into the World; for when it is interred, it is no more an animal Body, but a Body void of Life; it is not only weak, but wholly deſtitute of power: And this appears yet further, from the following proof of theſe words, It is ſown an animal Body, for ſo it is written, The firſt man Adam was made a living Soul. The Apoſtle doth indeed, v. 36, 37. ſpeak of Seed ſown in the Earth, but then he ſpeaks of it as ſtill alive, and having its ſeminal virtue, or animal ſpirit in it, and after dying there; whereas our Bodies firſt die, and then are caſt into the Earth.

2*ly*, Hence it is alſo probable that the Apoſtle diſcourſeth not here of the different degrees of Glory which the Saints hereafter ſhall enjoy; for he ſpeaks only of what is raiſed, that is, the Body, and of the qualities belonging to all Bodies that are raiſed.

3*ly*, Certain it is that the Apoſtle in this Chapter diſcourſeth only of the Reſurrection of the Juſt, ſince 'tis alone their Bodies that ſhall undergo this happy change.

4*ly*, Obſerve that there is another ſenſe of the 44th Verſe, as good as that which I have given in the Paraphraſe, viz. There is an animal Body, i. e. a Body fitted for this lower ſenſible ſtate in which we live at preſent; and there is a ſpiritual Body, that is, a Body fitted for our ſpiritual and celeſtial ſtate; in this ſtate we are forced to ſerve our Bodies, and to attend their leiſure, and mightily depend upon them in the operations of the Mind; in the other, our Bodies ſhall wholly ſerve our Spirits, and miniſter to them, and depend upon them, and therefore may be ſtiled ſpiritual.

But 5*ly*, That our Bodies ſhall be then ſpiritual, thin, and aerial, is neither a new Doctrine, nor proper to the Followers of Origen, for ſo both St. Chryſoſtom and Theophylact upon the place allow it to be. What incredible thing aſſert we, ſaith (o) Iſidore Pelueſiot, if we ſay the Body is ſmall and aerial? for by this we do not deny it to be the ſame Body. And again the Apoſtle calls our Bodies ſpiritual, διὰ τὸ κοῦφα καὶ αἰθέρια μέλλειν ἔσεσθαι, (p) becauſe they ſhall hereafter be light and etherial. And this which the Apoſtle here ſays, is ſuitable to the Philoſophy of the Pythagoreans and Platoniſts, who taught that good and pure Souls were by death delivered from thoſe groſs and earthly Bodies which preſs down the Soul, Wiſd. 9. 15. and were after the diſſolution of the Body, ſaid they, will be at the reſurrection of the Body, ſaith he, (q) inveſted with thin and aerial, with active and ſpiritual, with bright and ſhining; and laſtly, with Celeſtial and Eternal Bodies. Now to this plainly anſwers the Deſcription of our raiſed Bodies here given by St. Paul, in anſwer to the ſecond Queſtion of the Philoſophers at Corinth, with what Bodies do they come forth out of the Grave, declaring in their very terms, that this Body will be σῶμα πνευματικὸν καὶ ἐπουράνιον, a Spiritual and Celeſtial Body, v. 44, 46, 48, 49

2 Cor. 5. 1. that it will be οἰκία αἰώνιος, an eternal Houſe, σῶμα ἄφθαρτον καὶ ἀθάνατον, an incorruptible and immortal Body, v. 53, 54. that it will be raiſed ἐν δόξῃ, in glory, and ſo be αὐγοειδὲς, a ſhining body; the juſt, ſaith Chriſt, ſhall then ſhine as the Sun, as the brightneſs of the Firmament, Matth. 13. 43. and as the Stars, ſaith Daniel, Dan. 12. 3. And this anſwers to the σῶμα ἀστεροειδὲς which theſe Philoſophers mention as the ſame with their αὐγοειδὲς, ſhining body. Laſtly, it is raiſed in power, and this is in ſenſe the ſame with their σῶμα εὐκίνητον, agile body, and of quick motion. Indeed the Parallel is ſo exact, that ſeeing I find nothing of this nature in the Life of Pythagoras writ by Diogenes Laertius, or in Plato, but only in thoſe Writers who lived ſince Chriſt's time, and were profeſſed Enemies of Chriſtianity, Hierocles, Porphyry, Proclus and Jamblicus, I am apt to ſuſpect, that as in other things they apparently dreſſed up their Philoſophy and Morality anew, to accommodate it the better to the Chriſtian Philoſophy, that ſo there might ſeem leſs need of Chriſtianity, and particularly made the Felicity of Souls hereafter much like the Chriſtian Doctrine, ſo that they might deſtroy, or render needleſs the Doctrine of the Reſurrection; ſo they gave to the dying Souls of good Men this ὄχημα ψυχῆς, or vehicle of a ſpiritual, immortal, ſhining, heavenly body alſo, from the Chriſtian Notion of the Change our raiſed Bodies ſhould then undergo.

Ver. 45. And ſo it is written, The firſt man Adam (from whom we all derive our Bodies, and our animal Life) was made a living ſoul, (Gen. 2 7. whereas) the laſt Adam (i.e. Chriſt) was made a quickning Spirit, (as having power to quicken, and confer eternal life on all his Members; or, as being the Giver of that quickning Spirit by which we ſhall be raiſed from the dead, and made ſpiritual, as his body is.)

Πνεῦμα ζωοποιοῦν, a quickning Spirit.] All the Ancients, till St. Auſtin, by a Spiritual Body, ſeem to underſtand a Body poſſeſſed, and acted by the Holy Spirit, as the Natural Body is by the animal and vital Spirits, and ſay that Chriſt was made a quickning Spirit by the Seed of the Holy Spirit, which unites him to all his Members, and confers on them a new Life and Immortality. (r) Irenæus is very expreſs and copious in this matter, ſaying, That as from the beginning of our frame in Adam, that inſpiration of Life which proceeded from God, united to the Body, animated Man, and made him a reaſonable Creature; ſo in the end, the Word of the Father, and the Spirit of God, united to the old Subſtance of the frame of Adam, made a living and perfect Man, receiving the perfect Father; that as we all died in the animal, we may be all quickned in the ſpiritual Adam; and that by the Spirit the Bodies riſing are made ſpiritual, as by the Spirit they have Life Eternal. It is called ſpiritual, as putting on the Spirit, ſaith (s) Tertullian. As receiving the whole energy and communion of the Spirit, ſaith (t) Methodius. And that the Reſurrection of the Juſt ſhall be effected by the Spirit of God, ſeems to be plainly taught by the Apoſtle in theſe words, If the ſpirit of him that raiſed up Jeſus from the dead dwell in you, he that raiſed up Chriſt from the dead, ſhall alſo quicken your mortal Bodies by his Spirit that dwelleth in you, Rom. 8. 10. And this agrees with the Opinion of the Jews, who aſcribe the Reſurrection to the Spirit from Ezek. 37. 10. and in particular to the Spirit of the Meſſiah. And from this differs not much the Opinion of Theodoret and others, That Chriſt is made a quickning Spirit, becauſe he himſelf being quickned by the Spirit, 1 Pet. 3. 18. hath in himſelf the power to quicken, and raiſe the Bodies of his Servants to Eternal Life; for as the Father raiſeth up the dead, and quickneth them, ſo the Son quickneth whom he will, John 5. 21. and as the Father hath life himſelf, ſo hath he given to the Son to have life in himſelf, v. 26.

Ver. 46. (I ſay there is an animal body, and there is a ſpiritual body) Howbeit that (Body) was not firſt which is ſpiritual, but that which is natural, (Gr. animal) and afterwards that which is ſpiritual.

Ver. 47. (For) the firſt man (Adam) is (was) of the earth, earthy, (having a Body formed of it, and ſo the animal Body derived from him muſt be earthy) the ſecond man is the Lord (deſcending) from Heaven (to raiſe our Bodies, and advance them to that place.)

Ἐξ οὐρανοῦ, from Heaven.] Not as ſome phancy, becauſe Chriſt's Body was from Heaven, and not from the Virgin Mary; for the Scripture expreſly teacheth, that he was begotten ἐξ αὐτῆς from her Body, Matth. 1. 16. Luke 1. 35. and was the fruit of her Womb, Luke 1. 42. that he was made ἐκ γυναικὸς, out of a Woman, and came from the Fathers τὸ κατὰ σάρκα according to the fleſh, Rom. 9. 5. And had his Body been derived from Heaven, it muſt have been immortal, as our Bodies will be when we bear the Image of the Heavenly Adam; both which things make it neceſſary to interpret the Lord from Heaven, as I have done in the Paraphraſe.

(r) Sic in fine verbum Patris & Spiritus Dei adunitus antiquæ ſubſtantiæ plaſmationis Adæ, viventem & perfectum effecit hominem capientem perfectum Patrem, ut quemadmodum in animali omnes mortui ſumus, ſic in ſpirituali omnes vivificemur. L. 5. c. 1. Per Spiritum fiunt corpora ſpiritualia, uti per Spiritum ſemper manentem habent vitam. Ibid. c. 7. & cap. 12.

Ver. 48. As is (was) the earthy, such are they that are earthy, (and live in the animal Body as he did,) and as is the heavenly, such are they (to be) that are (to have) heavenly, (immortal and shining bodies.)

Ver. 49. And as we have born the Image of the earthy (Adam, being begotten, after his fall, in his own likeness, with earthy mortal bodies, Gen. 5. 3.) so shall we also bear the image of the heavenly, (partaking in our bodies of his heavenly glory, he changing our vile bodies into the likeness of his glorious body, Philip. 3. 21.)

Ox. p. 103. de Zelo & Livore, p. 226. Hilar. Dial. in locum. Hieron. in Isa. 52. F. 84. 1.* read Portemus, which answers to the Greek φορέσωμεν, as reads St. Chrysostom, and as the Alexandrian and other Copies read. The other reading is owned by Origen against Celsus twice, l. 5. p. 243. by Methodius; and Theodoret and Theophylact well note, that the words are not to be read by way of Exhortation, φορέσωμεν let us bear, but φορέσομεν, as a prediction of what we shall be; for the Apostle from v. 42. to this Verse, still passeth on from what we were, to what we shall be; and having said, as is the heavenly, such are (i. e. shall be) they that are heavenly; he proves this, because as we have born the image of the earthy Adam, so shall we bear the image of the heavenly.

Note also that Philo speaks much like the Apostle; for he saith (u) there are two kinds of Men, one made after the Image of God, and another made out of the Earth. The last he proves from the very words the Apostle useth to prove there is a natural or animal Body; the first from this, That God made Man after his own Image; which Image he stiles the Divine Word, and says he is the ἐπουράνιος ἀστὴρ, the heavenly Star, the Fountain of all sensible Stars. The last he calls the (x) earthy and corruptible Adam; the first the Adam made after the Image which is not, saith he, earthy, but heavenly. The one is heavenly, as being made after the Image of God, and so uncapable of any corruptible, or earthy Substance; the other out of Seminal Matter, which the Scripture calleth Earth. But then he saith, that the heavenly Man was formed first, and after him the earthy; and perhaps, for the correction of that Error, the Apostle might here say, That was not first which is spiritual, but that which was natural.

Ver. 50. Now this I say, Brethren, that flesh and blood (such as ours is) cannot inherit the Kingdom of God, neither doth (or can) corruption inherit incorruption.

Σὰρξ καὶ αἷμα, flesh and blood, &c.] Most of the Fathers interpret these words of Flesh and Blood not naturally, but morally taken for the corrupt Affections of the Flesh. But

1. Though Flesh it self in Scripture sometimes bears this sense, yet Flesh and Blood joyntly, never seems to have this import in the Scripture.

2. It is plain, and confessed by (y) St. Austin, that the Apostle is not here speaking of the requisites to make our Souls meet to inherit this Kingdom, but of the manner of the Resurrection of the Body.

3. The Apostle speaks of Flesh and Blood as subject to corruption here, v. 52. or of such Flesh and Blood as must be changed, and put on Incorruption, and so of Flesh and Blood naturally taken.

4. 'Tis evident to sense that Flesh may be cut, and divided, and Blood let out, and so must, whilst they continue such, be subject to Corruption; and also that an heavenly, and a spiritual Body, an House from Heaven, cannot consist of such Flesh and Blood as we have at present.

It therefore must be said, that though the same Flesh and Blood may rise from the Grave, it will then, or afterwards, receive such a change as will render it spiritual and incorruptible, and so perhaps, when it comes to Heaven, will not be Flesh and Blood; or that it will be clothed with such an heavenly Body as will keep it from a possibility of Corruption; and so the import of these words may be this, That Flesh and Blood unchanged, and unclothed with its heavenly Body, cannot inherit the Kingdom of God.

Ver. 51. Behold, I shew you a mystery, (i.e. a thing not known to you before,) we shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed (in our Bodies, before they enter into this Kingdom.)

much to be preferred before either of the other two, viz. we ſhall all riſe, or we ſhall all ſleep, but ſhall not all be changed. As being

1. Not only the reading of Chryſoſtom, Theodoret and Theophylact on the place, but alſo of (z) Origen, Theodotus, Apollinarius, St. Jerom, and of Pſeudo Juſtin, qu. 61. and 109.

2. As being inforced from the next words repeated thus, and we ſhall be changed, from the like words 1 Theſſ. 4. 17. and from the obſervation of almoſt all the Commentators on the place, that the Apoſtle in this Chapter ſpeaks only of the Reſurrection of the Juſt; from the falſhood of the other words, we ſhall not all be changed, ſeeing the Bodies of the wicked will certainly be changed by the fire they go into; and laſtly from the ſenſe, for what ſenſe is it to ſay, we ſhall not be changed in a moment, and to add this reaſon of that ſaying, viz. for the dead ſhall be raiſed incorruptible, and we ſhall be changed,

Note alſo that it cannot be hence concluded, that he, and the reſt of the Apoſtles, ſhould live to the general Reſurrection. No, he elſewhere diſcovers his Expectation, that the ſame God who raiſed up Jeſus, ſhould raiſe them alſo from the dead, 2 Cor. 4. 14. He ſpeaks this therefore, not in his own, but in the perſon of all pious Chriſtians that ſhould then live. See the Note on 1 Theſſ. 4. 15, 17.

Ver. 52. In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the laſt trump; for the trumpet ſhall ſound, and the dead (in Chriſt) ſhall be raiſed incorruptible, and we (Chriſtians that are then alive) ſhall be changed (as to this mortal body.)

Ἐν ἀτόμῳ, in a moment.] It is the obſervation of (a) St. Jerom, that by theſe words the Apoſtle, Cunctam primæ, & ſecundæ reſurrectionis excludit fabulam, deſtroys the Fable of the Firſt and ſecond Reſurrection. He doth it ſufficiently in the deſcription of the ſtate of all the raiſed Bodies of the Juſt. For, though the Patrons of this opinion would avoid it, 'tis certain that the old Aſſertors of it held, that they ſhould be raiſed to enjoy the pleaſures of Meat and Drink, as (b) Irenæus ſpeaks. Now can thin, ſpiritual, glorious, heavenly bodies, and ſuch as are made like to Chriſt's glorious body, eat, and drink, and enjoy theſe Senſual Pleaſures? Moreover, who ſhall be changed? thoſe that already have been raiſed a thouſand years? if not, they muſt not be alive, for Chriſtians then alive ſhall be changed; but if they muſt be changed, then muſt their Bodies be raiſed corruptible, and they muſt twice bear the image of the earthy, or the animal Adam.

Ver. 53. For this corruptible (Body) muſt put on incorruption, and this mortal (Body) muſt put on immortality.

Ver. 54. So when this corruptible ſhall have put on incorruption, and this mortal ſhall have put on immortality, then ſhall be brought to paſs the ſaying that is written, Death is ſwallowed up in victory; (i.e. is overcome for ever, ſo as never to have any ſtrength or power over our Bodies any more.)

Ἐνδύσῃ ἀφθαρσίαν, ſhall put on incorruption.] The Scripture, and all the Ancients, ſpeak of a cloathing which our raiſed Bodies ſhall put on. Thus (c) Pſellus in his Commentary on the Chaldaick Oracles, ſaith the Chaldees give the Soul two cloathings; one of the ſpiritual Body, weaved out of that which is ſubject to ſenſe; the other a ſhining thin Body, not ſubject to the touch, which they call the Superficies; and the Conjecture of the Jews is this, that it ſhall be a cloathing of light, or of a pure flame. So the ancient Book (d) Zohar ſaith, That the Bodies of the Juſt ſhall be cloathed with the light of Glory. R. Phineas ſaith, the bleſſed God will give to the Bodies of the Juſt יפיות an ornament, according to that of Iſaiah, chap. 58. 11. He ſhall ſatisfie the Soul בצחצחות with white or ſplended things. And R. Levi, that the ſoul, in the ſtate of its glory, ſuſtains it ſelf by the ſuperiour light; and when it returns to the body, it ſhall come with this light; and and then the Body ſhall ſhine as with the brightneſs of the Heavens. And this agrees with the Transfiguration of our Lord's Body, Matth. 17. 2. and with his Appearance to St. Paul, Acts 9. 3. and to St. John, Rev. 1. 14, 15. and to the Deſcriptions made in the Old Teſtament of the Juſt riſing from their Graves, that they ſhall ſhine as the brightneſs of the Firmament, and as the Stars for ever, Dan. 12. 3. Wiſd. 3. 7. And in the New, That they ſhall ſhine as the Sun in the Kingdom of the Father, Matth. 13. 43. And thus may they be ſalted and preſerved from corruption by fire, Mar. 9. 49.

the Phraſe εἰς νῖκος uſed in any other ſenſe in the Septuagint. Though therefore Death is repreſented as the laſt Enemy to be vanquiſhed, v. 26. And the Apoſtle asks, O Grave where is thy Victory; and gives thanks to God, who giveth us the victory, v. 55, 57. yet ſeeing he hath given us this victory by ſwallowing death up for ever, by ſwallowing up death of life eternal, 2 Cor. 5. 4. I ſee no reaſon by Mr. Clerks good leave, why we ſhould think the Apoſtle had not here reſpect to the conſtant uſe of this Phraſe in the Septuagint.

Ver. 55. (So that Chriſtians may ſing triumphantly in the words of the Prophet Hoſea, Chap. 13. 14.) O death, where is thy ſting? O grave, where is (now) thy victory? (It is for ever ſwallowed up of life, 2 Cor. 5. 4.)

Ver. 56. The ſting of death, (or that which cauſed death) is (was) ſin, and the ſtrength of ſin (to ſubject us to it) is (was) the Law, (threatning death for it.)

Ver. 57. But thanks be to God, who giveth us the victory (over it) through (the death and reſurrection of) our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

Ver. 58. Wherefore my beloved Brethren, be ye ſtedfaſt (and) unmoveable, (by any temptations from this faith, and be ye) always abounding in the work of the Lord, foraſmuch as ye know, your labour is not in vain in the Lord, (but ſhall be plentifully recompenced by him at the reſurrection of the juſt.)

CHAP. XVI.

Verſe 1. NOW concerning the Collection for the Saints, (i. e. the ſuffering Chriſtians in Judea) as I have given order to the Churches of Galatia, even ſo do ye.

Ver. 2. Upon the firſt day of the week, (the day of your Chriſtian Aſſemblies) let every one of you lay by him in ſtore, (on this account, according) as God hath proſpered him, that there be no (farther need of) gatherings when I come.

κατὰ μίαν Σαββάτων, upon the firſt day of the week.] So we read in St. Matthew, that our Lord roſe from the dead τῇ μιᾷ τῶν Σαββάτων, upon the firſt day of the week, Matth. 28. 1. in St. Mark, that the Sabbath being over, Mary Magdalen, and others came early τῆς μιᾶς τῶν Σαββάτων, the firſt day of the week, Mark 16. 9. and found Chriſt riſen from the dead; and in St. Luke, that they reſted on the Sabbath day, according to the Commandment, and that they came to the Sepulchre τῇ μιᾷ τῶν Σαββάτων, on the firſt day of the week, Luke 23. 56. 24. 1. and ſo accordingly ſaith St. John, John 20. 1. So that this Phraſe doth certainly import the firſt day of the week, the day of our Lord's Reſurrection from the dead.

Moreover κατὰ μίαν may be rendred every firſt day, as (a) κατὰ πόλιν, in every City; κατ' οἶκον, in every Family; κατ' ἄνδρα, viritim, man by man; κατὰ μῆνα, every month; and κατὰ μίαν, ſigillatim.

2*ly*, Obſerve that the Jews in every City where they dwelt had their (b) Collectors of Alms, who in the Week days went about the City collecting Alms, according to the quality and wealth of every Jew; and in the evening of the Sabbath diſtributed to the Poor among the Jews, as much as was needful for the following Week: And after this Example the Apoſtle ſeems to have ordained, that the Chriſtians ſhould lay up for the Poor, or make proviſions for them on the Lord's day.

3*ly*, Obſerve, that from the beginning the Chriſtians did aſſemble on the firſt day of the Week, called by them the Lord's day, to perform their Religious Worſhip, (c) to read the Scriptures, to preach, and celebrate the Lord's Supper. This day being the Lord's day, we keep it holy, ſaith (d) Dionyſius Biſhop of Corinth. On Sunday, (e) ſaith Juſtin, all Chriſtians in the City or Country meet together, becauſe that is the day of our Lord's Reſurrection, and then we read the Writings of the Prophets, and Apoſtles; this being done, the Preſident makes an Oration to the Aſſembly, to exhort them to imitate, and do the things they heard; then we all joyn in prayer; and after that we celebrate the Sacrament.

4*ly*, Obſerve, that the Apoſtle gave order that here, and in the Churches of Galatia, Collections ſhould be made for the Poor on that day; and that all Chriſtians, in complyance with that Precept, ſtill offered their Alms upon that day. So (f) Juſtin Martyr; Then they that are able and willing give what they think fit, and what is thus collected is laid up in the hands of the Preſident, who diſtributes it to Orphans and Widows, and other Chriſtians, as their wants require.

5*ly*, Obſerve, that no good Reaſon can be given why the Apoſtle ſhould limit the Collections of the Churches of Corinth and Galatia to the firſt day of the week, but this, that this Day was appointed for the Worſhip of our Lord, and ſo more fit for the performance of thoſe Duties which concerned his diſtreſſed Members in thoſe times; for as the Works of Charity and Mercy are proper Duties of this Day, ſo doth the Day contain a ſpecial Motive in it to enlarge their Charity, as being the Day in which they were begotten to a lively hope through the Reſurrection of Chriſt Jeſus from the dead, of an Inheritance incorruptible, 1 Pet. 1. 3. and in which they conſtantly participated of his precious Body and Blood; and therefore having received Spiritual Things ſo plentifully from Chriſt, muſt be more ready to impart ſomewhat of their Temporals to his needy Servants.

Ver. 3. And when I come, whoſoever you ſhall approve by Letters, them will I ſend (or them will I with my Letters ſend) to bring your Liberality to Jeruſalem.

Ver. 4. And if it be (thought) meet that I go alſo, they ſhall go with me (to be witneſſes of the diſtribution of your Charity.)

Ver. 5. Now I will come unto you when I paſs (or ſhall have paſſed) through Macedonia; for I do (intend ſhortly to remove hence, and to) paſs through Macedonia.

Μακεδονίαν διέρχομαι, I do paſs through Macedonia.] Not preſently, but after I have finiſhed my ſtay at Epheſus, v. 8. For that St. Paul writ this Epiſtle from Epheſus, and not from Philippi, may be gathered from the Salutations in the cloſe of it, not from the Churches of Macedonia, but of Epheſus. In this ſecond Epiſtle, he ſaith, He paſſed from Troas to Macedonia, and that there Titus came to him, 2 Cor. 2. 13. 7. 5, 6. who was not come to him when he writ his firſt Epiſtle.

Ver. 6. And it may be that I will abide, yea, and winter with you, that ye may bring me on my journey whitherſoever I go.

Ver. 7. For I will not ſee you now by the way, but I truſt (hereafter) to tarry a while with you, if the Lord permit.

Ver. 8. But I will tarry (ſtill) at Epheſus till Pentecoſt.

Ἕως τῆς Πεντηκοστῆς, till Pentecoſt.] It therefore was the following Pentecoſt that he haſtned to be at Jeruſalem, Acts 20. 16.

Ver. 9. For a great door and effectual is opened to me (for propagation of the Goſpel there;) and there are many Adverſaries (of the truth, eſpecially thoſe of the Circumciſion, which makes my ſtay there neceſſary.)

Ver. 10. Now if Timotheus come to you, ſee that he may be with you without fear (of diſturbance from the Factious) for he worketh the work of the Lord, as I alſo do.

Ἐὰν δὲ ἔλθῃ Τιμόθεος, if Timothy come to you.] Hence it appears that this Epiſtle was not ſent by Timothy, for then he muſt have come to them.

Ver. 11. Let no man therefore deſpiſe him (becauſe of his youth, 1 Tim. 4. 12.) but conduct (ye) him forth in peace that he may come to me, for I look for him with the Brethren, (or I, and the Brethren, look for him.)

Προπέμψατε αὐτὸν, conduct him forth.] It is the obſervation of the Reverend and Learned Dr. Hammond, that the word προπέμπω ſignifies not only to accompany one, and bring him on his way, as v. 6. but alſo to provide for the Neceſſaries of his Journey. But this ſeems not ſuitable to the inquiry of the Apoſtle, Did I make a gain of you by any of them whom I ſent to you? Did Titus make a gain of you? 2 Cor. 12. 17.

Ver. 12. As touching our Brother Apollos, I greatly deſired him to come to you, but his will was not at all to come to you at this time: but he will come when he ſhall have a convenient time.

Οὐκ ἦν θέλημα ἵνα νῦν ἔλθῃ, he was not willing to come now.] Perhaps becauſe he would not countenance a Faction that was begun under his name, by his preſence with them; which, ſaith Aquinas, ſhews he was not their Biſhop, as ſome of the Ancients have repreſented him; for then he ought not to have left his Flock under ſo great diſorders.

Ver. 13. Watch ye, ſtand faſt in the faith, quit ye (your ſelves) like men, be ſtrong.

Ver. 14. Let all your things be done with Charity, (or a ſincere deſire of your Brethren's weal.)

Ver. 15. I beſeech you Brethren, (ſeeing) ye know the houſe of Stephanas, that it is the firſt fruits of (the Goſpel in) Achaia, and that they have (ever ſince) addicted themſelves to the miniſtry of the Saints.

Ver. 16. That you ſubmit your ſelves to ſuch, (giving reverence and honour to them) and to every one that helpeth with us, and laboureth.

Ver. 17. I am glad of the coming of Stephanas, Fortunatus and Achaius, (whom you ſent with your Letters of Enquiry to me) for that (account of your Affairs) which was lacking on your part (in your Letter) they have ſupplied.

Ver. 18. (I am glad, I ſay,) For they have refreſhed my Spirit (with their preſence and diſcourſe) and (will at their return refreſh) yours, therefore acknowledge ye them that are ſuch.

Ver. 19. The Churches of Aſia ſalute you: Aquila and Priſcilla ſalute you much in the Lord, with the Church that is in their Houſe, (i. e. their Chriſtian Family.)

Σὺν τῇ κατ' οἶκον αὐτῶν Ἐκκλησίᾳ, with the Church in their House.] This Phrase doth not import that the whole Church of Corinth, &c. met in such a Family; for then the Salutation would be the Salutation of all the Christians in that place; but that this is not so, is evident from so many Salutations directed to other Persons and Families in the same place. So Rom. 16. 5. Salute Aquila and Priscilla, and the Church in their House. See the Note there. And then follow Salutations to many other Persons, and Brethren of the Church. So Coloss. 4. 15. Salute the Brethren in Laodicea, and Nymphas, with the Church in his House. See the Note there. So Philemon 2. we read thus, Paul a prisoner to Philemon— to Appia, to Archippus our fellow Soldier, and to the Church in thy House: And here, after this Salutation, follows the words, All the Brethren greet you.

It rather seems to signifie, as all the Greek Scholiasts, and Grotius say, a Family consisting wholly of Christian Converts, as was the Jaylor's House, Acts 16. 31, 32. and that of Crispus the chief Ruler of the Synagogue at Corinth, Acts 18. 8. For when it was otherwise, and the Family was not entirely converted, the Apostle alters his style, and saith only, Salute them which are of Aristobulus houshold, and of the houshold of Narcissus in the Lord, Rom. 16. 10, 11. Salute Asyncretus, Phlegon, &c. and the Brethren that are with them, v. 14, 15. The Saints that are with them. They of the House of Cæsar salute you, Coloss. 4. 22.

Ver. 20. All the Brethren greet you: Greet ye one another with an holy kiss. (See Note on Rom. 16. 16.)

Ver. 21. The Salutation of me Paul with my own hand.

Τῇ ἐμῇ χειρὶ, with my own hand.] He writing by an Amanuensis, Rom. 16. 22. still closed his Epistle with his own Hand, as a Token that it came from him, 2 Thess. 3. 17.

Ver. 22. If any man love not the Lord Jesus Christ, let him be Anathema Maranatha; (i. e. Accursed when the Lord comes to judgment.)

Ἀνάθεμα Μαρὰν-ἀθά.] That Maranatha is a Syriack word, and signifies (g) the Lord cómes, most of the ancient Interpreters inform us. Buxtorf gives us the full sense of it, saying, It is a Syrian word, by which they signified the outmost Anathema, by which a Man, being excluded from all Humane Society, and obnoxious to greater Punishments then Man could inflict, was committed to the severest Judgment of the Divine Anathema, and to Eternal Destruction: As if those pious Men of old would have said, Let the Lord come, and smite him with Eternal Perdition; Let him be reserved to the coming of the Judge of the whole World, that he may perish by his Everlasting Curse.

Ver. 23. The Grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all.

Ver. 24. My love be with you all in Christ Jesus. Amen.

THE PREFACE TO THE Second Epiſtle of St. PAUL TO THE CORINTHIANS.

THAT this Epiſtle was writ a year after the firſt, is probably collected from theſe words, Chap. 9. 2. Achaia was ready a year ago; for he having given Inſtructions for the Collection only at the Cloſe of his firſt Epiſtle, they could not have the forwardneſs here mentioned before that time. Now that the firſt Epiſtle was written early in the Year 55. or 57. appears from theſe words in it, I will ſtay at Epheſus till Pentecoſt, Chap. 16. 8. For he ſtaid ſome conſiderable time in Aſia; after his purpoſe to leave Epheſus, and go to Macedonia, Acts 19. 21, 22. and yet making here his Apology for not wintering at Corinth, as he thought to do, 1 Cor. 16. 6. this Epiſtle muſt be writ after Winter, and ſo when a new Year was begun. It therefore ſeems to be written after his ſecond coming to Macedonia mentioned, Acts 20. 3. For (1.) 'twas written after he had been at Troas, and had left the place to return to Macedonia; now that was at his ſecond going thither. See Note on Chap. 2.12. (2.) 'Twas written when Timothy was with him; now when he left Epheſus to go into Macedonia, Timothy went not with him, but was ſent before him, Acts 19. 22. but at his ſecond going through Macedonia, Timothy was with him, Acts 20. 4. (3.) He ſpeaks of ſome Macedonians that were like to come with him, Chap. 9. 4. Now at his ſecond going from Macedonia, there accompanied him Ariſtarchus, Secundus, and Gaius of Theſſalonica the Metropolis of Macedonia; Acts 20. 4. And (4.) the Poſtſcript ſaith this Epiſtle was written from Philippi, as we find it in Theodoret and Oecumenius, where St. Paul was till the days of Unleavened Bread, Acts 20. 6. It therefore ſeems to be ſent from thence to them by Titus, and ſome other Perſon, not long before Paul's coming to them, which he ſpeaks of as inſtant, Chap. 13. 1. and that which he was now ready to do, Chap. 12. 14. and did, ſaith Dr. Lightfoot, in his Journey from Philippi to Troas; he ſailing about from Philippi to Corinth, to make good his promiſe; whileſt the reſt that were with him, Acts 20. 4. went directly the next Cut to Troas, and there waited for him.

A Paraphraſe and Comment UPON THE Second Epiſtle of Paul the Apoſtle TO THE CORINTHIANS.

CHAP. I.

Verſe 1. PAUL an Apoſtle of Jeſus Chriſt, by the will of God, and Timothy our Brother, to the Church of God which is at Corinth, with all the Saints which are in all Achaia.

All the Saints.] i.e. Chriſtians. See Note on 1 Cor. 1. 1.

Ver. 2. Grace be (given) to you, and peace from God the Father, and from the Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

χάρις ϗ εἰρήνη, Grace and Peace.] May that Grace and Favour of God, on which your Salvation and Happineſs depends, Tit. 2. 11. and that Peace which paſſeth underſtanding, Philip. 4. 7. and is the Effect of the Divine Favour, be continually with you, and derived from God the Father the Fountain of all Bleſſings, and from Jeſus Chriſt the Procurer and Diſpenſer of them, 1 Cor. 1. 4. Eph. 1. 3.

And from our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.] See Note on 1 Cor. 1. 3.

Ver. 3. Bleſſed be God, even (our God, and) the Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, the Father of Mercies, and the God of all Comfort.

Καὶ Πατὴρ, the Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.] Why, ſaith Schihtingius, ſhould God be ſtiled thus, the Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, if Chriſt be God equally with the Father, ſeeing by being thus diſtinguiſhed from God, he ſeems to be denied to be God.

I anſwer, He is by theſe words denied to be God the Father, ſince that would render him Father to himſelf; but his being thus diſtinguiſhed from God the Father, hinders not his being God of God the Father, who by way of Eminency is ſometimes abſolutely ſtiled God, becauſe he is the Fountain of the Deity. For as the words our Lord, aſcribed here to Chriſt, do not exclude the Father from being our Lord, ſo the word God aſcribed to God the Father, excludes not Chriſt from being what St. Thomas ſtiles him, our Lord and our God, John 20. 28. And as God was under the Old Teſtament ſtiled the God of Abraham, Iſaac and Jacob, to confirm the Faith of the Jews in the Promiſes made to them, and their Seed, ſo is he uſually in the New Teſtament ſtiled the Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, to confirm to us his Love in Chriſt Jeſus, his beloved Son, in whom he is well pleaſed; and to aſſure us that he is, as here it follows, the Father of Mercies in the Plural, to ſignifie, according to the Hebrew way of ſpeaking, the Greatneſs, and Multitude of his Mercies, and the God of all Conſolation, as being the Giver of that Paraclyte, or Holy Spirit, whence all our Comforts are derived.

Ver. 4. Who comforteth us in all our Tribulations, (by that inward peace and earneſt of the Spirit, he gives under them,) that we may be able to comfort them which are in trouble, by the comfort wherewith we our ſelves are comforted of God.

In all our tribulations.] God's Servants never never wanting his Comforts in all their Sufferings for his ſake.

Ver. 5. For as the Sufferings of Chriſt abound in us, ſo our Conſolation alſo aboundeth by Chriſt.

Τὰ παθήματα τῦ Χριστῦ, the Sufferings of Chriſt.] The Sufferings of Chriſt's Members for his ſake are ſtiled his Sufferings, becauſe they are Evils inflicted on his Members out of Enmity to him, and by reaſon of their Myſtical Union to him, and the Sympathy he has with them in their Sufferings, Luke 10. 16. Acts 9. 4. Iſa. 63. 9. Hence is he ſaid συμπάσχειν to ſuffer with us in our Infirmities, Hebr. 4. 15. But when the Greek Fathers add here, That (a) Chriſt ſuffered more in his Members then he did in his own Perſon; this ſounds harſh in the Ears of moſt Divines, and ſhews they had not thoſe thoughts of our Lord's Sufferings and Satisfaction which we have.

Ἡ παράκλησις ἡμῶν, our Conſolation.] Abounds by Chriſt, becauſe as he promiſed, ſo he conferr'd the Spirit of Conſolation on thoſe who ſuffer'd for his ſake; ſo that though they received the Word with much Affliction, they did it alſo with joy in the Holy Ghoſt, 1 Theſſ. 1. 6. having the Spirit of Faith, 2 Cor. 4. 13. of Glory, and of God reſting on them, 2 Tim. 1. 7. 1 Pet. 4. 14. See here v. 21, 22.

Ver. 6. And whether we be afflicted, it is for your conſolation and ſalvation, which is effectual (Gr. wrought) in (or by) the enduring the ſame ſufferings which we alſo ſuffer, (and which by our Example you are encouraged to endure;) or whether we be comforted, it is for your conſolation and ſalvation, (which is accompliſhed by your patient perſeverance under all your Sufferings, Matth. 5. 12. 24. 13. 2 Cor. 4. 17. 2 Tim. 2. 11, 12. James 1. 12.)

Ver. 7. And our hope of you is ſtedfaſt, knowing that as you are partakers of the ſufferings (we endure, 1 Cor. 10. 13.) ſo ſhall ye be alſo of the conſolation (we enjoy in all our ſufferings).

Ver. 8. (Our Sufferings, I ſay,) For we would not, Brethren, have you ignorant of our trouble which came to us in Aſia, that we were preſſed out of meaſure, above ſtrength, inſomuch that we deſpaired even of life.

Ver. 9. But we (thereſore) had the ſentence of death in our ſelves, that we ſhould not truſt in our ſelves, but in God that raiſeth the dead.

Ver. 10. Who (then) delivered us from ſo great a death, and (daily) doth deliver us, in whom we truſt that he will yet deliver us.

Ἐκ τηλικύτυ θανάτυ, from ſo great a death.] Moſt Interpreters refer what is ſaid in theſe three laſt Verſes to the Commotion raiſed againſt Paul by Demetrius at Epheſus, Acts 19. from v. 26. to the end of that Chapter. But we read not that in that Commotion any Hands were laid upon St. Paul, or that he ſuffered any thing. He therefore had no occaſion from it to ſay, that he was preſſed above meaſure, and above ſtrength, ſo as to deſpair of Life; that he had the Sentence of Death within him; and that he was delivered from ſo great a death, and as it were raiſed from the dead; theſe high Expreſſions rather ſeem to ſignifie that he indeed was put to flight with Beaſts at Epheſus, (as he ſpeaks 1 Cor. 15. 32. See the Note there,) and was by God delivered from them.

Ver. 11. You alſo helping together by Prayer for us, that for the gift beſtowed upon us (or the favour conferr'd on us) by the means of many perſons, thanks may be given by many on our behalf.

Συνυπουργούντων καὶ ὑμῶν ὑπὲρ ἡμῶν τῇ δεήσει, you alſo helping together by prayer for us.] Hence note, That the more Publick Prayers are, the more prevailing they will be; and alſo that God will be more glorified by the Thankſgivings rendred for the ſucceſs of them. But whereas Eſtius hence pleads for Prayers to the Souls of Saints departed, the practice of the Apoſtle here, and elſewhere, is a ſtrong Argument againſt them. For he paſſionately intreats the Chriſtians living at Rome, to ſtrive together with him in their prayers to God, Rom. 15. 30. the Corinthians to help together with him in prayer, 2 Cor. 1. 11. the Epheſians to pray for him with all perſeverance, Eph. 6 18, 19. the Coloſſians to continue in prayer for him, Coloſſ. 4. 1, 2, 3. the Theſſalonians to pray for him that the Word of the Lord might have free courſe, and be glorified, 1 Theſſ. 5. 25. and that he may be delivered from unreaſonable and wicked men, 2 Theſſ. 3. 1, 2. and the believing Jews to pray for him that he might ſooner be reſtored to them, Hebr. 13, 18, 19. But in all his Epiſtles we have not one Petition of like nature directed unto any Saint departed; whereas had he thought them capable of hearing him, and their Addreſſes more effectual for the ſame ends, we may reaſonably think his Zeal would have prompted him to put up his Requeſts unto them, and leave us ſome Examples of this nature.

Τὸ εἰς ἡμᾶς χάρισμα, the gift beſtowed upon us.] The word χάρισμα in the New Teſtament always importing a Spiritual Gift, muſt be interpreted here of the Gifts beſtowed on St. Paul for the diſcharge of his Apoſtolical Function; and if the right reading here be ὑπὲρ ἡμῶν, on our behalf, the ſenſe of this Verſe may run thus, We truſt that he will ſtill deliver us for the furtherance of the Goſpel, through the aſſiſtance of your Prayers, that ſo the Gift being exerciſed by us through the joynt ſuffrage of many perſons for the benefit of many, thanks may be returned by many for us. If ὑπὲρ ὑμῶν on your behalf, as other Copies have it, be the right reading, the ſenſe runs thus, I hope to be ſtill preſerved by your prayers for the benefit of the Church; that ſo the Gift beſtowed upon us, being made uſeful to the benefit of others by the prayers of ſo many, thanks may be given to God by many on your behalf. Which ſoever be the true reading, that he ſpeaks of the Spiritual Gift confer'd upon him, will be evident from the following words.

Ver. 12. For (in all our afflictions) our rejoycing is this, the teſtimony of our conſcience, that in ſimplicity and godly ſincerity, not with fleſhly wiſdom, but by the grace of God, we have had our converſation in this world, and more abundantly to you ward.

Ἐν χάριτι Θεοῦ, in the grace of God.] Τοῦτ' ἔστι σημείοις, καὶ τέρασιν, ἅπερ χαρίσματα ἦν Θεοῦ, (b) i.e. by Signs and Miracles; that is, according to the Wiſdom of the Spirit, and the miraculous Power given us by the Grace of God for the Propagation of the Goſpel; So St. Chryſoſtom. Which Expoſition, ſaith he, is confirmed from thoſe words, and more abundantly to you ward; for the Apoſtle's ſincerity and care to walk according to the Rules of the Goſpel, was every where the ſame, but the powerful Operations and Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt ſeem to have been more abundantly exerciſed by him in, and vouchſafed by him to the Church in which he ſtaid ſo long, and of which he had ſo particular a Promiſe that Chriſt would be with him in his preaching to them, Acts 18. 10, 11.

Ver. 13. (And of the truth of this you may reſt aſſured,) For we write no other things unto you (of it) then what you read (Gr. know, remember) or acknowledge; and I truſt you ſhall acknowledge, even to the end.

Ἀναγινώσκετε.] Ἃ αὐτοὶ ὑμεῖς ἴστε, which you your ſelves know, Chryſ. Τοῦτ' ἔστιν, ἀπομνημονεύετε, which you remember, Oecum. Theoph.

Ver. 14. As alſo you have acknowledged us in part, (i. e. as to the ſounder part of the Church. See Note on Chap. 2. 5. Though ſome have repreſented us as walking according to the fleſh, Chap. 10. 2. that we are (juſt matter of) your rejoycing, as ye alſo are (at preſent, and much more will be) ours in the day of the Lord Jeſus.

Ver. 15. And in this confidence (of you) I was minded to come to you before (this time,) that you might have a ſecond benefit (or grace.)

Δευτέραν χάριν, a ſecond benefit, or grace.] I coming to eſtabliſh you, Rom. 1. 11. and to promote your joy, v. 24. Hence it appears that the Apoſtle had been only once with them, when he writ this.

Ver. 16. And to paſs by you (though not ſo as to ſee you in that paſſage, 1 Cor. 16. 7.) into Macedonia, and to come again (Gr. and again to come) out of Macedonia to you, and of you to be brought on my way toward Judæa.

Καὶ δι' ὑμῶν διελθεῖν εἰς Μακεδονίαν, and to paſs by you into Macedonia.] Interpreters Ancient and Modern, are much troubled how to reconcile theſe words with what the Apoſtle had ſaid in his former Epiſtle, I will come unto you when I have paſſed through Macedonia, 1 Cor. 16. 5. For there he expreſly declares, his purpoſe was to go firſt to Macedonia, and then to come to Corinth from thence: Here, ſay they, he declares he purpoſed firſt to come to Corinth, and then to Macedonia, and return back again from Macedonia to Corinth; but the Apoſtle ſeems to ſay no more here, then he did there. There he declares that he would firſt go to Macedonia; but he adds alſo, that he would go from Epheſus, paſſing by them into Macedonia; ſaying alſo, that he would not then ſee them, ἐν παρόδῳ, in his paſſage by them, v. 7. and here he only ſaith, he purpoſed διελθεῖν to paſs by them into Macedonia; but ſaith not that he would call upon them in that paſſage, but only when he came again from Macedonia, and intended to go to Syria; which he did not, partly by reaſon of Titus his abſence, who was not yet returned to him to give him an account of their Affairs, but went again from Troas to Macedonia, 2 Cor. 2. 12. where he met Titus, Chap. 7. 5, 6. and partly by reaſon of the Jews, who way-laid him in his paſſage to Syria, Acts 20. 3. And for this delay, and non-performance of his purpoſe, that he came not from Macedonia the firſt time he went thither, to winter with them, he makes this Apology. See the Preface to this Epiſtle.

Ver. 17. When therefore I was thus minded, (or reſolved thus) did I (afterwards) uſe lightneſs (in changing this reſolution,) or the things that I purpoſe, do I purpoſe (them) according to the fleſh (or carnal intereſts,) that with me there ſhould be yea, yea, and (again) nay, nay, (i. e. inconſtancy and mutability to ſerve my carnal intereſts, ſo that you ſhould hence gather that in preaching the Goſpel of Chriſt, I walk according to the fleſh? Chap. 10. 2.

Κατὰ σάρκα, according to the fleſh.] Perhaps the Judaizers might object this, becauſe being in Greece, Acts 20. 2. and ſo near to Corinth, and having paſſed through Macedonia, he came not to go by them into Syria, becauſe the Jews laid wait for him by the way, but returned back to Macedonia without ſeeing them, v. 3. This, I ſay, they might inter-

Ver. 18. (No ſurely) But as (ſure as) God is true, our word towards you was not yea, and nay, (i. e. our preaching was not variable, we now ſaying one thing, anon another.)

Πιστὸς ὁ Θεὸς, but as God is true.] The Phraſe πιστὸς ὁ Θεὸς, God is faithful, is uſed where there is no Oath intended, as 1 Cor. 1. 9. God is faithful by whom we are called; and Chap. 10. 13. πιστὸς δὲ ὁ Θεὸς, but God is faithful, who will not ſuffer you to be tempted above what you are able. But here the Phraſe being uſed abſolutely, ſeems rather to be a form of ſwearing.

Οὐκ ἐγένετο ναὶ καὶ οὔ, was not yea and nay.] i. e. It was not with any variance, but by his aſſiſtance, we all ſaid ſtill the ſame thing, and promiſed the ſame advantages to thoſe that ſhould believe in Chriſt; or it was not the preaching of what was uncertain, but fully confirmed to you by the power we received from him. That this is the true import of this Phraſe, yea, yea, nay, nay, we learn from the Jews, from whom it is taken; for they ſay, (c) there is a yea which is as nay, and a nay which is as yea; viz. when a man aſſerts or denies a thing Ironically; but (d) the juſt mans yea is yea, and his nay is nay; that is, whatever he affirms, or denies, is true, and certain. When a man gives a Bill of divorce to his Wife, we try him, ſay they, three times, (e) whether his nay be nay, and his yea, yea, that is, whether he continue firm in his reſolution to divorce her. And whereas the Hebrew ſaith, that when Elijah ſaid to the Jews, How long will you halt betwixt two Opinions? if God be God, follow him; if Baal, follow him; the people anſwered him not a word, 1 Kings 18.21. The Jewiſh Gloſs runs thus, They would not ſay unto him yea or nay, becauſe they were doubtful. And whereas Exod. 20. 1. we read thus, And God ſpake all theſe words, ſaying, R. Solomon notes that the word לאמר teacheth that they anſwered to every yea yea, and to every no no; i.e. they engaged to do the affirmative, and not to do the negative Precepts.

Ver. 20. For all the promiſes of God in him are yea, and in him Amen, (i. e. are true and certain through him,) to the glory of God (demonſtrated in the confirmation of them) by us.

Or all the Promiſes of God made to you, are true and certain through Chriſt the Author of the New Covenant eſtabliſhed upon better promiſes, to the glory of that God who made them by us.

Ver. 21. Now he that ſtabliſheth us with you in (the doctrine of) Chriſt, and who hath anointed us (with the Holy Ghoſt) is God.

Ver. 22. Who hath alſo (thus) ſealed us (up to the day of redemption, Eph. 4. 30.) and given us the earneſt of the Spirit (to be the pledge and aſſurance of it, 2 Cor. 5. 5. Eph. 1. 13, 14.) See Note on 1 Cor. 1. 5, 6, 7, 8.

Ὁ καὶ σφραγισάμενος ἡμᾶς, who hath ſealed us.] Sealing was uſed not only as a mark of Diſtinction of what belongs to us, from what is others, but alſo for Confirmation; as when we ſet our Seal to a Bond, Indenture, Will, Covenant, or Ordinance; to a Covenant, Neh. 9. 38. to an Evidence, Jer. 32. 10. to an Ordinance, that it may not be reverſed, 1 Kings 21. 8. Eſth. 8. 8. Iſa. 8. 16. In which ſenſe the Circumciſion of Abraham is ſtiled a Seal of the Righteouſneſs of Faith, Rom. 4. 11. and the Corinthians, The Seal of St. Pauls Apoſtleſhip. For Preſervation and Security, as when we ſeal up our Treaſures, Deut. 32. 34. ſo the Servants of God were ſealed in their foreheads, Rev. 7. 3. 9. 4. ſo the foundation of God ſtandeth ſure, having the ſeal; the Lord knoweth who are his, 2 Tim. 2. 19. and ſo the Jews made the Sepulchre ſecure, ſealing the ſtone, Matth. 27. 66. In all which ſenſes was the Holy Spirit given to Believers, as a Mark that they belonged to Chriſt, Rom. 8. 9. and were the Sons of God, Gal. 4. 6. As a Confirmation of the Covenant God had made with them, and of the Bleſſings promiſed, he being the Earneſt and Pledge of them, and ſo a Security to them againſt doubting of them; and alſo a Preſerver of them in the Faith againſt all Temptations, 2 Tim. 1. 7. 1 Pet. 4. 14.

Ver. 23. (It was not therefore out of lightneſs,) But I call God for a record upon my ſoul, that (it was meerly) to ſpare you, (that) I came not yet unto Corinth.

Μάρτυρα τὸν Θεὸν ἐπικαλοῦμαι ἐπὶ τὴν ἐμὴν ψυχὴν, I call God to record upon my ſoul.] The Apoſtle ſwears ſo oft in this Epiſtle, that I think it not amiſs to give an account of the reaſon of his doing ſo; which may be beſt done from the conſideration of the Occaſion, the Reaſon, and the End of Aſſertory Oaths, which are the only Oaths he uſeth.

1*ſt*, Then, there muſt be ſome ἀπιστία, i. e. ſome doubting of, or contradiction to the thing aſſerted, which muſt give occaſion to an aſſertory Oath, Hebr. 6. 16. there being no need to confirm what no body doubts of in this ſolemn manner. Now in the Church of Corinth, the Authority and the Sincerity of the Apoſtle was much doubted of, he being acknowledged of them but in part, v.14. ſome ſeeking ſtill a proof of Chriſt ſpeaking by him, Chap. 13. 3. and others looking on him as one that walked after the fleſh, Chap. 10. 2. this therefore gave occaſion to the aſſertory Oaths ſo frequent in this Epiſtle.

2*ly*, The end of an Oath is εἰς βεβαίωσιν, for confirmation of the thing aſſerted, Hebr. 6. 16. and if Oaths were allowed, and thought neceſſary in Civil Matters for this end, they muſt be more allowable in Sacred and Spiritual Matters, which concerned the Truth of the Goſpel, and the Salvation of Souls for the ſame end, which manifeſtly was here the Caſe.

3*ly*, The Matter thus confirmed by an Oath muſt be ſuch, as could not be ſufficiently confirmed by other Witneſſes of the Fact, he being only privy to them who doth thus confirm them; for where ſufficient Teſtimonies of the Matter of Fact can be produced, an Oath ſeems the leſs needful in the caſe. And that this was ſo in all the Inſtances in which the Apoſtle thus confirms his ſayings, will be eaſily diſcerned from the peruſal of the places in which the Apoſtle thus aſſerts the Truth of what he had affirmed, viz. Chap. 1. 18, 23. 11. 10, 11, 31. 12. 19.

Ver. 24. (Yet this I ſay) Not as we have dominion over your faith, but are helpers of your joy, for by faith you ſtand, (τῇ γὰρ πίστει ἑστήκατε, for ye have ſtood in the faith.)

Τῇ γὰρ πίστει ἑστήκατε, for you have ſtood in the faith.] Τῆς μὲν πίστεως ἄνεχω ἐξουσίαν ὑμῖν ἐπιμέφομαι, τῷ γὰρ ταύτης ὑγιείαν προσηκάμην, Theodoret. that is, I do not by this Threat challenge to my ſelf a power to exerciſe any dominion over you on the account of your Faith, as I did upon Hymenetus and Alexander, 1 Tim. 1. 10. and intend to do upon ſome of your falſe Teachers, when your obedience is fulfilled, Chap. 10. 6. For I acknowledge you have generally ſtood firm in the Profeſſion of the Chriſtian Faith, (though ſome among you once queſtioned the great Article of the Reſurrection of the Body, 1 Cor. 15. 12.) but I deſire by it to excite you to cure your Diviſions, and Contentions, and reform your groſs Miſcarriages, Chap. 12. 20, 21. that ſo I may not be found towards you ſuch as you would not, not create to you any farther trouble, but may be a promoter of that joy which you will find in ſuch a Reformation of your ſelves.

CHAP. II.

Ver. 2. For if I (be conſtrained by your diſorders to) make you ſorry, who is it then that maketh me glad, but he that is made ſorry by me; i. e. what can make me glad but the Reformation, and ſo the Joy of the ſame Perſons: Whence note, that the Apoſtles chiefeſt Joy was in the welfare of his Converts, Chap. 1. 14. Philip. 2. 2, 16. 4. 1. 1 Theſſ. 2. 19, 20.

Καὶ τίς ἐστιν, who is it then.] The Hebrew Vau, rendred by καὶ, is very often in our Tranſlation then, See Gen. 13. 16. 24. 41. 28. 21. 31. 8. 42. 34, 38. Exod. 6. 1. 7. 9, 11. Lev. 4. 3, 14, 23, 28. 5. 5. 6. 4. Numb. 5. 15, 21. Deut. 6. 21. 8. 10. Joſ. 1. 15. 24. 12. 1 Sam. 1. 11. 6. 9. Ver. 3. And I wrote the ſame to you, (or this very thing have I written to you before my coming, to excite you to this Reformation,) leaſt when I came I ſhould have ſorrow from them of whom I ought to rejoyce, having confidence in you all, that (you ſtand ſo affected to me, that) my joy, is the joy of you all.

Ver. 4. (I ſay, leaſt I ſhould have ſorrow,) For out of much affliction and anguiſh of heart, I wrote unto you (my former Epiſtle,) with many tears, (which yet I ſay) not that you ſhould be grieved (or made ſorry,) but that you may know the love which I have more abundantly to you.

Ἐκ πολλῆς θλίψεως, with much affliction, &c.] As the Apoſtles zeal for the Good of Souls made him rejoyce at their welfare, v. 2. ſo alſo did it cauſe him to weep for their Miſcarriages, Acts 20. 19, 31. 2 Cor. 12. 21. Philip. 3. 18.

Ver. 5. But if any hath cauſed grief, (as the inceſtuous perſon hath already done) he hath not grieved me (only,) but in part, that I may not overcharge (or be too heavy upon him) you all.

Ἀπὸ μέρους, in part.] This Phraſe is commonly uſed by St. Paul for the diſtinction of one ſort of Perſons from another. So Rom. 11. 25. Blindneſs hath happened to Iſrael, ἀπὸ μέρους, as to the unbelieving part of them, Rom. 15. 15. I have written the more boldly to you ἀπὸ μέρους in part, i. e. as to that part of you who are Gentiles, declaring that I was called by Jeſus Chriſt to be the Apoſtle of the Gentiles, 2 Cor. 1. 14. You have acknowledged me ἀπὸ μέρους in part; i. e. as to the ſound part of you; and according to this uſe of the Phraſe the words may be paraphraſed thus, He hath not only grieved me, but as to the ſound part, you all; for there were ſome among them who grieved not for this Crime, but were puffed up, 1 Cor.

5. 2. I therefore ſay in part, that I may not too much load that miſerable perſon.

Ver. 6. Sufficient to ſuch a man is this puniſhment which was inflicted by many.

Ἡ ἐπιτιμία αὕτη ἡ ὑπὸ τῶν πλειόνων, this puniſhment, &c.] Some learned Perſons, who exclude the Laity from having any ſhare in the Excommunication, or Abſolution of publick Offenders, tell us this Puniſhment was inflicted only by the Clergy, or the Presbytery of Corinth in the preſence of the Laity. But it ſeems clear in both theſe Epiſtles that the Apoſtle writes to the Church of Corinth, in the general. When he commands that the inceſtuous Perſon ſhould be excluded from their Society, and be delivered up to Satan, he ſpeaks to all that were to aſſemble together, 1 Cor. 5. 4. to all that ought to have mourned for that Fact, v. 2. to all that were obliged to abſtain from eating with him, v. 11. and aſſerts the power they had of judging thoſe that were within the Church, v. 12. And here, ſpeaking of the Execution of that Sentence, he ſaith, it was ἐπιτιμία a puniſhment inflicted, not πρὸ before only, but ὑπὸ τῶν πλειόνων, by the Community. Hence he exhorts them all to forgive, and comfort him, v. 8. adding v. 10. That to whomſoever you forgive any thing, I forgive alſo; but there is not in this whole Affair the leaſt mention of any of the Clergy ſeparately from the Church either executing, or relaxing this Cenſure. Indeed, St. Paul here carries the matter ſo high, that he alone, by his Apoſtolical Authority, paſſeth the Sentence, ſaying, ἤδη κέκρικα, I have already judged him, 1 Cor. 5. 3. and alſo that of Abſolution, ſaying here v. 10. ἐγὼ κεχάρισμαι, I have forgiven him, committing only the Execution of each Sentence to them; ſo that this Inſtance gives no colour to the Pretences of the Independants and other Sectaries, eſpecially if we add, what is highly probable, that the Corinthian Church had then no ordinary or ſettled Governours or Paſtors, but all their Offices were performed by Prophets, or Men enabled to perform them by the Gift of Propheſy. See Note on 1 Cor. 14. 29. And if ſo, it cannot be expected that the ſame practiſe ſhould continue when theſe extraordinary Prophets ceaſed, and Biſhops and Paſtors were every where appointed to Rule over their reſpective Flocks. In the Primitive Church, when any Perſon was to be Excommunicated, the Laity were firſt conſulted about the Fact, the guilty Perſon pleaded in their preſence, they Judged of the Matter of Fact, as do our Juries in Criminal Cauſes, and by their Suffrage they conſented to his Condemnation, as (a) St. Cyprian doth oft inform us; but then he ſtill aſſerts that neither they, nor the inferiour Clergy, could paſs the Sentence of Excommunication without the (b) Biſhop, who, as the Preſident of the Aſſembly, ſtill pronounced the Sentence. They alſo conſented to the Re-admiſſion of them into favour, and to the Communion of the Church; but then their actual admiſſion was performed by the (c) impoſition of the hands of the Biſhop and Clergy, the Power of the Keys, ſaith he, being given to them by Chriſt, ſaying, Thou art Peter.

Ver. 7. So that contrariwiſe, you ought rather now to forgive him, and comfort him, (by receiving him again into the Church, which is the proper conſolation of one caſt out, then continue your averſation to him,) leſt perhaps ſuch a one ſhould be ſwallowed up with overmuch ſorrow, (and ſo fall into deſpair.)

Note. Hence it appears that in notorious Crimes, which give great cauſe of Scandal to the Church, and to Chriſtianity, the conſolation of the Offender depends not only on his inward Grief, and Repentance towards God, but alſo on the Relaxation of his Cenſures by the Church; for it is certain that the Apoſtle is here ſpeaking, not as Grotius thinks, of the taking off the Diſeaſe which Satan had inflicted on the inceſtuous Perſon, but of reſtoring him to Communion by Relaxation of the Churches Cenſures. For 1. the word ἐπιτιμία, puniſhment, v. 6. refers to the Canonical Cenſures of the Church. 2. He commands them not only χαρίζεσθαι, to forgive, v. 7, 10. but alſo to confirm their love to him; both which Expreſſions plainly ſeem to intimate that he would have him reſtored to Communion, and this he would have performed according to the Diſcipline now mentioned from St. Cyprian, with the conſent of the pious Laity.

Ver. 8. Wherefore I (who commanded the inflicting of this Cenſure on him, do now) beſeech you to confirm your Love towards him, (by re-admitting him, thus penitent, to your Society, for the Church ought, after the example of God, to do ſo.)

Ver. 9. For to this end alſo did I write, (ἔγραψα, have I written this) that I might know the proof of you, whether ye be obedient (to me) in all things.

Ver. 10. (And be aſſured of this, that) To whom you forgive any thing, I forgive (it,) for if I forgive (Gr. have forgiven heretofore) to whom I forgave it, for your ſakes I forgave it, (though I did it) in the Perſon

This place teaches us, ſaith Slictingius, That the Providence of Chriſt reacheth to, and inſpecteth not only our actions, but even our minds and thoughts. Hence then I argue for his Godhead, God alone being the Searcher of the Heart, and of the Secrets of it, 1 Kings 8. 39.

(And this forgiveneſs of the inceſtuous perſon I therefore preſs) Leſt Satan ſhould get an advantage of us, (by hurrying him into deſpair, or repreſenting the Church Diſcipline as that which tendeth to mens ruine, and ſo tempting him to Apoſtacy,) for we are not ignorant of his deviſes.

Note. Vain here is all the diſcourſe of Eſthius concerning Indulgences, or the Remiſſion of the Satisfaction required by the Church, for the Apoſtle here ſpeaks only of the Remiſſion of his Excommunication, and hath not one word of any Satisfaction the inceſtuous Perſon had voluntarily undertaken on the account of his Offence, or any thing impoſed on him to do on that account, but only of a delivery of him to Satan, and an Excluſion of him from the Church, in both which he was paſſive.

Ver. 12. Furthermore (that ye may know my great concernment for you) when I came to Troas to preach Chriſts Goſpel, and a door was opened to me of the Lord, (for the propagation of it there:)

Ver. 13. I had (notwithſtanding) no reſt in my ſpirit, becauſe I found not Titus my brother, (whom I had ſent to know the ſtate of your affairs, returned,) but taking my leave of them, I went from thence into Macedonia, (hoping to find him there, where he arrived, and gave me a very comfortable account of you.)

Ἐλθὼν εἰς τὴν Τρωάδα, but coming to Troas.] That this was not the firſt time of St. Paul's coming to Troas is plain, ſeeing we find him there long before, Acts 16. 8. though then he ſeems to have ſtaid there but a Night; it was not the time mentioned Acts 20. 6. for then he came from Macedonia to Troas, here he goes from Troas to Macedonia. It remains then that it was ſome intermediate time, which all Interpreters I meet with, think was in his way from Epheſus to Macedonia, Acts 20. 1. but at his firſt journey from Epheſus to Macedonia he ſailed not by Troas, but by Corinth, though not touching there. See Note on Chap. 1. 16. It was then after, paſſing through thoſe parts, he came by Troas into Greece, and if ſo, this Epiſtle could not be written till after St. Paul's coming the ſecond time to Macedonia. See the Preface.

Ver. 14. Now thanks (therefore) be to God who always cauſeth us to triumph in (and through) Chriſt, and maketh manifeſt by us the ſavour of his knowledge in every place (where we come).

Ver. 15. For we are unto God a ſweet ſavour (in our preaching) of Chriſt, (both) in them that are ſaved, and in them that periſh.

Ver. 16. To the one (viz. to them that periſh for rejecting Chriſt preached to them) we are the ſavour of death unto death, and to the other (who believe in him) the ſavour of life unto life: and who is ſufficient for theſe (great and weighty) things?

Ὀσμὴ ζωῆς εἰς ζωήν, θανάτου εἰς θάνατον, a ſavour of life and death.] Here is a continual alluſion to the Phraſeology of the Jews, who ſpeak from the Prophets of a סם המות (d) a mortal ſavour, or as the Chaldee ſaith סמא דמחוא Eſth. 2. 21. Jer. 11. 19. and of סם החיים a ſavour of life, or a vital unguent, and ſaying of the Law, that it is to Iſrael a ſavour of life, but to the Nations of the world a ſavour of death, of which the Apoſtle ſeemeth here to give the reverſe, ſaying the Goſpel was to them, as being the Rejecters of it, the ſavour of death; but to the Gentiles, who embraced it, the ſavour of life.

Ver. 17. (We are, I ſay, very acceptable to God in this work,) For we are not as many, who corrupt the word of God, but (all) as (men) of ſincerity, as (commiſſionated) of God, (and as) in the ſight of God ſpeak we (in preaching) Chriſt (unto you.)

Καπηλεύοντες τὸν λόγον, who corrupt the word.] Here is an alluſion to thoſe Huckſters of whom the Prophet Iſaiah ſpeaks, ſaying οἱ κάπηλοί σου μίσγουσι τὸν οἶνον ὕδατι, thy Vintners mix wine with water, Iſai. 1. 22. and ſo the meaning of the words is this, We do not adulterate the Sincerity of the Word, as your falſe Apoſtles do.

Who theſe Corrupters of the Word of God were, we learn from Chap. 11. 22. where it is evident that they were not Samaritans, but Jews, not Pretenders to be the Chriſt, or Miniſters of S. Magus, but Miniſters of Chriſt, or ſuch as own'd our Jeſus, not S. Magus, or Doſitheus, to be Chriſt; notwithſtanding a Reverend Perſon aſſerts that they were Gnoſticks; and to this Opinion he is inclined by two Paſſages in the Epiſtles of Ignatius: The firſt is in the Epiſtle to the Magneſians, where, ſaith he, ſpeaking of the Gnoſtick Judaizers, as Enemies of the Croſs of Chriſt, whoſe God is their Belly, who mind earthly things, Philip. 3. 18, 19. who were lovers of pleaſures, and not lovers of God, having a form of godlineſs, but denying the power of it, he adds, that they were οἱ χρισέμποροι, τὸν λόγον καπηλεύοντες, καὶ τὸν Ἰησοῦν πωλοῦντες, Merchants of Chriſt, huckſtering the Word, ſelling Jeſus. But

1. The Gnoſticks were ſo far from being Judaizers, that they denied the God of the Jews, declared that he was not the Supreme God, and taught Men to deſpiſe the Law and the Prophets. See Note on Coloſſ. 2. 12.

2. All theſe Epithets or Characteriſticks agree perfectly to the Jewiſh falſe Teachers; they were the Men of whom the Apoſtle ſaith, their God is their belly, &c. as both (e) St. Chryſoſtom and Theodoret inform us. They were the Men who were lovers of Pleaſures more then God, and who had a form of godlineſs, which the impure Gnoſticks had not. See Note on 2 Tim. 3. 5. The Jews alſo were the Perſons who bought Chriſt for thirty pieces of Silver; they corrupted the Word here, by mixing the Law and their Traditions with the Goſpel, and they made a Gain of Chriſt. See Note on 1 Tim. 6. 5. So that what is here cited from the Ninth Section of this Epiſtle, agrees exactly to them.

3. It chiefly is to be obſerved, that theſe words are not in the true Ignatius, but are the Additions of his Interpolator. And 2*ly*, that there is not one word in this place to ſhew that they belonged to the Gnoſticks, or to any other Perſons who owning the profeſſion of the Chriſtian Faith corrupted it; but are expreſly ſaid to belong (f) to ſuch Enemies of Chriſt as denied him. Whereas the true Ignatius is plainly in this place ſpeaking of the (g) Jews, of whom we interpret this, and the ſame is alſo evident from the Interpolator.

The ſecond paſſage is cited from the Epiſtle ad Trallianos, where he ſaith, There are ſome vain Speakers and Impoſtors, not Chriſtians, but Merchants of Chriſt, Ἀπίτω ἀφορμὴν τὸ ὄνομα τοῦ Χριστοῦ, καὶ καπηλεύοντες τὸν λόγον τῆς εὐαγγελίου, carrying the Name of Chriſt for deceit, huckſtering the word of the Goſpel; 'and who theſe 'were he ſpecifies in the proceſs of the Epiſtle, 'viz. Simon the firſt-born of Satan, Menander, 'Baſilides, the unclean Nicolaitans, τὰς ψευδωνύμους, thoſe that are falſly named, that is, the 'Gnoſticks. But here again,

1. We have not the true Ignatius, but his Interpolator impoſed upon us.

2. This Interpolator doth not ſay thoſe Perſons falſly named were the Gnoſticks; No, that is the Doctors Interpretation againſt the true ſenſe of the Greek; and the manifeſt words of the old Interpreter, who ſays they were the (h) Nicolaitans, ſo called, becauſe they falſly bore his Name, he being no ſuch Perſon as they repreſented him. And indeed this is the common Epithete of the (i) Nicolaitans; he himſelf by (k) Clemens Alexandrinus and others, being declared free from the Doctrines theſe Hereticks vented in his Name. And

3. This Interpolator plainly inſinuates, that in the Section cited by the Doctor, he means the (l) Judaizers, as uſing the ſame words which he had uſed in the Epiſtle to the Magneſians concerning them.

CHAP. III.

Verſe 1. DO we (by ſpeaking thus of our ſincerity, Chap. 2. 17.) begin again to commend our ſelves, or need we as ſome others (have) Epiſtles of commendation to you, or Letters of commendation from you (to others?)

Εἰ μὴ χρήζομεν, Do we need.] Theſe Particles εἰ μὴ often ſignifie num in the Old Teſtament; εἰ μὴ ἔφαγες, haſt thou eaten of the Tree, Gen. 3. 11. See Gen. 4. 9. 18. 4, 17, 23, 27, 38. 30. 15. 31. 14. 41. 38. 43. 7. So μὴ alſo ſignifies, 1 Cor. 9. 4. μὴ οὐκ ἔχομεν ἐξουσίαν, have we not power; and v. 8.

Συστατικῶν ἐπιστολῶν, Letters of Commendation.] That Commendatory Epiſtles were ancient in the Church we learn from (a) Ter-

(a) Hæretici nullum jus capiunt Chriſtianarum literarum. Preſcript. c. 37. Vide c. 20. tullian tullian, and (b) St. Cyprian. And that they had their riſe from the Teſſeræ hoſpitalitatis among the Heathens, is the Opinion of the Reverend Dr. Hammond on the place.

Ver. 2. Ye are our Epiſtle written in our hearts, (you being always in our minds, and evidently appearing to us ſo to be, and) known, and read of all men (who have heard the fame of your Converſion.)

Ἐγγεγραμμένη ἐν ταῖς καρδίαις ἡμῶν, written in our hearts.] This is a frequent Phraſe in the Old Teſtament, and among the Jewiſh Doctors, importing (1.) The clearneſs and perſpicuity of what is ſaid to be thus in our hearts, Deut. 30. 11, 14, 15. Rom. 10. 8, 9. And (2.) our care to have it continually in our hearts, and upon our ſpirits, Deut. 6. 6. Prov. 3. 3. 7. 2. See this proved Note on Hebr. 8. 10.

And thus the Phraſe is commonly uſed in Prophane Authors, both Greek and Latine: Thus Antiſthenes ſaith to one that had loſt his Regiſter or Note-Book, Thou ſhouldſt (c) ἐν τῇ ψυχῇ αὖτε, καὶ μὴ ἐν ταῖς χάρταις γεγράφθαι, write theſe things in thy Soul, and not in thy Papers. So (d) Seneca ſaith of Portius Latro, who made no uſe of Books, or Notes, ajebat ſe ſcribere in animo, he ſaid he wrote all things in his mind. So (e) Terence, Scripta illa dicta ſunt in animo Chryſidis: which in (f) Pindar is, ἐγγεγραπται ταῖς φρεσὶν, theſe words are written in the mind of Chryſis.

So that theſe words may be thus paraphraſed, We need no Letters of Commendation to you, for we well know, and have continually in remembrance, how powerfully God wrought with us for your Converſion, ſo that the Seal of our Apoſtleſhip are you in the Lord, 1 Cor. 9. 2. The ſigns of an Apoſtle being wrought among you in all patience, in ſigns, wonders, and in mighty deeds, 2 Cor. 12. 12. So that you are our beſt Letters commendatory to your ſelves. Nor need we Letters of Commendation from you to others, the Fame of your Converſion by us, and of the Gifts we, with the Goſpel, have imparted to you, being ſpread throughout the World.

Ver. 3. Foraſmuch as ye are (by this Converſion) manifeſtly declared to be the Epiſtle of Chriſt miniſtred (or penn'd) written not with the Spirit of the living God; not in tables of ſtone, (as was the Ten Commandments) but in the fleſhly tables of your hearts.

Ἐπιστολὴ Χριστοῦ, the Epiſtle of Chriſt.] His commendatory Epiſtle declaring and commending his power in their Converſion by ſuch ſigns and gifts of the Holy Ghoſt imparted to you, and exerciſed by us among you, as he enabled us to do. And this Epiſtle is written in the fleſhly Tables of your Hearts, i. e. in your Hearts made ſoft, pliable, and ready to obey the Word by the operation of the Holy Spirit, according to the promiſe, I will take away the ſtony heart from you, and give you an heart of fleſh, Ezek. 11. 19. 36. 26.

Ver. 4. And ſuch (confidence, or) truſt have we through (the grace and favour of) Chriſt to God-ward, (viz. that he will ſtill thus efficaciouſly aſſiſt our miniſtry.]

Ver. 5. Not (having any confidence in our ſelves) that we are ſufficient of our ſelves to think any thing as of our ſelves, (to bring men to the faith of Chriſt by our own reaſonings, without the power and aſſiſtance of the Spirit of God,) but our ſufficiency (as to the matter) is of God (alone.)

Λογίσασθαί τι, to reaſon any thing as of our ſelves.] The Apoſtle in the Second Chapter of his firſt Epiſtle, contends that there was a neceſſity of a Divine Revelation to enable them to make known to us the Truth contained in the Goſpel, becauſe Humane Reaſon, without it, was not able to know, or to diſcern them, and therefore here alſo he diſclaims the ſufficiency as of themſelves without Divine aſſiſtance for this work; that is, without thoſe illuminations and powerful operations of the Holy Spirit, which made them able Miniſters of the New Teſtament. This Text therefore is impertinently cited to ſhew that no Man is ſufficient of himſelf to think a good thought, and might as well have been produced to prove him not ſufficient of himſelf to think at all.

Ver. 6. Who hath alſo made us able Miniſters of the New Teſtament (promiſed in oppoſition to the Old, Jer. 31. 33. and ſo) not of the letter only, (as was that of Moſes) but of the Spirit (promiſed, Ezek. 36. 27.) for the letter (of the Law condemns the diſobedient, and ſo) killeth, but the Spirit (miniſtred by the Goſpel) giveth life, for if the Spirit of him that raiſed Jeſus from the dead dwell in you, he that raiſed up Chriſt from the dead, ſhall alſo quicken your mortal Bodies by his Spirit that dwelleth in you, Rom. 8. 11.)

Γράμμα ἀποκτέννει, the Letter killeth.] From the Expoſition of theſe words given in the Paraphraſe, it appears how vain are the imaginations of thoſe Men, who by the killing Letter underſtand not the Law condemning to death, but the literal and hiſtorical ſenſe of the Scriptures in general; and by the life giving Spirit, the myſtical and ſpiritual ſenſe of it. Vain alſo is Mr. Cl. who by the Letter underſtands the Law as it was underſtood by the Jewiſh Doctors in a literal or grammatical ſenſe, by the Spirit the Mind of the Lawgiver; it being evident from the whole Chapter, that by the Letter the Apoſtle underſtands the Law engraven in ſtones, v. 3, 7. the Law as delivered by Moſes, and as at firſt adminiſtred with an appearance of the Glory of the Lord, and by the Spirit the Spirit of Chriſt, v. 17. or the Holy Spirit given to the Apoſtles to enable them to preach the Goſpel, and conferr'd on thoſe that believed it.

Ver. 7. But (then) if (that Law which is) the miniſtration of death (and was) written, and engraven in ſtones was glorious, (in the Miniſter of it) ſo that the children of Iſrael could not ſtedfaſtly behold the face of Moſes, for the glory of his countenance, which glory (yet was only ſuch as) was to be done away, (or vaniſh, as the Law was to do.)

Ver. 8. How ſhall not (that Goſpel which is) the miniſtration of the ſpirit, be rather glorious (both in it ſelf, and its Ambaſſadors.)

Ver. 9. For if (that Law which was) the miniſtration of condemnation (by pronouncing the ſentence of death upon all that did not perfectly obey it,) be (or was attended with) glory, much more doth (the Goſpel which is) the miniſtration of righteouſneſs (or of juſtification to life, Rom. 5. 18.) exceed in glory.

Ver. 10. For even that (Law) which was (made) glorious (at the firſt adminiſtration of it, may be ſaid to have) had no glory in this reſpect, by reaſon of the glory (of the Goſpel) which excelleth (and ſo eclipſeth it.)

Ver. 11. For if that which is (now) done away (and aboliſhed) were glorious, much more that which remaineth (for ever) is (to be) glorious.

That the alluſion here from Verſe the 7th, to the 11th, may be the better underſtood, let it be noted

1*ſt*, That the glory of God, or of the Lord in the Old Teſtament, imports a bright light, or flame included in a Cloud, ſtiled the Cloud of Glory, and becauſe this, whenever it appeared, was a Symbol of God's glorious Preſence, it is ſtiled by the Jews (g) Shechinah, the Habitation. So Exod. 16. 7. In the morning ye ſhall ſee the glory of God; and v. 10. The glory of God abode upon mount Sinai, and the Cloud covered it ſix days, and the ſight of the glory of the Lord was like devouring fire. Exod. 40. 34. A Cloud covered the Tent of the Congregation, and the Glory of the Lord filled the Tabernacle, המשכן the Habitation of God. This Glory, ſaith the Author of (h) Coſri, is the Divine Light which God vouchſafeth to his People. By the Shechinah, ſaith Elias, we underſtand the Holy Spirit, as it is evident they do in theſe ſayings, The Shechinah will not dwell with ſorrowful or melancholy men. The Shechinah will only dwell with a ſtrong, rich, wiſe, and humble man. The Shechinah dwells with the Meek. When ten ſit, and ſtudy the Law, the Shechinah dwells among them. See many other Inſtances in Buxtorf's Lexicon, p. 2396. &c.

2*ly*, Obſerve, that after the Covenant made with God at Sinai, Exod. 24. 7, 8. was broken, and the Law given from Mount Sinai violated by the Idolatry of the Jews, in making and worſhipping the Golden Calf, Exod. 32. Moſes is again call'd up into Mount Sinai to renew it, Exod. 34. 27. and God there deſcends to him again in the Cloud of Glory, v. 5. and then was it that the ſkin of his face ſhone, to the terror of thoſe that ſaw him, ſo that he was forced to put a vail over his face, v. 29, 30. And the alluſion here is chiefly to this Glory, or ſhining Brightneſs of the Face of Moſes, when he received the Law the ſecond time, as is evident from v. 7. and from the words here uſed by St. Paul, οὐδὲ δεδόξασται τὸ δεδοξασμένον, that which was made glorious was not glorious; for they are the very words uſed by the Septuagint, concerning the ſhining of the face of Moſes, Δεδόξασται ἡ ὄψις τῆς χρωμάτος τοῦ προσώπου αὐτοῦ, Exod. 34. 29. καὶ οὐ δεδοξασμένη ἡ ὄψις, v. 30.

3*ly*, Obſerve, that as the Glory of the Lord deſcended on the Mount at the delivery of the Law, ſo to enable the Apoſtles to be able Miniſters of the New Teſtament, the Spirit of God deſcended on the Apoſtles at the Day of Pentecoſt, in the likeneſs of Cloven Tongues, or Tongues of Fire, ſitting upon them, Acts 2. 3. and as the Tabernacle and Temple were filled with the Glory of God, ſo were they all filled with the Holy Ghoſt, v. 4. And as the ſhining of the Face of Moſes ſignified the Glory of that Law which he delivered to the Jews, ſo the Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt ſhining forth in theſe Ambaſſadors of Chriſt, ſignified the Glory of his Goſpel. Now, ſaith the Apoſtle, this Glory is more excellent then that which attended the Law given by Moſes.

1. Becauſe the Glory appearing on Mount Sinai made the People afraid of Death, ſaying, Let not God ſpeak to us any more leſt we die, Ex. 20. 19. neither let us ſee this great fire any more, that we die not, Deut. 18. 16. And when the Face of Moſes ſhone, the People were afraid to come nigh him, Exod. 34. 30. for the Law being the Miniſtration of Death and Condemnation, even the Glory of it ſtruck a terrour into their hearts, and left a fear of Death upon their Spirits, and thus received they the Spirit of bondage unto fear, Rom. 8. 15. whilſt we have given to us the Spirit of Power and Love, 2 Tim. 1. 7. and the Spirit of Adoption, whereby we cry Abba, Father. And to this difference the Author to the Hebrews alludes, Chap. 12. 18——24.

2*ly*, Moſes with all his glory was only the Miniſter of the Law, written in Tables of Stone; the Apoſtles of the Goſpel written in the Hearts of Believers: He only gave to the Jews the killing Letter of the Law,

(g) See Buxt. Lex. p. 2398. (h) Part. 2. § 8.

they with the Goſpel gave the quickning Spirit.

3*ly*, The Glory which Moſes received at the giving of the Law, did more and more diminiſh, becauſe his Law was to vaniſh away; but the Glory which they received from Chriſt did increaſe from glory to glory, v. 18. the Doctrine they delivered by it being to remain for ever.

Ver. 12. Having therefore ſuch hope (of the glorious efficacy of our Miniſtry, and of the power of God ſo illuſtriouſly ſhining forth in it) we uſe great plainneſs (or boldneſs) of ſpeech.

Παῤῥησίᾳ.] This word ſeems to import openneſs and plainneſs of ſpeech. So he ſpake the ſaying παῤῥησίᾳ openly, Mark 8. 32. If thou art the Chriſt tell us παῤῥησίᾳ plainly, John 10. 24. Having ſpoiled principalities and powers, he triumphed over them ἐν παῤῥησίᾳ openly, Coloſſ. 2. 15. See John 7. 4, 13. 11. 14. 16. 25, 29. 18. 20. And to this ſenſe the oppoſition in theſe words, We uſe great plainneſs of ſpeech, and do not put a vail before our face, as Moſes did, ſeems to lead.

Ver. 13. And (act) not as Moſes (the Miniſter of the Law) who put a vail over his face, (even that of types and ſhadows, ſo) that the Children of Iſrael could not look to the end (or the accompliſhment) of that which is (now) aboliſhed.

Εἰς τὸ τέλος τοῦ καταργουμένου, to the end of that which was to be aboliſhed.] i. e. Either to Chriſt and his Goſpel, as the Body vailed under theſe Types and Shadows, Col. 2. 16, 17. or that they could not look unto that Chriſt, who is the End of the Law for Juſtification, Rom. 10. 4. that being only our Schoolmaſter to bring us to Chriſt, Gal. 3. 24, 25. And here is the 4*ly*, Excellency of the Goſpel above the Law, that whereas that was vailed under Types and Shadows, the Goſpel was delivered with great perſpicuity and plainneſs of ſpeech, which is a great confirmation of the perſpicuity of the New Teſtament in all things neceſſary.

Ver. 14. But their minds were (then, and ſtill are) blinded; for until this day remaineth the ſame vail untaken away in the reading of the Old Teſtament, which vail is (only) done away by (faith in) Chriſt.

Ver. 15. But (or whereas) they (not believing in him) even to this day, when Moſes is read, the vail is (ſtill) upon their hearts.

Ver. 16. Nevertheleſs (as when Moſes turned to the Lord the vail was taken from his face, Exod. 34. 34. ſo) when it (the Jewiſh Nation) ſhall turn to the Lord (Jeſus,) the vail ſhall be taken away (from them.)

Ἡνίκα δ' ἂν ἐπιστρέψῃ πρὸς Κύριον, when it ſhall turn to the Lord.] The Apoſtle diſcourſing v. 13. of the Sons of Iſrael, of thoſe to whom belonged the old Covenant, and to whom the Law of Moſes was read, v. 14, 15. muſt be ſuppoſed to ſpeak here of the ſame Perſons; and then the Apoſtle here plainly taketh it for granted, that there will come a time when the Jewiſh Nation ſhall turn unto the Lord, or be converted to the Chriſtian Faith. And ſo looking on Chriſt as the End of the Law, and being enlightned by his Spirit, ſhall clearly diſcern the Spiritual Senſe of the Law, and the true meaning of their own Propheſies concerning the Meſſiah. Nor is it any Objection againſt this Expoſition, that the word is ἐπιστρέψῃ in the ſingular, for as that anſwers well to Iſrael, or the Jewiſh Nation, ſo is it a known (i) Rule, that in the Hebrew Tongue a Verb of the Singular Number is joyned to a Noun or Participle Plural.

Ver. 17. Now the Lord is (the Giver of) that Spirit, and where the Spirit of the Lord is there is liberty, (and ſo the Law, which is a yoke of Bondage, Acts 15. 10. Gal. 5. 1. is taken away, and we obtain our Chriſtian liberty.)

Ὁ δὲ Κύριος τὸ πνεῦμά ἐστιν, now the Lord is that Spirit.] The Æthiopick Verſion reads not ὁ δὲ, but ἔ ὃ Κύριος, where the Lord is, there is the Spirit, which makes the ſenſe of theſe words clear; but this reading hath no Authority from any ancient Copy, or Chriſtian Writer. Origen cites the words according to the common reading (d) thrice; nor is it ſuitable to the Greek, which ſhould have been, according to that reading, ἔ ὃ Κύριος, ἐκεῖ τὸ πνεῦμα. I therefore prefer the other Interpretation, which ſaith the Lord is the Spirit, as he is the Way, the Life, John 14. 6. the reſurrection and the Life, John 11. 15. as being the Author and the Giver of them. He it is who baptizeth with the Spirit and Fire, Matth. 3. 11. who giveth this good Spirit to all Believers, and ſends him to them from the Father, John 7. 38, 39. 15. 26. 16. 7. He is ὁ Κύριος, the Lord who miniſters to his Church all the Gifts and Operations of the Spirit, 1 Cor. 12. 5. Eph. 4. 8. And this Interpretation is favoured by the laſt words of the Chapter, ἀπὸ Κυρίου πνεύματος, from the Lord of the Spirit; for through the New Teſtament wherever the Spirit of the Lord is mentioned τὸ πνεῦμα is put before, but never follows the word Κύριος, as according to the common Interpretation here it doth.

Ver. 18. (And it is not with us as it was with the Jews, for they only ſaw the face of Moſes ſhining through the vail, but received no impreſſion from, or derivation of his glory upon themſelves,) But we all (under the Goſpel) with open (and unvailed) face, beholding the glory of the Lord (Jeſus) are changed into the ſame Image (with him) from (his) glory to glory (derived on us,) as by the Spirit of the Lord, (or as receiving it from the Lord, and giver of the Spirit.)

Here are two farther Excellencies of the glory of the Goſpel above that of the Law, viz.

5*ly*, That the Jews only ſaw the ſhining of the Face of Moſes through a vail; but we beheld the glory of the Goſpel of Chriſt in the Perſon of Chriſt our Law-giver with open face.

6*ly*, They ſaw it through a vail, which hindred the reflection or ſhining of it upon them, and ſo this Glory ſhone only on the Face of Moſes, but not at all upon them; whereas the Glory of God, in the Face of Jeſus Chriſt, ſhines as in a Glaſs, which reflects the Image upon us Chriſtians, ſo that we all are tranſformed into the ſame Image, deriving the glorious Gifts and Graces of the Spirit, with the Goſpel, from Chriſt the Lord and great diſtributer of them, 1 Cor. 12. 5. and ſo the Glory which the Father gave to him, he hath given us, John 17. 22. It is therefore rather with us, as it was with Moſes himſelf, concerning whom God ſpeaketh thus, To him will I ſpeak mouth to mouth, even apparently, and not in dark ſpeeches, and the ſimilitude of δόξαν Κυρίου, the Glory of the Lord ſhall he behold, Numb. 12. 8. For as he ſaw the Glory of God apparently, ſo we with open Face behold the Glory of the Lord, as he by ſeeing of this Glory was changed into the likeneſs of it, and his Face ſhone, or was δεδοξασμένη made glorious, ſo we beholding the Glory of God in the Face of Jeſus Chriſt, Chap. 4. 6. are changed into the ſame glory. But then, though this may in ſome meaſure be enlarged to the Church in general, in which theſe Gifts were exerciſed, I think it chiefly and more eminently refers to the Apoſtles mentioned v. 12.

CHAP. IV.

Verſe 1. THerefore ſeeing we have this (glorious) Miniſtry, as we have received mercy (from God in committing it to us, 1 Tim. 1. 11, 12.) ſo we faint not (under the preſſures to which it doth expoſe us.)

Μὴ ἐγκακοῦμεν.] Is not to ſlacken in, or ceaſe from the performance of an Enterprize, Luke 18. 1. Gal. 6. 9. 2 Theſſ. 3. 13. particularly μὴ ἐγκακεῖν ἐν θλίψεσι, not to faint under tribulations, Eph. 3. 13. and here v. 16. And this ſenſe is confirmed by the words following, from v. 7. to the 16th.

Ver. 2. But have renounced the hidden things of diſhoneſty (or ſhame,) not walking in craftineſs (and guile,) nor handling the Word of God deceitfully, (as do your falſe Apoſtles and deceitful Workers, 2 Cor. 11. 13.) but by manifeſtation of the truth commending our ſelves to every mans conſcience (as perſons acting) in the ſight of God.

Τὰ κρυπτὰ τῆς αἰσχύνης, the hidden things of ſhame.] The Apoſtle often ſpeaks of ſome Deceivers crept into the Church, whoſe glory was in their ſhame, Philip. 3. 19. whoſe Exhortation was attended with uncleanneſs, deceit, and guile, 1 Theſſ. 2. 3. and here, who did the hidden things of ſhame. Now theſe, ſay all the Greek Scholiaſts, were the falſe Apoſtles τῇ τῶ νόμω ἐπιμιξίᾳ τὸ θεῖον κήρυγμα διαφθείροντες, who corrupted the Goſpel by mixing it with the Law, as is apparent from the Apoſtle's words; for ſpeaking of theſe falſe Apoſtles, and deceitful Workers, Chap. 11. 13. he ſaith, v. 20. Are they Hebrews? ſo am I; are they Iſraelites? ſo am I; are they the ſeed of Abraham? ſo am I. And that the Jewiſh Doctors were prone to Fornication, Uncleanneſs and Adultery, we learn from the Apoſtle's queſtion, Thou that ſayeſt a man ſhould not commit adultery, doſt thou commit adultery? Rom. 2. 22. and from the Teſtimony of their Joſephus concerning their Zealots who profeſſed great Sanctity, but were indeed (a) guilty of Theft, Treachery, Adultery, the hidden things of Sin. From the Exhortation of St. Paul to them to look diligently, leſt there be among them any Fornicator, or prophane Perſon, Hebr. 12. 16. And again, Let marriage be honourable among all, and the bed undefiled; for whoremungers and adulterers God will judge, Hebr. 13. 4. See the Note there. But this is ſtill more evident from theſe Epiſtles to the Corinthians, among whom theſe Deceivers had taught that Fornication was a thing lawful, 1 Cor. 6. 12. and ſo had taught them to corrupt the Temple of God, 1 Cor. 3. 16, 17. whence he ſays to them, Let no man deceive you, v. 18. and demonſtrates to them, by many Arguments, that Fornication was a ſin inconſiſtent with the Profeſſion of Chriſtianity, 1 Cor. 6. 13—20. that it excluded Perſons from the Kingdom of God, v. 9, 10. and ſhould exclude them from the Society of Chriſtians, Chap. 5. 11. Upon all which accounts he ſaith, Neither let us commit fornication as ſome of the Jews did, 1 Cor. 10. 8. And in his ſecond Epiſtle, and twelfth Chapter, he expreſſes his Fears, leſt when he came among them, he ſhould find many who, through the Seduction of theſe Men, had ſinned, and had not repented of the uncleanneſs, fornication, and laſciviouſneſs, which they had committed. That theſe Men might be followers of Cerinthus, or of the Ebionites, ſee Note on Chap. 11. 22. But theſe things do more plainly agree to the Sect of Nicholas, one of the Seven Deacons reſident at Jeruſalem, Acts 6. 5. they being, ſaith St. Peter, men walking after the fleſh, in the luſts of the fleſh, 2 Pet. 2. 10. and alluring others through the luſts of the fleſh, v. 18. and ſaith St. Jude, Men walking after their own luſts, and ſoaming out their own ſhame, v. 13. that theſe Men were at Pergamus, teaching men to commit fornication. We learn from Revel. 2. 14, 15. that they were alſo at Epheſus, and ſo near to Corinth, from Rev. 2. 6. and ſo might probably be the Perſons noted by St. Paul, ſaying Eph. 5. 11, 12. It is a ſhame to ſpeak of τὰ κρυφῇ γινόμενα ὑπ' αὐτῶν the things done by them in ſecret; and that they were at Corinth, ſee Note on 1 Cor. 6. 13, 14, 15.

Ver. 3. But if (notwithſtanding this manifeſtation of the truth,) our Goſpel be hid (from any to whom it is preach'd) it is hid only to them that are loſt.

Εἰ δὲ καὶ ἔστι κεκαλυμμένον τὸ εὐαγγέλιον ἡμῶν, if our Goſpel be hid.] Hence we learn that the Apoſtles delivered the Goſpel, in all things neceſſary to be believed, or done, with ſufficient plainneſs and perſpicuity, for otherwiſe they could not truly be ſaid to have manifeſted the truth to every mans conſcience. The Apoſtle alſo, by declaring that if this Goſpel was hid from any to whom it was preach'd, it was only hid to them whoſe minds the God of this world had blinded, leſt the light of the glorious Goſpel ſhould ſhine in upon them, doth plainly teach that the Goſpel was not hid from them for want of clearneſs on the part of them who preach'd it, but only by reaſon of that blindneſs which Satan had wrought in them that heard it: So that if it were not manifeſt to all (b) the fault is not in us, or in the obſcurity of the Goſpel, but in their own blindneſs, for we hide nothing from them. So the Fathers.

But here, ſaith Eſthius, the Apoſtle ſpeaks not of the Scriptures to be read or underſtood by us, but of the Goſpel preached by him.

Anſw. To this I anſwer, That the Scriptures writ and read to them, contain the ſame Goſpel of Chriſt which they preached; and as the reading of the Law of Moſes is ſtiled the preaching Moſes every Sabbath-day, Acts 15 21. ſo is the publick reading the Scriptures of the New Teſtament the preaching Chriſt, and his Goſpel; what reaſon then can be aſſigned why they, who confeſſedly preached the Goſpel plainly, ſhould write the ſame things to the ſame Perſons obſcurely, eſpecially if we conſider that they did τὰ αὐτὰ γράφειν, write the ſame things to them for their ſafety, Philip. 3. 1. to put them in remembrance of thoſe things which they knew, and in which they were eſtabliſhed, by their preaching, 2 Pet. 1. 13, 14. and to ſtir up their pure minds by way of remembrance, that they might be mindful of the Commandments of the Apoſtles of our Lord, Chap. 3. 1, 2. that by reading them, they might underſtand their knowledge in the myſtery of Chriſt, Eph. 3. 4. And were theſe ends beſt proſecuted, or to be obtained by writing that obſcurely which they had plainly preached to them? Moreover, whatſoever things were written aforetime, ſaith the Apoſtle, were written for our learning, Rom. 15. 4. And ſurely they who writ after by the ſame Spirit, writ to the ſame end, that they to whom they wrote might be wiſe to that which is good, Rom. 16. 19. that they might underſtand what the will of the Lord is, Eph. 5. 17. or might prove what is the good and acceptable and perfect will of God, Rom. 12. 2. And if they writ for our Learning and Inſtruction in theſe things, to be ſure they writ plainly and clearly as to theſe things, ſince otherwiſe they writ not ſo as to inſtruct or teach, but to confound the Reader. Seeing therefore the great end of writing the Scripture was to inſtruct the World in the Will and Mind of God, and the great things of Chriſtian Faith, either we muſt ſay that both the Writers of the Scripture, and the Holy Ghoſt that inſpired them, were defective in skill, or in care, ſo to write as to obtain this end, or that their Writings are an effectual means to obtain it, which yet they cannot be unleſs they are plain and clear, as to the great things of Religion.

In ſhort, every wiſe Agent purſues his end by the moſt proper and effectual means: Now ſurely to write plainly, and not obſcurely, is the moſt proper means to inſtruct Men by writing, and ſo the Apoſtles muſt have uſed this means of inſtructing in their Writings, or elſe they cannot be eſteemed wiſe Agents.

Ver. 4. In (or among) whom the God of this World hath blinded the minds of them that believe not, leſt the light of the glorious Goſpel of Chriſt, who is the Image of God, ſhould ſhine into them.

Ὁ θεὸς τοῦ αἰῶνος τούτου, the God of this world, &c.] Here obſerve (1.) an Hyperbaton, the true ſenſe and poſition of the words being thus, Among whom are the Unbelievers, whoſe eyes the God of the world hath blinded, &c. Note 2*ly*, that Satan here is called by St. Paul the God of this world; and Epheſ. 6. 12. The Ruler of the darkneſs of this world, agreeably both to the Jewiſh and the Chriſtian Notion; the firſt aſcribing to him the dominion over all that were not of the Religion of the Jews, and introducing God ſpeaking to the Angel of Death or Satan thus, (c) Though I have made thee κοσμοκράτορα a Ruler among the Creatures of the Nations, thou ſhalt have nothing to do with this people, becauſe they are my ſons; where alſo it preſently follows, This is the Angel of Death which is called Darkneſs. And the Chriſtians allowing him to be Ruler over all that were not converted to Chriſtianity, and ſpeaking of that as of the diſpenſation which delivered them from the power of darkneſs into the Kingdom of Chriſt, Col. 1. 13. 1 Pet. 2 9. and turned them from Satan unto God, Acts 26. 18. And of the Gentile World, as walking before according to the Prince of the Power of the Air, the Spirit that worketh in the Children of Diſobedience, Eph. 2. 2. Which had the Fathers conſidered, they would not have contended ſo ſtifly againſt the Marcionites and Manichees, that the God of the World here mentioned was the true God, as both (d) Irenæus and (e) Tertullian, and as (f) St. Auſtin teſtifies, almoſt all the Ancients did; whereas indeed the true God is never repreſented in Scripture as the God of this World, but as the God of them who are called out of the World; nor is it the deſign of God, but of the Devil, to hide the glorious Light of the Goſpel from the World.

Ὃς ἐστιν εἰκὼν τοῦ Θεοῦ, who is the Image of God.] Chriſt ſeems here to be ſtiled the Image of God, not in the ſenſe of Theodoret, as being God of God, but rather, as the Text inſinuates, with relation to the Goſpel, and his Mediatory Office, in which he hath given us ſuch glorious demonſtrations of the Power, Wiſdom, the Holineſs, Purity, and Juſtice, the Mercy, Goodneſs, and Philanthropy of God, Tit. 3. 4.

Ver. 6. (I ſay the Goſpel of Chriſt,) For we preach not our ſelves, (as aiming at our own glory, or profit in this work,) but Chriſt Jeſus the Lord, and our ſelves your Servants for Jeſus ſake.

Ver. 7. (And this Goſpel I ſtile the Goſpel of the glory of Chriſt,) For God who (by ſaying, Let there be light, and there was light) commanded the light to ſhine out of darkneſs, hath alſo ſhined in our hearts, to give (us) the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face (or perſon) of Jeſus Chriſt; (or into the hearts of us Apoſtles, to give us, and enable us to give to others, the light of the knowledge of God through Chriſt, whoſe Ambaſſadors we are. See v. 7.)

Πρὸς φωτισμὸν τῆς γνώσεως τῆς δόξης τοῦ Θεοῦ, the light of the knowledge of the glory of God.] How ſeems to be an alluſion to the ſhining of the Face of Moſes, after he had obtained his deſire of ſeeing the glory of God, Exod. 33. 18, 19. upon which δεδόξασται ἡ ὄψις his face was made glorious, Exod. 34. 29, 30. by reaſon of the glory of God that he had ſeen. This now ſaith St. Paul, belongs to us Apoſtles, the glory of God ſhining more gloriouſly in the Face or Perſon of Jeſus Chriſt, then ever it did in Moſes, and we beholding with open face the glory of the Lord, Chap. 3. 18. whereas the Children of Iſrael could not ſtedfaſtly behold the glory of the face of Moſes. Note alſo that ἐν προσώπῳ is the conſtant reading of the Greek Scholiaſts.

Ver. 7. But we have this (glorious) treaſure in earthen veſſels, (i. e. in Bodies ſubject to be broken with continual preſſures) that the excellency of the power (which preſerves ſuch frail Creatures under them, and enables them to do ſuch great things in them) might (appear to) be of God, and not of us.

Ver. 8. (For though) we are troubled (and griped) on every ſide, yet are we not (ſo) diſtreſſed (as to be brought unto extremity,) we are perplexed, but not (brought) in (to) deſpair (of help from God.)

Ver. 9. We are perſecuted (or purſued,) but not forſaken (or caſt behind, ſo as to loſe the crown we run for,) caſt down, but not deſtroyed (or killed by the fall.) See theſe Agonical terms explained by Dr. Hammond.

Ver. 10. Always bearing about in the body (a Reſemblance to) the dying of the Lord Jeſus, that the Life alſo of Chriſt Jeſus might be made manifeſt in our body.

Ἵνα καὶ ἡ ζωὴ τοῦ Ἰησοῦ, that the life of Jeſus might be made manifeſt.] It being a certain demonſtration that Chriſt is riſen, and ſtill lives; that we, who perſwade others to believe this, are enabled to do ſuch mighty wonders in his Name, and patiently and conſtantly to ſuffer ſuch fiery Trials by his Grace.

Ver. 11. For we who (yet) live, are always delivered up to death for Jeſus ſake (dying daily, or ſtanding in jeopardy of it every hour, whilſt we are miniſtring the Goſpel to you, 1 Cor. 15. 30, 31.) that the life alſo of Jeſus might be made manifeſt in our mortal fleſh, (ſtill expoſed to death by our Enemies, but ſtill preſerved in life by the power of Chriſt.)

Ver. 12. So then (the) death (of Chriſt) worketh (Gr. is wrought) in us (who fill up that which is behind of the ſufferings of Chriſt in our fleſh, Coloſſ. 1. 24. but

(the) life (of Chriſt only) in you.

Ἐν ὑμῖν, in you.] As being made partakers of the vital efficacy of Chriſt in his Spiritual Gifts, and of an aſſimulation to his Reſurrection by a Life of Holineſs, but not of the like Sufferings with us, 1 Cor. 4. 8, 10.

Ver. 13. (Yet) we having the ſame ſpirit of faith, (i. e. the ſame Faith wrought by the Spirit) according to what is written (in the Pſalms, viz.) I believed and therefore have I ſpoken; we alſo believe, and therefore (continue ſtill under all theſe Sufferings to) ſpeak (and preach the Goſpel of Chriſt.)

Ἐπίστευσα, διὸ ἐλάλησα, I believed, therefore have I ſpoken.] Theſe words of David were ſpoken when the ſorrows of death compaſſed him round about, and the pangs of Sheol caught hold upon him, and yet he believed he ſhould walk before God in the land of the living, Pſal. 116. 3, 9, 10. and therefore are applied by the Apoſtle in the ſpiritual ſenſe of them to the Reſurrection thus, That as David, notwithſtanding all the Perſecutions which he ſuffered from the hands of Saul, firmly believed he ſhould be preſerved, and raiſed to a Temporal Kingdom, ſo we Apoſtles believe that, after all our Sufferings for the Goſpel, we ſhall be raiſed and advanced to an Heavenly Kingdom.

Ver. 14. Knowing that he who raiſed up the Lord Jeſus, ſhall raiſe us up alſo by Jeſus, and ſhall preſent us with you (to enjoy his heavenly kingdom together.)

Ὁ ἐγείρας τὸν Κύριον Ἰησοῦν, he that raiſed up the Lord Jeſus.] Here Schlictingius obſerves two things, (1*ſt*,) That our Lord Jeſus did not raiſe up himſelf, but was raiſed from the dead by the Father. (2*ly*,) That though Chriſt Jeſus ſhall raiſe us up, yet ſhall he do this not by his own power, but by the power received from the Father. Now here

1*ſt*, I acknowledge that the Reſurrection of our Lord is frequently aſcribed in Scripture to God the Father, Acts 3. 26. 13. 32. 17. 31. Rom. 4. 24. 10. 9. 1 Cor. 6. 14. 15. 15. Gal. 1. 1. Eph. 1. 20. Col. 2. 12. 1 Theſſ. 1. 9, 10. Hebr. 13. 20. 1 Pet. 1. 3, 21. And the reaſon of the Chriſtian Diſpenſation requires it ſhould be ſo, this being a Demonſtration that God the Father was ſatisfied with his Performances and Sufferings for us, and that he owned him as a true Prophet, and his beloved Son, in that he raiſed him from the dead; but then this is not ſo to be underſtood, as to exclude Chriſt wholly from the ſame action, for he himſelf promiſed to do this, when he ſaid of the Temple of his Body, Deſtroy this Temple, and in three days I will raiſe it up, John 2. 19, 22. And that he did ſo we learn from this, that after his Reſurrection his Diſciples believed the word which Jeſus ſpake, whereas, had he not raiſed up himſelf, they could not have believed his word.

Let it then be noted, that our Lord was quickned by the Spirit, 1 Pet. 3. 18. even by the Spirit by which he offered up himſelf, Hebr. 9. 15. Since then this Spirit of God dwelt in Chriſt, and is by him communicated to all Believers, it is eaſie to be underſtood how Chriſt raiſed up himſelf, and yet was raiſed up by the power of God, as the Holy Ghoſt is ſtiled, Luke 1. 35. Thus alſo the Reſurrection of the Juſt is aſcribed to God the Father, Acts 26. 8. 1 Cor. 6. 14. Hebr. 11. 19. 2 Pet. 1. 3. and yet the ſame Reſurrection is frequently aſcribed to Chriſt, John 5. 28. 6. 39, 40. 11. 27. 1 Cor. 15. 21, 22, 25, 26. Rom. 14. 19. Rev. 3. 18. and this he will effect by the power he hath in himſelf, John 5. 26. by himſelf, John 6. 47, 54. I will raiſe him up at the laſt day, by his word, The dead ſhall hear the voice of the Son of God and live, John 5. 28. by the power by which he is able to ſubdue all things to himſelf, Philip. 3. 21. Now to raiſe the dead being a thing proper to God himſelf, Rom. 4. 7. Acts 26. 8. an inſtance of the power of God, Matth. 22. 29. and the belief of it being faith in God, Hebr. 11. 19. 1 Pet. 1. 3. Whoſoever hath the power of raiſing all Men from the dead, muſt have the power of God, the Godhead, the energy of the power of the might of God, Eph. 1. 19. and the whole fulneſs of the Godhead dwelling in him; and if Chriſt did receive this power from the Father, he muſt receive it from him by the Communication of the Godhead to him.

Ver. 15. For (or and) all (theſe) things we (preach, and ſuffer) are for your ſakes, that the abundant grace (conferr'd upon you by our miniſtry) might, through the thankſgiving of many, redound to the glory of God.

Ver. 16. For which cauſe we faint not (under the tribulations we thus ſuffer,) but though our outward man periſh, our inward is renewed (with vigour and alacrity in the performance of our duty) every day.

Ὁ ἔσω ἄνθρωπος, the inward man.] Hence we learn, that the diſtinction betwixt the outward and the inward Man, is not of the ſame import with that of the old and the new Man, Rom. 6. 6. which is renewed after the image of God in righteouſneſs and holineſs, Eph. 4. 22. Col. 3. 9, 10. but the outward man that periſheth ſignifies only the Body, the inward is only the Mind or Spirit which is in Man; ſo that when the Apoſtle ſaith in the Perſon of a Man under the Law, I delight in the Law of God after the inward man, Rom. 7. 22. He ſaith nothing which intimates that the Perſon ſpeaking was renewed in the ſpirit of his mind, but only that his mind was inclined to obey the Law of God, though through the Law in his Members warring againſt it, he was led captive to the Law of Sin.

Ver. 17. For (we know that) our light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory.

Βάρος δόξης, weight of glory.] The Hebrew word כבד which anſwers to Βάρος, weight, ſignifies not only Multitude, but Greatneſs; and in the Rabbins, as well as Scripture, honourable. So Gen. 18. 20. Their ſin was כבדה מאד very great. See Gen. 50. 11. Exod. 9. 3. Honourable. So Exod. 20. 12. כבד Honour thy Father and thy Mother. See Deut. 28. 58. So that this word may ſignifie the Magnificence, the Abundance, and the Honour of the future Glory which is prepared for the Chriſtian Sufferer.

Ver. 18. (We faint not I ſay,) While we look not at the things which are ſeen, but at the things which are not ſeen; for the things which are ſeen are temporal, but the things which are not ſeen are eternal.

Note hence, That it is not only lawful, but even laudable, after the Example of the Apoſtles, in our Actions and Sufferings, to have reſpect to the Recompence of Reward, that being by the Wiſdom of the Holy Ghoſt propounded as our Encouragement to do, and ſuffer theſe things.

CHAP. V.

Verſe 1. FOR we know, that if our earthly houſe of this tabernacle were diſſolved, we have (provided for us at the reſtoring of it) a building of God, an houſe not made with hands eternal in the heavens.

Οἰκοδομὴν τὸ Θεοῦ ἔχομεν, we have a building of God.] It was the Doctrine of the (a) Platoniſts, that the Soul was a kind of Being which could not well ſubſiſt, or act without a Body, and therefore after her ſeparation from the Body, wanted ſome Vehicle or Cloathing, by which ſhe might ſubſiſt and act; and this Notion was embraced by Origen; and this Text was accordingly interpreted by him. See the Note on 1 Cor. 15. 44, 45. And according to this Notion good Chriſtians, as ſoon as they depart this Life, are not found naked, but cloathed, with their houſe from heaven, which at the Reſurrection ſhall be the ἐπένδυμα, or cloathing of their raiſed Bodies, which render them immortal. But the Apoſtle cannot here be ſuppoſed to mean, that as ſoon as ever good Chriſtians die, they ſhall be cloathed upon with this Houſe which is from Heaven, but only that they ſhall be ſo at the Reſurrection. For (1.) we Chriſtians, ſaith he, groan earneſtly, deſiring to be cloathed upon with this houſe, v. 2. Now, ſaith the ſame Apoſtle, we our ſelves groan within our ſelves, waiting for the adoption, that is, the redemption of the body, Rom. 8. 23. (2*ly*,) They groaned to be cloathed upon, that mortality might be ſwallowed up of life, v. 4. Now when this corruptible ſhall have put on incorruption, and this mortal immortality, then only ſhall be brought to paſs the ſaying that is written, Death is ſwallowed up of victory, 1 Cor. 15. 54.

Ver. 2. For in this (tabernacle) we groan earneſtly, deſiring to be cloathed upon with our houſe which is from heaven.

Ἐπενδύσασθαι, to be cloathed upon.] By putting over this mortal Body an incorruptible and eternal houſe. The Jews ſay that Adam in his firſt Creation being made ἐν ἀφθαρσίᾳ for incorruption, Wiſd. 1. 23. his Body was covered from Corruption, Veſte Onychina, with a cloathing like in colour to a Nail of the Hand. Accordingly the Apoſtle repreſents the future Bodies raiſed incorruptible, as cloathed with an immortal covering, 1 Cor. 15. 53, 54.

Ver. 3. (We are, I ſay, deſirous of this,) If ſo be that (or ſeeing that we ſhall at the reſurrection) be found cloathed, and not naked (or with a body uncloathed, as we have here.)

Εἴ γε καί, if ſo be.) That theſe words may be alſo rendred ſince, and ſeeing that is evident from Scripture, and good Authors. Thus here v. 14. εἰ ſignifies quandoquidem, ſo εἴγε ἠκούσατε, ſeeing ye have heard, Eph. 3. 2. See the Note there. And again, Eph. 4. 21. Or elſe, retaining our own Verſion, we may give this ſenſe to the words, If ſo be that (then) we ſhall be found cloathed (with our Celeſtial Bodies, and ſo fitted for a bleſſed immortality) and not (as the wicked) naked, (and without this heavenly building.)

Γυμνοὶ, naked.] i. e. Not cloathed upon with another Body. So 1 Cor. 15. 37. Thou ſoweſt γυμνὸν κόκκον naked grain, not covered with a blade, or cover of chaff, as when it riſeth up out of the Earth it is, or with a Cod, as in Beans, Peas, and Lintels. And accordingly the (c) Rabbins introduce a Samaritan, or Gentile, enquiring of R. Meir, Whether the dead riſe naked, or cloathed? and him anſwering thus, That Peas which are ſown naked, ariſe cloathed, or covered with a Cod, and much more the dead. But then they ſeem to reſtrain this to the Juſt, ſaying, that the Juſt ſhall riſe cloathed.

Ver. 4. For we that are in this tabernacle do groan, being burthened, not for that (through impatience under our sufferings,) we would be uncloathed, (by putting off the body) but (as desiring v. 2. to be) cloathed upon (with our celestial body) that mortality might be swallowed up of life.

(through

Ver. 5. Now he that hath wrought us for the self same thing *(*i. e. hath wrought in us this earnest desire) is God, who hath also given us the earnest of the Spirit, (whereby we are sealed up to the Day of Redemption, Eph. 4. 30. and wait for the Redemption of the Body, Rom. 8. 23.)

Ὁ δὲ κατεργασάμενος ἡμᾶς εἰς αὐτὸ τοῦτο, He that hath wrought us for the self same thing.] Hence it appears there is no ground for that dangerous Opinion, that the Apostle here speaks as one that believed the General Resurrection and Advent of our Lord to Judgment would be suddenly; for this perswasion being false, the Apostle could not in this sense say, We know that if this earthly tabernacle were dissolved, we have (immediately) a building of God, i. e. an heavenly Body to put on. God could not work them up to this desire that they might not be uncloathed, i. e. not die, but live to the Resurrection to be then cloathed upon; nor could the Apostle, consistently with this perswasion, introduce the same Christians willing to be absent from the Body, that they might be present with the Lord. Moreover in the preceding Chapter, v. 14. he plainly says that they expected to be raised up by Jesus from the dead, and therefore must expect to die. See the Note on 1 Thess. 4. 15.

Ver. 6. Therefore (having this earnest of the spirit) we are always confident, knowing (Gr. being therefore always confident, and knowing) that whilst we were at home in the body, we are absent from the Lord.

[Ver. 7. For (whilst it is thus with us) we walk by faith (only,) not by sight.]

Ver. 8. We are confident I say, and willing (we in this confidence are willing) rather to be absent from (or travel out of) the body, and to be present with the Lord, (or at home with him.)

Θαῤῥοῦμεν δὲ, we are confident.] i. e. We have not only confidence at his appearance, John 2. 28. but always even in death it self, that though it render us absent from the body, it will bring us home to Christ, and to a nearer fruition of him. Only here note, that according to the Doctrine of all the Ancients, the Souls of pious Men are not assumed into the highest Heavens, or the immediate Presence of God and Christ, instantly upon their departure hence, for thus only we shall be ever present with the Lord, 1 Thess. 4. 16, 17. when by the power of God, at the last Trump, we shall be raised up to meet him in the Air, his promise being at his second coming to receive his Disciples to himself, that where he is, they may be also, John 14. 3. But yet, according to all Antiquity, the Souls of pious Men, in the mean time, are are in the place appointed for them παρὰ τῷ Κυρίῳ with the Lord, that is, with him in Paradise, where they enjoy the sight and conversation of their Saviour by way of Vision: For Paul, and the rest of the Apostles, saith (c) Polycarp, are in the place appointed for them with the Lord. Not only in Heaven, saith (d) Irenæus, but in Paradise also our Saviour shall be seen, as Men are worthy to behold him. And this doth (e) Pseudo-Justin gather from this very place, That the Souls of the just go to Paradise, and converse there with Christ by vision.

Ver. 9. Wherefore we labour that whether (we be) present (in) or absent (from the body) we may be accepted of him (at his appearance.)

Ver. 10. For we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ, that every one may (then) receive the things done in his body, (or by the body) according to what he hath done, whether it be good, or evil.

Τὰ διὰ τοῦ σώματος, the things done by the body.] Some Manuscripts read τὰ ἴδια τοῦ σώματος, propria corporis, the things proper to the body; so the vulgar Latin: both readings do sufficiently confute the Doctrine of the R. Purgatory, and their Prayers for the Dead, as teaching Men shall receive hereafter, not according to the Prayers of others for them, when they are out of the Body, but according to what they themselves have done in the Body. Now it is sure, that what the living do of this kind for them after death, they themselves do not in the Body, and so no account will be had of it in the Great Day. And why should they suffer before such dreadful Pains in Purgatory, who afterwards must receive Rewards or Punishments according, not to what they have suffered there, but according to what they have done in the Flesh? The Fathers here do farther note,

1. That the same Body which was dissolved, shall be raised again, and not another; it being absurd to think that one Body should sin, and yet another should be punished for it, one Body suffer, another should be crowned for it. So Methodus, Chrysostom, Theophylact.

2*ly*, That the Soul is to receive its Retributions with the Body, and not without it, according to (f) Methodius, (g) Theodoret, and

Ver. 11. Knowing therefore the terror of the Lord, we perſwade men (to believe we act in all ſincerity and truth, when we propound theſe things to them,) but (in this) we are made manifeſt to God, and I truſt alſo (we) are made manifeſt in your conſciences, (and have given you good aſſurance that we act ſincerely.)

Ver. 12. For we commend not our ſelves unto you, (as if we doubted of your good opinion of us,) but (we ſay theſe things to) give you occaſion to glory on our behalf, that you may have ſomewhat to anſwer them which glory in appearance, and not in heart, (or truth and ſincerity, but either of other mens labours, 2 Cor. 10. 15. or of things not really done by them, 2 Cor. 11. 12——21.)

Ver. 13. For whether we be beſides our ſelves (tranſported in ſpeaking of our Raptures, Extaſies, and Viſions) it is to (do ſervice to) God, or whether we be ſober (in our diſcourſes, not deſiring that others ſhould think of us above what they ſee in us, 2 Cor. 12. 6.) it is for your ſakes.

Ver. 14. For the love of Chriſt conſtraineth us (thus to promote his glory, and to ſeek your good) becauſe we thus judge, that if one died for all, then were all dead, (i. e. obnoxious, and condemned to it for ſin.)

Ver. 15. And that he died for all, that they who live (by his death) ſhould not henceforth live unto themſelves, but unto him that died for him, (i. e. for their ſins) and roſe again (for their juſtification, Rom. 4. 24, 25.)

Καὶ ὑπὲρ πάντων ἀπέθανεν, and he died for all.] Here obſerve

1*ſt*, That Chriſt died for all, all that were dead, all who are by his death engaged to live to him; as all to whom the knowledge of the Goſpel is vouchſafed, are.

2*ly*, That they do certainly miſtake the meaning of theſe words, then were all dead, who thus interpret them (i), then were all obliged to be dead to ſin: For (1.) in theſe two Verſes the word ἀπέθανον, dead, is four times uſed once before, and twice after theſe words, then were all dead, and both before, and after, it undeniably ſignifies death in the proper acceptation of the word. Who then can think that in the ſecond time, in the ſame ſentence, it ſhould import only an obligation to die to ſin, or to our ſelves? Whenſoever in the Scripture it bears a Metaphorical Senſe, ſome other word is joyned to it which doth inforce the ſenſe; as when we are ſaid to die to ſin, Rom. 6. 2. to die with Chriſt, Rom. 6. 8. Col. 2. 20. to die to the Law, Gal. 2. 19. to die to the World, Gal. 6. 14. Col. 3. 3. Here therefore nothing being added to it to inforce the ſenſe it muſt be deemed alien from the Text.

Ver. 16. Wherefore henceforth know we no man after the fleſh, (i.e. according to carnal intereſts, the Riches, Honours, Pleaſures, and Advantages of this World, 2 Cor. 1. 17. 10. 2.) yea, though we have known Chriſt after the fleſh, (expecting him as a Temporal King, and hoping for great Advancements in his Kingdom, as being his Diſciples,) yet now henceforth know we him ſo no more.

Οὐκ ἔτι γινώσκομεν, we know him ſo no more.] It is manifeſt that the Diſciples, whilſt Chriſt was with them, were much addicted to their Temporal Intereſts, ſtill ſtriving, and contending who among them ſhould be the greateſt in Chriſt's Kingdom, Luke 9. 46. 22. 24. asking to ſit one at his right, the other on his left hand in his Kingdom, Mark 10. 37. and ſaying, we have left all and followed thee, what ſhall we have therefore, Matth. 19. 27. and preſently after his Reſurrection enquiring, Wilt thou now Lord reſtore the Kingdom to Iſrael, Acts 1. 6. Theſe Expectations, ſaith the Apoſtle, we have now laid aſide, and ſerve Chriſt only for Spiritual and Eternal Advantages. Or we may interpret theſe words thus: We know (i.e. reſpect) no Man according to the fleſh, (i. e. according to his Circumciſion, or his Nation, as being an Iſraelite, or of the ſtock of Abraham, as knowing that in Chriſt Jeſus neither Circumciſion availeth any thing——but a new Creature, Gal. 6. 15. and though we Jews at firſt knew Chriſt according to the fleſh, adhering to Circumciſion, and the Law, even after Faith in Chriſt, yet now we do not ſo; but all theſe old things are now paſſed away, we being dead to the Law, that we might live to God, Gal. 2. 20. and ſerving him now in newneſs of ſpirit, not in the oldneſs of the letter, Rom. 7. 5.

Ver. 17. (And ſo it is with all his ſincere Votaries,) Therefore if any man is in Chriſt, he is (become) a new Creature, old things are paſſed away, (his affection to all temporal and carnal things,) behold all things are become new (in him.)

Ver. 18. Now all (theſe) things (belonging to the new Creation, this change of our Affections, this conſtraining Love) are of God, who hath reconciled us to himſelf by Jeſus Chriſt, and hath given (or committed) to us the miniſtry of Reconciliation.

Ver. 19. To wit, that God was in Chriſt reconciling the world to himſelf, (and) not imputing their former treſpaſſes unto them, and hath committed to us the word of Reconciliation.

(h) Si judicante Chriſto unuſquiſque noſtrum facta corporis recipiet, non utique ſine corpore adjudicabitur bono, aut malo. Hilar.

(i) Eſthium. Schlich.

Ver.

Ver. 20. Now then we are Ambaſſadors for Chriſt, as though God did beſeech you by us, we pray you in Chriſts ſtead, be ye reconciled to God.

δέομεθα ὑπὲρ Χριστοῦ καταλλάγητε τῷ Θεῷ, be ye reconciled to God] Here is obſervable, againſt the Socinians, a double Reconciliation; 1ſt, A Reconciliation of God to us; for God was in Chriſt reconciling the World unto himſelf through him, and that not by renewing our Natures, but by not imputing our treſpaſſes to us. This Reconciliation was effected, ſaith the next Verſe, by making Chriſt a Sin-offering for us, that we might be made the righteouſneſs of God in him, and this Reconciliation is followed with an Exhortation on our parts to be reconciled to God.

Object. But Crellius objects, That the Reconciliation here mentioned is aſcribed to God, and ſo it cannot be the appeaſing of his Anger by making any Satisfaction to him; for can it be ſuppoſed, ſaith he, that God, being angry, ſhould appeaſe himſelf, and that by making Satisfaction by another to himſelf.

Anſw. I Anſwer that the Text doth not barely ſay, God reconciled us to himſelf, but that he was reconciling the World to himſelf in Chriſt, that is, by Chriſt, as the means of our Reconciliation, or as the Sin-offering by which this Reconciliation was procured. It therefore is not neceſſary that theſe words ſhould import, that God being angry, ſhould appeaſe himſelf, but only that he ſhould declare himſelf ſo far appeaſed by Chriſt's Sufferings for us, and ſo well ſatisfied with his Blood ſhed for the Remiſſion of our Sins, that he would not impute thoſe Sins to any that believed in him. The Blood of Chriſt made a Sin-offering, making Atonement for us, as the Blood of the Sin-offering under the Law made Atonement for the Sinner, and procured the forgiveneſs of his ſins; and if under the Law ſatisfaction was made by the Sinner to God, by a Beaſt of his own appointing, why may it not be made under the Goſpel by a Saviour of his own ſending?

Ver. 21. For he hath made him to be (a) ſin (offering) for us, who (himſelf) knew no ſin, that we might be made (righteous with) the righteouſneſs of God in him.

Τὸν μὴ γνόντα ἁμαρτίαν ὑπὲρ ἡμῶν ἁμαρτίαν ἐποίησεν, he made him ſin for us.] The words here being ſacrifical, muſt be explained by their uſe in the Old Law, when applied to Legal Sacrifices. Now the word ἁμαρτία, which we render ſin, is uſed there cuſtomarily for a Sin-offering, ſo the Law of the Sin-offering is ὁ νόμος τῆς ἁμαρτίας, Lev. 6. 25. The Bullock appointed for a Sin-offering, is τὸ μοσχάριον τὸ περὶ ἁμαρτίας, ὁ μόσχος ὁ περὶ ἁμαρτίας, the Bullock of ſin, Exod. 29. 36. Lev. 4. 8, 20. The Goat to be ſacrificed for ſin, is ὁ χίμαρος ὁ περὶ ἁμαρτίας, the Goat of ſin, Lev. 4. 29. To make ſuch a Beaſt a Sin-offering for the People, is in the ſacrifical Phraſe, ποιεῖν ἁμαρτίαν, ποιεῖν τὸ περὶ ἁμαρτίας, to make it ſin, Lev. 4. 20. 9. 7. 14. 18. 15. 19. Numb. 6. 11, 16. 8. 13. It cannot therefore be doubted, but that ποιεῖν ὑπὲρ ἡμῶν ἁμαρτίαν περὶ Χριστὸν, doth ſignifie here to make Chriſt a Sin-offering, or Sacrifice for ſin for us. The end for which he was thus made a Sacrifice is this, that we might be made the Righteouſneſs of God in him; i. e. that we might be juſtified by God, or might obtain forgiveneſs of ſins through Faith in the Blood of this Sin-offering. For δικαιοσύνη Θεοῦ, the Righteouſneſs, or the Juſtification of God, in St. Paul's ſtile, ſtill ſignifies the Righteouſneſs of Faith in Chriſt dying, or ſhedding his Blood for us; as in theſe words, δικαιοσύνη γὰρ Θεοῦ, for the righteouſneſs of God in him is revealed from faith to faith, as it is written, the juſt ſhall live by his faith, Rom. 1. 17. Again, δικαιοσύνη Θεοῦ, the righteouſneſs of God without the Law is manifeſt——to wit, the Righteouſneſs of God through faith of Jeſus Chriſt, Rom. 3. 20, 21. And Chap. 10. 3, 4. For they not knowing τὴν δικαιοσύνην τοῦ Θεοῦ, the righteouſneſs of God, and going about to eſtabliſh their own righteouſneſs, have not ſubmitted τῇ δικαιοσύνῃ τοῦ Θεοῦ to the righteouſneſs of God. For Chriſt is the end of the Law for righteouſneſs, that is, juſtification, to every one that believeth, Philip. 3. 9. That I may be found in him, not having my own righteouſneſs, which is of the Law, but that which is by the faith of Chriſt, τὴν ἐκ Θεοῦ δικαιοσύνην ἐπὶ τῇ πίστει, the righteouſneſs of God by faith. The Interpretation therefore given in the Paraphraſe is very agreeable to Scripture, whereas the Gloſs of the Socinians puts a continual force upon the words; for where in Scripture doth ποιεῖν ἁμαρτίαν ſignifie to treat an innocent perſon as a ſinner? where is it that to be made the righteouſneſs of God in Chriſt, doth ſignifie our being made new Creatures, or our being ſanctified? where doth God's reconciling us to Jeſus Chriſt, import his converting the World to himſelf by Chriſt as his Ambaſſadors? Why is God ſaid not to impute to men their treſpaſſes by the preaching of Chriſt, who preached only to the loſt ſheep of the houſe of Iſrael, rather then by the preaching of the Apoſtles to the whole Gentile world? How was he made ſin more then they, if he were only treated as a ſinner on the account of the ſame Doctrine which they equally preached and ſuffered for? And why may not Men be ſaid to be made the righteouſneſs of God in the Apoſtles, as well as in Chriſt, if this only import our being converted, and ſo made righteous by the Doctrine they, as well as he, deliver'd?

CHAP. VI.

Verſe 1. WE then, as workers together with him (1 Cor. 3. 9. and his Ambaſſadors, 2 Cor. 5. 20.) beſeech you alſo that ye receive not the grace of God in vain.

Χάριν τῦ Θεῦ, the grace of God.] The grace of God in the Old Teſtament imports his favour and kind affection to us; and in this ſenſe it is ſaid in general, a good man obtaineth רצון favour of the Lord, Prov. 3. 34. 12. 2. or in particular, that ſuch a pious Man found חן grace in the ſight of God, 2 Sam. 15. 25. Gen. 6. 8. for as when it is ſaid, that Joſeph found grace in his Maſters ſight, the meaning is, his Maſter ſhew'd favour to him; and when 'tis added, that the Ægyptians found grace in the ſight of Joſeph, the meaning is, he was enclined to ſhew favour to them, and grant them Corn for their Subſiſtance. So when the Scripture ſaith, that pious Perſons found grace in the ſight of God, the Phraſe muſt ſignifie God's inclination to ſhew Mercy, and bear a kind Affection to them. The Grace of God in the New Teſtament, when it is not uſed to ſignifie the miraculous Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt, bears generally the ſame ſenſe; as when the Angel ſaith to Mary, Thou haſt found grace with God, Luke 1. 30. St. Stephen of King David, that he found grace with God, Acts 7. 46. St. Luke, that Jeſus increaſed χάριτι in grace with God and Man, Luke 2. 52. when Paul and Silas are ſaid to be commended to the grace of God for the work of the Miniſtry, Acts 13. 3. 14. 26. 15. 40. this being done by their Prayers to God for his Favour and Aſſiſtance in that Work. When Men are ſaid to be juſtified by the grace of God, Acts 15. 11. Rom. 3. 24. Eph. 1. 7. and to have forgiveneſs of their ſins, according to the riches of his grace, it muſt import the ſame; for juſtification, and forgiveneſs of ſin are acts of God's free grace and favour to the ſinner. When it is ſaid that we are ſaved by the grace of the Lord Jeſus, Acts 15. 11. by grace ye are ſaved, not of works, by grace we are ſaved through faith, Eph. 2. 8, 9. Seeing this is ſpoken to Men yet alive, and ſo oblig'd to work out their ſalvation with fear and trembling, it cannot mean that they were actually ſaved, but only that they were called to a ſtate of Salvation, enjoy'd the means, and were put in the way of Salvation by grace, according to thoſe words of the ſame Apoſtle, He hath ſaved us, and called us with an holy calling, not according to our works, but the grace given us in Chriſt Jeſus, 2 Tim. 1. 9. And to be thus ſaved by grace, is to be ſaved by the mercy and favour of God to us, according to thoſe words of the Apoſtle, When the kindneſs and love of God our Saviour to man appeared, not by works of righteouſneſs which we have done, but by his mercy he ſaved us, Tit. 3. 4, 5. it being purely of the mercy and the grace of God that any Nation is called to the knowledge of Salvation by Chriſt. When the grace of God is ſaid to have abounded towards us, Rom. 5. 15, 20. 15. 16. that grace is ſtiled the free gift of God. When St. Paul ſaith, that by the grace of God I am what I am, 1 Cor. 15. 10. that he was called by his grace, Gal. 1. 15. and that the grace of God was abundant to him, 1 Tim. 1. 13, 14. he himſelf interprets this of God's great mercy to ſo great a ſinner. When he ſaith, I do not fruſtrate the grace of God, Gal. 2. 21. this he interprets to be God's favour to Mankind, in ſending his Son to die for us. The exceeding riches of his grace, Eph. 2. 7. is God's great kindneſs to us in Chriſt Jeſus; and by the grace of God it is that Chriſt taſted death for every man, 2 Tim. 1. 9. Hebr. 2. 9. Hence is this Goſpel ſtiled the grace of God which brings ſalvation, Tit. 2. 11. The grace of God which is able to build us up, and procure us an inheritance among them that are ſanctified, Acts 20. 32. This alſo muſt be the import of the word, when the Apoſtles exhort their Converts to continue in the grace of God, Acts 13. 43. and when they inform us, that God confirmed the word of his grace by doing ſigns and wonders, Acts 14. 3. and that the Law came by Moſes, but grace by Jeſus Chriſt, John 1. 17. See the Notes on Hebr. 12. 28. 13. 9. James 4. 6.

Μὴ εἰς κένον τ χάριν δέξασθαι, not to receive the grace in vain.] This we do (1.) When we do not obtain the end for which it was deſigned, viz. to teach us, denying all ungodlineſs and worldly luſts, to live righteouſly, ſoberly, and godly in this preſent world. Thus thoſe Oblations which are not acceptable to God, are ſtiled vain oblations, Iſa. 1. 13. and the Worſhip which is not according to his will, vain worſhip, Mat. 15. 9. becauſe this Worſhip, and theſe Oblations, though deſigned to procure God's favour, will not do it. (2.) When we receive no benefit by the grace received, and it conveys no pardon or ſalvation to us, ſo, upon ſuppoſition that there will be no Reſurrection, your faith is in vain, 1 Cor. 15. 17. and if you retain it not, ye have believed in vain, v. 2. So to labour in vain, and run in vain, Gal. 2. 2. 4. 11. is to do theſe things without profit to them for whoſe ſakes they are done: And thoſe are called vain queſtions, Tit. 3. 9. and vain words, Matth. 12. 36. which are unprofitable.

Ver. 2. For he ſaith (Iſa. 49. 8.) I have heard thee in a time accepted, (i. e. of favour and acceptance,) and in the day of Salvation have I ſuccoured thee: behold, now is the (well) accepted accepted time, now is the day of ſalvation, (when God ſends his Miniſters to preach, and offer it to you, 2 Cor. 5. 20.)

Καιρῷ δεκτῷ ἐπήκουσά σου, I have heard thee in a time accepted.] Theſe are the words of God the Father to Chriſt, ſignifying that he had accepted his Interceſſion for the Converſion of the Gentiles, and declaring that he had given him εἰς διαθήκην τῶν ἐθνῶν, for a Covenant to the Nations, a Light to the Gentiles, and his ſalvation to the ends of the earth, Iſa. 49. 6, 8. And ſo the (a) Jews interpret them. That Salvation either in the Prophet ſpeaking of Chriſt, as the ſalvation of the ends of the earth, or in the Apoſtle, ſpeaking of the day of ſalvation, ſhould mean the deliverance of the Chriſtians from the perſecuting Jews is very improbable in it ſelf, and is confuted by thoſe words, now is the day of ſalvation, for Chriſtians then groaned under Perſecution, both from Jew and Gentile, and the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, which is ſuppoſed to have brought the deliverance to the Chriſtians from the perſecuting Jews, was fourteen years after the writing this Epiſtle.

Ver. 3. (Which we are careful ſo to preach as becomes workers with God, v. 1.) Giving no (juſt) offence in any thing, that the miniſtry be not blamed.

Ver. 4. But in all things approving our ſelves as the Miniſters of God, in much patience, in afflictions, in neceſſities, in diſtreſſes.

Θλίψεσι] Say ſome, imports Afflictions in the general. Ἀνάγκαις more grievous Troubles. Στενοχωρίαις ſuch preſſures as reduce us to the greateſt ſtreights. See Chap. 4. 8, 9.

Ver. 5. In ſtripes, in impriſonments, in tumults (raiſed againſt us for preaching the Goſpel,) in labours, in watchings, in faſtings, (i.e. in conſtant enduring all ſorts of ſufferings, and exerciſing all kinds of ſelf-denial for the Goſpels ſake.)

Ver. 6. By pureneſs (of converſation,) by knowledge (of the divine myſteries,) by long ſuffering (under all provocations,) by kindneſs (towards all men,) by the (various gifts of the) Holy Ghoſt, by love unfeigned.

Ver. 7. By the word of truth (preach'd) by the power of God, (confirming it, Rom. 15. 19.) by the armour of righteouſneſs (which covers and protects us, when aſſaulted) on the right hand (by proſperous,) and on the left (by adverſe events.)

Ver. 8. By (going through the various conditions of) honour and diſhonour, by (going through) evil report and good report, (being looked upon by the wiſe men of the world) as deceivers, and yet (being) true (diſpenſers of the word of life to them.)

Ver. 9. As unknown (and obſcure perſons,) and yet well known (by the powerful works we perform) as dying daily (by our continual perſecutions,) and (yet) behold we live: as chaſtned, and (yet) not killed.

Ver. 10. As ſorrowful (in outward appearance,) yet always (inwardly) rejoycing, as poor (in the concernments of the world) yet making many (truly and ſpiritually) rich; as having nothing, yet poſſeſſing all things: (in contentedneſs of mind, Philip. 4. 18. in the favour of that God who giveth all things richly to enjoy, 1 Tim. 6. 17. in Chriſt Jeſus who is all in all, Col. 3. 11. and in whom we are bleſſed with all ſpiritual bleſſings, Eph. 1. 3. and in the promiſe to inherit all things, Rev. 21. 7.)

Ver. 11. O ye Corinthians, our mouth is (freely) opened to you, (in ſpeaking well of you, Chap. 7. 4.) our heart (and our affection) is enlarged to you.

Ver. 12. Ye are not ſtraitned in us, (you have a large room in our hearts,) but you are ſtraitned (rather) in your own bowels (of affection to us.)

Ver. 13. Now for a recompence in the ſame (kind,) I ſpeak as to my children, be ye alſo enlarged (in your affections to me your ſpiritual Father.)

Ver. 14. Be ye not unequally yoked with unbelievers, (do not joyn with them in their Idol Feaſts, and Heatheniſh Rites, or in the Matrimonial yoke;) for what fellowſhip hath righteouſneſs with unrighteouſneſs? and what communion hath light with darkneſs?

Ver. 15. And what concord hath Chriſt with Belial? or what part hath he that believeth with an Infidel?

Μὴ γίνεσθε ἑτεροζυγοῦντες ἀπίστοις, be not unequally yoked with unbelievers.] Here note that theſe words cannot be duly brought to prove that Chriſtians muſt not communicate with vicious perſons at the Table of the Lord, though they be Chriſtians in profeſſion, ſince the Apoſtle only ſpeaks of Unbelievers. 2*ly*, The Apoſtle here uſeth the very words by which the Prophet Iſaiah, Chap. 52. 11. exhorts the Jews to preſerve themſelves in Babylon from the contagion of their Idolatry, and by which St. John exhorts all Chriſtians not to partake of the ſins or the ſpiritual whoredoms of the Beaſt, Rev. 18. 4. He therefore cannot be ſuppoſed to forbid all Chriſtians all converſe even with the Unbeliever, for he permits the believing Huſband to live with the unbelieving Wife, and will not ſuffer the believing Wife to depart from her unbelieving Husband, 1 Cor. 7. 12, 13. he therefore only doth forbid communion with them in actions proper to them as Heathens, and alien from the Profeſſion of Chriſtianity, viz. their Feaſtings and Sacrifices in the Idol Temples, 1 Cor. 8. 10. 10. 21. And, by Analogy, he alſo may be ſuppoſed to forbid Chri- ſtians to marry with an Unbeliever, for this was always held unlawful for the Jews to marry with an (b) Heathen, till they became Proſelytes to their Religion. For they looking upon themſelves as the pure ſervants of God, Neh. 2. 20. See Note on 1 Cor. 7. 14. thought it a corruption of the holy Seed to marry with the People of the Earth; and hence, when this was done, Ezra complains that παρῆλθεν σπέρμα ἅγιον ἐν τοῖς λαοῖς τῆς γῆς, the holy Seed was mixed with the people of the earth, Ezra 9. 9. Now the Chriſtians being made an holy Nation, a peculiar People, the Holy Temple in which God by his Spirit dwelt, it ſeemeth as unfit that they ſhould marry with heatheniſh Idolaters, and therefore to ſuch of them as were free, the Apoſtles ſpeaks thus, Let them marry only in the Lord, 1 Cor. 7. 39. i.e. to one of their own Religion: the marriage with an Infidel being the cloſeſt conjunction with them, ſubjecting them many times to a neceſſary abſtinence from Chriſtian Aſſemblies, and to continual temptations to Apoſtacy, or compliance with their evil manners.

Ver. 16. And what agreement hath the Temple of God with Idols? (you therefore muſt have none with them,) for ye are the Temple of the living God, as God hath ſaid I will dwell in them, and walk in (i. e. among) them, and I will be their God, and they ſhall be my people.

Ver. 17. Wherefore come out from among them, and be ye ſeparate, ſaith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing, and I will receive (and accept) you.

Ver. 18. And I will be a Father unto you, and ye ſhall be my ſons and daughters, ſaith the Lord Almighty.

Ἔσομαι ὑμῖν εἰς πατέρα, I will be to you a Father.] Theſe words are not to be found in Jer. 31. 1, 9. but they are the words of God to Solomon the Ruler of his People, Δικαιῶν υἱὸν σὺ καὶ συγκλήρων, a Judge over his ſons and daughters, Wiſd. 9. 7. and they begin thus, Τὰ δὲ λέγει Κύριος παντοκράτωρ, thus ſaith the Lord Almighty, 2 Sam. 7. 8. and v. 14. ἐγὼ ἔσομαι αὐτῷ εἰς πατέρα καὶ αὐτὸς ἔσται μοι εἰς υἱόν, I will be to him a Father, and he ſhall be to me a Son, which words are by the Apoſtle aſcribed to Chriſt, Hebr. 1. 4, 5. and here to all Chriſtians, as being Members of his Body, and joynt Heirs with him. Moreover, the (c) Jews boaſted that the Divine Majeſty dwelt among them. After the days of Jacob, ſaith the Book (d) Coſri, holy men increaſed into a great Aſſembly, and the Shechinah, or Divine Majeſty reſted upon them by love to be their God. This favour God here promiſes to pious Chriſtians, as being the true Iſraelites. Again, they alſo thought that purity from Uncleanneſs was a neceſſary requiſite to obtain this preſence of God. (e) For God, ſay they, doth not appropriate his name to Iſrael to be called their God, but when their Camps are holy; but at that very moment that they are ſo, he makes his preſence to dwell among them, and becomes their God; and theſe things the Apoſtle, according to the Scripture Language, here applies to the Society of Chriſtians. And oh! what a powerful Argument do they miniſter to all Chriſtians, to cleanſe themſelves from all filthineſs of fleſh and ſpirit, perfecting holineſs in the fear of God, as they deſire this Almighty Lord and Protector to be ſtill preſent with them, and would not be obnoxious to the dreadful woe which certainly will follow upon his departure, Hoſea 9. 12. as they would have this God to be their God, which is a ſtate of preſent bliſs, for bleſſed are the people who have the Lord for their God, as they would have been related to them as an heavenly Father, which relation ſecures the enjoyment of all Bleſſings to them, which they duly ask, Matth. 7. 12. Laſtly, as they deſire to be his Sons and Daughters, and by that glorious Relation to be made heirs of God, joynt Heirs with Chriſt, Rom. 8. 17. and to have the Spirit of his Son in their hearts, crying Abba, Father, Gal. 4. 6.

AN APPENDIX TO THE Sixth Chapter of the Second Epiſtle TO THE CORINTHIANS.

MOnſieur le Clerk hath obſerved in his Arts Critica, part 1. c. 8. p. 110. That ſince the time of St. Auſtin, ſcarce any word hath been uſed more frequently in ſpeaking concerning the Converſion of a Sinner, then is that of Grace; and yet if you ask them that uſe it what they mean by it, they can give you no clear Anſwer: So that a Jeſuite ſaid, not unpleaſantly, That it was nothing but a Neſcio quid, and that the Grace of God in Scripture doth always ſignifie not any ſecret Afflatus, but his Mercy and his Kindneſs to us. Now that I may not ſeem, with his witty Jeſuite, to ridicule, or with the Pelagians to deny that Grace, becauſe my Note in this Chapter, partly accordeth with his Criticks, I ſhall here briefly ſhew two things:

1*ſt*, That it ſeems neceſſary to aſſert that God vouchſafes to Men, not only the outward Diſpenſations of his Word to be the ordinary means of their Converſion and Sanctification, but alſo ſome inward Aſſiſtances and Operations of his holy Spirit.

2*ly*, I ſhall endeavour to ſhew that theſe Aſſiſtances may be ſo explained, as to be no more unintelligible, then are all the Influences of God upon the Soul, or the Temptations of the Evil Spirit.

Firſt, That it is neceſſary to aſſert that God vouchſafes to Men ſome inward Operations or Aſſiſtances of his Holy Spirit, to encline them to what is good, convert, and ſanctifie them. For

1. Why elſe is it expreſly ſaid, That God works in us both to will and to do of his good pleaſure, Philip. 2.13. and doth within us what is acceptable in his ſight, Hebr. 13. 21. for ſure he cannot properly be ſaid ἐνεργεῖν, καὶ ποιεῖν ἐν ἡμῖν, to act and work within us, who does, and worketh nothing in us. Yea, how doth the Word of God it ſelf, when heard, or read, work on us but by making impreſſions on our Minds? and ſhall that be deny'd to God himſelf which we allow to his Word? or ſhall he not be believed, when he ſaith, He doth work in us both to will and do, He do's in us what is acceptable in his ſight?

Again, Does it not ſeem unreaſonable to deny that influence to God, and the Good Spirit to excite Men to goodneſs, which generally is, and muſt according to the Scripture, be allowed to the Evil Spirit tempting Men to wickedneſs. Now, though this Evil Spirit cannot lay us under a neceſſity of doing wickedly, yet is he frequently in Scripture repreſented as a Tempter to ſin, which he can only be immediately by raiſing ſome Ideas in our Brain which do excite, diſpoſe, and move us, as our own thoughts, or inward ſentiments, at other times, are wont to do, to what is evil. He alſo is in Scripture ſtiled that Spirit which ἐνεργεῖ works inwardly in the Children of Diſobedience, Eph. 2. 2. and leads them captive εἰς τὸ ἐκείνου θέλημα, to do his will, 2 Tim. 2. 26. which words ſeem plainly to import ſome inward energy of Satan to excite them to this diſobedience to the will of God, and this complyance with his own will, ſince then ſtronger is he that is in us, then he that is in the world, 1 John 4.4. i. e. that good Spirit which dwells in pious Men, is more powerful in them then Satan is in wicked Men, we muſt allow this good Spirit ἐνεργεῖν to work in the Children of Obedience, as Satan is allowed to work in his own Children.

Moreover the evil Spirit is repreſented as a lying Spirit in the mouth of Ahab's Prophets, 1 Kings 22. 21. He moved David to number the People, 1 Chron. 21. 1. He entred into Judas, Luke 22. 3. He fill'd the heart of Ananias to lie to the Holy Ghoſt, Acts 5. 3. All which Expreſſions can never be accounted for without allowing him ſome power to work upon the Spirits of theſe Perſons, ſo as to raiſe within them ſome ſuch Ideas as would excite, and ſtir them up to the performance of thoſe actions. Nor can we otherwiſe give any rational account of the Snares, Methods, Wiles, and Deviſes of Satan mentioned 2 Cor. 2. 11. Eph. 6. 11. or tell how he comes, and takes away the word out of the heart, Luke 8. 12. or how he takes advantage over us when we are overwhelm'd with grief, 2 Cor. 2. 10.

When therefore, on the other hand, God is ſaid to put his fear, and his law in our hearts, Jer. 32. 40. Hebr. 8. 10. and his ſpirit within us, Exek. 36. 27. to create in us a clean heart, and renew in us a right ſpirit, ibid. to give us a new heart, Ezek. 11. 9. to circumciſe, and to convert the heart, Deut. 30. 6. Jer. 31. 18. If he by his good Spirit raiſeth no good Motions, or Ideas in us, which may diſpoſe us to his fear, and by attention to them may convert and cleanſe our hearts, if he vouchſafes unto us no inward Illuminations, by attending to which we may diſcern the wondrous things of his Law, what can theſe Words or Metaphors import? Or why is his Spirit put within us, if he hath nothing to do there? yea, why are we ſaid to be ſtrengthned with might through the Spirit in the inward man to do his will? Eph. 3. 16. to be enabled through the Spirit to mortifie the deeds of the fleſh, Rom. 8. 13. Why is this Spirit ſaid to help our infirmities, v. 26. to purifie our hearts, 1 Pet. 1. 22. to be unto us a Spirit of Sanctification, 1 Cor. 6. 11. the Comforter, the Spirit of Power, Love, and of a ſound Mind, 2 Tim. 1. 7. For how is it poſſible he ſhould be all, or any of theſe things to us, or ſhould do all, or any of theſe things for us, by doing nothing in us? And ſeeing Conſolation ariſeth only from the inward teſtimony of the Conſcience; ſeeing Sanctification conſiſts in the renewing of the inward Man, and hath the Soul for its Subject; ſeeing the Heart is purified by an inward change, and temper, which renders it averſe from ſin, and ſets the Affections, Deſires, and Inclinations of the Soul againſt it; ſeeing the Deeds of the Fleſh are only mortified by ſuch a Renovation of the Mind as makes us to diſcern the pernicious Effects and dreadful Conſequences of living ſtill according to our fleſhly Appetites, and ſo begetteth a dread and hatred of them, a Reſolution to forſake them, a vehement Deſire to be freed from them, a ſincere Endeavour to reſiſt the Motions of the Fleſh, and a Care that we do not for the future yield Obedience to it in the luſtings of it; if then there be no Renovation wrought in us by the Spirit, no Teſtimony of him with our ſpirits that we are the Sons of God, how can a Man conceive that all this ſhould be done by the Spirit without any energy on the Mind, and the Affections of a Man, and by that conſequently on the Will?

Moreover, if the holy Spirit hath no hand in producing, and carrying on the new Life, why is he ſtiled πνεῦμα ζωοποιοῦν, a quickning or life-giving Spirit, ſeeing all Vital Operations iſſue from a Spirit acting in us, why are we ſaid to live in the Spirit, Gal. 5. 15. and to walk in the Spirit, Rom. 8. 14. and ἄγεσθαι to be lead, or conducted by the Spirit of God. For as in natural and moral actions, we cannot be ſaid to live, or walk, without an inward Principle of Life and Motion, or to be led or guided in thoſe Actions, but by the Light of Reaſon, ſo neither can we properly be ſaid to live, and walk in the Spirit, or to be guided by him, if he imparts no inward Light to guide us in the ways of Piety, no inward motions to excite us to walk in them, no inward ſtrength or vital efficacy for the performance of them. And were it otherwiſe, why are all thoſe inward habits and diſpoſitions which adorn the Soul, and make it meet for the inheritance of Saints in light, ſtiled the Fruits, not of the preaching of the Word, or of our own Conſideration, but of the holy Spirit? For how are they his Fruits, if he doth nothing to produce them? why are they ſtill aſcribed, according to this Doctrine, never to that which only doth, but to that only which doth not produce them?

To ſay theſe things, and theſe expreſſions concern only the times in which the extraordinary Gifts and Operations of the Holy Spirit were vouchſafed, is to make future Ages, ſince the ceaſing of theſe Gifts, deſpair of being quickned, ſanctified, or comforted, or even enabled to purifie the heart, or to mortifie the deeds of the fleſh, to live or walk in the Spirit, and conſequently to deſpair of being now the Sons of God, united to Chriſt Jeſus, or having any of the Fruits of the Spirit wrought within them. And were it only then that no Man could be regenerate, or born again without Water and the Holy Ghoſt, by what are we now regenerated? Why are we now baptized? or why is Baptiſm adminiſtred ſtill in the name of the Holy Ghoſt?

In fine, it ſeems not poſſible, according to this Hypotheſis, to explain how, or to what end the Holy Spirit is ſo often ſaid to dwell, or to abide within us; how we are made an habitation of God through the Spirit; How we are made the Temples of God through the Holy Ghoſt which is in us, or united to Chriſt by the Spirit, or to what end the Holy Ghoſt thus dwells, or takes up his abode in them, in whom he acteth nothing, or reſts upon thoſe Chriſtian Sufferers whom he doth not inſpire with inward courage. And yet this abode of the good Spirit with us, is repreſented not only as the higheſt Priviledge, but as the ineſtimable advantage of the Chriſtian. By this Chriſt, doth doth encourage his Diſciples to demonſtrate their love to him by keeping his Commandments, that then the Father will love them, and we, ſaith he, will take up our abode with them, John 14. 23. By this, ſaith the Apoſtle, God becomes our God, and we his People, our Father, we his Sons and Daughters, 2 Cor. 6. 16. And from our union by this Spirit to our Head Chriſt Jeſus, ſuch an ἐνεργεία, or inward working, is ſaid to be diffuſed through every part of his myſtical Body, as cauſeth the whole Body to encreaſe, and edifie it ſelf in love, Eph. 4. 16. Coloſſ. 2. 19. Now what account can be offered of theſe things, without allowing ſome inward Operations of the Holy Spirit, as the conſequence of this Spiritual Union, and this inhabitation of the Holy Spirit in us? yea, who can tell what is the advantage of theſe promiſes, I will put my ſpirit in you, or pour him upon you, Prov. 1. 23. Jer. 36. 27. 37. 14. Zach. 12. 10. John 7. 37, 38. if we receive no influx from him thus put into our hearts? What, laſtly, is it for the Holy Spirit to depart, or to be taken from us? or what can be the dreadful miſery and woe denounced upon us when he doth ſo? For if he did nothing in us whilſt he continued to be with us, what can we loſe by his departure? or why did David ſo importunately beg God would not take his holy Spirit from him? Pſal. 51. 12.

To ſay here the holy Spirit only dwelt in Chriſtians, whilſt the extraordinary Gifts and Afflatus of the holy Spirit were continued to the Church, and they lay under Perſecution from the Heathen Emperours, is not only to contradict the tenor of the Scriptures, which declare that all Chriſt's living Members are thus united by the Spirit to their Head, 1 Cor. 12. 13. and that if any man have not the Spirit of Chriſt, dwelling in him, he is none of his, Rom. 8. 9. He cannot be the Son of God, for as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the Sons of God, v. 14. He hath no right to call God Father, v. 15. no intereſt in the adoption, and the inheritance of Sons, v. 17. but it is alſo to enervate the virtue of the Promiſes of Chriſt, and the conſolation of Chriſtians of all future Ages under their Sufferings for the ſake of Chriſt; yea, it is in effect to make the diſpenſation of the Goſpel ceaſe, the difference betwixt that, and the Law, being by the Apoſtle placed in this, that the one is the miniſtration of the Letter only, the other alſo of the Spirit. And if this were ſo only whilſt theſe extraordinary Operations of the holy Spirit laſted, then from the time that they have ceaſed, the Goſpel doth not in this differ from the Law, or deſerve to be preferr'd above it on that account.

Argument 2. This Doctrine ſeems to take off from the energy of Prayer in general, and from the virtue of Prayer for the Holy Spirit in particular, and ſo to make Men ſlight and neglect that Duty of which the Scripture ſpeaketh ſo magnificently, and to which it ſo frequently exhorts us, at leaſt, it ſeems not well conſiſtent with the tenor of thoſe inſpired Prayers, or thoſe Preſcriptions for it recorded in the Holy Scripture. For who can reconcile it with thoſe Expreſſions in which holy Men of God ſo often beg God would encline their hearts unto him, ſince this he cannot do without ſome Operation on their hearts, that he would draw them, that they might run after him, that he would open their eyes, and give them underſtanding to diſcern his Law, that he would lead them in the right way, in the way everlaſting, and guide them by his eye? For if God by his Spirit hath no influence upon the Heart, or Soul, how doth he encline, or draw it? if none upon the underſtanding, how doth he enlighten or inſtruct it? if this be done duly by the Word read, preach'd, and pondered in the heart, we may as well apply our ſelves to that work without, as with Prayer, unleſs we in theſe caſes pray for ſome new external Revelations, or for ſome Motives not contain'd in Scripture.

Moreover, according to this Doctrine, it ſeems both fruitleſs and abſurd to pray for the aſſiſtance of the holy Spirit, or to expect we ſhould enjoy it. And ſo that paſſage of St. Luke, Ask and ye ſhall receive, ſeek and you ſhall find, knock and it ſhall be opened to you; for if evil parents give good gifts to their children, how much more will your heavenly Father give his holy Spirit to them that ask him, Luke 11. 9, 13. muſt be of no uſe or virtue to us. For what in theſe Expreſſions can we pray for, but the aſſiſtance of the holy Spirit? and what aſſiſtance can he afford us, if he doth not operate at all upon our Souls?

To ſay this Promiſe is to be confined to the Apoſtles days, ſeems not agreeable to reaſon; for why then do we hear of it in the Sermon on the Mount, which certainly was ſpoken εἰς ἀκοὰς τοῦ λαοῦ, in the audience of the multitude? Why doth it run in words ſo general πᾶς γάρ, for every one that asks receives? Moreover, thoſe ſpiritual and ordinary Effects for which the holy Spirit was then given, thoſe Fruits of the Spirit they produced in them, are as needful, and as ſpiritually good for Chriſtians now, as when our Saviour ſpake theſe words; for as the holy Spirit was needful then to ſtrengthen Chriſt's Servants in the inward man to do his will, Eph. 3. 16. to comfort them in Tribulations, and ſupport them under fiery Trials, and to preſerve them from the Subtilties of Satan, and the Temptations of the wicked World, ſo is there the ſame need of his aſſiſtance now for all theſe gracious ends, and therefore the ſame reaſon to expect him ſtill to all theſe purpoſes. Moreover, the Conditions of this Promiſe may be performed by us now, as well as then; we may be now ſincerely deſirous to obey the holy

Will

Will of God, and with true fervency and importunity may beg the holy Spirit to this end. And if we may acceptably perform thoſe Duties to which this Promiſe is annexed, why may we not as confidently expect the Bleſſing promiſed from the God of Truth? For the encouragement here given to expect the aſſiſtance of the holy Spirit is this, that we ask him of our heavenly Father. Now this moſt comfortable relation God bears to all his Children of what Age ſoever, he is the ſame yeſterday, to day, and for ever; and therefore there is now, and ever will be, the ſame benignity in God, the ſame good will and readineſs in him to give his holy Spirit now unto this Children for all needful purpoſes, as in all former Ages. If therefore in like manner we do ask, we muſt have equal reaſon to expect we ſhould receive him. To proceed therefore

2*ly*, To explain, as far as I am able, and think it needful ſo to do, how thoſe Fruits of the Spirit, which the Schools call Graces, are wrought in us by the Spirit of God.

1*ſt*, I aſſert that the manner in which the holy Spirit acts upon the Minds and Hearts of Men, for the production of theſe Fruits or Graces, and the preparatory Diſpoſitions of the Soul towards them, may reaſonably be conceived to be ſuch as is ſutable to the Reaſon and Faculties of Men, viz. the Underſtanding and the Will. Now it is certain, that what naturally makes the Underſtanding to perceive is Evidence propoſed and apprehended, conſidered or adverted to, for nothing further can be requiſite to make me come unto the knowledge of the truth, and underſtand what the will of the Lord is, and ſo be wiſe unto ſalvation. Hence the Apoſtle prays that his Philippians might abound more and more in knowledge, and in all wiſdom, ἐν πάσῃ αἰσθήσει, in all perception, that ſo they may approve the things that are moſt excellent, Philip. 1. 9, 10. Hence he ſpeaks to the Romans thus, Be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, εἰς τὸ δοκιμάζειν, that you may diſcern and approve what is according to the good, and acceptable, and perfect will of God, Rom. 12. 2. and ſaith to the Epheſians, Be ye not unwiſe, but underſtanding what the will of the Lord is, Eph. 5. 17. and v. 8, 10. Walk as children of the light, approving what is acceptable to the Lord. Again, what makes the Will chuſe, is ſomething approved by the Underſtanding, and conſequently appearing to the Soul as good, and whatſoever it refuſeth is ſomething repreſented by the Underſtanding, and ſo appearing to the Will as evil, whence all that God requires of us is, and can be only this, to refuſe the evil, and to chuſe the good. Wherefore to ſay that Evidence propoſed, apprehended, and conſidered is not ſufficient to make the Underſtanding to approve; or that the greateſt Good propoſed, the greateſt Evil threatned, when equally believed, and reflected on, is not ſufficient to engage the Will to chuſe that Good, and to refuſe that Evil, is in effect to ſay, that which alone doth move the Will to chuſe, or to refuſe, is not ſufficient to engage it ſo to do; that which alone is requiſite to make me underſtand and approve, is not ſufficient ſo to do. Now this being contradictory to it ſelf, muſt of neceſſity be falſe.

Be it then that we have naturally an averſion to the Truths propoſed to us in the Goſpel, that only can make us indiſpoſed to attend to them, but cannot hinder our conviction when we apprehend them, and attend to them. Whence for removal of it, the Apoſtle only prays that the eyes of our underſtanding may be enlightned, that we may know them, Eph. 18 adding, that where the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in Chriſt Jeſus was revealed, if after this their Goſpel was hid from any, it was only ſo, becauſe the God of this world had blinded the conceptions of their minds, that the light of the Goſpel might not ſhine into them, 2 Cor. 4. 3, 4. Be it that there is in us a renitency to the Good we are to chuſe; that only can indiſpoſe us to believe, and to approve it as our chiefeſt Good. Be it that we are prone to the Evil which we ſhould decline; that only can render it the more difficult for us to believe it is the worſt of Evils. But yet, what we do really conceive to be our chiefeſt Good will ſtill be choſen, and what we apprehend to be the worſt of Evils, will, whilſt we do continue under that conviction, be refuſed by us. It therefore can be only requiſite, in order to theſe ends, that the good Spirit ſhould ſo illuminate our Underſtandings, that we attending to, and conſidering what lyes before us, ſhould apprehend, and be convinced of our Duty, and that the Bleſſings of the Goſpel ſhould be ſo propounded to us, as that we may diſcern them to be our chiefeſt Good, and the Miſeries it threatens, ſo as we may be convinced they are the worſt of Evils, that we may chuſe the one, and refuſe the other. Now to conſider in order to approbation and conviction, to chuſe in order to our good, and refuſe that we may avoid miſery, muſt be the actions not of God, but Man, though the Light that doth convince, and the Motives which engage him thus to chuſe, and to refuſe, are certainly from God.

To illuſtrate this more familiarly by an inſtance taken from our ſelves, or our deportment towards others: When a Man, in words plain and intelligible, ſpeaks to another, if he will hearken to what he ſays, he muſt underſtand his mind; for by that very impreſſion the words make upon his Brain, he immediately perceives his meaning. And cannot the Divine Impreſſion on the Brain, which is God's ſpeaking inwardly to Man, do the ſame thing? This action is indeed ſo neceſſary, that as it is, not virtuous, or praiſe-worthy in any Man to to underſtand the mind of him who doth thus ſpeak to him, ſo neither ſeemeth it praiſe-worthy in us, purely to underſtand the Mind of God thus ſpeaking to us. Again, theſe words of Man contain ſome exhortation to me to do what he deſires I would do, backt with incouragements to do ſo, taken from the propoſal of ſome advantage, the promiſe of ſome good I ſhall receive by complying with his exhortation; or they contain ſome dehortation from doing what he would not have me do, becauſe it will be hurtful to me, or will be certainly attended with ſome evil conſequences: Is not this the method uſed by all the World in dealing with one another? and do they not do all this with hopes and expectation of ſucceſs? And is it not a great diſparagement to the Word of God to think that his Perſwaſions, Admonitions, Exhortations, Promiſes, and Threats ſhould be all inſufficient to prevail with us to turn from our ſinful Courſes, and turn to him, when all Men who do uſe theſe methods towards their Children, Servants, Friends, or Relations do it in hopes that they ſhall be ſucceſsful by theſe means? Moreover, if the Perſon they addreſs to be ſlow of underſtanding, do they not hope to overcome that difficulty by the clearneſs of their diſcourſe, and by reiterating the ſame thing by ſuch variety of Expreſſions as he is beſt able to perceive? if he be averſe from doing that which is deſired, do they not hope to overcome that averſion by repeated exhortations, and vigorous impreſſions of thoſe incouragements they tender to prevail upon him to comply with their deſire? If he ſtrongly be inclin'd to that from which they vehemently dehort him, do they not endeavour to turn the bent and current of his Inclinations by the like repeated Exhortations, and lively Repreſentations of the Evils he will be certainly expoſed to by ſo doing? All Men are therefore of this opinion in their practiſe, that acting with Men by convincing Reaſon, and by Motives, and Perſwaſions, is acting with them ſuitably unto their Faculties. And is not God himſelf of the ſame mind? hath he not revealed his will on purpoſe that we may know it? hath he not directed his Letters and Epiſtles to us, that by reading we may underſtand them, and know the things which do belong to our peace? Did not our Saviour utter all his diſcourſes to the ſame end? why elſe doth he enquire ſo oft, Why is it that ye do not underſtand my ſpeech? John 8. 43. How is it that ye do not underſtand? Mark 8. 21. why doth he preface them with this inſtruction, hear and underſtand, Matth. 15. 10. Doth not God call upon us to conſider of our ways, and lay to heart his ſayings, and his diſpenſations, Hag. 1. 5, 7. Doth he not preſcribe this as the Remedy for preventing his Judgments, when he ſays, Oh conſider this ye that forget God, Pſal. 50. 21. and of being wiſe, by ſaying, Oh that they were wiſe, that they would conſider their latter end, Deut. 32. 29. doth he not repreſent this as the ſource of all the wickedneſs and idolatry of his own People, that they would not conſider in their heart? Iſa. 1. 3. 44. 19. Doth he not make Converſion the effect of this Conſideration, when he ſaith, Becauſe he conſidereth and turneth away from all the tranſgreſſions that he hath committed, he ſhall ſurely live, Ezek. 18. 29. Pſal. 119. 59. Yea doth he not repreſent this as a juſt ground of hope that even the moſt ſtubborn ſinners may be reformed, when he ſaith to the Prophet, Remove by day in their ſight, it may be they will conſider, though they be a rebellious people, Ezek. 12. 3. Does not the Apoſtle pray that his Coloſſians may be filled with the knowledge of his will in all wiſdom, that (ſo) they might walk worthy of the Lord to all well pleaſing, being fruitful in every good work? Coloſſ. 1. 9, 10. that his Philippians might diſcern and approve the things that are moſt excellent, that they might be ſincere, and without offence, being filled with all the fruits of righteouſneſs, &c. Philip. 1. 10, 11. And muſt not then this knowledge and approbation of his Will be a means of rendring us fruitful in all Works of Righteouſneſs? Does not God require his People to chuſe life, Deut. 30. 19. pronouncing a Bleſſing on them that chuſe the things that pleaſe him, Iſa. 56. 4. and threatning deſtruction ro them that would not chuſe the fear of the Lord, Prov. 1. 29. but choſe the things in which he delighted not, Iſa. 56. 4. Now doth he any thing more to prevail with them who do not chuſe the fear of the Lord, do not the things that pleaſe him, to engage them ſo to do, or not to do the contrary, but teach them his ways, and to perſwade them to walk in them? Muſt it not then be certain, that either he tranſacts with them, as Men who might by theſe things be induced to chuſe to fear him, and do the things that pleaſe him, and abſtain from the contrary, or threatens to deſtroy them for doing what they could not help, and had no means ſufficient to avoid, and for not doing what it was impoſſible for them to do? Again, doth he not exhort Men to be willing and obedient, promiſing a full pardon, and a bleſſing unto them that do ſo? Iſa. 1. 18, 19. Doth not Chriſt reſolve the deſtruction of the Jews into this, You will not come unto me that you may have life, John 5. 40. declaring this to be the reaſon why they were not Gathered, becauſe he often would have gathered them, but they would not be gathered, Luke 13. 34. becauſe being ſo graciouſly invited to the Marriage Feaſt, they would not come? Matth. 22. 3. Now what did he to engage them to come unto him to gather them, to prevail upon them to come unto the Marriage Feaſt, but ſhew them the way of Life, exhort and invite them to come unto the Feaſt? Either then he tranſacted with them, as one who knew this was ſufficient for theſe ends, and that theſe things might have prevail'd upon them to be willing, or elſe he reſolved on their excluſion from the Marriage Feaſt, and their not taſting his Supper, for not doing what they could not do, and condemned them for not coming when they could not, becauſe the Father did not draw them, or give them to him, John 6. 37, 44. and for not being gathered when indeed he would not, whatever he ſaid to the contrary, ſeeing he would not do that for them without which they could not be gathered. Moreover, doth he not earneſtly exhort and perſwade Men to repent, and turn from the evil of their ways? doth he not ſay, Oh that my people would have hearkned to me, that Iſrael would have walked in my ways? Pſal. 81. 13. Oh that they were wiſe, that they would underſtand this! Deut. 32. 29. Oh Jeruſalem, wilt thou not be made clean, when ſhall it once be? Jer. 13. 27. Oh that thou hadſt known in this thy day the things which belong unto thy peace! Luke 19. 42. Now either in theſe Exhortations and Perſwaſions he acts with Men ſuitably to their Faculties, exhorting them to do, and pathetically wiſhing they had done, what they might have done, though they did it not; or called them to repent that they did not do what they never could do, that they did not avoid what it was impoſſible they ſhould avoid, and even to repent that God had not irreſiſtably done this for them, and ſeriouſly wiſhed they themſelves would have done what, if it ever had been done, muſt have been done by himſelf, and therefore was not done, becauſe he would not irreſiſtably work the change in them.

In fine, doth not God encourage Men to repent and believe, to be willing and obedient, by great and precious Promiſes of the moſt excellent, and laſting Bleſſings? Hath he not threatned eternal Damnation to them that do not believe? Mark 16. 15, 16. hath not he ſaid, He will come in flaming fire, taking vengeance on all that obey not the Goſpel? 2 Theſſ. 1. 7. And muſt not all theſe things ſufficiently convince us, that God acts with Men as one who doth indeed ſuppoſe that Men may hearken to his Exhortations, and comply with his Perſwaſions to believe, and to obey his Goſpel? may be prevail'd on by his Promiſes to the performance of their Duty, and terrified by the conſideration of the Judgments threatned from their Diſobedience? Why elſe is it ſaid, that God hath given us theſe great and precious promiſes, that by them we may be made partakers of a divine nature? 2 Pet. 1. 2. or why are we exhorted, having theſe promiſes, to cleanſe our ſelves from all filthineſs of fleſh and ſpirit, perfecting holineſs in the fear of God? 2 Cor. 7. 1. or why doth the Apoſtle ſay, Knowing then the terror of the Lord, we perſwade men? 2 Cor. 5. 11. if beyond all this, there be ſome phyſical and irreſiſtable operation on God's part, neceſſary to make Men know, and knowing chuſe the Good, and refuſe the Evil? this being not wrought in them who are not born anew, why is the want of this New Birth, and this Spiritual Regeneration, ſo oft imputed to the want of their Conſideration, and their not laying to heart the things propounded to them, to their not enclining their ear to wiſdom, and not applying their hearts to underſtanding; and their not framing their doings to turn unto the Lord? Prov. 1. 24—30. Hoſ. 5. 4. If it be ſaid, this may be done becauſe they had grace and ſtrength ſufficient in their firſt Parents ſo to do, I anſwer, Admit that vain imagination that we had, what never we indeed had, or could have, becauſe 'twas loſt long before we had a being, yea, what Adam never had, becauſe then he muſt have had power to repent after his Fall, and then we muſt have it ſtill, for what power he had to repent after his fall, he could not loſe by his fall; I ſay, admit this Suppoſition, what is it to the import of all the Exhortations, Perſwaſions, and Motives contained in the Goſpel, which are all directed to fallen Man, and ſo, if God be ſerious in them, declare his great unwillingneſs that fallen Man ſhould periſh, his paſſionate deſire that he ſhould be ſaved, and if he ſpeaketh in them ſuitably to the Capacities and Faculties of fallen Man, plainly ſuppoſe him ſtill in a Capacity by theſe Aſſiſtances and Motives to underſtand his Duty, and to chuſe the Good, and refuſe the Evil?

Prop. 2. I add, that this is not ordinarily, and needs not at all to be done now, by propounding to the Underſtanding any Truths, or to the Will any Motives or Inducements which are not contain'd in Holy Scripture. For if the Word of God be a perſpicuous and perfect Rule, able to make us wiſe to ſalvation, and furniſhed for every good work, ſure the good Spirit may, by ſuggeſting the Truths contained in it, and bringing them to our remembrance, and opening our Underſtandings to perceive the Scriptures, ſufficiently remove the darkneſs that is in our Minds; if it be a light ſhining in darkneſs, 2 Pet. 1. 19. and πάντα ἐλεγχόμενα, all Errors to be corrected, all Vices to be reproved, are made manifeſt by the light, Eph. 5. 13. then muſt it be ſufficient to illuminate our Underſtandings, and direct our Paths, or lead our feet into the way of truth. Again, ſeeing the Motives contained in the Scripture, to engage us to turn from thoſe evil ways which tend to our diſquiet, torment and miſery at preſent, and will hereafter ſubject us to eternal Miſeries, muſt be ſufficient to turn us from the evil of our ways, or elſe the higheſt Motives that can be offered muſt be inſufficient to that end, all other Motives to deter us from any action as pernicious and diſadvantagious to us, being as nothing, when compared to that, depart from me ye wicked into eternal eternal fire; all Evils we can dread, or ſuffer from the hand of Man, as little in reſpect of that we muſt have cauſe to fear from him who can deſtroy both ſoul and body in hell fire. Since, on the other hand, the promiſe of everlaſting Happineſs, recorded in the ſame Scriptures, as the reſult of our ſincere Obedience, muſt be ſufficient to engage us in a ſincere endeavour to yield that obedience to the good and holy will of God, or no Inducements can be ſufficient to that end, ſeeing this Motive eminently contains all other Motives in it, there being more in thoſe two words, the enjoyment of God, and everlaſting happineſs, then Kingdoms, Thrones, and Treaſures, Joy, Pleaſures, Honours, and all that can expreſs the good things of this World, imports, and therefore a more vehement conſtraining power in them, to the performance of our Duty, than in the united ſtrength of worldly Greatneſs, Honour, Pleaſures, and that which repreſenteth to our hopes and our deſires, that which incomparably excels all we can hope for, or deſire beſides; I ſay, this being ſo, the holy Spirit, by making deep impreſſions on the Mind of the Advantages and Rewards promiſed to our Converſion and ſincere Obedience, and of the dreadful Evils threatned to the Diſobedient, and bringing theſe things oft to our remembrance, which in the Scripture phraſe is putting theſe laws in our minds, and writing them upon our hearts; ſee Note on Hebr. 8. 10. muſt do what is ſufficient to work in us Converſion and ſincere Obedience. For what reaſon can be given why the Spirit of Wiſdom, having enlightned the eyes of our underſtanding to know what is the hope of our calling, and the glorious riches of the inheritance of the Saints, Eph. 1. 18. And theſe things being thus made preſent to our Minds, ſhould not have greater prevalence upon our Wills to obedience, than any Temporal Concerns to yield obedience to the Laws of Man? 'Tis certain, Satan can only tempt us by ſuggeſting ſome Temporal Allurements and Advantages, or ſome Temporal Loſſes or Affrightments to us. Since then the Scripture doth aſſure us, this is our victory over the world, even our faith, 1 John 5. 4. i. e. our expectation of things hoped for, our evidence of things not ſeen, Hebr 11. 1. theſe Objects of our Faith contained in the Scriptures, being preſented to us, and impreſſed upon us by the holy Spirit, muſt be ſufficient to baffle all the Temptations of Sin, Satan, and the World. In fine, of this we may be ſufficiently convinced from the Experience of Mankind: For ſince the apprehenſion of Good or Evil is the ſole Motive to make us undertake, or decline any Action, the greater the Good or Evil is, the ſtronger Motive it muſt be. Now do not many Millions in the World forego their preſent Eaſe and Pleaſure, encounter Difficulties, adventure upon Dangers, and undergo moſt toilſome Labours, in expectation of ſome finite Temporal Advantage, of which they cannot have aſſurance? do they not oft abſtain from what they paſſionately love, only for fear of Dangers which poſſibly might not enſue upon the Satisfaction of their Appetites? do they not ſow, and plant, and trade only in hopes of an increaſe? and ſhould not then the hopes of infinite eternal Happineſs, and the dread of endleſs Miſeries, more powerfully engage us to obey God's Precepts, and to reſiſt all the Temptations which Fleſh and Blood ſuggeſts againſt them?

But then, becauſe the Bleſſings and Miſeries of another World are things inviſible, and only are diſcerned by the Eye of Faith, they being only Moral and Spiritual Motives, which only work upon us as they are preſent to our Minds by actual conſideration and reflection on them, and this they are not always, when the Temptations of the World, the Devil, and the Fleſh, by ſenſual Objects, are thus preſent with us; 'tis therefore neceſſary that at all times, when they are not thus preſent with us, and therefore cannot operate upon us, the holy Spirit ſhould either, by repreſenting to us from the Scriptures thoſe Divine Truths with which our Underſtandings have not been ſufficiently enlightned, inſtruct, and guide us; or elſe by reviving, and impreſſing on our Spirits thoſe Motives and Inducements to reſiſt thoſe Temptations, and to perform thoſe Duties which are required at our hands, aſſiſt us ſo to do.

Prop. 3. I therefore humbly conceive this inward operation of the holy Spirit to conſiſt in theſe two things.

1ſt, In repreſenting Divine Truths more clearly to our Underſtandings, that we may have a fuller Evidence, ſtronger Conviction and Aſſurance of them, which is in Scripture ſtiled the illumination of the mind.

2ly, In bringing of theſe Truths to our remembrance, that ſo they may be preſent with us, when this is requiſite to enable us to reſiſt Temptations, and to encourage us to the performance of our Duty. And upon ſuppoſition of theſe two things, that God acts with us ſuitably to the nature of our Faculties, on our Underſtanding, by repreſenting the Light to it, and on our Wills by Motives to chuſe the Good and refuſe the Evil, and that the higheſt Motives and Inducements poſſible, when firmly believed, and preſent to the Mind, muſt be ſufficient to produce their ends, it can be only requiſite to our Converſion and ſincere Obedience, that the good Spirit ſhould aſſiſt us in this work, by that illumination which is ſufficient to produce this ſtrong Conviction and Plerophory of Faith, and ſhould preſent thoſe Motives to our Memories, and make a deep impreſſion of them there, which being preſent, will move our Wills and our Affections to proſecute the ends for which they are ſufficient.

I am not ignorant that there be many, who beyond all this, require a phyſical and irreſiſtable Motion of the holy Spirit, in which we are wholly paſſive to the Converſion of a Sinner, and I ſhall not diſpute with them, that Controverſie being ſo fully handled by Dr. Clegat, but ſhall endeavour briefly to compound and ſtate the matter.

Firſt then, I ſay it muſt be granted, that in raiſing an Idea in my Brain by the holy Spirit, and the Impreſſion made upon it there, the action is properly phyſical.

2*ly*, That in theſe Actions I am purely paſſive; that is, I my ſelf do nothing formally to produce theſe Ideas, but the good Spirit, without my operation, doth produce them in me. And

3*ly*, That theſe Operations muſt be irreſiſtable in their production, becauſe they are immediately produced in me without my knowledge of them, and without my will, and ſo without thoſe Faculties by which I am enabled to act.

But then I add, that as far as they are ſo, they cannot be imputable to me, i. e. it cannot be praiſe-worthy in me, or rewardable, that I have ſuch Ideas raiſed in me; but only that, when they are thus raiſed in me, I attend to them, comply with, and improve them to the ends for which they were deſigned by the holy Spirit. To make this evident by an Example, it is on all hands granted, that Satan can ſo work upon the Brain, as to raiſe up in it impure and blaſphemous Ideas, but then it is as generally held, that the Thoughts they immediately produced, will never be imputed to us as our ſins, nor will God be diſpleaſed with us for them, if we do not after ſhew any good liking of them, or conſent unto them, but manfully reſiſt, and riſe up into deteſtation and abhorrence of them; and that becauſe the raiſing theſe Ideas is the Devil's action, not our own; we are purely paſſive in them till we conſent unto, or ſhew ſome liking of them; and they are alſo inevitable and irreſiſtable, it being in the power of no Man to prevent or reſiſt them; i. e. to hinder them from being raiſed in his Brain, or any ways to ſuppreſs them, till he doth firſt perceive them raiſed there. And therefore for the ſame reaſons thoſe Ideas which are objectively good, being thus raiſed in us, cannot be imputed to us for reward, nor can God be well pleaſed with us for them, till we co-operate with them; becauſe the raiſing of them is properly God's, not our own action, and we are purely paſſive in it; nor is it in our power to prevent, or to reſiſt them; but then, God having planted in us a Principle of Reaſon and Diſcretion, we can attend to them being raiſed, and ſo improve them to the illumination of our Underſtandings, and to the Approbation of them in our Minds. He alſo having given us a Will to chuſe the Good, and refuſe the Evil, we may conſent unto the good Suggeſtions, and purſue the good Motions raiſed thus in us; for to what other ends can they be raiſed in us by the holy Spirit? As therefore our attendance and conſent to the Suggeſtions of the evil Spirit being free, and what we may avoid is culpable, ſo our attendance to, and compliance with theſe Motions and Ideas of the holy Spirit, being things in which we are free and active, and that upon deliberation, and ſo in them we do perform the proper and free actions of a Man, doing that which we might not do, and refuſing to do that we have both power and temptations to perform, therefore theſe things muſt be praiſe-worthy and acceptable in the ſight of God.

I alſo add, that theſe Ideas being thus raiſed up in us by God alone, and even the power of attending and conſenting to them, being, together with our Nature, entirely derived from God; and all the Inducements which we have to attend to them, and comply with them, being properly of Divine external Revelation, or ſuch Divine internal operation as if they had not intervened, we ſhould have had none of theſe good Effects produced upon us, theſe Effects are properly to be aſcribed to God, and all the Praiſe and Glory of them muſt be due to him alone, becauſe the Principle of acting, and the Inducement thus to act is ſolely from him.

To conclude, the greateſt Inſtance of powerful Converſion I can call to mind, is that of perſecuting Saul. He is confounded by a light ſhining round about him brighter than the Sun; by this he is ſtruck down into the earth, and hears a dreadful voice from Heaven, ſaying, Saul, Saul, why perſecuteſt thou me? Now in all this he was purely paſſive, and the Action done upon him was phyſical and irreſiſtable; and therefore this Action being wholly Chriſt's, not his, there could be nothing in it on his part praiſe-worthy, or rendring him a better Man. But then, when he enquires of the holy Jeſus, Lord, what wouldſt thou have me to do? when he prays earneſtly for the forgiveneſs of his ſins, Acts 9. 11. when he ſubmits to that Baptiſm which was appointed by the Holy Jeſus for that end, and for the dedication of himſelf unto his Service, when, being told what grievous things he was to ſuffer for the Name of Jeſus, he notwithſtanding was not diſobedient to the heavenly Viſion, but went, and preached up that Faith which he had formerly oppoſed; theſe being Actions of deliberation and free choice, proceeding from Reflections on the heavenly Viſion, and the Conviction it had wrought upon him, him, muſt be praiſe-worthy and acceptable in the ſight of God. Though, being the Reſults of what our Lord had done upon him, he very properly aſcribeth the whole Glory of them to the Grace and Favour of our Lord towards him. Hence ſay St. Chryſoſtom and Oecumenius, He doth ſo magnifie the Grace of God in this matter, as μὴ λυμήνασθαι τὸ αὐτεξούσιον, not to invalidate man's free-will. See Note on 1 Tim. 1. 12. And that there is a perfect Harmony betwixt the operation of God's Grace, and the co-operation of our Wills, we learn from two Examples recorded in one Chapter, viz. 2 Cor. 8. 1, 3. where the Apoſtle advertiſeth the Corinthians of the Grace of God given to them of Macedonia; for ſaith the Apoſtle, they were according to their power, yea, and above their power αὐθαίρετοι of themſelves willing to contribute to the Neceſſities of the Saints, viz. the Contribution was an act of their own free-wills, proceeding from their choice; but the Grace and Favour of God given to them, was the Spring and Motive of it. So again, v. 16, 17. Thanks be to God τῷ διδόντι, to him that gave this care in the heart of Titus, for he excepted the exhortation, and being more forward αὐθαίρετος ἐξῆλθε, he went to you of his own accord; i. e. the Exhortation was from St. Paul, that which gave the weight and vigour to it, and rendred him more forward in it, was the Grace and Favour of God to him; the reflection on both made this Journey the matter of his own choice, and ſo he became willing on his own accord: yea, this is evident even from the very words, by ſome thought to aſſert the contrary, Philip. 2. 12, 13. Wherefore, beloved—not only as in my preſence, (when you had me to be your Monitor) but much more now in my abſence, (which God by the workings and inward teachings of his Spirit ſupplies) work out your ſalvation with fear and trembling, v. 13. For it is God that worketh in you, both to will and to do of his own good pleaſure; (i. e. ſometimes by outward, and ſometimes by inward means;) for if beyond theſe inward Suggeſtions and Perſwaſions, ſome phyſical and irreſiſtable Operations be required on God's part, which make it neceſſary for us, both to will and do, why are we then commanded to work out our own ſalvation; for can we act where we are purely paſſive? or can that be a reaſon why we our ſelves ſhould work, that another will effectually do that very thing without our co-operation? Is it not rather a manifeſt reaſon why we ſhould neither will, or work at all, ſince both is, and will be irreſiſtably performed without us? Why 2*ly*, are we bid to work out our Salvation with fear and trembling; for can there be any cauſe of fear and trembling leaſt that Salvation ſhould not be wrought out, which God works in us irreſiſtably? Surely if God works in us irreſiſtably both to will and do, there can be no poſſibility of Miſcarrying, and ſo no ground for fear and trembling. Why 3*ly*, are the Philippians exhorted to do this much more in St. Paul's abſence, than in his preſence, if when he was preſent, God wrought in them irreſiſtably to will and do, and could do no more in his abſence. 'Tis therefore evident, from theſe Conſiderations, that God works in us both to will and do, by giving us our Wills and Faculties, and then ſtirring them up to put forth their own Acts.

CHAP. VII.

Verſe 1. HAving therefore theſe promiſes, dearly beloved, (of a God thus related to, and dwelling with us,) let us cleanſe our ſelves from all filthineſs of fleſh (all uncleanneſs and intemperance) and ſpirit, (all idolatry) perfecting (or ſtill making progreſs in) holineſs, in the fear of (that holy) God (who dwelleth in, and ſtands ſo near related to us.)

Ἀπὸ πάσης μολυσμοῦ, from all filthineſs of fleſh and ſpirit.] The ſins of the Corinthians being Uncleanneſs and Idolatry, (See the Preface to the firſt Epiſtle, and the Notes on Chap. 10.) they ſeem to be here more eſpecially intended.

Ver. 2. (And) receive us (into your kind affections, for) we have wronged no man, we have corrupted no man (from the truth,) we have defrauded no man, (as your falſe Apoſtles have done, 2 Cor. 11. 3, 20.)

Ver. 3. I ſpeak not this (with an evil mind) to condemn you (as ſuſpecting ſuch things of us,) for I have ſaid before that you are in our hearts, (Chap. 3. 2. ſo that we are ready) to die, and live with you, (i. e. we love you ſo affectionately, that we could even die for the promotion of your welfare.)

Ver. 4. (And therefore) Great is my boldneſs (or freedom) of ſpeech toward you; great (alſo) is my glorying of you, (for your obedience, v. 14. and your liberality, 2 Cor. 9. 2.) I am exceeding joyful (on that account) in all our tribulations.)

Ἐπὶ πάσῃ τῇ θλίψει ἡμῶν, under all our tribulations.] As ἐπὶ ſignifies, Mark 2. 26. Luke 3. 2. 4. 17. Acts 11. 28. 1 Cor. 6. 1, 6. or amidſt them, as Luke 12. 14. or after them, as Philip. 2. 27. Hebr. 9. 15.

Ver. 5. (I ſay our tribulations.) For when we were come into Macedonia, our fleſh had no reſt (from them,) but we were troubled (and preſſed) on every ſide; without were fightings (with the Oppoſers of the Goſpel;) within were fears, (leſt the falſe Apoſtles ſhould have perverted you from the ſimplicity which is in Chriſt, 2 Cor. 11. 3.)

Ver. 6. Nevertheleſs (that) God that comforteth thoſe that are caſt down, comforted us alſo by the coming of Titus (with good tydings from you, v. 13.)

Ver. 7. And not by his coming only, but by the conſolation wherewith he was comforted in you, (which he diſcovered to us) when he told us your earneſt deſire (to rectifie what was amiſs in the matter of the inceſtuous perſon,) your mourning (for your miſcarriage in it,) your fervent mind towards me, (and zeal againſt my Adverſaries,) ſo that I rejoyced the more (for his conſolation, then for his coming.)

Ver. 8. For (therefore) though I made you ſorry with a letter, I do not repent, (Gr. I am not ſorry,) though I did repent, (Gr. though I was ſorry, viz. that I was forced to make you ſo, Chap. 2. 4.) for I perceive that the ſame Epiſtle hath made you ſorry, though it were but for a (little) ſeaſon.

Οὐ μεταμέλομαι, I do not repent.] It ſeems incongruous to think the Apoſtle ſhould repent of what he writ by the direction of the Holy Spirit, and to this very end to ſtir up a godly ſorrow in them; and therefore it ſeems better to render the Original εἰ μεταμέλομαι, εἰ καὶ μετεμελόμην with Grotius, and others, Non doleo quanquam doluit mihi, I am not ſorrow now, though I was ſorry when I writ this Epiſtle, doing it with many tears, Chap. 2. 4. Or thus, I do not repent, though I ſhould have repented, viz. if it had not found this good effect upon you.

Ver. 9. Now I rejoyce, not (barely) that ye were made ſorry, but that ye ſorrowed to repentance; for ye were made ſorry after a godly manner, that ye might receive damage by us in nothing.

Ver. 10. For godly ſorrow worketh repentance to ſalvation not to be repented of, (Gr. not repented of,) but the ſorrow of the world worketh death.

Ἀμεταμέλητον, not repented of.] That is, ſuch a change from the ſervice of ſin, to the Service of God, as we do not revoke, or repent of by relapſing again into the ſins once left off. Note alſo that godly ſorrow is not it ſelf repentance, but that which tends to work it in us by preſerving us from relapſing into that offence which created ſo much bitterneſs and anguiſh to us: The ſorrow of the world worketh death; it dries up the moiſture of the Body, Prov. 17. 22. and hath killed many, Eccluſ. 30. 23.

Ver. 11. For behold, this ſelf ſame thing that ye ſorrowed after a godly ſort, what carefulneſs it wrought in you (of obeying my directions, v. 15.) yea what clearing of your ſelves (from guilt by inflicting cenſures on the guilty perſon, and putting away evil from among you, 1 Cor. 15. 13.) yea, what indignation (againſt him who had ſo diſhonoured his profeſſion, and defiled the Church,) yea what fear (of my diſpleaſure, or the Rod I threated, 1 Cor. 4. 21.) yea what vehement deſire (to rectifie what was amiſs in this matter, v. 7.) yea what zeal (for me,) yea, what revenge (in puniſhing the delinquent, ſo that) in all things (by this deportment) you have approved your ſelves to be clear (from guilt) in this matter.

Ἁγνοὺς εἶναι, to be clear.] Note here that true repentance for ſin clears us from the guilt of it, not only in the ſight of God, but Man, ſo that it is both uncharitable, and unchriſtian to ſtigmatize, or reproach any perſon for the ſin we know, or believe he truly hath repented of.

Ver. 12. Wherefore though I wrote (ſo ſeverely) to you, I did it not for his cauſe that had done the wrong (as delighting in his puniſhment,) nor for his cauſe that had ſuffered wrong (i. e. out of particular kindneſs to the Father of the inceſtuous perſon,) but (chiefly) that our care for you in the ſight of God might appear to you.

Ver. 13. Therefore we are comforted in your comfort; (i. e. in the comfort we received from your deportment in this matter,) yea, and exceedingly the more joyed we for the joy of Titus (in you,) becauſe his ſpirit was refreſhed by you all.

Ver. 14. For (now) if I have boaſted any thing to him of you, I am not aſhamed; but as we ſpeak all things to you in truth (and ſincerity,) even ſo our boaſting which I have made before Titus is found a truth.

Ver. 15. And his inward affection (Gr. his bowels) is yet more abundant towards you, whilſt he remembreth the obedience of you all, how you received him with fear and trembling, (leſt there ſhould be any thing found in you that might offend him, or require my rod.)

Ver. 16. I rejoyce therefore that I (can) have (this) confidence in you in all things.

CHAP. VIII.

Verſe 1. MOreover, brethren, we do you to wit (Gr. we make known to you) the grace of God beſtowed on the Churches of Macedonia, (Philippi, Theſſalonica, Berœa, &c.)

Τὴν χάριν Θεοῦ τὴν δεδομένην ἐν, the grace of God beſtowed on.] Or the charitable Contribution given in the Churches of Macedonia, to which they were excited by God's rich grace towards them, for that χάρις ſignifies liberality, appears from v. 6. I exhorted Titus to finiſh in you τὴν χάριν ταύτην this charitable contribution. And v. 7. that ye alſo may abound ἐν τῇ χάριτι ταύτῃ in this liberal contribution. And v. 19. Who was choſen of the Churches to travel with us σὺν τῇ χάριτι ταύτῃ with this Charity to be diſpenſed by us. So Chap. 9. 8. God is able to make πᾶσαν χάριν all liberality abound among you. And 1 Cor. 16. 3. To bring τὴν χάριν your liberality to the poor Chriſtians. Hence χάρις is by Heſychius and Phavorinus interpreted a Gift, as it is here by the Apoſtle ſaying of this abounding Charity, Thanks be to God for this unſpeakable gift, Chap. 9. 14,15. This Charity is ſtiled the grace of God, either for its exceeding greatneſs, as Cedars of God, and Mountains of God, ſignifie great Mountains, and Cedars, Pſal. 36. 7. 80. 11. See Note on Acts 7. 20. Gen. 23. 6. 30. 5. Jon. 3. 3. or rather as proceeding from God, as the giver of this diſpoſition, and the motive to this Charity, as the zeal of God, 2 Cor. 11. 2. the love of God, 2 Cor. 5. 14. the grace of God, Tit. 2. 11.

Ver. 2. How that in a great trial of afflictions, the abundance of their joy (in the Holy Ghoſt appeared, 1 Theſſ. 1. 6.) and their deep Poverty abounded to the riches of their Liberality, (or how they being very poor, and much afflicted, Acts 16. 20. 17. 5, 13. did notwithſtanding with great chearfulneſs and joy make a rich contribution towards the relief of their poor Brethren in Judæa.)

Εἰς τὸ πλοῦτον τῆς ἁπλότητος αὐτῶν, to the riches of their liberality.] So the word ἁπλότης uſually ſignifies both in the Old and the New Teſtament. So Prov. 11. 25. ψυχὴ ἁπλῆ, the liberal ſoul ſhall be made fat. Rom. 12. 8. He that giveth, let him do it ἐν ἁπλότητι with liberality. 2 Cor. 9. 11. Being enriched in all things εἰς πᾶσαν ἁπλότητα to all liberality. And again v. 13. James 1. 5. If any man lack wiſdom, let him ask it of God, who giveth ἁπλῶς liberally.

Ver. 3. For to their power I bear record, yea, and beyond their power (or abilities,) they (unſolicited by us,) were willing of themſelves (to contribute to the neceſſities of the poor Saints in Judæa.)

Ὑπὲρ δύναμιν, beyond their power.] Thus (a) Philo notes it as the excellency of a Servant to engage in his Maſters Service, not only readily, and laboriouſly, but even ὑπὲρ δύναμιν beyond his ſtrength.

Ver. 4. (Not being intreated by us, but) Praying us with much intreaty that we would receive the gift, and take upon us the fellowſhip of miniſtring to the Saints, (or be one of thoſe who ſhould take care for the adminiſtration and conveyance of it to them, v. 19, 20, 21. Chap. 9. 12, 13. 1 Cor. 16. 4. Acts 24. 17.)

Ver. 5. And this they did, not as we hoped, (or thought the event would be, who could expect only a ſmall collection from men ſo poor, and ſo exhauſted,) but firſt (they) gave themſelves unto the Lord (i. e. to his ſervice in it,) and unto us (to be imployed in the promotion of this Charity, or the diſtribution of it to others) by the will of God (moving them ſo to do, or according to his will, 2 Cor. 9. 4.)

Οὐ καθὼς ἠλπίσαμεν, not as we hoped.] The word ἐλπίσας, hoping, is uſed by the (b) Atticks, ſay Grammarians, not only touching good things, but ſimply touching the event of what is future.

Ver. 6. Inſomuch that (ſeeing this forwardneſs in others) we deſired Titus, that as he had (in his laſt viſit of you) began, ſo he would (now) finiſh in you the ſame grace (or charity) alſo, (and ſo that ye be not defective in it.)

Ver. 7. Therefore (Gr. ἀλλ', but) as ye abound in every (other) thing (or gift,) in faith, and utterance, and knowledge, (1 Cor. 1. 5.) and in all diligence (to amend what I had blamed you for, 2 Cor. 7. 11.) and in your love to me, (ibid. v. 7. ſo) ſee that ye abound (or, I pray that ye would abound) in this grace alſo.

Ver. 8. I ſpeak not this by way of commandment, but (of advice only, v. 10.) by occaſion of the forwardneſs of others, and to prove the ſincerity of (c) your love to Chriſt and his Saints.

Οὐ κατ' ἐπιταγήν, not by way of commandment, or injunction.] i. e. The Apoſtle commands not how much they ſhould confer, much leſs that they ſhould give all their Subſtance, and live upon a common Stock, leaving nothing to themſelves which they could call their own; for where no man hath any thing of his own, there is no place for liberality.

Ver.

Ver. 9. (And command you I need not,) For ye know the grace (or kindneſs) of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, that though he was rich (Gr. that being rich,) yet for your ſakes he became poor, that (ὑμᾶς) ye through his poverty might be rich. (Or, as Chryſoſtom and Oecumenius read, that (ἡμεῖς) we through his poverty might be rich, which is the ſame in ſenſe with the other reading.)

Δι ὑμᾶς ἐπτώχευσε πλούσιος ὤν, being rich, he became poor for you.] Theſe words the Socinians interpret thus, That Chriſt being the only Son of God, conceived by the Holy Ghoſt, and endued with the power of the Holy Ghoſt, and being one to whoſe power all things in the Earth did yield, was therefore ſtiled rich; and that he became poor when he was bound, led away, expoſed to contempt, ſpit upon, ſmitten on the face, whip'd, crucified. But this Interpretation ſeems not well conſiſtent with the words of the Apoſtle. For

1. All theſe Sufferings are indeed proper indications of Infamy caſt upon him, and ſeeming Infirmity in him, but not of Poverty, ſeeing the richeſt Man may be expoſed to all, or any of theſe things.

2. The words ſeem to imply ſome change in the Perſon of whom it is here ſaid, that being rich, he became poor; whereas Chriſt was not leſs the Son of God, or leſs endued with power, when he thus ſuffered, as appears by the great Miracles he then did.

Others of them ſay, that he became poor by leading a poor life on earth: But (1.) it is not by his Poverty on Earth that we are made rich, but by the Humiliation of himſelf. And (2*ly*,) he was thus poor from his Birth and Cradle, even before the Holy Spirit deſcended on him at his Baptiſm. How much more naturally therefore are theſe words interpreted by that of the ſame Apoſtle, that being in the form of God, and thinking it no robbery to be equal with God, he emptied himſelf of all his glory, when he came to take our Nature on him, taking together with it the form of a Servant, and humbling himſelf unto the death, even the death of the Croſs? Philip. 2. 7, 8. See the Note there. Which death, ſaith Irenæus, he could only ſuffer ὑπυχάζοντος τῷ λόγῳ the Divine Nature being then quieſcent, and not active in him, this is that Glory which he had with the Father before the World was, and which he, after his Aſcenſion, re-aſſumed, John 17. 5. Now if Chriſt thus emptied himſelf of his Glory, that we might be ſpiritually rich, it becomes us in imitation of his great Example, to part with our Temporals to ſupply the Exigencies of his needy and afflicted Members.

Ver. 10. And herein I give my advice; for this is expedient for you, who have begun not only to do, but alſo to be forward a year ago.

Οὐ μόνον τὸ ποιῆσαι, ἀλλὰ καὶ τὸ θέλειν, not only to do, but to be willing, or forward.] It is known that the Will goes before the Deed, and therefore τὸ θέλειν here cannot barely ſignifie to will, but either to do it μετὰ σπουδαίας with readineſs and zeal, as the following Verſe interprets it, or, with delight, as the word often ſignifies; ſo 1 Sam. 18. 22. θέλει ἐν σοὶ βασιλεύς, the King delights in thee. See 2 Sam. 15. 26. Pſal. 5. 4. 21. 8. 40. 12. Eſth. 6. 6, 7. 8. 11. Mal. 3. 1. Matth. 27. 43. in all which places it anſwers to the Hebrew word Chapheiz.

Ἀπὸ πέρυσι, a year ago.] The Apoſtle had exhorted them in his Epiſtle writ a year ago to this contribution, 1 Cor. 16. 2. and then in obedience to his directions, had begun to lay up in ſtore willingly, this Charity he now exhorts them to conſummate; and this he ſays, to ſhew they were not only moved to it by the example of the Macedonians, but rather were Examples to them, Chap. 9. 2.

Ver. 11. Now therefore perform (or compleat) the doing it, that as there was a readineſs to will, ſo there may be a performance (of that will) alſo, out of that which ye have.

Ver. 12. For if there be firſt a willing mind, (whatſoever is given) it is accepted, according to that a man hath, and not (expected he ſhould give) according to that he hath not.

Οὐ καθὸ ἐὰν ἔχῃ, not according to what he hath not.] What is due to another, either by debt, or duty of making proviſion for thoſe of his own Family, cannot be charitably given, as being not our own.

Ver. 13. For I mean not that other men be eaſed, (or by your Charity ſhould live at eaſe,) and you (in the mean time) burthened (with want.)

Ver. 14. But (that Chriſtian Charity ſhould be managed) by an equality, that now at this time your abundance may be a ſupply for their want, that (another time) their abundance alſo, may be a ſupply for your want, that there may be an equality.

Ἰσότης, an equality.] So far Chriſtianity ſeems to require this equality, as that we ſhould not ſuffer others to lack the neceſſities of this preſent life, whilſt we abound in them.

Ver. 15. (That in your peregrination it may be) As it is written (of the Jews travelling in the wilderneſs, where) He that gathered much (Manna) had nothing over, and he that gathered little had no lack (Exod. 16. 18.)

Ver. 16. But thanks be to God, which put the ſame care into the heart of Titus for you.

Ver. 17. For indeed he (not only) accepted the Exhortation (I made to him concerning this imployment,) but being more forward (than I thought to find him) of his own accord, he went unto you.

Αὐθαίρετος.] Here we ſee the ſweet Harmony there is betwixt the Gifts of God, and our Per-Perſwaſion, and Free-will. Titus was moved to this work by St. Paul's Exhortation, and was alſo willing of his own accord, and yet God, ſaith the Apoſtle, put this earneſt care into his heart.

Ver. 18. And we have ſent with him the brother, whoſe praiſe is in the Goſpel, throughout all the Churches.

Οὗ ὁ ἔπαινος ἐν τῷ εὐαγγελίῳ, διὰ πασῶν τῶν ἐκκλησιῶν, whoſe praiſe is in the Goſpel, &c.] Who this Brother was is much conteſted; Antiquity hath carried it for St. Luke, worthy of praiſe in all Churches for the Goſpel he writ. Though the authority of this Aſſertion ſeems to reſt upon the words of the interpolated (d) Ignatius and (e) St. Jerom. And this difficulty lyes againſt it, that this Brother is ſent before St. Paul to Corinth with Titus, whereas St. Luke went with him to Troas, and from thence to Corinth, Acts 20. 4, 6. So Dr. Lightfoot. To which it may be anſwered, That it is not certain that St. Paul went from Troas to Corinth; perhaps he rather went from Philippi to Corinth, and ſo to Troas. See the Preface. And ſo this Perſon being choſen by the Churches to travel with this Charity, v. 19. might be both ſent before to prepare it, and being returned to give notice to St. Paul that it was ready, might go back with him to receive it.

Ver. 19. And not that (or ſo) only, but who was alſo choſen of the Churches to travel with us with this Grace (or Charity,) which is adminiſtred (or diſpenſed) by us to the glory of the ſame Lord, and to the declaration of your ready mind (to relieve your poor Brethren, or of our ready mind to perform this charitable office, for Theodoret and Oecumenius read ἡμῶν.)

Ver. 20. (We by taking ſuch faithful Companions with us) Avoiding (or taking care of) this, that no man ſhould blame us (or charge us with inſincerity) in this abundance (of your liberality) which is adminiſtred by us.

Ver. 21. (And ſo) providing for honeſt (Gr. creditable) things not only in the ſight of the Lord, but (alſo) in the ſight of men.

Ver. 22. And we have ſent with them our brother, whom we have often times proved diligent in many things, but now much more diligent (in this imployment,) upon the great confidence that I have in you.

Τὸν ἀδελφὸν ἡμῶν, our Brother] Apollo, ſay ſome of the Ancients, viz. Theodoret and Oecumenius, who before doubted of them, and ſo was not diſpoſed to come to them, 1 Cor. 16. 12. but now, upon St. Paul's confidence of their readineſs to obey his Precepts, was prevailed upon to come.

Ver. 23. Whether any do enquire of Titus, he is my partner, and fellow helper concerning you, (in promoting your welfare and reformation, 2 Cor. 2. 13. 7. 6. 7.) or whether our brethren be enquired of, they are the Meſſengers of the Churches, and (the Promoters of) the glory of Chriſt.

Ver. 24. Wherefore ſhew ye to them, and before the Churches, the proof of your love (to me) and of our boaſting on your behalf, (i. e. that we did not vainly boaſt of your readineſs to perform ſuch works of Charity.)

CHAP. IX.

Verſe 1. (TO me I ſay, and to theſe Meſſengers of the Church,) For as touching the miniſtry to the Saints (in Judea,) it is ſuperfluous for me to write to you (again.)

Ver. 2. For I know the forwardneſs of your minds (in that affair,) for which I boaſt of you to them of Macedonia, that Achaia was ready a year ago, and (the ſame and example of) your zeal hath provoked many.

Τὴν προθυμίαν ὑμῶν, your forwardneſs.] Some tell us that St. Paul preached the Goſpel freely at Corinth for two reaſons: (1.) Becauſe he obſerved in them ſuch a ſaving temper as would hinder the progreſs of the Goſpel, if it ſhould prove matter of charge to them. But this cannot be a true account of the matter, 1. Becauſe he doth the ſame at Theſſalonica the Metropolis of Macedonia, labouring night and day, becauſe he would not become chargeable to any of them, 1 Theſſ. 2. 6, 9. 2 Theſſ. 3. 8. and throughout all Aſia, ſaying thus to them, You know that theſe hands have miniſtred to my neceſſities, and to thoſe that were with me, Acts 20. 33. And it ſeems plain from his own words, that no Church communicated any thing to him but that of Philippi, Philip. 4, 15, 16. 2*ly*, Becauſe he commends them for their readineſs and willing mind here, and Chap. 8. 11, 19. and mentions the liberality of their Contribution, and their unſpeakable Gift, with thanks to God, v. 13, 14, 15. in this Chapter, in which he doth exhort them to compleat it. 3*ly*, Becauſe they contributed to others who were falſe Apoſtles, and ſuffered them to take of them; ſo he inſinuates in theſe words, If others are partakers of this power over you, are not we much more. This he ſpeaks, ſays Chryſoſtom and the Greek Scholiaſts, not of Peter, or the other Apoſtles; for then he would not have ſaid are not we much more partakers of this power then they? ἀλλ' ἑτέρων τινῶν νέων, but of ſome falſe Apoſtles, and corrupters of them, of whom he ſaith, 2 Cor. 11. 20. You ſuffer if a man devour you, if he take of you, which alſo is a confutation of the ſecond pretended reaſon of this abſtinence, that the Apoſtle did this to diſappoint the Arts of theſe falſe Teachers who preached the Goſpel freely, and gloried in ſo doing. See the Note on 2 *Cor.*11.12,13. The Apoſtle himſelf gives another reaſon of the doing this both here, and elſewhere, viz. not becauſe we have not power, but to make our ſelves an example to you to follow us, 2 Theſſ.3. 9. And again, Acts 20.34. I have ſhewed you all things, how that ſo doing you ought to ſupport the weak, and to remember the words of the Lord Jeſus, how he ſaid it is better to give then to receive.

Ver. 3. Yet have I ſent the brethren (mentioned Chap. 8.17,18.) leſt our boaſting of you ſhould be in vain in this behalf, that as I ſaid (Chap. 8. 11.) you may be found ready.

Ver. 4. Leſt haply if they of Macedonia (who gave themſelves up to us,chap.8.5.) come with me, we,- that we ſay not you, ſhould be aſhamed of this ſame confident boaſting.

Ver. 5. Therefore I thought it neceſſary to exhort the (aforeſaid) brethren, that they would go before unto you, and make up before hand your bounty, whereof you had notice (or declared) before, that the ſame might be ready as a matter of (free) bounty, and not (extorted from you with difficulty,) as a matter of covetouſneſs.

Καὶ μὴ ὥσπερ πλεονεξίαν, and not as a matter of covetouſneſs.] The Corinthians abounded, ſaith (a) St.Chryſoſtom, πρὸ τῶν ἄλλων πάντων τῇ τῶν χρημάτων εὐπορίᾳ, in wealth above all other Cities, as being a very famous Mart, and ſo the Apoſtle is concerned to ſtir them up to an abundant Charity, as he did v. 14. and becauſe Riches beget Covetouſneſs, he here arms them againſt that Vice. Note alſo that to give Alms out of ſhame, or to ſatisfie the importunity of others, rather then out of love and good will, is a ſymptom of a covetous temper.

Ver. 6. But (to preſerve you from this temper) this I ſay, he which ſoweth ſparingly ſhall reap ſparingly; and he who ſoweth bountifully, ſhall reap bountifully (from God again; Prov. 11. 24, 25.)

Ver. 7. Every man (then) as he purpoſeth in his heart ſo let him give, not grudgingly, or (as) of neceſſity (to avoid ſhame, or only to comply with the example, or importunity of others,) for God loveth a chearful giver.

Μὴ ἐξ ἀνάγκης, not of neceſſity.] Note that Neceſſity in Scripture ſtands oppoſed, not to coaction, but to the free election of the Will. See the Note on Philem. 14. and on 1 Pet. 5.2.

Ver. 8. And (to this end conſider that) God is able to make all grace abound towards you, that ye always, having all ſufficiency, may abound in every good (and charitable) work.

Δυνατὸς ὁ Θεὸς, God is able.] Here note that not only the promiſe, but the power of that God, who is good to all, is a motive to expect his grace and favour. See the Note on Rom. 11. 23. Hebr. 2. 18. Note 2*ly*, that περισσεύσαι here ſignifies to make, or cauſe to abound, ſo Matth. 13. 22. 25. 29. Whoſoever hath, to him ſhall be given, καὶ περισσευθήσεται, and he ſhall be made to abound, 1 Theſſ. 3. 12. the Lord make you to encreaſe, καὶ περισσεύσαι, and to abound in love.

Ver. 9. (According) as it is written (Pſal. 112.9.) He hath diſperſed abroad; he hath given to the poor; his righteouſneſs (i.e. his liberality) remaineth for ever,(in remembrance before God.)

Ἡ δικαιοσύνη αὐτοῦ, his righteouſneſs.] That is, his Liberality, as the word often ſignifies in the Septuagint; ſo *Gen.*19.19. Thou haſt magnified τὸ δικαιοσύνῆ σου thy mercy, or kindneſs to me. Chap. 20. 13. ταύτην τὴν δικαιοσύνην, This kindneſs ſhalt thou ſhew me. Chap. 24.27. He hath not left τὴν δικαιοσύνην αὐτοῦ his kindneſs to Abraham. See v. 49. Chap. 32. 10. Exod. 15. 13. 34. 7. Prov. 20. 28. Iſa. 63. 7.

Ver.10. Now (may) he that miniſtreth ſeed to the ſower,both miniſter bread for your food, and multiply your ſeed ſown, and increaſe the fruits of your righteouſneſs. (Note that all the Greek Scholia read δικαιοσύνης, not διακονίας, miniſtry.)

Ver. 11. (That you may ſtill make progreſs in them.] Being enrich'd in every thing to all bountifulneſs, which cauſeth through us (who diſpenſe it) thankſgivings to God.

Ver. 12. For the adminiſtration of this ſervice not only ſupplieth the want of the Saints, but is alſo abundant by many thankſgivings to (the glory of) God.

Ver. 13. Whilſt by the experiment of this miniſtration (men) glorifie God for your profeſſed ſubjection to the Goſpel of Chriſt, and for your liberal diſtribution to them,and to all men.

Ἐπὶ τῇ ὑποταγῇ τῆς ὁμολογίας.] Ὁμολογία in the New Teſtament ſtill ſignifies the Confeſſion of Faith, 1 *Tim.*6.12,13. *Hebr.*3.1. 4.14. 10.23. ὑποταγὴ ſubjection to the Precepts of that Faith. So the Apoſtle ſignifies, that Men ſeeing in them, by this Charity, the ſincerity of their love, Chap. 8.8. and ſo of their obedience to the Goſpel, will be induced to glorifie God, and own the excellency of that Religion which produceth ſuch Fruits of Righteouſneſs.

Ver. 14. And (you alſo will receive advantage) by their prayers for you, which long (and earneſtly deſire your welfare) for the exceeding exceeding grace of God (they ſee) in you.

Ver. 15. Thanks be to God for (this) unſpeakable gift, (i. e. this admirable Charity by which God is ſo much glorified, the Goſpel receives ſuch credit, others are ſo much benefited, and you will be ſo plentifully by God rewarded.

CHAP. X.

Verſe 1. NOW I Paul my ſelf (who would not deal ſeverely with you) beſeech you by the meekneſs of Chriſt (which I deſire to imitate, even I) who in (or as to my) preſence am (eſteemed) baſe among you, but being abſent, am (accounted) bold towards you (v. 10.)

Ver. 2. But (whatſoever you eſteem me) I beſeech you that I may not (find reaſon to) be bold when I am preſent, with that confidence wherewith I think (meet) to be bold againſt ſome, who think of us as walking according to the fleſh. (Now ſaying one thing, and then another, according to our carnal intereſts, 2 Cor. 1. 17.)

Ver. 3. For though we walk in the fleſh, we do not war after the fleſh, (exerciſing our authority in weakneſs.)

Ver. 4 For the weapons of our warfare are not (weak, Iſa. 31. 3. and) carnal, but mighty through God, to the pulling down of (the) ſtrong holds (of the Gentiles.)

Τὰ ὅπλα τῆς στρατείας ἡμῶν, the weapons of our warfare.] That theſe include the Cenſures of the Apoſtolical Authority is certain; but that they are to be reſtrained to them, I do not think, but rather that they chiefly do refer to the miraculous powers God had given them for the Converſion of the Gentiles to the Chriſtian Faith. Moreover, the Apoſtolical Rod ſeems not to relate to the power of Excommunication, but of inflicting Corporal Diſeaſes on Perſons refractory and diſorderly, and ſeemeth not to have been continued after the death of the Apoſtles.

Ver. 5. Caſting down (their) imaginations (and reaſonings,) and every high thought that exalteth it ſelf againſt the knowledge of God, and bringing into captivity every thought to the obedience of (the Goſpel of) Chriſt; (i.e. making the Gentiles obedient to it, in word and deed, by mighty ſigns and wonders, and by the power of the Spirit of God, Rom. 15. 18, 19.)

Αἰχμαλωτίζοντες πᾶν νόημα, captivating every thought.] The Apoſtle ſpeaks not here of captivating the reaſon of a Chriſtian to the Articles of Faith, by his belief of any thing propoſed as ſuch, though never ſo abſurd, or contrary to the reaſon of all Mankind, as ſome Popiſh Doctors lewdly talk; but of captivating the reaſonings of Jew and Gentile againſt the Chriſtian Faith, by the demonſtration of the Spirit and Power, 1 Cor. 2. 4. Captivat intellectum, dum contradicentem ratione vincit. Ambr.

Ver. 6. And having in a readineſs to revenge all (the) diſobedience (of their diſſolute Members, Chap. 12. 20, 21. and of theſe deceitful workers, by puniſhing them with our ſpiritual Rod, 1 Cor. 4. 21.) when your obedience is (or ſhall have been) fulfilled.

Ὅταν πληρωθῇ ὑμῶν ἡ ὑπακοή, when your obedience is fulfilled.] His love to the Corinthians, whom he deſired to ſpare, and the infirm ſtate of their Church at preſent, made him chuſe to defer the puniſhment of theſe Offenders, till he had wrought off the Affections of the Corinthians from their falſe Apoſtles, and made them more unanimous in their regards to him; and this is the beſt Excuſe that can be made for the neglect of Chriſtian Diſcipline in any Church, viz. That (a) there is no place for ſevere remedies, when the Diſeaſe hath infected the whole Church; the Apoſtle being here forced to yield to this neceſſity, becauſe the Offenders in the Church of Corinth being many, they could not eaſily be puniſhed. Accordingly the Primitive Church relaxed the Severity of its Diſcipline, when great Multitudes were concerned, or ſuch as were like to draw great Multitudes after them.

Ver. 7. Do ye look on things after the outward appearance, (judging of me from my outward perſon, and the infirmities of my body, v. 1, 2. and not from the power of Chriſt reſting upon me, 2 Cor. 12. 9. and working by me.) But if any Man (on the account of his gifts) truſt to himſelf that he is Chriſts, a Miniſter of Chriſt, 2 Cor. 11. 23. an Apoſtle of Chriſt, v. 13.) let him of himſelf think (or conclude) this again, that as he is Chriſts, ſo are we Chriſts: (For the proofs of Chriſt ſpeaking in me are not weak, but mighty, 2 Cor. 13. 3. and in nothing are we behind the very chiefeſt Apoſtles, Chap. 12. 11.)

Ver. 8. For though I ſhould boaſt ſomewhat more (then I do, or they can do) of our Au-

(a) Neque enim duris remediis locus eſt, ubi tota Eccleſia in morbo cubat. Grot. *Neque poteſt eſſe ſalutaris correptio, niſi cum ille corripitur qui non habet ſociam multitudinem. thority, which the Lord hath given us for edification, and not for (your) deſtruction, I ſhould not be aſhamed.

Περὶ τῆς ἐξουσίας ἡμῶν, of our Authority.] The Apoſtle ſeems to refer to the Authority peculiar to the Apoſtles of inflicting Corporal Penalties on retractory Perſons, and delivering them up to Satan; ſee Note on 1 Cor. 4. 21. 5. 5. which power none of theſe falſe Teachers could pretend to, 1 Cor. 4. 19, 20. And this, ſaith he, the Lord hath given me for Edification, and not for Deſtruction, it being deſigned for the revenging mens diſobedience, v. 6. for the ſaving of the Spirit, 1 Cor. 5. 5. and to teach Men, by what they ſuffer, not to blaſpheme the Truth, 1 Tim. 1. 20.

Ver. 9. (And this I ſay) That I may not ſeem (only) to terrifie you by Letters (as you ſay I do)

Ver. 10. For his Letters, ſay they, are weighty and powerful, but his bodily preſence is weak, and his ſpeech contemptible.

Ἐπιστολαὶ, Letters.] It cannot be hence concluded, that St. Paul writ more than one Epiſtle to them, for nothing is more common than this enallage of number. So Polycarp writing to the Philippians, ſaith, that St. Paul being abſent ἔγραψεν ὑμῖν ἐπιστολάς, writ Epiſtles to you. See Cotelerius there.

Παρουσία τῆ σώματος ἀσθενὴς, his bodily preſence is mean.] Seems plainly to refer to that which (b) Chryſoſtom, Nicephorus, and Lucian relate of St. Paul, That his ſtature was low, his body crooked, his head bald; and ſo he was literally κατὰ πρόσωπον ταπεινὸς, low in perſon, v. 1. When it is added that his Speech was contemptible, this cannot be underſtood as if it were ſo for want of Eloquence, or the floridneſs of the Greeks, for that was as much wanting in his Letters, as his Speech or Sermons; it therefore ſeemeth to refer to ſome infirmity of his Speech in teaching. See Note on 2 Cor. 12. 7.

Ver. 11. (But) Let ſuch a one think (or conclude) this, that ſuch as we are in word by Letters when we are abſent, ſuch will we be alſo in deed when we are preſent, (for if I come again I will not ſpare, Chap. 13. 2. but puniſh all diſobedience.)

Ver. 12. (This I ſay only) For we dare not make our ſelves of the number, or compare our ſelves with ſome (among you) who commend themſelves (for their own performances above meaſure, not conſidering how much they fall ſhort of the performances of them they vilifie,) but they (thus) meaſuring themſelves (only) by themſelves, and comparing themſelves (only) among themſelves, (one falſe Apoſtle with another) are not wiſe.

Ver. 13. But we will not boaſt (Gr. neither will we boaſt) of things without our meaſure, (or the Commiſſion given us by Chriſt to go unto the Gentiles, Rom. 15. 16. Gal. 2. 7, 9.) but according to the meaſure of the rule which God hath diſtributed to us, a meaſure to reach unto you (Gentiles, we having preached through all the interjacent Provinces from Judea to you of Corinth, Rom. 15 19.)

Ver. 14. For we ſtretch not our ſelves beyond our meaſure, as if we reached not to you, for we are come (before any others) as far as to you alſo in preaching the Goſpel of Chriſt.

Ver. 15. Not boaſting of things without our meaſure, that is, of other mens labours, but having hope, when your faith is increaſed, that we ſhall be enlarged by you, (giving teſtimony to our labours) according to our rule (Gr. in reſpect of our line) abundantly.

Ver. 16. To preach the Goſpel in the Regions beyond you, and not to boaſt of another mans line, of things made ready to our hand.

In theſe four Verſes the Apoſtle ſeems to advance himſelf above the falſe Apoſtles in theſe things. (1.) That whereas they could ſhew no Commiſſion to preach to the Corinthians, no meaſure by which God had diſtributed the Corinthians to them as their Province, he could do ſo, v. 13. (2.) That whereas they went out of their Line, leaping from one Church to another, he went on orderly in the Converſion of Churches to the Faith, from Judea through all the interjacent Provinces, till he came to Corinth. (3.) That whereas they only came to, and perverted thoſe Churches where the Goſpel had been already preached, and ſo could only boaſt of things made ready to their hands, v. 16. He had ſtill ſtriven to preach the Goſpel where Chriſt was not named, leſt he ſhould build upon another mans foundation, Rom. 15. 20.

Ver. 17. But he (of us) that glorieth (of our Apoſtleſhip, or Miniſtry,) let him glory in the (power or aſſiſtance the) Lord (affordeth to render it ſucceſsful.)

Ver. 18. For not he who commendeth himſelf is (an) approved (Miniſter, or Apoſtle of Chriſt,) but (he) whom the Lord commendeth (by his gifts vouchſafed to, and by the power of Chriſt attending on him in that Miniſtry.)

CHAP.

CHAP. XI.

Verſe 1. WOuld to God you could bear with me a little in (this) my (ſeeming) folly (in boaſting of my own performances,) and indeed bear with me.

Τῆς ἀφροσύνης μου, my folly.] Though the neceſſity which lay on the Apoſtle thus to commend himſelf for vindication of his Apoſtleſhip, made him free from folly in this matter, yet becauſe Self-commendation uſually proceeds from vanity and folly, and they who knew not the neceſſity which lay upon him ſo to ſpeak, would be apt to impute this to him, he uſeth this word here, though ſaying, v. 16. Let no man think me a fool in this my boaſting. And Chap. 12. 6. Though I did glory, I ſhould not be a fool.

Ver. 2. For (I therefore do it becauſe) I am jealous over you with a godly jealouſie; for I have eſpouſed you to one Husband, (and deſire) that I may preſent you a chaſt Virgin unto Chriſt (your Husband.)

Παρθένον ἁγνὴν, a chaſt Virgin.] Here is thought to be an alluſion to the ἁρμόστωσι of the Lacedæmonians, who formed the Lives and Manners of the Virgins, and made them Regular, and ſo prepared them for their Huſbands. But the Greek Commentators agree with our Tranſlation, rendring the word ἡρμοσάμην by ἐμνησευσάμην, I have eſpouſed you: So (a) Phavorinus doth interpret theſe very words. And ſo the word is uſed frequently by (b) Herodotus, and it bears the ſame ſenſe in the Septuagint, παρὰ Κυρίου ἁρμόζεται γυνὴ ἀνδρὶ, the Wife is eſpouſed to the Husband of the Lord, Prov. 19. 14. As therefore the Jews ſay, that (c) Moſes eſpouſed Iſrael to God in Mount Sinai, when he made them enter into Covenant with him; So ſaith the Apoſtle here, by converting you to the Chriſtian Faith, I have eſpouſed you to one Husband, even Chriſt.

Ver. 3. But I fear, leſt by any means, as the Serpent beguiled Eve by his ſubtilty, ſo your minds ſhould (by the ſubtilty of deceitful workers) be corrupted from the ſimplicity (of the faith) that is in Chriſt, (by mixing the obſervation of the Law with the Goſpel, as theſe Judaizers did.)

Εὔαν, Eve.] He mentions Eve, not Adam, becauſe ſhe only was perſonally deceived by the Serpent, and was firſt in the tranſgreſſion, 1 Tim. 2. 14.

Ver. 4. For if he that cometh (after me) preacheth another Jeſus, (i.e. hath another Saviour to propound to you) whom we have not preached; or if ye receive (from him) another Spirit (affording ſuch ſpiritual gifts) which ye have not received (from us,) or another Goſpel which ye have not accepted (or received already,) ye might well bear with him (in his pretenſions to exceed us, but this cannot be ſaid,)

Ver. 5. For I ſuppoſe (in theſe things) I was not a whit behind the very chiefeſt Apoſtles, (Peter, James, and John, from whom theſe falſe Teachers from Judea may pretend to come, 1 Cor. 1. 12.)

Ver. 6. For though I be rude in ſpeech, yet (am I) not (ſo) in knowledge (of Chriſt and his Goſpel,) but we have been throughly made manifeſt among you in all things (of this nature, Chap. 12. 11, 12.)

Ἰδιώτης τῷ λόγῳ, rude in ſpeech.] This cannot refer to his want of Eloquence, or Rhetorical Artifice in his Compoſitions, for this ſeems equally wanting in the Epiſtles of St. Peter and St. James; it therefore muſt refer to ſome imperfection in his Speech, which they had not.

Ver. 7. Have I committed an offence in abaſing my ſelf (ſo far, as to labour with my own hands) that you might be exalted (by the ſpiritual riches and advantages of the Goſpel, and in having an Apoſtle more regardful of you than of other Churches,) becauſe (being chargeable to ſome of them) I have preached to you the Goſpel of God freely.

Ἵνα ὑμεῖς ὑψωθῆτε, that you might be exalted.] So St. James uſeth the word, ſaying, Let the brother of low degree rejoyce ἐν τῷ ὑψει αὐτοῦ in his exaltation to the Riches and Priviledges of the Chriſtian Faith, Chap. 1. 9. So the Song of the Virgin Mother ſaith, that God by ſending the Meſſiah ὕψωσε ταπεινούς hath exalted them that were low, Luke 1. 52. And Capernaum is ſaid to be ὑψωθεῖσα exalted to Heaven by our Saviour's frequent preaching to them, Luke 10. 15.

Ver. 8. I robbed (i. e. made naked) other Churches, taking wages (or a ſtipend) from them to do you ſervice.

Ἐσύλησα, I robbed.] Συλᾶν, γυμνοῦν, the word ſignifies to make naked, ſaith Phavorinus; to ſpoil, ſay others: For the Churches of Macedonia, from whom he received his Gifts, being poorer than that of Corinth, 2 Cor. 8. 2. might comparatively ſeem by this to be ſpoiled of what was neceſſary for them.

Ver. 9. And when I was preſent with you, and wanted, I was chargeable to no man; for that which was lacking to me the Brethren which came from (Philippi, Philip. 4. 15, 16. in) Macedonia ſupplied, and in all things have I kept my ſelf from being burthenſome to you, and ſo will I keep my ſelf.

Οὐ κατενάρκησα ὑμῶν, I ſtun'd no body with complaints.] I importun'd none of them to ſupply my wants.

Ver. 10. As the truth of Chriſt is in me, no man ſhall ſtop me of this boaſting in the Regions of Achaia.

Ver. 11. (And) wherefore (do I thus reſolve? is it) becauſe I love you not? God knows (the contrary.)

Ver. 12. But what I do (of this kind) I will (ſtill) do, that I may cut off occaſion (of boaſting) from them which deſire occaſion, that wherein they glory, they may be found even as we.

Ἵνα ἐν ᾧ καυχῶν[ται], that in what they glory.] This moſt Interpreters thus gloſs, That whereas the falſe Apoſtles glory in preaching the Goſpel freely, they may be found even in that, to do only what we ſtill have done among you. But this Expoſition is liable to this great Objection, That the Apoſtle ſpeaking to the Corinthians of the ſame Perſons, ſaith, Ye ſuffer if a man devour you, if a man take of you, v. 20. and 1 Cor. 9. 12. If others are partakers of this power, are not we much more. And elſewhere ſtill repreſents theſe Jewiſh Teachers as counting gain godlineſs, and doing all things for filthy lucre, Philip. 3. 19. 1 Tim. 6. 5. 2 Tim. 3. 2. Tit. 1. 11. Others therefore interpret the words thus, This I will do, that I may cut off occaſion of glorying from them who ſeek occaſion, that they may be found even as us. In which thing they would glory, but now cannot do it, becauſe they are known to receive of you.

Ver. 13. For ſuch are (your) falſe Apoſtles, deceitful Workers, transforming themſelves into the Apoſtles of Chriſt, (ſeeming to do as we do, or deſiring to be thought equal to us in all things.)

Ver. 14. And no marvel, for Satan himſelf is (ſometimes) transformed into an Angel of Light, (pretending to do their work, and be a miniſtring ſpirit to them whom he intendeth to deſtroy.)

Ver. 15. Therefore it is no great thing if his Miniſters alſo be transformed as the Miniſters of Righteouſneſs, whoſe end ſhall be according (not to their ſpecious and hypocritical pretences, but) their works, (Philip. 3. 18.)

Ver. 16. I ſay again, let no man think me a fool (in boaſting thus of my ſelf,) if otherwiſe, yet as a fool receive (i. e. ſuffer me,) that I may boaſt my ſelf a little.

Ver. 17. That which I ſpeak (thus) I ſpeak it not after the Lord, (as commanded by him ſo to ſpeak,) but as it were fooliſhly in this confidence of boaſting, (though the falſe Apoſtles have made it neceſſary, and ſo a part of Chriſtian wiſdom ſo to do, Chap. 12. 11. to vindicate my Apoſtleſhip, and to confirm you in the truth.)

Ver. 18. Seeing that many glory in the fleſh (as being the Seed of Abraham according to the fleſh) I will glory (as to that) alſo.

Ver. 19. (Nor can my ſeeming folly offend you, if you be indeed what you pretend.) For you (will) ſuffer fools gladly, ſeeing you your ſelves are wiſe (in your own conceits; or being wiſe, you muſt ſuffer fools gladly.)

Ver. 20. (And ſure I am you can bear with greater matters.) For ye ſuffer, if a man bring you into bondage (to the Jewiſh Rites, Gal. 4. 9. 5. 1.) if a man devour you, (as the Phariſees widows houſes, living deliciouſly upon your ſubſtance,) if a man take of you, (if he take away what is yours,) if a man exalt himſelf (above you,) if a man ſmite you on the face, (or uſe you contumelioufly)

Εἴ τις ἐπαίρε[ται], if a man exalts himſelf.] The Jews had a very high opinion of themſelves, as being the Seed of Abraham, and ſo of Noble Birth; (ſee Note on 1 Cor. 1. 26.) the People of God, and ſo holy and beloved of him; his firſt born, and only begotten, for whom the world was made; 2 Eſd. 6. 59, 60. and had as mean and deſpicable thoughts of all other men, whom therefore they inſulted over, calling them (d) the people of the earth, the prophane, yea, likening them to dogs, (ſee Note on Philip. 3. 2.) and ſpittle. 2 Eſdr. 6. 56, 57. And from this opinion, that the world was made for them, ſee Note on 1 Cor. 3. 22. they might eaſily conclude, that it was lawful for them to take it away from others, as being Uſurpers of it. Hence (e) Buxtorf cites this paſſage from the Talmud, That all the Poſſeſſions of the Gentiles are as common, he that firſt ſeizes on them is Lord of them.

Ver. 21. (That which I ſaid of ſmiting you upon the face,) I ſpeak as to (your) reproach (they caſt upon you as prophane, uncircumciſed, whereas they are an holy Nation.) as if we had been weak, (i. e. inferiour to them in theſe things, not able to aſcribe to our ſelves theſe advantages as well as they,) howbeit wherein ſoever any is bold (in this kind,) I ſpeak fooliſhly, I am bold alſo.

Ver. 22. (For) Are they Hebrews (ſpeaking the Jewiſh language? Philip. 3. 5.) ſo am I. Are they Iſraelites, (deſcended from beloved Jacob, Mal. 1. 2. not from Eſau?) ſo am I. Are they the ſeed of Abraham (and not Proſelytes?) ſo am I.

E'gain

Ἑβραῖοί εἰσι Ἰσραηλῖται; Are they Hebrews? are they Israelites?] Here is a certain indication that these false Apostles and deceitful Workers were not originally Samaritans, as S. Magus, Dositheus, and their Followers were, but of the Jewish extract. 2*ly*, That they were Jews converted to, and still owning and preaching up the Faith of Christ, is as evident from the words following, Are they Ministers of Christ? I am I; as also from Chap. 10. 7. It therefore seems that they must be of the Sect of (f) Cerinthus that great stickler against St. Paul, for the necessity of circumcising the Gentiles, and the observation by them of the Law of Moses; or the Nazarens or Ebionites. For these are not the names of Persons who were the Authors of any Sects, but of the (g) Jews which believed in Jesus, and yet were zealous observers of the Law of Moses. Now these Jews, before they believed, were of two sorts, such as admitted other Nations to live quietly among them, and even to embrace their Religion without circumcision, and such as by no means would permit them so to do. Thus when Izates the Son of Helen Queen of Adiabene, embraced the Jews Religion, (h) Ananias declared, he might do it without Circumcision; but (i) Eleazar maintained that it was ἀνίερον, great impiety to remain uncircumcised. And when two eminent Persons of Traconitis fled to Josephus the (k) Zealots among the Jews, were urgent for their Circumcision, if they would abide with them; but Josephus perswaded the Multitude against it. And this Controvesie continued after they embraced Christianity, some allowing them to embrace Christianity without submitting to Circumcision and the Jewish Law, others contending, that without Circumcision, and the observance of the Law, they could not be saved. And these were the false Apostles which troubled the Churches of Corinth, Galatia, Philippi, and were great Enemies to St. Paul who taught the contrary. So Epiphanius informs us of the (l) Cerinthians, adding also of the Nazarens, that they in all things accorded with the Doctrines of the Corinthians. And certain it is, that such Persons went from Judea, and gave great disturbance in all Christian Churches, especially in those which had been planted by St. Paul; for in the first Epistle to Timothy, and that to Titus, we have mention of those of the Circumcision who were vain Talkers and Deceivers, Tit. 1. 10, 11. 1 Tim. 1. 4, 6. Chap. 6. 4, 5. See Gal. 4. 9, 10. 6. 12, 13. Philip. 3. 2. Col. 2. 16, 20.

Ver. 23. Are they Ministers of Christ? I speak as a fool, I am more (so,) in labours more abundantly (then any of them.) in stripes above measure, (Acts 16. 22, 23.) in prisons more frequent, (v. 24.) in deaths oft. (1 Cor. 15. 31. 2 Cor. 4. 11.)

Note here that the Apostle proves the truth of his Ministry and Apostleship, not, as elsewhere, from the Miracles and Gifts of the Holy Ghost, which accompanied his preaching, but from his sufferings, as being the things these false Apostles could not pretend to, Gal. 5. 11. 6. 12. and so could not glory that they were like unto him in them, v. 13.

Ver. 24. Of the Jews five times received I forty stripes save one.

Παρὰ μίαν, save one.] The Law assigned forty stripes to them that were worthy to be beaten, but forbad them to exceed that number, Deut. 25. 3. But it being their custom to beat them with a whip that had three Cords, and so every stroke with it going for three, they could only give them thirty nine, or forty two, which would have exceeded the number appointed by the Law; and therefore (m) Josephus says, He that did contrary to the Law, received by a publick whip forty stripes save one.

Ver. 25. Thrice (by the Gentiles) was I beaten with Rods, (Acts 16. 23.) once was I stoned, (Acts 14. 19.) thrice I suffered shipwrack, a night and a day I was in the deep.

Ἐν τῷ βυθῷ, in the deep.] This cannot well be understood of the Prison at Cyzicum; for we never read that St. Paul preached there, nor of the Shipwrack mentioned Acts 27. for that hapned after the writing this Epistle; but

Ver. 30. If I muſt needs glory, I will glory in the things which concern mine infirmities, (i. e. rather in my ſufferings for Chriſt, than in the great things he hath done by me.)

Ver. 31. The God and Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, which is bleſſed for evermore, knoweth that I lie not (in any thing I have now ſaid of my ſufferings.)

Ver. 32. In Damaſcus the Governour under Aretas the King, kept the City with a garriſon, deſirous to apprehend me (in complyance with the Jews.)

Ver. 33. And through a window in a baſket was I let down by the wall, and eſcaped his hands.

Ἐξέφυγον.] Of ſuch a flight as only is deſigned to preſerve us ſtill in a capacity of preaching the Goſpel, eſpecially where our Charge is not any ſettled Church, but the Church in general, or, as St. Paul's was, the whole Gentile World, (o) St. Auſtin ſpeaks well thus, Quicunque iſto modo fugit, ut Eccleſiæ neceſſarium miniſterium, eo fugiente, non deſit, facit quod Dominus præcepit, ſive permiſit; qui autem ſic fugit ut gregi Chriſti ea quibus ſpiritualiter vivit alimenta, ſubtrahantur, Mercenarius ille eſt, qui vidit Lupum venientem & fugit, quoniam non eſt ei cura de ovibus.

CHAP. XII.

Verſe 1. IT is not expedient for me, doubtleſs, to glory, (but ſince it may be ſo to you,) I will come to viſions and revelations of the Lord.

All the Greek Scholiaſts own our reading of theſe words, which may from the Greek be rendred, Surely it profiteth (or it advantageth) not me to glory, for I ſhall come to viſions; and then the ſenſe may be ſupplied thus, But it may be ſo to you; for I ſhall come to Viſions and Revelations of the Lord, in which I ſhall give ſuch an Evidence of the favour of Chriſt to me, ſuch a Teſtimony of my Miſſion from Heaven, as none of theſe falſe Apoſtles or Deceitful Workers can pretend to.

Ver. 2. I knew a man in Chriſt above fourteen years ago, whether in the body I cannot tell, or whether out of the body I cannot tell, God knoweth, I ſay, I knew ſuch a one caught up to the third Heavens, (the habitation of the bleſſed Angels, and of the Majeſty of God.)

Ver. 3. And (again) I knew ſuch a man, whether in the body, or out of the body, I cannot tell, God knoweth.

Ver. 4. How that he was (at another time) caught up into Paradiſe, and there heard unſpeakable words, which it is not lawful (or poſſible) for a man to utter.

Ἁρπαγέντα.] Here (1.) it is enquired, Whether St. Paul was either, as to Soul only, or as to Soul and Body joyntly, wrapt into Heaven, or Paradiſe, as the Spirit ἥρπασεν caught up Philip, Acts 8. 39. or whether he only had a Viſion of theſe things on Earth, as the Spirit took up Ezekiel in a Viſion, Ezek. 11. 24. and as St. John was carried away into the wilderneſs. I encline to the opinion that this was a real Rapture, as being moſt agreeable, (1.) To the words ἡρπάγη ἕως, he was ſnatched as far as to the third Heaven, and ἡρπάγη εἰς παράδεισον, he was ſnatcht up into Paradiſe; for theſe words do not well agree to a Viſion, or an Extaſie. As for the ſeeming Raptures of Ezekiel, and St. John, the Text plainly informs us that they were not real, by ſaying, The Spirit took me up, and brought me in a viſion by the Spirit of God into Chaldea, Ezek. 11. 24. And again, The hand of the Lord was upon me, and carried me out in the Spirit of the Lord, and ſet me down in the midſt of the valley that was full of bones, Chap. 37. 1. And of St. John, He carried me away in the Spirit Spirit into the wilderneſs, Rev. 17. 3. And Chap. 21. 10. He carried me in the ſpirit to a great and high Mountain. In theſe two Inſtances all is expreſly ſaid to be done ἐν πνεύματι, in the ſpirit; but nothing of this nature is intimated in St. Paul's rapture. If you ſay he owns that this was done ἐν ὁράσει, in a viſion; I anſwer, He ſeems not to ſay ſo, but only that in this Rapture he had a Viſion of the Lord. 2*ly*, He ſays, he cannot tell whether he was then in the body, or out of the body; whereas in all imaginary Viſions the Soul continues in the body. 3*ly*, He adds, that he heard there unſpeakable words, which intimates that he was really in Paradiſe.

Q. 2. A ſecond Enquiry is, Whether St. Paul here ſpeaks of one Viſion or Rapture only, or of more. I anſwer, The opinion of all the Ancients ſeems to have been this, that he was wrapt at ſeveral times, into ſeveral places, and conſequently that he ſpeaks of more Raptures than one. (a) Irenæus ſaith that he was caught up into the third heavens, and again was carried into Paradiſe. So alſo ſay (b) Tertullian and Pſeud-Ambroſius. (c) Epiphanius ſpeaks thus, Who can bear the Opinion of Origen, which placeth Paradiſe in the third Heavens. And this appears highly probable, 1. From theſe words, I will proceed to viſions and revelations of the Lord; which intimate that he would ſpeak of more than one: And from v. 7. Leſt he ſhould be exalted τῇ ὑπερβολῇ τῶν ἀποκαλύψεων, with this multitude of Revelations. 2*ly*, Methodius of old did well infer this from the repetition of thoſe words, Whether in the body, &c. for ſuch a repetition muſt have been needleſs concerning one and the ſame Viſion; For (d) hence, ſaith he, he intimates that he had ſeen two great Viſions, being twice aſſumed, firſt into the third Heaven, and then into Paradiſe. Hence therefore it doth not follow that Paradiſe is in the third Heaven, as later Writers have hence gathered, againſt the opinion of all the Ancient Chriſtians: And therefore (e) Epiphanius anſwers thus to this Text produced by Origen, by ſaying he was wrapt into the third Heaven, and after adding into Paradiſe, he ſhews Heaven to be in one place, and Paradiſe in another. Though therefore the third Heaven here, according to the Language and Diſtinction of the Jews, doth ſignifie the Angelick Heaven, it doth not follow hence that Paradiſe, into which the Apoſtle was caught up at another time, and in another Viſion, muſt import the ſame.

3*ly*, Hence we may ſtrongly argue for the diſtinction of the Soul from the Body, and its Capacity to perceive and underſtand Celeſtial things in ſeparation from the Body; for if the Soul be not diſtinguiſh'd from the Body, nor is capable of any Viſion or Revelation when out of the Body, there remains no foundation for the Apoſtle's doubt, whether he had theſe Viſions in the Body, or out of the Body, there being a neceſſity, upon that Suppoſition, to have them in the Body, or not at all.

Ver. 5. Of ſuch a one [thus rapt out of himſelf] I will glory, yet (or but) of my ſelf (as I appear to you in my own perſon,) I will not glory (willingly,) but in mine infirmities.

Ver. 6. (Not that I really eſteem it a folly ſo to do, though in compliance with you I do ſtile it fooliſhneſs, 2 Cor. 11. 1, 16, 17. 12. 11.) for though I could deſire to glory (of theſe things,) I ſhall not be a fool, for I will (ſhall only) ſay the truth; but now I forbear (even to ſpeak of that,) leſt any man ſhould think of me above that which he ſees me to be, or heareth of me, (above what my conſtant words and actions teſtifie of me.)

Ver. 7. And leſt I ſhould be exalted above meaſure through the abundance of the revelations (vouchſafed to me,) there was given me a thorn in the fleſh, a meſſenger of Satan to buffet me, (or, that the Meſſenger of Satan might buffet me,) leſt I ſhould be exalted above meaſure.

Ver. 8. For this thing I beſought the Lord (Chriſt, v. 9.) thrice, that it might depart from me, (i. e. that I might be delivered from this thorn in my fleſh.)

Παρεκάλεσα.] Here, ſaith Slichtingius, is an inſtance of prayer directed to Chriſt. Ergo, ſay I, here is an inſtance of his Divinity, Prayer made to Chriſt by all Chriſtians in all times and places, and for all things, being an Evidence of his Omniſcience, Omnipotence, and Omnipreſence.

Note alſo, That though this Thorn in the Fleſh was not removed upon the Prayer of the Apoſtle, yet was that granted for which he deſired that it might be removed, viz. that he might preach the Goſpel more effectually, and to the honour of his Lord; and therefore he not only reſts ſatisfied under this Infirmity, but even glories in it on this account, that it tended to demonſtrate the power of Chriſt reſiding in him. Thus doth God truly anſwer our Requeſts, when he gives not what we would, but what he ſees to be more for his glory, and our good.

Ver. 9. And he ſaid unto me, My grace (or favour) is ſufficient for thee; for my ſtrength is made perfect (and ſhew'd more illuſtriouſly) in (this thy) weakneſs, moſt gladly therefore will I rather glory in my infirmities, that the power of Chriſt (may more conſpicuouſly appear to) reſt upon me,

Ἄγγελος Σατᾶν.] They who interpret this Meſſenger of Satan, and Thorn in the fleſh, of the Motions of Concupiſcence, and the Suggeſtions of Luſt ariſing in Paul, are guilty of a great miſtake; for this Thorn in the Fleſh was given him of God, who raiſeth in us no impure Luſtings, James 1. 13, 14, 15. and never cures one ſin by another; nor would St. Paul have wiſhed that all Men ſhould have been as he, if he had felt theſe burnings, nor would he have refuſed that Remedy againſt them he preſcribed to others, 1 Cor. 7. 7, 9. nor could he have gloried, and much leſs took pleaſure in theſe infirmities, as here v. 9, 10. he doth in this Thorn in the Fleſh. In a word, by confeſſing ſuch impure Motions lodged in his Breaſt, he would not have defended his Reputation againſt his Adverſaries, but rather given them freſh occaſion to reproach him, and would have rendred his threats againſt the Unclean, Chap. 12. 21. leſs prevalent. Let it be then obſerved,

1. That this Thorn in the Fleſh was ſurely ſome infirmity in the Fleſh or Body of St. Paul. So doth St. Paul himſelf inform us, by ſaying, Τὸν πειρασμόν μου τὸν ἐν τῇ σαρκί μου, οὐκ ἐξουθενήσατε, οὐδ' ἐξεπτύσατε, You did not count me as nothing, nor ſpit upon me, becauſe of my temptation which was in my fleſh, Gal. 4. 14. but received me (notwithſtanding) as an Angel or Meſſenger of God. Whence two things are obſervable, 1*ſt*, That this Thorn, or this Temptation was in his Fleſh, or Body: And 2*ly*, that it was ſuch as rendred him in his preaching obnoxious to great contempt, and made him deſpicable in the eyes of others.

2*ly*, 'Tis highly probable that this infirmity in the Fleſh hapned to him after theſe Viſions and Revelations of which here he ſpeaks, for he ſaith it was ſent to, or befel him, That he might not be exalted through the multitude of his Revelations; and therefore muſt be given him after he had that temptation they afforded to exalt himſelf.

3*ly*, 'Tis certain that it was ſome infirmity of the Fleſh which naturally tended to obſtruct the efficacy of his preaching, and rendred his Miniſtry leſs grateful and acceptable to others, and made him ſubject to reproach and to contempt in the diſcharge of this his Function. This is extreamly evident from the place cited from Gal. 4. 14. where, ſaith Theodoret, καίτοι πολλὴν ἔφερον ἐν τῷ σώματι ἀτιμίαν, though I brought with me great ignominy in my Body, you did not reject me; and alſo from Chriſt's anſwer to him, that his power was perfected in St. Paul's weakneſs, i. e. the greater is thy infirmity in preaching the Goſpel, the greater is my power in rendring it efficacious, when preached by one ſubject to ſo great infirmity.

4*ly*, 'Tis alſo certain that this was objected by the Corinthians, and the falſe Apoſtles, to the diſparagement of St. Paul, and rendred him contemptible in their eyes, that he was ἰδιώτης τῷ λόγῳ rude in ſpeech, 2 Cor. 10. 10. (which, as I have obſerved upon that place, cannot refer to his want of Eloquence, that being as much wanting in his Epiſtles, which they allowed to be powerful and weighty, as in his Sermons to them,) that in preſence he was baſe among them, ibid. v. 1. that the preſence of his Body was weak and mean, ὁ δὲ λόγος ἐξουθενημένος his Speech ſuch as rendred him contemptible, where the Apoſtle uſeth that very word which he had applyed to the infirmity of his Fleſh, Gal. 4. 14.

5*ly*, It cannot be denied but that an ἰσχνοφωνία, a ſtammering in ſpeech, or a ſqueaking ſhrilneſs in the voice, joyn'd with a low deformed ſtature, do naturally tend to render a Man contemptible in his preaching. And therefore Moſes declines the Meſſage God ſent him upon to Pharaoh, becauſe he was ſlow of ſpeech, and of a ſtammering Tongue, Exod. 4. 10. ἰσχνόφωνος, ἢ βραδύγλωσσος.

6*ly*, Theſe words, a Thorn in the Fleſh, a Meſſenger of Satan, being here put by way of appoſition, muſt ſignifie the ſame thing, and ſo he muſt be buffeted by Satan, when by theſe falſe Apoſtles and Miniſters of Satan, 2 Cor. 11. 15. he was contemn'd, and made the ſubject of their ſcorn and laughter for this infirmity in his Speech. But 'tis obſervable, that theſe words may be rendred thus, There was given me a Thorn in the Fleſh, Ἄγγελος Σατᾶν ἵνα με κολαφίζῃ, that the Angel of Satan might buffet me. Since then he calls the falſe Apoſtles Miniſters of Satan, it is not to be wondred that he here ſtiles them, or the chief of them who thus reviled and contemned him for this infirmity, and therefore laboured to take off the Affections of the Corinthians from him, an Angel of Satan buffeting him.

Ver. 10. Therefore I take pleaſure in (theſe) infirmities (of the fleſh,) in (the) reproaches (I ſuffer upon that account,) in neceſſities, in perſecutions, in diſtreſſes; for when I am (thus) weak (in my ſelf,) then am I ſtrong in the power of Chriſt. This latter Clauſe is in all the Greek Scholiaſts.)

Ver. 11. I am become (as) a fool in glorying (thus, but) ye have compell'd me (to it,) for I ought (rather) to have been commended of you; for in nothing am I behind the very chief of the Apoſtles, though I be nothing (of my ſelf, but through the grace of God I am what I am, 1 Cor. 15. 10.)

Ver.

Ver. 12. Truly the ſigns of an Apoſtle were wrought among you (by me) in all patience, in ſigns and wonders, and in mighty deeds. (See the Note on Hebr. 2. 4.)

Ver. 13. For what is it wherein you were inferiour to other Churches, except (it were in this) that I my ſelf was not burthenſome to you? forgive me this wrong.

Ver. 14. Behold the third time I am ready to come to you, and I will (ſtill continue) not (be) burthenſome to you? for I ſeek not yours, but you; for the Children ought not to lay up for the Fathers, but the Father for the Children.

15. If Fathers of the Fleſh, they ought to lay up for them Temporals; if Spiritual Fathers, as St. Paul was 1 Cor. 4. 15. to provide Spirituals for them, good Inſtructions, and Advice for the welfare of their Souls.

Τρίτον, the third time.] Moſt Interpreters ſay that St. Paul had made two Reſolutions before to come to them, for proof of which they cite 1 Cor. 16. 5. 2 Cor. 1. 16. But both theſe Texts ſeem plainly to refer to one and the ſame Reſolution, and the laſt to be only an Apology for Non-performance of the firſt: His meaning therefore may be thus, I have once actually been with you, I was ready once more to come, though your diſorders unreformed hindred the performing that intended journey, 2 Cor. 1. 23. and I am now ready the third time.

Ver. 15. And I (like a good ſpiritual Father) will very gladly ſpend (my ſpiritual Treaſures for you) and be ſpent (my ſelf) for you, though the more abundantly I love you, the leſs I be beloved.

Ver. 16. But be it ſo; I did not burthen you (my ſelf:) Nevertheleſs (it may be ſuggeſted by ſome, that) being crafty, I caught you with guile, (getting much from you by the means of others.)

Ver. 17. I ask therefore,) Did I make a gain of you by any of them whom I ſent to you?

Ver. 18. I deſired Titus (to go to you,) and with him I ſent a Brother: Did Titus make a gain of you? walked we not in the ſame ſpirit? walked we not in the ſame ſteps?

Ver. 19. Again, think you that we excuſe our ſelves unto you (by ſpecious pretences, when we ſay that we deferred our coming that we might ſpare you, and be helpers of your joy? 2 Cor. 1. 23, 24.) we ſpeak as before God in Chriſt, (calling him again to record that we uſe no ſuch Arts,) but we do all things, dearly beloved, (as we did that,) for your edifying.

Ver. 20. (And too much reaſon had we ſo to do) For (yet) I fear leſt when I come I ſhall not find you ſuch as I would, and that I ſhall be found unto you, (by inflicting neceſſary Cenſures and Puniſhments upon you,) ſuch as you would not, leſt there be debates, envyings, wraths, ſtrifes, backbitings, whiſperings, ſwellings, tumults, (the uſual, and almoſt neceſſary conſequence of Schiſms and Factions in a Church.)

Ver. 21. And leſt when I come again, my God will humble me among you, and that I ſhall (find reaſon to) bewail many who have ſinned already, and have not repented of the uncleanneſs, and fornication, and laſciviouſneſs which they have committed, (after the example, and by the inſtigation of their falſe Teachers, who themſelves practiſe the hidden things of ſhame, 2 Cor. 4. 2. and whoſe exhortation is of uncleanneſs, 1 Theſſ. 2. 3.)

Μετανοησάντων.] Hence it is evident, againſt Novatian, that the Chriſtian diſpenſation admits Sinners to repentance, though they have, after Baptiſm, committed great offences, and lapſed into the Sins of the Fleſh, mentioned Gal. 5. 19, 20, 21.

CHAP. XIII.

Verſe 1. THis is the third time I am coming to you; in the mouth of two or three witneſſes ſhall every Word be eſtabliſhed.

Τοῦτο τρίτον, this is the third time.] Of his coming the third time, ſee the Note on Chap. 12. 14. Theſe Witneſſes, ſaith Dr. Lightfoot, were Stephanus, Fortunatus, and Achaicus ſent to aſſure them of his coming. Say others, his own reiterated teſtimony by Letters to them, that if theſe Admonitions did not prevail on them who had ſinned to reform, he would not ſpare them. For

Ver. 2. I have told you before (in my firſt Epiſtle, Chap. 4. 19, 20, 21. being then abſent in body, but preſent in ſpirit, Chap. 5.) and (I ſtill continue in my reſolution) foretel(ling) you as if I were preſent the ſecond time, (or I foretel you as preſent in ſpirit the ſecond time,) and being abſent (in body,) I now write to them which heretofore have ſinned, (and have not repented, Chap. 12. 21.) and to all others (who ſhall fall into the like ſins,) that if I come again, (which I now fully am reſolved upon,) I will not ſpare you.

Ver. 3. Since ye ſeek a proof of Chriſt ſpeaking in (and by) me, (even that Chriſt) who is not weak towards you, but is mighty in, (and among) you, (you ſhall find it in the exerting the power he hath given us to chaſtiſe ſuch offenders) preach the Goſpel to them in demonſtration of the ſpirit and power ſo efficaciouſly, as to convert them to the Faith, 1 Cor. 2. 4. In that variety of Gifts conferr'd on them, together with the Goſpel, by which their teſtimony of Chriſt was confirmed, 1 Cor. 1. 6. By his Power conſpicuous in ſeconding St. Paul's delivery of the inceſtuous Perſon up to Satan, 1 Cor. 5. 4, 5. By the Chaſtiſements they ſuffered for communicating in the Lord's Supper unworthily.

Ἐν ὑμῖν, among you.] Chriſt ſhew'd his power among them, by enabling St. Paul to

Ver. 4. For though he was crucified through (the) weakneſs (of that humane nature which he took upon him, and in that appeared to others as weak,) yet he liveth, (and diſcovers efficaciouſly that he doth ſo) by the power of God (ſo glorioufly attending the invocation of his Name, and faith in him, for we alſo (Gr. and ſo we alſo) are (as yet in your apprehenſions) weak in him, but we ſhall (appear to) live by the power of God (exerting it ſelf by us) towards you.

Καὶ γὰρ ἡμεῖς, and ſo we alſo.] Theſe Particles ſignifie atque ita, even ſo, and ſo, and in like manner, and accordingly are rendred by Paſor ſic & nos, as in this Paraphraſe. Again, It is evident from Scripture, that though Chriſt appeared to the World as weak, and unable to eſcape his Sufferings by permitting himſelf to be taken, and carried bound before the High-Prieſt, and Pilate, and at laſt to be lifted up upon the Croſs, and there die, yet was he only in appearance then weak; for he permitted not himſelf to be taken till he had with a word ſtruck them down to the ground who came to apprehend him, John 18. 6. and had declared that he was able to deliver himſelf out of their hands, Matth. 26. 53. Even ſo ſaith the Apoſtle, we ſeem weak in him to you Corinthians, becauſe we do not exerciſe that power among you which God hath given us, 2 Cor. 10. 10. 11. 21. and here v. 9. But we ſhall ſhew our ſelves to live by the power of God exerciſed upon the Offenders in your Church.

Ver. 5. (And for a farther evidence that Chriſt preached by me hath not been weak, but mighty towards you,) Examine your own ſelves, prove your own ſelves, whether ye be in the faith, Know ye not (of) your own ſelves (by the Miracles done among you, and the variety of Gifts conferred upon you) that Jeſus Chriſt is in (among) you, except ye be reprobates, (i. e. diſapproved by God, and ſo he hath withdrawn theſe Gifts from you.)

Ὅτι Χριστὸς ἐν ὑμῖν ἐστιν, that Chriſt is in you.] i. e. With or among you. The words ſeem to allude to thoſe ſpoken by the tempting contumacious Iſraelites, who after all the Signs and Wonders God had ſhew'd to them, remain'd ſtill doubtful of his Preſence with them, enquiring εἰ Κύριος ἐν ὑμῖν; is the Lord among us, or not? Exod. 17. 7. So ſaith the Apoſtle, ſeeing after all the Miracles done among you, and the miraculous Gifts received by you, you ſtill ſeek a proof of Chriſt ſpeaking in, or by me, ask your own ſelves? know you not by the Gifts ſtill exerciſed among you, except ye be rejected of God, that his Spirit, conveyed by my Miniſtry, is ſtill among you? But then let it be noted here, that this place ſpeaks not of their being in Chriſt, but of Chriſt's being in them; not of his being in, but among them; not of his being in them by their faith in him, but his miraculous Preſence with them; not of his being in any private Perſon, but in the Church of Corinth in general.

Εἰ μή τι ἀδόκιμοί ἐστε, if ye be not reprobates.] i. e. Chriſtians in name only, not in deeds, Sa. Grotius; ſtupid and hardned, Dr. Hammond; wicked and unfit for the faith, Vorſtius; unworthy of the name of Chriſtians, Dicſon; deprived of faith, light, grace and knowledge, Menochius; unleſs you by your crimes have caſt off Chriſt, So Calvin.

Ver. 6. But (however it may be with you) I truſt you ſhall know that we are not reprobates, (i. e. not diſapproved of, but owned by God and Chriſt.)

Ver. 7. Now I pray to God that ye do no evil, (which may force us to exerciſe and ſhew our power among you, as deſiring) not that we ſhould appear approved (by our power in puniſhing your offences.) but (rather) that you ſhould do that which is honeſt, though we be (in ſhew) as reprobates, (i. e. as deſtitute of the power of Chriſt in your eyes.)

Ὡς ἀδόκιμοι, as Reprobates.] It is to be obſerved that the word ἀδόκιμος, which we render Reprobate, hath no relation in Scripture to any decree of God, either abſolutely excluding Men from a capacity of Salvation, or doing it conditionally on the account of the ſin of Adam, but only doth denote ſuch Men as have made themſelves unworthy, by the corruption of their Faith or Manners, to be approved and owned by God. Thus they were, when they knew God, did not glorifie him as God, neither were thankful, but changed the truth of God into a lie, and worſhipped the Creature more than the Creator, and liked not to retain God in their hearts, Rom. 1. from v. 21—28. are the Men given up by God εἰς νοῦν ἀδόκιμον to a reprobate mind, which prompted them to do thoſe things God could not approve of, but abhor. And they who reſiſted the Truth through the corruption of their Minds, are ſtiled ἀδόκιμοι περὶ τὴν πίστιν, i. e. Reprobates concerning the Faith, 2 Tim. 3. 8. i. e. Men whoſe Faith cannot be owned or approved of. They alſo are in Scripture, as to their Manners, ſtiled Reprobates, whoſe Mind and Conſcience is defiled, ſo that though in words they profeſs to know God, yet in works they deny him, being abominable, diſobedient, and to every good work ἀδόκιμοι reprobate; i. e. void not of Judgment only to diſcern, but

Affec-

Affection to approve of it. Thus the Earth is ſtiled ἀδόκιμος reprobate, or rejected, which, after all the ſhowers which fall upon it, brings forth only Thorns and Briars, Hebr. 6. 8. The Silver ἀργύριον ἀδόκιμον, reprobate ſilver, which being falſe ſtamp'd, or coyned, will not be received, but rejected, Prov. 25. 4. Iſa. 1. 22. And in this ſenſe St. Paul ſaith, He kept under his Body, leſt whilſt he preached to others, he himſelf ſhould be ἀδόκιμος, diſowned and rejected by God, 1 Cor. 9. 27.

Ver. 8. (And then you will be ſecure from our Chaſtiſements,) For we can do nothing againſt the truth, but (only) for the truth, (having our power given for edification only, and not for deſtruction, v. 10.)

Ver. 9. (Nor have we any deſire to uſe our power thus,) For we are (rather) glad, when we are weak, (as having no occaſion to manifeſt our power,) and ye are ſtrong (in faith, and good works) and this alſo we wiſh, even your perfection (in them.)

Ver. 10. (And) therefore I write theſe things being abſent, (to warn and reform you) leſt being preſent I ſhould (be conſtrained to) uſe ſharpneſs (towards the unreformed among you,) according to the power which the Lord hath given me to edification, and not to deſtruction.

Ver. 11. Finally, brethren, farewel; be perfect (ly knit together,) be of good comfort (under all Calamities,) live in peace, and the God of love and peace ſhall be with you.

Ver. 12. Greet one another with an holy kiſs.

Ἐν ἁγίῳ φιλήματι, with an holy kiſs.] As Brethren; for this ſeems to be the Jews oſculum propinquitatis, of which ſee Buxtorf's Lexicon, p. 1404, 1405.

Ver. 13. All the Saints (here) ſalute you.

Ver. 14. The grace of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and the love of God (the Father,) and the Communion of the Holy Ghoſt, be with you all. Amen.

Note that here plainly, as in the form of Baptiſm, Mat. 28. 19. we have the names of the Sacred Trinity, and the Father and Son in both places being mentioned as diſtinct Perſons, we have no reaſon to doubt of the perſonality of the Holy Ghoſt thus mentioned with them.

THE PREFACE TO THE Epiſtle to the GALATHIANS.

§ 1. THough in the Pure and Primitive Ages of the Church I find no Controverſie touching the Nature of Faith, or of Juſtification, they ſaying nothing of Juſtification, but as it is included in the Article of Remiſſion of Sins, yet ſeeing both this Faith, and the Juſtification which is aſcribed to it, have, in theſe latter Ages, miniſtred occaſion to many Queſtions and Diſputes, canvaſed with much Contention, and proſecuted with the greateſt Zeal, as being judged Matters of very high importance, and the Epiſtles to the Romans and Galatians are the Epiſtles which treat chiefly of this Subject, I therefore ſhall, by way of Preface to this Epiſtle, endeavour to ſhew

1. What is the import of the word Faith in Scripture, eſpecially as it relates unto the Matter of Juſtification, or what the Scripture repreſenteth as true Chriſtian Faith.

2. What it is to be juſtified in St. Paul's acceptation of that word.

3. That this Juſtification is by St. Paul aſcribed to Faith alone, in oppoſition to Works of Righteouſneſs done either by the Jew or Gentile.

4. That it ſeems neceſſary, from the nature of the thing, and the ſtate and condition of the Perſons to whom the Goſpel was then preached, that it ſhould be ſo.

5. That though this Faith doth not include ſincere Obedience, and much leſs Perſeverance in it to the end, which yet are neceſſary and eſſential Conditions, even of the New Covenant. Yet

1. It lays the higheſt Obligations on us to perform them, under the penalty of forfeiting the Bleſſings of it. And

2. It tenders ſufficient Motives to this Obedience, and, where it is ſincere and laſting, it will moſt certainly produce it.

§ 2. And (1) as for the import of the word Faith in Scripture, I think ſcarce any thing is more evident throughout the whole New Teſtament, then that the Faith there mentioned is only a cordial and firm belief that Jeſus is the Chriſt, the Lord, the true Meſſiah or Prophet ſent from God to reveal his Will to the World, the Son of God, the Saviour of the World. To make this manifeſt

Conſider (1.) That Divine Faith in general is only a firm aſſent unto, or full perſwaſion of mind concerning the truth of what is teſtified, revealed, or reported by God himſelf, or Perſons commiſſionated by God to reveal, or to bear record to it. For ſeeing Humane Faith is only a perſwaſion of the truth of what is told us, as teſtified by Man, Divine Faith muſt be a firm perſwaſion of the truth of what is teſtified, as revealed to us by God. And this deſcription of Faith is clearly taught us by St. John, 1 Joh. 5. who having declared v. 4, 5. that the Faith by which we overcome the World, is the belief that Jeſus is the Son of God, proceeds to ſhew we have great reaſon to believe this propoſition, that Jeſus is the Son of God; 1. Becauſe the Holy Spirit beareth witneſs to it, and he is the Spirit of Truth, v. 6. 2. Becauſe there are three that bear record in Heaven to it, the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghoſt, v. 7. Now ſaith he, If we receive the witneſs of Men; if we rely upon their teſtimony in our Courts of Judicature; if by the mouth of two or three humane witneſſes our weighteſt matters are determined, ſhall not the witneſs of God be greater? i. e ſhall it not be of more validity for confirmation of our Faith in this particular, that Jeſus is the Son of God? as is. Surely we cannot disbelieve the truth, but we muſt give the lie to him, ſaith the Apoſtle, v. 10. Becauſe we believe not the record which God hath given of his Son; but if we do receive this teſtimony on his authority, we ſet to our Seal that God is true, John 3. 33.

This being then the nature of Divine Faith in general, Faith in our Lord Jeſus Chriſt muſt be a full aſſent unto, or firm perſwaſion of [illegible] concerning concerning the truth of what is teſtified, revealed, or reported by God himſelf, or by Perſons commiſſionated by him to reveal his Will concerning our Lord Jeſus Chriſt. Or briefly thus; It is a firm perſwaſion that he who ſuffered at Jeruſalem was the true Meſſiah, the Saviour of the World, the Prophet who was for to come, that Perſon who was conſtituted Lord of all things; or, which amounts to the ſame thing, that he was Chriſt the Son of God.

For explication of this Propoſition

Conſider (1.) That the Scripture mentions this as the great thing teſtified concerning him, by all the Witneſſes of the Meſſiah; as v. g.

1. By St. John the Baptiſt, who came for a Witneſs to teſtifie of the Light, John 1.7. and who ſaw, and bare record that this is the Son of God, v. 34. Hence do St. John's Diſciples ſay, He to whom thou bareſt witneſs baptizeth, John 3. 25. And Chriſt ſpeaks thus unto the Jews, You ſent unto John, and he bore witneſs to the truth, John 5. 33.

2. God the Father bore him record, and teſtified by divers methods, that he was the Son of God; ſo do we read expreſly, John 5. 32. There is another that beareth witneſs of me, and I know that the witneſs which he witneſſeth of me is true, the Father himſelf who hath ſent me, beareth witneſs of me. And again, Chap. 8. 17, 18. It is written in your Law, that the teſtimony of two men is true; i. e. it is to be received as ſuch: I am one that bear witneſs of my ſelf, and the Father which ſent me beareth witneſs of me. Now God the Father bore witneſs to his Son, 1. By a voice from Heaven, ſaying, Thou art my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleaſed, Mark 1. 11. This voice was perſonally directed to Chriſt himſelf, as being that Commiſſion which was ſent him from Heaven to exerciſe the Office of God's Supream Miniſter, or Legate in the World; but it was alſo prefaced with an ἰδὼ, Behold, directing the People to attend to it, Matth. 3. 17. 2*ly, By giving him the power of working Miracles for confirmation of his Doctrine, and his own teſtimony; and therefore he ſpeaks thus to the People,* I have a greater teſtimony than that of John, the works which my Father hath given me to do, they bear witneſs of me that the Father hath ſent me, Joh. 5. 36.

3*ly,* The Holy Spirit beareth witneſs that Jeſus is the Son of God, 1 John 5. 6. and this he did not only by his deſcent upon our Saviour at his Baptiſm, and by raiſing him from the dead, he being put to death in the fleſh, but quickned by the Spirit, 1 Pet. 3. 18, but by enabling him to caſt out Devils, and to perform ſuch works as never any other Perſon did, or could do. Whence he thus argues, If by the Spirit of God I caſt out Devils, then is the Kingdom of God come to you; i. e. then is it clear that I am the Meſſiah ſent from God to preach the Doctrine of his Kingdom to you, Matth. 12. 28. Since my Commiſſion is confirmed by theſe Operations of his Spirit, and teſtified to by the Finger of God, as the phraſe is varied, Luke 11. 20. and this, after our Lord's Aſcenſion, this Spirit was to do more fully: For when, ſaith Chriſt, the Comforter is come even the Spirit of Truth, he ſhall teſtifie of me, John 15. 26. and this he actually did; whence Chriſt is ſaid to be juſtified by the Spirit, 1 Tim. 3. 16. i. e. freed by his teſtimony from the ſuſpicion of being an Impoſtor, or falſe Pretender, when he declared he was Chriſt the Son of God.

4*ly, The* Apoſtles were men choſen for this very end, Ye ſhall bear witneſs of me, ſaith Chriſt, becauſe ye have been with me from the beginning, John 15. 27. Ye ſhall be witneſſes to me both in Jeruſalem and Judea, and in Samaria, and to the uttermoſt parts of the earth. Hence are they ſtiled witneſſes choſen of God, Acts 10. 41. eye witneſſes of what he did and ſuffered, Luke 1. 2. Eye witneſſes of his glory, 2 Pet. 1. 16. That which we have heard, and ſeen, and looked upon μαρτυρῶμεν we witneſs, and declare unto you, ſaith St. John, 1 John 1. 2.

5*ly,* Moſes alſo, and the Prophets, are produced as his witneſſes, for unto him give all the Prophets witneſs, Acts 10. 43. All the Scriptures, Search the Scriptures, ſaith Chriſt, for they are they which teſtifie of me, John 5. 39. And Moſes in particular; For if you believed Moſes you would believe me, for he wrote of me, v. 46.

Conſider 2*ly, The things for which theſe Witneſſes are produced, the Evidence they give in concerning the* Meſſiah, and that will teach us what is Faith in Chriſt. Sometimes 'tis ſaid that they bore record that he is the Son of God, John 1. 34. 1 John 5. 5—10. Sometimes they teſtifie that he was the Chriſt. Thus St. Paul confounded the Jews, teſtifying that he was the Chriſt, Acts 9. 20, 22. St. Peter teſtifying to all the Houſe of Iſrael, that God had made him Lord and Chriſt, Acts 2. 36. Sometimes they teſtifie that he was the Saviour of the World. So 1 John 4. 14. We have ſeen, and do teſtifie that God hath ſent his Son to be the Saviour of the World; or that he was the Lamb of God that taketh away the ſins of the world, John 1. 29. that him had God exalted to be a Saviour, to give repentance and remiſſion of ſins to them that believed in his Name, Acts 5. 31. 13. 38. Sometimes they teſtifie that he is Lord of all things, Acts 10. 36. and as a conſequent of this, that he by God's appointment was to be Judge of all Men; for he commanded us, ſaith Peter, to preach to the People, and to teſtifie that it was he who was ordained to be the Judge of the quick and the dead, Acts 10. 42. Sometimes they are ſaid to bear witneſs of his Reſurrection, Acts 1. 22. ſaying, This Jeſus hath God raiſed up, whereof we are witneſſes, witneſſes, Acts 2. 32. for we have teſtified of God that he raiſed up Chriſt, 1 Cor. 15. 15.

3*ly*, Obſerve that all theſe ſeveral Teſtimonies, though they differ in expreſſions, they differ little in reality, and in effect do only ſignifie that he is Jeſus Chriſt our Lord. For 1. to ſay he is the Son of God, is in effect to ſay he is the Chriſt, that Perſon by God anointed to be our Prophet. St. Matthew gives us the Confeſſion of St. Peter thus, Thou art the Chriſt the Son of the living God, Matth. 16. 16. St. Mark thus, Thou art the Chriſt Chap. 8. 29. St. Luke, Thou art the Chriſt of God, Chap. 9. 10. And when our Lord forbids them to divulge this to the World, he only ſaith, Tell no man that I am Jeſus the Chriſt, Matth. 16. 20. Art thou the Chriſt, the Son of God, ſaith the High-Prieſt to him, Matth. 26. 63. whereas St. Luke relates the queſtion only thus, Art thou the Chriſt, Chap. 22. 67. 2*ly*, To be the Son of God, is in effect to be the Lord of all things, the Perſon to whom all Power is given in Heaven and Earth; that every Knee ſhould bow unto him, as their Soveraign Lord and King. And therefore, whereas Pilate is, in the other Evangeliſts ſaid only to ask, Art thou the Chriſt, the Son of God; St. John relates the queſtion thus, Art thou the King of the Jews? 3*ly*, To be the Son of God, muſt alſo ſignifie to be the Saviour of the World; the Teſtimony of the Apoſtles being this, that God had ſent his Son to be the Saviour of the World, 1 Joh. 4. 14. to teſtifie that he was riſen from the dead, was in effect to teſtifie he was the Son of God; for he was declared to be the Son of God with power by the Reſurrection from the dead, Rom. 1. 4. 'Twas in effect to teſtifie that he was made both Lord and Chriſt; and therefore Peter having proved Chriſt's Reſurrection and Exaltation to the right hand of God, infers that we may all be hence aſſured, that God hath made him Lord, Acts 2. 36. and St. Paul tells us, it was a demonſtration that God by him would judge the World, Acts 17. 31. And ſince his Reſurrection was performed by the Almighty power of God, it muſt be a ſufficient demonſtration of the truth of what Chriſt teſtified of himſelf, viz. that he was Chriſt, the Saviour of the World, and that he ſhould hereafter ſit at the right hand of Power, it being impoſſible that God ſhould have employ'd ſo great power in raiſing him from the dead, had he not been his well-beloved Son, or that Meſſiah he declared himſelf to be.

This being then the thing which all theſe Witneſſes were ſo concerned to atteſt, and to engage Men to believe, we may be ſure this is, according to the tenor of the Holy Scripture, Faith in Chriſt; and that by heartily believing that Chriſt is the Meſſiah ſent into the World to inſtruct us in the Will of God, the Saviour of the World, ſent to redeem us by his Death from Death and Miſery, and give Salvation to all his faithful Servants; that he is our Lord and King, by whoſe Laws we are to be govern'd, and by whoſe Laws we ſhall be judged and rewarded at the laſt day. Wee truly do believe in Chriſt; which yet will further be apparent,

1*ſt*, From plain Texts which ſeem expreſly to aſſert the ſame. We find Nathaniel ſaying, Rabbi, Thou art the Son of God, Thou art the King of Iſrael, John 1. 49. And Chriſt thus anſwering to him, Becauſe I ſaw thee under the Fig-tree, believeſt thou? Whence it is evident, that to acknowledge Jeſus to be the Son of God, the King of Iſrael, was to believe in him. This was the Faith of the Samaritan Woman, and her fellow Citizens, John 4. 26. for to this Woman our Saviour teſtifies he was the true Meſſiah, ſaying, I that ſpeak unto thee am he, v. 29. Then the Woman goes into the City, and ſaith to the Men of it, Come, ſee a man that told me all things that ever I did, is not this the Chriſt? This being ſaid, many of the Samaritans believed on him, becauſe of the ſaying of the woman; and many more believed, becauſe of his own words, v. 39. that is, they were perſwaded, partly by what they heard her teſtifie, partly by what they heard our Saviour ſpeak, to acknowledge he was the true Meſſiah, or the Saviour of the World; for ſo they do themſelves explain the meaning of believing on him, ſaying to the Woman, Now we believe not becauſe of thy word, for we our ſelves have heard, and know, that this is verily the Chriſt, the Saviour of the World, v. 42. This was the Faith of Martha; for Jeſus having ſaid to her, I am the Reſurrection and the Life, he that believeth on me, though he were dead, yet ſhall he live; Believeſt thou this? She anſwers, Yea Lord, I believe thou art the Chriſt, the Son of God, who waſt to come into the World, John 11. 25, 26. To believe this was therefore to believe in Chriſt, if Martha did ſo. We find St. Paul opening, and alledging that Chriſt muſt needs have ſuffered, and riſen again from the dead, Acts 17. 3. and that this Jeſus, whom he preached, was the Chriſt; and then it follows, that ſome of them believed, v. 4. ἐπείσθησαν, they were perſwaded of the truth of what St. Paul had teſtified. Again it follows, that thoſe of Beræa ſearching the Scriptures, and finding that theſe things were ſo believed, v. 11. i. e. they were perſwaded of the truth of what St. Paul had taught, that Jeſus was the Chriſt; that he had ſuffered, and was riſen from the dead: This therefore muſt be to believe. Again, St. Paul was preſſed in ſpirit, and teſtifies to the Jews that Jeſus was the Chriſt, Acts 18. 5. whereupon Criſpus a chief Ruler of the Synagogue, and many of the Corinthians believed; i. e. they acknowledged the truth of St. Paul's teſtimony, that Jeſus was the Chriſt. The word of faith which we preach, ſaith the ſame Paul, is this, that if thou confeſs confeſs with thy mouth the Lord Jeſus, and in thine heart believeſt that God hath raiſed him from the dead, thou ſhalt be ſaved, Rom. 10. 8, 9. And this he proves, becauſe the Scripture ſaith, Whoſoever believeth in him ſhall not be aſhamed, v. 10. To confeſs therefore, and acknowledge that Jeſus is the Lord, and that God raiſed him from the dead, is to believe on him. Laſtly, This ſaith St. John, is the victory over the World, even our Faith, 1 John 5. 4. and then it follows, Who is he that overcometh the World, but he that believeth that Jeſus is the Son of God; to believe therefore that Jeſus is the Son of God, is Chriſtian Faith.

3*ly*, This was the Faith which the Apoſtles did require in order to Baptiſm; and where there was a due appearance of it, there Perſons were admitted into the number of Believers. For inſtance; St. Peter ſaith to the Jews, Let all the houſe of Iſrael know that God hath made this Jeſus, whom ye crucified, Lord, and Chriſt, Acts 2. 36. This pricks them to the heart, and makes them to enquire what ſhall we do? St. Peter anſwers, Repent you, and believe every one of you in the Name of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, for the remiſſion of ſins, v. 38. and then it follows, that they who gladly received his word, were baptized; and there were added to the Church three thouſand ſouls, v. 41. and v. 47. The Lord daily added to the Church τὸς σωζομένους the ſaved, i. e. ſuch who were by this faith put into the way of Salvation; and, if they perſevered in it, would obtain it. Again, Philip went down to the City of Samaria, and preached to them Chriſt, Acts 8. 5. and when they believed Philip preaching the things concerning the Kingdom of God, v. 12. i. e. when they did heartily aſſent to them, they were baptized, both Men and Women. And when the Eunuch puts the queſtion to him, What hindreth me to be baptized? Philip returns this anſwer, If thou believeſt with all thy heart, thou mayeſt, v. 37. And when the Eunuch anſwered, I believe that Jeſus Chriſt is the Son of God, then was he inſtantly baptized; ſo that the Faith required to Baptiſm, was only an hearty acknowledgment that Jeſus Chriſt was the Son of God.

§ 3. And becauſe there be many falſe, and in my apprehenſion dangerous deſcriptions of true Faith, which have obtained in theſe latter Ages, I will hear briefly lay them down, and then proceed to other Confirmations of the Scripture notion of true Faith, by which we may abundantly diſcern the falſhood of them. Now they are ſuch as theſe, viz.

1. That (a) Faith is a firm aſſent, by which every true Believer is perſwaded, not only that Remiſſion of Sins is promiſed in the general, but to him in particular. So Calvin; and after him the generality of the French and Dutch Divines.

2*ly*, That Faith conſiſts in (b) application of Chriſt's Merits to our ſelves, in caſting our ſelves upon the Merits of Chriſt, in apprehending, relying, or laying hold upon Chriſt for Salvation; or, as others ſay, 'tis a recumbency on Chriſt for Salvation. Of all theſe Notions of juſtifying, or true Chriſtian Faith, this is a full confutation, that they are perfectly unſcriptural: For the firſt cannot be contained in Scripture, it being certain to a demonſtration, that Scripture no where ſaith, that Daniel, John, or Thomas, &c. have remiſſion of ſins. This therefore cannot be Divine Faith, or Faith built immediately on a Divine Revelation, or Record, but reſts upon our own Experience, or Knowledge of our ſelves; for the Argument muſt run thus, He that repenteth and believeth ſhall be ſaved, I Daniel and Thomas have done this; which may indeed be matter of their Knowledge, but not of Divine Faith, as being not revealed in Scripture.

Nor are the other Opinions leſs unſcriptural, for we do not once read in Scripture any command to apply Chriſt's Merits to our ſelves, or to apprehend his Merits, or to lean, and roll our ſelves upon him for Salvation; we find no Exhortation in Scripture ſo to do; no Reprehenſion of any Perſon for not reſting on, or not applying Chriſt's Merits to themſelves; no Promiſe made to any upon the application of Chriſt's Merits: In a word, the Scriptures is wholly unacquainted with theſe Phraſes. And is that likely to be the duty on which our Juſtification, Adoption, and all our Happineſs depends, which hath no Precept, Promiſe, or Example in the Holy Scripture? But I ſhall add ſome farther Confirmations of the Scripture Notion of true Faith, by which all theſe unſcriptural Opinions will be at once confuted. And therefore

4*ly*. The Scripture frequently informs us, that the Miracles done by Chriſt are propounded as the great Motive to believe on him, and as the aggravation of their ſin, who ſtill continued in their infidelity, and alſo that the conſideration of them cauſed many to believe. On this account he requires to be believed; If you believe not me, believe the works, John 10 38. 14. 11. for the works that I do bear witneſs of me, that the Father hath ſent me, John 5. 36. 10. 25. On this account he pronounces the Infidelity of the Jews inexcuſable, ſaying, If I had not done among them the works that no other man did, they had had no ſin; but now they have no cloak for their ſin, John 15. 22, 24. 'Twas this Conſideration which induced many of them to believe; for many believed on his Name when they ſaw the Miracles which he did, John 2. 23. 7. 30. Now what were all his Miracles deſigned to produce in them, but a firm belief that he was Chriſt the Son of God; ſo doth St. John expreſly teach us, ſaying, There be many other Miracles which Jeſus did that are not written in this Book; but theſe are written that ye might believe that Jeſus is the Son of God, John 20. 30. If you imagine that Faith is a firm aſſent that Chriſt died for you in particular, and that you have remiſſion of ſins by him, that 'tis an application of Chriſt, or of his Merits to your ſelves, or a rolling your ſelves upon him for Salvation, How do his Miracles convince you that you ſhould thus believe on him? But if you ſay it is a firm perſwaſion that he is the Chriſt, the Son of God, nothing can be more proper to convince us of the truth of what he thus declared, than theſe Miracles; then may you ſay with Nicodemus, We know thou art a Teacher ſent from God, for no man can do ſuch Miracles as thou doeſt, except God were with him, John 3. 2.

5*ly*, This will be yet more evident from all thoſe places which aſcribe our Juſtification and Salvation to Faith in God, or in him that ſent this Jeſus into the World. So doth our Lord himſelf in theſe words, Verily, verily, I ſay unto you, he that heareth my word, and believeth on him that ſent me, hath everlaſting life, and ſhall not come into condemnation, but is paſſed from death unto life, John 5. 24. 12. 44. The Faith of Abraham is thus deſcribed, Abraham believed God, and it was imputed to him for righteouſneſs, Rom. 4. 3. i. e. this Faith in God was imputed to him for righteouſneſs; when therefore the Apoſtle adds, that he is the Father of them that believe that Righteouſneſs might be imputed to them alſo, v. 9. muſt it not be imputed upon their believing in God, as he did? Doth not the Apoſtle hence infer, that unto him that worketh not, but believeth in him that juſtifieth the ungodly, his faith is counted for righteouſneſs, v. 5. Now to believe in him that juſtifieth the ungodly, is certainly to believe in God the Father, for it is God that juſtifieth, Rom. 8. 33. To be juſtified by this Faith, muſt therefore ſignifie to be juſtified by Faith in God the Father, according to thoſe words of St. Peter, We through him believe in God, that our faith and hope might be in God, 1 Pet. 1. 21. Now if Faith be ſuppoſed to conſiſt in believing that our own ſins are pardoned, in application of Chriſt's merits to our ſelves, or in rolling our ſelves upon the Perſon of Chriſt, what affinity or connexion is there betwixt believing in God, believing the truth of his Promiſes, as Abraham did, and was juſtified, and believing that our own ſins are pardoned, applying the Merits of Chriſt to our ſelves, or rolling our ſelves upon him for Salvation? But then if juſtifying Faith doth primarily conſiſt in a firm perſwaſion that Jeſus is the Son of God, the Saviour of the World, the Prophet ſent of God to ſhew us the way of Salvation, the Lord and King, by whoſe Laws we are to be governed if we would obtain it, then Faith in Chriſt, and Faith in God are one thing; for God having teſtified all this concerning his Son Jeſus Chriſt, and alſo promiſed that every one that hath ſeen the Son, and believed on him, ſhall have eternal life, John 6. 40. By thus believing we receive his Teſtimony, and ſet to our Seal that God is true.

6*ly*, This may be argued from all thoſe places which aſcribe our Juſtification and Salvation to the belief of the Reſurrection of Jeſus Chriſt, or of God's power exerciſed in raiſing him from the dead. Thus doth St. Paul in that very Chapter in which he profeſſedly diſputes of Juſtification by Faith; for he expreſly declares, that to them that believe in him who raiſed Jeſus from the dead, that Faith ſhall be imputed unto Righteouſneſs, Rom. 4. 24. as Abraham's Faith in him that quickned the dead, was imputed unto him for Righteouſneſs. And again, If we believe with the heart, that God hath raiſed up the Lord Jeſus from the dead we ſhall be ſaved, for with the heart man believeth unto juſtification, Rom. 10. 9. Now what agreement is there betwixt my believing my own ſins are pardoned, or my applying Chriſt's merits to my ſelf, or rolling my ſelf upon him, and Chriſt's reſurrection from the dead by the power of God. But then if we ſay that Faith is a firm perſwaſion that Jeſus was the Son of God, the Saviour of the World, the Prophet that was to come into the World, the Lord and Ruler over all, this, as he teſtified of himſelf whilſt living, and God the Father alſo teſtified, ſo was he declared to be the Son of God with power by this reſurrection from the dead, Rom. 1. 4. By this all Iſrael might know that God had made him Lord, and Chriſt, Acts 2. 24—36. and that God had exalted him to his right hand, to be a Prince and a Saviour, to give repentance unto Iſrael, and remiſſion of ſins, Acts 5. 31. Hence the Apoſtle teacheth that Chriſt died for our ſins, and roſe again for our juſtification, Rom. 4. 25. and puts the queſtion, Who is he that condemneth us? it is Chriſt that died, yea rather that is riſen again, Chap. 34.

7*ly*, This appears farther from this conſideration, that in all the Scriptures of the New Teſtament there is not to be found one Exhortation to any Chriſtian to believe in Chriſt, or to act Faith on Chriſt. When the Apoſtles preached to Jews, or Gentiles, Men not converted to the Chriſtian Faith, they ſtill exhort them to believe that Jeſus was the Chriſt, the Son of God, the Saviour of the World, or to believe

believe in the Lord Jesus. And this was ne- cessary to be preached to them, to perswade them to believe in, and to obey him; for till they did believe he was a Person sent from God, and that they should receive some benefit by doing so, they could have no inducement to own, and no encouragement to obey him. It was therefore necessary that this should be first preached to Jew and Gentile, that Christ was a Person sent from God to preach the Doctrine which he taught, and that remission of sins, and everlasting life was to be obtained by his Name, and by obedience to this Teacher. But then, I say, the same Apostles in their Epistles directed to those Persons who were already Christians, and who had testified their Faith by being baptized in the Name of Jesus, have not one Exhortation to any of them to believe in Christ; but only to be stedfast in the Faith, to encrease and grow in Faith, and to repent of what they had done contrary to the Faith they had received. The Exhortations of our Lord to the seven Churches, and more particularly to that of Sardis, in which there were but very few who had not defiled themselves, Rev. 3. 1, 2, 3. and that of Laodicea which he threatned to spew out of his mouth for her luke-warmness, Luke 16. 18.
to only to repent, and renew their first works, not to believe in him, or to apply his Merits to themselves. Now what account can be given of this thing by those who are so zealous in their sermons to exhort Christians to believe in Christ, to roll themselves upon him, and ap- ply his Merits to themselves, and are so full of Motives to perswade them so to do, I say, what reason can they give why Men, assisted by the Holy Ghost, never exhorted any Christian to believe, but only to shew forth their faith by their works, James 2. 18. and to add un- to their faith vertue, 2 Pet. 1. 5, 6. &c. But when if Christian Faith be only a firm perswa- sion that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, the Saviour of the World, the reason is ex- ceeding manifest why no Christian should be ex- horted to believe, because whosoever is a Christian, not only doth believe all this already, but hath professed his belief of it by being baptized in the Name of Jesus. There therefore needs no Exhortation to any Christian to believe in Christ, but only to walk answerable to that Faith, to be stedfast in it, and to add unto his faith vertue, knowledge, temperance, godliness, brotherly kindness, charity, 2 Pet. 1. 5—8.
but they may not be slothful, and unfruitful in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Object. If it be here objected that St. John saith, These things have I written to you that believe on the Name of the Son of God, that ye may know ye have eternal life (ἵνα πιστεύ-ητε) and that ye may believe in the Name of the Son of God, 1 John 5. 13. I answer,

1. That the Alexandrian, and other Greek Manuscripts, read not ἵνα πιστεύσητε, but εἰ πιστεύοντες, that ye may know ye have eternal life who believe in the Name of the Son of God. And this reading is confirmed by the Vulgar, the Syriac, and Æthiopick Versions.

2*ly*, They who retain our Version interpret the words thus, That ye may continue to believe in the Name of the Son of God; or that ye may (c) more firmly, and certainly believe. Nor will the words bear any other meaning, unless you will suppose St. John should seriously exhort Believers to begin to do, what he had told them in the immediate preceding words, was so effectually done by them already, that they might know they had eternal life.

In a word, either it is true before we actually believe it, that our sins are pardoned, that we have a right to apply Christ's Merits to us, and to roll our selves upon his Person for Salvation, or it is not: If it be true before we have believed, we must have Faith before, since nothing can procure this pardon of our sins, or give us any right to apply his Merits to our selves, or depend on him for Salvation, but Faith in Christ: If it be not true, we must obtain the pardon of our sins, and an interest in Christ's merits by believing a lie? And so much for the first Particular. To the next Enquiry,

§ 4. 2*ly*, What is it to be justified in St. Paul's acceptation of the word? I answer,

1. That this Justification which St. Paul speaks of, is an act of God terminated upon Man. This the Apostle expressly doth deliver in these words, Who shall lay any thing to the charge of Gods elect, it is God that justifies, Rom. 8. 33. And again, It is one God who justifies the circumcision by faith, and the uncircumcision through faith, Rom. 3. 30. It is God that justifieth the ungodly, Rom. 4. 5. He is just, and the Justifier of him that believeth in Jesus, Rom. 3. 26. Now according to the clear tenor of the Scripture,

2*ly*, God justifies the sinner by absolving him from the guilt of his past sins, by a free act of grace, in pardoning his iniquities, or not imputing his sins to him, and so his justification must import his absolution from the guilt of sin, and as a necessary and immediate consequence of that, his being reconciled unto God, and received into favour with him. This will be evident if we consider,

1. What the Baptist testified concerning him that all Men might believe, viz. that he was the Lamb of God that taketh away the sins of the world, John 1. 29. and what Christ testified of himself, viz. that he that believeth in him should not come into condemnation, John

(c) Ut certius, & firmius credant. Calv. Ut in fide perseverent. Vorst. Episcop. That ye may be encouraged to continue in the Faith. Dr. Hammond. Πιστεύειν διηνεκῶς. Oecum.

3. 16. that his blood was the blood of the new Covenant, which was ſhed for the remiſſion of ſins, Matth. 26. 28. even of that Covenant in which God promiſes to be merciful to our unrighteouſneſs, and to remember our iniquities no more, Hebr. 8. 13. 10. 17. As alſo from what his Apoſtles promiſed to win Men to the Faith of Jeſus, viz. remiſſion of ſins. Thus when the Jews were pricked to the heart, and ſaid, What ſhall we do? St. Peter anſwers, Repent ye, and be baptized in the Name of Jeſus Chriſt, for the remiſſion of ſins, Acts 2. 37. And again, Repent you, and be converted, that your ſins may be blotted out, Acts 3. 19. For him hath God exalted to be a Prince and a Saviour to give repentance, and remiſſion of ſins, Acts 5 31. St. Peter begins his Sermon to Cornelius thus, The word which God hath ſent us to preach is Peace by Jeſus Chriſt, Acts 10. 36. To him give all the Prophets witneſs, that through his Name whoſoever believeth on him ſhall receive remiſſion of ſins, Act. 13. 23 St. Paul declares, that God had raiſed up to Iſrael a Saviour Jeſus; and then he adds, Known therefore be it, ſaith he, to you, that through this Man is preached to you remiſſion of ſins; and in him every believer on him ſhall be juſtified from all things, from which they could not be juſtified by the Law of Moſes, Hebr. 10. 1, 4. that Law being not able to take away ſins, Rom. 3. 23. i. e. to free Men from the guilt of ſin. Seeing then the benefit propoſed to the Believer is the remiſſion of ſins to be obtained through Chriſt, through his Name, ſeeing we are ſaid to be juſtified through Chriſt, Chap. 5. 9. through Faith in his Blood, Eph. 1. 7. that Blood which is ſo often ſaid to be ſhed for the remiſſion of our ſins, Col. 1. 14, 20. to procure our Peace, and our Redemption. Since laſtly, we are ſaid by believing in Chriſt to be juſtified from ſin, Acts 13. 39. which Phraſe can only ſignifie exemption from the condemnation of it; I ſay, from theſe expreſſions it appears, that God's juſtification of a ſinner by Faith, or through Faith in the Blood of Jeſus, is chiefly the remiſſion of the Believers ſins, and the exemption of him from the condemnation of the Law by virtue of Chriſt's Blood ſhed for the remiſſion of ſins.

2ly, This we may learn from the Reaſonings by which the Apoſtle confirms his Concluſion, or the Arguments by which he proves, that both Jew and Gentile are to be juſtified by Faith, without the works of the Law, or without works. His Concluſion is laid down Chap. 1. 17. thus, The righteouſneſs of God (which proceeds) from faith, is revealed in the Goſpel, to (beget) faith in Jew and Gentile, v. 16. (See the Note there.) And this way of obtaining Righteouſneſs or Juſtification, he proves to be abſolutely neceſſary to them both, beginning firſt with the Gentile, whom he pronounces ſubject to the wrath of God, for holding the truth (they by the Light of Nature knew) in unrighteouſneſs, v. 18. And this he proves to the end of that Chapter, which concludes thus, That they knowing the judgment of God, that they who did ſuch things were worthy of death, not only did the ſame, but had pleaſure in them that did them. In the ſecond Chapter he declares the Jews guilty of the ſame things the Heathens did, and ſo obnoxious to the ſame Condemnation, and alſo guilty of violating the Law of Moſes; and thence concludes that as to this matter there was no difference between them, he having proved both Jews and Gentiles to be all under ſin, Chap. 3. 9. and ſo both equally needing to be juſtified by Faith, or to be juſtified freely by an Act of Grace, pardoning their ſins through faith in Chriſt, v. 24. His Argument then is plainly this, both Jew and Gentile lye under the guilt of ſin, there being none of them that is righteous, Rom. 3. 9. i. e free from ſin, no not one, v. 10. Neither of them can be juſtified by the Law, becauſe they by the Sentence of it are [illegible] guilty before God, v. 19, 20. and obnoxious to puniſhment, as being both Tranſgreſſors of it. Therefore, ſaith he, by the Law can no man be juſtified, for by the Law is the knowledge of ſin, rendring us obnoxious to condemnation; where then there remains the guilt of ſin, there can be no juſtification; where therefore there is remiſſion of ſin, and ſo a freedom from being guilty of it before God, there is juſtification. Again, All have ſinned, ſaith he, and fallen ſhort of the glory of God, v. 23. that is, of his approbation, as that phraſe ſignifies Joh. 12. 43. or of the fruition of the glory of God, as it imports Rom. 5. 1, 2. Therefore abſolution from this ſin muſt be ſufficient to make us obtain this glory of God. We who have thus ſinned, ſaith he, are juſtified freely by his Grace through the redemption that is in Chriſt Jeſus, v. 24. Now what is this Redemption? it is, ſaith the ſame Apoſtle twice, the remiſſion of our ſins, Eph. 1. 7. Col. 1. 14. The Apoſtle argues to the ſame effect in the Epiſtle to the Galathians, That juſtification cannot be by the Law, becauſe the Law cannot give life, and this it cannot do, becauſe the Scripture hath concluded all under ſin, Gal. 3. 21, 22. and ſo ſhut out of that way of being juſtified. Our freedom therefore from the guilt of ſin muſt be ſufficient for our juſtification to life. In his fourth Chapter to the Romans he deſcribes juſtification by the not imputing ſin, and the forgiveneſs of it, in theſe words, To him that worketh not, but believeth in him that juſtifieth the ungodly, his faith is counted for righteouſneſs, v. 4. As David ſpeaks of the bleſſedneſs of the man to whom the Lord imputeth righteouſneſs without works, v. 5, 6. ſaying, Bleſſed are they whoſe unrighteouſneſs is forgiven, and whoſe ſin is covered, v. 7. Bleſſed is the man to whom the Lord imputeth not ſin, v. 8. Since then the bleſſedneſs of which the Apoſtle was diſcourſing, was that of juſtification, the juſtification of the ungodly, and ſince the bleſſedneſs is ſaid to conſiſt in the remiſſion, covering, the not imputing his ſins to him, it cannot reaſonably be denied that the bleſſedneſs of a juſtified perſon is here deſcribed by the Bleſſedneſs of a pardoned perſon, as being one and the ſame thing.

3ly, This will be farther evident from the conſideration of the phraſes the Apoſtle uſeth as equivalent to juſtification, and interpretative of it. As

1. Reconciliation to God, that this is the ſame with juſtification, appears by theſe words, much more being juſtified by his blood, we ſhall be ſaved from wrath by him; for if when we were enemies we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son, much more being reconciled, we ſhall be ſaved by his life, Rom. 5. 9, 10. where to be juſtified by his blood, and reconciled by his death, ſeem plainly the ſame thing. Now that reconciliation is effected by the remiſſion of ſins, is evident from theſe words, God was in Chriſt reconciling the world unto himſelf, not imputing their treſpaſſes unto them, 2 Cor. 5. 19. and therefore juſtification alſo muſt be ſo obtained; for if upon the not imputing ſin unto us, God did not account us as righteous, he could not be reconciled to us, becauſe he cannot be reconciled to any man continuing unrighteous, or under the notion of a ſinner.

2ly, Juſtification ſtands directly oppoſed to condemnation, in theſe words, Who ſhall lay any thing to the charge of Gods elect, or to Believers; τίς ἐγκλήσει κατὰ, who ſhall object a crime againſt them, it is God that juſtifieth, who is he that condemneth them, Rom. 8. 33, 34. And again, If the miniſtration of condemnation, i. e. the Law which chargeth us with guilt, and ſo rendreth us obnoxious to condemnation, was glorious, much more the miniſtration τῆς δικαιοσύνης of juſtification doth exceed in glory, 2 Cor. 3. 9. Now what is it that mankind is accuſed of, and charged with by the Law, but ſin? What is it that they ſtand condemned for at God's Bar, but the tranſgreſſion of his Law? Juſtification therefore, which ſtands oppoſed to it, muſt be a clearing and diſcharging of them from the guilt, or the condemning power of ſin.

5ly, We are juſtified, ſaith the Apoſtle, through the redemption that is in Jeſus, through Faith in his blood, Rom. 3. 24, 25. through his blood, Rom. 5. 9. Now what doth this Blood procure for us? forgiveneſs of ſins, Eph. 1. 7. Col. 1. 14. ſaith the Apoſtle, it being ſhed for the remiſſion of ſins, Matth. 26. 28. He appearing in the end of the world to put away ſin by the ſacrifice of himſelf, Hebr. 9. 26. What benefit have believers by it? He hath loved them, and waſhed them from their ſins in his blood, Rev. 1. 5. He hath made peace for them by the blood of his Croſs, Col. 1. 20. with a God only angry for ſin. He hath obtained eternal redemption from tranſgreſſions by it, Hebr. 9. 12, 15. By all theſe equivalent Expreſſions it appears, that God's juſtifying the ſinner, in St. Paul's ſenſe of the expreſſion, is his abſolving him from the guilt of his paſt ſins, from puniſhment, and condemnation by the Law for them, by an act of grace and free pardon of them through the blood of Jeſus, his being as fully reconciled to us, as if we never had offended againſt the former Covenant we were all under, till the new Covenant was eſtabliſhed in the blood of Jeſus.

§ 5. 3ly, I add, that this juſtification is, by St. Paul, aſcribed to faith alone, in oppoſition to works of righteouſneſs done, either by the Jew or Gentile. This plainly follows from that notion of Juſtification which I have eſtabliſhed as the true ſenſe of the expreſſion in St. Paul; for how could Jew or Gentile be juſtified by the works of that Law, whether Moſaical, or Natural, which rendred them both obnoxious to condemnation for ſin, and guilty before God? Could they receive remiſſion of ſins by complyance with that Law which left them under condemnation for it? Can any Man imagine, after the charge he lays againſt the Gentiles, Chap. 1. and againſt the Jews, Chap. 2. & 3. He could have any inclination to aſſert they ſhould be juſtified, or abſolved from the guilt of theſe offences by their Works, and not by Faith only? The miſtake in this matter ſeems to lie here, that Men look upon juſtification, not as looking backward only, and procuring an abſolution from our paſt ſins, but as looking forward to our whole Chriſtian converſation, and importing our abſolution from all our ſins committed againſt the tenor of the Covenant of Grace, or the New Covenant; whereas it only doth conſiſt ἐν τῇ πάρεσει τῶν γεγενημένων ἁμαρτημάτων, in the remiſſion of our paſt ſins, Rom. 3. 25. in the redemption of us from τῶν ἐπὶ τῇ πρώτῃ διαθήκῃ παραβάσεων, the ſins committed againſt our former Covenant, Hebr. 9. 15. in the purgation of the Believer τῶν πάλαι αὐτοῦ ἁμαρτιῶν from his old ſins, 2 Pet. 1. 9. And leaves us afterward to be abſolved, or condemned as we obey, perform, or violate the Conditions of the New Covenant, and ſo to be judged hereafter, not according to our Faith, but Works. See the Note on Rom. 3. 25.

2*ly*, This is exceeding evident from the plain words of the Apoſtle, and by the Arguments by which he proves we muſt be juſtified by Faith, and not by Works. For, ſaith he, by the deeds of the Law ſhall no fleſh be juſtified in his ſight, for by the Law is the knowledge of (that) ſin, (which renders us obnoxious to condemnation.) Now this knowledge of ſin, being chiefly produced by the Moral Law, Rom. 7. 7. ſhews the Apoſtle excludes as well that, as the Ceremonial Law, from juſtification. And evident it is, that the Antitheſis runs all along not between Ceremonial and Moral Works, or between done by the Law of Moſes, or by the tenour of the Law of Nature, but between Works in general, and Faith, the Law of Works, and the Law of Faith. Again, We are, ſaith he, juſtified freely by his Grace, Rom. 3. 24. i. e. by a free act of Grace in pardoning our paſt ſins, by which we had fallen ſhort of the glory of God. Now a free act of Grace is ſtill oppoſed to Works. Thus if our Election or Calling to the Faith of Chriſt, be of Grace, then is it not of Works, Rom. 11. 6. By Grace ye are ſaved through Faith, not of Works, 2 Eph. 8. 9. See the Note there. Not by works of righteouſneſs which we had done (before the goodneſs and loving-kindneſs of God our Saviour appeared to us) but according to his mercy he ſaved us, Tit. 3. 5. See the Note there. Moreover we reckon, ſaith he, that a man is juſtified by faith without the works of the Law, v. 28. where 'tis on all ſides granted, that the works of the Law of Moſes are entirely excluded from juſtification by Faith, and then much more the works of the Gentiles; it being the ſame God who juſtifies the Circumciſion by Faith, and the Uncircumciſion through Faith, v. 30. In the next Chapter he ſaith, To him that worketh not, but believeth in him that juſtifieth the ungodly, his faith is reckoned for righteouſneſs, Rom. 4. 5. Now how can the ungodly be juſtified by Works, and by what words can Works be more entirely excluded, then by not working.

3*ly*, That Evangelical Obedience or Works of Righteouſneſs done by us after faith in Chriſt are excluded from that Faith which juſtifies, is evident, becauſe they follow the faith which juſtifies, i. e procures the pardon of our paſt ſins. For, ſaith the Apoſtle, we are ſaved (from the wrath due unto us for our paſt ſins, Rom. 5. 9. or we are put into the way and ſtate of ſalvation) by grace through faith, not of works; for we are created in Chriſt Jeſus to good works, which God hath ordained that we ſhould walk in, Eph. 2. 8, 9, 10. So that we muſt be firſt in Chriſt by virtue of this Faith, before we can be fitted to do works of Evangelical Righteouſneſs. And this Argument may be confirmed from many inſtances of Perſons who believed, and were immediately baptized the ſame day; for being baptized for the remiſſion of ſins, they muſt be juſtified. Thus at St. Peter's Sermon, three thouſand believed, and were baptized the ſame day, Acts 2. 41. Thus the Samaritans, upon the hearing Philip preach concerning the Kingdom of God, and the Name of the Lord Jeſus, were immediately baptized, Acts 8. 12. So alſo was the Eunuch upon his preaching to him, v. 38. So was Cornelius and all that heard St. Peter's Sermon, Acts 10. 48. So was the Jaylor, and all his houſe ſtraitway, Acts 16. 33. See Acts 9. 35, 42. 11. 21. 13. 12, 48, 49. 14. 1. 17. 12, 34. 19. 18. Now what Evangelical Obedience could theſe Men perform to render them juſtified by works?

4*ly*, This may be fairly argued from the example of Abraham's juſtification; and the paſſage whence St. Paul concludes it. Abraham believed God, and it was imputed to him for righteouſneſs. For it deſerves to be obſerved that Abraham had faith, or was a Believer before this was ſaid unto him, for by faith Abraham being called obeyed, and went forth, Heb. 11. 8. And after by a ſtronger faith he offered up his Son Iſaac, believing that God was able to raiſe him from the dead, v. 17. but neither of theſe inſtances are pitcht upon by the Apoſtle, as fit for his purpoſe, becauſe in him Obedience was joyned with Faith, whereas here was a pure act of faith without works; and of this act of faith it is ſaid, what is not ſaid of either of the other, It was imputed unto him for righteouſneſs. If therefore thus it was in the example of the father of the faithful, we may hence conclude, it was ſo alſo in the Children of faithful Abraham.

Laſtly, The Scripture is expreſs and frequent in this aſſertion, That Believers are juſtified by Faith; in which expreſſion either Faith muſt include Works, or Evangelical Obedience, or it doth not; if it doth not, we muſt be juſtified by Faith alone. And that it doth not formally include Works of Evangelical Righteouſneſs, appears

1. From the plain diſtinction which the Scripture puts between them, when it informs us that Faith works by love; acts with our works, and is made perfect by them, when it calls upon us to ſhew forth our faith by our works; and to add to our faith vertue, knowledge, godlineſs, temperance, patience, brotherly kindneſs, charity; and when it ſpeaks of the work of faith, and the obedience of faith. Gal. 5. 6. Jam. 2. 18, 22. 2 Pet. 1. 5, 6. Rom. 16. 26. 1 Theſſ. 1. 3.

2*ly*, Faith in the nature of it is only an aſſent unto a Teſtimony, Divine Faith an aſſent to to a Divine Teſtimony, Faith in Chriſt an aſſent to the Teſtimony given by God of Chriſt. Now 'tis not reaſonable to conceive that Chriſt, and his Apoſtles, making uſe of a word which had this known and fixed import, ſhould mean more by the word, than what is ſignified in common uſe, as ſure they muſt have done, had they included in the meaning of the word the whole of our Evangelical Righteouſneſs, though therefore Faith is the ſpring, and the foundation of that righteouſneſs; and, where 'tis cordial and living, will moſt aſſuredly produce it; yet is not that righteouſneſs included in the very nature, or contained in the import of it.

Object. But doth not St. James ſay expreſly, That a man is juſtified by works, and not by faith only, Chap. 2. 24.

Anſw. In anſwer to this capital Objection, I ſhall firſt produce the words of the Apoſtle James, with a ſhort Paraphraſe, and then return a poſitive Anſwer to the Objection. The words I paraphraſe thus:

Ver. 14. And let (not any Jew or Chriſtian think his faith ſufficient to juſtifie and ſave him without thoſe works of charity and mercy here ſpoken of, v. 8——13. for) what doth it profit, my brethren, if a man ſay he hath faith, (i. e. in words profeſs to have faith in God, v. 19. or in Chriſt, v. 1.) and have not works (to evidence the truth of that profeſſion) can (ſuch a naked, fruitleſs) faith ſave him?

Ver. 15. If a brother or ſiſter be naked, or deſtitute of daily food,

Ver. 16. And one of you ſay unto him, depart in peace, be you warmed and filled, (making profeſſion of compaſſion for, and good will to him in your words, but) notwithſtanding ye give them not thoſe things which be needful for (the cloathing or feeding of) the body, what doth it profit (him to hear your kind words.)

Ver. 17. Even ſo faith (profeſſed with the mouth) if it hath not works (anſwerable to that profeſſion, or conſequent upon it) is dead (and fruitleſs as thoſe words) being alone, (i.e. without works ſhewing the truth of it.)

Ver. 18. Yea a man may ſay (to ſuch a Sophiſtician,) thou haſt (in profeſſion) faith, and I have (real) works, ſhew me thy faith (which thou profeſſeſt,) without thy works (which thou canſt never do, faith being ſeated in the heart, and only diſcoverable by its effects) and I will ſhew thee by my works my faith, (as the cauſe is demonſtrated by the effect.)

Ver. 19. Thou (being a Jew) believeſt there is one God, thou (in this) doeſt well, (but doeſt no more than the very Devils, for) the Devils alſo believe and tremble, (and if thou haſt no better faith than they, thou haſt the ſame reaſon to tremble which they have.)

Ver. 20. But wilt thou know, oh vain man, (who makeſt profeſſion of ſuch a naked faith,) that faith without works is dead, (and ſo unable to juſtifie or ſave thee; ſee it in the example of that very Abraham, in thy Relation to whom thou ſo confideſt.)

Ver. 21. (For) was not Abraham (whom we ſtyle) our Father, juſtified by works (proceeding from his faith) when he had offered his ſon Iſaac upon the Altar? (counting that God was able to raiſe him from the dead, Hebr. 11. 17, 19.)

Ver. 22. Seeſt thou how (Gr. thou ſeeſt by this example that) faith wrought with his works (to produce them?) and by works was faith made perfect, (and advanced in him to the greateſt height.)

Ver. 23. And the Scripture was (again) fulfilled which ſaith Abraham believed in God, and it (viz. that faith which produced theſe works) was accounted to him for righteouſneſs, and (upon that account) he was called the friend of God.

Ver. 24. Ye ſee then how that by works (proceeding from faith) a man is juſtified, and not by faith only, (i. e. being alone, and without them.)

Now in anſwer to the Objection from theſe words, I ſay,

That when St. Paul ſaith, we are juſtified by faith without the works of the Law, and that to him that worketh not, but believeth in him that juſtifieth the ungodly, faith is imputed for righteouſneſs, or to juſtification, Juſtification there aſcribed to faith without works, imports only our abſolution from condemnation by reaſon of our paſt ſins committed before faith in Chriſt, and our reconciliation to God by the pardon of them, or the not imputing them to thoſe who believe in him. This I have ſhewed already, and 'tis apparent from the chief Argument the Apoſtle uſeth to prove, that both Jew and Gentile ſhould be juſtified freely by his grace, and not by works, becauſe they were all under ſin, all become guilty before God, all having ſinned, and come ſhort of the glory of God, Rom. 3. 9, 19, 23. whereas, ſaith he, being juſtified by faith, we have peace with God, and rejoyce in the hope of the glory of God, Rom. 5. 1, 2. Therefore, Chap. 3. he muſt be ſpeaking of the condition both of Jew and Gentile before faith in Chriſt. So again, when the Apoſtle ſaith, The Scripture hath concluded all under ſin, that the promiſe (of juſtification) by (the) faith of Jeſus Chriſt might be given to them that believe (in him.) Wherefore the Law was (then) our School-maſter to bring us to Chriſt, that we might be juſtified by faith (in him) But now, after that Faith is come, we are no longer under a School-maſter, (i. e. under the pædagogy of the Law.) For ye are all the Children of God through Faith in Chriſt Jeſus, Gal. 3. 22, 23, 24, 25, 26. He plainly inſinuates that we cannot be juſtified by the works of the Law, becauſe the Law leads us to Chriſt for juſtification. And again,

We

We are juſtified by grace, not of works; for we are God's workmanſhip, created in Chriſt Jeſus to good works, Eph. 2. 10. Where the Argument ſeems plainly to run thus, we cannot be juſtified by works preceding faith, becauſe we do no good works till by faith we are intereſted in Chriſt Jeſus. Whereas St. James ſpeaks plainly of thoſe works which follow faith, are wrought by it, and are the effects of it, and of their neceſſity in order to our continuance in a ſtate of juſtification, and our freedom from final condemnation. St. James ſpeaks of a meer profeſſion of faith with the mouth, St. Paul of believing from the heart, St. James of a faith dead and fruitleſs, when we have it, St. Paul of a faith working by love when we have it, and of a perſon only juſtified without works, becauſe he had no faith to produce them.

§ 6. 4*ly*, It ſeemeth neceſſary from the nature of the thing, and the ſtate and condition of the perſons to whom the Goſpel was firſt preached, that they ſhould be juſtified, or abſolved from the guilt of their paſt ſins, without new obedience, or without actual obedience to all the Commandments of Chriſt; though not without that faith which did engage them to it, and was ſufficient to produce it. For

1. This was all that could be done by the convinced Jew or Gentile, who at one Sermon or Diſcourſe believed, and were baptized for the remiſſion of ſins. 'Tis manifeſt they then knew but little of the Commandments of Chriſt, and ſo could not be doers of them. Either then they were not juſtified, and then faith was not imputed to them for righteouſneſs, nor did Baptiſm conſign to them remiſſion of ſins; or, they were juſtified by that faith which did not include actual obedience to all the Commandments of Chriſt, as the condition of that juſtification. And ſeeing perſeverance to the end, and being faithful to the death, are by our Lord himſelf made the Conditions of Salvation, and of receiving from his hands the Crown of Life; if theſe be alſo the Conditions of the Juſtification promiſed to faith in Chriſt, no perſon is, or can be juſtified by faith till he dies. This faith therefore in Jew and Gentile thus converted, could only import three things: (1.) By way of preparation for it, an owning the true God who gave this teſtimony to his Son, and ſo a turning from dumb Idols to ſerve the living God, and a ſorrow for the ſins committed againſt him in the time of their ignorance; and in the Jew a ſorrow for their paſt ſins, and in particular for having crucified the Lord of Life; and in this ſenſe repentance goes before faith: And Chriſt's Apoſtles preached to the Jews repentance for the remiſſion of ſins through faith in his Name, Acts 14. 15. and to the Gentiles to turn from theſe vain things to the living God, who made Heaven and Earth; and to both, repentance towards God, and faith in our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, Acts 20. 21. (2.) As a means to obtain this remiſſion of ſins, faith in our Lord Jeſus Chriſt. (3.) An engagement for the future to ceaſe from ſin, and to give up themſelves to the Service of God, according to the Rules and Precepts delivered to them by his Son. Now this engagement was virtually contained in their repentance, and their faith in Chriſt, and was ſolemnly made by them at their Baptiſm, as will be proved hereafter. Now this being all that they could then do, it muſt be all they were obliged to do in order to their juſtification; and yet 'tis certain that a promiſe of obedience, is not obedience; and that even the New Covenant requires, in order to ſalvation, a ſincere and conſtant performance of the obedience thus promiſed. So that the Conditions of Salvation, and of Juſtification from our paſt offences, can never be the ſame.

2*ly*, This will be farther evident, if we conſider that no Man can enter into Covenant with God, be reconciled to him, be admitted to his grace and favour, or be enabled to ſerve him acceptably, till his ſins be pardoned; for God cannot be reconciled to ſinners whilſt they continue under the guilt of ſin unpardoned; nor can he enter into Covenant with them, or receive them to his grace and favour, or accept their ſervices, till he be reconciled to them. When God entred into Covenant with his own People, a Sacrifice was firſt offered to make atonement for their ſins, and the Blood of it was ſprinkled upon all the People, Hebr. 9. 19. And the New Covenant, in which he promiſed to be merciful to our iniquities, and to remember our ſins no more, was ſtabliſhed in the Blood of Jeſus ſhed for the remiſſion of our ſins. So that the ſins of a Believer muſt be immediately pardoned upon his faith in Chriſt, or he can have no peace with God, no reconcilement to him, no intereſt in the New Covenant, and be in no capacity to do him any acceptable ſervice. This is the import of thoſe words Chriſt ſuffered for our ſins, ἵνα ἡμᾶς προσαγάγῃ τῷ Θεῷ, that he might bring us to God, 1 Pet. 3. 18. For to bring us to God in all other places of the New Teſtament, in which this phraſe is uſed, with reſpect to Chriſt, is to give us freedom of acceſs to God, who by our ſins were formerly excluded from it, and baniſhed from his gracious preſence by him, ſaith the Apoſtle, we have προσαγωγὴν πρὸς τὸν πατέρα admiſſion to the Father, Eph. 2. 18. by him we obtain a freedom εἰς τὴν προσαγωγὴν of acceſs to God with confidence, Eph. 3. 12. This is obtained, ſaith the ſame Apoſtle, by virtue of Chriſt's Blood; for we who ſometimes were afar off, are by the Blood of Chriſt brought nigh unto him, for he is our peace, v. 13, 14. and he hath reconciled both Jew and Gentile to God by his Croſs. If then the Blood of Chriſt procured this freedom of acceſs to God, 'tis certain we had no freedom of acceſs to him without it; and 'tis as certain we muſt have it by that faith which giveth us an intereſt in the propitiation purchaſed by it.

To set this matter in the clearest light, and shew the reason why it was necessary that such an act of grace in pardoning our past sins upon our faith in Christ should be vouchsafed, that so we might be reconciled to God, capacitated for his friendship, and fitted for his service, let it be observed,

1. That to come to God, is to approach him in the way of worship, as in those words, He that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him, Hebr. 11. 6.

See Psal 42. 2. 65. 2. 86.9. 95.26. Isa. 1. 12.

2*ly*, That God being an holy God, none were to come into his presence who had any pollution or defilement upon them, upon pain of death, till they were sanctified, or cleansed from it by some purification or atonement made for them to God. He dwelt in the whole Camp of Israel, and so those Lepers, who were so unclean as to pollute the Camp, were driven from it, Lev. 13. 46. Numb. 5. 2, 3. 2 Kings 15. 5. And those Sin-offerings which were polluted with the sins of the whole Congregation, were carried out of the Camp, Lev. 16. 21, 22, 27. Hebr. 13. 11. God dwelt more especially in the Temple, and therefore they who had lesser impurities, i. e. who were defiled by the dead, or by an issue, and all menstruous women, were not to come thither till they were cleansed from those defilements, Lev. 12. 4. 15. 31. Moreover, he being a God of purer eyes then to behold iniquity, they who had committed any sin of ignorance, or lay under the guilt of it, were not permitted to come into the Court of the Men of Israel, till they had brought their Offering of Atonement. See Ainsworth on Numb. 5. 3.

3*ly*, They who had no Ceremonial Defilement to be purged away, and no known sin to make atonement for, they were admitted to come near to God, as being holy, they had προσαγωγὴν τῷ Θεῷ, a freedom of access to God in his Tabernacle, and in his Temple; whence they are stiled ὁ λαὸς ἐγγίζων αὐτῷ, the people that draw near to God, Psal. 65. 4. 148. 14. Lev. 10.3. And God is said to be ὁ Θεὸς ἐγγίζων αὐτοῖς, a God near to them, Deut. 7. 4. both by relation, as having owned them as his Children, and entred into Covenant to be their God, and by his more especial presence with them, for the Shechinah, or the glorious Presence dwelt among them in the holy place, and so to them belonged ἡ λατρεία the priviledge of coming to his Court to worship him, and a promise of his blessing if they sincerely did it. Whereas the Heathens, who by reason of their Idolatry were not permitted to serve him, are said to be afar off, and so far without God in the World, as to have no freedom of access to his Service, no such converse with him, or relation to him, Eph. 2. 12, 13, 17, 19.

Now God being still as holy a God as ever, and still of purer eyes than to behold iniquity, the Scriptures of the New Testament seem as plainly to make our freedom of access to God to depend upon our being sanctified in the sacrifical sense, i. e. our being purged, and delivered from the guilt of sin by an atonement made for us by the Blood of Christ, that our sins being thus pardoned through faith in his Blood, we may have peace with God, and an access unto his Favour. This plainly seems to be the import of those words, If the Blood of Bulls and Goats, and the Ashes of an Heifer, sprinkling the unclean, sanctifieth to the purifying of the Flesh, (and by so doing procureth an admission of the person cleansed to serve God in the Sanctuary,) How much more shall the Blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit offered himself without spot to God (for us,) purge your Conscience from dead works, Hebr. 9. 12. (or works exposing you to death, the punishment of the person who came unclean into God's presence, that so you may be admitted) to serve the living God? See the Notes there. So again, the Apostle having said that the Covenant established in the Blood of Christ, was this, that he would be merciful to our iniquities, and remember our sins no more; and having thence inferr'd, that having thus obtain'd remission for us, there was no need that he should make himself again an offering for sin, he adds, that therefore we may draw near to God with full assurance of Faith, that we shall be accepted through the beloved, as having our hearts sprinkled by his Blood, and therefore cleansed from all guilt of Conscience, and our Bodies washed (by Baptism) with pure water, Hebr. 10. 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22.

Two things observed by the judicious Dr. Barrow, seem here considerable,

1. 'That the Apostle in this discourse implies, that no precedent dispensations had exhibited any manifest overture, or promise of pardon, and upon that account were in a main point defective; for the Light of Nature doth only direct to duty, condemning every man in his own judgment, and conscience, who transgresseth; but as to pardon, in case of transgression, it is blind, and silent; and the Law of Moses rigorously exacteth punctual obedience, denouncing in express terms a condemnation, and curse to the transgressors of it in any part; and so it was a Law ὁ δυνάμενος ζωοποιῆσαι, not able to give Life, Gal. 3. 21. or save us from death. Hence doth the Apostle lay down this as the foundation of this whole Dispute, that the Gospel alone was the power of God through Faith to the Salvation both of Jew and Gentile, Rom. 1, 16, 17. because in that alone was the righteousness of God by faith revealed to beget faith in them, even the faith by which the just shall live, declaring that no precedent dispensation could justifie any man, and that a man is justified by faith, or hath an absolute need of such a justification as that which the Gospel tenders to us.

'Λογιζόμεθα

'Λογιζόμεθα γάρ, We therefore collect, ſaith he, that a man is juſtified by faith without the works of the Law, whether Natural or Moſaical, which juſtification muſt therefore import their receiving that free pardon which the criminal and guilty world did ſtand in need of, and without which no man could have any comfort in his mind, or peace with God: For if the ſtate of Man was a ſtate of Rebellion, and of ſo heinous Guilt, of having forfeited God's favour, and of obnoxiouſneſs to his wrath, then that juſtification which he needed muſt be a diſpenſation of Mercy removing that Guilt, and reſtoring him to the favour of God.

And this may alſo ſtrongly be argued from the Objections which the Jew and Gentile made againſt this Doctrine of Juſtification by a free Act of Grace, that it ſeemed to render it unjuſt in God to take vengeance on thoſe ſins which tended ſo highly to the glory of God's grace; ſee the Note on Rom. 3. 5. and to encourage us to do evil that good may come. See the Note on v. 8. And more eſpecially from the Objections which he anſwers, Chap. 6. 1, 15. For thus they run, τί οὖν ἐροῦμεν; what do we ſay then? (do we ſay this) Let us (who have received this grace) continue (ſtill) in ſin, that grace may abound (towards us.) And v. 15. What then ſhall we (go on in) ſin, becauſe we are not under the Law, (which condemns us to death for every tranſgreſſion,) but under (that Covenant of) Grace (which allows the pardon, and promiſes the forgiveneſs of it?) That is, do we by declaring that we are juſtified freely by his grace, through the redemption that is in Chriſt Jeſus, Chap. 3. 24. and that as ſin abounded grace did more abound, give juſt occaſion for theſe Inferences? Now if the Faith to which St. Paul, in this Diſcourſe aſcribed our Juſtification, did not only oblige us to, but even comprehend and include Evangelical and conſtant Obedience, what colour could there be for theſe Objections? And therefore

2*ly*, The Doctor (p. 83.) propoſes it as his Conjecture, That the Apoſtle in this Diſcourſe deſignedly ſets himſelf to anſwer this Objection of the Jew and Gentile againſt this Doctrine of Chriſtianity, viz. that it did upon ſo ſlender a Condition or Performance as that of Faith, tender to all Perſons indifferently, howſoever culpable their former lives had been, a plenary remiſſion of their ſins, and reception into God's favour. The Jews could not conceive or reliſh, that any Man ſo eaſily ſhould be tranſlated into a ſtate equal, or ſuperiour to that which they ſuppoſed they did enjoy. The Gentiles themſelves could hardly digeſt it, that the Chriſtians ſaid, Believe, and ἡ πίστις σε, σέσωκέ σε, thy Faith ſhall ſave thee; this is one of the Exceptions which Celſus makes againſt it. And (d) Zozimus having ſaid, that the Heathen Prieſts having told Conſtantine that their Religion afforded no purgation for his Crimes, he was perſwaded to embrace Chriſtianity, as being told the Chriſtian Doctrine would take away all ſin; and had this promiſe annexed to it, That the ungodly, who would embrace it, ſhould preſently be abſolved from all ſins, intimates that he looked on this as a juſt Exception againſt the Chriſtian Faith. This prejudice againſt the Goſpel, ſaith he, St. Paul removes, by ſhewing that 'becauſe of all Mens guilt and ſinfulneſs, 'ſuch an exhibition of mercy, ſuch an overture 'of acceptance and remiſſion of ſins was neceſ- 'ſary in order to ſalvation, ſo that without it 'no Man could be exempted from wrath and 'miſery, and that conſequently all other Reli- 'gions, as not exhibiting ſuch a remiſſion, 'muſt be eſteemed in a main point defec- 'tive.

§ 7. Object. 1. But againſt this it may be objected, That our Juſtification ſeems to be connected with our Glorification, for whom he juſtifies them he alſo glorifies, Rom. 8. 30. Now it is certain that our future ſtate of Glory, depends not only on our Faith, but Works; And by the ſame Apoſtle, in the ſame Epiſtle, is promiſed to him that worketh good, Rom. 2. 6, 7, 10. we being all to be hereafter recompenſed according to our works?

Anſw. 1. To this it may be anſwered in the words of the Reverend Dr. Hammond, (Pr. Catech. p. 89.) That whom God juſtifies, if they paſs out of this Life in a juſtified ſtate, them he will certainly glorifie. Or as in his Paraphraſe, Whom he called to ſuffer after the example of his Son, them upon patience and perſeverance under thoſe Sufferings, he juſtifies, i. e. he approves of as ſincere, and worthy, as they ſuffer for, ſo to be glorified with him, Rom. 8. 17. 2 Tim. 2. 11, 12. 1 Pet. 4. 13. and whom he thus juſtifies, them he will alſo glorifie. And according to this import of the words, Juſtification doth not ſignifie, as in the great diſpute of the Apoſtle, the remiſſion of our paſt ſins committed before Faith in Chriſt, but rather our Juſtification at the great Day of our Accounts, as his ſincere and faithful Servants. As it ſeems to import moſt clearly in thoſe words of the ſame Apoſtle, I know nothing of my ſelf (whereby to condemn my ſelf of unfaithfulneſs on the diſcharge of my office) yet am I not hereby juſtified, but he that judgeth me is the Lord, 1 Cor. 4. 4. And in thoſe words of the Epiſtle to the Romans, Not the hearers of the Law only ſhall be δίκαιοι juſt before God, but the doers of the Law δικαιωθήσονται ſhall be juſtified, Rom. 2. 13. And ſo St. James, Abraham was juſtified by works, and he was called the Friend of God.

Anſw. 2. But 2*ly*, there is another ancient Interpretation of theſe words, which cuts off the whole force of this Argument, viz. Thoſe he glorified, by giving them that Spirit of Glory, and of God, who is the earneſt of their future Inheritance. He glorified them, ſay (f) St. Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, Oecumenius, and Theophylact, by the Spirit of Adoption, calling them Sons, and giving them the Grace of the Holy Spirit. To ſtrengthen this Interpretation, let it be conſidered that our Saviour is ſaid, whilſt he was on Earth, to have wrought his Miracles by the Spirit of God; and by theſe Miracles he is ſaid ſometimes to be δοξάζεσθαι glorified, Luke 4. 15. ſometimes to ſhew forth τὴν δόξαν αὐτοῦ his glory, John 2. 11. and ſometimes it is ſaid that God ἐδόξασε glorified him, John 8. 54. 11. 4. 13. 31, 32. 16. 14. And when Chriſt gave to his Apoſtles and Believers the Holy Spirit to enable them to work the like Miracles, he expreſſes himſelf thus to his Father, The glory which thou gaveſt me I have given them, that the world may know that thou haſt ſent me, John 17. 22, 23. Moreover, by reaſon of this Spirit given with the Goſpel, the miniſtration of Juſtification is ſaid to be ἐν δόξῃ with or in glory, 2 Cor. 3. 8, 9, 10, 11. as being the miniſtration of the Spirit; and Believers, by participation of this Spirit of the Lord, are ſaid not only to behold the glory of the Lord, but alſo to be changed into the ſame Image with him, from glory to glory, v. 18. and ſo to be conformed to the Image of his Son. And thus, ſaith Origen on this place, (g) they may be ſaid to be glorified in this Life. Note alſo that when the Apoſtle ſpeaks of our final Glorification in this Chapter, he ſtill ſpeaks of it as a thing future, ſaying, We ſhall be glorified with him; v. 17, 18, 21. whereas here he ſpeaks of it as a thing paſt already, ſaying, οὓς δὲ ἐδικαίωσε τούτους, καὶ ἐδόξασε, whom he hath juſtified, them he hath alſo glorified; which confirms this Interpretation. And laſtly, thus it connects well with the foregoing words, The Spirit which helpeth our infirmities, intercedeth according to the mind of God for the Saints. Οἴδαμεν δὲ, we know therefore that all things ſhall work together for good to them who love God, who are called according to his purpoſe (of making them the Sons of God by adoption, and giving them the Spirit of his Son in their hearts, Gal. 4. 6. Eph. 1. 5, 13.) For whom he (thus) foreknew, them he predeſtinated (or appointed) to be thus conformed to the image of his Son, and whom he (thus) predeſtinated, them he alſo called (to the Chriſtian Faith,) and whom he called (upon their cordial embracing of that faith) he juſtified, (we being made the Sons of God through Faith in Chriſt Jeſus, Gal. 3. 26.) and whom he (hath thus) juſtified, them he hath alſo glorified.

§ 8. Object. 2*ly*, It may be ſaid, that not only our Juſtification, but Salvation is by the Apoſtle aſcribed to Faith: As when he ſays, by grace ye are ſaved through faith, Eph. 2. 8, 9. and if thou believeſt with the heart, thou ſhalt be ſaved, Rom 10. 9. Tit. 3. 5. whereas doubtleſs Salvation dependeth on our Works, which therefore muſt be included in this Faith.

Anſw. To this Objection I anſwer, That Salvation may very well in Scripture be aſcribed to Faith, upon theſe two accounts:

1. Becauſe Faith puts us in the way of Salvation; that way of owning the Saviour of the World, and ſubjecting our ſelves to his Government, which gives us a preſent right to Salvation, ſhould God take us hence ſoon after Baptiſm into this Faith, or a ſincere belief in Chriſt, as in the caſe of thoſe many Martyrs who believed, and ſuffered the ſame day; and if we live by, and ſuitably to this Faith, ſtill owning the Lord Jeſus, and ſtill ſubjecting our ſelves to his Laws and Government, will keep us in the ſtate of Salvation; for he that thus believeth in the Son hath eternal Life, John 3. 36. See v. 16. i. e. he hath a preſent right to it, and may rejoyce in the hope of the glory of God, and by continuing ſo to do, he ſhall receive the end of his faith in the ſalvation of his ſoul. It puts us in a preſent ſtate of freedom from condemnation, by procuring the pardon of all our paſt ſins; for he that thus believeth, ſhall not come into condemnation, but is paſſed from death unto life, John 5. 24. 3. 18. It doth at preſent ſave us from the wrath of God, he being only angry with us on the account of ſin unpardoned; for being juſtified, ſaith the Apoſtle, by faith in his blood, we ſhall be ſaved from wrath by him, Rom. 5. 9. Now this is all which very frequently is ſignified by the words Saved and Salvation: As when it is ſaid of Zacchæus, This day is ſalvation come unto this houſe; and the Lord daily added to the Church τοὺς σωζομένους the ſaved, Acts 2 47. And again, The word of the Croſs is τοῖς σωζομένοις ἡμῖν to us the ſaved, the power of God, 2 Cor. 1. 18. See this farther proved in the Notes on Eph. 2. 8. Tit. 3. 5.

2*ly*, Salvation may be well aſcribed to Faith, not indeed in oppoſition to, or excluſion of works, but rather as the cauſe, and the producer of all Works of Piety and Righteouſneſs, and both the Wiſdom and the Excellency of this method for the procuring the great ends of Chriſtian Piety, of purity of Life, and of ſincere Obedience to the whole Will of God, will be extreamly evident from theſe Conſideratians:

1. That this Faith, conſigned by Baptiſm, doth lay the higheſt Obligations on us to a Life of Holineſs and Obedience, under the pain of forfeiting all the Bleſſings of the New Covenant, or all the Priviledges of Chriſtianity. For (1.) Faith in him as the true Meſſiah, the Prophet ſent from God to declare his Will, and make known his Precepts, and to lay down the terms on which we may expect Salvation from him, muſt ſurely oblige us to perform the Will, and to ſubmit unto the terms on which alone Salvation is thus tendred to us, not only that we may not miſs of that Salvation, but that we may not be condemned as Deſpiſers of ſo great Salvation.

Again, Faith in him as our Saviour, one who hath by his death purchaſed deliverance to us from death, and from the wrath to come, muſt ſure oblige us, as well in point of Duty, as of Gratitude, to live to him who died for us, 2 Cor. 5. 15. and being bought with ſuch a price to glorifie him with our Souls and Bodies which are his, 1 Cor. 6. 20. eſpecially when we conſider that this was one great end of theſe his Sufferings; he having died for all, that they who live ſhould not henceforth live unto themſelves, but unto him that died for them, that he might redeem us from this preſent evil world, Gal. 1. 4. and purifie us to himſelf a people zealous of good works, Eph. 5. 25, 26. and that we being dead unto ſin, might live unto righteouſneſs, 1 Pet. 2. 24. And ſurely they cannot expect the Bleſſings of his Salutary Paſſion, who defeat the deſign, and fruſtrate the purpoſe of it.

Faith in him as our Lord and King, as it doth preſuppoſe his right to require Service from, and preſcribe Laws to us, ſo muſt it engage us to the Honour and Service of this Lord; (for why, ſaith he, call ye me Lord, Lord, and do not the things that I ſay? Luke 6. 46.) to fear and to obey this King of Saints, as knowing he will ſay to all his diſobedient Subjects, Bring theſe mine enemies, which would not I ſhould reign over them, and ſlay them before me, Luke 19. 27.

Faith, laſtly, in him as our Judge and our Rewarder, muſt cauſe us herein to exerciſe our ſelves always to have Conſciences void of offence towards God and Man, Acts 24. 16. as we deſire to be found blameleſs at that day, and to be ſtedfaſt and abounding in the work of the Lord, which will ſo plentifully be rewarded, 1 Cor. 15. 58.

In a word, to what other end can we think an holy God was ſo concerned that we ſhould firmly be perſwaded of, and yield a firm aſſent unto theſe things? Can it be only this, that he ſhould fill our heads with Notions, but leave us ſtill at liberty to diſobey the Meſſage ſent us from Heaven by his only Son? why then ſaid he, This is my beloved Son, hear him? Matth. 17. 5. Can he ſuffer us to ſlight the terms on which alone Salvation is thus tendred to us? Why then were they at all propounded? can he permit us to be diſobedient to this Lord, or Rebels to this King of Saints? why then was this Authority conferred upon him? Hath he made him the Judge, and the Rewarder of all Men at the great Day? and will he not reward them all according to their works?

But then if we conſider farther, this Faith, as it hath Baptiſm annexed to it, according to thoſe words of Chriſt, He that believeth and is baptized ſhall be ſaved; our obligation to Obedience by it will be ſtill more evident. For is not our Baptiſm in the Name of the Father, Son, and Holy Ghoſt an entire dedication of our ſelves to the Service of the bleſſed Trinity, a ſolemn entrance into Covenant that we will own no other God, will ſerve no other Lord, will not be lead by the unclean, but by the conduct of the good and holy Spirit? Did not Chriſt command his Diſciples to teach them whom they baptized, to obſerve all things which he commanded? Matth. 28. 20. and muſt they not be obliged to obey what they were to be taught in his Name? What is it to baptize, but to make Diſciples to the holy Jeſus; and hath he not ſaid, Then only are you my Diſciples indeed when you continue in my word? John 8. 31. What is it to be baptized, but to make the ſtipulation of a good Conſcience towards God? 1 Pet. 3. 21. and are we not obliged to be true unto this ſolemn Promiſe made to God? or can we neglect to do ſo without mocking him, and taking his ſacred Name in vain? Are we not baptized into the Name of Chriſt? and are not they who name that Name engaged to depart from all iniquity? 2 Tim. 2. 19. Hath not St. Paul informed us, that as many as are baptized into Chriſt, are baptized into his death, Rom. 6. 3. and ſo are by that Baptiſm obliged to die to ſin, v. 6, 11. not to obey it in the luſts thereof, not to yield their Members inſtruments of ſin unto unrighteouſneſs, but to walk in newneſs of life, v. 12, 13. to live to God, and to preſent their Members inſtruments of righteouſneſs to God, v. 4, 10, 13. and to have their fruit unto holineſs, that the end may be eternal life, v. 22. And that upon this conformity to Chriſt's death and reſurrection depends our hope that we ſhall live with him, v. 8. So that 'tis evident to a demonſtration, that both our Faith and Baptiſm do lay upon us the ſtricteſt Obligations to depart from all iniquity, and yield ſincere Obedience to the Laws of God and Chriſt, as we expect the Bleſſings purchaſed by him for, or promiſed to Believers. As then St. Peter ſaith on this account, that Baptiſm now ſaveth us, 1 Pet. 3. 21. for Salvation

Salvation be on the ſame account aſcribed to our Faith in Chriſt.

2ly, Faith is the Spring and the Foundation of all the Obedience we afterward perform, and therefore may be well ſaid to ſave as many as obtain Salvation, becauſe it worketh in them that Obedience by which they are ſaved, and moves them to perform thoſe Conditions on which their actual Salvation doth depend. Thus of Faith in God, the Apoſtle teacheth that it muſt be neceſſarily laid as the Foundation of all the Service we perform unto him; for he that cometh to God muſt believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently ſeek (to pleaſe) him, Hebr. 11.6. And thus he ſhews it was with all the Patriarchs and holy People of God before the Revelation of the Goſpel; they by that Faith which was the expectation of things hoped for, the evidence of things not ſeen, obtained teſtimony that they were righteous, *Hebr.*11.4. and that they pleaſed God, v. 5, 8, 18, 19. obeyed his call in the moſt difficult inſtances; choſe rather to ſuffer affliction with the people of God, then to enjoy the pleaſures of ſin for a ſeaſon; wrought righteouſneſs, and ſuffered death, not accepting a deliverance, v. 25,26,33,35. And ſo it is with Faith in Chriſt, 'tis the foundation of all our Obedience, which therefore is in Scripture ſtiled the obedience of Faith, *Rom.*1.5. 16.26. and of all our good Works, they being all the work of Faith, 2 Theſſ. 1.11. It is by virtue of this

1 Joh. 5.5. 1 Pet. 5.9. Eph. 6.16.

Faith that we are enabled to overcome the world, to reſiſt the Devil, and to quench all the fiery darts of Satan. 'Tis faith that works by love to God, and to our Brother, which love we teſtifie to God by keeping his Commandments, and to our Neighbour by fulfilling the Laws of Juſtice and Charity. And this is very evident even from the nature of Faith; for can any Man obey the Precepts this Prophet hath delivered in his Fathers name, unleſs he believes he was that Prophet which was ſent by him to reveal his will? and that King by whoſe Laws we muſt be governed? Can he ſubmit to the terms of Salvation propounded by him, till he believes he is the Author of Salvation to all that obey him? Can he herein exerciſe himſelf to have always a Conſcience void of offence towards God and man, but by that Faith which doth aſſure him, that he will judge all men by theſe Laws, awarding glory and immortality to every man that worketh righteouſneſs, Rom. 2. 8. and puniſhing them with everlaſting deſtruction from his preſence that obey not his Goſpel? 2 Theſſ. 1. 8. And is not then this Faith the true Foundation of all Chriſtian Piety? Thus doth the juſt man live by his faith, and doing ſo believeth to the ſalvation of his ſoul. As therefore we are ſaid to be ſaved by hope, *Rom.*8.24. becauſe it is the motive to ſtedfaſtneſs in our obedience, ſo may we be ſaid to be ſaved by faith upon the ſame account. And 3ly, We may be well ſaid to be ſaved by Faith, becauſe where faith is hearty and conſtant, it will produce ſincere Obedience; and Holineſs will follow in the Life. And when it doth not follow, this is to be aſcribed to the want of Faith. This will be evident if we conſider the material Objects of our Faith, the Bleſſings promiſed to the obedient, and the Evils threatned to the Diſobedient; for it is certain, that the Bleſſings promiſed in the Goſpel, do far exceed all other Bleſſings that we can enjoy; and that the Evils threatned there are far more laſting and intolerable than any other Evils we can ſuffer; and it is no leſs certain that theſe Bleſſings are by our Lord confined to the obedient; for not every one that ſaith unto me Lord, Lord, ſhall enter, ſaith he, into the Kingdom of Heaven, but he that doth the will of my Father which is in Heaven, *Matth.*7.21. And 'tis as ſure that theſe tremendous Evils are entailed upon the wicked, Chriſt having ſolemnly declared he will ſay to them at the great day, Depart from me, I know ye not, ye workers of iniquity, v. 23. And if we do believe our Saviour was a Prophet ſent from God, we muſt believe thoſe Revelations he hath made concerning both our future Happineſs and Miſery, and the Conditions upon which alone the one can be obtained, the other is to be avoided. Now can a Man at the ſame time believe theſe are the greateſt Bleſſings which he can enjoy, and yet prefer a leſſer Good before them? if not, whenever he doth this, he ceaſes in effect to have this Faith. Can a Man fully be perſwaded, that what he is about to do will render him obnoxious to the worſt of Evils, and yet be moved to do it to avoid a leſſer evil? if not, when ever he doth chuſe to do what renders him obnoxious to the worſt of evils, he ceaſeth to believe they are ſo. When therefore we neglect to do that which is by our Lord declared abſolutely neceſſary to obtain, and to ſecure our Eternal Intereſts, and venture upon that to which he threatneth everlaſting Miſery, 'tis certain that we have no lively, full perſwaſion of theſe Truths then preſent to our Minds, and therefore do not actually believe them then. So that although we may have ſtill ſuch an habitual aſſent to all that this great Prophet hath delivered, as that we do not doubt the truth of what he taught, yet doth not Chriſt dwell in our hearts by faith, nor have we any living ſenſe, or permanent perſwaſion of theſe Truths upon our Souls, but Faith is at the preſent dead, and ſo no more deſerves the name of Faith, then a dead Man can properly be called a Man. Thus for example, when Chriſt ſaith to his Diſciples, fearing to periſh in the ſtorm, how is it that ye have no faith, Mark 4. 40. He lays this to their charge, not that they disbelieved his power to ſave them, for this they teſtifie, by ſaying Maſter, ſave us; but that they did not actually exert this Truſt by an entire Commiſſion of themſelves to the protection of his Providence.

As therefore when we do what is contrary to our love to God, or to our hope, and our affiance in him, there always is a want of love, and hope, and truſt in God; ſo when we do what is oppoſite to the great Objects of our Faith, there muſt be in us a like want of Faith, and ſo when this is cuſtomarily done, there muſt be a defect as to the habit, or the grace of faith.

2ly, This will be ſtill more evident, if we conſider all the glorious things which are aſcribed in Scripture to this Faith, and do compare them with other paſſages of the ſame Scripture: For inſtance, Whoſoever believeth that Jeſus is the Chriſt is born of God, 1 John 5. 1. ſaith the Apoſtle John. But then he adds in the ſame Chapter, Whoſoever is born of God overcometh the world, v. 5. by virtue of this faith. And again, We know that whoſoever is born of God ſinneth not; but he that is begotten of God keepeth himſelf, and the wicked one toucheth him not, v. 18. ch. 3. 9. Whence it muſt follow, that he believeth not in the Apoſtle's ſenſe, that Jeſus is the Chriſt, who overcometh not by virtue of that Faith, the Temptations of the World, the Fleſh, and the Devil. Whoſoever confeſſeth, ſaith the ſame Apoſtle, that Jeſus is the Son of God, God dwelleth in him, and he in God, 1 John 4. 15. But then he alſo ſaith, He that abideth in him, ought alſo to walk as he walked, 1 John 2. 6. that we do hereby know that we are in him, by keeping of his word, v. 5. that whoſoever abideth in him ſinneth not; and he that ſinneth hath not ſeen him, neither known him; that if we ſay we have fellowſhip with him, and walk in darkneſs, we lie. So that if this Faith does not preſerve us from ſin, and engage us to walk in the light, and as he walked, 'tis not that Faith in the Son of God the Apoſtle ſpeaks of. We are not juſtified by the Works of the Law, but by the Faith of Jeſus, ſaith St. Paul to the Galatians, Gal. 5. 6. 6. 15. But then it is, ſaith he, that Faith which works by love, and renders us new Creatures. The ſame he ſaith in the Epiſtle to the Romans, declaring that his Goſpel was the power of God through Faith unto ſalvation, Rom. 1. 16. v. 5. But there 'tis the obedience of Faith in the ſame Chapter, Obedience in word and deed, Chap. 15. 18. O- beying from the heart the Form of Doctrine delivered to them, Chap. 6. 16. which makes this Faith become the power of God to ſalvation. Whence it is evident that he eſteemed that alone true Faith which was productive of Obedience, and ſo doth virtually, although not formally, include Obedience, as the effect is virtually contained in the cauſe. So that the difference betwixt Men of Judgment, as to ſaving Faith, is more in words than ſenſe, they all deſigning the ſame thing, that we cannot be ſaved by that Faith which doth not produce in us a ſincere Obedience to the Laws of Chriſt.

Paraphraſe and Comment
ON THE
Epiſtle to the GALATHIANS.

CHAP. I.

Verſe 1. PAul (who am) an Apoſtle not of man, neither by man, (for I received not my Call, or my Commiſſion to that Office from Man, nor was I choſen to it by Man, as Matthias was) but by Jeſus Chriſt (appearing to me in perſon for that end, that he might ſend me to the Gentiles, Acts 22. 21. 26. 16, 17. and God the Father (who choſe me that I ſhould know his will, and ſee that juſt one, and be his witneſs to all men, of what I had ſeen and heard, Acts 22. 14, 15. and revealed his Son to me, v. 13. even that God) who raiſed him from the dead.

Οὐκ ἀπ' ἀνθρώπων, οὐδὲ δι' ἀνθρώπου, not of man, neither by man.] It is no objection againſt the truth of theſe words, that the Holy Ghoſt ſaying by the Prophets at Antioch, Separate me Barnabas and Saul to the work of the Miniſtry to which I have called them, they faſted and prayed and laid their hands on them, and ſent them away; Acts 13. 2, 3. for that this was not a Miſſion to the Apoſtolical Office appears, becauſe St. Paul, at leaſt nine years before, was immediately called to it by God, and ſent to exerciſe it by Jeſus Chriſt; and becauſe Barnabas is here equally ſeparated to this Office, and ſent with him, who yet was never an Apoſtle properly ſo called. This ſeparation and miſſion therefore of them, was only by way of Prayer and Benediction of them in their Miniſtry, or by way of ſpecial Commiſſion to preach in the Synagogues of the Jews, v. 5. And this Miſſion they preſently compleated, and then returned to Antioch, declaring to them what they had done in purſuance of it, Acts 14. 26, 27.

Ver. 2. And all the Brethren which are with me, (and own the Doctrine which I preach, ſend greeting) unto the Churches of Galatia.

Καὶ οἱ σὺν ἐμοὶ πάντες ἀδελφοὶ, and all the Brethren that are with me.] It is the Conjecture of the Reverend Dr. Hammond, that the word Brethren here denotes thoſe that accompanied St. Paul in his travels, and aſſiſted him in preaching the Goſpel, in which ſenſe Soſthenes is called a Brother, 1 Cor. 1. 1. as alſo Apollo, 1 Cor. 16. 12. Timothy, 2 Cor. 1. 1. Titus, Chap. 2. 12. Tychicus, Eph. 6. 23. Epaphroditus, Philip. 2. 25. Oneſimus, Coloſſ. 4. 9. Sylvanus, 1 Pet. 5. 12. St. Paul, 2 Pet. 3, 15. And in this ſenſe the word Brethren ſeems to be diſtinguiſhed from that of Saints, Philip. 4. 21. and mention is made of the Brother whoſe praiſe is in the Goſpel, 2 Cor. 8. 18. of Titus, Paul's fellow-worker, and of the Brethren who are the Apoſtles of the Church, v. 25. and of the Brethren, who for his Names ſake, went forth to preach the Goſpel, taking nothing of the Gentiles, 3 John 3—7. Or elſe it may be ſaid that the Apoſtle writes according to the form of Epiſtles uſed in the beginning of Chriſtianity, when Biſhops ſent to other Churches, not in their own names only, but in the name of the whole Church where they reſided. So Clemens begins his Epiſtle to the Church of Corinth thus, (a) The Church of God in Rome to the Church of God at Corinth; and ſo this

(a) Ἡ Ἐκκλησία Θεοῦ ἡ παροικοῦσα Ῥώμην, τῇ Ἐκκλησίᾳ Θεοῦ παροικούσῃ Κόρινθον.

Epiſtle,

Epiſtle, being writ from Rome, ſhews the conſent of that Church with him in his Doctrine.

Ver. 3. (Wiſhing that) Grace (may be) to you, and peace from God the Father, and from our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

Ver. 4. Who gave himſelf (an expiatory Sacrifice) for our ſins, that he might deliver us from (the wrath and condemnation of) this preſent evil world, according to the will of God and our Father, (Gr. of our God and Father.)

Κατὰ τὸ θέλημα τοῦ Θεοῦ, according to the will of God.] Theſe words may refer to our deliverance from the evil manners of this World, this being the will of God even our ſanctification, 1 Theſſ. 4. 3, and the great end of our Lord's ſalutary Paſſion, who gave himſelf for us, that he might redeem us from all iniquity, and purifie to himſelf a peculiar people zealous of good works, and bore our ſins in his own body on the Tree, that we being dead to ſin, might live to righteouſneſs, 1 Pet. 2.24. 2 Cor. 5 15. Eph. 5. 25, 26. Whence it is evident that Chriſt's inherent Righteouſneſs is not imputed to us; for ſure he died not to this end, that we might do our ſelves what he already had done for us, and ſo what he had made it needleſs for us to do. Or elſe theſe words may be connected thus, Chriſt gave himſelf for us according to the will of God, viz. that he ſhould die for our ſins; and then the Apoſtle here aſſerts, in oppoſition to the Judaizing Chriſtians, that our Juſtification by Faith in Chriſt's death is according to the will of God, and that he died in purſuance of his decree to eſtabliſh that New Covenant in his Blood by Faith, by which we are tranſlated from that wrath, and ſtate of alienation from God in which the World lyes, and have obtained peace with God, and are become his Church and People.

Ver. 5. To whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen.

Ver. 6. I marvel that ye are ſo ſoon removed from him that called you to the grace of Chriſt, unto another Goſpel.

Ἀπὸ τοῦ καλέσαντος ὑμᾶς, from him that called you.] i. e. from God: For the Apoſtle ſcarce ever aſcribes this work to himſelf, but conſtantly to God the Father. See Rom. 9. 24. 1 Cor. 7. 15. Gal. 1. 15. 1 Theſſ. 2. 12. 4. 7. 5. 24. 2 Theſſ. 2. 14. 2 Tim. 1. 9.

Ἐν χάριτι Χριστοῦ, to the grace of Chriſt.] Or rather by, or through the grace of Chriſt offered you in the Goſpel. For though ἐν be often put for εἰς, yet ἐν χάριτι, where it is elſewhere uſed, doth either ſignifie in the grace, or through grace, as Rom. 5. 15. 2 Cor. 1. 12. 2 Theſſ. 2.16. 2 Tim. 2. 1. nor do I find where it is ever uſed in the Epiſtles for εἰς χάριν.

Ver. 7. Which (whatſoever ſome may ſuggeſt, who preach another thing under the ſpecious title of the Goſpel,) is not (indeed) another (Goſpel, nor would be ſo eſteemed by any of you) but (that) there be ſome who trouble you (with falſe ſtories) and would pervert the Goſpel of Chriſt, (by mixing with it the neceſſary obſervance of the Law of Moſes.)

Ver. 8. But (whatſoever they ſuggeſt to you of another Goſpel taught by St. Peter, James, and John) though we Apoſtles, or (even) an Angel from heaven (ſhould) preach any other Goſpel to you than that which we (Paul and Barnabas) have preached to you, let him be accurſed.

Ver. 9. (And that ye may not think this proceeds raſhly from me, but may the more regard it,) As we ſaid before, ſo ſay I now again, if any man preach any other Goſpel to you than that ye have received (from us) let him be accurſed.

Ἀνάθεμα ἔστω] Hence it follows, (1.) That the Doctrine of Juſtification by Faith, as it ſtands oppoſed to the contrary Doctrine of the neceſſity of the obſervance of the Moſaical Law to Juſtification, is a fundamental Doctrine, to which he that oppoſeth himſelf, maintaining the neceſſity of obſerving the Law of Moſes to that end, deſerveth an Anathema, as introducing another Goſpel. Whence Commentators here obſerve, that the Apoſtle calls not the Galatians Saints, becauſe they had begun to decline from the Goſpel, by ſeeking thus to be juſtified by the Law; but ſpeaks of them as thoſe who had Chriſt yet to be formed in them, and who were to be born again, Chap. 4. 19.

2*ly*, Hence it appears that a man may err fundamentally, not only by rejecting a fundamental Article of Faith, but alſo by maintaining, and teaching in the Name of Chriſt, things unneceſſary to be neceſſary, ſo as to ſay Salvation cannot be obtained without them. And herein conſiſts the great guilt of the Church of Rome, and particularly of the Trent Council, that they have added many neceſſary Articles to the true Chriſtian Creed, and have defined them to be ſo neceſſary to be believed by all Chriſtians, that no Salvation can be obtained without the belief of them; and ſo they ſeem plainly to have fallen under the Anathema of St. Paul, more dreadful than all the vain Anathemas they have thundred out againſt the Proteſtants.

Mr. Walker and Grotius note, that the Apoſtle ſpeaks here only of Doctrines contrary to his Goſpel. But this Expoſition is (1.) contrary to the very words of the Apoſtle, who ſaith not againſt, but παρ' ὅ, beſides what I have delivered. And it is contrary to the Expoſition of the Fathers, (b) St Chryſoſtom, Oecu-

(b) Καὶ οὐκ εἶπεν ἐὰν ἑτερία εὐαγγελίζηται, ἀλλὰ κἂν μικρόν τι ἑτερον εὐαγγελίζηται παρ' ὃ εὐηγγελισάμεθα. menius, cumenius, Theophylact among the Greeks, and (c) St. Auſtin among the Latins, whoſe Note is this, He ſaith not if they preach things contrary, but if they preach things never ſo little different from the Goſpel which I have preached to you.

'Tis very true, as Eſthius ſuggeſts, that the Apoſtle doth not pretend to propound an Anathema againſt any Man who ſhall ſuggeſt any thing farther in confirmation of Chriſt's Goſpel, as St. John after did, or give any further Rules purſuant to the Precepts of it, by the ſuggeſtion of that Spirit by which the Goſpel was endited, for then he would have pronounced an Anathema upon all that writ after him, and even upon himſelf who writ many Epiſtles after this; but yet he pronounceth an Anathema upon all thoſe who preach a Goſpel which differed from the Goſpel which they preached, to whom alone it was by Chriſt committed to propound the terms of Salvation, and this is that of which we do accuſe the Church of Rome, that they propound terms of Salvation no where delivered by Chriſt or his Apoſtles.

2*ly*. This Expoſition of Mr. Walker will not free them from the Anathema of the Apoſtle; for by this very thing, that they add any thing to the Goſpel of Chriſt as neceſſary to be believed, or done unto ſalvation, they do no leſs oppoſe the Doctrine of the Apoſtle, than they did who joyned the obſervation of the Law of Moſes, as neceſſary to the Faith of Chriſt; for therefore did they oppoſe his Doctrine, becauſe they teaching this was needful to ſalvation, did thereby teach that what the Apoſtle had taught as ſufficient to Salvation, was not ſo without their additions, which is the very thing the Papiſts do by their New Articles and Traditionary Doctrines; for if they be indeed neceſſary to Salvation, what is delivered in the Goſpel, in which confeſſedly ſome of their Doctrines are not, cannot be ſufficient to ſalvation. Moreover, it is extreamly evident, that Prayer in an unknown tongue is plainly contrary to the Apoſtles Doctrine, 1 Cor. 14. and that Communion in one kind is oppoſite both to Chriſt's Inſtitution, and to St. Paul's Diſcourſe upon the Sacrament, 1 Cor. 11.

Ver. 10. (But this you cannot reaſonably ſuſpect concerning me.] For do I now (in the execution of my Apoſtleſhip) perſwade (obey, or ſeek to appeaſe) men, or God. Or do I ſeek to pleaſe men? (no ſure,) for if I yet pleaſed men (if I made that my buſineſs) I ſhould not be the ſervant of Chriſt (in that work of the Goſpel which creates me ſo much hazard from them.)

Πείθω, To perſwade.] The Criticks here obſerve, that the word πείθειν ſignifies to pacifie, and appeaſe any one incenſed againſt us. So when David's Souldiers hunted and haraſſed by Saul, were earneſt, when they found Saul in the Cave, that they might have liberty to ſlay him, ἔπεισε Δαβὶδ τοὺς ἄνδρας αὐτοῦ ἐν λόγοις, David pacified his men with words, 1 Sam. 24. 7. So to induce the Soldiers to own that Chriſt was ſtolen away by his Diſciples from the Sepulchre whilſt they ſlept, the Chief Prieſts and Elders promiſe, that if this come to the Governours ear, πείσομεν αὐτὸν, we will appeaſe him, Matth. 28. 14. And Menelaus promiſed Ptolemy to give him much money, πρὸς τὸ πεῖσαι τὸν Βασιλέα, if he would pacifie the King towards him, 2 Macc. 4. 5. Or 2*ly*, the word may ſignifie to obey, for ſo the word is uſed by St. Paul in this Epiſtle, who hath bewitched you, τῇ ἀληθείᾳ μὴ πείθεσθαι, that you ſhould not obey the truth? Chap. 3. 1. ye did run well, who hindred you, τῇ ἀληθείᾳ μὴ πείθεσθαι, that you ſhould not obey the truth? Chap. 5. 7. and elſewhere. So τοῖς ἀπειθοῦσι μὲν τῇ ἀληθείᾳ, πειθομένοις δὲ τῇ ἀδικίᾳ, to thoſe that obey not the truth, but obey unrighteouſneſs, Rom. 2. 8. πείθεσθε τοῖς ἡγουμένοις, obey your Governours, Hebr. 13. 17. See alſo Acts 5. 36, 37. James 3. 3. And ſo is the word often uſed by Heathen Authours when they treat of Moral Subjects: So Plato ſaith, (d) Philoſophy compels the irrational Affections to obey Reaſon; and introduceth (e) Socrates ſaying, πείσομαι τῷ θεῷ μᾶλλον ἢ ὑμῖν, I will obey God rather than you. (f) Plutarch ſaith it is the ſame thing ἕπεσθαι Θεῷ, καὶ τὸ πείθεσθαι λόγῳ, to follow God, and obey Reaſon. So (†) Arrian; This is to be placed among thy higheſt pleaſures, ὅτι πείθῃ τῷ Θεῷ, that thou obeyeſt God, I am free, and the friend of God, ἵν' ἐκὼν πείθωμαι αὐτῷ, that I might willingly obey him. I know to whom I ought to be ſubject, τίνι πείθεσθαι, τῷ Θεῷ καὶ τοῖς μετ' ἐκεῖνον, and to obey, God, and thoſe that are next to him. So then the import of theſe words is this, Do I in preaching the Goſpel act in obedience to Men, who every where perſecute me, and oppoſe me for it, or in obedience to that God who called me to be an Apoſtle of the Gentiles? v. 15, 16. And this ſenſe is confirmed by the Verſe following.

Mr. Cl. here is poſitive that πείθω ſignifies only to perſwade; whereas the (g) Lexicographers ſay expreſly, tria ſignificat pareo, mo- rem gero, ſuadeo, perſuadeo. And he fancies an Ellipſis of μὴ ἀγανακτεῖν μοι, not to be diſpleaſed with me; making the ſenſe to run thus, for do I now perſwade Men, or God, not to be diſpleaſed with me. But he is ſtill out; for who can ſee either any connection of theſe with the former words, or any force in the Apoſtles reaſon, according to this ſtrained ſenſe, If any man, ſaith he, preach any other Goſpel then that which ye have received from us, let him be anathema, v. 9. for do I in preaching this Goſpel obey Men, or God, ſaith our Interpretation, making both the connection clear, and the reaſon ſtrong, ſeeing God could not command him to preach one Goſpel, and others another, let him be anathema, ſaith Mr. Cl. for do I now perſwade God not to be diſpleaſed with me; where let him that can, ſhew either reaſon, or connection. 2*ly*, How could St. Paul ſay, he did not perſwade Men not to be diſpleaſed with him, when in this Epiſtle he ſo often doth it, ſaying, Brethren, I beſeech you be as I am, Chap. 4. 12. am I therefore become your enemy becauſe I tell you the truth, v. 16. From henceforth let no man trouble me, Chap. 6. 17. See Chap. 5. 11. And 3*ly*, why ſhould he tell the Galathians, He perſwaded God not to be diſpleaſed with him, when he was ſo honeſtly diſcharging his Office, that he knew nothing of inſincerity by himſelf in the execution of it, 1 Cor. 4. 4. and ſurely had no mind to give them any reaſon to ſuſpect he had diſpleaſed him.

Χριστοῦ δοῦλος οὐκ ἂν ἤμην, I ſhould not be the Servant of Chriſt.] That is, ſay the Greek Commentators, I ſhould not have left Judaiſm to embrace Chriſtianity, i. e. I ſhould not have quitted Honour, Friends, and Kindred for Dangers, Perſecutions and Diſhonours, which I continually ſuffer for the Cauſe of Chriſt. And this Expoſition is confirmed from thoſe words, If I preach Circumciſion, why do I yet ſuffer Perſecution, ſince then is the offence of the Croſs ceaſed? Chap. 5. 11. and from his account that others preached up Circumciſion only, leſt they ſhould ſuffer Perſecution for the Croſs of Chriſt, Chap. 6. 12.

Ver. 11. But (howſoever others may leſſen my Goſpel) I certifie you Brethren, that the Goſpel which was preached of me, (i. e. by me to you, and others) was not after Man.

Ver. 12. For I neither received it of men (as the Jews do their Traditions from their Fathers) neither was I taught it, but by the (immediate) revelation of Jeſus Chriſt.

Οὐ παρὰ ἀνθρώπου, I received it not by man.] In the firſt Verſe he ſaith, He was not an Apoſtle by Man, but by Jeſus Chriſt. Here, that he was not taught his Goſpel by Man, but by Jeſus Chriſt; whence Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, St. Jerom, Oecumenius, Theophylact conclude that our Lord was not only Man, but God; and ſo Novatian (cap. 13.) argued before the Nicene Council, if St. Paul was not conſtituted an Apoſtle of, or by Man, and ye was conſtituted ſuch by Jeſus Chriſt, Merus Chriſtus eſt Deus, Chriſt muſt be God; for though the Scriptures ſometimes calleth Magiſtrates and Judges God, as Crellius here notes, it never ſaith that what was done by them, was not done by man. Crellius adds further, that our Lord being the only begotten Son of God, and having now obtained his Celeſtial Kingdom, was exempted from the common rank of Men; from the ſtate of mortal Men, ſaith Grotius. And ſo the Apoſtle might ſpeak of him not as a Man, as Sampſon ſaith of himſelf, If they bind me with wreaths, I ſhall be as a Man, Judges 16. 7, 11, 17. But there it is not ſaid, I ſhall be as a man, but כְּאַחַד הָאָדָם as one man, i. e. as weak as one Man only, or having no more ſtrength than another Man. Crellius therefore hath not ſaid any thing appoſite in anſwer to this Argument. Nor doth the Apoſtle here oppoſe Man to Man, or Mortal Man to thoſe bleſſed Spirits who are Immortal, but only to Jeſus Chriſt, and God the Father.

Δι' ἀποκαλύψεως, by Revelation.] At what time this Revelation was made to him is uncertain, but it is probable it muſt be before he went to preach the Goſpel to the Gentiles; for the words following, I conſulted not with fleſh and blood, but preached at Damaſcus, ſeem plainly to imply this Revelation was made to him before he preached there, or went to Jeruſalem.

Ver. 13. (And of this you may be further ſatisfied from my former converſation, and my deportment ſince I began to preach the Faith of Chriſt.) For (doubtleſs) ye have heard of my Converſation in times paſt in the Jews Religion (which was ſuch) that beyond meaſure I perſecuted the Church of God, and waſted it, Acts 8. 3. 9. 1, 13, 14. 22. 4. 26. 10, 11.

Ver. 14. And profited in the Jews Religion above many my equals in mine own Nation, (or above many Jews of the ſame Age with me) being more exceeding zealous (then they were) of the Traditions of my Fathers.

Τῶν πατρικῶν μου παραδόσεων, of the Traditions of my Fathers.] He being a Phariſee, and ſpeaking of the Traditions not of the Law, but of the Fathers, ſeems to mean the Oral Traditions, that Sect ſo highly magnified even above the Law, and the Prophets. See note on Mark 7. 3. Acts 28. 17. Now there is reaſon to believe, that a Man ſo exceeding zealous for the Religion of the Jews, and ſo full of hatred to that of Chriſtians, would not have renounced the Religion he had ſo great a Reverance for, to embrace that he was ſo incenſed againſt, without ſome more than Humane motive.

Ver. 15. (Thus I ſay was my Converſation in times paſt.) But when it pleaſed God, who ſeparated me from my Mothers womb, (as he had formerly done Jeremiah to be a Prophet of the the Nations, Chap. 1. 5.) and (after) called me by his grace (to preach the Goſpel, Acts 22. 14.)

Ver. 16. To reveal his Son in (to) me, that I might preach him among the Heathen, immediately I conſulted not with fleſh and blood (i.e. with any Man, ſo as to receive any Miſſion from them to that work, or any Inſtructions how to perform it.)

Ἐν ἐμοὶ, to me] So ὁ λαλῶν ἐν ἐμοὶ, He that ſpeaketh to me ſhall be a Barbarian, 1 Cor. 14. 11. See Mark 1. 15. Acts 4. 12. 1 Cor. 9. 15. 2 Cor. 4. 3. 8. 1.

Σαρκὶ καὶ αἵματι, with fleſh and blood.] This Phraſe in Scripture, and among Jewiſh Writers, is only a periphraſis for Man, as Matth. 16. 17. 1 Cor. 15. 20. Eph. 6. 12. Hebr. 2. 14. and ſo all other Interpretations of it muſt be alien from the ſcope of the Apoſtle.

Ver. 17. Neither went I up to Jeruſalem to them that were Apoſtles before me (as if I had wanted either authority or inſtruction, I ſhould have done,) but I went from Damaſcus (the place of my converſion) to Arabia, and returned again to Damaſcus (preaching the Goſpel there.)

Εἰς Ἀραβίαν, into Arabia.] Of this Journey into Arabia, St. Luke, not being with him, ſaith nothing.

Ver. 18. Then after three years (of my converſion) I went up to Jeruſalem to ſee Peter, and abode with him fifteen days.

Ver. 19. But other of the Apoſtles ſaw I none, ſave James the Lords Brother, (and therefore could not learn my Goſpel from them.)

Ἕτερον δὲ τῶν Ἀποστόλων, other of the Apoſtles.] Hence it appears

1. That only Peter and James were then at Jeruſalem, for Barnabas brought him to the Apoſtles that were there.

2*ly*, That James the Lords Brother was an Apoſtle in the ſtrict and proper ſenſe of the word, ſince Peter who is mentioned with him, was doubtleſs ſo, and Barnabas who brought him to Peter and James, is ſaid to bring him to the Apoſtles, Acts 9. 27. and Peter, James and John, who are here called the Men of Reputation, and Pillars of the Church, Chap. 2. 6, 9. ſeem plainly to be the ſame Perſons, who in his ſecond Epiſtle to the Corinthians, are called λίαν Ἀποστόλου, the chief of the Apoſtles. And (g) Origen ſaith expreſly of James the Juſt, This is that James whom Paul in his Epiſtle to the Galathians ſaith he ſaw, citing thoſe very words for the proof of it. See this confirmed in the Preface to the Epiſtle of St. James. Note

3*ly*, That the Apoſtle's Argument is to this effect, Having therefore preached the Goſpel ſo long before I ſaw them, and ſtaying ſo little while with them, and going then only to ſee, not to learn of them, it cannot be conceived I ſhould receive my Inſtructions how to preach the Goſpel from them.

Ver. 20. Now (of the truth of) the things which I write to you (you may reſt aſſured, for) behold, before God I lie not.

Ἰδοὺ ἐνώπιον τοῦ Θεοῦ, behold before God.] Hence it is evident that the Apoſtle, when it was neceſſary to confirm the truth of the Goſpel, or of his Commiſſion to, or his Sincerity in preaching it, i. e. when the benefit of Souls required him thus to atteſt to Men, what otherwiſe they could not be aſſured of, refuſed not to ſwear, and ſo eſteemed not our Saviour's prohibition of an Oath to be abſolute. See Rom. 1. 2. 9. 1. 2 Cor. 1. 23. 11. 31. 1 Theſſ. 2. 5. See the Note on 2 Cor. 1. 23.

Ver. 21. Afterwards I came into the Regions of Syria, (i.e. to Cæſarea, Acts 22. 17, 18.) and (to Troas, Acts 9. 30. 22. 3. in) Cilicia.

Ver. 22. And was (all the while) unknown by face to the Churches of Judea which were in Chriſt.

Ver. 23. But they had heard only that he which perſecuted us (Chriſtians) in times paſt, now preacheth the Faith which once he deſtroyed.

Ver. 24. And they glorified God (for the converſion he had wrought) in me.

This Teſtimony of the Jewiſh Chriſtians was a Confirmation of his Doctrine; for if they could have found any juſt Exceptions againſt it, they would not have glorified God for his preaching it.

CHAP. II.

Verſe 1. THen fourteen years after (my firſt journey thither,) I went up again to Jeruſalem with Barnabas, and took Titus with me (though uncircumciſed, to ſhew the liberty I took of converſing with perſons not circumciſed.)

Διὰ δεκατεσσάρων ἐτῶν, fourteen years after.] I cannot aſſent to thoſe Criticks, who for δεκατεσσάρων fourteen, would read τεσσάρων four years after; for not only all the Manuſcript Copies and Verſions read fourteen, but Irenæus l. 3. c. 13. doth confirm this reading in theſe words, Then after fourteen years I went up to Jeruſalem, &c. if any Man carefully examine by the Acts of the Apoſtles, the time mentioned of his aſcent to Jeruſalem for the queſtion aforeſaid, he will find the years agreeing with thoſe mentioned by St. Paul. Now theſe years muſt be reckoned from the time of his Converſion, mentioned here Chap. 1. 18. which hapned in the Year of our Lord 35. and then between that and the Council of Jeruſalem aſſembled Anno Chriſti 49. will be fourteen intervening years; for whereas ſome reckon theſe fourteen years from the third year of his Converſion, to the Council met at Jeruſalem, and ſo make that Council meet A.D. 52. becauſe it is ſaid here ἔπειτα afterwards, and πάλιν ἀνέβην, I went up again, it may be anſwered, that the word ἔπειτα afterwards, doth not connect theſe words with the three years mentioned Chap. 1. 18. as is evident, becauſe there follows another ἔπειτα afterwards, v. 21. nor doth πάλιν ἀνέβην, I went up again, relate to his firſt Journey to Jeruſalem mentioned Chap. 1. 18. for he had been twice at Jeruſalem; three years after his Converſion to ſee Peter, and nine years after that to carry Alms to the Brethren at Jeruſalem, Acts 11. 30. though, ſeeing then none of the Apoſtles, he makes no mention of that Journey here, as being nothing to his purpoſe. See Dr. Pearſon Annal. Paulin. p. 8, 9. So that whereas he had ſaid Chap. 1. 18. that three years after my Converſion I went up to Jeruſalem to ſee Peter; he ſaith here, and fourteen years after it, I went up again. Now that the Apoſtle here ſpeaks of the Journey to Jeruſalem mentioned Acts 15. will appear

1. From the agreement of what he here relates with what then hapned, as that he communicated to them the Goſpel which he preached among the Gentiles, v. 2. as he then did Acts 15. 4 That Circumciſion was not then judged neceſſary to the Gentiles, v. 3. as we find Acts 15. 24. That when they ſaw the Goſpel of the Uncircumciſion was committed to him, they gave to him and Barnabas the right hand of fellowſhip, v. 9. as then they did, ſending their very Decree with one conſent to the Gentiles, by the hands of Paul and Barnabas, Acts 15. 22, 25. who were received by the whole Church, v. 4. and ſtiled beloved, v. 25.

2*ly*, It ſeems not likely that the Apoſtle, writing this Epiſtle about nine years after the Decree of the Council, ſhould make no mention of a thing ſo advantagious to the Cauſe he is pleading here, and ſo proper to confute the pretences of the Adverſaries he diſputes againſt. And

3*ly*, James, Peter, and John being all the Apoſtles that were preſent at the Council then held at Jeruſalem, the mention of their conſent to his Doctrine and Practiſe, was all that was neceſſary to his purpoſe to be mentioned concerning that Council.

It is no Objection againſt this Opinion, that we find no mention Acts 15. of Titus's being with him, for he is not mentioned in the whole Book of the Acts, during which interval this Journey muſt have hapned.

Ver. 2. And I went up by revelation, and communicated to them (at Jeruſalem) the Goſpel which I preach (every where) among the Gentiles, but (this I did) privately to them which were of reputation, (or the chief Men there, not that I diſtruſted my Doctrine, or needed their Inſtructions, but) leſt by any means (or falſe ſuggeſtions of the Judaizers that my Doctrine was contrary to what they now were call'd before me preached, and ſuch as they would not own) I ſhould run (hereafter,) or had run (hitherto) in vain.

Ἀνέβην κατὰ ἀποκάλυψιν, I went up by Revelation.] Made to the Apoſtle, ſaith Dr. Hammond, to comply with this determination of the Church of Antioch, made to the Prophets of the Church of Antioch to ſend them, ſaith Dr. Lightfoot, which I do not gainſay. But the Apoſtle doth not ſay he went up δι' ἀποκαλύψεως by revelation, but κατὰ ἀποκάλυψιν, according to revelation. Now he had ſaid before he received not his Doctrine or Goſpel by Men, or of Men, but by the Revelation of Chriſt Jeſus; and here he may be ſuppoſed to add, that in his Journey he acted ſuitably to the Revelation which conſtituted him the Apoſtle of the Gentiles, telling the Church of Jeruſalem what things he had done among the Gentiles in purſuance of it, not enquiring what they did, but declaring what God did by him; not permitting Titus a Greek to be circumciſed; not giving place for an hour to the falſe Brethren, &c.

Κατ' ἰδίαν δὲ τοῖς δοκοῦσι, privately to them of reputation.] Not that his Doctrine might be confirmed by the concurrence of St. Peter, or others with him in it, as Eſthius from St. Jerom, and St. Auſtin here ſuggeſts; for ſure that Doctrine which he received by immediate Revelation from Jeſus Chriſt, and God the Father, Father, needed no farther confirmation from the Authority of Man, but only to obviate the Cavils of thoſe who laboured to hinder the effect of his Goſpel, by ſuggeſting that it was contrary to, or diſowned by thoſe Apoſtles who were called before him.

Ver. 3. But (even then was nothing done by me which ſhewed any change in my Doctrine or Practiſe, or any oppoſition made by them to it, for (neither Titus who was (then) with me, being a Greek, was (upon that account) compelled to be circumciſed, (as they would have contended he ſhould, had they thought Circumciſion neceſſary to the Gentiles.)

Ver. 4. And that (which concerns the bringing, and retaining Titus with me uncircumciſed was done) becauſe of falſe Brethren (who came down to Antioch, Acts 15. 1.) unawares brought in (Gr. introduced into the Aſſembly, Acts 15. 5. or inſinuating themſelves into the Church of Antioch, v. 1.) who came in privily to ſpy out (Gr. to enſnare us in) our liberty (from the obſervance of the Jewiſh Law) which we have in (and through) Chriſt Jeſus, that they might bring us into bondage (to it, they pleading for the neceſſity of circumciſing the Gentiles, and commanding them to keep the Law, Acts 15. 1.)

Διὰ τοὺς παρεισάκτους, becauſe of falſe Brethren.] Theſe falſe Brethren, ſaith (a) Epiphanius, were Cerinthus, and thoſe of his party.

Ver. 5. To whom we gave place by ſubjection, no not for an hour (by ſubmiſſion to their demands, but continued firm to our reſolution, not to ſubject the Gentiles to this yoke of bondage,) that the truth of the Goſpel (of Chriſt, which frees the Gentiles from the obligation of the Law,) might continue with (or among) you.

Ver. 6. But of thoſe who ſeemed to be ſomewhat, whatſoever they were (or but whatſoever they were who ſeemed to be ſomewhat) it maketh no matter to me, (their ſeeming, or their real greatneſs affects not my Doctrine,) God accepteth no mans perſon; for they who ſeemed to be ſomewhat in conference added nothing to me, (or to my Doctrine, nor corrected any thing in it, and ſo neither am I concerned for their greatneſs, nor doth God reſpect them the more upon that account.)

Ver. 7. (They added, I ſay, nothing to my Doctrine,) But contrariwiſe (they approved of it, for) when they ſaw the Goſpel of the Uncircumciſion was committed to me, (and I was authoriſed to preach to the Gentiles) as the Goſpel of the Circumciſion was to Peter, (he being appointed to preach to the Jews.)

Ver. 8. (As evidently it was.) For he who wrought effectually in (with) Peter towards the Apoſtleſhip of the Circumciſion, the ſame was mighty in me (Gr. wrought alſo with me) towards the Gentiles, (Rom. 15. 19.)

Ver. 9. And when James, Cephas, and John, who ſeemed to be pillars (of the Church,) perceived the grace (of God) that was given to me (for the Apoſtolick Office,) they gave to me and Barnabas the right hand of fellowſhip, (concluding) that we ſhould (ſtill) go (on to preach) to the Heathen, and they (ſhould ſtill continue preaching) to the Circumciſion.

Note. The beginning of this Verſe from the Greek runs thus, And James, Cephas, and John, who ſeemed to be Pillars of the Church, knowing the grace, &c.

Ver. 10. Only they would that we ſhould remember the poor (Chriſtians in Judea,) the ſame which (Gr. which ſame thing) I alſo was forward to do.

Note, That from theſe four Verſes the Supremacy of Peter over the reſt of the Apoſtles, and the whole Church, may be by many Arguments refuted. For

1. James is here mentioned firſt among the Apoſtles of the Circumciſion, according to the common Doctrine of the Ancients, who ſtile him (b) the firſt Biſhop, Archbiſhop, Prince, and Biſhop of Biſhops, ὁ τῆς νίας Ἱερουσαλὴμ Ἀρχιεπίσκοπος, ὁ τῶν Ἑβραίων ἡγεμόνα, τῶν Ἀποστόλων τὸ ἔξαρχον, τὸ ἐν κεφαλαῖς κορυφαῖον, The Chief ſtain of the New Jeruſalem, the Leader of the Prieſts, the Prince of the Apoſtles, and the top of the Heads. And this agrees with the Eccleſiaſtical Tradition mentioned by (c) Euſebius, That the Brethren and Kinſmen of our Lord, whilſt they lived, were preferred before other Apoſtles and Biſhops, and that therefore Peter and John contended not with James the Lord's Brother, but choſe him Biſhop of Jeruſalem, and after his death judged Symeon his Coſin German worthy of that See, ὡς ἀπὸ θείας τοῦ Κυρίου, as being of the Kindred of our Lord.

2*ly*, He puts no difference betwixt theſe Pillars, or chief of the Apoſtles, which no more agrees with the ſuppoſed Supremacy of Peter, then it would with the Pope's Supremacy to be reckoned among, or after ſome of the Cardinals, which as it is never done by them who own the Pope's Supremacy, ſo neither would this have been done by St. Paul, had he owned the Supremacy of Peter.

3*ly*, He ſays the Goſpel of the Uncircumciſion was committed to him, as was that of the Circumciſion to Peter; by which words (d) he ſhews himſelf equal to Peter, ſay the Scho-

Ver. 12. For before that certain Brethren (of the Jews) came from James,he did (freely) eat with the Gentiles, but when they were come he withdrew, and ſeparated himſelf (from them) fearing (to exaſperate, or ſcandalize) them which were of the Circumciſion.

Ver.13. And the other Jews diſſembled likewiſe with him, inſomuch that (even) Barnabas alſo was carried away with their diſſimulation.

Ver. 14. But when I ſaw that (in this matter) they walked not uprightly, according to the truth of the Goſpel, I ſaid to Peter before them all, If thou being a Jew, (one of that Nation to which alone the Law of Moſes was given,) liveſt after the manner of the Gentiles, (converſing freely with them, and eating of their meats, as,ſince the viſion which thou ſaweſt, thou haſt done,) and not as do the Jews, (abſtaining from their meats, and perſons as unclean,) why (now) compelleſt thou the Gentiles (by thy example) to live as do the Jews?

And in this ſenſe our Saviour ſays to his Diſciples, compel them to come in, Luke 14. 23.

Ver. 15. We who are Jews (by birth, or) nature, and not ſinners of the Gentiles, (as idolatrous Heathens.)

Ἁμαρτωλοὶ, ſinners of the Gentiles.] This word in the Scripture phraſe ſignifies a grand and habitual ſinner; and becauſe the Gentiles were by the Jewiſh Nation ſtill eſteemed ſuch, and generally were ſo, therefore the word is uſed to denote the Gentiles that knew not God. So what is ἐθνικοὶ, the Heathens, in many Copies Matth. 5.46,47. is ἁμαρτωλοὶ, ſinners, Luke 6. 32, 33, 34. And to be delivered εἰς χεῖρας τῶν ἁμαρτωλῶν, into the hands of ſinners, Matth. 26. 45. Mark 14. 41. is to be delivered τοῖς ἔθνεσι, to the Gentiles, Matth. 20. 19. Mark 10. 33. Luke 18. 32.

Ver. 16. Knowing that a man is not juſtified by the works of the Law, but (only) by the faith of Chriſt, even we have believed in Jeſus Chriſt, that we might be juſtified by the faith of Chriſt, and (thereby have teſtified our own conviction that we could) not (be juſtified) by the works of the Law, (as indeed we cannot be) for by the works of the Law ſhall no fleſh be juſtified.

Ver. 17. But if while we (thus) ſeek to be juſtified by Chriſt, we our ſelves be found ſinners, (as we muſt be, if we be ſtill obliged to obſerve that Law we have renounced as unable to juſtifie us,) is therefore Chriſt (who taught us thus to renounce the Law, and to ſeek juſtification by faith in him) the Miniſter of ſin? God forbid (that we ſhould charge that on him.)

Ver. 18. And yet we by aſſerting the neceſſity that the Gentiles ſhould obſerve the Law, and ſo much more the Jews, do in effect ſay that Chriſt hath taught us to be ſinners,) for if I (thus) build again the things that I deſtroyed, (urging the neceſſity of obſerving that Law to juſtification, which I declared unable to juſtifie, and therefore renounced for faith in Chriſt,) I make my ſelf a tranſgreſſor (by not obſerving it to that end.)

Note. This Expoſition of theſe two Verſes, which I have taken from Hilary, and all the Greek Scholiaſts, ſeems much better than that of late Commentators, who make the ſeventeenth Verſe to be an Objection againſt St. Paul's Doctrine of Juſtification by Faith, and the eighteenth an anſwer to it; for which I ſee no ground in the Apoſtle's words.

Ver. 19. (But whatſoever others may think fit to do, far be it from me to imitate them) for I through the Law (teaching me that it condemns all Men to death, and bearing witness to the juſtification which is of God by faith, Rom. 3.21.) am (become) dead to (the obſervance of) the Law, that I might (for the future) live to God, (Rom. 7. 4.)

Ver. 20. I am crucified with Chriſt, (and ſo dead to the Law, Rom. 6. 4.) nevertheleſs I live, yet not I (as formerly a Jew, and an obſerver of the Law,) but Chriſt liveth in me (and I am acted by his Spirit ; Rom. 7. 6.) and the life that I now live in the fleſh, I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me, and gave himſelf for me.

Ver.21. I do not fruſtrate the Grace of God (as I ſhould do, did I ſeek for righteouſneſs by the Law,) for if righteouſneſs come by the Law, then Chriſt is dead in vain, (there being then no neceſſity that he ſhould dye to purchaſe juſtification for us, and no ſufficient virtue in his death to procure it.)

CHAP. III.

Verſe 1. O Fooliſh Galatians, who hath bewitched you (or envied your happineſs, and ſo endeavoured) that you ſhould not obey the truth, before whoſe eyes Jeſus Chriſt hath been evidently ſet forth, crucified among you.

Ὦ ἀνόητοι, O fooliſh, &c.] The Apoſtle by calling the Galatians fooliſh, doth not contradict our Saviour's Precept, becauſe he doth not do it εἰκῆ raſhly, and without cauſe, ſaith Theophylact, nor out of anger and ill will to them, but from an ardent deſire to make them ſenſible of their folly.

Τίς ὑμᾶς ἐβάσκανε, who hath bewitched you.] Τίς ἐφθόνησε, who hath looked upon you with an evil, or envious eye, as envying you the Bleſſings of the Goſpel ; ſo the Greek Scholiaſt. The word alſo ſignifies oculis præſtigia imponere, to put deluſions, or as we ſay, miſts before the eyes, which import ſuits beſt with the following words. The Reverend Dr. Hammond obſerves here, that this Seduction may refer to the Ebionites, if the time would permit, as doubtleſs it will, for they were only a Branch of the Nazarens, or Cerinthians, who were contemporary with St. Paul ; and all his Epiſtles ſhew that then there were many who maintain'd, and eagerly promoted among the Gentile Converts, the chief Doctrine of thoſe Sects, viz. That they were obliged to obſerve the Legal Conſtitutions (a), as being not capable of Salvation only by Faith in Chriſt, and a Life agreeable to it. And if this once be granted, there will be no need of his Gnoſticks in this, and perhaps not in any other of St. Paul's Epiſtles.

I cannot ſufficiently wonder at Mr. le Clerk's wild Conjecture, That the Ebionites were Samaritans, eſpecially after he had given us the words of Origen, in which he twice ſaith, they were οἱ ἀπὸ Ἰουδαίων εἰς τ Ἰησοῦν πιστεύσαντες, thoſe of the Jews that believed in Jeſus, l.2. contr. Celſ. p.56. Had he not read in Irenæus that they did prophetica curioſius exponere, & judaico charactere vitæ uti, & Hieroſolymam adorare, quaſi domus ſit Dei. Lib. 1. c. 26. And could the Samaritans do this? Doth not St. Jerom ſay of them, Dum volunt Judæi eſſe & Chriſtiani, nec Judæi ſunt, nec Chriſtiani, Ep. ad Auguſt. yea even his own Epiphanius informs us (*Hær.*10. Anaceph. p. 240.) that Ἰουδαῖοι ὄντες, being Jews, they uſed the Goſpel.

Οἷς κατ' ὀφθαλμοὺς Ἰησοῦς Χριστὸς προεγράφη ἐν ὑμῖν ἐσταυρωμένος.] Theſe words may bear this conſtruction, Before whoſe eyes Jeſus Chriſt crucified, hath been evidently ſet forth to, or among you, viz. in, and from the Scriptures of the Old Teſtament ; for the words ἐν ὑμῖν are not in the Alexandrian Manuſcripts, and ſo may be here omitted, or conſtrued with the word προεγράφη, and ſo they accord both with the Context, and with the way of preaching uſed by the Apoſtles, whoſe cuſtom it was to prove out of the Old Teſtament, that Jeſus was the Chriſt, and that Chriſt ought to have ſuffered for us according to the Scriptures, Acts 17. 3. And then the Argument runs thus, If he died to procure the pardon of our ſins, and ſo our juſtification, why do you render his Death upon the Croſs vain, by ſeeking to be juſtified by the Law : He having by his Sufferings blotted out the hand-writing which was againſt us, and nailed theſe Ordinances to the Croſs, why is it that you who are dead with Chriſt from theſe Elements of the World, are ſtill ſubject to Ordinances? Eph.2.15,16. Col.2.14,20.

Ver. 2. This only would I learn of you, received you the Spirit (in his gifts and powerful operations) by (obedience to) the (works of the) Law, or by the hearing of faith? (i.e. the belief of the Goſpel ; if by the latter, this is a manifeſt token that your juſtification, and acceptance with God, was the fruit of your Faith, and not of your Obedience to the Law, ſince God, by giving you his Spirit whilſt uncircumciſed, as well as to believing Jews, bore witneſs to this very thing, that he put no difference betwixt you and them on that account, Acts 15. 8, 9.)

Ver. 3. Are ye (then) ſo fooliſh? having thus begun in the Spirit, (as to receive his miraculous gifts by faith, without the works of the Law,) are ye now (ſeeking to be) made perfect in the fleſh by circumciſion, and obſerving the carnal Ordinances of the Law?)

Ver. 4. Have ye ſuffered ſo many things (from the perſecuting Jews,) in vain? if it be yet (or even) in vain.

(a) Ὡς μὴ δεῖ μόνης τ εἰς τ Χριστὸν πίστεως, χ τῆ κατ' αὐτὸν βίᾳ σωζησομένους. Euſeb.Eccl.Hiſt. l.3.c.27.

Eiγ

Εἰγε καὶ εἰκῇ, if it be in vain.] As it muſt be upon your Hypotheſis of the neceſſity of the obſervance of the Law, for then is the ſcandal of the Croſs ceaſed, Chap. 5. 11. and all neceſſity of ſuffering Perſecution is removed; theſe Deceivers themſelves doing, and urging others to theſe things only, leſt they ſhould ſuffer perſecution for the Croſs of Chriſt, Chap. 6. 12. For the firſt Perſecutions which the Church ſuffered, were either from the Jews in Perſon, or by the incitation of the Jews, who being every where diſperſed, ſent choſen men from Jeruſalem to all places where the Chriſtians were, to ſtir up the heathen Governours againſt them, as (b) Juſtin Martyr teſtifies. Note alſo, that they were chiefly ſcandalized at the Doctrine of the Croſs, 1 Cor. 1. 23. not only as it contradicted their pleaſant Dream of a Temporal Meſſiah, under whom they ſhould live gloriouſly and triumphantly, but as being that which put an end to the Jewiſh Ceremonies, and taught Men to expect Juſtification not by obſervance of the Law, but by Faith in the Blood of Chriſt ſhed for us, upon which account they were incenſed againſt all who thus thought, or thus believed it.

Acts 1. 1. 1 Theſſ. 2. 14, 15, 16. Acts 13. 15. 14. 19. 17. 5. 13.

Note alſo hence, that all the good Actions we have done, will be done in vain, if we perſevere not in well doing to the end.

Ver. 5. (To re aſſume my Argument) He therefore that miniſtreth the Spirit to you (in his extraordinary gifts) and worketh miracles among you, (doth he it by virtue of your obedience to) the works of the Law, or by the hearing of Faith? (i. e. which taught them to believe in a crucified Saviour.)

Ἐνεργῶν δυνάμεις, he that worketh miracles among you.] This is the Obſervation of all the Ancients that comment upon this, and the ſecond Verſe, That (c) to commend the beginnings of the Chriſtian Faith, the gift of Tongues, Propheſie, and working of Miracles were vouchſafed to Believers, as to the Apoſtles at the beginnning, according to our Lord's prediction, Mark 16, 17, 18.

And let thoſe that queſtion the Truth of Chriſtianity obſerve, that this was the chief Argument which carried the Cauſe in the Council at Jeruſalem, that the miraculous Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt were equally vouchſafed to the uncircumciſed Gentile, and the Jews, Acts 15. 8, 9. and that this here is urged by St. Paul, as a thing undeniable to confirm the Galatians, and to confute thoſe who endeavoured to prevail on them to admit of Circumciſion, and the obſervance of other Legal Rites. This Confirmation therefore of the Truth of Chriſtian Faith, was ſuch as none concerned to do it then, were able to gainſay; much leſs can any now find reaſon to doubt of it.

Ver. 6. (For we muſt be juſtified) Even as Abraham (the Father of the faithful was, who) believed in God, and (that was accounted to him for righteouſneſs.

Ἐπίστευσε τῷ Θεῷ, believed God.] Hence it is evident that 'tis the Act of Faith, and not the Object of it, which doth juſtifie, for Abraham believed God, ויחשבה & imputavit eam fidem, and he imputed that faith to him for righteouſneſs, Gen. 15. 6. The bleſſed God, ſaith R. Solom, imputed this to Abraham for righteouſneſs for the faith by which he believed in him.

Ver. 7. Know ye therefore that they who are of faith, (and ſeek juſtification by it,) the ſame are the (true) children of (faithful) Abraham.

Ver. 8. And the (Holy Ghoſt in) Scripture foreſeeing that God would juſtifie the Heathen through faith, preached before (the giving of the Law, and before his Circumciſion) the Goſpel to Abraham, (by) ſaying, (Gen. 12. 3.) in thee ſhall all Nations be bleſſed.

Ἐν σοι, in thee.] That is, in thy Seed, v. 16. So Acts 3. 25. Ye are the Sons of the Prophets, and of the Covenant which God made with your Fathers, ſaying, And in thy Seed ſhall all the Families of the Earth be bleſſed; that is, in Chriſt; for ſo it follows, v. 26. To you firſt, God having raiſed up his Child Jeſus, ſent him to bleſs you. And this confutes them who, with the Jews, interpret theſe words as a form of Benediction thus, God make thee like to Abraham.

Ver. 9. So then they which are of faith, (and ſeek juſtification by it, Rom. 9. 32.) are bleſſed with faithful Abraham, (and as he was.)

Ver. 10. (And not by the works of the Law) For as many as are of the works of the Law, (and ſeek to be juſtified by them,) are under the curſe (of it, and ſo uncapable of juſtification by it,) for it is written (there,) Curſed is every one that continueth not in all things that are written in the Book of the Law to do them, (Deut. 27. 26. Now this being perfectly done by none, all that are under the Law are under the Curſe of it.)

Ver. 11. But that no man is juſtified by (obſervance of) the Law in the ſight of God, it is (farther) evident, for (the Prophet Habakkuk ſaith, Chap. 2. 4.) The juſt ſhall live by faith.

(d) Dial. cum Tryph. p. 234.

(c) Ad Rudimenta Fidei commendanda, Hilar. in locum. Καὶ ἐκεῖνον δὲ καιρὸν, οἱ μὲν ἀνδραπόδων χάριν ἀξιώμενοι, καὶ γλώσσαις διαφόροις ἐλάλουν, καὶ προεφήτευον, καὶ ἐθαυματούργουν, ἀπὸ τῶν θαυμάτων λαμβάνοντες τὸ πιστὸν μᾶλλον καὶ βεβαίωσιν. Theodoret. Chryſ. Oecum. Theophylact.

Ὁ δίκαιος, &c. the juſt ſhall live by faith.] Thus do the Jews themſelves expound theſe words of Habakkuk, Faith is the cauſe of bleſſedneſs, as it is the cauſe of eternal life, according to theſe words, the juſt ſhall live by his faith, Sepher Ikkarim. l. 1. c. 21.

Ver. 12. Now (or whereas) the law is not of faith; but (ſaith) the man that doth them, (i. e. that perfectly obſerves what is required by the law,) ſhall live in (or by) them.

Ver. 13. (This being ſo) Chriſt hath redeemed us from the curſe of the law, (by) being made according to the Sentence of the Law) a curſe for us; for (there) it is written, Curſed is every one that hangeth on a Tree, (as you know he did upon the Croſs.)

Ἐπικατάρατος πᾶς, curſed is every one.] When all were obnoxious to the Curſe of the Law, ſaith Theodoret, he undertook that Death, which by the Law was accurſed, to free us from the Curſe. To reſtrain the words, He redeemed us from the Curſe of the Law, to the Jews only, is in effect to ſay, Chriſt only ſuffered for the Jews, ſeeing he only ſuffered by hanging on the Croſs, the Tree on which he did expire. The Gentiles were not indeed ſubject to the particular Maledictions contained in the Law of Moſes, becauſe that Law was not given to them, but only to the Jews. But they were ſubject to that Death which was the general Puniſhment threatned to the Violaters of the Law, and was the Curſe denounced againſt Adam, and his Seed. And ſince it was by virtue of Chriſt's hanging on the Croſs, that the bleſſing of Abraham came upon the Gentiles, he muſt have been thus made a Curſe for them alſo, and not for the Jews only.

Now here ſeems to be a plain evidence that our Lord ſuffered in our ſtead, by way of ſurrogation, the Puniſhment the Law denounced againſt us for ſin, for we were obnoxious by the Law to a Curſe, he, that he might redeem us from it, did for our ſakes, and in our ſtead, willingly ſubmit himſelf unto the Death which by the Sentence of the Law did render any Man accurſed, for he bore our ſins in his own body on the Tree. Now the Law expreſly ſaith, Curſed is every one that hangeth on a Tree; and Crellius here is forced to own a double commutation, both of the Perſon ſuffering, and of the Evils ſuffered; for whereas we ought to have ſuffered, Chriſt, ſaith he, ſuffered for us; and whereas we ought to have ſuffered a Curſe, Chriſt ſuffered a Curſe for us. But then he adds, that we ought to have ſuffered a real Curſe, Chriſt only ſuffered a Curſe improperly ſo called for us. The Curſe threatned by the Law to us was Death eternal, the Curſe Chriſt ſuffered for us was only temporal Death. But

1. If the Curſe threatned to us was only the Curſe of the Law, and Chriſt ſuffered the Curſe of the Law, both which things the Apoſtle here affirms, what ground hath Crellius to put theſe Differences betwixt the Curſe Chriſt ſuffered, and the Curſe threatned by the Law? or does he not hereby ſeem to make the Apoſtle's Argument ſophiſtical and unconcluding?

2*ly*, The ſins to which the curſe is threatned Deut. 27. were either ſuch to which God elſewhere threatned death, or cutting off, or ſuch as he required them to abſtain from, that they might live, and not dye. Now ſeeing the Socinians ſo ſtiffly do contend that the Life promiſed to the Obſervers of the Law, was only Temporal, why ſhould they ſay that the Death threatned to the Violation of it is Eternal Death? 'Tis true, all Death muſt be eternal to them that cannot raiſe themſelves, and have no promiſe of a Reſurrection; upon which two accounts our Saviour's death was not eternal, becauſe he had power to revive himſelf, and had a promiſe that he ſhould not ſee corruption; but the death threatned by the Law, in its own nature, being only the ſeparation of the Soul and Body, this our Lord did as truly ſuffer as they could do who ſhould never live again.

The diſtinction therefore which the Caſe requires, is only that which reſults neceſſarily from the difference of the Perſons, i. e. we ſhould have ſuffered the Curſe of the Law for our own ſins, and conſequently ſhould alſo have been accurſed in the ſight of God. Chriſt actually ſuffered the Legal Curſe to obtain pardon for the ſins of others, and therefore only was accurſed in the Eye of the Law, and in the ſight of Men; but being in his own Perſon wholly innocent, he could not be accurſed in the ſight of God. And thus it is, and muſt be in all vicarial Sufferings, the Perſon ſinning, and he that undertakes to ſuffer for him, are both guilty in the Eye of the Law, and ſuffer the Puniſhment the Law requires, but one of them alone is guilty in the ſight of God. Chriſt therefore was ſo made a Curſe, as he was made ſin for us, 2 Cor. 5. 20. not by contracting the Guilt, but by ſuffering the Puniſhment of our Sins, by being numbred with tranſgreſſors, and condemned with them to the death which the Law ſtiles accurſed.

Ver. 14. (And this he ſuffered) That the bleſſing of Abraham might come on the Gentiles through (faith in) Jeſus Chriſt, that we (Gentiles believing in him) might receive the promiſe of the Spirit thro' faith, (for we are all the ſons of God through faith in Chriſt Jeſus; and becauſe we are ſons, God hath ſent forth the Spirit of his Son into our hearts, Gal. 4. 5.

Διὰ τῆς πίστεως, through faith.] It ſeems to follow from theſe, and from 2 Cor. 3. 7, 8. that the miniſtration of the Spirit belonged not to the Law, but to the Goſpel, the Law being rather the miniſtration of death. Hence the Apoſtle here oppoſes to the Curſe of the Law, the bleſſing of Abraham, which, ſaith he, is the promiſe of the Spirit through faith.

Apoſtle

Ver. 15. Brethren, I ſpeak after the manner of men, (uſing an example taken from the common practiſe of men, and ſpeaking what is owned in all civilized Nations. See Note on 1 Cor. 9. 8.) though it be but a mans covenant (that is made,) yet if it be (legally) confirmed, no man diſannulleth it, or addeth any thing thereto.

Ver. 16. Now to Abraham and his ſeed were the promiſes made. He (God) ſaith not, And to ſeeds, as of many; but (as ſpeaking of one) and to thy ſeed, which is Chriſt.

Αἱ ἐπαγγελίαι, the promiſes.] Made to Abraham, Gen. 12. 3. and repeated Gen. 22. 18. and to Iſaac Gen. 26. 4.

Καὶ τῷ σπέρματί σου, and to thy Seed, which is Chriſt.] This Interpretation is owned by the (d) Jews, who obſerve that it is not written here thy Son, but thy Seed, that is the King Meſſiah. And, as Theodoret obſerves, the words are capable of no other ſenſe; for by Chriſt only was the Promiſe fulfill'd, and in him alone the Gentiles did receive this Bleſſing. He therefore in whom alone this Promiſe was verified, muſt be the Perſon of whom it was chiefly, if not only intended. And ſo St. Peter, aſſiſted by the Holy Ghoſt, interprets theſe words, ſaying, You are the Children of the Prophets, and of the Covenant which God hath made to your Fathers, ſaying, And in thy Seed ſhall all the Families of the Earth be bleſſed. To you firſt God having raiſed up his Child Jeſus, ſent him to bleſs you. The Child therefore is the Seed: Away then with the corrupt Gloſs of Mr. Cl. that St. Paul here argues according to the Allegorical Interpretation of the Age; but if it be conſidered in it ſelf, it cannot be thought of any force by thoſe who have other Sentiments, becauſe the Hebrew Zerah is a collective name. Away with his corrupt Gloſs, that by Chriſt is meant Chriſt's Diſciples; for is this ſenſe, In thy Seed, i. e. in Chriſt's Diſciples, ſhall all the Families of the Earth be bleſſed? Is not this to aſcribe that to Chriſt's Diſciples which belongs to him alone, and to make them the Saviours of the World? And why does he ſay that nothing was promiſed to Chriſt, when the Apoſtle tells us, that in thee, and in thy Seed ſignifies Chriſt, who was to be the Bleſſing both of Jew and Gentile? though indeed the Promiſe was to Abraham. The firſt Subject of it was Chriſt, which is all the Apoſtle here intends.

Ver. 17. And this I (farther) ſay, that the Covenant which was confirmed before of God in Chriſt, (i. e. the Covenant made in Chriſt the promiſed Seed, and confirmed by God to Abraham before the Law was given) the Law which was (given) four hundred and thirty years after, cannot diſannul (ſo) that it ſhould make the promiſe (be) of none effect, (as it muſt have done, were juſtification to be obtained by the Law; for then none could be bleſſed in and by the promiſed Seed.)

Μετὰ ἔτη τετρακόσια καὶ τριάκοντα, four hundred and thirty years after.] Hence it is evident that the Apoſtle here refers primarily to the Promiſe made Gen. 12. 3. ſince from that only are the Four hundred and thirty years to be computed, for then Abraham was Seventy five years old, Gen. 12. 4. from thence to the Birth of Iſaac, which hapned when Abraham was a hundred years old, Gen 21. 5. is Five and twenty years; from his Birth to the Birth of Jacob was Sixty years; for Iſaac was Sixty years old when Rebekkah bore him, Gen. 25. 26. from Jacob's Birth to his deſcent into Egypt, were One hundred and thirty years, as he ſaith to Pharaoh, Gen. 47. 9. the abode of him and his Poſterity in Egypt was Two hundred and fifteen years; for that, with their ſojourning in Canaan, was Four hundred and thirty years, Exod. 12. 40. according to the Septuagint.

Ver. 18. For if the inheritance (of the bleſſing promiſed to Abraham) be (to be obtained by obſervance) of the Law, it is no more (the effect) of (the) promiſe, but (that cannot be ſaid, for) God gave it to Abraham by promiſe.

Ver. 19. (But you will enquire) Wherefore then ſerveth the Law? (I anſwer,) it was added (after the Promiſe made) becauſe of tranſgreſſions, until the Seed ſhould come to whom the Promiſe was made, and it was ordained (or delivered not as the Promiſe immediately by God himſelf to Abraham, but) by Angels (a being the word ſpoken by Angels, Hebr. 2. 2. not as the Promiſe without a Mediator between God giving, and Abraham receiving it, but) in the hand of a Mediator, (even Moſes, who ſtood between them and the Lord at that time, to ſhew them the word of the Lord, Deut. 5. 5. and ratifie the Covenant on the Peoples part.)

Τῶν παραβάσεων χάριν, becauſe of tranſgreſſions.] Maimonides in his (e) More Nevochim acknowledges, that the Ceremonial Law was given for the extirpation of Idolatry. 'For, 'ſaith he, when God ſent Moſes to redeem 'his People out of Egypt, it was the uſual 'cuſtom of the World, and the Worſhip in 'which all Nations were bred up to build 'Temples in honour of the Sun, Moon, and 'Stars, and to offer divers kinds of Animals 'to them, and to have Prieſts appointed for 'that end, therefore God knowing that it is 'beyond the ſtrength of Humane Nature in'ſtantly to quit that which it hath been long 'accuſtomed to, and ſo is powerfully en'clined to, would not command that all

And the like is said by (f) Cedrenus of their Festivals, Separations, Purgations, Oblations, Decimations that God enjoyned them, that ἐν πολυθέῳ πλάνῃ ἐκτὸς εἶεν, being imployed in doing these things to the true God, they might abstain from Idolatry. And thus, saith Dr. Spencer, were they kept, or guarded under the Discipline of the Law, and shut up from the Idolatrous Rites and Customs of the Heathen World, by the strictness of these Legal Observations, and the Penalties denounced against the Violaters of them. And it is well known that all the Ancient Fathers were of this opinion, That God gave the Jews only the Decalogue, till they had made the Golden Calf, and that afterwards he laid this yoke of Ceremonies upon them, to restrain them from Idolatry. Thus when God first brought them out of Egypt, and commanded them not to defile themselves with the Idols of Egypt, Ezek. 20.7. he is said to have given them his Statutes, and shewed them his Judgments, which if a Man do, he shall live in them, v. 11. But, saith he, still their hearts were after their Fathers Idols, the Egyptian Apis, &c. wherefore I gave them statutes that were not good, and judgments whereby they should not live, v. 24,25. that is, that Law of Carnal Commandments which, saith the Apostle, was abolished for the weakness and unprofitableness of it, Hebr. 7.16, 18. And those words of Maimonides give us a clear reason why these Rituals were called by St. Paul στοιχεῖα τοῦ κόσμου, the Rudiments of the World, Gal. 4.3. Col.2.20. namely, because for matter they were the same which Heathens used before to their false Gods. This is a very ancient Exposition, and is partly true, but it containeth not the whole truth. For the Apostle in the Epistle to the Romans, which is the best Expositor of this, informs us that the Law entred that sin might abound, Rom. 5.20. i.e. might appear to abound unto death, that sin might appear sin working death in us, ch. 7. 13. and that the Law worketh wrath, ch. 4.15. 3.20. by giving us the knowledge of that sin which deserveth it: And this answers to that which the Apostle here saith, that the Law was added because of transgressions, viz. to discover them and their punishment, that the Scripture hath concluded all men under sin, viz. by virtue of the Law, that as many as are under the Law, are under the Curse, v. 10. and that upon these accounts the Law is our Schoolmaster to bring us to Christ, that we may be justified through faith in him, who are condemned by the Law, *v.*24. Christ being the end of the Law for justification to every one that believeth, Rom. 10. 3.

Ver. 20. (But the Promise required no Mediator, for) A Mediator is not of one (party only,) but God (who made the promise to Abraham) is one (only.)

Ὁ δὲ μεσίτης.] Perhaps these words may better be expounded thus: But this (g) Mediator, (viz. Moses,) was only the Mediator of the Jews, and so was only the Mediator of one party, to whom belonged the Blessing of Abraham, v. 8, 14. But God who made the promise, that in one should all the Families of the Earth be blessed, is One, the God of the one Party, the Gentiles, as well as of the Jews, and so as ready to justifie the one as the other, ἐπείπερ εἷς ὁ Θεὸς, seeing it is one God who will justifie the Circumcision by Faith, and the Uncircumcision through Faith, Rom. 3. 30.

Ver. 21. Is then the Law against the Promises of God? (as it must be, if it condemn them to whom the promise doth assign a blessing: or is it against those promises which say the just shall live by his faith; and the blessing of Abraham shall come upon us by Faith? as it must be provided we are to be justified not by faith, but by the works of the Law. But) God forbid (it should be thought he had given a Law which disanulled his promises, as it must have done, had justification to life depended on the observance of it:) for if there had been such a Law as could have given life, verily righteousness (i. e. justification to life, Rom. 5. 18.) should have been by the Law, (whereas it subjecting us to death, we may be sure God never did intend it for that end.)

Ver. 22. But the Scripture hath concluded all (Men of all Nations) under sin, (and so under condemnation by the Law Moral and Ceremonial, and sentenced not to life, but death by it, and thereby shewed the necessity) that the promise (of justification by faith in Christ the promised Seed) should be given to them that believe (in him; and thus the Law is not contrary, but subservient to the promises of living by faith.)

Ver.23. But before faith came (to be revealed,) we were kept up under (the Discipline of) the Law, shut up unto the faith which should afterwards be revealed.

(f) Comp. Hist. p. 239.

(g) Λέγε τοίνυν ὅτι Μωσῆς μὲν ἐμεσίτευσε πρὸς τὸν νόμον, ἀλλ' ἕνι μόνον ἐμεσίτευσεν ἔθνει, διὰ τὸ τὰ ἐν ἐκείνοις μᾶλλον τὰ μεσίτεια πρὸς τὸν ἀπάντων ἔθνων ἕνα Θεὸν, οὐκ ὄντος ἑνὸς ἔθνους ἀλλ' ὄντος πάντων κοινὸν τὸ μεσίτειον ἐκείνοις, ἐπειδὴ καὶ πάντων ἐθνῶν εἷς ἐστι Θεός, Gennadius in locum.

Συγκλειόμενοι.] The Apoſtle having ſaid in the foregoing Verſe, συνέκλεισεν, the Scripture hath ſhut up all, both Jew and Gentile, under ſin, it ſeems moſt reaſonable to interpret the word here of Men ſhut up as Priſoners condemned by the Law to death, the puniſhment of ſin, till that Faith came to be revealed by which we obtain an happy freedom from condemnation to death.

Ver. 24. Wherefore the Law was (then) our School-maſter to bring us to Chriſt, (and cauſe us, thus condemned by the Law, to fly to him who is the end of the Law for righteouſneſs, Rom. 10. 3.) that we might be juſtified by faith (in him.)

Note. For the right explication of theſe words, from v. 21. to this Verſe,

1. That it cannot be denied that good and holy Men under the Law were juſtified, and obtained the pardon of their ſins; ſince otherwiſe they could not be accepted by God here, or ſaved hereafter.

2*ly*, It alſo ſeemeth evident from the Diſcourſe of the Apoſtle in this, and the Epiſtle to the Romans, that they could not be juſtified by the obſervance of the Law; for he lays down this as the foundation of his Diſcourſe, that by the works of the Law no man is juſtified, Rom. 3. 20. and no fleſh ſhall be juſtified, Gal. 2. 16. The proofs he offers to confirm this Poſition, do equally concern all Times and Perſons, from the giving of the Law to the revealing of the Goſpel: As v.g. (1.) Becauſe by the Law is the knowledge of ſin, condemning us to death, Rom. 3. 20. 7. 9, 10, 11, 13. Gal. 3. 22. (2*ly*.) Becauſe the Juſt, ſaith the Prophet Habakkuk, ſhall live by his faith, Rom. 1. 17. whereas the Law is not of faith; whence he infers, that no Man is juſtified in the ſight of God by the works of the Law, Gal. 3. 11. (3*ly*.) Becauſe as many as are under the Law are under the Curſe, v. 10. (4*ly*.) Becauſe it was impoſſible, through the weakneſs of the fleſh, that the Law ſhould juſtifie, Rom. 8. 3. or that it ſhould give life, Gal. 3. 21. and ſo it never was deſigned for that end. It had indeed its expiatory Sacrifices, but they procured only pardon of that guilt which rendred them obnoxious to the violent death threatned by the Law to ſuch and ſuch Offenders, but gave no remedy againſt Natural Death by the promiſe of a Reſurrection to Eternal Life, and ſo exempted no Man from the puniſhment of Adam's ſin. Or they only releaſed Offenders from the obligation to Civil and Eccleſiaſtical Puniſhments, but could not free them from the Puniſhments of the other Life; for the Apoſtle aſſures us, that the blood of Bulls and Goats could not take away ſin, Hebr. 10. 4. and that they did only ſanctifie to the purifying of the fleſh, Hebr. 7. 13. See the Note there.

Now 3*ly*, Hence it follows, that they alſo muſt be juſtified by faith from all thoſe ſins by which they could not be juſtified by the Law of Moſes, Acts 13. 39.

Object. But are not the Jews ſtiled Righteous before God, by virtue of their Obedience to the Law of Moſes? as in theſe words of David, The Lord rewarded me according to my Righteouſneſs, Pſal. 18. 20. for I have kept the ways of the Lord, and have not wickedly departed from my God, v. 21. For all his judgments were before me, and I did not put away his ſtatutes from me, v. 22. I was alſo upright before him, and kept my ſelf from mine iniquity, v. 23. Therefore hath the Lord recompenſed me according to my righteouſneſs, v. 24. Is it not ſaid of Zachariah and Elizabeth, that they were both righteous before God, walking in all the commandments and ordinances of the Lord blameleſs, Luke 1. 6. Yea, doth not our Apoſtle ſay, Not the hearers of the Law are δίκαιοι juſt before God, but the doers of the Law δικαιωθήσονται ſhall be juſtified, Rom. 2. 13.

Now to this I anſwer, That there is a double Juſtification of which the Scripture ſpeaks, (1.) That which conſiſts in the Abſolution of a Sinner from the guilt of Sin, by God's free pardon or remiſſion of it, or his not imputing it to the Sinner. And thus no Man is, or can be juſtified by the Law, either Ceremonial or Moral, ſince neither of them do contain any promiſe of the pardon of it. Now all Men being Sinners, this Juſtification muſt be neceſſary to all Men to put, and keep them in a ſtate of favour with God. And this is that Juſtification which St. Paul aſcribes to Faith, and which, ſaith he, could never be obtained by the works of the Law. But

2*ly*, There is a Juſtification to be undergone by all Men at the great Day of their Accounts, and this is only the pronouncing them ſincere in the performance of their Covenants Legal or Evangelical, or in compliance with the Laws of Nature, of Moſes, or of Grace the Providence of God had placed them under; and in this ſenſe we find mention of Men working righteouſneſs under the Law of Nature, Job 1. 1. Acts 10. 35. under the Law of Moſes, Luke 1. 6. Pſal. 18. 20, 24. and under the Law of Grace, 1 John 3. 7. Rev. 22. 11. And thus all pious Perſons, who made it their ſincere endeavour to obey the Law of Moſes, were righteous before God; though ſtill the Imperfections which cleaved to their Obedience, were pardoned through Faith. To explain this, Note

1. That the whole Nation of the Jews believed in the promiſed Meſſias, or the Meſſiah that was to come, and that in the Seed of Abraham ſhould all the Families of the Earth be bleſſed; this being one of their Fundamental Articles.

2*ly*, They believed that this Meſſiah ſhould confer upon them not only Temporal but Spiritual, yea Eternal Bleſſings; they expected Spiritual Bleſſings from him, even Remiſſion of of Sins. So Zacharias ſpeaks of the Baptiſt, That he ſhould go before the Lord to prepare his way, to give knowledge to his people of ſalvation through the remiſſion of ſins, Luke 1. 76, 77. To him, ſaith Peter, give all the Prophets witneſs, that through his Name all that believe in him ſhould receive remiſſion of ſins, Acts 10. 43. So the Jews ſay, that the (h) Meſſias was to remove הרע כולל the general ſin of Mankind, or the ſin of the firſt Man. 2ly, They expected by him Juſtification, he being ſtiled by the Prophet, The Lord our Righteouſneſs, and by the Jews משיח צדקנו Meſſiah our Juſtification. Now this, ſay the ancient Fathers, might be a juſtifying Faith in them without explicitely believing that Chriſt ſhould die for their ſins; though we have no reaſon to think that they who were ſo plainly taught this by the Prophet Iſaiah, by the Type of Iſaac, the lifting up of the Serpent, and by their Sacrifices, ſhould be wholly ignorant of it.

Ver. 25. But (now) after that faith is come, we are no longer under a School-maſter, (being no longer Children in minority, Rom 7.3.)

Ver. 26. For ye are all the (adult) Children of God (and ſo heirs of God) by faith in Chriſt Jeſus.

Ver. 27. For as many of you as have (believed in Chriſt, and upon that faith have) been baptized into Chriſt, have put on Chriſt, (and ſo are become Sons of God; for to as many as believed in him, he gave power to be the Sons of God, John 1. 12.

Τοὶ Θεῦ διὰ τ πίςεως, the Sons of God through faith.] Hence, ſaith the Antipædobaptiſt, it appears that Infants cannot be made the Sons of God by Baptiſm, becauſe we are all made the Sons of God by faith in Chriſt Jeſus; now Infants have no Faith. Anſw. They might as well argue thus, By grace you are ſaved through faith, Eph. 2. 7. but Infants have no Faith, therefore they cannot be ſaved. Or thus, He that believeth not ſhall be damned, Mark 16. 16. No Infants do believe, ergo all Infants ſhall be damned. The Apoſtle plainly ſpeaks here of Perſons converted from Heatheniſm to Chriſtianity, and who were therefore baptized being adult Perſons, as he doth in the Goſpel of St. Mark, and the Epiſtle to the Epheſians. This place can therefore, with no more reaſon, be applied to the Caſe of Infants, than the places cited from St. Mark, and that Epiſtle.

Ver. 28. There is (under the Goſpel diſpenſation) neither (diſtinction made of) Jew, nor Greek, neither (of) bond nor free, neither (of) male nor female, (as under the Jewiſh Oeconomy, the Male only bearing the ſign of the Covenant,) for ye are all one (as to the privileges of the Goſpel) in Chriſt Jeſus.

Ver. 29. And if ye be Chriſts then are ye (indeed) Abrahams ſeed, (not from Iſmael, but Iſaac,) and (therefore) heirs according to the promiſe.

Κατ' ἐπαγγελίαν κληρονόμοι, Heirs according to the promiſe.] It is to be obſerved for explication of many places in theſe Epiſtles, that there is frequent mention in the New Teſtament of the Promiſes in the Plural Number. To the Iſraelites belong the promiſes, Rom. 9. 4. Jeſus Chriſt was a Miniſter of the Circumciſion to confirm the promiſes, Rom. 15. 8. To Abraham and his Seed were the promiſes made, Gal. 3. 16. and v. 21. Is the Law then againſt the promiſes. Thoſe all died in faith, not having received the promiſes, Hebr. 11. 13, 17. and v. 39. They all having obtained a good report through faith, received not the promiſes.

Now there is mention made in the New Teſtament of three ſorts of Promiſes.

1ſt, The Promiſe of a Seed in which all the Families of the Earth ſhould be bleſſed, viz. in Chriſt, Acts 3. 25. 13. 23, 33. 26. 6. Rom. 4. 13, 14, 20. 9. 9. Gal. 3. 21, 22. See the Note there.

2ly, The Promiſe of the Holy Spirit in his extraordinary Gifts and Operations, Acts 2. 33, 39. by which Believers were then ſealed up to the day of redemption, Eph. 1. 13. and this is called the promiſe of the Father, Luke 24. 49. Acts 1. 4. And this Promiſe was not immediately made to Abraham, but was the conſequent of the Bleſſing which God had promiſed to his Seed, the Bleſſing of Abraham being firſt to come upon the Gentiles, that they might receive the promiſe of the Spirit; i. e. that being made the Sons of God through faith in Chriſt Jeſus, the Seed promiſed, God might ſend the Spirit of his Son into their hearts, crying Abba, Father, Chap. 4. 6.

3ly, The Promiſe of a future reſt, and an eternal Inheritance; there being a Promiſe made of entring into Reſt, Hebr. 4. 3, 9. (See the Note there.) peculiar to Believers, and to the People of God, after the Reſt which Joſhuah had given them in Canaan, and a Promiſe of an Eternal Inheritance, Hebr. 9. 15. 10. 36. For that the Patriarchs did by Faith expect a City having Foundations whoſe Builder and Maker was God, and an heavenly Country, we learn from Hebr. 11. 9, 14, 15. yea, they expected to obtain a better reſurrection, v. 35. viz. by virtue of their Meſſiah, this being their common ſaying, (i) The Meſſiah ſhall raiſe up thoſe that ſleep in the duſt; and one of their Fundamental Articles is this, That the Meſſiah will come ויחי אמותא and will raiſe the dead, and bring them into Paradiſe. This Faith generally obtained among them before our Saviour's Advent, as we learn not only from the Book of the Maccabees, but from St. Paul's plain words, Acts 24. 15. 26. 7, 8.

(h) Vaſin. de lege Div. l. 1. c. 8. p. 6, 66, 67, 68. (i) Maim. expl. cap. 10. tract. Sanhed. p. 136. Pocock. Not. p. 109, 110.

If you enquire where any ſuch Promiſe was made to Abraham, or others? I anſwer, That ſuch a Promiſe was made to him, and to the Patriarchs, we are aſſured from this, that they by Faith expected theſe things, all Faith being built upon a Promiſe; this Promiſe therefore might be made to Abraham, Gen. 17. 7. where God ſaith, I will eſtabliſh my Covenant betwixt thee and thy Seed after thee in their Generations for an everlaſting Covenant, to be thy God, and the God of thy Seed after thee; for that to be the God of Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, is to be the God that will raiſe them up from the dead, we learn from our Saviour's Argument, Matth. 22. 32. See the Note there. And that he therefore was called their God, becauſe he had prepared for them a City, from Hebr. 11. 15. And in reference to this future Recompenſe it is that the Apoſtle ſaith, Theſe all died in faith, not having received the promiſe, God having provided ſome better thing for us, that they without us ſhould not be made perfect, Hebr. 11. 39, 40. See the Note there. Now this ſeems to be the Promiſe mentioned here of which Chriſtians are ſaid to be the Heirs, they being heirs of God, joynt heirs with Chriſt, Rom. 8. 15. Gal. 4. 7.

APPENDIX.

IT ſeems neceſſary a little to conſider what Mr. le Clerk here offers in his Notes upon this Chapter, from v. 10. to the end.

1. Therefore, when he ſays, It was very difficult indeed to obſerve all the Rites of Moſes, yet he ſuppoſes his Law might be obſerved, and that it did not require a degree of holineſs above humane ſtrength. I anſwer with the diſtinction mentioned Note on v. 24. This is all true, as to ſuch a ſincere performance of it as God would accept of; but 'tis not true as to the moſt exact, perfect, and unſinning obſervation of it in the higheſt import of the words.

Object. But doth then God command what is impoſſible? Is it not abſurd to make Laws that cannot be kept, and to puniſh Men for what they cannot do?

Anſw. God never commands what is naturally impoſſible, and which when we offend againſt, we can juſtly plead, that had we uſed our outmoſt ſtrength and diligence, we could not have avoided the doing what was forbid, or leaving undone what was commanded; for of what is ſo impoſſible, no Man can rationally repent, nor can his Conſcience condemn him for it; but he may require what, through the weakneſs of the fleſh, is morally impoſſible to be always done, or avoided; v.g. an infinitely holy God cannot but command, that we ſhould not ſin againſt him, ſin being a tranſgreſſion of his Law. But though there be no particular ſin of which we can truly ſay it is impoſſible we ſhould have avoided it, yet, through the infirmity of Humane Nature, we have too much cauſe to ſay, that it is morally impoſſible we ſhould live without, or always free from ſin.

2*ly*, When he ſays, The Laws of Moſes are not ſo ſevere, as not to pardon the leaſt ſin, God having inſtituted Sacrifices for ſome ſins. This alſo I grant according to the diſtinction mentioned, viz. That God for the ſake of thoſe Sacrifices cleanſed them from Ceremonial Defilements, and freed them from the Civil and Eccleſiaſtical Puniſhments, which by the Law of Moſes they would have been ſubject to, had no ſuch Sacrifice been offered for them. God alſo fully pardoned the ſins of upright Jews, and freed them from the Puniſhments of the other Life, but not by virtue of the Blood of Bulls and Goats, for the reaſons there alledged, but by virtue of their Faith in the Meſſiah owned by them to be Meſſiah their Righteouſneſs.

3*ly*, When he ſays, That the Jews in St. Paul's time had got quite another Notion of it, than the Law of Moſes, as it is ſet down in the Pentateuch had, and boaſted it to be the moſt compleat and perfect Pattern of Sanctity imaginable, as appears by ſeveral places in Joſephus, and particularly in his Books againſt Appio.

I anſwer, That neither is Joſephus in this matter of much credit; neither ſaith he any more than Moſes had ſaid before him in theſe words, What Nation is there ſo great that hath ſtatutes and judgments ſo righteous as all this Law which I ſet before you this day, Deut. 4. 8. and much leſs than David, when he ſaith, The Law of the Lord is perfect, Pſal. 19. 8. Beſides, our Saviour ſeems to give us a contrary account of this matter in his Sermon on the Mount, where, though it be diſputed whether he added to the Law it ſelf, yet no Man queſtions but that he added to the groſs ſenſes the Jews had then of it, and had put upon it.

4*ly*, When he adds, That the Rabbins uſed (as appears by the Verſion of the Septuagint, and the Citations of St. Paul in this place) to interpret Deut. 27. 26. as if the meaning of Moſes was there, that God required of them the moſt perfect holineſs, which if they did not perform, they were to expect to be curſed by him; him; but in reality all that Moſes ſays is only, that the People were to curſe him that did not confirm the words of the Law to do them.

Anſw. In all this there is ſcarce one word of truth; for 1. The Rabbins were ſo far from thus expounding this, or any other Text of Moſes in ſo high a ſenſe, that they thought it ſufficient to exempt them from God's Curſe, that they were of the Seed of Abraham, and had him for their Father, Matth. 3. 8, 9. that they ſhould be accepted for the merit of Circumciſion, that 'twas enough to be hearers of the Law, though they were not doers of it, James 1. 22. and that the obſervation of ſome Precepts of the Law, would excuſe their neglect of the reſt. See Note on Rom. 2. 13. and James 2. 10, 11. and the Note there.

2*ly*, Whereas he ſaith, This appears by the Verſion of the Septuagint; if that way of arguing be of any force, then the contrary appears from the Targum of Onkelos, and Ben Uziel, who have added nothing to the words. Moreover, what hath the Septuagint here added, which is not neceſſarily contained in the ſenſe of the words as they lye in the Hebrew? For 1*ſt*, whereas they add, πᾶς ἄνθρωπος, every man, do not all Interpreters add He, and is not that the ſame in ſenſe; ought not every Man, who committed the ſins againſt which any of theſe Curſes were denounced, to think himſelf ſubject to theſe Curſes? 2*ly*, Whereas they add ἐν πᾶσι to the Hebrew, doth not the Context plainly lead them to that addition? When it ſaith v. 3. and v. 8. Thou ſhalt write כל דברי all the words of this Law, were not the Jews obliged to do all the words of the Law, i. e. all things commanded by the Law of Moſes, Deut. 19. 9. Yea, are not the Bleſſings in the next Chapter, promiſed to them only who obſerve to do all the Commandments, v. 1. and the Curſes denounced againſt them who do not obſerve to do all his Commandments and Statutes, v. 15. Doth not the Holy Ghoſt, aſſiſting the Sacred Pen-men, warrant this Addition in other places, See that thou make according to the pattern, ſaith the Hebrew and the Septuagint, Exod. 25. 40. See that thou make πάντα all things according to the pattern, ſaith St. Paul, Hebr. 8. 5. At the mouth of two or three Witneſſes ſhall a word be eſtabliſhed, ſaith the Hebrew, קדום כל דבר, ſhall every word be eſtabliſhed, ſay the Septuagint, and St. Paul. Nor

3*ly*, Hath St. Paul added any thing to the ſenſe of the words; for all the words of the Law being written by Moſes in the Book of the Law, it is plainly the ſame thing to ſay, All the words of the Law, and all the words written in the Book of the Law.

4*ly*, When he ſaith, Doubtleſs St. Paul would never have altered any thing in the words of Moſes, nor followed the Septuagint at all, but rendred the Hebrew himſelf exactly, if he had reaſoned from the bare Authority of the Prophet, and not from the Opinion of the Jews. I anſwer,

1*ſt*, That he caſts the vileſt imputation on St. Paul, by ſaying here, that he argues only upon the falſe ſuppoſition of the Jews: For St. Paul lays down this general Propoſition, As many as are under the Law are under the Curſe; this is falſe, ſaith Mr. Cl. For in reality all that Moſes ſays is only, that the People were to curſe him that did not confirm the words of the Law to do them. It is ſo, ſaith St. Paul, γέγραπται γάρ, for it is written. By your good leave, St. Paul, you are out again, there is no ſuch thing; but you are guilty of adding to the Word of God; if you underſtand your ſelf you do not, and if you underſtand the words of Moſes you cannot in this Argument depend upon what is written, but only on the falſe and rotten Notion of the Jews touching theſe words.

2*ly*, Through the ſides of St. Paul here he wounds our Bleſſed Saviour, and all the Sacred Penmen; for if it be true of St. Paul, it muſt be alſo true of them; that if they had reaſon'd from the bare Authority of the Prophets, and not from the Opinion of the Jews, (not grounded on the true ſenſe of the Prophets,) they would have rendred the Hebrew exactly, and never have altered any thing in the words of Moſes, nor followed the Septuagint at all; which ſeeing Ocular demonſtration ſhews, that both our Lord and his Apoſtles have often done, you muſt not think, ſaith Mr. Cl. that they have given us the true ſenſe of the Prophets, but only ſome corrupt Opinions which the Jews had of them. And let Mr. Cl. ſay as dogmatically as he pleaſes, that it is common with St. Paul to cite the Old Teſtament, ſo as it was uſually alledged by the Doctors of the Jews, whom they called Darſchanim, that is to ſay, With little regard to the Circumſtances of the place, or the proper ſignification of the words, and to argue from them ſo alledged, I cannot but look upon it as a falſe and deteſtable Suggeſtion.

CHAP.

CHAP. IV.

Verſe 1. NOw I ſay (for illuſtration how you, who are heirs of the promiſes, ſhould be kept in bondage under a Schoolmaſter, Chap. 3. 23,25.) that the heir, as long as he is a child, differeth nothing (as to the poſſeſſion, and free uſe of his eſtate) from a ſervant, though he be (by right of inheritance) Lord of all (his Father left.)

Ver.2. But is under Tutors and Governours until the time appointed by the Father (in his laſt Will and Teſtament.)

Ver. 3. Even ſo we (the Seed of Abraham) when we were children, (as till faith came we were,) were in bondage under the elements of the world.

Στοιχεῖα τοῦ κόσμου, the Elements of the World.] i. e. The Jewiſh Rites ſo called, becauſe, as was obſerved Chap. 3. 19. they were for matter moſtly the ſame which had before obtained in the World, only they were directed to a better object, and a better end.

Ver. 4. But when the fulneſs of time (appointed for the appearance of the Meſſiah for the benefit of Jew and Gentile, that they might be made Sons by him) was come, God ſent forth his ſon made of a woman, made under (ſubjection to) the law.

Ver. 5. To redeem us that were under the law (from the bondage of it,) that we (together with them) might receive the adoption of ſons.

Ver. 6. And becauſe ye are (now made) ſons (of God by faith, chap. 3.25.) God hath ſent forth the ſpirit of his ſon into your hearts, crying, Abba, Father, *(*i. e. witneſſing to our Spirits that we are the Sons of God, and that he is our Father, Rom. 8.15, 16. and enabling us to uſe the language, not of Servants, but of Sons.)

Ver. 7. Wherefore thou art (after this redemption wrought) no more a ſervant, but a ſon, and if a ſon, then an heir of God through Chriſt.

Ἀλλ' υἱὸς, but a Son.] That the Notion of Adoption includes a ſtate of Immortality, and that the Sons of God were to be Sons of the Reſurrection, I have ſhewed upon the parallel place Rom. 8. 16—23. And that the Jews were not ignorant of this import of the phraſe, we learn from the Author of the Book of Wiſdom, Chap. 2. 12. who introduceth the wicked Atheiſts ſpeaking thus, Let us lay in wait for the righteous, for he calleth himſelf a child of God. He maketh his boaſt that God is his Father. Let us ſee if his words be true —— for if the juſt man be the Son of God, he will help him.—Let us condemn him to a ſhameful death, for by his own ſaying he ſhall be reſpected. Thus, ſaith he, were they deceived, neither hoped they for the wages of righteouſneſs, nor diſcerned a reward for blameleſs ſouls. For God created man to be immortal, and made him an image of his own eternity.—— The ſouls of the righteous are in the hands of God, and their hope is full of immortality. Having been a little chaſtiſed, they ſhall be greatly rewarded: for God tried them, and found them worthy of himſelf. And Chapter the fifth, he introduceth the ſame wicked Perſons ſaying, We fools counted his life madneſs, and his end to be without honour; how is he numbred among the Children of God, and his lot is among the Saints. Where

1. The Righteous are repreſented as the Sons and Children of God.

2. That as ſuch, they are to be rewarded in their Souls, which are to be received into the hands of God, and to be at reſt, and in their Bodies, which are to be immortal.

3. That, at the Day of Recompence, they ſhall ſtand in great boldneſs, and ſhall, as being the Sons of God, have their Lot and Portion with the Saints, ἐν ἁγίοις ὁ κλῆρος αὐτῶν, that is, He ſhall be ὁ κληρονόμος, an Heir with the Saints.

Ver. 8. (I ſay thou art no more a Servant,) Howbeit, then when ye knew not God, ye did ſervice to them which by nature were no gods.

Ἐδουλεύσατε, ye did Service.] Hence we learn how frivolous is the diſtinction of the Papiſts, that Latria is indeed Service proper to God, but Dulia is ſuch Worſhip as may be paid to Saints and Angels; for ſeeing Saints and Angels are by Nature no Gods, the giving Dulia to them muſt be the thing condemned here in the Heathen, that being only this, that they did δουλεύειν, give Dulia to them which by Nature were no gods.

Τοῖς μὴ φύσει οὖσι θεοῖς, to them which are not gods by nature,] Hence we learn the conſequence of the Socinian Hypotheſis, That Jeſus Chriſt is not by nature God, and yet is to be honoured with the ſame Worſhip which all Chriſtians give to him who is by nature God, ſeeing it teacheth us to do what St. Paul here condemneth in the very Heathens. And ſurely it muſt be abſurd to make that an Article of Chriſtian Faith, and a part of Chriſtian Worſhip, which the Apoſtle here makes the great Crime of the Heathen World, and a certain Evidence of their Ignorance of the true God. That the Socinians cannot anſwer this Objection, appears from what they here return to it, viz. That (a) Gods by Nature is not here oppoſed to Gods by grace, or to thoſe who have received their Divinity from the one true God, for to ſerve and worſhip ſuch a God by reaſon of the Empire which he hath received from God is not prophane, and wicked, but pious and neceſſary. Now in anſwer to this, I ſay,

1. That it is very evident from the Text, that thoſe who are not Gods by Nature, are oppoſed to him who is God by Nature, viz. to him whom the Heathens knew not, and to him whom the Galatians, being Chriſtians, knew, and by whom they were known. Since then the Socinians God by Grace is not a God by Nature; ſince he is not the God intended in theſe words, ye knew not God; he muſt be ranked among thoſe which are here oppoſed to him.

2*ly*, I have elſewhere ſhew'd that the Heathens had the very ſame Sentiments with the Socinians, as to the Worſhip of their inferiour Deities; and it is wonderful to ſee how they concur in ſenſe, and almoſt in words.

Indeed there is ſcarce any Plea they uſe for the Worſhip of Jeſus Chriſt as a made God, which was not before uſed by the (b) Philoſophers for the Worſhip of their Inferiour Deities.

Ver. 9. But now after that ye have known God, or rather are known of God, (being made his Sons by adoption,) how (after this freedom purchaſed by Chriſt,) turn ye again to the weak and beggerly elements (of the Law,) whereunto you deſire again to be in bondage.

Πάλιν ὅπ τὰ ἀδενῆ ϗ πλωχὰ σοιχεῖα, again to weak and beggarly Elements.] Here Interpreters find great difficulty to ſhew how the Galatians, who were never under the Law, can be ſaid to be again, anew in bondage to them. But the obſervation made on Chap. 3. 19. that the Rites of the Jews and Heathens were for the Matter moſtly the ſame, removes that difficulty. Theſe Rites are weak and beggarly Elements in compariſon of the Riches of the Goſpel, and the power of the Holy Ghoſt; they are weak, as having no power to cleanſe the Soul; and beggarly, as not being able to confer upon us the Spiritual Riches of the Goſpel, Pardon of Sins, Adoption, the Gifts and Graces of the Spirit, Eternal Redemption.

Ver. 10. (For) ye obſerve (the Jewiſh Sabbath) days, and months (the new Moons) and times (of their ſolemn Feſtivals) and (Sabbatical) years.

Ἡμέρας ϗ μῆνας, days and months.] That this Verſe is to be interpreted of the Jewiſh Solemn Times and Feſtivals obſerved by them, as far as they could be obſerved out of Judea, the whole drift of this Epiſtle ſhews, which is to bring off the Galatians from thinking they were obliged to obſerve the Rites and Ceremonies of the Law. For that the Jews did ἑορτάζειν keep their Feaſts in Egypt and Alexandria, and where-ever they were ſettled among the Heathens, we learn from (c) Philo in his Oration againſt Flaccus. That they were very numerous in Aſia minor, of which Galatia was a part, See the Note on James 1. 1. That in thoſe places where they dwelt, they had converted a great many to the Jewiſh Worſhip, and made them as it were a part of themſelves, Joſephus teſtifies. See Note on 1 Pet. 1. 1. And if it were ſo at Galatia, this might make them ſo ready to relapſe to their old Jewiſh Rites.

Ver. 11. I am afraid of you, leſt I have beſtowed on you labour in vain, (in preaching the Goſpel to you.)

Φοβοῦμαι ὑμᾶς, I am afraid of you.] As well he might, for by this practice they muſt revolt again from Chriſt to the Jewiſh Synagogue; for it belonged only to the great (d) Sanhedrim to ſtate the certain times of their New Moons, and other Feſtivals; ſo that for the due obſervation of them, they muſt entirely depend upon the Jewiſh Sanhedrim.

Ver. 12. Brethren, I beſeech you be as I am, for I am as you are, ye have not injured me at all.

Ὅτι ϗγὼ ὡς ὑμεῖς, I am as you are.] That is, ſay the Fathers, I was once zealous for the Law, as you are; but now I live as do the Gentiles, and not as do the Jews; do you who art not Jews, but Gentiles, live in like manner as Men exempted from the Law. But this Expoſition ſeems not to cohere with theſe words, ye have not injured me at all. They may therefore be thus interpreted: Brethren,be ſtill as affectionate to me as I am to you, and count me not your enemy, becauſe I tell you the truth; for I am ſtill as affectionate to you, as ever you were to me,*v.*14. I do not look upon you as Perſons who have done any thing with an intent to injure me. And though your Falſe Teachers have done you this injury by their pernitious Doctrines, yet have they not prevailed on you to ſpeak evil of me, or act injuriouſly towards me.

Ver. 13. Ye know how that through infirmity of the fleſh I preached the Goſpel to you at the firſt.

Ver. 14. And (notwithſtanding) my temptation which was in my fleſh, ye deſpiſed (me) not,nor rejected (me,) but received me (rather) as an Angel of God, even as Chriſt Jeſus, (thinking your ſelves very happy in having ſuch an Apoſtle.)

Τὸν πειρασμόν μου τὸν ἐν τῇ σαρκὶ, my temptation which was in the fleſh.] It is the Opinion of the Greek Commentators, and of the Reverend Dr. Hammond, that the ἀσθένεια τῆς σαρκὸς, the infirmity of the fleſh, v. 13. and the temptation in the fleſh here, only ſignifie the Perſecutions the Apoſtle ſuffer'd for preaching the Goſpel. But that this cannot be the full import of the words, is evident from theſe Conſiderations, (1.) That the Perſecutions which he ſuffered for the Cauſe of Chriſt, would miniſter no reaſon to the Galatians ἐξουθενῆσαι, καὶ ἐκπτύσαι, to contemn, vilifie, deſpiſe him as nothing, and even to ſpit upon him who preached the Goſpel with ſuch great demonſtration of the Spirit, and ſuch power of Miracles under all his Perſecutions. The Apoſtle in the Epiſtles to the Corinthians, repreſents theſe Sufferings as a vindication of the truth of his Apoſtleſhip, an Argument of the life and power of that Jeſus who did ſuch mighty things by his Apoſtles under all their Sufferings, and as that which ſhould create the greater reſpect to him, and gives them a large Catalogue of them,confirming it with an Oath,2 *Cor.*11.31.which ſhews, that though he ſometimes feared the greatneſs of his Tribulations might make them faint, or ſhake them who were taught that they muſt alſo be partakers of the like Sufferings,yet did he not conceive himſelf the more contemptible or vile in his own Perſon for his Perſecutions. And therefore as he mentions this to the Theſſalonians as a proof of his ſincerity, that having before ſuffered, and been ſhamefully entreated at Philippi, he was ſtill bold to preach the Goſpel to them, 1 Theſſ. 2. 2. As he mentions his Sufferings to the Epheſians as their glory, Chap. 3. 13. ſo here he declares to his Galatians that he ſtill ſuffered Perſecution; and he concludes his Epiſtle thus, From henceforth let no man trouble me, for I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jeſus, Gal. 6. 17. Inſinuating that theſe Sufferings were ſo far from giving any Perſon a juſt reaſon to deſpiſe him, that they were rather an Inducement to a more honourable treating of him.

(2.) Though ἀσθένια and πειρασμὸς, infirmity and temptation, abſolutely put, do ſometimes ſignifie Afflictions, or Perſecutions; yet do we never elſewhere read that ἀσθένεια σαρκὸς, πειρασμὸς ἐν σαρκὶ, σκόλοψ ἐν σαρκὶ, an infirmity, temptation,or thorn in the fleſh is uſed in that ſenſe. Nor was it only the Sufferings he endured in his Body, but the very preſence of his Body, which was weak. See Note on 2 Cor. 12. 7, 9. Having therefore proved (e) that beſides his Perſecutions, he had a weakneſs and imperfection in his Body, which rendred both his Perſon and his Speech contemptible, I think it reaſonable to refer theſe words unto it.

Ver.15. Where is then the bleſſedneſs you ſpake of? (in having me for your Apoſtle,who taught you no ſuch thing as this, that you were to be juſtified by the obſervance of the Law,) for I bear you record (you had once ſuch a great affection to me) that, if it had been poſſible, you would have pluckt out your own eyes, and given them to me.

Ver. 16. (And after this) Am I now become your Enemy (or look'd upon as ſuch) becauſe I tell you the truth?

Ver. 17. They (who ſeduce you do indeed) zealouſly affect you, but not well, (and in a due manner,) yea, they would exclude us (from your affection) that you might affect them (only.)

Ver. 18. But it is good (for you) to be zealouſly affected always in a good thing, (as your affection to me, and to the truth I preached is,) and not only when I am preſent with you.

Ver. 19. My little Children, of whom I travel in birth again,(to renew in you the faith from whence ye are fallen,) till Chriſt be (fully) formed in you, (as the Child is in the Womb.)

Ver. 20. I deſire to be preſent with you, and to change my voice, for I ſtand in doubt of you.

Ἀλλάξαι τὴν φωνήν.] To temper my voice to you as your affairs require, lamenting the fall of ſome,) and ſtriving to recover them, and commending the ſtedfaſtneſs of others in the Faith.

Ver. 21. Tell me ye that deſire to be under the Law, do ye not hear (what is contained in the Pentateuch, the Book of) the Law?

Ver. 22. For it is (there) written, that Abraham had two Sons, the one (to wit, Iſmael) by (Hagar) a Bond-woman, the other,(to wit, Iſaac,) by (Sarah) a Free-woman, (a Lady of

Ver. 23. But he that was of the Bond-woman was born after the fleſh, (and ſo was not to be accounted for the Seed,) but (whereas) he of the Free-woman was by promiſe, (and ſo was only to be accounted for the promiſed Seed, Rom. 9. 8.)

Κατὰ σάρκα γεγέννηται, was born after the fleſh.] i. e. By natural Generation, and the ſtrength of the Fleſh, before Abraham's Body became dead, Rom. 4. 19. The other by virtue of the Promiſe of God made to him, when his Body and Sarah's Womb were both dead, v. 20. and only quickned by that Spirit which is the power of God.

Ver. 24. Which things are an Allegory, (expreſſing one thing, and by that hinting another to us,) for theſe (two, Hagar and Sarah,) are (intended typically to repreſent to us) the two Covenants, the one (viz. that of the Law given) from Mount Sinai (is that Covenant) which gendereth to bondage, (i. e. ſubjects its Children to bondage, and is the Covenant) which is (typified by) Hagar (the Bond-woman.)

Ver. 25. For this Hagar (whoſe name ſignifies a Rock,) is (in the Allegory) Mount Sinai in Arabia (whence the Law was given,) and (ſo ſhe) anſwereth to that Jeruſalem which now is, (they living long in that Wilderneſs, and receiving the Law from Mount Sinai in Arabia) and is in bondage with her Children (to the Law given there.)

Τὸ δὲ Ἁγὰρ Σινᾶ ὄρος ἐστὶν, for this Agar is Mount Sinai in Arabia.] i. e. She repreſents it (1.) in her Name; for הגר in the Arabian Language ſignifies a Rock, as Mount Sinai is called. (2.) By her flight, ſhe flying twice into Arabia from her Miſtreſs, Gen. 16. 7. into the Wilderneſs of Shur, called by the Chaldee Chagra there, and Gen. 25. 18. and after flying again into the ſame Wilderneſs. And (3.) by her ſtation, for there dwelt the Poſterity of Iſmael, called from her Name Hagarens, as the Oriental Writers witneſs. See Bochart. Geogr. Sacr. l. 4. c. 11. p. 255. cap. 27. p. 312. and Grotius here.

Ver. 26. (Thus it was, and is with the terreſtrial Jeruſalem,) but (the) Jeruſalem which is (from) above, (and is ſignified by Sarah, the Type of the ſecond Covenant) is free, (Gr. is the free-woman, and ſo her Children cannot be in bondage to the Law, as the Jews were, and it is this Jeruſalem,) which is the Mother of us all.

Ἡ ἄνω Ἱερουσαλὴμ, the Jeruſalem which is above.] As the ſtate of the Church under the Goſpel is ſtiled by the Evangeliſts, the Kingdom of Heaven, ſo here the Jeruſalem which is from above; this Goſpel State, or New Kingdom being erected by the Holy Ghoſt, ſent down from Heaven, and leading us to it. Note alſo that the (f) Jews tell us, that the inferiour Jeruſalem is a Type of that which is above.

Ver. 27. For (of this Jeruſalem, Iſa. 54. 1.) it is written, Rejoyce thou barren which beareſt not, break forth and cry, thou that travelleſt not, (and ſo in this art like to Sarah,) for (now) the deſolate hath many more Children than ſhe that hath an Husband, (the Gentile than the Jewiſh Church.)

Note that the Jews themſelves interpret theſe words cited from Iſa. 54. 1. of the times of the Meſſiah. Midraſh ſhir Haſhirim ad Cant. 1. 5.

Ver. 28. Now (to apply theſe things to us,) we Brethren, as Iſaac was, are the Children of the promiſe (as being born, not of the fleſh, but of the Spirit by virtue of the promiſe in thy Seed ſhall all the Families of the Earth be bleſſed.)

Ver. 29. But as then he that was born after the Fleſh (i. e. Iſmael,) perſecuted him that was born of the Spirit, (i. e. Iſaac, the Seed produced by the Spirit of God, and the Repreſentative of us who are born of the Spirit, John 3. 3, 5.) even ſo it is now, (the Jews the Seed of Abraham according to the fleſh, every where perſecuting us Chriſtians, 1 Theſſ. 2. 14, 15, 16.)

Ἐδίωκεν, perſecuted.] St. Jerom here ſaith Iſmael ſtruck Iſaac, but the Text Gen. 21. 9. ſaith only that he mocked him. This Deriſion therefore muſt be reputed as a perſecuting him with the Tongue.

Ver. 30. Nevertheleſs, what ſaith the Scripture? (i. e. What is contained in the Scripture, even theſe words approved by God, Gen 21. 12.) caſt out the Bond-woman and her Son; for the Son of the Bond-woman ſhall not be Heir with the Son of the Free-woman.

Οὐ κληρονομήσει, ſhall not be Heir.] Hence we may learn what that Perſecution was, even a deriſion of Iſaac's pretenſions to be the Heir of Abraham. So among the (g) Jews, Rabbi Salom cited by Cartwright on Gen. 21. 9. and (h) St. Jerom in his Queſtions and Traditions upon Geneſis, even as the Carnal Jews contended with the Believing Gentiles, that they muſt be the true Heirs of the Promiſe made to Abraham, who were his Seed according to the Fleſh.

Ver. 31. So then Brethren, we (being Children of the Promiſe, v. 28.) are not Children of the Bond-woman, (and ſo in ſubjection to the Law,) but of the Free-(woman, and therefore at liberty from the Obligation or Bondage of it.)

APPENDIX.

THis being written before I ſaw Mr. Clerk's Annotations, I think it neceſſary, by way of Appendix, to confute that vile Interpretation, or rather Corruption of the Apoſtle's words, he here ſo confidently ſuggeſts. And 1ſt, 'Tis a miſtake that the Galatians, to whom the Apoſtle here writes, before they received the Goſpel, were as to the greateſt part of them, Proſelytes of the Gate, or alſo of Righteouſneſs: 'Tis plain that they were Heathens, not knowing the true God, but ſerving them which by nature were no gods, Chap. 4. 8, 9. and by the Goſpel were to be delivered ἐκ τοῦ ἐνεστῶτος αἰῶνος πονηροῦ, from the preſent evil Age, Chap. 1. 4. from which they who were made Proſelytes of the Gate, and worſhipped the true God, were already in a great meaſure delivered.

2ly, The great endeavour of the Judaizers then crept in among them, was to perſwade them to be circumciſed, Gal. 5. 2. 6. 12. whereas all the Proſelytes of Righteouſneſs, all the Gentiles which had before been ſubject to the Jewiſh Rites, muſt be circumciſed when they were admitted to be Proſelytes of Righteouſneſs, they being made ſuch by Circumciſion, and a Promiſe of Obedience to the Law of Moſes.

Object. It is the Jewiſh Law which is ſtiled the Elements of the World to which they were in bondage, Chap. 4. 3.

Anſw. The Jewiſh Law is indeed ſo called, but it was for this reaſon, that it was made up of Ceremonies, which for the Matter were the ſame with thoſe which had been uſed by other Nations of the World, the Object of them only being changed. See the Note on Chap. 3. 19. and they are no where called Elements of Piety, as he ſuppoſes.

Object. 2. They are ſaid to return again to theſe weak and beggarly Elements of the World, v. 9.

Anſw. Not becauſe they before obſerved the Jewiſh Ceremonies, but becauſe the Ceremonies of the Law being for the Matter moſtly the ſame with thoſe the Gentiles uſed to their Heathen Deities, by returning to them, they are ſaid to return to thoſe Elements. See Note on v. 9.

Ver. 21. Τὸν νόμον οὐκ ἀκούετε; Do not you hear the Law?] i. e. Do not you Chriſtians, to whom the Law and Prophets are read every Lord's Day, and which you have the liberty to read at all times, hear what the Law ſpeaks. Here, ſaith Mr. Cl. it is to be noted, that St. Paul argues from ſome received Midraſch vulgarly known; for if that Allegory, whereof he here ſpeaks, had not been before heard of, he would have had no reaſon to wonder that the Galatians had never collected any ſuch thing from the ſtory which he refers to.

Anſw. 1. To this I anſwer, That no ſuch Interpretation of this paſſage was vulgarly known among the Jews, is apparent from the Silence of all the Jewiſh Paraphraſts upon the place, and of all thoſe Interpreters who have converſed moſt in the Writings of the Jewiſh Rabbins, and yet produce not the leaſt hint of any ſuch thing, nor can Mr. Cl. do it.

2ly, This ſuppoſed Midraſch is contrary to their known and avowed Principle, That their Law was to be eternal, and ſo that there was no New Covenant to ſucceed for the aboliſhing of it, as is plain from the Apoſtle's diſpute againſt them both here, and in the Epiſtle to the Romans, and in that to the Hebrews. Moreover, doth not Mr. Cl. tell us in his Annotations on the former Chapter, that the Law, and a perfect pattern of Holineſs, was the ſame in the opinion of the Jews? and muſt this perfect pattern of Holineſs here, in the opinion of the ſame Jews, be only a Covenant gendring to bondage, and repreſented by Hagar a Bond-woman?

3ly, The Apoſtle doth not wonder that the Galatians had collected no ſuch Allegory from the ſtory referred to, but only asks if they had not heard the words he doth thus allegorically expound to them. He proceeds thus:

Farther, Seeing this Interpretation could not be urged againſt thoſe who might deny that the Scripture ought to be ſo underſtood, and the Apoſtle doth not make uſe of his Authority to confirm it, it is evident that he argues here from what was generally allowed, which kind of things it is not material ſhould be true, or well grounded, as long as they contain nothing prejudicial to true Piety, and are believed by thoſe againſt whom we diſpute. So that from St. Paul's uſing ſuch an Allegory againſt the Judaizing Galatians, it does not follow that we in this Age are bound to admit it as a ſecret revealed from Heaven to the Apoſtle.

Anſw. To this I anſwer, (1ſt,) That it is too confidently ſaid, that the Apoſtle doth not make uſe of his Authority to confirm this Interpretation, for is it not Paul an Apoſtle, not of Man, but of Jeſus Chriſt, and of God the Father, Chap. 1. 1. who writes thus to the Galatians; and had not the Apoſtles from the Holy Ghoſt the word of Wiſdom, and of Knowledge, to direct them in underſtanding the Myſteries of the Old Teſtament? Does he not declare they ſpake the Wiſdom of God in a Myſtery, Mystery, 1 Cor. 2. 7. that Wisdom which God had revealed to them by his Spirit, v. 10. that they had received the Spirit which is of God, that they might know the things which are freely given us of God; which things they also spake, not in the words which mans wisdom teacheth, but which the Holy Ghost teacheth, comparing spiritual things with spiritual. See the Note on v. 12, 13. there. And is not this sufficient confirmation of all which they declared they writ as the Apostles of Jesus Christ?

2*ly*, I add, that it cannot reasonably be said he argues here from what was generally allowed, not only because I have proved, that nothing of this nature either was, or could be allowed by the Jews, but also because no one Instance can be produced where the Apostle useth any such Argument ad hominem, or from their own mistaken Principles, but where it is evident from his own words and declarations that he doth so. Had the Apostle said, as he is forced in his Paraphrase to make him speak, These things use to be allegorically explained by the Jews, and may be interpreted so as to signifie what I a little before said; or as he begins his Christian Allegorist, We take you at your word, O Jews: There might have been some plausibility in this phansie, but the Apostle having not given us the least hint of any thing of this nature, it must pass for meer Romance. And the other things he adds, can be no better than a base and ignominious reflection on the Authority and Writings of the Apostle, for do you not hear the Law, saith the Apostle? No, saith Mr. le Cl. that they do not, yea, they cannot in this case, it being not at all necessary that the words of Scripture should have any such allegorical interpretation, as that which is supposed (here) to belong to them. Do you not hear the Law For it is written, saith the Apostle? What then, saith Mr. Clerk, you grossly impose upon us in these words, connecting them to the former by a γὰρ for, and saying gravely it is written; when indeed you argue not from what is written, but from some Whimseys of the Jews, perhaps neither true nor well-grounded. These things are an Allegory, saith the Apostle. So you say, St. Paul, quoth this Critick; but if we throughly consider it, we shall find that most that hath ever been said by learned Men against this way of interpreting Scripture in the general, may be objected against this particular Allegory. These are the two Testaments, saith St. Paul. You are very dogmatical St Paul, saith Mr. Cl. but we of this Age are not bound to admit this as a Secret revealed from Heaven to you; and by your good leave, this Interpretation cannot be urged against those who deny that the Scripture ought to be so understood.

To conclude, what shall we say to the unbelieving Jew objecting thus from this Interpretation? 'Finding that your Apostle hath 'produced against us a weak Argument, false 'and ill grounded, you pretend to help him out 'by saying, 'tis a Jewish Midrash vulgarly 'known. This we must take for an officious 'lie, till you can shew that either we, or our 'Fathers, or Philo the Allegorist, who speaks 'of Hagar and Sarah in a quite different way 'of Allegory, had any such Sentiments. And 'if your Apostle hath imposed upon you here 'with such ill grounded Arguments and In'terpretations, without giving you the least 'hint that he was arguing only from our con'cessions, how know you that he hath not of'ten done the like in all his other Writings?

CHAP. V.

Verse 1. STand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us (Christians) free, and be not again entangled with the yoke of bondage (to the Law, Acts 15. 10.)

Ver. 2. Behold, I Paul say unto you (Galatians,) that if ye be circumcised (in order to your justification,) Christ shall profit you nothing, (Chap. 2. 1, 3, 4.)

Ver. 3. For I testifie again to every man that is circumcised, that he is a debtor (by virtue of that Circumcision) to do the whole Law.

Ver. 4. Christ is become of none effect to you, whosoever of you are (seeking to be) justified by the Law, (and not by faith in him only,) ye are fallen from (justification by) Grace.

Μαρτύρομαι πάλιν, I testifie again.] These words must not be thought to import that he had testified this before in this Epistle, and now did it again, there being nothing said before of this matter, but thus I Paul say to you, that if ye be circumcised Christ shall profit you nothing. And again, I testifie that you are Debtors by admitting this Circumcision to yield obedience to the whole Law of Moses. For as by Baptism we Christians do oblige our selves to observe all the Institutions of the Christian Faith, so did the Jews by Circumcision oblige themselves to yield obedience to the whole Law of Moses. This the Apostle elsewhere intimates by saying to the Jew, Circumcision verily profiteth if thou keep the Law, Rom. 2. 25. to which thou art obliged by it; and by objecting to them, who were so zealous for the Circumcision of others, that they acted insincerely in that zeal, because they themselves did not keep the Law, Gal. 6. 13. when any one became a Proſelyte of Juſtice, or turned from Heatheniſm to Judaiſm, they firſt inſtructed him in the Law of Moſes, and when he declared himſelf reſolved to obey it, then they circumciſed him, and ſo admitted him into the Congregation, and he became as one of them. For Circumciſion being the ſign by which they entred into Covenant with God, when the Moſaical Law became the Covenant betwixt God and the Seed of Abraham, that Circumciſion by which they entred into Covenant with him, muſt lay an Obligation on them to obſerve the Law of Moſes. And hence the Judaizing Chriſtians, who held that the Law of Moſes was an everlaſting Covenant, thought that the Believing Gentiles were to be dealt with as their Proſelytes, that is, that unleſs they were circumciſed, and obſerved the Law, they could not be ſaved, Acts 15. 1.

But ſtill it remains a great Enquiry, Whether the words contained in the ſecond, third, and fourth Verſes, are to be taken generally, ſo as to exclude all believing Jews from any benefit by Chriſt, or by the Covenant of Grace, who ſought for Juſtification by the Works of the Law? or whether they are to be reſtrained only to the believing Gentiles? Now in anſwer to this Queſtion, let it be noted

1. That it is not the being circumciſed which is here ſaid to exclude from Grace and Salvation, but the being circumciſed to obtain Juſtification, and Salvation by it, as is apparent from theſe words, Chriſt is become of none effect to you whoſoever of you are juſtified by the Law. Had the bare uſe of Circumciſion rendred Chriſt unprofitable to the Jew and Gentile, or put them under the Curſe of the Law, St. Paul would not have circumciſed Timothy, nor have owned the Believing Jews as Chriſtian Brethren, who were ſtill zealous for the Law.

2*ly*, Obſerve that the Law of Moſes being given to the Jews, and ſome of its Precepts being ſtiled everlaſting Covenants, and Commandments, and they having all engaged to obſerve it, might think themſelves obliged ſtill to be circumciſed, and obſerve the Law by virtue of God's Precept, till it was more ſolemnly by God declared to be abrogated, though they expected not to be juſtified by it; for ſo we find it was with the Believing Jews, they all continued zealous of the Law, Acts 21. 20. and thought all Jews obliged to obſerve it, v. 24. but then they thought to be ſaved, not by the Law, but by the Grace of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, Acts 15. 11. as the Believing Gentiles were, and they believed in Chriſt that they might be juſtified by faith in Chriſt, and not by the works of the Law, Gal. 2. 16. But now the Gentiles being not under the Obligation of the Law of Moſes, they having firſt believed in Chriſt, and received upon that Faith, the Holy Ghoſt, they could not afterwards ſubmit to the obſervance of the Law, but by ſo doing, they muſt teſtifie they thought not Faith in Chriſt ſufficient to Juſtification, or Acceptance with God without the obſervation of the Law, and therefore muſt ſubmit to it for theſe ends, and ſo muſt in effect deny that Faith in Chriſt would juſtifie them; or that the Giving of the Holy Ghoſt was a ſufficient Evidence of their Acceptance with God, which was a tempting, or diſtruſting of God after ſo full a demonſtration of his Grace and Favour to them, Acts 15 8, 9, 10.

I therefore think theſe words concern as well thoſe Jews as Gentiles, who ſought for Juſtification ſtill not by their Faith in Chriſt, but through the Works of the Law, Rom. 9. 31, 32. and held Circumciſion neceſſary to all, not by way of Precept only, but as a neceſſary means of Salvation; for by theſe things, ſaith the Apoſtle, they in effect declared that Chriſt was dead in vain, and fruſtrated the Grace of Chriſt, Gal. 2. 21. and ſo fell from it. Nor is it eaſie to perceive how they ſhould have Juſtification and Salvation from him, from whom, after the Revelation of him, they did not expect it, or have faith in him to Juſtification, by whom they thought not that they ſhould be juſtified.

Ver. 5. For we (Chriſtians) through the Spirit (which we have received) by faith expect the hope of righteouſneſs.

Ἐλπίδα δικαιοσύνης, the hope of righteouſneſs] Or Juſtification, i. e. the hope of Glory; for being juſtified by faith we have peace with God, and rejoyce in hope of the glory of God; 'tis thro' this Spirit that we wait for, and expect this glory, for he is the pledge and earneſt of it, by him we are ſealed up to the day of Redemption, and wrought up to the expectation of it, and therefore are not aſhamed of our hope, becauſe the love of God is ſhed abroad into our hearts by the Spirit that he hath given us; and thus do we, who have the firſt fruits of the Spirit, wait for the redemption of our Bodies, or the glorious liberty of the Sons of God, Rom. 8. 21, 23

Rom. 5. 1, 2. Eph. 1. 14. 2 Cor. 1. 22. Eph. 4. 30. 2 Cor. 5. 5. Rom. 5. 5.

Ver. 6. (We expect it, I ſay, by that Faith which miniſters this Spirit, and not by Circumciſion,) For in (the Oeconomy of) Chriſt Jeſus neither Circumciſion availeth any thing, nor Uncircumciſion (as to our acceptance with God, and our reward from him,) but faith which worketh by love.

Πίστις δι' ἀγάπης ἐνεργουμένη, faith working by love] There be great Diſputes about, and divers Interpretations of theſe words, which I think may be rendred, Faith working or made active by love, or excited to perform our Duty to God, and to our Neighbour for his ſake, by that love which we bear to him, or from conſiderations of his great love to us, according to thoſe words of the Apoſtle, the love of Chriſt con-conſtraineth us, 2 Cor. 5. 14. And here, the life I now live in the fleſh, I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me, and gave himſelf for me, Gal. 2. 20.

Ver. 7. Ye did run well (in the beginning of your Chriſtian race,) who did hinder you that ye ſhould not (continue to) obey the truth?

Ver. 8. This perſwaſion (of the neceſſity of your being circumciſed, and obeying the Law of Moſes) cometh not of him (i. e. that God) that calleth (Gr. called) you (to the faith of Chriſt.)

Ver. 9. (Nor ought this Circumciſion to ſeem a little thing to you, nor are theſe Judaizers to be diſregarded, becauſe they are few, for they are like to leaven; now ye know) A little leaven leaveneth (and ſo corrupteth) the whole lump. (See the Note on 1 Cor. 5. 6.)

Ver. 10. But I have confidence in you through the Lord, that (after conſideration of what I have written,) you will be no otherwiſe minded (then I exhort you to be,) but he that troubleth you ſhall bear his judgment, (τὸ κρίμα, the condemnation due to him on that account,) whoſoever he be.

Ver. 11. And (whereas ſome of theſe Judaizers have ſuggeſted that) I (elſewhere preach up that Circumciſion I oppoſe in you) Brethren, (you may learn the falſhood of that ſuggeſtion from my ſufferings, for) if I yet preach Circumcision, why do I yet ſuffer perſecution (from the Jews, ſince) then is the offence (they take at preaching) of the Croſs ceaſed.

Εἰ περιτομὴν ἔτι κηρύσσω, if I yet preach Circumciſion.] All the Greek Interpreters ſay this Verſe returns an Anſwer to the Suggeſtions of the Patrons of the Law, viz. that (a) He was an Hypocrite in ſome places, preaching up Circumciſion, and in others not. See the Note on Chap. 3. 4.

Ver. 12. I wiſh they were even cut off (from the Communion of the Church) that (do thus) trouble (and unſettle) you.

Ὄφελον καὶ ἀποκόψονται, cut off.] The Interpretation of all the Greek Fathers, and of St. Ambroſe, Auſtin, and Jerom on this place, is this, Utinam non ſolum circumcidantur, ſed etiam abſcindantur, I wiſh not only they were circumciſed, but even made like the Prieſts of the Mother of the Gods worſhipped formerly by you of Galatia, who had that Member cut off. But if this Interpretation ſeem too light to be affixed to the words of the Apoſtle, I rather chuſe to interpret them as a wiſh, that they were cut off from the Communion of the Church, becauſe this ſeems agreeable to a like paſſage 1 Cor. 5. 6, 7. where having ſaid, as here, a little leaven leavens the whole lump, he adds, purge out therefore the old leaven, i. e. put away from your ſelves the wicked perſon, which he himſelf here would not do alone, becauſe he ſaw his Authority among them was impaired, and he feared this rather might exaſperate than cure their Diſtemper. See Note on 2 Cor. 10. 6. that ὄφελον is joyned with an Aoriſt, and ſometimes with an Imperfect of the Indicative Mood, we learn from theſe Examples, ὄφελον ἐν ᾅδῃ με ἔκρυψας, I wiſh thou wouldſt hide me in the Grave, Job 14. 13. ὄφελόν γε ἐβασιλεύσατε, I wiſh you did reign, 1 Cor. 4. 8.

Ver. 13. For, Brethren, ye have been called (by Chriſtianity) to liberty (from the Jewiſh yoke,) only (be careful that ye) uſe not (your) liberty for an occaſion to the fleſh, but by love ſerve one another.

Εἰς ἀφορμὴν τῇ σαρκὶ, for an occaſion to the fleſh.] This is done (1.) By a Carnal uſe of it to gratifie the Motions of the Fleſh, as they who turn'd the grace of God into laſciviouſneſs, and thought they might ſin more freely, becauſe they were not under the Law, but under Grace, Rom. 6. 1, 15. Or 2*ly*, by an uncharitable uſe of it, to the Scandal of their weak Brethren, or the Contempt of thoſe who did not fully underſtand their liberty, or by contending with, or biting one another, v. 16. which was an evidence that they were carnal, 1 Cor. 3. 3. Or laſtly, by refuſing Obedience to their Maſters, (See Note on 1 Tim. 6. 1, 2.) and Subjection to Superiours; See Note on 1 Pet. 2. 16. the Remedy of which Diſtempers is true Chriſtian Love; for (b) he that loves ſincerely, will not refuſe to ſerve him whom he loves.

Ver. 14. For all the (Moral) Law (reſpecting our Neighbour) is fulfilled in one word, even in this, Thou ſhalt love thy Neighbour as thy ſelf.

Ver. 15. But if you (in contradiction to this Law) bite (calumniate) and devour one another (as the falſe Teachers did thoſe they ſeduced, 2 Cor. 11. 12.) take heed that ye be not (in the iſſue) conſumed one of another.

Εἰ δὲ ἀλλήλους δάκνετε, if ye bite, &c.] Theodoret here notes, that the Contentions and Quarrels which aroſe betwixt them that ſtood firm, and thoſe who warped to the Legal obſervances, gave occaſion to theſe words. And as I have obſerved, that the Zeal of the Jews would not ſuffer an uncircumciſed Perſon to live among them, ſo might it be alſo with theſe zealous Judaizers.

Ver. 16. This therefore I ſay (to prevent theſe miſcarriages,) walk in the Spirit, (i. e. according to the motions of the Holy Spirit, Rom. 8. 1, 2, 9, 12, 13, 14.) and ye ſhall not fulfil the luſts of the fleſh, (i. e. theſe carnal

(a) Ταυτείτης ἐξιν ἀλλαχοῦ περιτομὴν κηρύσσων, ἀλλαχοῦ δὲ οὐ. Theodor.
(b) Ὁ γὰρ φιλῶν ἀγαπῶν, οὐδὲ δουλεύειν ἀθυμεῖ τῷ φιλουμένῳ. Theoph.

motions

motions, v. 13. and theſe uncharitable contentions, v. 15.)

Ver. 17. For the fleſh (indeed) luſteth againſt the ſpirit, (and ſo incites you to theſe things,) and (but) the ſpirit luſteth againſt the fleſh, and theſe two (Principles) are contrary one to the other; ſo that ye (who are lead by the ſpirit) cannot do the things ye would) according to the fleſh, nor ye who are lead by the fleſh, the things you would according to the ſpirit.)

Note that I have interpreted theſe Verſes as moſt Commentators do; but I conceive they may be beſt interpreted from Romans 7. thus, v. 16. But this I ſay (to take you off from this bondage to the Law,) walk in the ſpirit, (in newneſs of the Spirit, and not in the oldneſs of the Letter, Rom. 7. 6.) and ye ſhall not fulfil the luſts of the fleſh, (the motions of the fleſh ſhall not have dominion over you, and bring you captive to the Law of Sin, as it doth in them, becauſe ye are not under the Law, but under Grace, Rom. 6. 14. v. 17. For (in them) the fleſh luſteth againſt the ſpirit, (or the inward man not renewed, v. 23, 25.) and the ſpirit luſteth againſt the fleſh, (v. 19——22.) and theſe two are contrary; ſo that ye (who are under the Law, and walk not in newneſs of Spirit,) cannot do the things that ye would; (For the good that ye would ye do not, v. 19.)

Ver. 18. But if ye are led by the (conduct of the Holy) Spirit, ye are not under the Law, (and ſo Sin ſhall not have dominion over you, Rom. 6. 14.)

Ver. 19. Now the works of the fleſh are manifeſt, which are theſe, Adultery, Fornication, Uncleanneſs, Laſciviouſneſs, Ver. 20. Idolatry, Witchcraft, Hatred, Variance, Emulation, Wrath, Strife, Sedition, Hereſie.

Ver. 21. Envyings, Murthers, Drunkenneſs, Revellings, and ſuch like; of the which I tell you before, as I have alſo told you in times paſt, that they who do ſuch things, ſhall not inherit the Kingdom of God.

Τὰ ἔργα τῆς σαρκὸς, the works of the fleſh.] That ſome of theſe may very properly be called Works of the Fleſh, cannot be doubted; but ſeeing ſome of theſe Sins ſeem chiefly to conſiſt in Errors of the Mind, as Hereſie, and Idolatry, and others of them to derive from evil diſpoſitions of the Spirit, as Envy, Malice, Witchcraft, it ſeems not eaſie to perceive with what propriety they are here called the Works of the Fleſh. But

1. That Strife, Contentions, bitter Zeal and Envy, are indeed Works of the Fleſh, we may diſcern from a Reflection on the uſual Objects of them; for we do not uſe to contend with, or envy Men on the account of things truly Spiritual, becauſe they bring forth the Fruits of the Spirit, or have the Pleaſures of an upright Conſcience; but our Contentions generally are about Worldly, Carnal Things, the Pleaſures, Honours, or Enjoyments of the preſent World: For whence come Zeal and Envy, ſaith St. James, come they not from your Luſts which war in your Members, James 4. 1, 2.

Moreover, Murther and Witchcrafts, or φαρμακεῖαι, as that word imports, thoſe poiſonous Ingredients which are uſed to deſtroy Humane Life, are the Fruits of Hatred, Envy, Malice, and ſo muſt have their riſe from the ſame Senſual Luſts.

The Idolatry of the Heathens, not only as it was attended with Revellings and Uncleanneſs, but as it repreſented God to Corporeal Eyes in Images, and brought him down unto the Senſes, may well be deemed a Senſual Crime.

And laſtly, Hereſie, according to the Scripture Notion, being not a pure Miſtake of Judgment, but an eſpouſing a falſe Doctrine out of Diſguſt, Pride, or Envy, or from worldly Principles, or to avoid Perſecution or Trouble in the Fleſh, may well be ranked among Carnal Luſts. Hence are ſuch Men ſaid, Not to ſerve God, but their own Belly, Rom. 16. 17, 18. to teach what they ought not, for filthy lucres ſake, Tit. 1. 11. to account gain for godlineſs, 1 Tim. 6. 5. and through covetouſneſs, with feigned words, to make Merchandiſe of others, 2 Pet. 2. 3. And therefore the Apoſtle doth not adviſe us to Convince, but only to Admoniſh, and Reject the Heretick, as knowing that he ſins, being convinced of his own Conſcience. See Note on Tit. 3. 10.

Ver. 22. But the fruit of the Spirit is Love, Joy, Peace, Long-ſuffering, Gentleneſs, Goodneſs, Faith,

Ver. 23. Meekneſs, Temperance; againſt ſuch there is no Law (that can condemn, or render them obnoxious to the wrath of God.)

Οὐκ ἔστι νόμος, there is no Law.] The Expoſition of thoſe who ſay ſuch Perſons need no Law, is not to be approved, becauſe it ſuits not with the words, κατὰ τούτων, againſt ſuch there is no Law. Moreover, the Law of Liberty they are under, was given to oblige them to the practice of theſe Vertues, and ſo was needful to that end.

Ver. 24. And they that are Chriſts have crucified the fleſh with the affections and luſts (of it.)

Ver. 25. If (then) we (pretend to) live in (and by) the Spirit, let us alſo walk in the Spirit, (according to the Motions, not of the Fleſh, but of the Spirit.)

Ver. 26. Let us not be deſirous of Vain-glory, (Gr. vain-glorious,) provoking one another, envying one another.

Ἀλλήλους παροξύνοντες, provoking one another, &c.] Theodoret here obſerves, that they who ſtood firm in the Faith, and ſo enjoyed their Spiritual Gifts, might be apt to contemn, and glory over the weak on that account, and others might envy their Gifts. And this ſhews the ſeaſonableneſs of this Exhortation, and connects theſe words with the beginning of the following Chapter, where the Apoſtle condemns them who had high thoughts of themſelves, and upon that account were apt to overlook, and to neglect their fallen Brother.

CHAP. VI.

Verſe 1. BRethren, if any man be overtaken with a fault, you that are ſpiritual, (endowed with thoſe Spiritual Gifts which enable you for the Publick Miniſtrations in the Church,) reſtore ſuch a one in the Spirit of Meekneſs, (to a right underſtanding of his Duty, and a ſuitable practice) conſidering thy ſelf, leſt thou alſo be tempted (and ſo fall as he did.)

Προλημφθῇ, with a fault.] They ſeem not well to have conſidered the uſe of this word in Scripture, who ſay it is Lapſus hominis ex improviſo impingentis, a Fault committed unawares, or for want of circumſpection, ſince the Apoſtle applies it to all the Sins of the Heathen World, ſtyling them νεκροὶ τοῖς παραπτώμασι, dead in treſpaſſes, Eph. 2. 1, 5. Col. 2. 13. and to all the ſins forgiven us through Faith in Chriſt, Rom. 4. 25. 5. 16. 2 Cor. 5. 19. Eph. 1. 7. the word φθάσῃ ſeems rather to import ſuch a Surprize.

Ὑμεῖς οἱ πνευματικοὶ, you that are ſpiritual.] I have noted on 1 Cor. 14. 32. that in the beginnings of Chriſtianity, when Churches were firſt converted, they had for a time no ſettled Church Governours, but all their Church Offices were performed by Men who had Spiritual Gifts, and by them are ſaid to Prophecy in the Church to their Edification, Exhortation, and Comfort, v. 2. So I conceive it was when St. Paul writ to the Galatians; for here is no direction of this Epiſtle to any ſtated Church Governours, no Salutation of any in the Cloſe, no Charge againſt any for ſuffering theſe Great Miſcarriages in the Church; no Exhortation to them to take heed to their Miniſtry, and to oppoſe themſelves to theſe Deceivers; and then the Spiritual Men here mentioned, muſt be the Prophets who then performed all Spiritual Offices among them.

Ἐν πνεύματι πραΰτητος, in the Spirit of Meekneſs.] 2 Tim. 2. 24. That ſo they may not provoke them to fly off to Judaiſm, Chap. 5. 26. whom they ſhould reſtore to a right underſtanding of their Chriſtian Liberty, and to a Freedom from that Yoke of Bondage.

Μὴ καὶ σὺ πειρασθῇς, leſt thou alſo be tempted.] i. e. Leſt thou fall by Temptation; for to ſtand firm againſt Temptation, when it aſſaults us, is not a proper Conſideration to engage us to pity thoſe that fall by it. This is the import of the word, when we are taught to pray, that we enter not into Temptation, Matth. 6. 13. when the Apoſtle bids the married Perſons live together, that Satan tempt them not for their Incontinence, 1 Cor. 7. 5. when he is ſollicitous for the Theſſalonians, leſt the Tempter ſhould have tempted them, and rendred his labours vain, 1 Theſſ. 3. 3. and when St. James ſaith, Every Man is tempted when he is led away by his own luſts, James 1. 14.

Ver. 2. Bear ye one anothers Burthens, (Infirmities in Judgment, or in Manners,) and ſo fulfil the Law of Chriſt,) which requires you by love to ſerve one another, Chap. 5. 13.

Ver. 3. For if a man think himſelf to be ſomething, when (wanting Charity, 1 Cor. 13. 2, 3.) he is nothing, he deceiveth himſelf.

Εἰ γὰρ δοκεῖ τις εἶναι τι, μηδὲν ὤν, if a man thinks himſelf ſomething, being nothing.] Of himſelf, but by the Grace of God being what he is, 1 Cor. 15. 10. 2 Cor. 12. 11. So ſome truly, but not ſo pertinently to the Scope of the Text; ſay others, Being nothing in the ſight of God; who regards him not for his Knowledge, but his Charity, 1 Cor. 13. 2, 3. i. e. If upon this account he overlooks, and deſpiſeth his weak offending Brother, not ſympathiſing with him, v. 2. or endeavouring to reſtore him, v. 1. but rather glorying in this, that he is a ſtrong Chriſtian in compariſon of others, he is then nothing in the ſight of God.

Ver. 4. But (to avoid this deceit) let every man prove his own Work, and then ſhall he have rejoycing in himſelf, and not (only) in (comparing himſelf with) another.

Δοκιμαζέτω ἕκαστος, let every man prove.] i. e. Let him approve his Actions to God, and his own Conſcience, and then he may take comfort ſimply in himſelf, that he is a Good Man, and not in this only, that he is better than others. So the word ſignifies Rom. 1. 28. οὐκ ἐδοκίμασαν, they approved not of God, Rom. 2. 18. Δοκιμάζεις, thou approveſt

the things which are moſt excellent, Rom. 12. 2. Be transformed by the renewing of your mind, εἰς τὸ δοκιμάζειν, that you may approve the good, and acceptable, and perfect Will of God. And Chap. 14. 22. Happy is the man who doth not condemn, or act againſt his Conſcience, ἐν ᾧ δοκιμάζει, in that which by his actions he approves of. See Eph. 5. 10. Philip. 1. 10. 1 Theſſ. 2. 4. 1 Tim 3. 10. and Note on 1 Cor. 11. 28.

Ver. 5. For every Man ſhall bear his own burthen.

Τὸ ἴδιον φορτίον, his own Burthen.] i. e. This every Man is concern'd to do, viz. to make his own Work good, and approved in the ſight of God; for another Man's greater ſins, will not excuſe thee from bearing the burthen of thine own.

The Apoſtle having thus inſtructed their Teachers, or Spiritual Men, not to deſpiſe, or under-value their Chriſtian Brethren, proceeds now to inſtruct theſe Brethren, how to behave themſelves towards their Teachers. Saying,

Ver. 6. Let him that is taught in the Word, communicate to him that teacheth, in all good things, (he ſtands in need of, as God's Bleſſing may enable him.)

Κοινωνείτω, let him communicate.] This he elſewhere ſtiles Communication, εἰς λόγον δόσεως καὶ λήψεως, by giving their good things, and receiving his good Inſtructions, Philip. 4. 15. by ſowing Spirituals, and reaping of them Carnal things, 1 Cor. 9. 11. And if this was their Duty towards ſuch Teachers as had no need of Books, or ſtudy to fit themſelves for the Work, they being enabled for it by the immediate Aſſiſtance and Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt, how much more towards them who ſpend much Time and Money to fit themſelves for that Work, and muſt be ſtill employed in ſtudying and reading, to make themſelves ſuch Workmen as need not to be aſhamed?

The following words are by moſt Interpreters referred to the ſame ſubject, thus, Make no vain Excuſes in this Caſe, God will not be mocked with falſe Pretences. But I rather think the Apoſtle proceeds to a new general Exhortation againſt the Carnal Doctrines of their Deceivers, the hidden things of diſhoneſty which he charges them with, 2 Cor. 4. 2. 7. 1, 2. 12. 21. whoſe Exhortation was attended with Uncleanneſs, 1 Theſſ. 2. 3. See Note on 2 Cor. 4. 2. Againſt which Doctrines this is his uſual Preface, Let no man deceive you with vain words, Eph. 5. 6. 1 Cor. 6. 9. James 1. 16. I therefore thus interpret them, Ver. 7. Be not deceived (by your falſe Teachers) for whatſoever a man ſoweth (of) that (kind) ſhall he alſo reap.

Ver. 8. For he that ſoweth to the fleſh, (by doing the works of the fleſh, mentioned Chap. 5. 20, 21.) ſhall of the fleſh reap Corruption; but he that ſoweth to the Spirit, (by bringing forth the fruits of the Spirit, mentioned v. 22, 23.) ſhall of the Spirit (raiſing him up to it, Rom. 8. 11.) reap life everlaſting.

Ver. 9. But (then) let us not be weary of well-doing, (or of exerciſing theſe fruits of the Spirit,) for in due ſeaſon we ſhall reap (the rewards of them) if we faint not, (but hold out unto the end.)

Καιρῷ ἰδίῳ, in due ſeaſon.] i. e. in the proper time of Recompence; for the Encouragement Chriſt gives unto the Works of Charity is this, Thou ſhalt be Recompenſed at the Reſurrection of the Juſt, Luke 14. 14.

Ver. 10. As we have therefore opportunity (and ability,) let us do good (and charitable offices) to all Men, eſpecially to the houſhold of faith.

Ver. 12. As many as deſire to make a fair ſhew in (things concerning) the fleſh, (endeavouring to gratifie Men, and avoid their diſpleaſure,) they (would) conſtrain you to be circumciſed; only leſt they ſhould ſuffer perſecution (from their hands) for the Croſs of Chriſt.

Τῷ σταυρῷ, &c. for the Croſs of Chriſt.] I have ſhewed, Note on Chap. 5. 11. this was the great ſtumbling block of the Jews, partly becauſe their Law pronounced a Curſe on thoſe that hanged on a Tree, See Note on 1 Cor. 1. 23. partly becauſe the Croſs, and Sufferings of Chriſt on it, was the Foundation of the Doctrine of Juſtification by Faith in his Blood, of the Ceſſation of the Ceremonial Law, and the Removal of the Partition Wall betwixt Jew and Gentile, Col. 2. 14, 16. on which account chiefly they were ſcandalized at it, and perſecuted thoſe who taught that this was the Reſult of our Lord's Death and Sufferings.

Ver. 13. (I ſay, 'tis upon this account, and not out of regard to the Law, that they ſo zealouſly plead for Circumciſion, and the obſervation of it,) For neither do they themſelves who are circumciſed, keep the Law, but deſire to have you circumciſed; that they may glory in your fleſh.

Οὐδὲ γὰρ νόμον φυλάσσουσιν, for neither do they keep the Law.] This was unqueſtionably true of theſe Judaizing Chriſtians: For how, ſaith Theodoret, could they in Galatia regularly obſerve the Jewiſh Feaſts, or offer Sacrifice, or cleanſe themſelves from their Defilements, by touching any thing that was unclean?

Ἵνα ἐν τῇ ὑμετέρᾳ σαρκὶ καυχήσωνται), that they might glory in your fleſh.] i. e. Might boaſt of this among the Jews, that they promoted Circumciſion even among the Gentiles, and by that pretence might avoid Perſecution from them.

Ver. 14. But (whatſoever they may glory in) God forbid that I ſhould glory, ſave in the (knowledge and profeſſion of the) Croſs of Chriſt, by which the World is crucified to me, and I unto the World, (Chap. 2. 20. being dead to ſin, Rom. 6. 3, 4. to the fleſh, Gal. 5. 24. to the Law by the Body of Chriſt, and ſeparated from the World to live unto God.)

Ver. 15. For in (the Oeconomy of) Chriſt Jeſus, neither Circumciſion availeth any thing, nor Uncircumciſion, but a new Creature, (one dead to Sin, the Fleſh, and the World, but living unto God.)

Ver. 16. And as many as walk according to this Rule, (being chiefly concerned that the new Creature may be framed in them,) Peace (ſhall) be upon them, and Mercy, and upon the Iſrael (not of the Fleſh, but) of God.

Ver. 17. From henceforth let no Man trouble me (with their Contentions againſt my Office, becauſe I renounce Circumciſion, and my legal Righteouſneſs) for I bear in my Body the marks of (a Servant, not of the Law, but of) Chriſt Jeſus, (thoſe Wounds and Stripes which teſtifie me to be a faithful Servant of that Jeſus for whoſe ſake I ſuffer them.)

Ver. 18. Brethren, the Grace (Favour and Good-will) of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt be with your ſpirit. Amen.

THE PREFACE TO THE Epistle of PAUL the Apostle TO THE EPHESIANS.

§ 1. THAT this Epistle to the Ephesians was indeed written by St. Paul, and directed to them, and not to any other Church, we cannot doubt, if we believe either the Epistle, or St. Paul himself. For

1. It begins thus, Paul an Apostle (writeth these things) to the Saints that are at Ephesus. And in this Reading all the Versions and all the Manuscripts agree.

2. In the Close of this Epistle he speaks thus to them, That you may know my Affairs, and how I do, Tychicus a beloved Brother, and faithful Minister in the Lord, shall make known to you all things, whom I have sent unto you, Chap. 6. 21, 22. And in the second Epistle to Timothy, he saith, Tychicus have I sent to Ephesus, 2 Tim. 4. 12.

Moreover, all Antiquity agree in this, that this Epistle was written by St. Paul: (a) Ignatius is express for it in his Epistle to the Ephesians. (b) Irenæus, Clemens of Alexandria, (c) Tertullian, and (d) Origen in divers places of their Works. We learn indeed from the Argument of this Epistle in Oecumenius, and more fully from (e) Theodoret, that some of the Ancients thought this Epistle was writ by St. Paul before he had seen the Ephesians, or at least before his Three years converse with them: But not any of the Ancients, excepting Marcion, ever thought that this Epistle was not written, among other Churches, to that of Ephesus, but of Laodicea; and therefore (f) Tertullian takes notice of it, as a thing proper to those Hereticks, though indeed both might be true; for this Epistle being writ, not only to the Saints at Ephesus, but also to the Faithful in Christ Jesus, might be writ also to the Colossians, the Laodiceans, and others, who had not seen his Face, Coloss. 2. 1. See Note on Coloss. 4. 16. And this Observation gives a sufficient Answer to the Arguments from Chap. 1. 15. chap. 3. 2. from which some have conjectured, that this Epistle could not be writ to them after St. Paul had staid Three years in Asia, though they more fully are considered in their respective places.

St. Paul was Priſoner at Rome, is evident from Chap. 3. 1. where he is ſtiled, Paul the Priſoner of Jeſus Chriſt; and Chap. 4. 1. a Priſoner in the Lord. Now it muſt be at ſooneſt in the Third year of Nero that he was ſent Priſoner to Rome: For Felix was made Procurator of Judea by Nero in his Firſt year, ſaith (g) Joſephus; and after Two years he left Paul Priſoner at Cæſarea, Acts 24. 27. Portius Feſtus ſucceeds him, and after ſome time bears him twice at Cæſarea, and ſends him afterwards to Rome, which Interval, if we conſider how long it was e're he reached Rome, may very well be ſuppoſed to take up another year. He therefore could not write this Epiſtle till the Fourth or Fifth of Nero. He did not write it, ſaith Biſhop Pearſon, till the Eighth of Nero, A. D. 62.

§ 3. That this Epiſtle was writ againſt Simon Magus and his Followers, as Eſthius hints, none of the Ancients ſay. More probable is the conjecture of Grotius, That the Apoſtle rather deſigned by it to Arm them againſt the Doctrines of the Philoſophers, and of thoſe Jews who endeavoured to bring them to the obſervation of their Rites; for that there were then many Jews at Epheſus, and throughout Aſia, we learn both from the Acts of the Apoſtles, which inform us that Paul being at Epheſus, entred into a Synagogue of the Jews, Acts 18. 19. 19. 8, 9, 10. and diſcourſed with them, till by their perverſneſs he was forced to ſeparate from them; and that by his preaching, all that were in Aſia heard the Word of the Lord, both Jews and Greeks. And alſo from (h) Philo, who informs us that the Jews inhabited the moſt, and beſt Cities in the Provinces and Iſlands both of Europe and Aſia. And that theſe Jews were diſturbers of the Churches of Aſia, and of Epheſus in particular, and ſticklers to introduce a Mixture of Judaiſm with Chriſtianity, we learn from both the Epiſtles to St. Timothy. Againſt their Doctrine of the Neceſſity of the Obſervance of the Law of Moſes to Juſtification and Salvation, he ſeemeth to oppoſe theſe words, By Grace ye are ſaved, not of Works, leſt any man ſhould boaſt, Chap. 2. 8, 9. which manifeſtly anſwer to his Diſcourſe upon that Subject, Rom. 3. where he aſſerts, that we are juſtified freely by his Grace, v. 24. and not by the Works of the Law, v. 20. and that all boaſting is excluded, not by the Law of Works, but of Faith (i). Againſt that other Notion of theirs depending on the former, That the Gentiles ſhould be admitted into the Church only as Proſelytes, and not aſſumed to the ſame Priviledges with the Jews, he declares himſelf more largely Chap. 2. from v. 12. to the 20*th.* Chap. 3. 6—10.

A Paraphraſe and Comment ON THE Epiſtle to the EPHESIANS.

CHAP. I.

Verſe 1. PAUL an Apoſtle of Jeſus Chriſt by the will of God (calling me to that Office,) to the Saints that are at Epheſus, and (that is) to the faithful in Chriſt Jeſus (throughout all Aſia).

Τοῖς ἁγίοις, to the Saints.] See the Note on 1 Cor. 1. 1.

Καὶ, and, that is.] See Note on Coloſſ. 1. 3.

Ver. 2. Grace be (given) to you, and peace from God the Father, and the Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

Χάρις, Grace.] This Grace is given by the Communication of the Holy Ghoſt from the Father, and the Son to the Church, John 14. 23. which is the reaſon that the Holy Ghoſt is not mentioned in theſe Salutations.

Ver. 3. Bleſſed be (that) God (who is) the Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, who hath bleſſed us with all ſpiritual bleſſings in heavenly places (or things) in (and through) Chriſt Jeſus.

Ἐν πάσῃ εὐλογίᾳ πνευματικῇ ἐν τοῖς ἐπουρανίοις.] Theſe words ἐν τοῖς ἐπουρανίοις, in heavenly places, may probably refer to the Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt then conferr'd upon the Church, and ſtiled by the Prophet εὐλογίαι Θεοῦ, the bleſſings of God; Fear not Jacob my Servant, and Iſrael whom I have choſen, for I will put my ſpirit on thy ſeed, καὶ τὰς εὐλογίας μου, and my bleſſings on thy Children, Iſa. 44. 2, 3. Where the word in the Hebrew and Chaldee is וּבִרְכָתַי and my Benedictions, and ſo well correſponds with the words of the Apoſtle, God hath bleſſed us with all ſpiritual bleſſings. The ſame Apoſtle ſtiles theſe gifts εὐλογία τοῦ εὐαγγελίου, the bleſſing of the Goſpel; for having ſaid to the Romans, I long to ſee you that I may impart unto you χάρισμά τι πνευματικὸν ſome ſpiritual gift to the end you may be eſtabliſhed, Chap. 1. 11. he adds, When I come to ſee you, I ſhall come in the fulneſs τῆς εὐλογίας of the bleſſing of the Goſpel, Chap. 15. 29. And the promiſe of the Spirit is ſtiled εὐλογία τοῦ Ἀβραάμ, the bleſſing of that Abraham in whom all the Families of the Earth were to be bleſſed, in theſe words, That the bleſſing of Abraham might come upon the Gentiles through Jeſus Chriſt, that we might receive the promiſe of the Spirit through Faith, Gal. 3. 14. Theſe Gifts are alſo called ἐπουράνια heavenly things; thus when our Saviour had diſcourſed of the Spirit to be received in Baptiſm, he ſaith, he had told them τὰ ἐπουράνια heavenly things, John 3. 12. and they who were made partakers of theſe Gifts, were ſaid to have taſted τῆς δωρεᾶς τῆς ἐπουρανίου, of the heavenly gift, Hebr. 6. 4. Or 2*ly*, God's bleſſing us ἐν ἐπουρανίοις, with heavenly things in Chriſt Jeſus, may ſignifie his exalting us to a bleſſed ſtate of Immortality in the Heavens through him, his giving us an houſe not made with hands eternal in the heavens, 2 Cor. 5. 1, 2. and putting upon us an houſe from Heaven, his giving us an inheritance incorruptible, undefiled, reſerved in the heavens for us, on the account of which incorruptible and immortal Bodies we are ſtiled ἐπουράνιοι heavenly, as Chriſt is 1 Cor. 15. 48. and the Apoſtle ſaith, that as we have born the image of the earthy Adam by our mortal Bodies, ſo by our Bodies made immortal, we ſhall bear εἰκόνα τοῦ ἐπουρανίου, the Image of the heavenly Adam, v. 49. and hence we are ſaid to be partakers κλήσεως ἐπουρανίου, of our heavenly Calling. In a word, Chriſt having delivered us from that death and mortality which came upon us by the ſin of Adam, hath bleſſed us with this heavenly bleſſing, having made us ſit together with him in heavenly places, Eph. 2. 6. And this is the hope of our Calling, v. 18. of this Chapter.

Ver. 4. According as he hath choſen us (Gentiles, Chap. 3. 6) in him, before the foundation of the world, (Chap. 3. 11. Aeſtiyeval that we (thus choſen) ſhould be holy, and without blame before him in love, (by virtue of our faith in Chriſt, and love to one another) Chap. 3. 17. Gal. 5. 6.

Ἐξελέξατο ἡμᾶς.] It was the opinion of the Jews, that God in framing the World had a particular regard for them; and that the World was made for their ſakes. Eſdr. 2. 55, 59. and that the Meſſiah being created before the World, God entred into Covenant with him that he ſhould redeem the World, and them eſpecially. (a) The holy bleſſed God, ſay they, began to covenant with the Meſſiah when he created him, and ſaid unto him, the ſins of thoſe who are laid up in ſecret with thee, will make thee to come under an Iron yoke, and make thee like to this young Heifer, whoſe Eyes are dim, and fill thy Spirit with anguiſh; and becauſe of their iniquity thy tongue ſhall cleave to the roof of thy mouth; Wil'ſt thou undergo their condition for them? The Meſſiah ſaid, I undertake it with joy, and exultation of my heart, on this condition, that not one of Iſrael may periſh; and that not only they may be ſaved who live in my days, but alſo they who are dead from the days of the firſt Man to this very day. And again, (b) When God created the World, he held forth his hand under the Throne of Glory, and created the Soul of the Meſſiah, and his Company, and ſaid to him, Wil'ſt thou heal and redeem my Sons after Six thouſand years? He anſwered, Yes. God ſaid to him, If ſo, wil'ſt thou bear Chaſtiſement to expiate their iniquities? according to what is written Iſa. 53. 4. Surely he bore our griefs. He anſwered, I will endure them with joy. Now becauſe the Jews held that God thus elected them from the beginning of the World, and ſent the Meſſiah that none of them ſhould periſh. The Apoſtle, to take from them all cauſe of boaſting againſt the Gentiles upon that account, declares the Gentiles were thus elected in Chriſt Jeſus, even before the foundations of the World; (i. e.) that he deſigned then to chuſe them to be his Church and People, i. e. an holy People to the Lord.

Εἰς υἱοθεσίαν, to the Adoption of Children.] This in the Scripture Phraſe imports Adoption to a bleſſed Reſurrection, and a ſtate of immortality both of Soul and Body; for being Sons of God, ſaith St. Luke, Chap. 20. 36. we are Sons of the Reſurrection, and if Sons, ſaith the Apoſtle, then Heirs of God, Joynt-heirs of Chriſt, Rom. 8. 16, 17. The Revelation of the Sons of God is their future glory to be revealed at Chriſt's appearing, v. 18, 19. See Col. 3. 4. Their Adoption is the Redemption of their Bodies from Corruption, v. 23. This being ſo, God's electing us in Chriſt before the foundation of the World, is his purpoſe before the World was made: Or from the fall, to give to thoſe that ſhould believe in Chriſt this Adoption, (i. e.) the Redemption of their Bodies from that Mortality to which the fall of Adam had ſubjected them, Gen. 3. 15. whence he is here ſaid to have elected us, προορίσας ἡμᾶς εἰς υἱοθεσίαν, fore-ordaining us to this Adoption, κατὰ τὴν εὐδοκίαν, according to the good pleaſure of his will, or his free grace and favour, there being nothing in us, or even in our faith, that could deſerve this glorious Adoption.

Ver. 6. (And this he hath done) To the praiſe of the glory of his grace, wherein he hath made us accepted, (or with which he hath favoured us ἐχαρίτωσεν ἡμᾶς) in (and through) the beloved.

Ver. 7. In whom we have redemption (from the curſe of the Law, Gal. 3. 13. and from the condemnation due to us for ſin, Rom. 3. 24, 25.) through his blood, (the blood of Atonement ſhed for) the forgiveneſs of ſins according to the riches of his grace.

Τὴν ἀπολύτρωσιν, Redemption.] All Mankind lying under a Sentence of Condemnation on the account of ſin, all having ſinned, and fallen ſhort of the glory of God upon that account, Rom. 3. 23. 'Twas neceſſary that ſomething ſhould be done to take away the guilt of ſin, and reconcile us to a God diſpleaſed with us for it, that ſo we, our perſons, and performances might find acceptance with him: This could not be done by any Righteouſneſs of our own before Faith in Chriſt, we being in Chriſt Jeſus created to good works, Eph. 2. 10. and therefore was neceſſary to be done by an Act of Grace on God's part, accepting us as Righteous through Faith in Chriſt, and juſtifying us freely through Faith in his Blood. Hence do the Scriptures of the New Teſtament ſeem plainly to make our Reconciliation, and ſo our Acceſs to God depend on our being purged from the guilt of Sin by an Atonement made by the Blood of Chriſt for our Iniquities, that ſo, they being pardoned, we may have peace with God, and freedom of acceſs to him. Chriſt ſuffered, ſaith St. Peter, ἵνα ἡμᾶς προσαγάγῃ τῷ Θεῷ, that he might bring us to God, 1 Pet. 3. 18. (i. e.) to give us freedom of acceſs to God, for by him we have προσαγωγὴν admiſſion to the Father, Eph. 2. 18. See the Note there. God was in Chriſt reconciling the World to himſelf, not imputing their Treſpaſſes to them, 2 Cor. 5. 18, 21. and this Reconciliation was effected by making Chriſt ἁμαρτίαν a Sin offering for us though he knew no ſin, that we might be made the righteouſneſs of God (or righteous with that Righteouſneſs which God only will accept through faith) in him. See the Note on that Verſe. And the Author to the Hebrews having ſaid, that the Covenant eſtabliſhed in the Blood of Chriſt was this, that he would be merciful to our iniquities, and remember our ſins no more, Hebr. 10. 16, 17. and having thence inferr'd, that having thus obtain'd remiſſion for us by his Blood, there was no need that he ſhould again make himſelf an Offering for Sin, v. 18. he adds, that therefore we may draw near with full aſſurance of faith that we ſhall be accepted through this beloved, as having our hearts ſprinkled by his blood, v. 19, 20, 21, 22. and therefore cleanſed from any guilt of Conſcience on that account. And this Remiſſion was alſo neceſſary that we might obtain that Adoption of Sons to which Believers were fore-appointed, becauſe into the New Jeruſalem can nothing enter that is defiled, or unclean; nor can there be any enjoyment of God till the Blood of Chriſt hath cleanſed us from all ſin, and therefore, ſaith the Apoſtle, he became the Mediator of the New Covenant, that having ſuffered death for the Redemption of us from the Sins we formerly had committed under the Old Covenant, they that were called might receive the promiſe of an eternal Inheritance, Hebr. 9. 15.

Ver. 8. Wherein (or in which diſpenſation) he hath abounded to us in all wiſdom and prudence.

Ἐν πάσῃ σοφίᾳ καὶ φρονήσει, in all wiſdom and prudence.] That is, ſay ſome, in the Spiritual Gifts of Wiſdom and Prudence; but though σοφία be reckon'd among Spiritual Gifts, I find not that φρόνησις is ſo. Moreover, he hath thus abounded towards us in all wiſdom and prudence, ſaith the Apoſtle, by making known to us the riches of his will, which leads to the other Expoſition, which refers this to the manifold Wiſdom of God ſhew'd in contriving this diſpenſation, Chap. 3. 10. and his Prudence in executing the counſel of his Will by this means, viz. by ſending of his Son to be our Saviour. And whereas the Deiſts ſeem to ſide with the Socinians, in denying the Wiſdom of this Diſpenſation of God, in ſending his Son into the World to ſuffer for our Sins, and by his Sufferings to make an Atonement for them, it ſeemeth eaſie to demonſtrate, as well the manifold Wiſdom, as the rich Grace and Favour of God to us in this Diſpenſation. For

1. It ſeemeth abſolutely requiſite, either that the ſubſtitution of another to ſuffer in our ſtead ſhould be admitted, or that we our ſelves ſhould ſuffer the reward of our Iniquities, or that a full Remiſſion and free Pardon of our Sins ſhould be vouchſafed us without any Suffering; now the admiſſion of another to ſuffer in our ſtead, is the thing pleaded for; if therefore that be granted, the Wiſdom of that God who acteth all things according to the counſel of his will, muſt alſo be acknowledged in this Diſpenſation, if we our ſelves muſt ſuffer the reward of our Iniquity, that being Death eternal, or Death without recovery from it by a bleſſed Reſurrection, all Mankind muſt inevitably be ſubject to that Puniſhment, all having ſinned, and fallen ſhort of the glory of God, Rom. 3. 23. And 3*dly*, ſhould God have iſſued out a free Pardon, and given us a full Remiſſion of our Sin, without any thing required by way of Reparation for the Violation of his Law, he muſt have pardoned Sinners without any thing required to ſhew his hatred of ſin, and his reſolution not to let it go unpuniſhed, and ſo without ſufficient motive to deter us from it for the future, which ſeems not well conſiſtent with his Holineſs and Juſtice, and the Relation of a Governour, which ſeemeth plainly to require the Vindication of his Honour, and the Preſervation of the Laws he hath eſtabliſhed from Contempt. 'Twas then an Act of Grace not to require we ſhould perſonally ſuffer the Reward of our Iniquities; it was an Act of Wiſdom not to afford a full Remiſſion of our Sin, without requiring any thing by way of Reparation for the Violation of his Law; it muſt be therefore an Act of Wiſdom alſo to admit another to ſuffer in our ſtead, eſpecially if we conſider

2*ly*, That by the Obedience of our Lord Chriſt unto death in our ſtead, all the great Ends of Puniſhment deſigned by Governours were very ſignally obtained, and that with more advantage to God's glory, then if the puniſhment of our Offences had been inflicted upon us; and ſo God by it may be truly ſaid to have been ſatisfied; ſeeing that Juſtice which conſiſts in puniſhing for the Tranſgreſſion of a Law, is truly ſatisfied, when all thoſe Ends for which the Puniſhment of the Offender could be deſired, are obtained. Now the Ends of Puniſhment are

1. Παράδειγμα, that they who ſuffer may be exemplary to others, and may by what they do endure, deter others from the commiſſion of the Offences for which they ſuffer.

2. Νουθεσία, that the Offender may learn Wiſdom by the Rod; that the Remembrance of what he ſuffered for it, might prevent the repetition of his Sin, and that he may be fitted to embrace the Counſel of our Saviour, Sin no more, leſt a worſe thing come upon you.

3. Τιμωρία, the Vindication of the Prince's Honour, and the Preſervation of the Laws he hath eſtabliſhed from contempt.

Now (1.) God by this Diſpenſation hath given us the moſt effectual Example to deter us from ſin. For (1.) by what our Saviour ſuffered in our ſtead, we ſee that God is certainly in earneſt when he threatneth Death to Sinners; that he is thorowly reſolved upon the Puniſhment of Sin, ſince he inflicted ſo great Puniſhment on the beloved of his Soul, when he became our Surety; for if on this account God ſpared not his only Son, Rom. 8. 32. we may be ſure he will not ſpare his ſtubborn Enemies. But let us ſay, with the Socinians, that that Christ suffered all his bitter Agonies, his ignominious and painful Death, not as the Punishment of Sin, or to make an Atonement for it, but from a pure Act of God's Dominion, how will it follow hence, that God will surely punish Sin, and with Severity avenge the Transgressions of his Law, if he laid none of these Sufferings on Christ for the Punishment of Sin? Seems it not strange to say, that Severities laid on Christ without respect to Sin, should be designed as an Instance of God's Severity against Sin. This shews, saith (c) Crellius, that he who laid such bitter Sufferings on his innocent and well-beloved Son, will inflict the severest Punishments on wicked Men.

I answer; This will indeed follow in respect to Sufferings for the same Cause; for if the Righteous be recompenced upon Earth, much more the Sinner, and the wicked, Prov. 11. 31. If good Eli, and holy David, suffered so great Punishments for their Sins, much more shall a wicked Cain and prophane Esau. But will it follow, that because holy Job suffered so much by way of Trial, or St. Paul for propagation of the Christian Faith, that therefore Sinners shall be obnoxious to greater Punishments? Crellius himself saith, Christ's Suffering's cannot be an exemplary Punishment, because (d) abunde fuerint à Deo compensata, they were so abundantly rewarded by God; and doth not the same Reason shew they could not be a warning to us, if he only suffered with respect to the Recompence of Reward? for are the light Afflictions which Christians suffer here in prospect of an Eternal Recompence, ever made an Instance of God's Severity against Sin? Moreover, this Example shews how insupportable the Punishment will be which Justice will inflict upon the Sinner; for if the apprehension of it produced such Agonies and Consternations in the Soul of Christ, that God saw need to send an Angel to support him, Luke 22. 43. how must the Sinner sink under the Burthen when it is laid upon his shoulders? If he who was the well-beloved Son of God, found it so dreadful to lye under the Burthen for some hours, to lye exposed for ever to it must be far more intolerable.

2*ly*, Whereas inevitable ruine must have followed upon the Execution of the deserved Punishment on the offending Person, God by this method hath taken a fit way for Reformation of the Sinner, which was the second end of Punishment; for what can be a more effectual Motive to abstain from Sin than this Example, which represents the greatness of the Provocation in the greatness of the Punishment, and shews that 'tis impossible the guilty Person should avoid the stroke of God's vindictive Justice, or bear the weight of his Almighty Arm. But the Socinian Tenet, which denies that God was angry with us on the account of Sin, or that he did require any Punishment, or Satisfaction in order to the pardon of it, so far obstructs this Reformation, as it affords the Sinner hopes that he may not hereafter be angry with him on that account, or require any Punishment, or Satisfaction in order to the pardon of his future Sins.

3*ly*, God by this Dispensation hath sufficiently consulted the preservation of his Honour, and secured the Reverence and Observation of his Laws; which was the third great End of Punishment: He by declaring that he would not pardon our Offences without a Satisfaction made for the Violations of his Law, hath fully vindicated his Institutions from Contempt, seeing by this Example he hath let all Men know, That though he be a God of Mercy and Long-suffering, he will by no means clear the guilty, or let the Transgressor of them go unpunished.

Again, God by this Dispensation hath vindicated his Honour more than if he had destroyed the Sinner, having more evidently shewed his hatred of, and great displeasure against Sin, by punishing it so severely in his only Son; for the greater is the inducement to remit the punishment of Sin, the greater must be his hatred of it who inflicts it; that therefore this consideration, that he who suffered was his only well-beloved Son, would not induce him to remit the Punishment, must be the strongest Demonstration of his most perfect hatred of all Iniquity.

But now remove this Supposition, and say, with the Socinians, That God pardoned all Mens Sins against him without any valuable Consideration, and with an absolute freedom forgave Men all the Punishments his Law had threatned to them, and ceased from all his Anger and Displeasure against Sinners without any Atonement made unto, or required by him, and how will it appear God was at all concerned to vindicate the Honour of his Laws, or shew his hatred against Sin? Hence Crellius saw it necessary to own that (e) the Sufferings of Christ are a demonstration of God's hatred of iniquity, because our sins were the cause of them; but then he means not that they were the meritorious, but only that they were the final cause of his Sufferings; not that he suffered to prevail with God to pardon Sinners, but only to prevail with Sinners to break off their Sins. Now hence indeed we

(c) Nam si Deus Christo licet innocentissimo, & unigenito filio suo non pepercit, sed tam diræ tamque ignominiosæ morti eum subjecit, quanta censemus, quamque acerba supplicia Deum sumpturum de hominibus impiis. Resp. ad Grot. c. 1. partic. 57.

(d) Ibid.

may conclude that God is very deſirous that Sinners ſhould deſiſt from ſin; but it follows not hence, that they muſt certainly expect the moſt heavy Puniſhments if they do not; for if God could freely pardon the ſins of the whole World without any Satisfaction made to his offended Juſtice, if there be nothing in God, as Rector of the Univerſe, that requires he ſhould puniſh ſin, or ſhew his diſpleaſure againſt it, if the puniſhment of ſin depends purely upon his Arbitrary Will, why may not Sinners hope, notwithſtanding all that Chriſt hath ſuffered for their good, for a like act of his free Grace hereafter in the remiſſion of their ſins without a Reformation, and that God may be reconciled to them again whilſt they continue in their ſins?

Since then no Laws require the puniſhment of the Offender himſelf, rather than of another who is willing to be his Surety, or ſuffer for him, on any other account but this, that the puniſhment of the Offender, and not another for him, will only Anſwer the forementioned Ends of puniſhment, when that can equally be done by what another ſuffers, the Law it ſelf muſt equally be ſatisfied, becauſe the Ends of the Law are equally obtained.

Ver. 9. Having made known to us the myſtery of his will according to his good pleaſure, which he hath purpoſed in himſelf, (viz. his ſecret purpoſe to chuſe us Gentiles to be fellow Heirs of the ſame Body, Chap.3.6.)

Ver. 10. That (ſo) in the diſpenſation (which was to be accompliſhed by ſending of Chriſt) in the fulneſs of time, he might gather together in one all things in Chriſt, both which are in Heaven, and which are in Earth, even in him.

Ἀνακεφαλαιώσασθαι, to gather together in one.] i. e. God hath now by the Goſpel accompliſhed the ſecret purpoſe of his Will, to make the Gentiles fellow Heirs of the ſame Body, and Priviledges with the Jews; having reconciled both Jew and Gentile to him in one Body on the Croſs, Eph. 2. 14, 16. and ſo gathered together in one all things on Earth, and by procuring for us that Adoption which is the Redemption of the Body from Mortality, Rom. 8. 23. and making us like to the Angels by being Children of the Reſurrection, he hath ſummed up in one all things in Heaven; for they being ſtiled the Sons of God, Job 1. 6. 2. 1. 38. 7. becauſe they live already in their Fathers Houſe, and are an Image of his Immortality, when the Reſurrection hath put us into that happy ſtate that we can die no more, but are equal to the Angels, and are the Children of God, being the Children of the Reſurrection, Luke 20.35,36. then ſhall we be made one with them. The Interpretation of the Ancient Fathers ſeems to give this ſenſe, That God hath by this Diſpenſation gathered under one Head, viz. Chriſt, the Head of the Church, all things on Earth; i. e. Jews and Gentiles, and all things in Heaven, Chriſt being the Head over Angels and Principalities, they being all Miniſtring Spirits to him. And this Senſe ſeems agreeable to the like words, Coloſſ. 1. 20. See the Note there.

Ver. 11. In whom alſo we (believing Jews) have obtained an Inheritance (or are become his portion,) being predeſtinated (or fore-ordained to it) according to the purpoſe of him who worketh all things according to the counſel of his own will.

Ver. 12. That we ſhould be to the praiſe of his glory, who firſt truſted in Chriſt, (the glorious gifts he hath beſtowed upon us, and the eminent Graces he hath wrought in us, tending highly to the glory of his Grace, v.6. and Philip. 1.11.

Ἐκληρώθημεν.] The Jews were before choſen of God to be a People of Inheritance, Deut. 4. 20. and a peculiar People, Exod. 19. 5. and as ſuch God provided for them an Habitation, and Inheritance in the Land of Canaan; but the Jewiſh Church being now to be diſſolved, the Jews being to be baniſh'd from their own Land, and the unbelieving Jews cut off from their Relation to God as his People, the believing Jews were through Faith in Chriſt to be choſen again to be God's Portion and Inheritance, and his peculiar People, 1 Pet. 2. 9. Tit. 2. 14. and to be admitted to a better Inheritance, εἰς μερίδα τοῦ κλήρου τῶν ἁγίων ἐν τῷ φωτί, viz. to the portion of the inheritance of Saints in light, Coloſſ. 1. 12. And to this, ſaith the Apoſtle, they believing were appointed, God having fore-ordained that this Inheritance ſhould be the Portion of Believers, and the Conſequent of Faith in Chriſt, by virtue of which we become the Sons of God.

Ver. 13. In whom ye alſo (truſted) after that ye heard (or hearing) the Word of Truth, the Goſpel of Salvation, in whom ye alſo, after ye believed (or believing) were ſealed with the holy Spirit of Promiſe, (i. e. the Spirit promiſed to the Sons of God; for becauſe ye are Sons God hath ſent the Spirit of his Son into your hearts, Gal.4.6.)

Ver. 14. Who is the earneſt of our Inheritance, until the redemption of the purchaſed Poſſeſſion (for the procuring the ſalutary redemption) to the praiſe of his glory.

Εἰς ἀπολύτρωσιν τῆς περιποιήσεως, till the redemption of life.] There is a twofold ἀπολύτρωσις, redemption mentioned here, and in other places of the New Teſtament: The firſt conſiſts in the Remiſſion of Sins, or our Redemption from the Guilt of it; and of this we have mention v.7. *Rom.*3.24. *Col.*1.14. The ſecond is the Redemption of the Body from Corruption, and making it partaker of Eternal Life. And of this the Apoſtle ſpeaks *Rom.*8.23. calling it the Adoption, and ἀπολύτρωσιν τοῦ σώματος, the redemption of the Body, or the glorious deliverance of the Sons of God from the Bondage of Corruption, v. 21. Thus 1 *Cor.*1. 30. Chriſt is made to us Juſtifica-

tion,

tion, ἡ ἀπολύτρωσις, and Redemption; where Redemption being diſtinguiſh'd from, and following Juſtification and Sanctification, it muſt import the Redemption of the Body from Corruption. And Epheſ. 4. 30. where we are ſaid to be ſealed by the Spirit, εἰς ἡμέραν ἀπολυτρώσεως, to the day of Redemption; the firſt delivers us from the Guilt which condemns us to Death; the ſecond confers the Promiſe of Eternal Life on them who are thus delivered. Hebr. 9. 15. σῶσαι is to ſave alive, and σωτηρία is preſervation. So Gen. 12. 12. they will kill me, σὲ δὲ σώσονται, but they will ſave thee alive. Numb. 22. 33. I had killed thee, ἐκείνου δὲ σώσαιμι, but him I had ſaved alive. Joſh. 6. 17. As for Raab, σώσατε αὐτὴν, ye ſhall ſave her alive. Go ſlay Amalek, καὶ σώσητε ἐξ αὐτῶν, you ſhall ſave none of them alive; 1 Sam. 15. 3. but σώσαντο, Saul ſaved Agag alive, v. 9, 15. 2 Chron. 14. 13. The Æthiopians were overthrown, ὥστε μὴ εἶναι ἐν αὐτοῖς σωτηρίαν, ſo that none of them were left alive. So Phavorinus, σώσαντες ἀντὶ τοῦ διασώσαντες. Whence it appears that ἀπολύτρωσις τῆς σωτηρίας is fitly rendred the Redemption of Life, or the Redemption of thoſe who are to be preſerved from Death.

Ver. 15. Wherefore I alſo, after I heard (Gr. having heard) of your (ſtedfaſt) faith in the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and your (encreaſing) love to all the Saints, (i. e. that the faith and love wrought in you continues ſtedfaſt, and aboundeth.)

Ver. 16. Ceaſe not to give thanks for you, making mention of you in my Prayers.

Ver. 17. (Praying) That the God of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, the Father of Glory, may give unto you (in greater meaſures) the Spirit of Wiſdom and Revelation in the knowledge (or to the farther acknowledgment) of him.

Ἀκούσας, having heard.] Hence ſome infer that St. Paul could not write this to the Church of Epheſus, where he abode about three years, Acts 20. 31. and had converted many to the Faith throughout moſt parts of Aſia, Acts 19. 26. He therefore could not need to hear of their Faith.

To this 'tis anſwered by the Reverend Dr. Hammond, that the word ἀκούειν, as the Hebrew שמע not only ſignifies to hear, but to underſtand, and know, and therefore ſhould be rendred here cum ſciverim, knowing, or having known your faith. And indeed, the word bears the ſenſe undoubtedly in thoſe words, 1 Cor. 14. 2. He that ſpeaketh in an unknown tongue, ſpeaketh not to man, οὐδεὶς γὰρ ἀκούει, for no man underſtands him. So Gen. 11. 7. Let us confound their Language, ἵνα μὴ ἀκούσωσιν, that they may not underſtand one anothers ſpeech. And Chap. 42. 23. They knew not, ὅτι ἀκούει, that Joſeph underſtood them, for he ſpake to them by an Interpreter. See Deut. 28. 49. 2 Kings 18. 26. Jer. 5. 15. Ezek. 3. 6. But

2*ly*, I anſwer, that this Epiſtle was writ, not only to the Metropolis of Epheſus, but to the faithful in Chriſt Jeſus in the general, and more eſpecially to thoſe of the leſſer Aſia, among whom many might have been converted by Apollo, and others. and St. Paul might have only heard of it; yea, he inſinuates that this Epiſtle was read at Laodicea, and gives order for the reading it at Coloſſ. Col. 4. 16. See the Note there; at both which places he had never been, Coloſſ. 2. 1. And

3*ly*, From the Epiſtle of St. Paul to Timothy it appears, that a dangerous and almoſt epidemical Apoſtacy from the Purity of the Chriſtian Faith hapned among the Jewiſh Churches in Aſia, which verified St. Paul's Prediction concerning them, that after his departure, not only grievous Wolves ſhould enter in among them, but that among themſelves ſhould ariſe men ſpeaking perverſe things, to draw away Diſciples after them, Acts 20. 29, 30. and made it proper for him to give Thanks to God for the ſtedfaſtneſs in the Faith which he had heard of in the reſt. See 1 Theſſ. 3. 6.

Πνεῦμα σοφίας, the Spirit of Wiſdom.] St Paul having aſſerted the Neceſſity of the Revelation of the Spirit, that we may know the things that are freely given us of God, they being not naturally to be perceived, 1 Cor. 6. 2——12. doth therefore pray that the Spirit of Wiſdom, Knowledge, and Revelation may be imparted to Chriſtians for that end.

Ver. 18. The Eyes of your underſtanding being enlightned, (or that he would give you underſtandings enlightned) that you may know what (i. e. how glorious) is the hope of his Calling, (i. e. to which he hath called you,) and what the riches of the glory of his Inheritance in the Saints, (i. e. how great is the Inheritance he hath deſigned for the Saints.)

Ver. 19. And what is the exceeding greatneſs of his power (which he will exert) towards us who believe (by raiſing us up to the enjoyment of this Inheritance,) according to the working of his mighty power.

Ver. 20. Which (power) he (hath already) wrought in Chriſt (our head) when he raiſed (Gr. raiſing) him up from the dead, and ſet him (whom he hath ſet) at his own right hand in heavenly places.

Τὸ ὑπερβάλλον μέγεθος τῆς δυνάμεως αὐτοῦ, the exceeding greatneſs of his power.] Some Interpret theſe two Verſes of the power of God working faith in Believers, making it equal to that which effected the Reſurrection of our Lord, and thence concluding that we are meerly paſſive in the whole work of our Converſion; but as this power is not conſiſtent with perſwaſion, and a rational choice, and if it were exerted, would not render it praiſe worthy in us to turn to God, nor could it truly, and properly be ſaid that we turned, but only that we were turned to God, ſo is not this Expoſition agreeable to the words; for the Apoſtle ſpeaks not of the power exerciſed on us to render us Believers, but of the power which ſhall be exerciſed upon us who believe already, not of the power exerciſed upon our Souls to raiſe them from a death in ſin, but of the power to be exerciſed upon our Bodies, to give them a glorious Reſurrection to Eternal Life.

Ver. 21. Far above all Principalities and powers, and might and dominion, and every name that is named, not only in this world, but in that which is to come.

Οὐ μόνον ἐν τῷ αἰῶνι τούτῳ, not only in this world.] By comparing theſe words with Coloſſ. 2. 10. where Chriſt is ſaid to be the Head of all Principality and Power; and with Philip. 2. 9. where God is ſaid to have given him a Name above every name. I am enclined to think that theſe words only ſignifie that our Lord Chriſt is exalted above all Power that is or ever ſhall be; for not to be done in this world, nor in the world to come, Matth. 12. 32. is never to be done, Luke 12. 32. See Note on Matth. 12. 32.

Ver. 22. And (he) hath alſo put all things under his feet, and hath given him to be Head over all things to (the benefit of) his Church.

Ver. 23. Which is the Body, (and ſo) the fulneſs of him, (even that Jeſus) who filleth all in all.

Πάντα ἐν πᾶσι, all in all.] For he aſcended up on high, that he might fill the Members of his Church with all Gifts neceſſary for the edification of the Saints, till they came to the fulneſs of the meaſure of the ſtature of Chriſt, Chap. 4. 10, 11, 12. In him all fulneſs dwells, and we are πεπληρωμένοι, filled full in him who is the Head of Principalitities and Powers, Coloſſ. 2. 9, 10.

CHAP. II.

Verſe 1. AND you (alſo) hath he (raiſed and) quickened (with, and by Chriſt, Chap. 1. 20. 2. 5.) who were dead in treſpaſſes and ſins.

Νεκροὺς τοῖς ἁμαρτίαις, dead in ſins.] They who interpret this Phraſe thus, you who are dead to ſins by baptiſm, ſeem not to have looked to the fifth Verſe, where they who are here ſaid to be dead in treſpaſſes and ſins, are ſaid to be quickned; or to the parallel place, Col. 2. 13. where it is ſaid, you who were dead in ſins, and the circumciſion of the fleſh, he hath quickned; nor indeed to the Phraſe which is never uſed in the Plural Number in that ſenſe, but only in the Singular, viz. Rom. 6. 2, 10, 11.

Ver. 2. Wherein (in which ſins) in times paſt ye walked, living according to the courſe (and faſhion) of the (evil) world, according to (the ſuggeſtions of) the Prince of the power of the Air, the Spirit which (even) now worketh in the Children of Diſobedience (the heathen world.)

Κατὰ τὸν αἰῶνα, according to the courſe of this World.] That is, according to the Life which Men of this World, deſtitute of Faith in Chriſt, do live; for as Phavorinus ſaith αἰὼν, the word Age is ἡ ζωὴ, καὶ ὁ βίος, the life of man, or τὸ μέτρον τῆς ἀνθρωπίνης ζωῆς, the meaſure of humane life. Thus τὸν αἰῶνα διάγειν in Iſocrates and Zenophon, is to paſs the time of life, τελευτῆσαι τὸν αἰῶνα in Herodotus and Sophocles, is to end this life, or to die.

Κατὰ τὸν Ἄρχοντα τῆς ἐξουσίας τοῦ ἀέρος, according to the Prince of the Power of the Air.] It was the Opinion both of Jews and Heathens, τὸν ἀέρα ψυχῶν ἔμπλεων, that the Air was full of Spirits, called Demons, as (a) Diogenes ſaith in the Life of Pythagoras. And the Jews in the Pirke Avoth teach, à terra uſque ad firmamentum omnia eſſe plena turmis, & præſectis, that from the Earth to the Firmament all things were full of theſe Companies and Rulers; and that there was a Prince over them who was called ὁ Κοσμοκράτωρ, the Governour of the World, or of the Darkneſs of it. See Note on Chapter the ſixth, v. 12. This evil Spirit is here ſaid ἐνεργεῖν, inwardly to work in the Children of Diſobedience; and elſewhere to lead them captive at his will, 2 Tim. 2. 26. and their Converſion is ſtiled a Recovery of them from the power of Satan, Acts 26. 18. And hence we may rationally conclude, that the Good Spirit doth alſo inwardly work in pious Perſons, enabling them to will, and to do, it being unreaſonable to conceive the Evil Spirit ſhould have more power over thoſe wicked Men in whom he dwells, than the Good Spirit hath in thoſe pious Perſons in whoſe hearts he is ſaid to dwell.

Ver. 3. Among whom alſo we all (who are Gentiles) had our converſation in times paſt in the luſts of the fleſh, fulfilling the deſires of the fleſh, and of the mind, (or of our hearts) and were by nature (indeed, by birth among Heathens, and in our Natural Eſtate before Grace) the Children of Wrath, as well as others (of the Gentiles were.)

Καὶ ἦμεν τέκνα φύσει ὀργῆς, and were by Nature

(a) Lib. 8. p. 221.

Children

Children of Wrath.] The Ancient Fathers generally affirm, that Sin cannot owe its original purely to that Nature in which we were born, but only τῇ αὐτεξουσίᾳ, i. e. to the Choice or Conſent of the Will, and that they who make us to be ſinners, meerly by the derivation of our Natures from our Progenitors, do make God, the Authour of our Nature, to be the Authour of our ſin. The ſame they ſeem to do, who ſay that ſin is propagated by Generation, and that an Infant is therefore properly by birth a ſinner, it being God who hath eſtabliſhed that order in the Generation of Mankind, which neither he that begets, nor he that is begotten, can correct, and by whoſe Benediction Mankind encreaſe and multiply, and reaſon will inſtruct us, that to be born or not, is not in our power; and that what 'tis not in our power to avoid, can never be our Crime, nor render us obnoxious to the Wrath of God.

Moreover, the Circumſtances of the Text demonſtrate that the Apoſtle here intendeth no ſuch thing, becauſe he ſpeaks of Perſons dead in (actual) treſpaſſes and ſins, in which in times paſt they had walked, according to the courſe of the (Heathen) World, and the ſuggeſtions of Satan, of Men who had their converſation in times paſt in the fleſh, fulfilling the deſires of the fleſh, and of the mind, and were, on that account, the Children of Wrath, as well as other Heathens. And therefore Suidas, agreeably to the Context, ſaith, That Nature is here put for Cuſtomary Practice, according to the frequent import of that word in prophane Authours; in Philo, (b) in whom Cuſtom is ἐχθρὰ φύσις ἀληθείας, a Nature oppoſite to Truth; and in our common Proverb, That Cuſtom is a ſecond Nature. His words are theſe; (c) When the Apoſtle ſaith, We are by Nature the Children of Wrath, he ſaith not this according to the proper acceptation of the word Nature, for then he had caſt the blame upon the Authour of Nature; but he underſtands by it a long, and evil Cuſtom. And (d) Didymus Alexandrinus ſaith, the Apoſtle intends by it τὸ προσκείμενον τῇ φύσει, ἢ τὸ κατὰ φύσιν, not that which is according to Nature, but which is acceſſory to it.

2. The Fathers do more generally ſay, That to be by Nature the Children of Wrath, is here the ſame as to be (e) truly and indeed ſo. And that the Epheſians, and other Nations, are here ſtiled ſuch, becauſe, in that eſtate, they continually provoked God to wrath by their Idolatries, and fleſhly Luſts; and ſo they are here ſtiled, ſay they, Children of Wrath, partly as being born in Heathenism, and therefore indole Idololatræ, (f) and ſo out of Covenant with God, (in which eſtate the whole Body of the Heathens are repreſented as having no hope of the Bleſſings promiſed to thoſe who were in Covenant with God,) and without (the favour and protection of) God in the world. And Perſons ſo abandoned by him, are in Scripture ſtiled the Objects of his Hatred, comparatively to thoſe who are in Covenant with him; as in theſe words, Jacob have I loved, but Eſau have I hated, Mal. 1. 2. And when God determined to reject, and to forſake his People, he ſtiles them the Generation of his Wrath, Jer. 7. 29. partly as being worthy of his wrath, as wicked Perſons are ſtiled Sons of Death, and of Perdition, as having done thoſe things which rendred them worthy of Death and Deſtruction, i. e. not for Original Sin, but for a long ſeries of Actual and Habitual Tranſgreſſions. And whereas Eſthius ſaith that the word τέκνα, Children, ſhews that this Phraſe relates to what they were from their Nativity, this may be eaſily confuted from theſe following Expreſſions, ſome of them frequent in the Holy Scripture, viz. τέκνα Θεοῦ, the Children of God, John 1. 12. τέκνα σοφίας, the Children of wiſdom, Matth. 11. 19. τέκνα ὑπακοῆς, Children of obedience, 1 Pet. 1. 14. τέκνα τῆς ἐπαγγελίας, Children of the promiſe, oppoſed to Children of the fleſh, Rom. 9. 8. Gal. 4. 28. κατάρας τέκνα, accurſed Children, 2 Pet. 2. 14. for we are not Sons of God, of Wiſdom, of Obedience, of the Promiſe, or the Curſe by Nativity, but by our own Good, or Evil Actions. And whereas he adds, that the Apoſtle writes this in the Perſon of the Jews, this is moſt plainly falſe, the Jews being not under the Prince of the Power of the Air, i.e. the Conduct and the Government of Satan, as were thoſe Heathens whoſe Gods were Demons, and who ſacrificed to Devils, not to God. Moreover, they who are here ſaid to be quickned, when they were dead in treſpaſſes, are ſaid Coloſſ. 2. 13. to be quickned when dead in treſpaſſes, and the uncircumciſion of the fleſh, which cannot poſſibly agree unto the Jews. We all here therefore, is only all the Gentiles, whatſoever Mr. Cl. ſays to the contrary; nor is there any thing more common than for St. Paul to ſpeak thus.

Ver. 10. (Not of works, for this reaſon alſo,) For we are his workmanſhip, created in Chriſt Jeſus to good works, which God hath before ordained (οἷς προητοίμασεν (Sub ἡμᾶς) ὁ Θεὸς, to which God hath before prepared) us, that we ſhould walk therein.

Προητοίμασεν, he hath before prepared us.] i. e. Before we do them, by giving us the knowledge of his will, and the aſſiſtance of his Spirit to perform them; i. e. our entire Renovation, or new Creation, by which alone we are enabled to do works good and acceptable in his ſight, is from God, who by Chriſt Jeſus hath given us the knowledge of our Duty, and by his Grace and Spirit hath enabled us for the performance of it. They miſlead Men who extend all this to our whole Salvation, from the beginning to the end, which though it be ſo of Grace, as to be carried on from the beginning of the new Nature, to the end of our Life, by the aſſiſtance of Gods Grace and Holy Spirit, yet is it not ſo of Grace, as to exclude thoſe Works of Righteouſneſs God hath prepared us to walk in, they being the Conditions requiſite to make Faith ſaving, the terms on which alone we are to enter into life, Matth. 7. 21. Luke 10. 25, 28. Rom. 2. 6, 7, 10. 2 Pet. 1. 5——11. Rev. 22. 14. and according to which we ſhall receive our future Recompence, Rom. 2. 6. 1 Cor. 3. 8. 2 Cor. 5. 10. Gal. 6. 4, 5.

Τῇ γὰρ χάριτί ἐστε σεσωσμένοι, for by grace ye are ſaved.] That we may underſtand aright how we are here, and in other places, ſaid to be ſaved by Grace, and Mercy, and not by Works, it may deſerve to be obſerved,

1. That though the Apoſtle here ſaith by Grace ye are ſaved, not of Works, leſt any man ſhould hence be tempted to infer, that Chriſtians may be ſaved without doing Works of Righteouſneſs, when they have time and opportunity to do them, he expreſly adds, and that by way of reaſon of what he had aſſerted, That We are his workmanſhip created in Chriſt Jeſus to good works, which God hath ordained that we ſhould walk in them. Since then to walk in Righteouſneſs, according to the import of that phraſe in Scripture, implies, that the tenor of our lives be ſpent in Works of Righteouſneſs, ſurely we cannot reaſonably hope to be accepted by God, if we neglect the very end for which we are created in Chriſt Jeſus, or decline that way in which God hath ordained us to walk. Hence the Apoſtle tells the ſame Epheſians, that if they had been taught the Chriſtian Faith, as the truth was in Jeſus, they knew themſelves obliged to put off the old man, and to put on the new, which after God is created in righteouſneſs and true holineſs, and that it was their duty to walk as Children of the light, proving what is acceptable to the Lord, and bringing forth thoſe Fruits of the Spirit, which are in all goodneſs, righteouſneſs, and truth, Chap. 4. 21, 22. Chap. 5. 8, 9.

Note 2*ly*, That when the Apoſtle ſaith we are ſaved not by works, his meaning is not to exclude all Works from having any influence on our Salvation, but only to exclude thoſe Works which are done antecedently to Faith, and to the Renovation of the Holy Ghoſt, or antecedently to their being call'd by the Goſpel to Salvation; this is apparent from the reaſon here aſſigned, why we are not ſaved by Works, viz. becauſe we were not fitted or prepared to do good Works till we were firſt in Chriſt; which as it does exclude good Works performed before Faith in Chriſt, ſo doth it as effectually effectually eſtabliſh thoſe which are afterwards to be performed by virtue of the New Nature given to us, and the renewing of the Holy Ghoſt.

Object. And whereas ſome object againſt this Anſwer, That the Apoſtle ſaith we are ſaved by grace, not of works, leſt any man ſhould boaſt; which boaſting doth not ſeem to be excluded, if our Salvation doth any way depend on Works done by us, whether they be Legal, or Evangelical, done before, or after Faith.

Anſw. To this I anſwer, That though Salvation doth depend upon good Works, or on ſincere Obedience to be performed by us after Faith, yet is all boaſting utterly excluded, (1.) Becauſe the good Works we do, proceed not from our ſelves, but purely from the Grace and Spirit of God; for it is God that worketh in us both to will, and to do of his good pleaſure, Philip. 2. 13. He giveth that new Nature by which we are diſpoſed, and that good Spirit by which we are enabled to do them. As therefore the Apoſtle ſaith of the Gift of Tongues, and Healing, and the like, which were ſo frequent in the Church of Corinth, and were occaſions of their boaſting, who maketh thee to differ in theſe things from others? or what Gift haſt thou which thou haſt not received? and if thou haſt received it, wherefore doeſt thou boaſt as if it were thine own, and thou hadſt not received it? 1 Cor.4.7. So may we here: What good Work doeſt thou which thou haſt not received Grace, and the good Spirit to perform? and if thou haſt received ſtrength from God for the performance of them, wherefore doeſt thou boaſt? This being the Apoſtle's Rule, that we can boaſt of nothing but that which we have not received, or which is purely from our ſelves.

(2*ly*.) Though God is pleaſed to make the doing good Works a neceſſary Condition of Salvation, ſo that without them we ſhall not obtain it, yet is all boaſting utterly excluded, becauſe it is of Grace that our imperfect Works are counted good, and that they are at all rewarded by God. For 'tis alone through that New Covenant which God hath ſtabliſhed in Chriſt Jeſus, that all the Imperfections which adhere to our beſt Performances are pardoned, ſeeing the Covenant of Works requires perfect Obedience, and tendreth no pardon to the leaſt Offence. Now upon what account can any of us boaſt of doing that which in it ſelf deſerveth Condemnation, though through Grace it doth find acceptance? Boaſting, ſaith the Apoſtle, is not excluded by the Law of Works, Rom. 3. 27. 4. 4. becauſe to him that worketh the reward is not reckoned of grace, but of Debt, Rom. 11. 6. Grace and Works that deſerve Juſtification and Salvation, being perfectly oppoſite to one another. Where therefore the Reward is ſtill of Grace, and not of Debt; where it is given on the account of Works imperfect, which deſerve nothing from God, there boaſting is excluded.

Note 3*ly*, That when the Apoſtle ſaith we are ſaved by Grace, there the word ſaved doth not ſignifie the final and compleat Salvation which we ſhall enjoy in Heaven, but only our being placed in the way of Salvation, and put into that eſtate, in which, if we continue grounded and ſettled in the Faith, and be not moved from the hope of the Goſpel, Col.1.23. we ſhall undoubtedly be ſaved. That this may be the ſenſe of theſe Expreſſions, We are ſaved by Grace, and According to his Mercy he ſaved us, Tit. 3. 5. cannot be doubted, if we conſider that this is frequently the import of this Phraſe in other places; as when 'tis ſaid at the Converſion of Zacchæus, This day Salvation is come to this Houſe, Luke 19. 3. that Baptiſm doth ſave us, 1 Pet. 3. 21. that there were added to the Church, τοὺς σωζομένους, the ſaved, Acts 2. 47. See John 4. 22. Rom. 8. 24. 1 Cor. 1. 18. that this muſt be the proper import of it in theſe places, is evident from this Conſideration, That the Perſons to whom the Apoſtle here ſpeaks, were not actually and compleatly ſaved, but only by embracing the Goſpel, which is ſtiled the Word, the Goſpel of Salvation, the power of God through faith to Salvation, were placed in that way which leadeth to Eternal Life, and which is called the way of Salvation. It being therefore of God's free Grace and Mercy, that any Church or Nation is called to the Knowledge of Salvation, and hath the Word of Life revealed to them, it being by that Faith, which is the Gift of God, that they are juſtified, and ſo placed in the way of Salvation, and by his free Gift that they enjoy that Holy Spirit by which they are enabled to work out their Salvation, they may well be ſaid to be ſaved by Grace through Faith, according to thoſe words of the ſame Apoſtle, 2 Tim. 1. 9. He hath ſaved us, and called us with an holy Calling, not according to our works, but according to his purpoſe and grace which was given us in Chriſt. But then this hinders not our compleat Salvation at the Great Day, from being conferr'd upon us, with reſpect to our Works, by him who hath declared he will render to every one according to his works: Glory, honour, and immortality to every one that worketh good, and that by patient continuance in well-doing ſeeketh for it, Rom. 2. 6, 7.

Ver.11. Wherefore remember that ye being (were) in times paſt Gentiles in the fleſh, called the Uncircumciſion, by that (Nation of the Jews) which is called the Circumciſion, (by reaſon of their Circumciſion) made with hands,

Ver. 12. (And) That at that time ye were without (the knowledge of) Chriſt, being aliens from the Commonwealth of Iſrael, (to whom the Meſſiah primarily belonged.) and ſtrangers from the Covenants of Promiſe (made to their Forefathers,) having no (firm and lively) hope hope (of ſpiritual and future bleſſings,) and (being) without (the knowledge of the true) God in the world.

Ἐλπίδα μὴ ἔχοντες, having no hope.] After this Life, 1 Theſſ. 4. 13. I would not have you ſorrowful for them that ſleep, as οἱ λοιποὶ, the reſidue of the world, who have no hope. See Note on 2 Tim. 1. 10.

Ἄθεοι, without the true God.] For then not knowing God, they ſerved τοῖς μὴ φύσει οὖσι θεοῖς, thoſe which by nature were not gods, Gal. 4. 8. even their Wiſe-men changed the truth of God into a lie, and worſhipped the vulgar Deities, Rom. 1. 25. they were Heathens, carried about to dumb Idols, 1 Cor. 12. 2. Hence at their Converſion they are ſaid to turn from Idols to ſerve the living and true God, 1 Theſſ. 1. 9.

Ver. 13. But now in Chriſt Jeſus, ye who ſometimes were afar off (from God, and from the bleſſings imparted to the Jews,) are made nigh (to God, as they were) by the blood of Chriſt.

Ἐγγὺς, nigh, Thoſe Jews who had no Ceremonial Defilement to be purged away, and who had made Atonement for their known Sins, were admitted to come near to God, as being holy, they had a freedom of acceſs to God, in his Tabernacle and Temple, whence they are ſtiled ὁ λαὸς ἐγγίζων αὐτῷ, the People that draw near to God, Lev. 10. 3. Pſal. 65. 4. 148. 14. and God is ſaid to be ὁ θεὸς ἐγγίζων αὐτοῖς, a God near to them, Deut. 7. 4. both by Relation, as having owned them as his Children and Family, and entred into Covenant to be their God, and by his more eſpecial Preſence with them; for the Shechinah, or the glorious Preſence, dwelt among them in the Holy Place. Now all theſe Priviledges, ſaith the Apoſtle, are equally conferr'd upon the Gentiles, they are now made near to God, v. 13. have acceſs to him, v. 18. are fellow Citizens of the Saints, and of the family of God, v. 19. The Shechinah dwells in them as in the Temple, and they are made an habitation of God through the Spirit, v. 21, 22.

Ver. 14. For he is our peace (maker,) who hath made made both (Jew and Gentile) one (as to the priviledges of the Goſpel, Joh. 10. 16. Gal. 4. 28.) and hath broken down the middle wall of partition betwixt us, (i. e. aboliſhed the Ceremonial Law, which was a partition wall betwixt Jew and Gentile.)

Τὸ μεσότοιχον, the middle wall.] This refers to that Partition Wall in the Temple, which ſeparated the Court of the Gentiles from that into which the Jews entred, on which was written that no Alien might go into it; it being ſaith (c) Joſephus, a Sanction of Antiochus, μὴ δεῖν ἀλλόφυλον ἐντὸς τῆς ἁγίας περαίνειν, that no Alien ſhould enter into the Court of the Sanctuary which was encloſed with the Sept. And this Inſcription was writ in Greek and Latin.

Ver. 15. Having aboliſhed in, (or by) his (own) fleſh, (that which made) the enmity (betwixt Jew and Gentile,) even the Law of Commandments (conſiſting) in Ordinances, (peculiar to the Jews,) that he might make of (or create theſe) two (into) one man in himſelf (to whom as their Head, they are both united into one Body,) thus making peace (between both.)

Εἰς ἕνα καινὸν ἄνθρωπον, into one new man.] As being both to walk in newneſs of Life, and by the new Law of Chriſtianity, and Chriſt's new Commandment of Love.

Εἰρήνην, peace.] This Peace Chriſt hath made between Jew and Gentile, by aboliſhing the Ceremonial Law which made the Enmity, and with God, by reconciling both to him by his death.

Ver. 16. And that he might reconcile both unto God in one Body by the Croſs, having ſlain the enmity (betwixt both to God) thereby, (or upon it,) for when we were Enemies, we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son, Rom. 5. 10. 2 Cor. 5. 18. Col. 1. 21.)

Ver. 17. And (having procured this reconciliation, he) came and (ἐλθὼν εὐηγγελίζετο, he coming to his Apoſtles) preached peace to you (Gentiles) which were afar off, and to them that were near (i. e. the Jews.)

Ver. 18. For through him, (thus reconciling us to God,) we both (Jew and Gentile) have acceſs, by one Spirit (of Adoption conferred upon us,) to the Father, (and are enabled to come unto him as our Father, Rom. 8. 15.)

Οἱ ἀμφότεροι, we both.] Hence we learn (1*ſt*,) That Chriſt not only reconciled Jew and Gentile to one another, but that he reconciled both to God, for by him we have προσαγωγὴν acceſs to the Father, a freedom of acceſs to God, v. 18. and Chap. 3. 12. Now where this Phraſe in the New Teſtament is uſed, with reſpect to Chriſt, it ſtill imports the freedom of acceſs, vouchſafed to them who formerly were by their ſins excluded from God's gracious Preſence; this is obtained, ſay theſe words, by virtue of his Blood making our peace by him, reconciling us to God by his Croſs, and bringing them near to God who were afar off. How is he our peace? becauſe the Chaſtiſement which procured our peace was upon him, Iſa. 53. 5. How did he reconcile us to God? but by the Croſs, i. e. by bearing our ſins in his own Body on the Croſs, 1 Pet. 2. 24. By virtue of this Blood the Gentiles, who formerly were Aliens, are made near to God; they who were Strangers, are made God's Domeſticks; they who emphatically were Sinners, Gal. 2. 15. are made fellow Citizens of the Saints; they who were Children of Wrath, v. 2. to them is God reconciled; and after all this, can it be reaſonably denied, that Chriſt hath pacified God to the Gentiles by his Blood? or doth not all this import a Reconciliation on God's part to them?

To ſhew the Reaſon of this Reconciliation, let it be noted, That God being an holy God, none were to come into his Preſence who had any Pollution or Defilement upon them on pain of death, till they were ſanctified or cleanſed from it by ſome Purification or Atonement made for them to God. He dwelt in the Camp of Iſrael; and ſo thoſe Lepers which were ſo unclean as to pollute the Camp, were driven from it, Lev. 13. 46. Num. 5. 2, 3. 2 Kings 15. 5. and thoſe Sin-offerings which were polluted with the Sins of the whole Congregation, were carried out of the Camp, Lev. 16. 21, 22. Hebr. 13. 11.

God dwelt more eſpecially in the Temple, and therefore they who had leſſer Impurities, i. e. who were defiled by the Dead, or by an Iſſue, or a menſtruous Woman, were not to come thither, till they were cleanſed from thoſe Defilements, Lev. 12 4. 15. 31.

Moreover, he being a God of purer eyes then to behold iniquity, they who had committed any ſin of Ignorance, and lay under the guilt of it, were not permitted to come into the Court of the Men of Iſrael, till they had brought their Offering of Atonement. Ainſworth on Numb. 5. 3.

Now God being ſtill the ſame holy God, of purer Eyes then to behold iniquity, the Scriptures of the New Teſtament ſeem as plainly to make our freedom of acceſs to God to depend upon our being ſanctified, or purg'd from our Defilement, and our being delivered from the guilt of ſin by an Atonement made by the Blood of Chriſt for our Iniquities, that ſo they being pardoned, we may have peace with God, and an acceſs unto his favour. This plainly ſeems to be the import of theſe words, Hebr. 9. 12. If the Blood of Bulls and Goats, and the Aſhes of an Heifer ſprinkling the unclean, ſanctifieth to the purifying of the fleſh, and by ſo doing, procureth an admiſſion of the Perſon cleanſed to ſerve God in the Sanctuary, Numb. 19. 9, 12, 17. how much more ſhall the Blood of Chriſt, who through the Eternal Spirit offered himſelf without ſpot to God, purge your Conſcience from dead works, or Works expoſing you to Death, the puniſhment of the Perſon who came unclean into God's Preſence, that ſo you may be admitted) to ſerve the living God.

Ver. 19. Now therefore ye (Gentiles) are no more (to be reckoned as) ſtrangers and foreigners, but (as) fellow Citizens of the Saints, and of the houſhold of God.

Ξένοι, Strangers.] The Proſelytes who joyn'd themſelves to the God of Iſrael, were by the Jews, and by the Scriptures ſtiled Strangers. He that only took upon him to worſhip the true God, and obſerve the Precepts of Noah, was Ger Toſhab, a Stranger permitted to dwell among them, and to worſhip in the Court of the Gentiles: He that was Circumciſed, and became Obedient to the Law of Moſes, was Ger Tzedek, a Proſelyte of Righteouſneſs, but both were called Strangers, according to that Maxim of the Jews, All the Nations of the World are called נכרים Strangers before the God of Iſrael; but the Jews are ſaid to be קרובים near to him. But now, ſaith the Apoſtle, there is no ſuch difference, the believing Gentile being equally admitted with believing Jews to the Priviledges of the New Jeruſalem, and equally related to God as part of his Family.

Ver. 20. And are built upon the foundations of the Apoſtles (of the New,) and the Prophets (of the Old Covenant,) Jeſus Chriſt himſelf being the Corner-ſtone, (who ſupports and cements the whole Building both of believing Jews and Gentiles, and unites both into one Body by his Spirit, Pſal. 117. 22.)

Ver. 21. In whom all the building (being thus) fitly framed (or compacted,) increaſeth into one holy Temple in the Lord. (They then belong not to this building, whoſe Bodies are not an holy Temple to the Lord.)

Ver. 22. In whom ye (Epheſians) alſo are builded together for an habitation of God, through the Spirit. (Thus (d) Philo ſaith, That good Men are Θεοῦ οἶκος, καὶ ἱερὸν ἄγιον, God's Houſe and Holy Temple. See Note on 1 Cor. 6. 20.)

CHAP. III.

Verſe 1. FOR this cauſe I Paul (am) the priſoner of Jeſus Chriſt for you Gentiles.

Τῶν χάριν, for this cauſe.] i. e. Becauſe I aſſert that theſe Priviledges belong equally to the believing Gentiles, though they be not Circumciſed, this being the Reaſon why the Jews ſo fiercely perſecuted him, and forced him to Appeal to Cæſar, Acts 22. 22. 25. 11, 12. 26. 17. and why, after he came to Rome, the Jews preached Chriſt not ſincerely, but out of envy to him, to add affliction to his bonds, Philip. 1. 15, 16.

Ver. 2. (I am, I ſay, a Priſoner for you Gentiles, as you muſt know,) If (ſince) ye have heard of the diſpenſation of the Grace of God which was given me to you-ward, (or for you Gentiles.)

Εἰγε,

Εἴγε ἠκούσατε, if ye have heard.] Hence some raise a second Objection against this Epistle's being written by St. Paul to the Ephesians; for, say they, to them with whom he had so long conversed, there could be no doubt whether they had heard of the dispensation of the Grace of God given him towards them. But indeed, this is no Objection to them who will consider that this Epistle was not written to the Ephesians only, but also to all the faithful in Christ Jesus, many of whom had never seen his Face, or heard his Voice. And 2*ly*, if we consider that he speaks here particularly of the manner of his receceiving this Dispensation, viz. by immediate Revelation from Christ Jesus, of which the Galatians, among whom he had also preached, were ignorant; and therefore the Apostle, in his Epistle to them saith, γνωρίζω ὑμῖν, of this I certifie you, confirming his Assertion with an Oath, Gal. 1. 11, 12, 16. Add to this, 3*ly*, that the Particle εἴγε is not here a Particle of Doubting, but of Affirmation, and is to be rendred as Theophylact doth, ἐπειδὴ since; so the Hebrew אם is often rendred quandoquidem; and so Philo uses the Particle in these words, (a) Εἴγε τὰ ἀκούσια, καὶ τὰ κατ' ἄγνοιαν καὶ ἀδικημάτων λόγον ἔχειν φασί τινες, seeing some say of things done involuntarily, and out of ignorance, that they are not to be accounted sins; and when he says, Abel yet lives, (b) εἴγε καὶ ἀκίνητος ὢν Θεῷ καὶ φωνῆ χρώμενος ἐνδελεχῶς, seeing that he had still a voice to cry to God. And that Sarah is represented by Moses both as barren, and very fruitful, (c) εἴγε τὸ πολυανθρωπότατον τῶν ἐθνῶν ἐξ αὐτῆς ὁμολογεῖ προΐεσθαι, since he confesses that from her should proceed the most populous of Nations. See also the Note on Chap. 1. 15.

Ver. 3. How that he (ὅτι, for he) by (particular) revelation made known to me the mystery (of the calling of the Gentiles, Gal. 1. 16. Acts 9. 15. 22. 21.) as I wrote before in few words, (viz. Chap. 1. 9, 10, 11, 12. 2. 19.)

Ver. 4. Whereby when you read (εἰς ὃ ἀναγινώσκοντες, to which attending) you may understand my knowledge in the mystery of Christ, (touching the calling of the Gentiles.)

Ver. 5. Which in other ages was not made known to the Sons of Men, as it is now revealed to his holy Apostles and Prophets by the Spirit (of wisdom and of knowledge given to them to discern all mysteries, 1 Cor. 12. 8. 13. 2.)

Ver. 6. (It being not before revealed, as now it is) That the Gentiles should be fellow Heirs (of God with the believing Jews,) and of the same Body with them, and partakers of his promise, (the promise of the Spirit, Gal. 3. 14. in (and through) Christ (only) by (virtue of) the Gospel (preached to them, and believed by them.)

Ὡς νῦν ἀπεκαλύφθη, as it hath been now revealed.) It was in the general made known, that in Abraham should all the Families of the Earth be blessed; and that Christ should be a Light to the Gentiles; of which see Note on v. 10. But it was not made known to the Jews that the Gentiles should be fellow Heirs with them of the same Salvation, and Celestial Inheritance. For that this was matter of admiration to the first Jewish Converts, we learn from these words, Then hath God also granted the Gentiles repentance unto life, Acts 11. 18. They did not know, or believe, that the Gentiles should be made Members of the same Body, and admitted to the same Priviledges, and made Partakers of the same Spirit with them. Hence the believing Jews ἐξέστησαν, were in an extasie, when they saw that the Gift of the Holy Ghost was poured on the Gentiles, Acts 10. 45. Gal. 3. 14. And much less did they know that the Partition Wall which made the Distance and Enmity between them, should be taken away by the Messiah, as the Apostle here teacheth v. 14, 15. that the hand-writing of Ordinances was to be blotted out on this account, Coloss. 2. 14. and that these Priviledges were to be conferr'd upon them without Circumcision, or Observation of the Law of Moses. They rather thought they were either first to be made Jews, and then Christians, or only were to come as Slaves and Drudges to them who were the Children of the Kingdom. And hence the Apostle spends a great part of the Epistles to the Romans and Galatians, to assert this Priviledge of the Gentiles against the Judaizing Christians. In a word, to the Jews anciently belonged υἱοθεσία, the Sonship, and so the Inheritance, for if Sons then Heirs, Rom. 8. 17. and the Promises, Rom. 9. 4. and they conceived that none were ever to be admitted into their Body, or to partake of those Priviledges unless they were Circumcised, and became obedient to the Law of Moses, Acts 15. 1. which they thought never was to cease, or to be antiquated. And therefore, say the Greek Fathers, the Apostle here declares that God now under the Gospel Dispensation equally admitted the believing Gentiles to these Priviledges by Faith without Circumcision, or obedience to the Law of Moses.

Καὶ Προφήταις, and to the Prophets.] That the Apostle here understands the Prophets of the New Testament, or those who in the first Ages of the Church received the Prophetick Grace, and by it understood all Mysteries, 1 Cor. 13. 2. the words ὡς νῦν, as now it is revealed under the Gospel to the Prophets, will not suffer us to doubt. And this fully answers all the Objections of Estius against the Expostion I have given of the former words

Ver. 7. Of which (Goſpel) I was made a Miniſter, according to the Gift of the Grace of God given to me, (to be the Apoſtle of the Gentiles, for which work I was enabled) by the effectual working of his power, (in ſigns and wonders, &c. Rom. 15. 19.)

Κατὰ τὴν δωρεὰν τ χάριτ, according to the gift of Grace.] That the Apoſtolate is by St. Paul oft ſtiled Grace, ſee the Note on Rom. 1. 5. and that in this ſenſe he underſtands the Gift of Grace here, is evident from the following words.

Ver. 8. Unto me, (I ſay,) who (by reaſon of my former perſecutions of the Church of Chriſt, 1 Cor. 15. 9.) am leſs then the leſt of all Saints, is this Grace given, that I ſhould preach among the Gentiles the unſearchable Riches of Chriſt, (i. e. the exceeding Bleſſings to be obtained by faith in him.)

Ver. 9. And that I ſhould let all men (Jews and Gentiles) ſee, what is the fellowſhip of the Myſtery (of the Calling of the Gentiles to be thus fellow heirs with the Jews,) which hath been hid from the beginning of the World, (ἀπὸ τῶν αἰώνων, from former Ages,) in (the purpoſe of) God, who created all things (belonging to the old and new Creation) by Jeſus Chriſt.

Τὰ πάντα κτίσαντι, who created all things.] The Ancients commonly ſay that God the Father is ὁ Πρώτως δημιουργὸς, the Prince, and chief Creator of the World, as being the Original of all creating Power, and he as it were commanding, and the Son executing his Command, who is hence ſtiled, (d) ὁ πρωτουργὸς δημιουργὸς, the immediate Creator, or αὐτουργὸς τ κόσμ, the Artificer of the World. Hence (e) Irenæus ſo often ſaith, Patrem omnia feciſſe per verbum, or verbo virtutis, and that the Son and Holy Spirit are (f) quaſi manus, as it were the hands of God, by which he made all things, and to both which all the Angels are ſubject.

Ver. 10. To the intent that (Gr. ἵνα, that) now the manifold wiſdom of God might be made known to the principalities and powers in heavenly places, by the (things done in and for the) Church.

Τὰς ἀρχὰς κ τὰς ἐξουσίας, to the Principalities and Powers.] This Phraſe, though uſed of evil Spirits, Chap. 6. 12. may be underſtood of good Angels, the Myſtery of Godlineſs being then ſeen of Angels, 1 Tim. 3. 16. and the things which the Apoſtles preached by the Holy Ghoſt, being ſuch as the Angels deſired to look into, 1 Pet. 1. 12. But whereas from thoſe words v. 6. was not made known, &c. Mr. le Clerk ſaith thus, The ſame thing which is there ſaid in other Ages not to have been made known to the Sons of Men, is ſaid here to have been unknown alſo to Angels; which being ſo, I confeſs I do not well underſtand, how they who are neither Prophets, nor Angels, can find out ſo many places in the Prophets, in which the Calling of the Gentiles is manifeſtly and directly foretold, for certainly if it was revealed to the Prophets, they underſtood it; and if it could be gathered from the literal ſenſe of any Prophecies, the Angels might have underſtood it by thoſe Prophecies. Whereas I ſay he deſcants thus, What would he have? would he deny, againſt the plain and frequent ſayings of St. Paul, That the Calling of the Gentiles was revealed to, and plainly foretold by the Prophets, as his words do import? Let him if he can, confute St. Paul proving it againſt him, That the Lord had commanded the Gentiles ſhould be called in theſe words of the Prophet Iſaiah, I have ſet thee to be a Light to the Gentiles, and to be for Salvation to the ends of the Earth, Acts 13. 46, 47. And his four other Proofs from the Prophets, Moſes, David, and Eſaias, That the Gentiles were to glorifie God for his Mercy to them in Chriſt Jeſus that Root of Jeſſe, who was to riſe up to govern the Gentiles, and in whom the Gentiles were to truſt, Rom. 15. 9, 10, 11, 12. Yea, let him confute the Apoſtle James, ſaying, Symeon hath declared how God at firſt did viſit the Gentiles, to take out of them a People for his Name; and to this agree the words of the Prophets. After this I will build again the Tabernacle of David, &c. that the reſidue of men might ſeek after the Lord, and all the Nations upon whom my Name is called, Acts 15. 14—17. Nor doth the Apoſtle any where hint, that the Calling of the Gentiles was not revealed to, or by the Prophets, but only that it was not ſo made known in all the Particularities of it, ὡς νῦν, as it is now diſcovered by the Apoſtles and Prophets of the N. Teſtament. See the Note on v 6. 2*ly*, It was alſo known to, and preached by the Angels, declaring the glad Tydings of great Joy which ſhould be to all Nations through Chriſt, Luke 2. 10, 11. He being as well a light to enlighten the Gentiles, as the glory of his People Iſrael. Nor does the Apoſtle here ſay, as he ſuggeſts, that this was unknown to the Angels, but only that what was before made known to them by Prophecies, was now made known to them by the Church, i. e. the Gentiles actually called; though all the Circumſtances mentioned Note on v. 6. might not fully be known before even to them.

Ver. 12. In whom we have boldneſs (or freedom,) and acceſs with confidence (to God the father,) by the faith of him, (i.e. the faith we have in him, as our Mediator, ſee Note on Chap. 2. v. 18.)

Ver. 13. Wherefore I (Paul the Priſoner of Jeſus Chriſt for you Gentiles, v. 1.) deſire that you faint not, (that you be not diſheartned,) at my tribulations for you, which is (rather matter of) your glory, (you having cauſe to glory, that I your Apoſtle ſuffer ſo much for the Goſpel I preach to you, this being to you a confirmation of the truth of it.)

Ver. 14. (And) For this cauſe I bow my knees to the Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, (praying to him.)

Ver. 15. Of whom the whole Family in Heaven and Earth is named, (the Angels in Heaven, and Saints on Earth, being ſtiled the Sons of God.)

Πᾶσα πατριὰ, the whole Family.] It is frequent with the Jews to make mention of the Angels as the Family in Heaven, and of Men, eſpecially thoſe that are in Covenant with God, as his Family on Earth; as when they ſay, God doth nothing but he firſt conſults with his Family של מעלה above, that is, with the Angels. And that he that addicts himſelf to the ſtudy of the Divine Law for the ſake of the Law, conciliates to himſelf peace with the Family above, and with the Family below, that is, with Angels in Heaven, and Men on Earth. They are alſo called קדישי עלאי the Saints above, Car. in Job 15. 15. and the Sons of God, as in thoſe words of Job 1. 6. 2. 1. And on a day came Ἄγγελοι Θεοῦ, the Sons of God; and Chap. 38. 7. Where waſt thou when ἄγγελοί μου all the Sons of God ſhouted for joy; and ſo are all true Believers ſtiled; for to as many as believed he gave power to be called the Sons of God, 1 John 1. 12. and they at the Reſurrection ſhall be like the Angels, and be the Sons of God, Luke 20. 36.

Ver. 16. That he would grant unto you according to the riches of his glory, (i.e. according to his glorious riches,) to be (ſtill more) ſtrengthened with might by his Holy Spirit in the inward man.

Ver. 17. That Chriſt may dwell in your hearts by faith, that you being (firmly) rooted, and grounded in love (to him who ſent his Son to die for you.)

Ver. 18. May be able to comprehend (together) with all Saints, what is the breadth, and length, and depth, and height (of this myſterious love towards you).

Ver. 19. And may (be able to) know the love of Chriſt, which (in its full extent, even) paſſeth knowledge, that you may be filled with all the fulneſs of God.

Τὸ πλάτος, καὶ μῆκος, &c. the breadth, length, depth, and height.] By the breadth of this love, ſome of the Fathers underſtand the great extent and generality of Chriſt's Affection, his Death being deſigned for the benefit of all Perſons, Jew and Gentile, through all Ages from Adam to the end of the World, and in all places, he having by it reconciled things in Heaven, and things in the Earth, Chap. 1. 10. By the depth of it, ſay they, is ſignified the greatneſs of his Humiliation, love to Mankind having induced him to change the form of God, for that of a Servant, humbled the Lord of Life to an ignominious and painful Death, and brought him from the higheſt Heavens to the loweſt Hell, into which they conceive he deſcended for our ſakes. The length of it imports, ſay they, his love to us from the beginning of the World, we being choſen in Chriſt from the beginning, Chap. 1. 4. 3. 11. The Height of his affection is manifeſted, ſay they, in that being now exalted to the right hand of Majeſty; he is ſtill there employed in Acts of greateſt Kindneſs to us, uſing his whole power in Heaven, and in Earth, for the benefit of his Church. But it ſeems more natural to ſay, that the Apoſtle by enumerating theſe Dimenſions, only intends to ſignifie the exceeding greatneſs of the Love of Chriſt, which paſſeth knowledge. Thus Job ſpeaking of the unſearchable Wiſdom of God, and his unfathomable Perfections, puts theſe Enquiries, Canſt thou ſearch him out to perfection? It is higher then the Heaven; what canſt thou do? deeper then Hell, what canſt thou know? the meaſure of it is longer then the Earth, and the breadth of it then the Sea, Job 11. 7, 8. And the Son of Syrac ſaith, The height of Heaven, and the breadth of the Earth, the abyſs and wiſdom, who can ſearch out? Ecclus. 1. 3. And the Apoſtle cries out, O the depth of the wiſdom and knowledge of God! how unſearchable are his judgments, &c. Rom. 11. 33. And in this ſenſe theſe four Dimenſions will chiefly be deſigned to import what the Apoſtle ſtiles, v. 8. the unſearchable riches of the love of Chriſt. It therefore ſeems unreaſonable to think, that the love of Chriſt paſſing knowledge ſhould import only the love of Chriſt paſſing, i. e. excelling the knowledge, or skill in myſtical interpretations, which the Gnoſticks pretended to. For as the word γνῶσις put abſolutely, hath no ſuch import, that I know of, in the Holy Scripture; ſo after the mention of all theſe Dimenſions, and the unſearchable riches of it, v. 8. it ſeems a very faint expreſſion, to ſay it ſurpaſſed that vain and inſignificant Knowledge to which the Gnoſticks pretended, their myſtical Interpretations recorded by Irenæus, being above meaſure vain and impious, even a Myſtery of Iniquity. And as for the Phraſe ὑπερβάλλουσα τῆς γνώσεως, it is juſtified by by (f) Ariſtotle, who hath it twice in one Chapter, viz. ὑπερβάλλειν τὴν συμμετρίαν, to exceed the meaſure, ὑπερβάλλειν τῶν πλωτήρων, to excel other Navigators.

Εἰς πᾶν τὸ πλήρωμα τοῦ Θεοῦ, with all the fulneſs of God.] Εἰς pro ἐν, ſee Note on 1 Coloſſ. 20. that is, ſay ſome, with the higheſt degrees of Faith and Love; or with all fulneſs of Spiritual Gifts, eſpecially thoſe of Knowledge and Wiſdom, which might enable them to comprehend the greatneſs of this Love. Thus Chap. 4. 10. He aſcended up on high, that he might fill all things with Spiritual Gifts mentioned v. 10. that he might give gifts unto men, v. 1. and Chap. 1. 23. his Church is ſtiled the fulneſs of him that filleth all in all; i. e. who filleth all his Members with his Gifts.

Ver. 20. Now unto him that is able to do exceedingly, above all that we ask or think, according to the power (of the Holy Ghoſt) that worketh in us, (and ſo miraculouſly confirms his Doctrine to the World.)

Ver. 21. Unto him (I ſay) be aſcribed all glory in the (Aſſemblies of the) Church by (and through) Jeſus Chriſt, (through whom we offer up all our Prayers and Praiſes, Hebr. 13. 15. Eph. 5. 20.) throughout all Ages, world without end. Amen.

CHAP. IV.

Verſe 1. I Therefore the priſoner of the Lord (ἐν Κυρίῳ, in bonds for Chriſt,) beſeech you that you would walk worthy of the Vocation wherewith ye are called.

Ver. 2. With all lowlineſs and meekneſs, with long-ſuffering, (and ſo) forbearing one another in love.

Ver. 3. Endeavouring (thus) to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace.

Note here from the Fathers, That ἐὰν ἡ ἀγάπη ἔχωμεν ἀνεξόμεθα ἀλλήλων, where love is retained, there will be mutual forbearance. And from Zanchy, That Peace cannot be preſerved without that mutual forbearance, and that Humility which excludes, and that Meekneſs which is oppoſite to Anger and Contention.

Ver. 4. (For you know that) There is one body (of the whole Church,) and one Spirit (which animates the whole Body,) even as you have been called in one hope of your Calling (i. e. and you know alſo, that you are all called to the ſame hope of Eternal Life.)

Ἓν πνεῦμα, one Spirit.] From theſe, and the former words, the unity of the Spirit, it ſeems plain to me that the union of the Myſtical Body of the Church Catholick conſiſts in this, that they all have the ſame Spirit communicated to them from their Head Chriſt Jeſus. For the whole Body of Chriſtians is here ſaid to have one Spirit, and their Unity is ſtiled the Unity of the Spirit. The Body is one, ſaith the Apoſtle, 1 Cor. 12. 12. for by one Spirit we are all baptized into one Body, v. 13. And to the whole Body of the Church of Corinth, he ſpeaks thus, Know ye not that you are the Temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you? 1 Cor. 3. 16. Know ye not that your Body is the Temple of the Holy Ghoſt that is in you, Chap. 6. 19. Chriſt, ſaith the Apoſtle here, Chap. 2. 16, 17, 18. hath reconciled both Jew and Gentile in one Body unto God, and hath made peace between them, for by him we have both acceſs by one Spirit to the Father: ἔχομεν ἐν, and therefore having thus one Spirit, by which we are made one Body, and Sons of the ſame Father, we are all fellow Citizens of the Saints, and of the Family of God: and are all built up together into an habitation of God through the Spirit. Now hence it follows,

1*ſt*, That only ſincere Chriſtians are truly Members of that Church Catholick of which Chriſt Jeſus is the Head, ſince the whole Body is united to him by the Communication of the Holy Spirit, whom the wicked of the World cannot receive, John 14. 17. they being ſenſual, having not the Spirit, Jude 19.

2*ly*, That nothing can unite any Profeſſor of Chriſtianity to this one Body, but the participation of the Spirit of Chriſt; and therefore nothing elſe can make him a true Member of that Church which is his Body. Hence the Apoſtle doth inform us negatively, That if any man have not the Spirit of Chriſt dwelling in him, he is none of his, Rom. 8. 9, 11. and affirmatively, That by this we know that he abideth in us, by the Spirit that he hath given us, 1 Joh. 3. 24. And again, by this we know that he abideth in us, and we in him, becauſe he hath given us of his Spirit, Chap. 4. 13. for as many as are lead by the Spirit of God, they are the Sons of God, Rom. 8. 14. and becauſe we are Sons, God hath ſent the Spirit of his Son into our hearts, Gal. 4. 6. It therefore muſt be owned as a certain Truth, that nothing can unite us to that Church and Body of which Chriſt Jeſus is the Head, but the participation of the Spirit.

3*ly*, That no Error in Judgment, or Miſtake in Practice, which doth not tend to deprive a Chriſtian of the Spirit of Chriſt, can ſeparate him from the Church of Chriſt.

4*ly*, Hence it demonſtratively follows, That no Church Governours jointly, or ſeverally, can be by God appointed to be the living Judges, or the infallible Directors of our Faith. For ſince in Matters of Faith we muſt have a Judgment of Certainty, we cannot own them as ſuch by virtue of that aſſiſtance of the Holy Ghoſt, which alone can make them ſuch, till we are certain that they belong to that Church of which Chriſt Jeſus is Head, and to which only the Promiſe of the Spirit doth belong; i. e. till we are certain they are ſincere and upright Chriſtians. Since therefore God hath given us no certain Rule to know this by, we may reſt ſatisfied that he deſigned no ſuch Magiſterial Guides ſhould be continued in his Church.

Ver. 5. (There is alſo to us Chriſtians) One Lord, one Faith (in the Lord,) one Baptiſm, (by which we do profeſs this Faith.)

Μία πίστις, one Faith.] It plainly is aſſerted in the Holy Scriptures, that there is one common Faith, Tit. 1. 4. one like precious Faith, 2 Pet. 1. 1. of all that bear the Name of Chriſtians. An unity of Faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, to which we muſt all arrive, Eph. 4.13. A Faith once delivered to the Saints, Jude 3. for which we muſt ſtrive earneſtly, and in which we muſt build up our ſelves; a Faith of the Goſpel, for which we are exhorted to contend as with one Soul, Philip. 1. 27. But vain is here the Inference of the Papiſts, That this one Faith muſt be either theirs, and then we cannot be ſaved without it; or ours, and then they cannot be ſaved; for this one Faith, into which all Chriſtians were baptized, contains neither the Doctrines in which they differ from us, nor we from them, but only the Apoſtles Creed, which the whole Church of Chriſt for many Centuries, received as a perfect Syſtem of all things neceſſarily to be believed in order to Salvation; as I have fully proved, Treatiſe of Tradition, Part the Second, Chapter VII. Sect. 4, 5, 6, 7, 8.

Ver. 6. One God and Father of us all, who is above all (by his Eſſence,) and through all (by his Providence,) and in you all (by his Spirit.)

Εἷς Θεὸς, one God.] Here ſay, the Socinians that God who is ſtiled one, is alſo ſtiled the Father, and to him is aſcribed this Epithete ſo common among the Philoſophers, to denote the Supream Deity, that he is ὁ ὢν ἐπὶ πᾶσι, God over all. But to this it is anſwered,

1*ſt*, That we deny not that God the Father is one God over all, or that there is one who is both one God, and the Father, only we add that there is alſo one who is one God of the ſame Eſſence, and the Son, and ſo alſo ſay we of the Holy Spirit; and that as the one Lord, and the one Spirit, do not exclude the Father from being both Lord, and Spirit, ſo neither doth the one God and Father exclude the Son or Holy Spirit from being God, but only from being God the Father. It alſo is to be noted, that the Primitive Fathers before the Nicene Council, did not ſcruple to diſtinguiſh Chriſt from God the Father, by ſtiling him another God from the Maker of all things, ὑπὲρ ὃν ἄλλον Θεὸν οὐκ ἔστι, above whom there is no other God. (a) Juſtin Martyr twice deſcribes the Father by this diſtinctive Character, that he is God ὑπὲρ ὃν ἄλλον Θεὸν οὐκ ἔστι, above whom there is no other God, ſaying, that Chriſt did nothing but what ὁ τὸν κόσμον ποιήσας ὑπὲρ ὃν ἄλλον οὐκ ἔστι Θεὸς, the Maker of the World, above whom there is no other God would have him do; and yet he at leaſt twenty times aſſerts that Chriſt is God, and Lord, and that he is the Perſon (b) δι' οὗ ἐποίησε τὸν οὐρανὸν καὶ τὴν γῆν, by whom he made the Heaven and the Earth, and by whom he will renew them; the Word of God, δι' οὗ ἐποίησε τὸν οὐρανὸν καὶ τὴν γῆν, καὶ ἡ πᾶσα κτίσις ἐγένετο, by whom he made the Heaven and the Earth, and the whole Creation was made. So (c) Irenæus often ſaith, that the Father is only to be called God and Lord; and yet he adds, that this is not ſaid to exclude the Son who is in the Father, and hath the Father in him, and hath his Principality in all things.

Ver. 7. But (though the Body is but one, yet) unto every one of us (who are Members of this Body) is given Grace (enabling us to ſerve this Body) according to the meaſure of the Gift of Chriſt.

Ἐδόθη ἡ χάρις, is given Grace.] Theſe Graces being therefore the Gift of Chriſt, and not our own, no one ſhould be puffed up, or deſpiſe others on the account of them; nor ſhould any envy others to whom he thinks fit to give them in an higher meaſure.

Ver. 8. Wherefore (to manifeſt this) he (the Pſalmiſt) ſaith, when he (Chriſt) aſcended up on high, he lead captivity (Satan and Death) captive, (Hebr. 2. 14. Judg. 5. 12.) and gave gifts unto men, (i. e. received them, Pſal. 68. 19. to give to them.)

Διὸ λέγει, wherefore he ſaith.] That this Pſalm relates to the Meſſiah, we learn from the Jews themſelves, who interpret this Pſalm of him, for the words v. 32. are by them thus paraphraſed, All Nations ſhall bring Gifts to the King Meſſiah, Schemoth Rabbah, Sect. 15. Let it be alſo noted, that Chriſt triumphed over Death and Satan on the Croſs, Coloſſ. 2. 15. but he led Satan captive more gloriouſly, when after his Aſcenſion he poured his Holy Spirit in his Apoſtles and Diſciples, and by that Spirit enabled them to caſt out Devils in his Name, and turn Men from the power of Satan unto God, Acts 26. 18. He alſo then triumphed over Death moſt ſignally, when thus aſcending he became Lord over the Dead, and had the Keys of Death and Hades in his hands, Rom. 14. 9. Rev. 1. 18.

Καὶ ἔδωκε δόματα, and gave Gifts.] That is, ſaith Dr. Hammond, He received Gifts to give to Men, from the Nature of the Hebrew לקח which ſignifies both to give, and to receive. But ſaith Mr. Cl. When the word ſignifies to receive, there follows a Dative Caſe, Exod. 25. 2. whereas the Hebrew here hath באדם which has made Learned Men conjecture that St. Paul read לאדם to man. But firſt this is not always true, for Hoſ. 14. 2. we read thus take away iniquity וקח טוב and give good; and where a Dative Caſe is added, an Accuſative either goes before it, as, thou haſt received מתנות Gifts for Men; and Judg. 14. 2. קחו אותה Give her to me; and 2. 3. or elſe follows after it, as 1 Kings 3. קחו לי חרב Give me a Sword. See Chap. 17. 10. Exod. 18. 2. 25. 2. and as for ב in באדם who knows not that it ſometimes ſignifies pro, for, and ſometimes only is the ſign of the Dative Caſe. See Naldius de Partic. Hebr. p. 158, 163.

Ver. 9. Now that he aſcended, what is it but (a demonſtration) that he deſcended firſt into the lower parts of the Earth.

Εἰς τὰ κατώτερα μέρη τῆς γῆς, into the lower parts of the Earth.] That is, into the Grave. So Pſal. 63. 9. They that ſeek my Soul to deſtroy it, ſhall go into the lower parts of the Earth: i. e. they ſhall fall by the Sword, v. 10. Iſa. 44. 23. Sing O Heavens, ſhout the lower parts of the Earth.

Ver. 10. He that deſcended (thus into the lower parts of the Earth) is the ſame who (after his Reſurrection) aſcended up far above all Heavens, that he might fill all things (with his Gifts, according to his promiſe, that when he was aſcended, he would ſend the Spirit upon his Apoſtles and Diſciples, John 14. 17. 15. 26. 16. 7. Luke 24. 49.

Ὑπεράνω πάντων τῶν οὐρανῶν, far above all Heavens.] He being made higher than the Heavens, Hebr. 7. 26. that is, then the Airy and the Starry Heavens, and aſcending above them into the Preſence of God, who hath ſet his Glory above the Heavens, Pſal. 8. 1. and is exalted above them, Pſal. 57. 5, 11. 108. 4, 5.

Ver. 11. And (accordingly) he gave ſome Apoſtles (to reveal his will,) ſome Prophets (to explain the Myſteries of Faith,) and ſome Evangeliſts (to propagate this Faith to other Nations, and ſome Paſtors and Teachers (to inſtruct others in it.)

Τοὺς δὲ ποιμένας καὶ διδασκάλους, and ſome Paſtors and Teachers.] That theſe Paſtors and Teachers were in the firſt Ages Men of extraordinary Gifts, is evident from this very place; for the preceding words, He gave Gifts unto Men, ſome Apoſtles, ſome Prophets, &c. ſhew that all the Perſons mentioned here were Partakers of the Gifts which Chriſt, aſcending up on high, and ſending down the Holy Spirit, gave to Men. Hence, among the different χαρίσματα Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt, are reckoned διδασκαλία teaching, Rom. 12. 6, 7. and among the Gifts exerciſed in their Aſſemblies διδαχὴ Doctrine, 1 Cor. 14. 6, 26. among the Perſons who had received the διαιρέσεις χαρισμάτων, diverſities of Gifts, are reckoned after Prophets διδάσκαλοι Teachers, 1 Cor. 12. 28. Rom. 12. 6, 7. and here. And ſo (d) Tertullian makes mention of them as Perſons educated with the Grace of Knowledge. The Paſtors ſeem probably the ſame with the κυβερνήσεις Governments, 1 Cor. 12. 28. and the ποιμένες, Rom. 12. 8. And it is evident from both thoſe places, that they were alſo Men indued with thoſe Spiritual Gifts there mentioned. Hence it is obſervable of theſe Doctors, that when the extraordinary Gifts to the Church ceaſed, their very Names grew out of uſe, they being very rarely mentioned in the ſucceeding Ages of the Church.

Ver. 12. (And this variety of Gifs was conferred upon them) For the perfecting (Gr. compacting) of the Saints (into one Body) for the work of the Miniſtry, (that they who had them might miniſter to the Temporal Neceſſities, as did the Deacons; and the Spiritual Concerns of others, as did the Apoſtles, Prophets, Evangeliſts, Paſtors and Doctors) for the edifying of the Body of Chriſt (in Faith and Love.)

Ver. 13. Till we all come in the unity of the Faith, and knowledge (or acknowledgment) of the Son of God unto a perfect Man, (i. e. to perfection in knowledge of the Faith, and of the will of God, Coloſſ. 1. 28.) unto the meaſure of the ſtature of the fulneſs of Chriſt; (i. e. ſo as to be Chriſtians of a full maturity, and ripeneſs in all the Graces derived from Chriſt Jeſus to the Body.)

Ver. 14. That (ſo arriving to this perfection in faith and knowledge) we henceforth (may) be no more Children toſſed to and fro, and carried about with every wind of Doctrine by the ſlight of Men, and cunning craftineſs, whereby they lye in wait to deceive, (Gr. by the subtilty of Men, through their craftiness for the managing of deceit.)

Ver. 15. But speaking (or keeping) the truth in love, may grow up into (or increase in) him in all things, who is the Head even (into) Christ.

Note. From these five Verses the Papists argue for an Infallible Guide thus: 'Christ 'gave Apostles, Pastors, and Teachers, that 'Christians might not be tossed to and fro 'with every wind of Doctrine; this end 'could not be compassed by giving us such 'Guides and Instructors in Belief, as were 'meerly fallible, and who might lead us into 'Circumvention of Error. Moreover, God 'gave such Pastors to his Church, till we all 'come to the Unity of the Faith, which will 'not be till the last days of all, wherefore 'till the end of the World, the World shall 'be provided of them, and by them be secured from being like Children tossed too and 'fro.

Answ. I answer, That this Text is so far from proving a Succession of Infallible Guides in Matters of Faith to the Worlds end, that it seems rather to establish the Doctrine of the Protestants touching the fulness and perspicuity of the Holy Scripture in all necessary Articles of Christian Faith, and to overthrow the pretended Necessity of Infallible Guides in order to that end. For,

1. To come to a perfect Man, as to the Unity of Faith, and Knowledge of the Son of God, is in the Scripture Language to be sufficiently instructed in the Articles of the Christian Faith and Knowledge. Thus when our Lord saith to the young Man, If thou wilt be perfect sell all that thou hast, Matth. 19. 21. by comparing these words with those in St. Mark and St. Luke, Mark 10. 21. one thing is lacking, or is wanting to thee, Luke 18. 22. It is evident that to be perfect there, is, not to be wanting in the Knowledge or Practise of any thing to be done, that this young Man might have Eternal Life.

When St. Paul saith, We speak Wisdom, ἐν τοῖς τελείοις, among them that are perfect, 1 Cor. 2. 6. the meaning is, say the Greek Commentators (e), περὶ τῆς τελείαν ἐφαδιξαμένοις πίστιν, among those who are perfectly instructed in the Faith; and when he saith, As many as are perfect let us mind the same thing, he speaks of Persons fully instructed in their Christian Liberty; and when he saith, Leaving the Principles of the Oracles of Christ, let us go on to perfection, he calls us to advance to a more full Instruction in the Faith and Knowledge of Christ. See Note on 1 Cor. 2. 6.

2*ly*, Note that the Apostles and first Preachers of the Gospel, were made Ministers of his Church, πληρῶσαι τὸν λόγον τοῦ Θεοῦ, to teach fully the word of God, Col. 1. 25, 26. To teach every Man in all wisdom, that they might present every Man perfect in Christ Jesus, v. 28. and accordingly, departing from the Churches planted by them, they commended them only to the Word of Grace which was able to build them up, and give them an Inheritance among all that are sanctified, Acts 20. 32.

3*ly*, Observe that the Apostles, Prophets, Evangelists, Pastors and Teachers here named, were given at our Lord's Ascension for these ends; for when he ascended up on high, &c. he actually gave some Apostles, &c. and that even those Pastors and Teachers had their χαρίσματα, or Supernatural Gifts of the Holy Spirit to fit them for that end. Whence it demonstratively follows, that those Gifts ceasing soon after, a succession of such Persons was neither promised, nor was necessary to this end; for if so, Christ must be charged with breach of Promise, and being wanting to the Church in what was necessary for the obtainment of those ends.

4*ly*, Observe that these Apostles, Prophets, Evangelists, Pastors and Teachers, indued with these Supernatural Gifts for the work of the Ministry, for the edifying of the Body of Christ into a perfect Man, not doing all, or any of these things in Person since their death, and yet being given for the accomplishing these ends, must be acknowledged to have done all these things, as far as they were needful, by some other way. Now there being no other way in which they could do it, but by their Writings left behind them as a Rule of Faith, and by which, they being dead, yet speak, it follows that these Writings, duly attended to, must be sufficient for these ends, and consequently they must both with sufficient fulness and perspicuity instruct us in all the necessary Articles of Christian Faith and Knowledge. Hence (e) Chrysostom informs us, that they writ the Gospel πρὸς κατάρτισμὸν τῶν ἁγίων, for the perfecting of the Saints, for the work of the Ministry, for the edifying of the Body of Christ. In a word, it is evident this Text doth as much prove a Necessity of Apostles, Prophets, and Evangelists, in all future Ages of the Church, to keep her Members fixed in the Truth, as of Pastors and Doctors, these Apostles, Prophets, and Evangelists being here placed in the first rank of those whom God had given for this end: Since therefore these Apostles, Prophets, and Evangelists were only given in the first Ages of the Church, it evidently follows that the Persons mentioned in this Text, were not given them to do this to the Worlds end.

Ver.

Ver. 16. From whom the whole Body fitly joyned together, and compacted by that which every joynt ſupplieth, according to the effectual working in the meaſure of every part, (Gr. compacted and cemented together by every joynt of ſupply, according to its power in proportion of every part,) maketh increaſe of the Body to the edifying of it ſelf in love.

Ἐξ ἧς, from whom.] That is, from which Head, the whole Body of Chriſtians duly compacted together, ſome ſuſtaining the Office of an Inferiour Head, ſome of an Eye, ſome of an Hand, ſome of a Foot, 1 Cor. 12. 15,16,17. by the Aſſiſtance of which every of theſe Parts thus united gives to the whole, according to the particular Proportion of its Gifts, increaſeth, or grows in love, and ſo each Member edifies one another.

Ver. 17. This I ſay therefore, and teſtifie that ye (who have theſe aſſiſtances in Faith, and Piety,) walk not henceforth as other (unconverted) Gentiles, in the vanity of their (own) mind.

Ver. 18. Having the underſtanding darkned, (and) being alienated from the life of God, through the ignorance that is in them.

Ver. 19. Who being paſt feeling, (inſenſible of the vileneſs of their actions,) have given themſelves up to work all uncleanneſs with greedineſs.

Ἐν ματαιότητι τοῦ νοὸς, in the vanity of the mind.] The Heathen Idols are frequently in the Old Teſtament ſtiled μάταια, vain things, and the Apoſtles preached to the Gentiles to abſtain, and turn ἀπὸ τῶν ματαίων τούτων from thoſe vain things, Acts 14. 15. by compliance with which they became vain in their imaginations, and their fooliſh hearts were darkned, Rom. 1. 22. And this ſeems to be the vain converſation from which, ſaith St. Peter, they were redeemed, 1 Pet. 1. 18. and the vanity of the mind here mentioned.

Ἀπηλλοτριωμένοι, alienated from the life of God.] i.e. Not only from that way of Life which God approves of, but which reſembles him in Purity, Righteouſneſs, Truth and Goodneſs.

Διὰ τὴν ἄγνοιαν τὴν οὖσαν ἐν αὐτοῖς, by the ignorance that is in them.] This ſeems to refer to their Ignorance of the Nature, the Attributes, and the Providence of God, and of a future ſtate of Happineſs and Miſery. The hardneſs of their hearts here mentioned, they had contracted by wicked Habits and Cuſtoms, the frequency of vile Examples, and by thoſe corrupt Principles which made them inſenſible of their Impurity and Laſciviouſneſs, for they committed Whoredom and Adultery, ſaith (g) Origen, διδάσκοντες μὴ πάντως παρὰ τὸ καθῆκον τοῦτο γίνεσθαι, teaching that in theſe things they did nothing contrary to good manners.

Ἐν πλεονεξίᾳ, with greedineſs.] Hoc totum fecerunt in avaritia, dum nunquam luxuriando ſaturantur, nec eorum terminum habet voluptas. Hieronymus in locum.

Ver. 20. But ye have not ſo learned (the Doctrine of) Chriſt.

Ver. 21. If ſo be (or ſince) that ye have heard him (by our preaching,) and have been taught by him, (Gr. inſtructed in him,) as the truth is in Jeſus.

Ver. 22. (To wit) That ye put off concerning your former converſation (in Heatheniſm) the old man, (i.e. the habits of ſin you then contracted,) which is corrupt according to the deceitful luſts, (i.e. the Luſts which deceive you, promiſing that Pleaſure and Satisfaction which they cannot yield, or which you practiſed whilſt Heathens, being deceived by your Heathen Prieſts, declaring they were acceptable to the Gods, and the Philoſophy and vain deceit of thoſe wiſe Men who allowed them.

Ver. 23. And be renewed in the Spirit of your mind.

Ver. 24. And that ye (may) put on the new man, which after (the Image of) God is created in righteouſneſs, and true holineſs.

Τὸν παλαιὸν ἄνθρωπον, the old man.] Signifies thoſe evil Habits they ſo long practiſed in the ſtate of Heatheniſm, the New Man, that Divine Life, that Life of Righteouſneſs and Holineſs which Chriſtianity requires, and it is called Holineſs of Truth, or Inward Holineſs, in oppoſition to the Outward and Ceremonial Holineſs of the Jews.

Ver. 25. Wherefore putting away lying, (a Vice too common among Heathens, and oppoſite to Truth and Righteouſneſs,) ſpeak every man truth with his neighbour; for we are members one of another; (now lying tends to diſſolve Societies, and hurt the Members of the ſame Body.)

Τὸ ψεῦδος, lying.] Which the Heathen Philoſophers thought lawful when it was good, or profitable for them; as owning that Rule of Menander, Κρεῖττον ὁ ἐλέσθαι ψεῦδος, ἢ ἀληθὲς πονηρόν, a Lie is better than an hurtful Truth; and that of Proclus, Τὸ γὰρ ἀγαθὸν κρεῖττόν ἐστι τ ἀληθείας, Good is better than Truth; and that of Darius in (h) Herodotus, Ἔνθα γάρ τι δεῖ καὶ ψεῦδος λέγεσθαι, λεκτέον, when a Lie will profit, let it be uſed; and that of (i) Plato, He may lie who knows how to do it ἐν καιρῷ. in a fit ſeaſon: For there is nothing decorous in Truth, ſaith (k) Maximus

Tyrius,

Tyrius, but when it is profitable; yea, ſometimes, ſaith he, ᾗ ψεῦδος ἔνιοτε ἀνθρώπῳ, ᾗ τἀληθὲς ἔβλαψεν, truth hurts, and a lie profits Men. And to countenance this practice, both (l) Plato and the (m) Stoicks, ſeem to have framed a Jeſuitical Diſtinction between lying in Words, and with aſſent to an Untruth, which they called, Lying in the Soul: The firſt they allowed to an Enemy in proſpect of Advantage, and for many other Diſpenſations of this Life: That is, their wiſe Man may tell a lie craftily, and for gain, but he muſt not embrace a Falſhood through ignorance, or aſſent to an untruth.

Ver. 26. (If you) Be angry (take heed) and ſin not, let not the Sun go down upon your wrath.

Ὀργίζεσθε καὶ μὴ ἁμαρτάνετε, be angry and ſin not.] Theſe words, though ſpoken imperatively, are not a Command to be Angry, but a Caution to avoid ſinful Anger; as when the Prophet ſaith to Nineveh, Fortifie thy ſtrong holds, the Sword ſhall cut thee off, Nah. 3. 14. i. e. though thou doſt fortifie them, it ſhall do ſo: And the Son of Syrach, Cocker thy Child, and he ſhall make thee afraid, Chap. 30. 9. i. e. this will be the Iſſue of it. So Iſa. 8. 9, 10.

Ὁ ἥλιος μὴ ἐπιδυέτω, Let not the Sun go down upon thy wrath.] This Precept, ſaith (n) Plutarch, the Scholars of Pythagoras obſerved, who, when they had been Angry, and reproached one another, πρὶν ἢ τὸν ἥλιον δῦναι, before the Sun went down, they ſhook hands and embrac'd one another. This muſt the Chriſtian do before he offers up to God his Evening Sacrifice, that ſo he may lift up to God pure hands without wrath, 1 Tim. 2. 8.

Ver. 27. Neither give place to the (temptations of the) Devil.

Note. Let a Man be always careful that he be not Angry, ſay the Jews; for whoſo is angry (o) omnes ſpecies Gehennæ ei dominantur, is ſubject to the Dominion of the Infernal Fiends.

Ver. 28. Let him that ſtole (before his converſion) ſteal no more, but rather let him labour, working with his hands that which is good, that he may have to give to him that needeth.

Ὁ κλέπτων, let him that ſtole, &c.] This Exhortation was needful, becauſe in many Nations it was not counted a ſin to ſteal, ſaith (p) Sextus Empyricus, nor were they much aſhamed at it, when it was objected to them, ſaith (q) Bardeſanes.

Ἵνα ἔχῃ μεταδιδόναι, that he may have to give.] This Charity the Primitive Chriſtians expected even from them that laboured with their hands. So (r) Hermas ſaith, It is good to give liberally to all that are in need, out of the labours of our own hands.

Ver. 29. Let no corrupt communication proceed out of your mouths, but that which is good for the uſe of edifying, that it may miniſter grace unto the hearers.

Ἵνα δῷ χάριν, that it may miniſter Grace.] That is, ſaith Theodoret, that it may be acceptable to, as well as good for the Hearers. See the Note on Coloſſ. 3. 16.

Ver. 30. And grieve not the Holy Spirit of God, whereby ye are ſealed up to the day of redemption. (Chap. 1. 13, 14.)

Καὶ μὴ λυπεῖτε, and grieve not the Holy Spirit.] The Holy Spirit being a Divine Perſon, it is certain that he cannot properly be grieved, or vexed as we are. We therefore muſt remove from this Expreſſion, when it is applied to him, all turbulent Motions, all real Pain, Diſquiet, Diſcontent, and look upon it as ſpoken ἀνθρωποπαθῶς, i. e. ſo as to intimate we do that to him, which, when 'tis done to Men, creates Grief to them. As 1ſt, when we refuſe to hearken to his Counſels, rebel againſt his Government, and do that which is oppoſite to his Holy Nature. 2ly, He is ſaid to be grieved by a Metonymy of the Effect, when he acts ſo towards us, as Men are wont to do when they are grieved by us, and diſpleaſed at us, withdrawing their wonted Kindneſs, flying our Company, and abandoning us to our Enemies.

Ver. 31. And (to this end) let all bitterneſs and wrath, and anger, and clamor be put away from you, with all malice.

Ver. 32. And be ye kind one towards another, tender hearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Chriſts ſake hath forgiven you.

CHAP. V.

Verse 1. BE ye therefore followers of (this love of) God, as (becomes his) dear Children.

Ver. 2. And walk in love, as Christ also (hath given an example, who) hath loved us, and given himself for us an offering and a sacrifice to God, for a sweet smelling savour.

Προσφορὰν καὶ θυσίαν, an Offering and Oblation.] That the Death of Christ is here stiled an Oblation offered up to God for us, cannot be denied: But Crellius saith that the Apostle speaks not here of any Expiatory Oblation, because the Oblation here mentioned is said to be offered for a sweet smelling Savour, which Phrase is scarce ever used concerning Expiatory Sacrifices, but chiefly of Burnt-offerings, which were not of themselves Expiatory, and are by Moses distinguished from Sacrifices for Sin.

But (1.) That Sacrifices of a sweet smelling Savour were used to make Atonement for, and to Expiate the Sin of Men, is proved from the Sacrifices of Noah. For whereas in the Greek we read, that when that Sacrifice was offered God smelled ὀσμὴν εὐωδίας, a Sacrifice of a sweet Savour, in the Hebrew he is said to smell את ריח הניחוח a Savour of Rest, that is, which made God's Anger to rest, saith the Jewish Writers. (a) Josephus informs us, That Noah by this Sacrifice entreated that God would now be atoned, and would no more conceive such displeasure against the Earth, i. e. the Inhabitants of it. And by the Syriac Version it is rendred an Odor of Placability, because, as Vatablus and Munster on the place observe, God then ceased from his Anger, and was appeased: So that the first time that this Phrase is used, it is taken for an Expiatory Sacrifice, and is designed to appease the Wrath of God. The Sacrifices which Job offered for his Sons and Daughters, and for his three Friends, were Burnt-offerings, as the Phrase והעלה עלות shews, and yet they were offered, the one to expiate for the Sin of his Children, Job 1. 5. the other to appease the Wrath of God kindled against his three Friends, Chap. 42. 7. Moreover, it is evident from Scripture, that this Phrase ὀσμὴ εὐωδίας, a sweet savour, is used not only of Burnt-offerings, but of Sacrifices for Sin; thus, If any People of the Land sin through ignorance— when his Sin comes to his knowledge, the Text saith, he shall bring his offering, a Kid of the Goats, a Female without blemish, περὶ τῆς ἁμαρτίας, a Sacrifice for the Sin that he hath sinned, and the Priest shall burn it upon the Altar, εἰς ὀσμὴν εὐωδίας, for a sweet Savour to the Lord; and the Priest shall make Atonement for him, and it shall be forgiven him. To this importance of the Phrase doth David manifestly allude, when he saith to Saul, If the Lord hath stirred ye up against me, ὀσφρανθείη ἡ θυσία, let him smell an Offering. And when this ὀσμὴ εὐωδίας Sacrifice of a sweet smelling Savour is applied to Burnt-offerings, they are declared to be favourably accepted to make Atonement for him that offers them. This the Son of Syrach seems plainly to say of their Sacrifices of sweet Savour in the general, when he speaks thus of Aaron, (b) He chose him out of all the People to offer Sacrifices to the Lord, Incense, and a sweet Savour for a Memorial, to make Reconciliation for his People. Thus of the Burnt-offerings in Leviticus it is said, That he that brings them shall put his hand upon the head of the Burnt-offering, and it shall be accepted for him to make Atonement for him, Lev. 1. 4. Now as the (c) Hebrew Doctors tell us, That this Imposition of Hands was always joyn'd with Confession of Sins over the Sacrifice, which Confession still concluded with a Prayer, that the Sacrifice might be an Expiation for them; so the Phrase, It shall be accepted to make Atonement for him, Lev. 14. 20. used here and elsewhere concerning Holy Things, is as much as is ever said of Expiatory Sacrifices. Nor is it any Objection to the contrary, that Burnt-offerings are usually distinguished from Sin-offerings; the Reason of that being this, saith (d) Ainsworth, that Burnt-offerings were for the Atonement of General Sins, and such as often were unknown to Men, whereas for Special Sins there was appointed a Special Sacrifice and Sin-offering. This, saith (e) Dr. Outram, was the Opinion of the Jews, that Burnt-offerings were intended for the Expiation of Sin. And this saith (f) Mr. Selden, was their practice, to offer these as Expiatory Sacrifices for Strangers.

Ver. 3. But Fornication and all Uncleanness, or Covetousness, (inordinate desire,) let it not be once named among you (that you may walk) as becometh Saints.

Καθὼς πρέπει ἁγίοις, as becometh Saints.] Worthy of Observation is the Note of St. Jerom here, Ex quo Sanctus non potest appellari quicunque extra fornicationem in aliquâ immun- ditiâ, & avaritiâ voluptatum qua ſe delectaverit, invenitur.

Ver. 4. Neither (Gr. καὶ, and let not) filthineſs, nor (and) fooliſh talking, or jeſting, which are (things) not convenient (to your Calling, be uſed among you,) but rather (let your employment be that of) giving thanks.

Ver. 5. For this ye know that no Whoremonger, nor unclean perſon, nor covetous man, who is an idolater, hath any inheritance in the Kingdom of Chriſt and of God (the Father.)

That the words μωρολογία and εὐτραπελία, are to be interpreted to an impure ſenſe, may probably be gathered from the words joyned with them, Fornication, Uncleanneſs, Filthineſs, and more probably from the Reaſon rendred for the abandoning them all, viz. That no fornicator, or unclean perſon, hath any inheritance in the Kingdom of God, or of Chriſt. Μωρολογία is in the Rabbinical Phraſe נבול פֶּה turpitudo oris, of which they (g) proverbially ſay כל המנבל פיו quicunque fœde loquitur perinde eſt, ac ſi introduceret porcum in Sanctuarium. To commit נבלה folly in Iſrael, is to commit Whoredom, or Adultery. And the word by the Septuagint is ſometimes rendred τὸ ἀσχήμον, ſometimes ἀφεδρών, ſometimes μοιχεία, and ſometimes ἀκαθαρσία. And the ſolliciting a Woman to Fornication by filthy words, is in the Targum expreſſed thus, לא תנבל non deturbabis verbum oris, Thou ſhalt not ſpeak impurely with thy mouth, to cauſe thy fleſh to ſin, Eccleſ. 5. 5.

Εὐτραπελία is by Suidas rendred μωρολογία, κυφότης, ſcurrility, levity, by Phavorinus Βωμολοχία. Now Βωμολόχος is a filthy ſcurrilous man, and in Ariſtophanes Βωμολόχοις ἥπισι χαίρειν, is to be pleaſed with filthy ſcurrilous words. Hence Oecumenius and Theophylact reckon them both as ὀχήματα τῆς πορνείας, the fore-runners or incentives to fornication.

As for the word πλεονεξία, that it hath ſometimes an impure ſenſe, ſee Note on 1 Theſſ. 4. 6. though being here ſtiled Idolatry, it ſeems more naturally to relate to the love of Riches, which renders us moſt truly guilty of that ſin. Though it be alſo true, that he who loveth Pleaſures more than God, is guilty of that ſin; and this impurity was a frequent, and almoſt general Appendix of Idol Worſhip.

That the Epheſians ſtood in need of theſe Inſtructions, we learn from (h) Democritus Epheſius, who ſpeaking of the Temple of the Epheſian Diana, hath much ὥσει τῆς τρυφῆς αὐτῶν of the ſoftneſs and luxury of the Epheſians; and from (i) Eualces in his Book de Epheſiacis, who ſaith, ἐν ἐφέσῳ ἱερὰ ἱδρύσαντο ταῖς Ἀφροδίτῃ, In Epheſus they built Temples to Venus the Miſtreſs of the Whores; and from Strabo, who informs us, That in their ancient Temples there were old Images, but in their new σκολιὰ ἔργα vile Works were done, Lib. 14. p. 640.

Ver. 6. Let no man deceive you with vain words, (as if theſe things might be conſiſtent with the favour of God,) for becauſe of theſe things cometh the wrath of God upon the Children of diſobedience.

Μηδεὶς ἀπατάτω, let no man deceive you.] Among the Heathens, ſimple Fornication was held a thing indifferent, the Laws allowed, and provided for it in many Nations; whence the grave (k) Epictetus counſels his Scholars only to whore ὡς νόμιμόν ἐστι, according to Law. And in all places they connived at it. He that blames young men for their meritricious amours, ſaith (l) Cicero, does what's repugnant to the Cuſtom and Conceſſions of our Anceſtors, for when was not this done? when was it not permitted? This was ſuitable both to the Principles and Practiſes of many of their grave Philoſophers, eſpecially of the (m) Stoicks, who held it lawful for others to uſe Whores, and for them to get their living by ſuch practiſes. Hence, even in the Church of Corinth, ſome had taught this Doctrine. See Note on 1 Cor. 6. 13.

Ver. 7. Be ye not therefore partakers of (with) them (in theſe ſins.)

Ver. 8. For ye were ſometimes (Children of) darkneſs, (being ſubject to theſe deeds of darkneſs, Chap. 2. 1, 2, 3. Chap. 4. 18, 19.) but now are ye (Children of the) light, (by your faith) in the Lord; walk (therefore) as Children of the light.

Ποτὲ σκότος, ſometimes darkneſs.] That the ſtate of the Gentile World, both in the Old and the New Teſtament, is repreſented by a ſtate of darkneſs, and that of Chriſtians by a ſtate of light, See Note on Rom. 13. 12.

Ver. 9. For the fruit of the (Holy) Spirit, (by which you are enlightned,) is in all goodneſs, righteouſneſs, and truth, (and ſo inſtructs you to avoid thoſe deeds of wickedneſs.)

Τοῦ πνεύματος, of the Spirit.] Many Greek Copies, and all the Latin and the Syriack, read τοῦ φωτὸς, the fruits of the light, with which you are enlightned. And ſo doth St. Jerom here, taking no notice of the other reading.

Ver.

Ver. 10. (Walk then as Children of the Light,) Proving (δοκιμάζοντες, approving) what is acceptable to the Lord.

Ver. 11. And have no fellowſhip with the unfruitful works of darkneſs (committed by the Heathens) but rather reprove them.

Ἐλέγχετε.] Refute them, make them aſhamed of them, by bringing them to the light. Ἔλεγχον γὰρ ἀπὸ τοῦ αἰσχύνειν, ἐλέγχω τὸ κεκρυμμένον ἀνάγκη ὑπὸ εἰς φῶς ἄγω. Phavorinus.

Ver. 12. (They being ſuch as deſerve to be refuted,) For it is a ſhame even to ſpeak of thoſe things which are done of them in ſecret.

Τὰ κρυφῇ γινόμενα, done of them in ſecret.] In their Myſteries, which therefore were ſtiled ἀπόῤῥητα μυστήρια, none being permitted to divulge them upon pain of death. Hence even the word μυστήριον hath its name, ſay Grammarians, from μύειν τὸ στόμα, to ſtop the mouth. The Eleuſinia Sacra were performed in the Night, agreeably to the deeds of darkneſs committed in them; ſo were the Bacchanalia, hence called Nyctelia; and they were both full of deteſtable iniquity, and upon that account, ſaith (n) Livy, were baniſh'd by the Roman Senate out of Rome and Italy.

Ver. 13. But all things that are reproved are made manifeſt by the light, (or being diſcovered by the light, are made manifeſt,) for whatſoever doth make (any thing) manifeſt is light.

Ver. 14. Wherefore (to ſhew that Chriſtians are light, and ſo obliged to avoid theſe deeds of darkneſs,) he (the Lord) ſaith, Awake thou that ſleepeſt, ariſe from the dead, and Chriſt ſhall give thee life.

Ver. 15. See then that ye walk circumſpectly, (or how exactly you walk,) not as fools, (running your ſelves into unneceſſary dangers by an indiſcreet Zeal,) but as wiſe, (to manage your Affairs ſo as to avoid them by all lawful means.)

Ver. 16. Redeeming the time, (i. e. uſing all prudent means to prolong your lives,) becauſe the days (in which you live) are evil, (and therefore perillous, and ſuch as will require much wiſdom to preſerve you from dangers.)

Ἐξαγοραζόμενοι τὸν καιρὸν, Redeeming the time.] Here

Note 1*ſt*, That the Times of Peril and Sadneſs are ſtiled evil days; In this ſenſe Jacob ſaith his days were evil, πονηραὶ ἐγένοντο, by reaſon of the Troubles he met with from Laban, and his Brother Eſau, Gen. 47. 9. The Pſalmiſt, that the Righteous ſhall not be aſhamed ἐν καιρῷ πονηρῷ, in the evil day, Pſ. 77. 19. The wiſe man ſhall be ſilent, ſaith Amoz, in that time, for it is καιρὸς πονηρὸς, an evil time, Amoz 5. 13. i. e. a time of Lamentation, v. 16. of darkneſs, v. 18. and that is by the Prophet Micah ſtiled ὁ καιρὸς πονηρὸς, an evil time, Micah 2. 2. which brought thoſe Judgments on them which they could not eſcape. And in the cloſe of this Epiſtle, to ſtand ἐν τῇ ἡμέρᾳ τῇ πονηρᾷ, is to ſtand in the times of fiery Trials and ſevere Perſecutions by the Inſtruments of Satan, Chap. 6. 13.

Ἐξαγοραζόμενοι τὸν καιρὸν, to redeem the time.] Is by all honeſt ways and prudent Methods to endeavour to avoid the Dangers, and to eſcape the Perſecutions to which theſe perillous Times may render us obnoxious. So when King Nebuchadnezzar had threatned that the Chaldæans and Magicians ſhould be cut in pieces if they declared not his Dream, and they ſtill put him off with this Anſwer, Let the King tell the Dream, and we will tell him the interpretation; the King replies, Of a truth I know ὅτι καιρὸν ὑμεῖς ἐξαγοράζετε, that you would gain the time; you hope by theſe Anſwers to delay the time of your Puniſhment, and to contrive ſome way to eſcape it. So the Scholiaſt upon the place expounds it, καιρὸν ὑμεῖς ἐξαγοράζετε, τουτέστιν ἐπιζητεῖτε ἐπιβάλλειν, διατείνοντες τῇ ἀναλύσει τοῦ καιροῦ σκοποῦντες τὸ παρ' ὑμῶν ζητούμενον, You hunt after delays, ſeeking by the protracting of the time to make me forget what I aſked of you. And Theodoret expounds it thus, You prolong the time ἐκ ἐκδάσεως καιρὸν ἀναμένοντες, hoping for time to eſcape. So alſo Col. 4. 5. Walk in wiſdom towards thoſe that are without, i.e. your Heathen Governours and Magiſtrates, Redeeming the time, i. e. endeavouring by all true Chriſtian Prudence to avoid the Calamities they are ſtill ready to bring upon them, anſwering them with as much wiſdom and gentleneſs of Speech as you are able; for, walking among Wolves, it concerns you to be wiſe as Serpents.

Ver. 17. Wherefore be ye not unwiſe (in managing this, and other affairs,) but (act as) underſtanding what the will of the Lord is, (viz. that in ſuch caſes he requires you to be wiſe as Serpents, and not to caſt Pearls before Swine, who will tear you from them; and ſemblably not to ſacrifice your lives by an indiſcreet Zeal in diſcovering thoſe Myſteries, but to ſhew the vileneſs of them with ſuch prudence as may preſerve you from periſhing by the Diſcovery.)

Ver. 18. And be not drunk with Wine, (as the Heathens uſed to be in the Feſtivals of their Gods, and eſpecially in their Bacchanalia,) wherein is exceſs (Gr. ἀσωτία, diſſoluteneſs,) but be ye filled with the Holy Spirit, as Chri-

Μὴ μεθύσκεσθε οἴνῳ, be not drunk with Wine.] The Heathens, who held Drunkenneſs unlawful at other times, thought it a Duty at the Solemnities of Bacchus, and of other Gods. (p) Plato ſaith, That no Man ſhould be allowed to be drunk but at the Solemnities of the Gods that gave them Wine. And when Megillus the Lacedemonian had told the Athenians, That he ſaw their whole Cities drunk at the Solemnities of Bacchus, and that the Inhabitants of Tarentum did the ſame, Marvel not at that, ſaith the Athenian, for the Law with us requires it. And (q) Plutarch ſaith, That ὀργιάζοντες, ἢ θυσίαις παρόντες, ἢ τελεταῖς, when they celebrated the Orgia of Bacchus, or were preſent at their Sacrifices, or Sacred Myſteries, they allowed themſelves to be delighted μέχρι μέθης, even to drunkenneſs. This was the uſual Appendix of their Sacrifices, they thinking this a Duty, ſaith (r) Athenæus, in the Service of their Gods. Hence Ariſtotle and others ſay, that Drunkenneſs had its Name from the Intemperance they uſed after they had offered Sacrifice.

Ἐν ᾧ ἐστιν ἀσωτία, in which is exceſs.] That ἀσωτία ſignifies luxury, is proved from the Prodigal, of whom it being ſaid that he lived ἀσώτως, Luke 15. 13. this is interpreted v. 30. by devouring his Living with Harlots, and from Heſychius, who interprets ἀσώτως by the word αἰσχρῶς, filthy. Phavorinus ſaith the ἄσωτος is the ἀκόλαστος, ἀσελγὴς, luſtful, and unchaſt perſon, and hence ἀσώτιον ſignifies a Stew, or Brothel Houſe. Now that this Drunkenneſs miniſters to this Laſciviouſneſs, as the Poets often teach, ſo the Practice and Experience of the Heathens found it true, their Compotation and Banquetings ſeldom concluding without the Introduction of lewd Women, and their Bacchanalia ending in Whoredom and Adultery, ἀκόλαστον οἶνος, Prov. 20. 1.

Ver 19. Speaking to your ſelves in Pſalms, and Hymns, and ſpiritual Songs; (with which the Chriſtians were inſpired in their Aſſemblies, 1 Cor. 14. 15, 26.) ſinging, (them with the mouth,) and (alſo) making melody in your hearts to the Lord.

Ψαλμοῖς καὶ Ὕμνοις, in Pſalms and Hymns, &c.] In their Bacchanalia they ſung their drunken Hymns to Bacchus, ſaying, Εὐοῖ Σαβοῖ, Εὐοῖ Βάκχε, and had their Φαλλικὰ ἐσόμενα. In oppoſition to which drunken and impure Songs, the Apoſtle here exhorts the Chriſtians to ſing the Pſalms of David, or the Hymns compoſed by Spiritual Men, ſuch as Zacharias and Symeon, or by the Afflatus of the Spirit vouchſafed to them, 1 Cor. 14. 15.

Ver. 20. Giving thanks always for all things unto God, and (or who is) the Father (of us all, Chap. 4. 6.) in the Name of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

Πάντοτε, always.] See Note on 1 Theſſ. 5. 17.

Ver. 21. Submitting your ſelves one to another, (according to the Divine Ordinance,) in the fear of God, (who is the Author of that order.)

Ver. 22. (And therefore) Wives ſubmit your ſelves to your own Husbands as unto the (Ordinance of the) Lord, (the Husband of his Spouſe the Church.)

Ver. 23. For the Husband is the Head of the Wife, even as Chriſt is the Head of the Church; and (this) he is (as being) the Saviour of the Body.

Ver. 24. Therefore, as the Church is ſubject to Chriſt, ſo let the Wives be to their own Husband in every (lawful) thing.

Ver. 25. (And ye) Husbands (alſo, ſee that you) love your Wives, even as Chriſt alſo loved the Church, and gave himſelf (up to the death) for it.

Ver. 26. That he might ſanctifie it, (or conſecrate and fit it for his ſervice,) and cleanſe it, (Gr. having cleanſed it) by the waſhing of water, (i. e. by that Baptiſm which is the Laver of Regeneration, Tit. 3. 5.) and (by) the word (of his Grace, which is able to ſanctifie us, Acts 20. 32. John 17. 17.)

Ver. 27. That (ſo) he might preſent it to himſelf a glorious Church, not having ſpot or wrinkle, or any ſuch thing, but that it might be holy, and without blemiſh.

Μὴ ἔχουσαν σπίλον ἢ ῥυτίδα, not having ſpot or wrinkle.] This ſeems to refer to the Accuracy of the Jewiſh Baptiſm, who thought not the Perſon well baptized if there were any wrinkle which kept the Fleſh from the Wa-

Ver. 28. So ought Men to love their Wives as their own Bodies, (they two being made one fleſh, ſo that) he that loveth his Wife, loveth himſelf.

Ὡς ἑαυτῶν σώματα, as their own Bodies.] The Jews ſay, He that loveth his Wife as his own Body, and honoureth her more than his own Body, of him the Scripture ſaith, Peace ſhall be in his Tabernacle, and he ſhall viſit his Tabernacle, and ſhall not ſin. Talmud. Sanh. Fol. 76. 2.

Ver. 29. For no man ever yet hated his own fleſh, but nouriſheth and cheriſheth it even as (doth) the Lord the Church, (which is his Spouſe.)

Ver. 30. For we are Members of his Body, of his Fleſh, and of his Bones.

Ἐκ τῆς σαρκὸς αὐτοῦ, καὶ ἐκ τῶν ὀστέων αὐτοῦ, of his fleſh, and of his bones.] This Phraſe being not only uſed to expreſs an intimate Relation, Gen. 29. 14. Judg. 9. 2. but being the very words which Adam uſed concerning Eve, made out of his rib, Gen. 2. 23. ſhews that the Apoſtle had his eye upon the myſtical Senſe of the production of the Woman from the Man, of which the Jews ſpeak.

Ver. 31. For this cauſe (was it ſaid at the production of Eve, and her being given for a meet help to Adam, Gen. 2. 24. that) a man ſhall leave his Father and Mother, and ſhall cleave to his Wife, and they two ſhall be one fleſh.

Ver. 32. This is a great myſtery, but (when I repreſent it as ſuch) I ſpeak (chiefly of the myſtical ſenſe of it) concerning Chriſt, and his Church.

Τὸ μυστήριον τοῦτο μέγα ἐστίν, this is a great myſtery.] He doth not ſay, as Mr. Cl. interprets the words, But I ſpeak concerning the love of Chriſt to his Church; nor was that any Myſtery at all, as being long ago revealed, and a thing known to all Chriſtians. But this was indeed a Myſtery, till the Apoſtle here revealed it to the Epheſians, that as the Learned (s) Dr. Alix ſaith, The firſt Match between Adam and Eve was a Type of that between Chriſt and his Church. And in this, ſaith he, the Apoſtle followed the Jewiſh Notions; for the (t) Jews ſay, according to Voiſin, וסוד אדם הוא סוד משיח and the myſtery of Adam is the myſtery of the Meſſiah, who is the Bridegroom of the Church. Theſe two great Perſons therefore confirm the obſervation of Munſter, That the Creation of the Woman from the rib of the Man, was made by the Jews to ſignifie the Marriage of the Celeſtial Man who is bleſſed, or of the Meſſiah with the Church; whence the Apoſtle applies the very words which Adam ſaid concerning Eve his Spouſe, to thoſe Chriſtians who are the Spouſe of Chriſt, ſaying, We are Members of his Body, and of his Fleſh, and of his Bones, v. 30.

Ver. 33. Nevertheleſs (on the other account alſo) let every one of you ſo love his Wife as himſelf, and (let) the Wife ſee that ſhe reverence her Husband.

CHAP. VI.

Verſe 1. CHildren, obey your Parents in (complyance with the Commandment of) the Lord, for this is juſt (that you ſhould yield obedience to them who gave you life.)

Ἐν κυρίῳ, in the Lord.] That is, ſay Oecumenius and Theophylact, as far as their Commands are conſiſtent with the Will of God.

Ver. 2. (For) Honour thy Father and thy Mother, (with Reverence, Obedience, and Maintenance, ſaith the fifth Commandment,) which is the firſt Commandment (in the Decalogue,) with (a) promiſe (annexed to it.)

Ἐν ἐπαγγελίᾳ, with promiſe.] i. e. A Special Promiſe; for that which is annexed to the ſecond Commandment, is rather a General Aſſertion, than a Special Promiſe.

Ver. 3. (And the Promiſe is this,) That it may be well with thee, and (that) thou maiſt live long upon the Earth.

The Apoſtle doth not add theſe words, which the Lord thy God giveth thee, becauſe they particularly belonged to the Iſraelites, who were to be excluded from their own Land, and he would give them no ground to think they ſhould continue in it. Note alſo hence, that the Goſpel hath its Temporal Promiſes as well as Spiritual, Matth. 6. 33. 1 Tim. 4. 8. 1 Pet. 3. 10, 11, 12. That this Promiſe did not at all concern the Epheſians, is Mr. Cl.'s miſtake; for God is not the God of the Jews only, but alſo of the Gentiles, and will reward Moral Duties performed by them, as well as by the Jews.

Ver. 4. And ye Fathers provoke not your Children to wrath (by ſevere treatments and rigid injunctions, See Col. 3. 21.) but (rather) bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord, (inſtructing them in the Principles of Piety towards God, and Faith in our Lord Jeſus.)

Ἐκτρέφετε, bring them up in the nurture.] This, ſaith Oecumenius, is the way to make them obedient; and if you furniſh them with Spirituals,

Spirituals, Temporal things will follow. Make them read the Scripture, ſaith Theophylact, which is the duty of all Chriſtians; for is it not a ſhame to inſtruct them in Heathen Authors, whence they may learn bad things, and not to inſtruct them in the Oracles of God?

Ver. 5. Servants be obedient to your Maſters, (though they be only ſo) according to the fleſh, (the ſpirit being immediately ſubject to God alone,) with fear (of diſpleaſing them,) and trembling, (leſt you juſtly ſhould incur their anger, ſerving them) in ſimplicity of heart, as (knowing that in thus ſerving them, you do ſervice) to the Lord, (who requires this of you, whoſe Goſpel you will credit by your ſincere obedience to your Maſters for his ſake, Tit. 2. 2. and whoſe Doctrine you will blaſpheme by your diſobedience, under pretence of any Chriſtian Liberty from the obſervance of your duty to them, 1 Tim. 6. 1, 2.)

Ver 6. (Serve them therefore) Not with eye ſervice, (and whilſt they behold you,) as menpleaſers (uſe to do,) but as (becomes) the ſervants of Chriſt, (in this relation) doing the will of God (who requires this obedience to them, 1 Pet. 2. 18, 19, 20.) from the heart.

Ver. 7. With good will doing (them) ſervice, as (conſidering you do it) to the Lord (himſelf,) and not to men (only.)

Ver. 8. (And) knowing that whatever good any man doth (out of obedience to the Lord, a reward of) the ſame he ſhall receive of the Lord, whether he be (a) bond(ſ-man) or free.

Ver. 9. And ye Maſters do the ſame to them, (ſhew the like good will to, and concern for them,) forbearing threatnings, (Gr. ἀνιέντες, remitting oft the evils which you threaten to them) knowing that your Maſter alſo is in Heaven, neither is their reſpect of Perſons (or Conditions) with him.

Εἰδότες, knowing.] (1.) That you with reſpect to God, are Servants, and that as you mete to your Servants, he will mete to you. (2*ly*,) That his compaſſion and readineſs to forgive their Treſpaſſes, ſhould make you alſo ready to remit the Treſpaſſes of your Servants. (3*ly*,) That the Relation of Servants doth not make God leſs ready to ſhew kindneſs to them, and own them as his Children, and therefore ſhould not induce you to deſpiſe, and deal ſeverely with them.

Ver. 10. Finally Brethren, be all of you ſtrong in the Lord, and in the power of his might.

Ver. 11. And (to this end) put on the whole Armour of God, that ye may be able to ſtand (Gr. ground) againſt all the wiles of the Devil.

Τὰς μεθοδείας, the wiles.] That is, ſaith Phavorinus, ἐπιβουλὰς, ἐνέδρας, δόλους, the Deceits he puts upon us, the Snares he lays for us, the Machinations he contrives againſt us.

Ver. 12. For we wreſtle not (only) againſt fleſh and blood, (i. e. Men who are compoſed of them, ſee Note on Gal. 1. 16.) but (alſo) againſt (evil) principalities and powers, (ſuch as Chriſt triumphed over, Col. 2. 15.) againſt the Rulers of the darkneſs of this world, (i. e. thoſe evil Spirits which ſtill rule in thoſe blind then Nations which are yet in darkneſs, Chap. 5. 8. 1 Theſſ. 5. 5. See Note on Rom. 13. 12.) and againſt ſpiritual wickedneſſes in high places, (i. e. againſt thoſe evil Spirits which have their ſtations in the Regions of the Air. See Note on Chap. 2. 2.)

Ver. 13. Wherefore (I again exhort you to) take unto you the whole Armour of God, that ye may be able to withſtand (theſe dangerous Enemies) in the evil day (of trial, perſecution, and temptation,) and having done all, to ſtand (firm againſt them.)

That the Evil Day is the Day of Trial and Perſecution, ſee Note on Chap. 7. 16.

Τὴν πανοπλίαν τοῦ Θεοῦ, the whole Armour of God.] Here, and v. 10, 11. which makes us ſtrong in the Lord, and in the power of his might, conſiſts of ſuch things as either are in us, as Truth, Faith, Righteouſneſs, Peace, the hopes of Salvation; or are to be uſed by us as Prayer, and Attendance on the Word of God, and not in any immediate Influx of the Power of God without the uſe of theſe. Yet this is here ſtiled the whole Armour of God, nothing more being requiſite to enable us to come off Victors in this Combat; ſo that in theſe things doth conſiſt the power of his might; or by theſe it is certainly to be obtained.

Ver. 14. Stand therefore, having your loins girt about with truth, and having on the breaſtplate of righteouſneſs.

Ἐν ἀληθείᾳ, with truth.] That the Goſpel is throughout the Epiſtles emphatically ſtiled the Truth, ſee Note on Rom. 2. 8. And this ſeems to be the Truth here mentioned, viz. a full perſwaſion of the Truth of that Religion we profeſs, or that ſtedfaſtneſs in the Faith by which we are enabled to reſiſt the roaring Lion, 1 Pet. 5. 8, 9. See 1 Theſſ. 3. 5. James 1. 6. The Breaſt-plate of Righteouſneſs, is an exact obſervance of our Duty to God, and a righteous Deportment towards Men in all the Offices of Juſtice, Truth, and Charity, which will beget in us that good Conſcience which will ſupport us in the Day of Temptation, and procure Honour and Eſteem, Love and Compaſſion, from Men.

Ver. 15. And your feet ſhod with the preparations of the Goſpel of Peace.

Ὑποδησάμενοι τὰς πόδας, and your feet ſhod, &c.] For Explication of this Phraſe, obſerve firſt, That Shoes were anciently a part of Military Armour; for in the ſtory of Goliah there is mention of his Greaves of braſs upon his legs, 1 Sam. 17. 6. and in the ſtory of the Trojan Wars, κνημῖδες ἀχαιοὶ, the Grecians which were ſhod with Greaves of braſs, are the armed Grecians.

Gracians. Note ſecondly, That to be ſhod doth ſignifie our being ready for the work we go about; thus the Iſraelites were commanded to eat the Paſſover ſhod; i. e. ready for their Journey out of Egypt; and the Apoſtles are required to be ſhod with Sandals, that they might be ready to go whether their Maſter ſhould be pleaſed to ſend them, Mark 6. 8. The Goſpel of Peace is either that Goſpel which proclaims Peace with God through Faith in Chriſt, or which lays upon us the higheſt Obligations to live peaceably with all Men: So that the meaning of theſe words ſeems to be this, that ye may be ready for the Combat, be ye ſhod with the Goſpel of Peace, i.e. endeavour after that peaceable and quiet mind the Goſpel calls for, be not eaſily provoked, or prone to quarrel, but ſhew all gentleneſs, and all long-ſuffering to all Men, and this will as certainly preſerve you from many great Temptations and Perſecutions, as did thoſe Shoes of Braſs the Soldiers from thoſe ſharp Sticks and Gall-traps which were wont to be laid privily in the ways to abſtruct the marching of the Enemy.

Ver. 16. Above all (the reſt) take the ſhield of Faith, wherewith ye ſhall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked (one.)

Ver. 17. And take the Helmet of Salvation, (for an Helmet the Hope of Salvation, 1 Theſſ. 5. 8.) and the Sword of the Spirit, which is the Word of God, (by hiding which in your hearts you will be preſerved from ſin, Pſal. 119. 11.)

Τὴν περικεφαλαίαν τοῦ Σωτηρίου, the Helmet of Salvation.] i. e. We muſt be well aſſured, that if we fight the good fight of Faith, there will be laid up for us an immortal Crown of Glory, which God the righteous Judge will give us, 2 Tim. 4. 8. That you ſtrive and fight for an incorruptible Crown that fadeth not away, 1 Cor. 9. 25. And this Hope will be as an Helmet to defend your Heads from all the ſtrokes of a Temptation.

Ver. 18. Praying always (See 1 Theſſ. 5. 17.) with all Prayer and Supplication (1 Tim. 2. 1.) in the Spirit, (See Note on 1 Cor. 14. 6.) and watching thereunto with all perſeverance and (with) ſupplication, (not for your ſelves only, but) for all Saints, (your Charity to others, being a means to procure God's favour to your ſelves.)

Ver. 19. And for me (in particular) that (a door of) utterance may be given to me, that I may open my mouth boldly, to make known the myſtery of the Goſpel.

Ver. 20. For which I am an Ambaſſador in bonds, that therein I may ſpeak boldly as I ought to ſpeak.

Λόγος ἐν ἀνοίξει στόματος, that utterance may be given to me.] A door of utterance, Coloſſ. 4. 6. this is a (u) Rabbinical Phraſe, פתחון פה the opening of the mouth ſignifying an occaſion of ſpeaking, and confidence in ſpeaking. So that the Apoſtle here requeſts their Prayers, that he, being looſed from his Bonds, may have again an opportunity of preaching the Goſpel, and alſo that he may do it publickly and plainly, μετὰ παῤῥησίας, with due confidence and boldneſs.

Ver. 21. But (and) that ye alſo may know my affairs, (and) what I do (at Rome,) Tychicus a beloved Brother, and faithful Miniſter in (the things of) the Lord, ſhall make known to you all things.

Ver. 22. Whom I have ſent to you for the ſame purpoſe, that ye might know our affairs, and that he might comfort your hearts.

Ver. 23. Peace be to the Brethren, and love with faith from God the Father, and our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

Ver. 24. Grace be with all them that love the Lord Jeſus Chriſt in ſincerity. Amen.

THE PREFACE TO THE Epistle of St. Paul the Apostle TO THE PHILIPPIANS.

IT is the observation of Theodoret, Oecumenius, and others, that Philippi was a City of Macedonia, under the Metropolis of Thessalonica, which is confirmed Note on Verse the first.

This Epistle is by the same Greek Scholiasts said to be written by St. Paul when he was in bonds at Rome. That he had been in bonds some time before, we may gather from Chap. 1. 12, 14. from the Philippians sending Epaphroditus to him with relief, and his return to them with this Epistle after a dangerous sickness, and from his hopes to come quickly to them, Chap. 2. 24. and therefore he is supposed by the most exact Chronologers to have writ this Epistle in the eighth year of Nero, and the sixty second of our Lord.

That the Apostle here warns them against the Gnosticks, or that these Gnosticks joyned with the Judaizing Christians to perswade the Gentiles to Judaize, I have not read in any of the Ancients; but the Greek Scholiasts agree in this, that he warns them against (a) τὰ ὑπὸ τῶν ἐξ Ἰουδαίων μὲν πεπιστευκότων, the deceits of the believing Jews, who endeavoured to corrupt them προφάσει τῆς σκιᾶς τοῦ νόμου, καὶ περιτομῆς, by imposing on them Circumcision, and the Shadows of the Law, and saying that without these they could not be justified, and stiling them the Enemies of the Cross of Christ, Chap. 3. 18, 19. And this is abundantly confirmed from the whole third Chapter, where the Apostle declares he judges it for their safety to write to them to beware of Dogs, of evil Workers, and of the Concision. See Note on v. 2, 3, 15, 16.

And lastly, It is noted by Theodoret, and others of the Fathers, that Epaphroditus mentioned in this Epistle as their Messenger, Chap. 2. 15. 4. 18. was also their Bishop, (b) ἐπειδὴ καὶ ψυχῶν αὐτῶν ἐπετράπη ἐπιμέλειαν, or the Person to whom the Care of their Souls had been committed; though, I confess, the words ὑμῶν Ἀπόστολον, your Apostle, doth not prove it.

A Paraphrase and Comment ON THE Epistle to the PHILIPPIANS.

CHAP. I.

Verse 1. PAul and Timotheus the Servants of Jesus Christ, to all the Saints in Christ Jesus, which are at (Gr. in) Philippi, with the Bishops and Deacons (there).

Note that Timothy is here joyn'd with Paul in the Salutation, not in the writing this Epistle. See v. 3.

Ver. 2. (I wish) Grace to you, and Peace from God the Father, and from our Lord Jesus Christ.

Σὺν Ἐπισκόποις καὶ Διακόνοις, with the Bishops and Deacons.] Various are the Expositions of these words, and great are the Contentions about the true import of them. For,

1. Some, with the Pseud-Ambrosius, interpret these words thus, Paul and Timothy the Servants of Jesus Christ, with the Bishops and Deacons that are with us, to the Saints in Philippi. But as none of the Greek Fathers thought fit to take any notice of this strained Exposition, so may the harshness of it appear by comparing it with the like Prefaces to some of the other Epistles; v. g. 1 Cor. 1. 1,2. Paul an Apostle of Jesus Christ, to the Church of God that is in Corinth, σὺν πᾶσι τοῖς ἐπικαλουμένοις τὸ ὄνομα τοῦ Κυρίου, with all that call upon the Name of the Lord. 2 Cor. 1. 1. Paul an Apostle of Jesus Christ, to the Church of God that is at Corinth, σὺν τοῖς ἐν ὅλῃ τῇ Ἀχαΐᾳ, with all the Saints that are in all Achaia, are places exactly parallel to these words, Paul and Timothy the Servants of Jesus Christ, to all the Saints that are in Philippi, with the Bishops and Deacons: and yet can any Man think that Paul the Apostle, with all that called upon the Name of the Lord Christ, or with all the Saints that were in all Achaia, writ to the Church of Corinth, which was part of that Achaia? 2*ly*, When the Apostle takes in those that were with him, as Copartners in writing to another Church, he doth it thus, Paul an Apostle, καὶ οἱ σὺν ἐμοὶ πάντες ἀδελφοὶ, and all the Brethren that are with me, write to the Churches of Galatia, Gal. 1.1,3. Had he then intended to greet the Philippians in the like manner, he would have writ in the like stile; Paul and Timothy, καὶ οἱ σὺν ἐμοὶ Ἐπίσκοποι καὶ Διάκονοι, and the Bishops and Deacons that are with me, to the Church in Philippi.

The learned Dr. Hammond saith, That Philippi was a Metropolis which had many Bishops under it, on which account it is stiled Πρώτη τῆς μερίδος τῆς Μακεδονίας πόλις, the chief City of that part of Macedonia, Acts 16. 12. and by Photius, τῆς Μακεδόνων ἐπαρχίας Μητρόπολις, the Metropolis of the Province of the Macedonians. And by this, saith he, it appears that in Philippi there might be more Bishops than one, even as many as there were Cities under that Metropolis. But this Solution was

First, Unknown to the Ancient Fathers, Chrysostom, Theodoret, St. Jerom, who all contend that Bishops here must signifie Presbyters, because there could not be more Bishops than one, properly so called, in one City; whereas had they known this to have been a Metropolis, they must have known that this had been a satisfactory Answer to that Objection.

2*ly*, They tell us that Philippi was then under the Metropolis of Thessalonica, which was the Metropolis of all Macedonia. Thus (a) Theodoret in his Preface to this Epistle, saith, οἱ Φιλιππήσιοι τῆς Μακεδονίας ἦσαν ὑπὸ Μητρόπολιν Θεσσαλονίκην, the Philippians were Inhabitants of Macedonia under the Metropolis of Theſſalonica: and Theophylact, that they were ὑπὸ Μετρόπολιν τότε Θεσσαλονίκλω τελοῦντες, then, when the Apoſtle writ this to them, under the Metropolis of Theſſalonica. That Theſſalonica was then the Metropolis of Macedonia, is plain from Antipater the Theſſalonian Poet, who flouriſhed in the times of Auguſtus Cæſar, who calleth Theſſalonica (b) the Mother of all Macedonia. It is called alſo the Metropolis of Macedonia by Socrates; and in the Eccleſiaſtical ſenſe it is ſo called by (c) Ætius the Biſhop thereof, in the Councel of Sardica. And ſo ſay all the Notitiæ Antiquæ, at the end of Carolus Paulus. Who ſaith that Philippi was no Metropolis for the firſt ſix Centuries, but after that Macedonia was divided into prima, and ſecunda, it came to have the Honorary Title of a Metropolitan, and therefore might be ſtiled ſo by Photius, who lived in the Ninth Century; but by St. Luke 'tis not called the firſt City τῆ ἐπαρχίας of the Province, but τῆ μερίδος, of that part of Macedonia, which they that came from Thrace thither, touch'd at, as appears by (d) Dion's deſcription of it, and chiefly from (e) Diodorus Siculus, who ſaith, ἡ ὃ πόλις αὐτὴ κειμένη κατὰ τὴς Θράκης, that this City, being taken by Philip, was very ſerviceable to him, as lying near Thrace, and other places very conveniently.

3*ly*, The Greek and Latin Fathers do with one conſent declare, that τὸς πρεσβυτέρους ὅπως ἐκάλεσε, the Apoſtle here calls their Presbyters their Biſhops. So Chryſoſtom, Theodoret, Oecumenius, and Theophylact among the Greeks, and among the Latins, (f) St. Jerom, (g) Pſeud-Ambroſius, Pelagius, and Primaſius; and that not only for the fore-mentioned Reaſon, that there could be but one Biſhop, properly ſo called, in one City; but for another alledged by them all, viz. that τίως ἐκοινώνουν τοῖς ὀνόμασι, then the Names were common to both orders, the Biſhops being called Presbyters, and the Presbyters, Biſhops. And this ſaith Theodoret, is manifeſt in this place, becauſe he adds here (h) Deacons to the Biſhops, making no mention of their Presbyters. The Learned Dr. Pearſon therefore ſeems δυλεύειν τῇ ὑποθέσι too much to favour his own Hypotheſis, when againſt all theſe Teſtimonies both of Greek and Latin Fathers, he ſaith, 'tis not yet proved that there were then at Philippi any Presbyters of the ſecond Order, for ſurely this is proved from the Authority of all theſe Fathers. He therefore ſaith, (1.) That before the converted Jews and Gentiles did unite into one Church, there were two Biſhops of the ſame Church. This he proves from thoſe words of (i) Epiphanius, Alexandria never had two Biſhops at a time, ὡς αἱ ἄλλαι Ἐκκλησίαι, as other Churches had; but if I am not much miſtaken, this relates not to the Primitive and Apoſtolick Times, but to the Times of the Meletians, who founded Biſhops, Presbyters, and Deacons, and by them [illegible] Churches, calling them Churches of the Martyrs; whereas thoſe of Peter's Party called theirs Catholick Churches. But though this Schiſm continued long, and even in the time of Theodoret prevailed in Egypt, and, as Daneus notes, infected almoſt all Chriſtian Regions; yet, ſaith Epiphanius, it never ſo prevail'd in Alexandria as in other Churches, there being never there two Biſhops, one of the Catholick, another of the Meletian Churches, as there were in many other places: And if this be the true import of theſe words, 'tis eaſie to diſcern how impertinent they are to the true Expoſition of this place. He adds alſo from the ſame Epiphanius, that Paul and Peter both Apoſtles and Biſhops of Rome, as doubtleſs they alſo were at Antioch, and wherever they met, but they were only Biſhops there, becauſe Apoſtles there, one of the Jews, the other of the Gentiles, and in this they had no Succeſſors. (k) St. Jerom indeed takes notice of this Evaſion; but then he lays the Cenſure of contentious Perſons upon them that made it.

The ſame Learned Biſhop adds, That were it true that there were but one Biſhop in one City, it would not follow that the word Biſhops here could not be taken in the proper ſenſe, becauſe the Apoſtle doth not here call them Biſhops of the Church, or City of Philippi, but only ſaith they were then at Philippi, he might write therefore to them whom he knew to be then at Philippi, though they were Biſhops of other Churches. But (1.) as none of the Ancients have ever ſaid one word of any other Biſhops then met at Philippi, ſo the words ſeem not well conſiſtent with this Evaſion; for writing τοῖς οὖσιν ἐν Φιλίπποις, he doubtleſs writes to the Saints dwelling in Philippi, writing therefore to them with the Biſhops and Deacons, he muſt be ſuppoſed to write alſo to the Biſhops and Deacons dwelling at Philippi.

I therefore acquieſce in the Opinion of Theodoret.

Theodoret, who ſays that St. Paul then writ to the Preſbyters and Deacons of that City, becauſe their Biſhop Epaphroditus, whom he ſtiles his Brother and Companion in labour, and fellow Soldier, and their Apoſtle, was then with him at Rome, Chap. 2. 25. and that he therefore mentions them, becauſe they were ſo inſtrumental in ſending the Contributions to him mentioned Chap. 4. 15.

Ver. 3. (And) I (Paul) thank my God upon every remembrance of you (in my Prayers.)

Ver. 4. Always in every prayer of mine for you all, making requeſt with joy.

Ver. 5. (Which joy I have) For your Fellowſhip in the Goſpel, from the firſt day until now: (i. e. for your continuance in the faith, and the profeſſion of the Goſpel.)

Κοινωνία.] That fellowſhip, or κοινωνία here doth not ſignifie their Liberality towards the Propagation of the Goſpel, but their Communion with the Apoſtles in the Goſpel, as it doth 1 John 1. 3, 7. I gather (1.) From the Phraſe ἔργον ἀγαθὸν, which is emphatically put to ſignifie τὸ ἔργον πίστως, the work of faith; as when we are ſaid κατ' ὑπομονὴν ἔργου ἀγαθοῦ, by patient continuance in the good work to ſeek for glory, Rom. 2. 7. that being the work of God that we ſhould believe in his Son, Joh. 6. 29. 2*ly*, From the Phraſe, he that hath begun the good work in you, will perform it to the day of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, that being ſtill uſed by the Apoſtle, to teſtifie his hopes that they would continue ſtedfaſt in Faith and Obedience, till they receive their Crown, 1 Cor. 1. 8. 1 Theſſ. 3. 13. 5. 23.

Ver. 6. Being confident of this very thing, that he who hath begun a good work (the good work of faith) in (or among) you, will perform it to the day of Jeſus Chriſt.

Πεποιθὼς αὐτὸ τοῦτο, being confident, &c.] This the Apoſtle ſpeaks, not out of any opinion of the Election of all the Philippians to Eternal Life, or of the certainty of their Perſeverance to the End by virtue of that Election, for why then doth he exhort them to work out their ſalvation with fear and trembling, Chap. 2. 12. to ſtand faſt in the Lord, Chap. 4. 1. and to retain the word of life, that he might have joy in the day of Chriſt, that he had not run in vain, or laboured in vain among them? Chap. 2. 16. He ſpeaks this therefore from a Judgment of Charity, becauſe, ſaith he, it ſeems juſt, or fit for me to conceive this good hope of you, by reaſon of that great Affection you retain to me, and your Patience in enduring the like Afflictions: Now he that only gives theſe Reaſons of his Confidence, gives us juſt reaſon to conceive he knew nothing of the Neceſſity of their Perſeverance by virtue of any abſolute Election to Salvation.

Ver. 7. Even as it is meet for me to think this of you all, (Gr. τοῦτο φρονεῖν, to have this care for you all, which I ſhew in my prayers, and my continual remembrance of you, v. 4.) becauſe I have you in my heart, (or you have me in your heart,) inaſmuch as in my bonds, and in the defence and confirmation of the Goſpel, you all are partakers of my grace; (Gr. as thoſe that are all my Copartners of grace in my bonds, &c.)

Becauſe you have had your hearts upon me in my Bonds, ſending Epaphroditus to miniſter to me in my Neceſſities, Chap. 2. 25. and contributing of your own Subſtance to me, Chap. 4. 14. ſending once and again to me, whilſt I was in Bonds for the Defence of the Faith, v. 15, 16. thoſe things, which being a ſweet ſavour, a Sacrifice acceptable, and well-pleaſing to God, v. 18. confirm my hope concerning you, eſpecially when I find you yet ſtanding firm under the like Afflictions, having the ſame conflict which you ſaw in me, when I was among you, Acts 16. and now hear to be in me, Chap. 1. 30.

Ver. 8. (And of this my care for you I can call God to witneſs,) For God is my record, how greatly I long after you all in the bowels of Jeſus Chriſt, (or the moſt paſſionate degree of Chriſtian love.)

Ver. 9. And this I pray (for you,) that your love may abound more and more in knowledge, and all judgment.

Ver. 10. That ye may approve (the) things that are excellent, that ye may be ſincere, and without offence till the day of Chriſt.

Ἐν πάσῃ αἰσθήσει.] The outward Senſes being the Inſtruments by which we diſcern and diſtinguiſh material Objects; the word αἴσθησις, which is here rendred judgment, is from them derived to the Mind, diſcerning and paſſing Judgment on Spiritual Things; and is by Phavorinus ſtiled ἡ νοὸς γεῦσις ἀκριβὴς τῶν διαφερόντων, the exact taſte of things that differ, or are to be diſcerned by the mind; in which ſenſe the word is often uſed by the Seventy, eſpecially in the Book of Proverbs, where it is twenty times ſo uſed; and hence it bears the like ſenſe in the Apoſtle; and they who have this exactneſs of judgment, are ſaid to have αἰσθητήρια ſenſes exerciſed, to diſcern betwixt good and evil, Hebr. 5. 14.

Ver. 11. Being filled with the fruits of righteouſneſs, which are (taught) by Jeſus Chriſt, to the glory and praiſe of God.

For all that Chriſt does as a Prophet ſent from God, or as aſſuming the Perſon of a Mediator, muſt refer ultimately to the glory of the Father, Chap. 2. 11.

Ver. 12. But (to proceed to my own Affairs, about which you have been ſo ſolicitous, v. 7.) Brethren, I would have you know, that the things which have hapned to me, (through the Malice of my Adverſaries) have fallen out rather to the furtherance (than the hindrance) of the Goſpel.

Ver. 13. So that my bonds in (and for the cauſe of) Chriſt are manifeſt in the Palace, and in all other places, (i. e. 'tis manifeſt not only in the Palace, but throughout all Rome, that I am in bonds for the Faith of Chriſt.)

Ver. 14. And many of the Brethren of the Lord waxing confident by my (patience, and courage in) my bonds, are (become) much more bold to ſpeak the word of God without fear.

Ver. 15. Some indeed (there are who) preach Chriſt even of envy and ſtrife, and ſome alſo of good will (and kind affection to me, and to the Goſpel.)

Ver. 16. The one (party) preach Chriſt out of contention, not ſincerely, (not from love to to him, but diſaffection towards me,) ſuppoſing (by this means) to add affliction to my bonds, (or to bring further tribulation on me now in bonds.)

Ver. 17. But the other (party) preach Chriſt out of love (to him, and me his Servant,) knowing that I am ſet up (or lye in bonds) for the defence of the Goſpel.

Ver. 18. What then (ſhall this afflict me? no, ſince) nevertheleſs, whether in pretence, or truth, Chriſt is (ſtill) preached, and I therein do rejoyce, yea and will rejoyce.

For Explication of theſe four Verſes, let it be noted in the general, that they who preached Chriſt ἐξ ἐριθείας, out of contention, did not preach Chriſt, or the Goſpel in truth, and out of love to it, v. 17, 18. but only in pretence, or upon this occaſion, from ſtrife and envy againſt St. Paul; and alſo that they did not acknowledge St. Paul to be ſet up, or by God appointed for the defence and propagation of the Goſpel. Whence it appears that they could not be Perſons, who only did contend with St. Paul for the glory of being the moſt diligent & ſucceſsful Promoters of the Goſpel, or ſuch as, envying the Apoſtles Glory, ſet up for themſelves, boaſting as if they were the only Publiſhers of the Goſpel. But yet 'tis difficult to aſſign the Perſons here intended by St. Paul. Oecumenius and Theophylect ſay they were the unbelieving Jews, who by divulging every where about Rome, what was the Doctrine of Chriſtianity which Paul preached; how oppoſite it was to the Roman Gods, and their Worſhip; what Tumults it had cauſed; how many it had turned from their old Religion to the Faith of Chriſt; and who he was in whom the Chriſtians did believe; thought to enrage the Emperor againſt St. Paul the great Promoter of this Doctrine. And in this, ſay they, might St. Paul rejoice, as giving occaſion to others to enquire into the Chriſtian Faith, and ſo to come unto it; for, ſaith Tertullian, deſinunt odiſſe, quod deſinunt ignorare, when they once know, they ceaſe to hate it; but ſuch cannot be ſaid to preach Chriſt, without an intolerable Catachreſis; nor can St. Paul be ſuppoſed to rejoice in ſuch a repreſentation of it as they made. Others therefore ſay, with greater likelyhood, theſe were the Judaizing Chriſtians, who with the Goſpel taught the Obſervation of the Law, for from theſe aroſe ἔριδες καὶ διχοστασίαι, ſtrife and diſſentions, 1 Cor. 1. 11. 3. 3. Zeal, Animoſities, and Contentions, 2 Cor. 12. 20. and that on the account of this Apoſtle, whom they would ſcarce own as an Apoſtle of Chriſt, 2 Cor. 7. 2. but rather look'd upon as one that walked according to the fleſh, Chap. 10. 2. and would have excluded him from the Churches, Gal. 4. 16, 17. and yet as their preaching Chriſt, though not ſincerely, the Apoſtle may be ſuppoſed to rejoyce, becauſe he knew the time was near when the Hay and Stubble they built on the foundation ſhould be reveal'd, and the deſtruction of the Temple and City of Jeruſalem, would ſufficiently confute their vain Additions to the Faith.

Ver. 19. For I know that this ſhall (be ſo far from accompliſhing their end of adding tribulation to my bonds, that it ſhall) turn to my ſalvation, (i. e. my deliverance) through your prayers (for me,) and the ſupply of the Spirit of Chriſt, (enabling me to plead ſo as ſhall tend to my enlargement, v. 25.)

Ver. 20. According to my earneſt expectation, and my hope, that (through the aſſiſtance of the Spirit of Courage which God hath promiſed and given to us, 2 Tim. 1. 7,) in nothing I ſhall be aſhamed, but (that) with all boldneſs, as always (hitherto,) ſo now alſo Chriſt ſhall be magnified in my body, whether it be by my life (now,) or by my death (hereafter.)

Ἐν τῷ σώματί μου, Chriſt ſhall be magnified by me in my body.] For if I live in the body, the power of Chriſt will be magnified in delivering me out of ſo great danger. But if I be put to death for his ſake, that power will be magnified, which enables me ſo chearfully to die for the Faith, as I am ready to do.

Ver. 21. For (the motive) to me to live is (the ſervice of) Chriſt, and to die (for him) is (my greateſt) gain.

Ver. 22. But if (it happen that) I live in the fleſh, this is the fruit of my labour, (Gr. is worth my labour,) and what I ſhall chuſe I know not; (i. e. were it left to my choice, I ſhould be in a ſtrait, which of the two Conditions to chuſe.)

Ver. 23. For I am conſtrained between (theſe) two, having a deſire to depart, and to be with Chriſt, which is far better (for me then continuing here, were I only to reſpect my own intereſt.

24. Nevertheleſs (for me) to abide in the fleſh is more needful for you.

Πολλῷ μᾶλλον κρεῖσσον, to depart, and to be with Chriſt, which is much better.] Becauſe, ſaith Crellius, the time betwixt Death and the Reſurrection is not to be reckoned, therefore the Apoſtle might ſpeak thus, tho the Soul hath no

ſenſe

ſenſe of any thing after death: But could St. Paul think a ſtate of Inſenſibility much better than a Life tending ſo much as his did to the Glory of God, to the Propagation of the Goſpel, and the furtherance of the Joy of Chriſtians? Could he call ſuch an inſenſate ſtate, a being with Chriſt, and a walking by ſight, in oppoſition to the Life of Faith, 2 Cor. 5. 7, 8. Others ſay, the Apoſtle ſpeaketh thus, becauſe he expected that the general Reſurrection, and this Day of Judgment ſhould be in his time. But the words will not bear this ſenſe: for, the Apoſtle ſaith, he is in a conſtraint betwixt theſe two, whether he ſhould chuſe thatLife which would enable him to gain many to Chriſt, and miniſter greatly to the Neceſſities of his Church, or that which would cauſe him to live with Chriſt, viz. as to his better part, i. e. whether his Body and Soul ſhould be diſſolved, or he ſhould ſtill live in the Fleſh? Now 'tis impoſſible that the ſame Man, at the ſame time, ſhould expect the Reſurrection, and the Day of Judgment, and yet expect to live in the Fleſh, to abide with the Church in the Fleſh, and yet expect that none of the Members of the Church ſhould abide in the Fleſh, but ſhould enjoy that Reſurrection, which would place them with Chriſt as well as himſelf; that he ſhould deſire that his Soul ſhould be diſſolved, or ſeparated from the Body, that it ſhould be abſent from the Body, that he might be preſent with the Lord, and yet at the ſame time expect that Day when he ſhould be clothed upon with his Celeſtial Body. Moreover, he himſelf informs us, that the Apoſtles expected only the Reſurrection when other Chriſtians ſhould ariſe at the Great Day; for thus he ſpeaks, He that raiſed up the Lord Jeſus from the dead, will raiſe us alſo by him, and will preſent us with you, 2 Cor. 4. 14. And this confutes their Gloſs, who ſay the Apoſtle expected to be with Chriſt as an eſpecial Priviledge belonging to him as an Apoſtle, or a Martyr for Chriſt. See the Note on 2 Cor. 5. 8.

Ver. 25. And having this confidence (that you will receive this advantage by my abiding in the fleſh,) I know that I ſhall abide, and continue with you all for your furtherance (in,) and joy of Faith.

Ver. 26. That your rejoycing may be more abundant in Chriſt Jeſus for (or through) me, coming to you again.

Ver. 27. Only let (this be your care, that) your converſation be as becometh the Goſpel of Chriſt, that whether I come and ſee you, or elſe be abſent, I may hear (a comfortable account) of your affairs, that you ſtand faſt in one Spirit, with one mind ſtriving together for the faith of the Goſpel.

In one ſpirit with one mind. That is, with love and concord, ſaith Oecamenius. See Note on 1 Cor. 1. 10, 11.

Ver. 28. And (being) in nothing terrified by (the threats or perſecutions of) your Adverſaries, (which is to them an evident token of (your) perdition, (viz. that you are an obſtinate people, bent on your own ruine,) but to you (it is a token) of ſalvation, and that of God, (it being righteous with God to recompence tribulation to them that trouble you, but to you reſt, 2 Theſſ. 1. 5.)

Ver. 29. For unto you it is given (by God as an eſpecial favour) in the behalf of Chriſt, not only to believe in him, but alſo to ſuffer for his Name.

Ver. 30. Having the ſame conflict (with the enemies of the faith) which you ſaw in me, (when I was among you, Acts 16. 23. 1 Theſſ. 2. 2.) and now hear to be in me.

CHAP. II.

Verſe 1. IF there be therefore any conſolation (παράκλησις, any force of exhortation) in (beſeeching you in the Name of) Chriſt; if (there be) any comfort in (mutual) love, if (there be) any fellowſhip of the Spirit (of Love exciting you to it,) if (ye have) any bowels and mercies (for me the Priſoner of Chriſt.)

Ver. 2. Fulfil ye my joy (in this) that ye be (all) like minded, having the ſame love (one to another) being of one accord, of one mind (or minding the ſame thing.)

Ver. 3. Let nothing be done (among you) through ſtrife, (who ſhall be the greateſt,) or (through deſire of) vain glory, but in lowlineſs of mind, let each eſteem (an) other better then himſelf.

Let each eſteem, &c.] This refers not to Judgment, it being not in our power always thus to eſteem of others, but to Practiſe; as if he ſhould have ſaid, Be as ready to aſſiſt and help others, as if you were their Subjects and Inferiours, ſo the Example of Chriſt requires, and ſo his Precept runs, That he who is the greateſt ſhould be as a Servant to others.

Ver. 4. Look not every man on his own things, (or concernaments only,) but every man alſo on the things of others, (being concerned for their welfare.)

Ver. 5. Let the ſame mind be in you (with reſpect to theſe matters) which was in Chriſt Jeſus.

Ver. 6. Who being in the form of God (when

(when he appeared to the Patriarchs,) thought it no robbery to be equal with God, (Gr. did not covet to appear as God.)

Ver. 7. But emptied himſelf (of his former glory,) and took upon him the form of a Servant, (by miniſtring to others,) and was made in the likeneſs of Man, (Gr. being in the likeneſs of Man.)

Ver. 8. And being found in faſhion as a (n ordinary) Man, he humbled himſelf (yet more,) and became obedient to the death, even the death of the Croſs.

Ἐν μορφῇ Θεοῦ, in the form of God.] By this Expreſſion moſt Interpreters do underſtand, that the Apoſtle doth intend Chriſt was eſſentially and truly God; but though this be a certain Truth, yet I conceive this cannot be the import of this Expreſſion in this place.

1. Becauſe the Apoſtle exhorteth his Philippians to Humility after the Example of our Lord; now Humility conſiſts not in the change of Nature, but of Condition; and therefore this exinanition of the form of God, ſeems rather to reſpect our Lord's Condition, than his Nature.

2*ly*, There is no more reaſon to ſay the form of God ſignifies the Eſſence of God, than that the form of a Servant ſignifies the Eſſence of a Servant; but evident it is that the form of a Servant doth not ſignifie the Eſſence, but the State, and the Condition of a Servant, which is a meer Relation; nor doth his Manumiſſion change his Nature, but his State.

3*ly*, According to this import of the Phraſe, it cannot well be ſhew'd how he did empty himſelf of, or lay aſide this form; for though by taking of a Body he conceal'd, yet could he not be ſaid to empty himſelf of, or lay aſide the Godhead, eſpecially when in that Body he gave ſuch numerous and ſignal demonſtrations of Divine Power and Wiſdom, both in his Miracles, his Doctrine, and Knowledge of the Hearts of Men.

4*ly*, This word μορφὴ, form, both in the Old and New Teſtament, doth often ſignifie the External Shape: As when 'tis ſaid of (a) Belteſhaſar, Dan. 5. 6, 10. and of Daniel, Chap. 7. 28. that their (b) forms were changed; of Nebuchadnezzar, that (c) his form returned to him, Dan. 4. 36. of Chriſt, that he appeared to two of his Diſciples, ἐν ἑτέρᾳ μορφῇ, in another form, Mark 16. 12. and that μετεμορφώθη, he was transfigured before three of them, Matth. 17. 2. but it no where ſeems to ſignifie the Eſſence of a Man, either in the Old, or the New Teſtament.

Grotius and the Socinians ſay, That Chriſt is ſaid to be in the form of God, by reaſon of the Miracles he wrought on Earth, they being Indications of the Power of God reſiding in him. But this Interpretation cannot ſtand:

For (1.) Chriſt is here plainly ſaid to have been in the form of God, before he took upon him the form of a Servant, or the ſimilitude of Man; for as theſe words, being found in the faſhion of a man, he humbled himſelf, and became obedient to the death, do ſhew that he was found in the faſhion of a man before he humbled himſelf to become obedient to the death, ſo, by parity of Reaſon, theſe words, being in the form of God, &c. he emptied himſelf, and took upon him the form of a Servant, being found in the likeneſs of man, do ſhew that he was firſt in the form of God, before that being found in the likeneſs of Man, he took upon him the form of a Servant.

2*ly*, 'Tis plainly here aſſerted, that Chriſt emptied himſelf of this form of God at his Humiliation; whereas he never laid aſide his power of working Miracles, but did continue to exert it to his death.

3*ly*, This Power of Miracles is never in the Scripture ſtiled the form of God; and were this all that was intended by that Phraſe, both Moſes and Elias, and our Lord's Apoſtles, might upon that account be ſaid to have been in the form of God, ſeeing both Moſes and Elias wrought many Miracles on Earth, and Chriſt declared concerning his Diſciples, that they ſhould work greater Miracles than thoſe which he had done, John 14. 12.

I therefore by this form of God do underſtand that glorious form in which God on his Throne is repreſented, that Majeſty, in which he is ſaid to appear in Scripture, and in which the λόγος, or the Word did ſhew himſelf of old to Moſes and the Patriarchs. For explication of this ſenſe, I ſhall ſhew, 1. How God in the Old Teſtament is repreſented as appearing, ſhewing his Form and Glory to the Sons of Men. 2*ly*, That Chriſt did in this form appear to Moſes and the Patriarchs of old. 3*ly*, That ſince our Lord's Aſcenſion, he hath been inveſted with this form of God, he hath appeared in it, and hath declared it belongs to him, though for the time of his Humiliation, he was pleaſed to depoſe, or put it off. And

1. The Appearance or Similitude of God is repreſented in the Old Teſtament in a bright ſhining Cloud, or Light, a Flame of Fire, or the Attendance of an Hoſt of Angels. Thus in that Viſion of the Prophet Daniel, the Ancient of Days did ſit; his Throne was like the fiery Flame, and his Wheels as burning Fire. A ſtream of Fire did iſſue from before him, thouſands of thouſands miniſtred unto him. And ten thouſand times ten thouſand ſtood before him, Dan. 7. 9, 10. Thus God appeared on Mount Sinai, where his Preſence was attend-

d with an Hoſt of Angels, according to that ying of the Pſalmiſt, The Chariots of God re twenty thouſand, even thouſands of Angels, nd the Lord is among them as in Sinai; where he Targum adds, The word of the Lord deſi- ed to place his Majeſty upon it; Jehovah welleth לחור only in the Heaven of Hea- ens for ever. He appeared there alſo in a right ſhining Cloud, or flame of Fire; for he Glory abode upon Mount Sinai, and the loud covered it ſix days, and the ſight of the Glory of the Lord was like devouring fire, Ex- d. 24. 16, 17. And ſeeing of theſe Majeſtick ymbols is to ſee God, v. 12. to ſee the God of Iſrael, v. 10. that is, ſay Onkelos and Jona- han, the Glory of God. And when Moſes doth again repeat the Decalogue, he adds theſe words, Deut. 5. 22, 24. The Lord ſpake o all your Aſſembly in the Mount, out of the idſt of the fire of the Cloud: And you ſaid, Behold, the Lord God hath ſhewed us his Glo- y, and we have heard his voice out of the idſt of the fire. We have ſeen this day that God oth talk with man, and he liveth. The word f the Lord our God ſhewed the Divine Maje- y of his Glory, ſaith the Targum of Jona- han; and we heard the voice of his word, ſaith Onkelos. And the Prophet Habakkuk n his Song of God, ſaith thus, His Glory co- ered the Heavens, his brightneſs was as the ight, and bright beams came out of his ſide, ab. 3. 3, 4. There he diſcovered שכנתיה his Shechinah, i. e. his glorious Majeſty, ſaith he Targum. When Jacob had a Viſion of Angels aſcending and deſcending, he preſent- y cries out, This is no other then the Houſe of God, this is the Gate of Heaven, ſurely Jeho- ah is in this place, and I knew it not, Gen. 8. 17. שכינתא דיי The Glory of the Lord is here, ſay the Targums. And when God ſhew'd himſelf to the People in the Cloud, then did the Glory, or the Similitude of God appear, as the expreſſion is Numb. 12. 8. τὴν δόξαν Κυ- ου, the Glory of the Lord, ſaith the Septuagint. Thus doth the Scripture repreſent that God who dwelleth in Light inacceſſible, before whoſe Face the Angels do continually ſtand as miniſtring Spirits: And this alſo is the Rabbinical expoſition of the כבוד יי (d) the Glory of the Lord, that is, either a Ray of Divine Light, or a Guard of Angels.

2*ly*, That Chriſt was in the form of God, even before he took upon him Humane Na- ture, will be apparent, if we conſider that even before he purged our ſins, he was the brightneſs of his Fathers Glory, Light of Light, Hebr. 1. 3. and in the Language of the Book of Wiſdom, A pure ſtream flowing from the Glory of the Almighty, the brightneſs of the everlaſting Light, Wiſd. 7. 25, 26. And that he, at the Concluſion of his Humiliati- on, prays, that God would glorifie him with the glory which he had with him before the foun- dation of the world, John 17. 3. That it was the Opinion, both of the Ancient Jews, and of the Chriſtians from the beginning, that it was the Λόγος, or the Meſſiah, who appear- ed to the Patriarchs of old in Light and Splendor, and ſometimes with the Attendance of Holy Angels. And that we have great E- vidence of this Matter, both in the Old and New Teſtament: In the Books of Exodus and Numbers, we read that the Children of Iſrael tempted the Lord, ſaying, Is the Lord among us, or not? Exod. 17. 7. Numb. 21. 6. and that the Lord ſent therefore fiery Ser- pents among them. But in the Tenth Chap- ter of the firſt Epiſtle to the Corinthians, we are informed that they tempted Chriſt, and were deſtroyed of Serpents. See this Reading juſtified Note on 1 Cor. 10. 9. Chriſt there- fore, as to his Divine Nature, was then pre- ſent with, and tempted by them. God alſo ſaith to his People thus, Exod. 23. 20, 23. Behold, I ſend an Angel before thee, to keep thee in thy way, and to bring thee to the place which I prepared; beware of him, and obey his voice, provoke him not; he will not par- don your Tranſgreſſions, for my Name is in him. Now, the ancient (e) Rabbins ſay, this was the Angel, the Redeemer; or an uncrea- ted Angel, in whom was Jehovah: ſo the words plainly ſeem to intimate this to us, ſeeing the power of Remitting Sins, aſcribed here to him, belongeth only to that God a- gainſt whom they are committed. More- over, when God being incenſed againſt Iſrael for making the Golden Calf, had threatned to withdraw himſelf, and only ſend an An- gel before them to drive out the Inhabitants of Canaan before them, Exod. 33. 2. this ſeems an evil word to the People, and they mourn becauſe of it, viz. of thoſe words, I will not go up in the midſt of thee; that is, ſay Onkelos and Jonathan, I will not cauſe שכינתי my glorious Preſence to go up with thee. Nor doth Moſes himſelf reſt in this Anſwer, but ſpeaks thus to God, If thy Pre- ſence go not with me, carry us not up hence, v. 15. If the Shechinah go not with us, ſaith Onkelos, εἰ μὴ αὐτός σου, If thou thy ſelf go not with us, ſay the Septuagint, R. Salomon, and Aben Ezra: which ſenſe the following words require, viz. For wherein ſhall it be known that I and thy People have found grace in thy ſight, is it not in that thou goeſt with us, v. 16. Whence it is evident, that they were not con- tented with the Promiſe of a created Angel, but required God's Preſence to go with them, and that God granted this Requeſt,

v. 17.

v. 17. Thus (f) Philo Judæus often informs us, That the Angel who went before them was no created Angel, but the Divine Word, or God himſelf; for, ſaith he, Moſes prays to God himſelf to be his Governour in the way that leadeth to himſelf, ſaying, If thou go not with us, carry us not up hence. And again, He uſes the Divine Word for a Guide, for ſo ſpeaks the Oracle, Behold, I will ſend my Angel before thy face to lead thee in the way, Exod. 23. 20, &c.

3*ly*, That after his Aſcenſion to the right hand of Majeſty and Glory, the Lord Chriſt did again reaſſume this form, and appear in this Majeſtick Splendor, is evident from the New Teſtament; Thus he appeared to Stephen, who looking up ſtedfaſtly to Heaven, ſaw the glory of God, and the Son of Man ſtanding at the right hand of God, Acts 7. 55. Thus he appeared to a perſecuting Saul, in a Light from Heaven above the brightneſs of the Sun, ſaying to him, I am Jeſus whom thou perſecuteſt, Acts 26. 13. Thus in the Viſion of St. John, Rev. 1. 14, 16. His Eyes were as a flaming fire, and his Countenance as the Sun ſhining in his ſtrength. Thus he declared he would appear at the deſtruction of Jeruſalem to puniſh that rebellious People; The Son of Man, ſaith he, will come in the glory of his Father with his holy Angels, Matth. 16. 27. Luke 9. 26, 28. And his ſecond Advent ſhall be with the ſame tremendous Glory, for he ſhall be then revealed from Heaven with his mighty Angels in flaming fire, 2 Theſſ. 1. 7. 8.

4*ly*, Seeing then this Splendor, and this Attendance of Holy Angels, is repreſented in the Scripture as the Similitude, the Shape, the Face, and the Majeſtick Preſence of God; ſeeing it is evident, that before the Incarnation the Λόγος or Divine Word had this Glory, and in it did appear to Moſes and the Patriarchs, and that in order to the exerciſe of a Regal Power over his Church; ſeeing it is certain from the New Teſtament, that after his Aſcenſion he again re-aſſumed this form and power, 'tis highly probable this was the form of God here mentioned; this was the likeneſs to God in which at his Humiliation he did not covet to appear, but rather choſe to lay aſide, that ſo he might appear amongſt us, not as the Lord of Heaven, attended with an Hoſt of Angels, nor in the dazling brightneſs of his Father's Glory, but in the faſhion of a Man.

Οὐκ ἁρπαγμὸν ἡγήσατο τὸ εἶναι ἴσα Θεῷ, he thought it no robery to be equal with God.] This Greek Phraſe is only to be met with in Plutarch, and in Heliodorus; in both which Writers it plainly ſignifies to covet earneſtly, or look upon a thing as much to be deſired, and ſnatched at. Thus when Cybele went about to allure Theagenes to the luſtful Embraces of Arſace, ſending him out of the Temple, in a by Apartment, ſhe did (g) ἅρπαγμα ποιεῖν τὸν ξωσήρα, i. e. ſhe ſnatch'd at the occaſion, or look'd upon it as a thing deſirable for her purpoſe; and when none of her Propoſals or Allurements would prevail with Theagenes to gratifie the Queen's deſires, ſhe brake forth into this Admiration, (h) What averſneſs from Love is this! A young Man in the flower of his Age thruſts from him, or refuſes a Woman like unto himſelf, and deſirous of him, ᾧ οὐκ ἁρπαγμα, οὐδ' ἕρμαιον ἡγεῖται τὸ πρᾶγμα, and does not look upon this as a great offer, and a thing very deſirable. And when ſhe had found out that his Affection to Chariclea was the cauſe of this Averſneſs, ſhe propoſes to Arſace the death of Chariclea as an Expedient to gain his Affection, and (i) ἁρπαγμα τὸ ῥηθὲν ἐποιήσατο ὁ Ἀρσάκης, Arſaces embraces the motion as a thing very deſirable, or to be coveted. So that ἁρπαγμα ἡγεῖσθαι, ſaith Scmidius, is rem optatam perſequi, & ſtudioſiſſimè occupare.

Τὸ εἶναι ἴσα Θεῷ.] Is to be, or to appear God, or in the likeneſs of God. So the Adverb ἴσα is adverbially uſed frequently in the Septuagint, anſwering to the Hebrew Caph, Job 5. 14. They grope in the noon day, ἴσα νυκτὸς, as in the night, Chap. 10. 10. Haſt thou not cruddled me ἴσα τυρῷ as Cheeſe, Chap. 11. 12. Man is born ἴσα ὄνῳ ἀγρίῳ like a wild Aſſes colt, Chap. 13. 12. your remembrance is unto ἀποσβέσμασι like unto Aſhes; and v. 28. he conſumeth ἴσα ἀσκῷ as a Bottle, Chap. 15. 16. Man drinketh in iniquity ἴσα ποτὸν as drink, Chap. 24. 20. Wickedneſs ſhall be broken ἴσα ξύλου as a Tree, Chap. 27. 16. He prepareth Raiment ἴσα πηλῷ as the Clay, Chap. 28. 2. Braſs is molten out of the Stone ἴσα λίθῳ as the Stone, Chap. 29. 14. I put on Judgment ἴσα διπλοΐδι as a Robe, Chap. 40. 15. He eateth Graſs ἴσα βοσὶν as an Ox, Iſa. 51. 23. Thou haſt laid thy body ἴσα τῇ γῇ as the earth, Wiſd. 7. 1. I my ſelf am a mortal Man ἴσον ἅπασι like to all men. And the firſt voice I utter'd was ἴσα κλαίων weeping as all others do, v. 3. So that the ſenſe of theſe words ſeems to me to be this, That though Chriſt in his former Appearances ſtill repreſented himſelf in the form and likeneſs of God, yet coming now into the World for the Salvation of Mankind, he did not covet or deſire to appear in that Majeſtick Splendor and Authority, but rather choſe to come in the Similitude of a Man, and in the Form of a Servant. Nor doth this Expoſition give any advantage to the Socinians, but equally confutes their Hereſie, and gives a better Anſwer to their Arguments, than the uſual Expoſition can give. For,

1. Hence the Præ-exiſtence of Chriſt before his being born of the Bleſſed Virgin, is proved to a demonſtration.
